The Gaumont Company offers an unusual selection of motion pictures for Christmas week. There will be a "The Vampires" episode and four single reels. "Satanas" is the chapter from the Gaumont-Mutual photo-novel dealing with the activities of the arch criminals of Paris. It is released Dec. 28. This episode of "The Vampires" introduces a new and important character and ends with both Irma Vep and Moreno in the hands of the police.

The first single-reel is "Reel Life," No. 34, issued Dec. 24. Its subjects are: "The Great American Dish" (pork and beans), "Building Sailing Vessels," "Food Products of the Soudan," and "Rufus Rastus Rides the Road," the home-made steam automobile of an ingenious southern negro.

Christmas Day sees the release of "Tours Around the World," No. 8. Florence, Italy, with many of its art treasures, are pictured in this number, scenes in the Swiss Alps, and the Theve River, France.

"See America First," No. 68, is released Dec. 27. It takes spectators for a trip "Among West Virginia's Mountains and Rivers." On the same reel is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, animated for the screen by Harry Palmer.

The fourth single reel of the week is The Mutual Weekly. As it is not made up until the day before it is issued, no forecast of its contents can be made. It is safe to say, however, that there will be pictures of the great war on the western front in France. These are being sent with almost unfailing regularity by the Gaumont Company in France.

"A FAIR BUSINESS PROPOSITION."

Having found it necessary to advance the prices on Universal motors and electric generator sets, the Universal Motor Company is advising their prospective customers of this advance, which is to become effective January 1, 1917, and are giving them a chance by placing their orders previous to that time to get the advantage of present prices. Future dating on shipments under the regular terms may be had up to May 1, 1917.

LIST OF GAUMONT SINGLE-REELS IN "REEL LIFE"

"Reel Life," the film magazine issued by the Mutual Film Corporation weekly to announce pictures released through it, has an interesting list of Gaumont single-reels in its issue of December 2. The titles of all pictures released to date by the Gaumont company under the general heads of "Reel Life, The Mutual Film Magazine," "See America First" and "Tours Around the World" are listed in order. Reference is also made to the Mutual Weekly, manufactured and edited by the Gaumont company. These pages make this issue of "Reel Life" a valuable mine of information for the exhibitor. The increasing demand for pictures other than photo-dramas is being supplied with all the ingenuity and skill which in the past have marked Gaumont productions.

TWO KALEM SERIES RUN INDEFINITELY.

Kalem officials claim a record in being the only film producers to have two series productions that because of their popularity have been extended for an indefinite period. One of these series, "The Hazards of Helen," also holds the record for length of run, as it is now in its third year and apparently going stronger than ever. The other series, "Grant, Police Reporter," though only in its third month, jumped so quickly to the front rank of popularity among General Film releases that Kalem found it necessary to announce that no limit would be placed on the number of episodes in the series but that it would run indefinitely.

PATHE'S "THE CHALLENGE."

In "The Challenge," the Pathe Gold Rooster Play for December 10th, another A. H. Woods stage success is shown on the screen. The picture is full of action and the scenes of the story embrace not only city life in New York but also mining scenes in the far West.

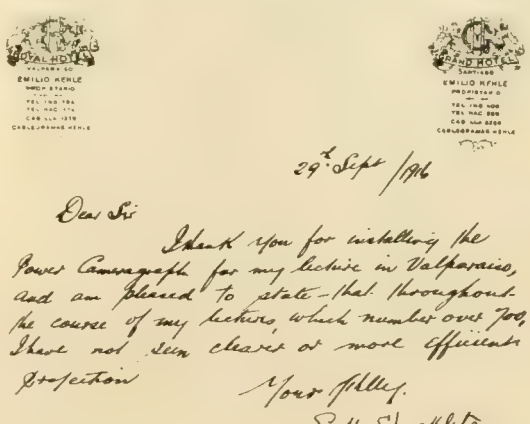
Helene Chadwick makes her debut in this picture. A young girl with no previous acting experience, she gives a most able performance and may truthfully be described as a "find." Charles Gotthold and Montague Love, both well known actors in the "legit," round out an excellent cast. Donald Mackenzie directed the picture, which was produced by Astra.

NEW WILBUR PICTURE.

David Horsley has accepted for immediate production a scenario, yet unnamed, by Crane Wilbur, for a five-reel feature picture, which is to be included in the series of eight five-reel productions Mr. Horsley is making with Crane Wilbur as the star. The series is now well under way, the third picture having been completed last week. The general title of the eight is "The Morals of Men." None of the pictures in the series has so far been released, but dates will be announced shortly.

EXPLORER SHACKLETON'S INDORSEMENT.

The facsimile reproduction of letter accompanying was written by the noted Explorer to the representative in Chili of the Nicholas Power Company. Their agent was able to furnish him with a Six B Model Cameragraph, even in that far-off corner, as this company has been developing export trade in all the South American countries for some time and their machine is now pretty generally known there. The outlook for export business with all the Latin American countries is steadily improving, as the increasing volume of correspondence in connection with our Spanish monthly paper, Cine-Mundial, conclusively shows.



EMILIO KEHLE
EMILIO KEHLE
29 Sept 1916
Dear Sir
I thank you for installing the Power Cameragraph for my lectures in Valparaiso, and am pleased to state that throughout the course of my lectures, which number over 300, I have not seen cleaner or more efficient projection
Yours faithfully.
E.H. Shackleton

On the Kalem Schedule

"On the Brink of War," Coming "Frisco" Episode, Has Timely Theme—Other Releases.

ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE, author of Kalem's series success, "The Girl From 'Frisco," has taken a timely theme for "On the Brink of War," a coming episode of the series, featuring Marin Sais and True Boardman. The Mexican labor situation in California, and the clashes between natives and Mexicans, especially in the ranching sections of Southern California, form the basis of the two-reel story.

Director Horne staged a pitched battle between natives and Mexicans in the streets of the Western village he built near the Glendale studio as the locale for this episode. Over five hundred took part in the affray. "On the Brink of War" finds Scene from "A Race With Death" (Kalem).

Marin Sais aiding the campaign of True Boardman, playing Congressman John Wallace, for re-election on a platform demanding the exclusion of Mexicans. Others seen in the production are Hart Hoxie, Edward Clisbee, Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury, and Jack Rahm. This episode is released Wednesday, December 20.

Other Kalem releases bringing the General Film schedule up to the opening of the new year offer an unusual variety of subjects. The comedy element of the program is well taken care of by the "Ham Comedies." Subjects already scheduled are "The Fatal Violin," released Tuesday, December 19; "The Quest of the Golden Goat," December 26, and "That Terrible Tenderfoot," for Tuesday, January 2.

For audiences that demand a share of sensational thrills the "Grant, Police Reporter," and "Hazards of Helen" series offer their weekly breath-taking exploits. "The Tiger's Claws," on Friday, December 22, and "A Mission of State," on Friday, December 29, are two of the "Grant" episodes listed. In "The Tiger's Claw" George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby are featured in a story of the activities of East Side gangsters. George Larkin supplies his usual share of daredevil exploits to enliven the one reeler.

"The Vanishing Boxcar" and "A Race with Death" are the two "Hazards of Helen" episodes scheduled to ring the old year out. A mystery story built around the disappearance of a boxcar apparently in broad daylight forms the plot of "The Vanishing Box Car." One of the sensational thrills shows Helen Gibson leaping from a speeding automobile to a moving freight train, at a moment when the character pursuing her leaps from a motorcycle to her automobile. A few minutes later automobile and player plunge over an embankment.

NOVEL PRESS SHEET ISSUED BY ARTCRAFT.

The largest press sheet ever displayed in connection with motion picture advertising has just been issued by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation on the recent Mary Pickford release, "Less Than the Dust." The sheet contains the many laudatory reviews given "Less Than the Dust" in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia newspapers, together with artistic photos of Miss Pickford, scenes of the photoplay and a view of the immense crowd that was attracted daily to the Strand theater, New York, during the showing of the new Pickford-Artcraft picture there. The reviews of each city are attractively boxed and headed so that they will immediately catch the eye and give the desired effect at a glance.

Running ten columns wide, the press sheet has been prepared so that it will fit the regular one-sheet lobby frames and copies have been sent to all Artcraft exhibitors and exchanges for this purpose. John Flinn, promotion and advertising manager of Artcraft Pictures, is responsible for this novel booster.

ESS-ESS COMPANY BEGINS BUSINESS.

"The Lure of Gold," the first serial production of the Ess-Ess Producing Co., Inc., will feature a cast of players all of whom have been starred on one or more programs and known to picture fans throughout the land. Five male stars and two women will comprise the cast.

Announcement is made that Darwin Karr, formerly of Reliance, Vitagraph and Essanay and Art Acord, formerly a Mutual star, will appear in the new serial, as will Ruth Blair, featured by the Fox Film Corporation. Announcement of the rest of the cast, which will include an internationally known ingenue, will be made next week.

A studio has been acquired at 517 West 54th street, where production will begin January 2nd. An extensive advertising and publicity campaign has been planned, which will bring maximum publicity to "The Lure of Gold" in the largest newspapers in the country for six weeks prior to release. Distribution will be arranged through an existing exchange system.

RENEWAL OF INTEREST IN "A MESSAGE TO GARCIA."

Elbert Hubbard II., whose illustrous father wrote "A Message to Garcia," reports a wonderful revival of interest in the book since Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay announced that the picturization of "A Message to Garcia" would be released December 11th. Mr. Hubbard arranged for a private view of the film and, at its conclusion, sent a messgae of congratulation to the Edison studio folks and to Robert Conness and Mabel Trunnelle, who are featured in the picture.

"A Message to Garcia" has been booked by all the leading exhibitors in the vicinity of East Aurora, N. Y., where Elbert Hubbard II. still resides and presides over the destiny of "Roycroft." In different parts of the country, leading booksellers have again started to advertise this fascinating book by Elbert Hubbard, realizing that the Edison picture, released through K-E-S-E, will stimulate interest in the work.

"SATANAS," "VAMPIRE" EPISODE FOR DEC. 28.

The triumph of the Vampires over Moreno, the lone bandit who dared to oppose the arch criminals of Paris, is the outstanding feature of "Satanas," sixth of "The Vampires" chapters in the supersensational Gaumont-Mutual photo-novel. This is released Dec. 28. It also marks the first appearance in the silent drama of Henri Leubas, the well known actor who has made such a success of the heavy roles in recent productions at the Ambigu theater. He enacts the role which gives the episode its name. Satanas becomes the head of the Vampires after Moreno brought about the death of the Grand Vampire.

This chapter of the thrilling photo-novel is full of unexpected turns and developments of plot which maintain interest at the highest pitch. The play opens with the visit of Satanas to Morano and Irma Vep, now the lone bandit's accomplice. He subdues Moreno by striking him with the numbing needle which he carries in the palm of his hand. This renders muscular activity impossible, but the victim retains his senses and can understand what is being said to him. Then follows Moreno's defiance and visit to a cafe at the very hour when Satanas had commanded his obedience. The cafe is destroyed by a projectile fired across Paris from the silent cannon in the palatial study of the mansion where Satanas makes his headquarters.

Scene from "Vampire" (Gaumont).

Awed by the power of Satanas, Moreno and Irma Vep surrender. The first commission given the pair is to rob a bank by securing the signature and forging the check of a rich American. This is accomplished by the ingenious use of a phonograph over the telephone. However, Philip Guard and his faithful Normandin foil the plotters in a very unexpected manner even after they have the money in their possession.

Christmas in Universal Program

Subjects Chosen Because of Their Holiday Atmosphere—Several Strong Features.

THE Christmas spirit is manifested in the Universal program of the week of December 18. All the releases of the week were selected with great care for the week preceding Christmas and there are two releases on the program brimfull of holiday atmosphere. They are the Victor one-act comedy "It's Great to Be Married," written and produced by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke, with Eileen Sedgwick in the leading role, which will be released Friday, December 22, and "Fighting Joe," a two-act Western Christmas drama written by William Parker and produced by William V. Mong, which will appear under the Bison brand on Saturday, December 23. William V. Mong, Maud Emory, Harry M. Holden and other notables of the screen will be seen in "Fighting Joe."

The leading feature of the week is the Red Feather five-act drama, "Mixed Blood," a gripping human interest story by J. Grubb Alexander, and directed by Charles Swickard. This is one of the strongest feature productions ever offered by the Universal and is a vivid picturization of intense hatred and unwavering loyalty. The situations are replete with thrills and a beautiful love interest is interwoven in an ingenious and novel plot. Claire McDowell and Roy Stewart are the featured players in a cast of unusual excellence.

"Mixed Blood" will appear on Monday, December 18. On the same day the Nestor one-act comedy, "It Sounded Like a Kiss," written by Bess Meredyth and produced by Louis Chaudet, will be released. Lee Moran, Eddie Lyons, Priscilla Dean and Vola Smith make this one of the most laughable of film comedies.

The nineteenth episode of the Universal special feature serial "Liberty," which will appear this week, brings this interesting and exciting continued photodrama nearer its end. There will be only one more episode and then the thousands of fans who have been eagerly awaiting the outcome will learn how everything turns out. Marie Walcamp, Eddie Polo, Jack Holt and the others who have contributed to the success of "Liberty" perform many thrilling stunts in this week's episode.

On Tuesday, December 19, the public is offered a strong feature in the Universal Special three-act drama, "Little Partner," which was produced by William Worthington from the scenario by Calder Johnston. This is a different type of three-reel drama and has a wide appeal. The story is novel and the theme unusual. The cast is headed by Franklyn Farnum and Agnes Vernon, who are supported by William J. Ran, Clyde Benson, Adele Farrington and Arthur Hoyt. The Victor one-act comedy, "So This Is Paris!" with King Baggot and Leah Baird, will appear on the same day.

The Universal Animated Weekly, with the latest pictorial news, as usual, comes out on Wednesday. On the same day will appear the uproarious two-act L-KO comedy, "Shooting His Art Out," produced under the direction of David Kirkland, with Phil Dunham, Vin Moore, Dick Smith and Margaret Russell in the leading roles. Another release of this date is the Laemmle one-act drama, "Homeless," with Matt Moore and Jane Gail.

"The Ivy and the Oak," a two-act society drama under the Rex brand, will be released Thursday, December 21. This is a powerful story of modern life written by Alice Saxmar and directed by Donald McDonald. In the cast are Dorothy Davenport, Lee Hill, Clyde Benson, T. D. Crittenden and Lillian Concord. The title has not yet been selected for the Big U drama for the same date.

Besides "It's Great to Be Married," the Imp two mystery act drama, "In the Dead o' Night," written by Willis Woods and produced by Douglas Gerrard, with Mr. Gerrard and Ruth Clifford as the featured players, and the third issue of the Universal Screen Magazine will be released on Friday, December 22.

The Joker comedy, "Jags and Jealousy," written by Karl Coolidge and directed by W. W. Beaudine, will appear on Saturday, December 23. Gale Henry and William Franey are the chief mirth-makers in this comedy. "Fighting Joe," already mentioned, and a Rex single reeler are the other releases of the same day.

On Sunday, December 24, will appear "Mr. Vampire," a two-act drama under the Rex brand. This drama was written by Grace Cunard and Francis Ford was the director. It is an exceptionally strong offering and the cast includes Francis Ford, Edna Maison, Jack Holt and others. The Powers split reel, "Nervy Nat Has His Fortune Told," an animated comedy cartoon, and "Indian as Seen by Dr. Dorsey," an educational, and an Imp one-act drama round out this well balanced program.

JANE GREY CREATES NEW TYPE OF PURITAN MAIDEN.

Jane Grey, who as Silver Sands in the photoplay feature, "When My Ship Comes In," released by the International, is chosen by a great theatrical manager and producer for the leading role in a play he has stolen, has formed and carries out in the picture her own conception of what the unnamed heroine in the play should be.

Miss Grey's conception of the leading part she is supposed to take in the stolen play is that of a Puritan maiden of the type made lovable by Nathaniel Hawthorne. She has designed a costume for the part, which is said to be unique in its simple loveliness. The conception is a natural one for the character Silver Sands to make, for she is a girl who has been reared in a New England village surrounded by all the traditions of a Puritan ancestry. It is entirely in keeping with her character that, having the choice, she should elect to represent the type of maidenhood most endeared to her by heredity and environment. It is quite likely that a new model for the Puritan girl will be released as soon as "When My Ship Comes In" is released.

"When My Ship Comes In" is being produced especially for the International by the A. H. Jacobs Photoplays, Inc.

"THE LOVE THIEF" (Fox).

A stirring story of romance along the Mexican border forms the theme of "The Love Thief," William Fox's newest photodrama, which will be released on December 18. Besides Gretchen Hartman and Alan Hale, who are featured in this splendid production, there is a cast of unexcelled merit, chief among whom are Frances Burnham, Edwin Cecil, Willard Louis, Jack McDonald and Charles Edhler.

Richard Stanton, who filmed "The Beast," directed the picture. The scenes for "The Love Thief" were actually made in the locale of the photoplay. The William Fox photoplayers spent more than three weeks in and around El Paso, Texas, alone, to obtain the necessary exteriors.

Dozens of prominent American army officers, and many troops of infantry and cavalry appear throughout this latest screen drama. The town of San Felice, New Mexico, was purchased by the Fox Film Corporation for destruction in the raid shown in the picture.

Edwin Cecil, who enacts a ferocious Mexican bandit in "The Love Thief," illustrates admirably the remarkable effectiveness of a good make-up. Mr. Cecil will be recalled as the English baronet in "The Beast."

TO RELEASE "PATRIA" ON JANUARY 1.

The International has definitely fixed upon Monday, January 1st, as the release date for the patriotic photoplay "Patria," in which Mrs. Vernon Castle is the star. A flood of inquiries have been received by the International regarding the release date. Already "Patria" has been extensively booked, many exhibitors having contracted for the entire fifteen episodes before the completion of the picture.

ALICE DOVEY IN "EVERY LASSIE HAS A LOVER" (Mutual).

It is hard to imagine charming Alice Dovey, the popular actress of "Very Good Eddy" and many Broadway successes, who also won laurels in the picture world in a series of Gaumont-Mutual comedies some time ago, in the role of a maid-without-suitors. She is so pretty, so gracious, and so genuine that one cannot picture her without at least a dozen pining broken hearts lying at her feet.

In "Every Lassie Has a Lover," the Mutual Star Comedy in which Miss Dovey will appear on December 23, however, the pretty star plays the role of a lonely country girl with only latent charm, who exists unhappily in her boarding house, where every other girl is so busy having a good time that she is left entirely out of the scheme of things.

Scene from "Every Lassie Has a Lover" (Mutual).

Her day arrives after the clever landlady has taken a hand at the helm, helped the girl over her bashfulness and introduced her to a young man. Then the country girl becomes so desirable in the eyes of the men who formerly scorned her that the landlady has to think up means of shooing them away.

"Every Lassie Has a Lover" is an exceedingly charming bit of screen comedy, doubly so because of Alice Dovey's personality.

New Fox Series

Theda Bara and William Farnum to Make Only Eight or Ten Special Super De Luxe Productions During 1917.

THEDA BARA and William Farnum are to make only eight or ten special super de luxe productions each during the year 1917, all of which are to be released on the regular William Fox program. The sixteen or twenty productions in which these two internationally known stars are to appear during the coming year are to be on an elaborate scale. Production costs will be increased and each of the new film masterpieces, it is said, will require an outlay of $100,000 to $300,000.

Scene from "The Darling of Paris" (Fox).

The world's literature is being drawn upon for its greatest and strongest stories, while the supporting casts of Miss Bara and Mr. Farnum will be unsurpassed. The best known actors of the legitimate stage have been secured for these productions. In limiting the number of productions for Miss Bara and William Farnum, Mr. Fox believes he will be able to raise the high standard he has already fixed, and produce features of unexcelled quality. Greater time will be allowed the directors in the making of these special super de luxe productions, while the settings will be more gorgeous and expensive. These features will be released on the regular Fox program to Fox exhibitors.

The first special released will be that of William Farnum in "The Price of Silence," on January 8, 1917. This photoplay has been apty termed the "Uncle Tom's Cabin of today." It is the emancipation proclamation for the child slaves of factories and mills and will undoubtedly do much toward saving the nation's children from the scrap heap of humanity.

Scene from "The Price of Silence" (Fox).

So vital has the question of child labor become that out of the great membership of the national House of Representatives only 46 men were found with hardihood enough to vote against the passage of the bill which was signed by President Wilson on September 1, 1916. Of the 46, many voted against the bill not through opposition, but because they believed it to be an encroachment on state's rights.

Miss Bara's first release in a special super de luxe production will be on January 22, 1917, in "The Darling of Paris," an exceptionally brilliant achievement, suggested by Victor Hugo's masterpiece, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Mr. Fox realized that in Miss Bara and William Farnum he had two stars at least who could be taken from the regular program and exploited as specials and that he could derive three or four times the revenue from them. He has insisted, however, on maintaining a fair policy.

Many Productions for Metro

New Pictures Under Way at Rolfe and Columbia Studios—A Mabel Taliaferro Feature.

THE Rolfe and Columbia studios are at their busiest, preparing new productions for the Metro program. John W. Noble already has begun the direction of Frances Nelson and her company in a new five-part feature written by George W. Gunn, called "The Power of Decision." Miss Nelson's well-known ability to portray emotional roles will be given full sway in the delineation of the leading character.

Prominent in Miss Nelson's support is John Davidson, who has been seen in many Metro wonderplays, among them the screen version of "Romeo and Juliet," in which he played Paris, and "The Brand of Cowardice," starring Lionel Barrymore and Grace Valentine, in which Mr. Davidson was seen as the Mexican bandit, Navarete. Another well-known player is Fuller Mellish, who has had a long and distinguished career on the legitimate stage. Mr. Mellish has the part of an aged artist in "The Power of Decision."

Mabel Taliaferro has began work on a new feature photodrama from the pen of Hamilton Smith, called "The Key to Possession." Edwin Carewe is directing this Metro wonderplay, having fully recovered from his recent operation. Clifford Bruce, well known to Metro patrons as a star in his own right, has been engaged as Miss Taliaferro's leading support. Another player of note in the production is Frank Currier, seen in an important part in "The Wager," with Emily Stevens.

Miss Taliaferro has the role of the daughter of a Wall Street millionaire. A Western financier comes to New York and effects his downfall, and the daughter is forced to marry the newly-rich Westerner to save her father. She marries loathing her husband and determined to set in motion wheels that will crush him. She does so, and all too late, her designs accomplished, discovers that she has fallen in love with him. His bravery in meeting disaster forces her admiration. The blow she has planned for her husband proves a boomerang that strikes at her own heart. An unusual situation completes this gripping photoplay.

"The Mortal Sin" is the name of the new feature photoplay written by John H. Collins for the little star, Viola Dana. Mr. Collins will have the direction of this five-part wonderplay, which is said to be a worthy successor to "The Gates of Eden," the most recent release, with Miss Dana as star. The business details of a great publishing house will be shown in this production.

The leading male characters are a well-known publisher and a struggling author. Augustus Phillips plays the former, and Robert Walker the latter. Miss Dana plays the wife of the author, and it is she who induces the publisher to present her husband's masterpiece to the public. The writer's apparent success, however, is the beginning of troubles for the little group and the situations that are developed are powerfully told.

S. Rankin Drew has completed a powerful play for the use of the distinguished little foreign star, Emmy Wehlen, and will himself have the leading part opposite her, also directing the production. The unusual combination is presented of a sick man, his wife and his physician, the physician being in love with the sick man's wife. Whether the physician assists the invalid to live or to die, or whether he leaves him to the mercies of his own destiny, is the problem worked out in this remarkable photodrama, unique in the annals of screen history.

Lionel Barrymore soon will begin a new five-part production directed by Eugene Newland. A strong supporting cast is being engaged for this favorite Metro star, who has just completed the Metro-Rolfe five-part production, "The End of the Tour," a picturization of a story by Earle Williams, in which Mr. Barrymore is surrounded by such capable players as Ethel Dayton, Mary Taylor, Maud Hill, Kate Blancke, J. Herbert Frank, Frank Currier, Hugh Jeffrey, Charles Eldridge and Louis Wolheim.

Ethel Dayton has been added to the cast of Ethel Barrymore's new production, which is to follow "The Awakening of Helena Richie." George D. Baker is directing this feature photodrama, as yet unnamed. Miss Barrymore in this production has the part of "Nightingale Nan," who quits the life of an Alaskan dance-hall girl for triumphs in grand opera. In the part opposite her will be seen William B. Davidson, a screen favorite, who has appeared in many Metro wonderplays. Mr. Davidson will play "The Stranger." George A. Wright, Viola Fortescue and Mario Majeroni are others in Miss Barrymore's support.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew continue to produce the one-act Metro-Drew comedies which are the great laugh-getters of the screen. Among the productions in preparation, scheduled for early release, are "Reliable Henry," by Mrs. Charles Corbaley, "Her Obsession," by Mr. Drew himself, and "The High Cost of Living," by Mrs. S. J. Moyer.

Thanhouser Gold Rooster

Plans Laid for Productions for the Next Four Months—Work Well Under Way.

WITH its quota of Gold Rooster Plays for February, March and April either entirely completed or well under way, the Thanhouser Company is in the enviable position of not having to work against time in order to have its pictures ready for release by the Pathe Exchanges. A director's best work can only be done when he is unhurried and free from the worry that delays of several days would otherwise cause him.

In February will be released "A Modern Monte Cristo," an original play of love and adventure, written by Philip Lonergan, directed by Eugene Moore and with Vincent Serrano, the well known star, in the lead. Mr. Moore was the director of "The World and the Woman," the Gold Rooster play featuring Jeanne Eagels. "The World and the Woman" is having a successful run and is highly praised by the exhibitors showing it. "A Modern Monte Cristo" shows Mr. Moore's work at its best.

The second Thanhouser release for February is "The Girl Who Wanted to Live," a play by Philip Lonergan, staged by Frederick Sullivan, and with the popular Florence La Badie as the star. This is an exceptionally strong story of a girl who comes out of prison to win from the world the things she believes are due her.

In March comes "The Vicar of Wakefield," Oliver Goldsmith's immortal book brought to the screen. Frederick Warde, one of the really great actors of the day, has the title role and the play is staged by Ernest Warde. Emmet Mixx adapted the story. Everyone has read "The Vicar of Wakefield," and remembers the strong heart interest, the pathos and the humor of it. Mr. Thanhouser says in speaking of this picture, which is now nearly completed: "If I told you what I really think of this production you would think I was overdoing it." Everyone at the Thanhouser studios who has seen the finished portions projected is enthusiastic over it. They declare it better than "Silas Marner," which made a fortune.

The second Thanhouser release for March is "Her Beloved Enemy," with Doris Grey and Wayne Arey as the stars. The play is by Lloyd Lonergan and it is staged by Ernest Warde. Miss Grey is the beautiful prize winner at last year's Boston Exhibitors' Ball and Mr. Arey has been doing splendid work, notably in "The Shine Girl."

In April comes "Peggie o' the Pots and Pans," another Agnes C. Johnston play, which will be ranked with "Her New York," "The Shine Girl" and "Prudence the Pirate," all big successes written by her. Gladys Hulette, the charming little star, is featured in this play, which is staged by Eugene Moore.

The second April release is "Mary Lamson's Secret," in which Charlotte Walker, the famous star of the spoken drama, is featured. The play is written by Lloyd Lonergan and staged by John B. O'Brien, who is well known through his work as director of Mary Pickford.

Scottish Societies Welcome Mary

Many Inquiries Received from Caledonians Throughout the Country Regarding "The Pride of the Clan."

THE news that Mary Pickford will be seen on the screen in the character of a highland lass in "The Pride of the Clan," to be released in the near future by Artcraft Pictures, has created considerable interest among officers and members of Scottish societies throughout the country. The fact that "America's Darling" has selected a story of bonny Scotland as her next vehicle is hailed with delight among sons and daughters of the heather in this country and many inquiries concerning the coming photoplay have been received at the Artcraft offices as well as at the headquarters of the Pickford Film Corporation.

"It is indeed gratifying to learn that the world's most popular girl will visualize for all time the charms of the highland lass," said Robert T. Ferguson, of the Caledonian Society. "For a long time I, as well as many of my friends, have longed to see 'Little Mary' in a Scotch role, and it is with great delight that we hear she will shortly be seen in 'The Pride of the Clan,' which I understand concerns the daughter of the chief of a well-known Scottish clan. I am sure that Miss Pickford, who is of Celtic extraction and a native of Canada, will prove most effective in her characterization in the new photoplay and we are planning to make her appearance as a lass of Scotland a gala occasion."

Although the numerous requests for special exhibitions of "The Pride of the Clan" will have to be refused in view of the booking arrangements with theaters, various plans are being formulated by officers of Scottish organizations and exhibitors for "Scotch Nights" in conjunction with their showing of the Pickford film, which will be given in honor of local associations such as the Scottish Society, the Seventy-ninth Highlanders' Veteran Association, the White Heather Lodge, the Daughters of Scotland, etc.

Special advertising boosters and suggestions are now being prepared by the Artcraft publicity office to aid exhibitors in their presentation of the next Pickford offering and special attention is being given to co-operation with Scottish societies who are desirous of giving the photoplay an official review.

Seven Deadly Sins Ready

McClure Pictures Announces the Release of this Series Beginning January 8.

McCLURE pictures announces that the first of "The Seven Deadly Sins," a series of five-reel features, will be released by Superpictures, Inc., through the Triangle exchanges, on Monday, January 8. Ann Murdock in "Envy," supported by Shirley Mason and George Le Guere, will be the first release. The other six will follow at weekly intervals.

Each drama in the series will be a complete photoplay. The seven sins will be connected by the love story of Eve Leslie (Shirley Mason) and Adam Moore (George Le Guere). In each Eve is tempted by one of the seven sins. In each she triumphs. This series presents an exceptional list of stars. It includes Ann Murdock, Holbrook Blinn, Charlotte Walker, Nance O'Neil, H. B. Warner, Miss Mason and Mr. Le Guere.

The fiction story of "The Seven Deadly Sins," by Florence Morse Kingsley, author of "Titus—A Comrade of the Cross," is now appearing in The Ladies' World, which has a circulation of more than a million copies each month. The campaign of advertising in national magazines already has started and news of "The Seven Deadly Sins" will be carried to moving picture fans throughout the United States in more than twenty-five national magazines that reach a total of more than forty-five million readers. Special campaigns will be carried on in the cities by display advertising in the largest daily newspapers, reaching at least ten million readers.

"The Seven Deadly Sins" is not a serial. It is a group of seven splendid five-reel features, a moving picture proposition entirely new, launched by the same interests that conceived and produced the first serial, "What Happened to Mary." Each of "The Seven Deadly Sins" is widely different from the other. The stories in the telling carry the characters through experiences in cities, in the country, back-stage at a theater, behind the scenes in the working of the Russian secret service, into all sorts of situations among all sorts of people. The sweethearts have adventures in high society and in opium dens, on the battlefields of Europe and in a rural "swimming hole." There are thrills without number, as well as simple scenes crowded with heart interest.

Following Ann Murdock in "Envy," Holbrook Blinn in "Pride" will be released on Monday, January 15; Shirley Mason in "Passion" on January 22; H. B. Warner in "Wrath" on January 29; Nance O'Neil in "Greed" on February 5; Charlotte Walker in "Sloth" on February 12; George Le Guere in "The Seventh Sin" on February 19.

Richard Ridgley directed "Envy" and "Pride." Theodore Marston was the director who produced the other five features.

"THE FIVE FRANC PIECE" (Selig).

"The Five Franc Piece" released Monday, December 18, in the regular service of the General Film Co., is a Selig drama de luxe, with charming Edith Johnson in the leading feminine role. "The Five Franc Piece" is a most unusual drama, relating how Emperor Napoleon, in order to popularize his issue of five franc pieces, secretly placed an order for one million francs in one of his coins. Three generations later, Jean Villiars, descendant of Brigadier Jean Villiars, of Napoleon's "Old Guard," perfects and patents a device for wireless torpedo boats. He is penniless, and the only thing he has in the world, is an heirloom, a five franc piece, which he gives to his sweetheart, Margaret Wilson, as a keepsake.

Scene from "The Five Franc Piece" (Selig).

Jean's invention promises to revolutionize warfare. A rascally promoter, unable to purchase the invention, decides to steal it. What happens then is the climax of a series of exciting episodes in which Margaret and the five franc piece figure most sensationally. How the girl, through love, brings happiness to herself and prosperity to Jean Villiars, is a most delightful ending to a noteworthy production.

Mutual Releases

William Russell to Appear in "The Twinkler" in the Program for Week of December 18.

HENRY LEVERAGE, better known to his associates as Sing Sing No. 65368, has written a strong and unusual story of prison life and the life of a crook after he has been freed from the gray walls. This story was scenariorized by Anthony W. Coldeway and William Russell, the Mutual star, has been given a great opportunity to prove his histrionic ability in the title role of the production. "The Twinkler" is the title given to the story by Mr. Leverage, and it will be released as a five-reel Mutual Star production the week of December 18.

Mr. Leverage, who is serving a sentence in Sing Sing, under an assumed name, is a writer of no little repute, and while he has been in prison has gathered material for many interesting stories. His story of "The Twinkler" is one of highly dramatic character and Russell's portrayal of "The Twinkler" is one of the best bits of work he has ever done.

In "The Twinkler" Leverage, who is the editor in chief of "The Star of Hope," a monthly prison magazine, has told the true story of one of Sing Sing's former inmates. The production was filmed at the American Mutual studios under the direction of Edward Sloman.

On Monday, December 18, E. K. Lincoln will be shown in a two-reel drama entitled "Buddy's Christmas." This is a tale of how a poor little mountain youth was responsible for the settling of a mountain feud and the marriage of the daughter of one of the clans to the only remaining member of the other clan. This production is apropos at this season of the year.

"Mutual Tours Around the World," a one-reel Gaumont scenic, picturing Morocco, Chautilly and scenes along the Mediterranean, is scheduled for release Tuesday, December 19.

On Wednesday, December 20, "Mutual Weekly" No. 103, in which important events of national interest are filmed, and "See America First," a split reel on same reel with "Kartoon Komics," by Harry Palmer, will be shown.

"The Elopement," a one-reel comedy, is scheduled for release on Thursday, December 21.

The third of the "Uncle Sam's Defenders," one-reel series, will be shown Friday, December 22. This chapter deals with the graduating of the sailor lads from the landlubber class into seasoned salts before they are assigned to warships. Some extensive views of Newport and Annapolis Naval Academy are also shown in this reel, which is entitled "A Jack Tar in the Making."

The fourth single-reel Star Comedy, entitled "Every Lassie Has a Lover," and featuring Alice Dovey, is scheduled for release on Saturday, December 23. This is a cleverly constructed comedy written around a little country girl who longs for a beau. Her kind-hearted landlady hits upon a little scheme, which worked fine, and in the end brings the girl a husband.

Rube Miller, the awkward, lanky Vogue comedian, is starred in a two-reel Vogue comedy entitled "Fickle All Around." In this production Rube is what they call "a lover of all the ladies" and loves them all, regardless of size or looks. This gets him into no end of trouble. "Reel Life" is a one-reel magazine from the Gaumont studios. These two productions will be released on Sunday, December 24.

The fourth and last chapter of the "10,000 photo novel"—"A Sequel to the Diamond from the Sky"—will be released on December 18. At the time this chapter is shown an announcement and picture of the winner for the idea for the "Sequel" will be given. During this week Chapter X of the thrilling story of "A Lass of the Lumberlands," featuring Helen Holmes, and Chapter V of "The Vampires" will be released.

PATHE'S "THE ROMANTIC JOURNEY."

Pathe announces a rare treat in its Gold Rooster release for December 24—William Courtenay and Alice Dovey in "The Romantic Journey," a play directed by George Fitzmaurice of the Astra. Mr. Fitzmaurice has achieved a well deserved fame as a director and is identified with many of Pathe's greatest successes, "At Bay," "Via Wireless," "New York," and "Arms and the Woman." He has the finesse, the artistic sense, the human insight, and the eye to detail that are essential in a really great director. He invariably selects his players from the very best on the stage. In consequence he has never made a poor picture.

Miss Dovey makes her first screen appearance in "The Romantic Journey," and is widely known as the leading lady of "Very Good Eddie," the phenomenal stage success. Her work in this Gold Rooster Play prompts a hope that we shall see her in further productions.

"The Romantic Journey" is a story of Hindoo magic and mysticism brought to America, of a girl under the hypnotic power of an unscrupulous Oriental, of snake charmers and poisonous cobras, and of a hero who risks his life to right a wrong. Creeps and thrills follow in quick succession.

STRONG COMPETITION FOR "THE WITCHING HOUR."

William L. Sherrill, president and general manager of the Frohman Amusement Corporation, reports an almost unprecedented demand from both exhibitors and state right buyers for that corporation's special and extraordinary release, "The Witching Hour."

Essanay's for December

"The Truant Soul" Tops the List of Releases—It's a Walthall Subject.

THE Truant Soul," Henry B. Walthall's new superfeature, will be in all branch offices of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service not later than the middle of December, according to the announcement made by George K. Spoor, president of Essanay, who urges exhibitors to see this extra-length production. He calls it the greatest exposition of Mr. Walthall's possibilities in the interpretation of an intense dramatic role and the star agrees with him.

This production, designed for a screen time of two hours, is a powerful drama of a hidden menace, superbly enacted by Mr. Walthall. The story was written by Victor Rousseau, the famous novelist. Mary Charleson supports Mr. Walthall. The piece was directed by Harry Beaumont.

That this should prove an attraction extraordinary is the belief of Mr. Spoor, who has arranged a special aid for exhibitors in handling it. The picture will be released Christmas Day.

Preceding the release of "The Truant Soul" will be an extra feature from the Essanay studios. It is "The Phantom Buccaneer," with Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover. The screen time is one hour, twenty minutes. This is a fast moving drama of many thrills, just the kind to prove attractive in any house. There is not an instant of hesitation in the entire production, which was taken from Victor Bridges' popular novel, "Another Man's Shoes." Romance and revenge provide the base for a series of gripping incidents. The reckless spirit of the hero makes for many situations of high comedy, and his refusal to take seriously the young woman who has sworn to kill him furnishes many delightful scenes. J. Charles Haydon directed the picture.

Director Harry Beaumont is beginning work on Bryant Washburn's next feature. This is taken from the immensely popular "Skinner's Dress Suit," in the Saturday Evening Post.

Henry B. Walthall is prepared to begin the first scenes in his latest production. The title of this offering will shortly be announced.

Essanay's General Film Service program will continue with the Black Cat features on Tuesday and the "Is Marriage Sacred?" topics on Saturday. Essanay's best players will be seen in all of these shorter productions.

Bryant Washburn is now at work in "The Girl God Made for Jones," a 33-minute Black Cat feature. Nell Craig has just completed two of them, "As In a Looking Glass," and "A Tale From the Decameron."

Five well known players compose the stock company for "Is Marriage Sacred?" They are Marguerite Clayton, Lillian Drew, Sydney Ainsworth, Edward Arnold and Thomas Commerford.

"THE YELLOW MENACE"—14th EPISODE.

Under the title of "The Interrupted Nuptials," Unity will release the fourteenth episode of "The Yellow Menace," December 11. It will be remembered that one of Ali Singh's victims was Maxwell Judson, who invented the formula for quarrinolite, the highest known explosive. After his death the invention came into the possession of Captain Cook, his nephew, who, being warned by Errol Manning, turns over the formula to Police-Captain Kemp for safe keeping.

Thinking that Captain Cook still has the formula in his possession and determined by all means to get possession of it, Ali Singh's followers lasso Cook from a bedroom window and drag him to the top of a high building. He is subjected to terrible torture at the hands of Ali Singh, but is saved by one of Hong Kong Harry's erratic changes of mind.

Najla is again brought under the spell of her uncle's baleful influence and is made the innocent means of introducing a bomb to Errol Manning's house. But for the quick work of Willard Bronson, who detects the presence of the bomb in time to get rid of it, both the house and those who were caught in it at the time would have been doomed to certain destruction.

This episode abounds in exciting incidents and adds piles of evidence to prove Ali Singh's demoniacal treachery.

SLIGHT SECTION OF NEW YORK BUILT IN LOS ANGELES.

Immediately upon the arrival of George Beban, well-known interpreter of Italian characters, at the Morosco studio in Los Angeles, work was begun upon the erection of a big scene representing New York's famous "Little Italy." The setting is being used in the staging of Beban's next Paramount Picture, "His Sweetheart," which is scheduled for release in the latter part of January.

Squalid buildings, little stores, badly torn up asphalt pavement, typical corner stores and all that the New York Italian seems to hold sacred have been incorporated in this scene, so that Mr. Beban might feel perfectly at home when he got into his sacred corduroys and flannel shirt. Even the dilapidated horse-car will trundle across the scene when it appears on the screen.

The story has to do with local politics and involves the district attorney. It was written by Beban and Lawrence McClusky during a premeditated "vacation" in the Maine woods last summer. Donald Crisp is the director.

Paramount Christmas Program

Marquerite Clark in "Snow White" and Kathlyn Williams in "The Redeeming Love" are the Features on the Paramount Program for the Week of December 25.

THE Yule-tide season will again be fittingly celebrated this year by the Famous Players when they will release on the Paramount Program one of the most beloved of all fairy tales, "Snow White," written by Brothers Grimm, in which Marguerite Clark, surrounded by a star cast, plays the leading role. The week of Dec. 25 will also mark the debut of Kathlyn Williams on the Paramount Program, as she will be presented co-starring with Thomas Holding in the Morosco production of "The Redeeming Love."

Miss Clark has outdone herself in this production. She is supported by an unusually large cast, the principals of which are Creighton Hale as Prince Florimond, Dorothy G. Cumming as Queen Brangomar, Lionel Graham as Berthold (Huntsman) and Alice Washburn as Witch Hex.

The other feature on the program for this week will be "The Redeeming Love," in which Miss Kathlyn Williams makes her debut in Paramount Pictures. This drama is from an original scenario by Gardner Hunter and L. V. Jefferson, from the story written by Mr. Jefferson and which deals with a beautiful young woman born and raised in a small town, she being half in love with a noble, earnest young minister, but who rebels against giving up the many good things of life for him.

The production was made under the direction of William D. Taylor and Thomas Holding co-starring with Miss Williams, they being supported by an exceptionally strong cast, including Herbert Standing and Helen Eddy.

Surrounding the program for this week is the 46th edition of the Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen, in which there is contained four unusually interesting subjects, "The Toll Gate of the Atlantic," "How to Be a Champion Billiardist," "Fifty-Fifty," a Plastique comedy, and "An American Vesuvius"; the forty-seventh of the series of Weekly Trips Around the World, personally conducted by Burton Holmes, the world's greatest traveler, in which he takes his journeyers to "The Land of Evangeline," the Paramount-Bray cartoon drawn by L. M. Glacken's "Jack the Giant Killer," and another screamingly funny Paramount Black Diamond comedy entitled "Their Week End."

"THE RIGHT TO BE HAPPY" (Bluebird).

Based upon Charles Dickens' immortal classic, "A Christmas Carol," this feature is offered by Bluebird as an example of extreme timeliness—the release date is Dec. 25. Rupert Julian made the production from E. J. Clawson's scenario and will be star of the occasion, playing the role of Scrooge, the world's greatest "grouch." Francelia Billington, Roberta Wilson, Harry Carter and other members of the Bluebird stock company will create the quaint characters Dickens has so vividly painted in his word-pictures.

There will be an all-year interest in "The Right to Be Happy," as the lesson of benevolence "A Christmas Carol" presents has no particular season, and, furthermore, the devotees of Charles Dickens are numbered by the hundreds in every sizeable community. Bluebird has been careful to impart the Scene from "The Right to Be Happy" (Bluebird).

Dickens atmosphere to the subject, portraying the characters with faithfulness and showing in camera-trickery the adventures of Old Scrooge as he made his personally conducted flights with the ghosts of Christmas Past, Christmas Present and Christmas Future, with the spirit of Jacob Marley as the superintendent of spiritual transportation.

"RACE SUICIDE" IN DEMAND.

Ever since the Phax Pictures Co., of 220 West 42d street, New York City, have announced their purchase of "Race Suicide" for Greater New York and State, Samuel Cummins, general manager, has been deluged with hundreds of bookings for this feature. So great has been the demand for booking this feature in Greater New York and State that he has decided to use ten prints. The exhibitors have had applications in for this picture ever since its announcement many months ago.

The picture was booked for a large Broadway theater, but has been held up on account of objections of the license bureau some time ago. Since then obstacles with that department were removed wherever it has been shown, through the South and Middle West, as well as the coast.

Notes of the Trade

AFTER an absence from screen work for several months Fritzi Brunette has returned to the Selig Company to enact a leading role in an eight-reel Selig Special now in course of production under the direction of Colin Campbell.

* * *

Hobart Henley is producing at Universal City a five-reel feature, "Enmeshed," prepared for the screen by E. J. Clawson, and in which Henley and Gertrude Selby play the leads.

* * *

Mary MacIvor, of the Triangle-Ince studios, has been promoted to leading woman for Wm. S. Hart in a picture he is just beginning.

* * *

Property men at the Rolfe studios are busy nowadays arranging for the old-fashioned minstrel show and reception which they will have at the Palm Garden December 18 Invitations have been sent to the employes in all the studios in New York, and every one connected with the profession is invited to attend.

* * *

Mr. Burnham, manager of the Temple Theater of Cortland, N. Y., has recently taken over the Majestic Theater in Utica.

* * *

"Polly Put the Kettle On" is the title of a three-reel photoplay being filmed at Universal City by Director Douglas Gerrard. The leads are played by Ruth Clifford, supported by Zoe Rae, Lena Baskette, Marvel Spencer and others of the stock company.

* * *

Ned Finley is one of the newest additions to the long list of Metro players. He has been cast as an Alaskan miner in the big Ethel Barrymore feature that is being produced under the direction of George D. Baker.

Mr. Finley has a long record with Vitagraph, having written, produced and starred in a number of plays with that company.

A Bargain for the Right Man

Motion picture negative (A-1 condition) depicting scenes in Alaska, the wonder of the World. Approximately 2,500 feet in length. Has never been promoted. Can be booked in schools, clubs, churches, halls, theatres, etc. A bargain for the wide-awake man, and a rare opportunity. For price and particulars write to STANLEY HARBECK, 733 Michigan Street, Toledo, Ohio.

The Star's Best Pictures

Large 11x14 Hand Colored Pictures of all the prominent Photo Players—25c. each, $1.85 per dozen assorted; 5x7 Photo Reproductions—100 assorted $1.50. All orders mailed day received.

R. K. STANBURY, Dept. W-A
Flatiron Bldg., New York

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU KNOW ALL HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU KNOW ALL HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

New Year Will See Changes in Portland, Me.

Rumor of New Theaters Contemplated for the City's Retail District—Strand May Be Made Into One of the Best of Theaters.

By John P. Flanagan, 147 Park View Ave., Bangor, Me.

PORTLAND, ME. Gossip in Portland theater circles has it that the coming year will see important departures, and there are rumors of contemplated new theaters in the retail business section as well as extensive improvements of those now doing business.

The report of the greatest public interest is one concerning the Strand theater, the lessees of which, it is said, contemplate dropping the auditorium to the ground floor and investing a sum of money which would furnish Portland with one of the best theaters in the United States. It is understood that arrangements will be possible by January by which ground floor can be procured to enable the consummation of this project.

Among other things talked about is the building of a new theater in the vicinity of Casco street. One report has it that negotiations are or have been under way for the purchase of the site in the rear of the Maine Charitable Mechanic Association block. One more location mentioned is the property in back of the Foster-Avery store, but whether this site has been seriously considered is not known.

Bangor May Have Supply Store.

Bangor, Me.—It is reported that R. D. Marsen may open a branch supply depot for the sale of moving picture machines, parts, etc., in Bangor in the near future.

Pine Tree Business Notes.

Bangor, Me.—R. F. Crockett, proprietor of Shepherd Hall theater at Rockport, Me., was a visitor to Bangor this week, calling at the office of the General Film Co. Mr. Crockett is using full General service in his house and finds that it fills the bill.

Bangor, Me.—H. P. Smith, Bangor manager of the General Film, has just returned from a visit to the Boston headquarters. Mr. Smith says that business is excellent in Maine. After three years the Hazards of Helen still takes well throughout this district. Grant, Police Reporter, and The Girl from Frisco are also very popular in this section.

Bangor, Me.—Marguerite Clark in "Miss George Washington," won the hearts of big audiences at the Park theater this week. Marguerite is a favorite in this city, and there are many moving picture patrons who never fail to attend when she is advertised.

Maritime News Letter

By F. F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Avenue, St. John, N. B.

N. W. Mason's New Policy.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S.—N. W. Mason, proprietor of the Academy of Music, and who now has an $80,000 house, almost ready for business, will run two changes of five acts each in his new theater, besides special offerings of the best features. Mr. Mason, accompanied by F. B. McCullough, who is also interested in the theater, were recent visitors in St. John, while en route to Boston to make arrangements for the first performance, which is to be given on New Year's Day.

I. Sourkes of Fox Goes to St. John.

St. John, N. B.—I. Sourkes, who has been connected with the Toronto and Montreal offices of the Fox Film Co., has been transferred to the St. John exchange, to cover the Maritime Provinces, under the direction of Manager Carl Crawford. Mr. Sourkes is well known to the men of the trade throughout the dominion, having covered practically every territory as a roadman from the main exchanges. He is now working from city to city from Montreal to St. John, and will probably arrive next week to make the local exchange his headquarters.

Local Business Notes.

St. John, N. B.—Jules H. Wolfe, manager of the Metro exchange, has completed arrangements with Manager Walter McKay of St. John opera house for showing here, the middle of this month, of the famous production "Romeo and Juliet." This is the first large production of the play to be borught into this territory, and it is expected that it will draw large houses.

Troops Go, Theater Reduces.

Sussex, N. B.—Dr. J. J. Daley, who has been running the opera house with a very attractive picture program, has, since the withdrawal of the King's troops from the city, found it necessary to reduce his performances to three nights a week. During the summer and fall the opera house played to capacity at practically every show. It is expected that the full week schedule will be resumed in the spring.

Royal Opera House Becomes New People's.

Yarmouth, N. S.—J. Kelty, formerly proprietor of the old People's theater in this city, has closed it for the winter, and officially taken over what was the Royal opera house, naming it the New People's. Mr. Kelty's new quarters provide a larger seating capacity and better accommodations generally. He has contracted for Paramount features.

New Policy at the Gayety.

Moncton, N. B.—The Gayety theater, run by Torrie & Winters, has changed its policy for the winter. Instead of a change of program every day, there will be two acts of vaudeville and a feature picture the first half of the week, and two acts and a serial for the last three days.

New England Jottings

S. E. Sherman Opens Star at Hartford.

Hartford, Conn.—S. E. Sherman, pioneer of the moving picture industry in Connecticut, re-opened the Star theater in this city on Thanksgiving day, with pictures from both the General and Universal program. Mr. Sherman started in pictures about fifteen years ago, and claims to be the first man to show films in New England, outside of B. F. Keith, who was then showing pictures in his old theater in Washington street, Boston.

The Star seats 2,000, and business has been good from the start. A feature of the opening was the fact that the Star was one of a few theaters to recognize the union, employing union help from front to back. The Star theater is practically new, costing $250,000 to build. Mr. Sherman has spent in the neighborhood of $10,000 for remodeling.

Bridgeport, Conn., Police to Scrutinize Programs.

Bridgeport, Conn. — Closer censorship of motion pictures has been decreed here by the police commissioners. The commissioners, John C. Stanley, president; George C. Peet, Richard H. Murphy and John A. Lyddy, will not admit that the censorship has been established because of complaints about the pictures shown, nor will they give any reason for their action in the matter.

The manager of every motion picture house in the city has recently received a letter from John H. Redgate, superintendent of police, announcing the appointment of Charles H. Suckley, assistant superintendent of police, as censor of the films to be shown. Each picture house manager is required to submit his program to the censor one week before it is shown. The circular sent the managers concludes with the startling sentence: "You may rest assured that you will not be permitted to show any pictures which may be deemed unfit for exhibition here." This doesn't imply pre-publicity censorship. The police here have always been guardians of public morals and the like.

Assistant Superintendent Suckley, the censor, is the sole and only judge as to what are fit pictures. The censorship is in force this week.

New Bridgeport Theaters Co.

Bridgeport, Conn.—The Olive theater in Olive street, one of the oldest and most successful picture houses in Bridgeport, closed its doors again after the show last Sunday evening. John Dawe, manager, said the patronage did not warrant keeping it open longer. John L. Donavan, owner of the property, is endeavoring to again control it, and open the theater in connection with the Seaside and Maplewood theaters. A company to operate these theaters, known as the Bridgeport Theaters Co., has been organized, with Mr. Donavan as president, William Keefe, vice-president, and Edmond C. Booth, secretary and treasurer. These officers are also the directors.

Newark News Letter

By Jacob J. Kalter, 25 Branford Place, Newark, N. J.

Lynn S. Card, Mutual.

NEWARK, N. J.—Herewith is an excellent likeness of Mr. Lyman S. Card, local manager of the Mutual Film. The photographer naturally caught Mr. Card in a characteristic attitude—busy at his desk. No one will deny that New Jersey exchange managers are among the best obtainable. Having such a superlative bunch in our midst it would naturally be an exceedingly difficult matter to choose the most popular. The Newark World correspondent, however, in the course of his meeting with the various exhibitors, has found a unanimity of opinion—that Lynn S. Card is a royal good fellow. But he is more than just a real fellow. By his quiet, pleasant manner, his fair dealing, and strictly business methods, Mr. Card has won and retained the friendship and confidence of the Jersey exhibitors.

Manager Lyman S. Card in Newark, N. J., Mutual Office.

Under Mr. Card's systematic methods, business has increased appreciably at the local Mutual office. Mr. Card is never too busy to give advice or suggestions to the exhibitor. He has been manager of the Mutual's Newark office for over three years. His first film connection was with the General Film, 23rd street branch. After going into the exchange business for himself in Newark, Mr. Card joined the Mutual.

Gainsborg Done It!

Newark, N. J.—Sure, he went and done it! Ain't it so? Certainly Lee Gainsborg is the fellow. In these hard times, when people are about ready to boycott eating, Lee's engagement is announced. But say, you really can't blame him—you should see the girl. Miss Sayre Gwendolyn Rutkin, of Newark, is the lucky girl, and we join with the others in wishing Miss Rutkin and Mr. Gainsborg success. Mr. Gainsborg is the manager of the Universal Film, at 286 Market street.

A. P. Waxman to Manage Terminal Theater.

Newark, N. J.—The manager of the new Fox Terminal theater, on Park place, is A. P. Waxman, and not Samuel Weisel as erroneously reported in this paper of Dec. 9. Mr. Waxman has had considerable experience in managing theaters, he having managed the Classic, 181st street and St. Nicholas avenue; the Bronx Strand, and other large moving picture places in the metropolis. Mr. Waxman was also for a time special representative for George Kleine. He is enthusiastic over the new house, and his many innovations bid fair to bring increased patronage to the Fox house.

"Purity" Goes Big Here.

Newark, N. J.—Audrey Munson in "Purity" attracted large audiences to the Goodwin theater, 863 Broad street, during the week of Dec. 4. This was the initial showing of the film in this city. The Master Photoplay Attractions, Fred W. Falkner, manager, has the New Jersey state rights for the film spectacle. The feature was heavily advertised but the results were exceedingly gratifying to Mrs. L. H. Webbe, who manages the Goodwin.

General Film Appoints Agent.

Jersey City, N. J.—The General Film Corporation of New York has appointed as New Jersey representatives, the Corporation Trading Company, of 15 Exchange place.

Cup Trays in Theater Unlawful.

Newark, N. J.—Health Officer Charles V. Craster has sent a letter to the larger theaters in reference to the law regarding individual drinking cups. The health officer wrote that in some places a glass is provided at a fountain, while in others water is distributed by ushers throughout the theater. Both of these methods are violations of the law, and Mr. Craster announces that he will take steps against the proprietors of theaters where these offenses continue.

Temple Theater to Open.

Kearny, N. J.—The new Temple theater, located in the Masonic Temple building, Kearny and Bergen avenues, will be opened Jan. 1 by the M. & S. Amusement Company, of which Martin Singer is president and W. H. Maier is treasurer. Mr. Singer will assume personal management of the house.

Supercensors in Baltimore

Mothers' Congress Appoints Board to Censor Work of Censors—Would Protect Youthful Minds from Legal Board.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Censorial activities are about to become very fashionable in Baltimore or there is promise of it in the latest actions of the Maryland Branch of the Mothers' Congress. Most of the members of the Congress saw "War's Women," and it seems that when this picture was mentioned at a meeting held at the Hotel Belvedere on Monday, November 28th, a Zeppelin over London would have had a like effect, and quite a little excitement followed. A committee of six was appointed to take up with the Censor Board the matter of the showing of "objectionable" features in Baltimore. Thus, every week the list of attractions showing in Baltimore will be gone over by this committee, and one member will view each film likely to prove harmful to youthful spectators. Quite a little task for one person to do when such aesthetic scenes are to be taken into consideration. With the Parents' League and the Mothers' Congress taking up the hatchet, the new form of amusement for these bodies seems to be the coming rage.

M. Weisburg With General Film.

Baltimore, Md.—M. Weisburg, who has been associated with the General Film for two and a half years, has now joined J. J. Fayette as assistant manager of the Baltimore exchange. Mr. Weisburg is a very affable and pleasant man to talk to and it is understood that he will handle the Baltimore territory with Mr. Payette.

Operators Hold Election.

Baltimore, Md.—On December 3, the annual election of officers of Operators' Union, Local 181, was held. The election was very exciting, owing to the fact that with the exception of the post of business agent, every other position was contested. G. Kingston Howard was re-elected president and business manager. He is a pioneer in the field and knows his part well. Among the others elected were: Wm. George, first vice-president; Norbert Haefele, second vice-president; Nelson Baldwin, third vice-president; Carroll G. Bayne, financial secretary and treasurer; Otto J. Niquet, recording secretary; Wm. F. Evans, business agent; Harry T. Hess, sergeant-at-arms; G. Kingston Howard, delegate, I. A. Convention; Joseph Quade, F. Clarence Grote and Harry Wallis, board of trustees; Sam Isaacson, N. Basil Morgan and Frank T. Holmes, delegates to B. F. of L.; Sam Isaacson, delegate Md.-D. C. Fed. of L.

Sixth Year With Same Manager.

Baltimore, Md.—Last week was the anniversary week for the Garden theater in South Baltimore. This is the sixth one to be held for that house and it is still under the same management that it began its career with—C. W. Pacey. It was through Mr. Pacey's arrangements that the house was entirely rebuilt last summer.

New McHenry Theater Contract.

Baltimore, Md.—The large and handsome McHenry theater to be erected in South Baltimore at 1032 Light street by the Southern Amusement Company, has been contracted for, the Cogswell Koether Company having been awarded the contract. The seating capacity will be about 1,200. The architect is Oliver B. Wright and he has designed this theater in an L shape to fit the lot. While the entire cost will approximately be $70,000, the building will come near to $36,000.

New Managers of Mt. Royal.

Baltimore, Md.—The Mt. Royal theater, 617 West North avenue, is now in the able hands of T. J. Bohannan and Harry Lewy, who with M. E. Fuld own and operate the Great Wizard theater, 30 West Lexington street. They assumed charge of this house on Monday, December 4, and this pretty residential house should certainly run along prosperously under their handling, for both Mr. Bohannan and Mr. Lewy are old hands in the moving picture game. They have kept pace with the times and know how to handle their patrons. Walter R. Eney, a newcomer in the field in Baltimore, will act as their floor manager.

J. J. Hartlove Increases Business.

Baltimore, Md.—J. J. Hartlove is now increasing his feature service and has purchased the state rights for some of the largest features, including "Race Suicide," "Pavlowa," "Where Are My Children?" and "Purity." These will be released by him, under the title of Banner Features. Mr. Hartlove's office is at 312 West Baltimore street. He is very earnest in his work and is well known as an exhibitor, having for many years operated houses in this city. When at the Crescent Mr. Hartlove always extended this writer the most courteous treatment and it is assumed that his patrons were treated in the same manner.

Benefit at Parkway Theater.

Baltimore, Md.—Through the courtesy of Bernard Depkin, Jr., and arrangements made by him with the owners of the Parkway theater, 3-9 West North avenue, of which he is manager, the auxiliary of the Maryland Red Cross is holding a benefit at this playhouse all this week and it has been arranged that a certain percentage of the box office receipts will be given for the help of the war sufferers in Paris. As a special feature for the occasion, Mr. Depkin booked "An Enemy to the King," featuring E. H. Sothern.

"When we screened 'Snow White,' produced by the Educational Films Corporation, last week, for the kiddies," said Mr. Depkin, "it proved to be a phenomenal success. In fact, I have never seen a picture please the children more than it did. We had great crowds."

Report of Pennsylvania Censors

Board Issues List of 150 Pictures That Have Come Under Its Ban—Exhibitors Living Near the State Borders Warned Against Using Film from Over the Line That Have Not Been Passed—Clips from the Censor's Scissors.

By F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford St., West Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The Pennsylvania State Board of Censors has recently issued a list of 150 plays which have come under its disfavor and which are not permitted to be shown in Pennsylvania. There is also a list of more than 200 scenes excised from that many photoplays, which may be shown within the state minus the condemned portions. In the latter case the names of the films are not given but the Board, evidently with the intention of justifying itself before the public, gives descriptions of the parts banned.

Further activities of the Board include a caution to exhibitors against selling, leasing or exhibiting any films, reels or views unless approved by the censors. Special attention is called to companies which make local productions and advertising films. These will not be permitted to be shown in the state unless passed by the board.

It was stated at the offices of the censors that certain exhibitors near the state lines had been in the habit of securing pictures from agents over the line and showing them without the approval of the Board. Following the receipt of the warning the Board will proceed against such violators.

Some of the pictures which were banned included: "Leading Lizzie Astray," "Harry K. Thaw's Fight for Freedom," "The Life of Evelyn Thaw," "Trafficking on Souls" (as well as "Traffic in Souls"), "Freddy Loosevelt from Africa," and "Pimples Captures the Kaiser."

Some of the scenes eliminated "to protect public morals" included these:

Censor's Scissor Clippings.

"All scenes showing man and woman receiving drug by means of electrical device. Also the subsequent action of woman walking out of room after she has received drug."

"The part of hold-up scene where the supposed hold-up men pounce on men in automobile and ram bags over the heads of the victims."

"All close-ups of the hold-up of men in automobiles, close-up of revolver held to stomach of victim, stealing victim's watch and chain and other valuables from victim's pocket."

"View of murdered man, showing cord around his neck."

"View of woman standing in stream in nude condition. One far-off view is permitted."

"Sub-title, 'The Common Law is my motto. When I tire of one there is always another. But marriage, no.'"

"Scene showing tramp stealing watch from man's pocket."

"All attempts to kiss after his kisses become objectionable and lascivious. Cut to time husband enters room."

"Scene of man giving girl hypodermic injection in the arm."

"Scene of crook chauffeur stealing jewels from automobile. Cut from time he is seen entering garage until seen going down the road."

"Reduces the extreme near view of chorus girl sitting in front of glass, where she begins to disrobe to flash of three feet."

"Subtitle, 'Once and For All—If You Want a Child You Can Adopt One.'"

"Scenes showing man collecting protection money from woman."

"Action of waitress extracting wallet from diner at table in cafe."

"Visionary scene of man adjusting noose and black cap over youth's head."

"Two views showing —— tied to railroad track. This will allow view where man is seen carrying her on track and view showing her falling between ties just before train passes over her."

"Scene where —— is shown entering office for purpose of robbing safe. Cut from time he approaches safe up to time he is leaving office."

"Near view of Diamond Daisy sticking ring under edge of show case, with aid of chewing gum."

Mastbaum Banquet Briefs.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Harry Knapp, the veteran dramatic editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, spoke as the dean of the Philadelphia newspaper men. He pointed out that 90 per cent. of the press matter submitted to the daily papers finds its way into the waste basket because most of it is crudely prepared or unsuitable to the needs of the particular paper to which it is submitted, and also because most producers failed to pursue the liberal advertising methods of S. V. Mastbaum.

Abe L. Einstein, the untiring press representative of the Stanley Company, is credited with completing the many arrangements necessary to make the affair a success. He personally did everything but cook the dinner.

Mr. Mastbaum was so moved by the presentation of a massive loving cup as a tribute from the new association that he almost forgot some of the most telling points of the speech which he had prepared.

Souvenirs in the shape of a silver and ivory calender of novel design were presented to every guest.

The funniest speech was made by Siegmund Lubin, who surpassed his usual good form as a raconteur and was looking younger than ever.

Jules Mastbaum paid a handsome tribute to the fidelity of the Stanley Company employes.

The dinner is to be repeated next year. The guests voted for it unanimously.

Gershom B. McIntosh Dies.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Gershom B. McIntosh, the highly esteemed proprietor of the Eureka theater, 40th and Market streets, died on Sunday evening, December 3rd, at his residence here, from uraemic poisoning. Exhibitors who were intimate with the late Mr. McIntosh unite in speaking highly of him as a man and as a showman. He was successful as an exhibitor, and was doing a flourishing business, which Mrs. McIntosh, his widow, will continue.

Local 307 Installs Officers.

Philadelphia, Pa.—William Smith, of the Nicholas Power Co., and a member of New York Local No. 306, was the honored guest of Philadelphia Local No. 307, on Sunday, December 3. Mr. Smith administered the oath of office to the newly elected officers of the local union. The following were elected: B. F. Bache, president; J. V. Freil, vice-president; J. A. Harris, secretary and treasurer; W. G. Murray, recording and corresponding secretary; Louis Krouse, business agent. All were re-elected unanimously with the exception of Mr. Friel, who won a closely contested campaign for the office.

A. B. C. Theater Has a New Name.

Philadelphia, Pa.—E. Warren Smith, who has been manager of the A. B. C. theater, at 33rd and Chestnut streets, has leased the house from E. Spencer Harvey and changed the name to the Chestnut Street theater. He is now running a high class program at a 15 cent admission.

Hotel's Menu Cards Carry Programs.

Philadelphia, Pa. — Donald Allen, the out-of-town booker for Paramount, returned from his last trip up state with no less than eleven contracts. While stopping at the Fort Durkel hotel, at Wilkes Barre, Pa., he arranged to have the attractions at the leading local theaters printed on the bottom of the hotel's menu cards. Results are reported good.

Capital City Exchange Problems

Inefficient Express Service Between Washington, D. C., and Points in Surrounding Territory Discussed at Meeting—Night Pick-Ups Wanted—Express Company Employs Use of Film Left in Their Care—Other Notes.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Inefficient express service between Washington and points in Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina and West Virginia, the territory served by the local exchanges, was the principal subject of discussion at the regular meeting of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association, held at the National Press Club. It was pointed out that the facilities afforded the exchanges at the present time by the express companies are not sufficient to give that measure of service to the exhibitor that is desired, and George M. Mann of the Famous Players; Sidney B. Lust, of the New Film and Clara Kimball Young corporations, and George R. Mayo, of the Hy Art Masterplays, were appointed as a committee to take up a number of matters with the heads of the express companies in this city.

It is the desire of the exchange managers that they be accorded a midnight pick-up service. The claim has been made by the express people here that there is no city that has any such service as this, although those present at the meeting told of instances to the contrary. R. Berger, of the K-E-S-E exchange, told of the benefits that would be derived if the companies would pick up Southern shipments late at night. It is felt that the general growth of the business has been such as to make the installation of a night pick-up a necessity. George Mann told of many instances wherein the express companies have made charges at both ends of the line and have not made good the overcharge. This, he said, is against the Interstate Commerce law. A number of those present signified their intention of furnishing Mr. Mann with records of similar cases applying to their exchanges.

Do Express Co. Employes Use Film?

Another interesting matter which affects both exchangemen and exhibitors alike is a practice complained of at the meeting indulged in by at least one express agent, that of using films shipped to him C. O. D., and reporting back that the shipment had not been lifted. It seems that several of the exchangemen have been bilked in this manner. They can check up the occurrences because in each case two or three of the shipments were not lifted, and upon looking at the film it was readily discernible that it had been run through a machine. To be positive that such a condition existed, one of the managers pasted seals on the film bands of two or three reels of each shipment. When the shipment came back "C. O. D. Not lifted," it was found that the seals had been broken. It was pointed out at the meeting that such things as these are responsible for greatly increased overhead costs, all of which must be made up in equally increased charges to exhibitors, and that by getting the overhead down to a very low minimum lower rentals could be charged.

Pick-Ups During Day.

Later in the evening Mr. Mann, on behalf of his committee, stated that a number of constructive matters would be taken up with the companies, and one of these would have to do with pick-ups during the day. He said that the managers could not afford to leave shipments in their offices until late in the evening, when the express companies would send a single wagon between 4 and 5.30 o'clock with the expectation that all of the exchanges could be taken care of and the films taken to the depot platform, billed and put on the seven o'clock express for the South. As a result of this action on the part of the express companies, it was declared, in many instances shipments were left over to go on the later train. The committee was requested to urge upon the companies the necessity for better service in this respect.

Another matter to be forcibly brought to their attention is the delays incident to the payment of C. O. D.'s. The exchange managers have many grievances, and these they are going to take up with the hope of having them settled for all time, that so many petty annoyances may not arise in the future.

These very interesting discussions were held at the conclusion of a very elaborate spread in the grill room of the club. J. H. Butner presided and there were in attendance the managers of all the leading exchanges.

G. F. Stenz Takes Back Theater.

Washington, D. C.—George F. Stenz will hereafter conduct the Hippodrome theater, at 808 K street, northwest, himself. Mr. Stenz, who controls the property, has of recent years been subletting the house. The most recent tenant was G. C. Bates, for whom Billie Airey was the manager.

Alhambra Closes.

Washington, D. C.—The Alhambra theater, on Seventh street, northwest, near F street, has been closed down for repairs. This house has been under the management of Franklin C. Jackson. No statement has been made as to when the theater will be reopened.

Cincinnati Exchange Men Elect

New Organization of Local Exchange Managers Has Chosen Permanent Officers for Year—President Is W. C. Bachmeyer; Corresponding Secretary, S. W. Hatch, and the Managing Secretary Is H. Serkowich.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CINCINNATI, O.—The new organization of film exchange men, recently perfected through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, has now elected permanent officers, as follows: President, W. C. Bachmeyer, Famous Players; vice-president, W. S. Wessling, Pathe; second vice-president, C. E. Holah, International; corresponding secretary, S. W. Hatch; treasurer, I. W. McMahan, McMahan & Jackson; managing secretary, H. Serkowich, Chamber of Commerce. The Associated Film Exchanges, as the organization is known, comprises practically every exchange in the city, and is one of the few such organizations in the country, if not the only one. A substantial constructive program on behalf of moving pictures in general is being planned, and promises much for the future of pictures in Cincinnati and elsewhere.

Local Society Shows Red Cross War Film.

Cincinnati, O.—Cincinnati society women broke into the exhibition field—moving picture exhibition, that is—temporarily, recently, when they took charge of pictures entitled "Our American Boys in the European War," and showed them at Music Hall one night for the benefit of the American Ambulance Corps in Europe, regardless of the nation served. The pictures comprised a well-selected group taken on all fronts, and showed strikingly the splendid and dangerous work done by American ambulance men. Many interesting side features added to the attractiveness of the program, and a large crowd attended.

Fine New Theater in Hamilton.

Hamilton, O.—Messrs. John A. Schwalm and John H. Broomhall, of the Jewel Photoplay Company, now operating the Jefferson and Jewel theaters of Hamilton, are planning the construction of one of the handsomest moving-picture houses in Ohio, to be located at Third and Court streets. According to the details made public, the property will be built on a lot 61 by 120 feet, which has been acquired by the company for a reported price of $30,000, and will cost $50,000 or thereabouts. A seating capacity of 1,000 persons is planned, with every possible convenience for patrons, and with decorating and lighting features of unusual beauty and dignity. The house is in no way designed to replace the Jefferson or the Jewel, both of which will still be operated by the company, but is intended to give Hamilton a finer moving picture theater than any it now has, and one which will be second to none anywhere.

Another Colored Man Sues.

Youngstown, O.—A suit similar to that filed recently in another Ohio city on somewhat similar grounds has been entered here by a colored man against the Strand, Youngstown's leading moving-picture house. The plaintiff alleges that he attempted to buy a ticket at the Strand and that he was refused, claiming $5,000 damages to his feelings and otherwise as a result of this cold turndown. His assumption is that the alleged refusal to sell him a ticket was based on his color, although, of course, this was not necessarily the case. At last reports the Strand was not worrying about the matter.

Crowded Houses in Youngstown.

Youngstown, O.—With high pay in the steel mills and other lines of business booming, Youngstown theaters are confronted with more prosperity than they can readily handle, in consequence of which numerous official complaints of overcrowding are being registered. A member of the council recently declared that the city ordinance regulating picture houses is being regularly violated by the blocking of aisles, and now the city fire inspector says that exit lights are not maintained as required by law. The latter condition is being corrected, and the other can be adjusted without much difficulty at any house where it exists, by the simple expedient of keeping people out until they can be seated.

New Faces at Local Paramount.

Washington, D. C.—E. R. Carr, a former newspaper man, is now on the road for the Paramount Pictures Corporation and will travel through the states of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia.

Another addition to the sales force is Elmer Lewis, who is very well known in Washington, having been connected with the General Film for a considerable period of time as booker. Besides being well known, Mr. Lewis is quite popular among the exhibitors with whom he came in contact. He will have a general assignment as roadman.

Julian Eiseman, who was formerly connected with the Hy Art Masterplays Company, and who was at one time with the General Film Co., has been appointed booker at the local Paramount exchange.

James R. Brown, who was formerly an exhibitor in Bluefields, W. Va., will hereafter handle the publicity department at the Paramount exchange.

Stephen Eilbacher Managing Princess Theater.

Washington, D. C.—Stephen Eilbacher, who for several years has been an usher at the Princess theater, at Eleventh and H streets, Northeast, has been appointed manager of that house, succeeding Richard Waldron, who formerly looked after its interests.

Pathe Exchange to Move Into New Quarters

Manager D. F. O'Donnell Will Have Greatly Increased Facilities for Business—Will Be on Sixth and F Streets.

Washington, D. C.—Greatly increased facilities will be afforded Pathe, Inc., when the new quarters at Sixth and F streets, northwest, become available, according to Manager D. F. O'Donnell, in making the announcement of the proposed move to the Washington correspondent of the Moving Picture World.

In the first place, Mr. O'Donnell points out, the F street building comes within the requirements of the proposed regulations promulgated by Fire Marshall Nicholson, and the possibilities of another film building being erected are, in his estimation, small. The floor space now occupied in the Bank of Commerce and Savings building, at Seventh and E streets, is entirely inadequate, and the rooms are too badly separated to afford proper convenience.

The Pathe company will occupy the entire second floor of the building, the first floor of which is occupied by the K-E-S-E company. They will have a frontage of 18 feet on the F street side, and the floor runs back more than 100 feet on the Sixth street side. This is a "daylight" building of the most approved type, for there are windows all along both sides.

The new quarters will prove to be a great improvement over those now occupied.

Metro Players Visit Roanoke Theater.

Roanoke, Va.—Manager E. D. Harris, of the American-Jefferson and Roanoke theaters, writes of a visit of three leading picture players to his theater while the Metro "Romeo and Juliet" was being shown. Mr. Harris' own words have a ring of sincerity that shows the pleasure the visit gave him. They couldn't be improved on.

"As a news item I want to say that Miss Beverly Bayne, Miss Helen Dunbar and Mr. Francis X. Bushman paid us a very kind visit on Monday at the showing of their "Romeo and Juliet," and we played to packed houses at $1 admission. They are very fine folks and we enjoyed their short stay. They, too, had a good time and made a most favorable impression on the people. Every one immensely enjoyed their presence in this, the best town in the world. Mr. Bushman was born in Norfolk, Virginia, and this added to the affair. It was a rare treat and one that we will never forget. Will you kindly mention this as I know they will appreciate a few words about their visit."

Fox Feature Scores at the Pitt

Pittsburgh Gives a Brilliant Audience to See "The Honor System"—Many Notables Among Those Present—The Picture's Humanity Grips the House in Marked Way—Music and Score That Goes with the Picture.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—The premier of William Fox's stirring photodrama of prison reform, "The Honor System," was given at the Pitt theater, Pittsburgh, on Tuesday evening, December 5. Never did a larger or more appreciative audience greet a film production anywhere. The spacious theater was packed to the doors and hundreds of people were turned away. A brilliant assemblage occupied the boxes. Among the notables present were Oliver Morosco, Mary Roberts Rinehart, the novelist; Earl Carrol, the composer; Warden Frances, of the Western Penitentiary, and many leading clergymen and educators. Samuel Kingston and John Zanft were present, representing the Fox Film Corporation.

From the first unfolding of the play the audience displayed a keen and breathless interest and was swayed alternately by the master strokes of comedy and tragedy throughout the production. While the basis of the story is prison reform, "The Honor System" contains more than enough sustained romantic threads and human touches to balance the propaganda side. Humanity and the under-dog scored heavily and continuously; tears were in evidence all over the house, and spontaneous applause greeted the smashing events that followed each other in rapid succession.

A highly effective feature of the presentation was the accompaniment supplied by the Pitt theater orchestra of forty musicians and the Hope-Jones organ. The musical score of "The Honor System" was arranged by William More Patch, manager of the Pitt, and affords a perfect setting for the picture. The entire score of Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" was re-orchestrated for Mr. Patch by Carl Bernthaler, conductor of the orchestra, who also composed a delightful theme used in the first part.

The ten-reel production, which is founded on the novel of Henry Christian Warnack, divides itself into three parts, the first two parts containing three episodes and the last part two episodes. The first part embraces some wonderful scenic effects, having been taken in southern Arizona and northern Mexico. The second and third parts show the vast contrast between prison conditions under the old regime and the new character-building "honor system." The prison scenes were photographed in the Arizona State Penitentiary.

Manager Patch, of the Pitt theater, commenting on "The Honor System," said: "The entire subserviance of the propaganda to the dramatic interest and the inimitable combination of pathos, humor and thrills, makes 'The Honor System' positively the greatest picture I have ever shown. The production contains all the elements which appeal most strongly to every theatergoer. The enthusiastic manner with which Pittsburgh has received 'The Honor System' augurs well for an extended run here and a sweeping success wherever it is shown."

Chris Peterson Burned to Death.

Tamaqua, Pa. — Members of the Exhibitors' League and the Pennsylvania film trade in general were shocked to learn of the tragic death of Chris Peterson, owner and manager of the Family theater, at Tamaqua, Pa., on November 30. Mr. Peterson was trapped in a fire at his theater and died as the result of the burns he sustained. It is said that he returned to the burning building to save some films. He was forty-two years old. Mr. Peterson was one of the most prominent and esteemed exhibitors in the state and was an energetic leader in organization work. During the past year he had succeeded in forming an organization of the exhibitors in Tamaqua and surrounding towns and was head of that local. He was president of the Peterson Amusement Company and a pioneer in the exhibiting field.

Supreme Photoplay Productions a New Name.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—General Manager Harry F. Grelle, of the Supreme Feature Film Service, with offices in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Kansas City, has announced that the name of his firm will be changed to the Supreme Photoplay Productions. The old name is discarded as being misleading, in that the company offers no regular film service, but handles only feature productions, with no regular dates of release.

George C. Wilson, one of the backers of the Supreme exchange, visited Mr. Grelle in Pittsburgh recently. In addition to his other interests, Mr. Wilson is an exhibitor of note, operating theaters at Tyrone, Pa., and Baltimore, Md., and is a well-known producer of films.

J. K. Greir Representing Pathe.

Altoona, Pa. — J. K. Greir, formerly with the Cleveland office of the Triangle and who joined the Pittsburgh forces of Pathe recently, has been placed in charge of the Altoona territory. A largely attended trade showing of the great Pathe serial, "Pearl of the Army," was given at the Olympic, Altoona, on December 1, and was received with much enthusiasm. On November 29 the exhibitors of Johnstown, Pa., witnessed a showing of the serial at the Majestic theater. Excellent bookings of "Pearl of the Army" have been made throughout this territory, Manager Fuller of the Pittsburgh office reports.

Harrison W. Johnson Joins "U" Forces.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pittsburgh office of the Universal has added to its road forces Harrison W. Johnson, a film salesman of ability and wide experience. Mr. Johnson was formerly connected with the local Pathe exchange, covering Altoona and th surrounding territory.

Liberty Film Gets Christie Comedies.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Liberty Film Renting Company, 938 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., has secured the Christie Comedies for western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and Manager Silverman reports excellent bookings on same. C. H. Christie, business manager of the Christie Film Company, was in Pittsburgh recently to close the deal.

H. Marcus Again Locates Here.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—H. Marcus, formerly in the film business in Pittsburgh, has again located here, handling "Civilization" in this territory, with headquarters in the Liberty Film exchange. Some nice bookings of the big production are reported by Mr. Marcus.

"War Brides" Opens at Duquesne Theater

Selznick Feature with Nazimova Begins at One of Pittsburgh's Legitimate Theaters in the Cort Chain—May Show Way for Other Features.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The Duquesne theater, Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., recently taken over by John Cort as a new link in his chain of Cort theaters throughout the country for the staging of legitimate dramas, on December 4 opened a limited engagement of the superb Selznick picture, Herbert Brenon's "War Brides," featuring Mme. Nazimova. While this film offering by the Duquesne does not mark a permanent departure from the original policy of the house under Mr. Cort's management, it is an important step toward the occasional presentation of notable pictures such as the one now being given its premier run in this city. Capacity audiences have greeted the production twice daily and registered enthusiastic approval. An orchestra of thirty trained musicians is supplying a perfect accompaniment to the eight stirring reels. Indications are that a record attendance will continue throughout the run, which will probably extend over two weeks.

Kane's Star Theater Changes Hands.

Kane, Pa.—The Star theater, Kane, Pa., formerly owned by H. E. Brown and for the past few months under the active management of H. M. Reed, has been taken over by a company recently formed and known as the Star Theater Company, backed by prominent men of the town. It is the intention of the new owners to make no immediate change in policy. Mr. Frank D. Evans, one of the promoters, will assume the management of the Star, while Miss Florence Gaylord, former treasurer, will have charge of the lesser details.

Mr. Brown, who is one of the oldest and best known exhibitors in Northwestern Pennsylvania, has announced no definite plans for the future, but his intention is to look for a larger house in a larger city. Mr. Reed is considering an offer whereby he will take over the management of a house in Pittsburgh.

League Books Hygiene Lectures.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Dr. B. H. Jones, of Pittsburgh, a prominent figure in the recent fight against the infantile paralysis quarantine in Pennsylvania and New York and who represented the interests of the exhibitors at Harrisburg last August, opened a series of four free lectures in the Allegheny High School auditorium December 7, under the auspices of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Pennsylvania. Dr. Jones is carrying on an educational campaign against epidemics and diseases, urging precautions that will prevent them by simple sanitary and hygienic means. Moving picture men throughout the Pittsburgh district are displaying much interest in Dr. Jones' work, in so far as it is aimed at the obnoxious quarantine regulations of the health authorities and a possible repetition of the quarantine next summer. Exhibitors are advertising the lectures by slides and posters and many exhibitors are attending. It is planned to extend the lecture throughout the state.

H. C. Berger to Manager Poster Co.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Poster Company, 804 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, well-known poster and mounting concern, has announced a change in its organization, with the retirement of A. G. Bowers from the firm. A. L. Harmon has purchased the interest of Mr. Bowers. H. C. Berger, a prominent film man, has taken over the management of the business.

R. J. Kinder Joins Local Bluebird.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—R. J. Kinder, a well-known film man, has joined the Pittsburgh office of the Bluebird as special representative. He will handle exclusively the new Bluebird special production, "The Eagle's Wings," in this territory.

Sothern Sees "An Enemy to the King."

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Between Saturday midnight and 1.30 o'clock Monday morning, November 26, a private exhibition of the Vitagraph production, "An Enemy to the King," featuring E. H. Sothern and Edith Storey, was presented at the Cameraphone Theater, East Liberty, to an audience which included Mr. Sothern, Miss Virginia Hammond, Margaret Dale and other members of the "If I Were King" company which had just closed its appearance at the Alvin Theater. Manager H. B. Kester of the Cameraphone arranged the unique showing for the benefit of the celebrated star, prior to the highly successful run of the picture December 6 to 9. Mr. Sothern was enthusiastic concerning "An Enemy to the King" and predicted that it would prove a greater success than his first production, "The Chattel."

IN BUFFALO, N. Y.

New Theater Hereabouts.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Baker theater, Rochester, has reopened. The Savoy of that city is now under the management of N. Panzarello. The Jefferson theater, Buffalo, has reopened under the management of John Harrington. Manager Nowak recently reopened the Globe theater, this city.

Short Changing in Tax Tickets

Ontario Exhibitors Are Finding No Balance in Their Tax Accounts—Patrons Buy the Right Government Tickets at the Window But Switch a Lower Denomination to the Doorman—A Week's Tax in One Theater.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerard St., E., Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, ONT.—According to the statements of a prominent Toronto theater manager, a number of local exhibitors have made the discovery that some theater patrons have been short-changing the box offices in the matter of war tax. The act, intentional or otherwise, has resulted in losses to the theaters because the financial returns to the government must correspond with the number and value of all tickets sold. It seems that some people have acquired the habit of offering war tax tickets of lower denomination than should accompany the admission tickets. In the invariable rush at the theater entrances, the doorkeeper or ticket-taker has accepted the tax tickets as offered and has seldom taken time to figure out whether the correct tax is being paid.

It is difficult to work the game at a theater where one price of admission is charged, because the amount of the tax would be the same in every individual case. In the downtown houses, where the admissions range from 10c. to 50c., the "short-changing" is apt to be pulled off, it is declared.

It is pointed out that many door men are inclined to take all war tax tickets as they come, believing that the employe at the wicket has issued the correct tickets. Mistakes may be made sometimes, to the detriment of the house, but it is believed that some patrons switch the government tickets between the box office and the door.

This matter is one feature which government officials are considering in connection with possible changes in the Amusement Tax Act next February. The details of the "game" are given here so that exhibitors generally can take note and govern themselves accordingly.

An indication of the manner in which the amusement tax is pouring into the provincial treasury is gained from the fact that one theater recently turned over to the government almost $750 as the tax receipts for the six days of one week.

Buffalo Screen Club for Sunday Shows

Its Influence will be Exerted in Favor of Sunday Opening of Picture Shows—Notes of Interest on the Coming Screen Ball.

By Joseph A. McGuire, 5 Lewis place, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The Buffalo Screen Club will devote a powerful influence in favor of Sunday shows. Under the direction of President Christoffers, the club is conducting a successful membership campaign. At a recent meeting the names of fifteen members were presented.

The club had a successful housewarming for the members and their friends Saturday evening. Refreshments were served and there was a special program of music and dancing. James K. Morgan, manager of the Pathe exchange, Buffalo, announces that Pearl White will probably be among the screen stars at the club's ball at the Elmwood music hall January 29. Recent visitors at the club rooms were: Emmett Cornell, of the Eckle theater, Syracuse; George Flaherty, Grand theater, Batavia; F. F. Hartich, Syracuse, manager of the V-L-S-E; Messrs. Shapiro and Wernick of the Rogson Film Company, Buffalo, and J. E. McAuley, Motiograph representative.

For Special Children's Shows.

Lockport, N. Y.—The pastors of Catholic and Protestant churches have endorsed from the pulpits the Mothers' Study Club special moving picture matinees on Saturday mornings for the children of that city. The first show was recently given in the Temple theater, which was donated by Manager H. F. Thurston. The club objects to the themes of any of the current films.

Wurlitzer Co. Adding to Plant.

Martinsville, N. Y.—The Rudolph Wurlitzer Manufacturing Company, makers of pianos for moving picture theaters and other purposes has broken ground for another addition to its plant at Martinsville, N. Y., near North Tonawanda, N. Y. The new building will be a fireproof structure, 80 by 1,915 feet and will be one-story high.

Local Exchange Notes.

A screening of a few episodes of "The Secret Kingdom," a new Vitagraph serial, took place at the Palace theater, Buffalo, Tuesday evening. Several exchange men and exhibitors witnessed the showing and expressed the opinion that the serial has been produced with the usual Vitagraph excellence. The screening was in charge of F. F. Hartich, Syracuse manager of the Vitagraph-V-L-S-E, Inc.

The Rogson Film Co., Buffalo, has the New York State rights on the feature "How Molly Made Good."

James K. Morgan, manager of the Pathe Exchange, Buffalo, recently mailed to the exhibitors in this territory red, white and blue announcements of Pathe's new serial, "Pearl of the Army," featuring Pearl White.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Julius Schwall has been appointed Buffalo representative of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay, with offices in the Palace theater building. His road representative is Homer Howard.

Julius Schwall to Represent K-E-S-E.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Julius Schall has been apointed Buffalo representative of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essany, with offices in Palace theater building. His road representative is Homer Howard. Mr. Schwall was formerly in the New York office of William E. Raynor of the Kleine.

Officers of New Regal Films, Ltd.

Toronto, Ont.—The personnel of Regal Films, Limited, new distributors in Canada for World Pictures Brady-Made, has been disclosed. The president of the company, whose headquarters are at 37 Young street East, Toronto, is E. L. Ruddy who also controls the Regent theater, Toronto's new half-million dollar house. The vice-president is J. P. Bickell, managing director, N. L. Nathanson, who is also interested in the Regent, and A. S. Aronson is secretary. Mr. Ruddy is also at the head of a large bill-posting company.

Announcement is made that one picture will be released each week through Regal Films, Limited, whose capitalization almost hits the $400,000 mark. Exchanges are to be established in St. John, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and one or two other Canadian cities.

C. B. Price Leaves Mutual.

Toronto, Ont.—The interesting news comes from the Canadian Mutual that C. B. Price, Canadian general manager for the Mutual, has resigned. Mr. Price left Toronto on December 1st for Chicago, where he has entered the employ of Super Pictures, Inc. He has obtained a lucrative and important position with the new company. Mr. Auger, Mutual exchange supervisor, came to Toronto to confer with Price before the latter's departure. Mr. Auger would make no announcement for the present regarding the successor to Price, as the appointment had not been definitely settled.

New Garden Theater to Seat 1,000 Persons

Playhouses and Theaters Ltd. Buys Adjoining Ground to Garden and Will Begin on New House in Spring—General Manager Thaler's Ideas.

TORONTO, ONT.—Further details regarding the purchase of the Garden theater, College and Spadina avenue, Toronto, by Playhouses and Theaters, Limited, indicate the real importance of the transaction. M. J. Thaler, general manager of the company, announces that three adjoining stores to the Garden theater have also been acquired, giving an 84-foot frontage on one of the best business thoroughfares in the city. According to Mr. Thaler, operations will be started in the spring for the erection of a brand new house on the site. The new theater will probably seat about one thousand persons, and will be exactly double the size of the present house.

Thaler's company also controls the College playhouse, two blocks away, which has a seating capacity of about 500, and the Dundas playhouse, which seats 580. Mr. Thaler follows the open-market policy in arranging bookings for his theaters.

Mr. Thaler also has a formidable idea for the Moving Picture Exhibitors' Association of Ontario which would, if adopted, make the association a rather powerful factor in film circles. He advocates the appointment of an official by the association, whose duty it would be to view all releases at first run houses or at private trade shows and to submit a neutral report regarding each picture to all members of the organization. He has brought his plan to the attention of the association.

Indianapolis Tries Sunday Law

Arrests Made of Eighteen Persons Connected with the Park Theater for "Following Their Usual Vocation on Sunday"—Move Not Asked for by Churches—Picture Men Are Much Interested in Outcome of Case.

By Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Indianapolis theaters, including the motion picture and vaudeville houses as well as legitimate playhouses, which give performances on Sundays, have been called upon to defend their practice in the courts. The first trial in a test case involving the legality of the Sunday theater will be begun at once and will be concluded when that right has been proved or disproved clearly.

The legal mills were set in motion on the case Sunday, when Constables M. D. Moss and H. B. Miller, from the justice court of T. Ernest Maholm, arrested managers, actors and attaches at the Park theater just after matinee performance being given by Thurston, magician, had been begun. The process of the performance was not interrupted nor was the evening performance called off.

Eighteen persons, all connected with the theater, were arrested on charges of "following their usual vocation on Sunday." Shafer Zeigler, manager of the theater, said he was at a loss to know just why the constables had selected the Park as their prey but intimated that theater managers were aware that some such move was to be expected soon. He said the Theater Managers' Association of the city will back the fight against Sunday closing.

A. C. Zaring, secretary of the Motion Picture Exhibitors Association of the city, said that although he is particularly interested in the outcome of the case, the vaudeville and playhouse managers were not included in their association and that his organization had not as yet received any call upon it to support a test case.

City and county officials professed complete ignorance of any campaign against open theaters on Sunday. Alvah J. Rucker, prosecuting attorney, said he had given no thought to the case, was not sure that violations of the law had been made, but that if there were it would be his duty to take up the fight.

The Rev. Morton C. Pearson, secretary of the Indianapolis Church Federation, declared that the federation was not the instigator of the arrest and had taken no part recently in any move of that kind.

Mayor Won't Interfere With Sunday Shows.

Mayor Joseph E. Bell said that the theaters that keep open on Sunday need fear no interference from him as long as their performances are not immoral. Justice Maholm and his constables declared that there were no outside influences back of the arrests but that the officers were actuated solely by principles of law and order enforcement.

Several years ago motion picture houses of the city banded together to give a part of their Sunday receipts to charitable purposes. They did this, it is said, to operate under a provision of the Sunday law which exempts persons engaged in charity work on Sunday from coming under its provision. Other theaters of the city soon united in the plan and Mayor Bell was asked to appoint a committee to care for a fund created by the contributions and to disburse it for relief of the needy. Since the operation of the theaters under this provision, no test of the soundness of their promises has been made until the present action.

The money donated by the theaters has ranged from $3 to $10 a Sunday, according to the size of the playhouses. Mayor Bell declares it is one of the most available funds in the city for persons in immediate need of assistance.

Steam Radiator Ignites Film.

Indianapolis, Ind.—A reel of motion picture film that had been placed behind a steam radiator caused a small fire Monday night in the headquarters of the Motion Picture Machine Operators Union, on the fourth floor of the When building. The flames ate through the floor and spread to two adjoining rooms before firemen extinguished them. The loss was $200.

Loebs to Build New Theater.

Lafayette, Ind.—Solomon Loeb and J. Loeb, owners of a large dry goods store in this city, have announced that they will build a handsome new theater building at Sixth and Main streets. The new building will be a six-story structure and will cost approximately $150,000. It is to be erected on the site of the old Second Presbyterian church, which for the last twelve years has been used as a vaudeville theater. The new theater will fill a vacancy resulting from the destruction of the Dryfus theater by fire nearly three years ago. The Columbia Amusement Company, which also controls the Family theater, will manage the new house.

New Theaters and Changes.

Garrett, Ind.—Peter F. Beehler, formerly of Goshen, has bought the Alva C. Widmer building in this city for $10,000. The deal included the Royal theater, a motion picture house, on the first floor of the building. Raymond Beehler, a son of the new proprietor, will have full charge of the theater.

Upland, Ind.—George Snyder has sold his motion picture show to C. A. Wagoner, of Muncie. Mr. Wagoner will move his family to Upland and will take charge of the theater at once.

Warsaw, Ind.—The Widaman-McDonald theater, Warsaw's pretty new motion picture house, which was opened recently to the public, has received its christening. Hereafter the theater will be known as "The Centennial."

Logansport, Ind.—Edward F. Galligan, manager of the Nelson theater in this city and also a theater in Terre Haute, has moved his family to Terre Haute. Miss Alice Galligan, his sister, will remain in Logansport and act as manager of the Nelson.

Kendallville, Ind.—George Mager has sold the Princess, a moving picture theater, which he had owned for the last six months, to Emery W. Hoover, of Attica, Ind.

New Fort Wayne Theater Company.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—The Palace Theater Company, of this city, has filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state to engage in the motion picture and theatrical business. The capital stock is announced at $75,000. The directors are F. E. Strouder, J. E. DeWald and Ralph L. MaGee.

Vincennes, Ind. — The Grand opera house, one of the oldest legitimate theaters in this section of the state, has been given over entirely to motion pictures. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hawley, who for several years has served the people of Vincennes at the Moon theater, have taken charge of the house under the new conditions. That the patrons will not be annoyed by too much or too little heat the management has installed a new heating system by which the temperature of the house can be regulated with precision. Music at the new house will be furnished by an orchestra under the direction of Louis Jones, a well-known Vincennes musician.

Atlanta News Letter

By A. M. Beatly, 43 Copenhill Ave.

Twenty-One Exchanges in Atlanta.

ATLANTA, GA.—The following is a correct list of Atlanta's exchange colony and locations—In the Hirsh building on Marietta street: Mutual Film Corporation, Famous Players Feature Company, World Film Corporation, Interational Film Service, Scenic Film Company, Feature Photoplay, Colonial Film Corporation, New Film Corporation.

In the Film Exchange building on Walton street: General Film Service, Consolidated Film Corporation, Fox Film Corporation, Vitagraph Company, Triangle Film Corporation, Pathe Exchange, Inc. In the Moore building on Walton street: United Film Company, Unity Film Company, Paramount Film Corporation, Kleine-Selig-Edison-Essanay; Metro Film Corporation, Artcraft Film Corporation, and the Atlanta Film Company, at 147 Auburn avenue.

Tandy and Lynch Take Over the Piedmont.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Piedmont, which has been offering Sullivan-Considine vaudeville and picture attractions, has been taken over by C. E. Tandy and S. A. Lynch.

For a week or so vaudeville will be offered at the house. After that, according to reports, it is proposed to operate the Piedmont as a high-class moving picture theater, with a skilled musical organization in the orchestra pit, and the Triangle and Paramount picture releases.

Easy Money in Bainbridge, Ga.

Bainbridge, Ga.—The faker is ever abroad in good times and in evil ones. The latest is the advertising faker. Smooth talkers have called on merchants in this section and presented a scheme of motion picture advertising that many merchants fell for. They were told that for a small amount 25 feet of animated film would be displayed on the canvas of their local shows, advertising the purchaser's business; that the films would each be different and manufactured in Nebraska. Many tradesmen separated themselves from the required amount of change, and attended the picture shows regularly, awaiting the appearance of the advertising. None appeared. They investigated and found that no such company as the one represented was in existence.

E. Sparks Goes to Jacksonville for S. A. Lynch.

Atlanta, Ga.—E. Sparks, one of Atlanta's moving picture colony, who for the past few months has managed the Georgian theater, is to have charge of the S. A. Lynch Enterprises in Jacksonville. He will retain the management of the Georgian in Atlanta in conjunction with his work here.

Marguerite Clark Stops Over.

Atlanta, Ga.—Marguerite Clark was in Atlanta for a short while Tuesday night, arriving at 7 and leaving at 9.20 for Savannah, where she and her company are to be filmed in "Snow White," a fairy story picture to be released on Christmas day.

But for the inclement weather, Miss Clark would have remained in Atlanta and the picture would have been filmed here, this being the original intention of the little star's director.

Miss Clark was met at the train by C. E. Tandy and Miss Grace Wynden Vail of the Southern Paramount company, who presented the actress with a beautiful bunch of roses.

Letters of welcome from Atlanta convention bureau, Hotel Men's Association, Georgia Hotel Men's Association, Southeastern Fair Association, Atlanta Woman's Club, the Drama League and other organizations were awaiting the popular young lady.

Detroit News Notes

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Washington Theater's New Policy.

DETROIT, MICH.—John H. Kunsky, lessee of the Washington theater, Detroit, announces a complete change of policy. Heretofore, this house has had a policy of pictures for a week with prices at 15 to 25 cents. The new policy calls for indefinite engagements of big pictures with prices ranging from 25 cents to one dollar. "A Daughter of the Gods" is the initial engagement under the new plan, starting Sunday, December 24th. There will be only two performances daily, and seats can be reserved. There will be an increase in the orchestra, and the interior decorations. Following this spectacular William Fox production will come "The Honor System," another Fox special feature, after which comes "Civilization" for at least four weeks. Mr. Kunsky intends to continue holding the first-run franchise in Detroit on Vitagraph pictures, and will show them at the Liberty theater until the New Madison opens, when they will be transferred to that playhouse.

Majestic Raises Prices Again.

Detroit, Mich.—The Majestic theater, Detroit, announces another increase in prices, making the third time during the current season. The new prices take effect December 24th, and will be 25, 50 and 75 cents. There will be about 1,500 seats at 25 cents, about 500 at 50 cents, while the boxes will be 75 cents. Matinee prices will be the same. M. W. McGee, manager, is increasing the size of the orchestra, and says a number of surprises are in store for Majestic patrons.

Tri-State Film Company Now.

Detroit, Mich. — The Tri-State Film Company is the name under which Art Blankmeyer will operate his franchises on Art Drama productions for Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky. He has opened his Detroit exchange at 120 Broadway. He also has the Christie comedies, which will be sold from the Tri-State exchanges.

Strand Features Moves.

Detroit, Mich.—The Strand Features, formerly at 92 Griswold street, Detroit, has moved to larger quarters at 94 Griswold street. D. Mundstock is the proprietor.

Three Theaters Open This Month.

Detroit, Mich. — Three new theaters will surely open in December. The Rialto, Gratiot and Mt. Elliott avenues, opens December 20th; the Del-The opened December 9th, and the new Catherine will open in December. The Dawn theater, Gratiot and Iroquoise, will also open during the current month, according to Proprietor Neibus.

George Chenet Promoted.

Detroit, Mich.—George Chenet, formerly traveling representative in Michigan for the Fox Film, has been promoted to special representative of the central division, and will hereafter be assistant to Paul C. Mooney, who has been given additional territory to look after.

John H. Kunsky Gets "Crisis" Rights.

Detroit, Mich.—"The Crisis," twelve-reel feature, produced by Selig, has been sold for the state of Michigan to John H. Kunsky, 2206 Dime Bank building, Detroit. This production played two weeks at the Washington theater ending December 9th to tremendous business with prices 25 to 50 cents.

Harry Dull Heads International.

Detroit, Mich.—Harry Dull is the new manager of the Detroit branch of the International Film Exchange.

Milwaukee Exhibitors Reassure the Mayo

Promise to Use No More "Children Not Admitted" or Other Objectionable Signs —No Undesirable Films to Be Shown.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Truthful advertising of moving picture shows was promised at a meeting of forty exhibitors and the committee on motion pictures, held at the mayor's office. On this plan there will be no more "For women only," "For men only," and "Children under 16 not admitted." This applies to newspaper advertising as well as to signs. The standard which was outlined at this meeting, according to G. R. Radley, chairman of the commission, is "that all motion pictures must be morally clean enough to be viewed by the entire family." A motion was offered that no pictures or advertising having sensuous appeal shall be shown, was voted down because such displays are forbidden by ordinances.

Two New Theater Companies.

Madison, Wis.—The secretary of state has granted charters to the Regent Theater Company of Milwaukee, which was organized to conduct a moving picture show. The capital stock of the company is $7,500. Incorporators are: Frank Zeideback, Fred C. Seegert and C. H. Kinneke. The Miller Theater Co. of Milwaukee, also chartered, has been organized to conduct motion picture shows. The capital stock of this company is $10,000. The incorporators are: Frank Saxe, Walter H. Wright, Jr., and Bernard V. Brady.

Censor Petition to Kenosha Mayor.

Kenosha, Wis.—Petitions presented to Mayor Charles H. Pfennig asking for the appointment of a board of review claimed to be representatives of the parents of more than 5,000 children. It is proposed to have the mayor suppress pictures which are unfavorably reported upon

New Wisconsin Theaters and Changes.

Manitowoc, Wis.—Z. G. Stebbins will remodel the Crystal theater next spring. He will move the stage back fifteen feet and add a gallery, thereby increasing the capacity in the house to 1,000.

Racine, Wis.—The manager of the Princess theater at Center and Sixteenth streets has been taken over by Mrs. William J. Wyatt.

Fox Lake, Wis.—The Star theater is now under the management of Henry Fanshaw.

South Dakota Notes.

Watertown, S. D.—Daily changes of program mark the policy of the new Lyric theater, formerly the Idle Hour, which has been re-opened, under the management of McCarthy Brothers, who operate a string of houses in North and South Dakota. J. J. McCarthy, who has been supervising the remodeling, will act as manager.

Parker, S. D.—The Majestic theater, under its new management, will be known as the Fad theater.

Marion, N. D.—The Marion moving picture theater has been opened here.

Belcourt, N. D.—H. T. Senecal has sold his moving picture show to Eugene Couture of St. John.

Illinois News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Auditorium Doesn't Mix Its Shows.

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill.—The Auditorium theater has been opened for a variety of purposes. Pictures will be used Monday and Tuesday evenings and dancing lessons will be given Wednesday evenings, pictures on Thursday and Friday, and vaudeville on Saturday and Sunday.

New Theater at Decatur Opens.

Decatur, Ill.—"The Fall of a Nation" was the opening attraction at the new Avon theater. Prices of 25 and 50 cents were secured, although the house will be conducted with a 10-cent admission. Mayor Dinneen presented the handsome new theater to the city on the opening night.

New Illinois Theaters—Changes.

Quincy, Ill.—P. R. Pinkleman is back in the harness as an exhibitor in Quincy, having purchased the Gem and Savoy theaters. He formerly owned this house, but sold to Anton Padavic. The Triangle program will continue to play an important part in the policy of these two houses.

Chandlerville, Ill.—R. F. Harbison has sold the Pastime theater equipment to W. H. Pilcher, who will operate a theater in the Pilcher building.

Benton, Ill.—Robert Cluster, proprietor of the opera house and Gem theater at Christopher, Ill., has purchased a half interest in the Auditorium theater from F. D. Whittington. George Lampley has been made manager of the local house.

Sorento, Ill.—Emery Johnson and Clyde Denny have opened a moving picture theater in the Springfield building.

Valley City, Ill.—Theo. C. Clark has opened a picture show here.

Danville, Ill.—The Midway theater, on North Vermilion street, has been sold to Hale & Howell, of Chicago. It will be operated as a picture house.

Gardner, Ill.—Mrs. Peart, local exhibitor, gave a patriotic film program to the members of the Woman's Relief Corps and the Grand Army of the Republic. These patriotic societies presented her with a handsome flag.

Galesburg, Ill.—The Empress theater gave a benefit performance for the Lady Vikings, the proceeds going to the poor Swedish children in the city.

IN MICHIGAN.

Butterfield Circuit Notes.

SAGINAW, Mich.—Changes announced by W. S. Butterfield, head of the circuit which bears his name, call for the transformation of the Franklin theater to a moving picture house. In order to make this change the Jeffers-Strand will become a vaudeville house. The pipe organ which has been at the Jeffers theater will be removed to the Bijou theater and a $10,000 unit orchestra will be installed at the Franklin. The program now being given at the Strand will be presented at the Franklin. O. C. Kenkel, present manager of the Franklin will go to the Jeffers-Strand and Joseph Friedman will take charge of the Franklin.

Michigan Jottings.

Albion, Mich.—C. A. Fiske has sold the Censor theater to George Bohm, manager of the Bohm theater. He will continue to operate both houses. The Censor will be a strictly feature house. Bohm's orchestra will be moved to the Censor.

Travers City, Mich.—The board of education has decided to purchase a moving picture outfit and use moving pictures in the school.

Battle Creek, Mich.—The new policy of the Bijou theater, started Dec. 3, includes two changes of Keith vaudeville weekly, leaving Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays for feature moving picture attractions.

D. L. Dennison Visits.

Detroit, Mich.—D. Leo Dennison, manager of exchanges for the Famous Players Film Service, Inc., of Pittsburgh, controlling Michigan business, was in Detroit on December 4 and 5. He stated that a Paramount franchise was very valuable and that exhibitors having same would be mighty glad in view of the big plans of Paramount for the next six months.

Small Village Theaters Should Combine

There Will Be More In It for Both Exhibitors According to Manager Blackburn of Springfield, Tenn.—Fine Small Town Theater.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

SPRINGFIELD, TENN.—Manager C. M. Blackburn, of the Bell theater, here, believes that active competition in a small town is ruinous to both the profits and prestige of the competitors. It was pointed out that with two houses running in close proximity to one another, the patronage was naturally divided, whereas if a combine is made and all the energy required to outbid a rival is concentrated on one of the houses, with a view looking to the utmost efficiency in operation and program service, the results would prove beneficial to both parties. Mr. Blackburn has been a showman at Springfield for the past ten years, and prior to assuming the managership of the Bell he operated the Royal theater, another picture house. However, when he assumed charge of the Bell theater, he closed the Royal, and has been devoting his time to the affairs of the former house.

Mr. Blackburn showed the World man over his theater, which is a handsome new structure of brick, and would indeed be a credit to a town many times the size of Springfield. The seating capacity is about 450, with half the balcony being devoted to colored patronage. The house is lighted by the overhead semi-direct system, and heated by steam. Prices are 10 and 5 cents, with 25 cents for special features. The General program is used, with Paramount specials on Mondays and Thursdays. An occasional road show is billed, the house being provided with an ample stage. Incidentally, Mr. Blackburn took occasion to renew his subscription to the World, which he claims is the best ever.

Nashville Houses Dark Two Hours.

Nashville, Tenn.—Simultaneously with the failure of the city electric power plant on December 4th, every moving picture theater in the city went dark, remaining so for a period of two hours. The managers suffered a financial loss, owing to the fact that the breakdown occurred during the noon rush period, when many patrons drop in to spend a rest hour, and also because of its raining at the time, and many willing coins would have found their way to the box offices to afford their owners temporary protection from the inclement weather.

Tony Sudekum's Thanksgiving Treat.

Nashville, Tenn.—In keeping with his generous policy, President Tony Sudekum of the Crescent Amusement Co. arranged for moving pictures at both the State Penitentiary and the Boys' Reformatory on Thanksgiving day, and put on a good show at each place for the entertainment of the inmates. Last year Mr. Sudekum rigged up a complete motion picture outfit for the projection of pictures at these two institutions at his own expense, and from time to time these complimentary shows will be given. Whenever there is an act of charity to be carried out, this progressive theater man may be depended upon for a stand in the front ranks.

Tennessee Notes.

Nashville, Tenn.—Byron S. Bryan, special traveling representative of the International Film Service, came up from the Atlanta office recently, and closed bookings with the Strand Theater for "Patria," the serial photoplay starring Mrs. Vernon Castle. The first installment is billed for showing at the Strand on December 11.

Nashville, Tenn.—Theater men enjoyed one of the most prosperous days in the history of Nashville on Thanksgiving, every house in the city showing to capacity business throughout the day. Many theaters were unable to accommodate the crowds with seats, and the S. R. O. sign was in evidence in many places.

Nashville, Tenn.—"Gloria's Romance" has been booked for another run in Nashville by the Crescent theater. The Knickerbocker only recently showed the final chapter of this picture.

Memphis, Tenn.—Beginning November 26th a special ladies' orchestra was provided for the Old Majestic No. 1, which is a novelty for this city. Music for the pictures lends popularity to the features at this theater, which is one of the principal uptown houses.

Full Sunday Houses in Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—A strong argument in favor of the continuance of Sunday moving pictures in Birmingham was offered a few days ago when all records were broken at four of the leading uptown houses in this city. The managers of these houses decided to advertise the programs for that day in the morning newspaper, and the results far exceeded expectations. Managers Sid Griffin, of the Alcazar, Marvin Wise, of the Odeon One, and T. S. Abernathy, of the Strand and Colonial, stated that all attendance records at the four houses mentioned were shattered on that day, which furnished conclusive proof that the public strongly favors the Sunday exhibitions.

New Orleans News Letter

By N. E. Thatcher, 3801 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

Harry M. Owens Busy at Local Triangle.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Harry M. Owens, the new manager of the Triangle exchange who succeeded Nat Ehrlick, upon his resignation to take the management of the Isis theater, is getting the detail of his office well in hand and there is a decided air of sprightliness about the local headquarters of this popular service. Mr. Owens is a believer in the use of the latest efficiency methods and he has the faculty of inspiring those who are engaged with him with the enthusiasm that goes to put over any deal that is to the advantage of the home office, no matter how difficult that deal may appear to be. The Triangle service has an excellent reputation in this territory and Manager Owens is extremely anxious to make that reputation still better. C. E. Tandy, who now has control of the Triangle along with the Paramount and the World for this territory, was here a few days ago and was liberal in his praise for the manner in which the business of the three local exchanges in which he is interested is being conducted.

Henry M. Owens.

Star Theater Changes Hands.

New Orleans, La.—The Star theater, one of the best of the suburbans in the better locations in the residence districts has been sold by Rose & Goodnow to Messrs. Chisholm and Reinhard, who assumed the management on December 1. The Star seats nearly 500 persons and is one of the best equipped show houses off Canal street, having modern opera chairs and all of the mechanical appliances for the presentation of the best features.

Potatoes for Orphans Good as Tickets.

New Orleans, La.—The Pearce syndicate conceived a novel method of doing a most charitable act and of incidentally adding, if such a thing be possible, to the already wide popularity of the gentlemen composing it in connection with the city's Thanksgiving festivities. New Orleans has several orphan asylums and there are a large number of inmates in each of them. The high cost of living has made the feeding of these little unfortunates a problem and one of the most costly articles of diet just now is potatoes. Of course, potatoes are not essential to the sustenance of human life, but whoever heard of a Thanksgiving dinner with its turkey and chicken, without great mounds of mashed potatoes?

'Gene Pearce was telling Jack Clark, his leading man, that it began to look a little tough for the kiddies this year and that set Jack to thinking. When Jack Clark thinks it is pretty certain that something is going to happen. And in this case it did. First Jack got some empty barrels. The rest was easy. He announced that from 12 to 2 o'clock on Wednesday preceding Thanksgiving a single potato would be accepted in full payment for admission to any one of the seven Pearce photoplay theaters and that the potatoes would go to furnish the inmates of the orphan asylums with mashed potatoes for their Thanksgiving dinner. New Orleans people are proverbially good feeders. They not only insist upon being well fed themselves, but they want everybody else to be properly nourished. It is easy, therefore, to imagine the result of the offer to accept potatoes in payment for admissions. It seems that the whole town turned out to get rid of the tubers. The barrels were soon filled and yet there was an abundance of offerings. It was a great day and a great idea. No one had any more fun out of it than did the Pearce forces and it made it certain that the little tots should not be stinted in their Thanksgiving feast.

Selecting Musicians for Strand.

New Orleans, La.—Don Philippini, the noted Italian band and orchestra leader, in company with Manager E. V. Richards of the Saenger Amusement Company of Shreveport, which has taken the lease of the new Strand theater, is now in New York and is selecting the musicians who are to compose the permanent orchestra which is to be installed at the Strand when that theater is opened in the latter part of February.

During his New York sojourn, Don Philippini will make a special study of motion picture music and will acquaint himself with all of the latest innovations in that line.

Manager Richards is hoping that the new Strand may be ready for opening in the early part of February and every energy is being exerted to hurry the work as fast as is commensurate with substantial building. The greater part of the structural steel work has already been finished and night and day shifts are engaged in the concrete construction. The people of New Orleans are taking a marked interest in the construction of the new theater for they have the assurance that they are to be provided with the best pictures obtainable when this house is opened.

Local Trade Notes.

New Orleans, La.—Al G. Shear, manager of the Consolidated Film exchange made a trip to Atlanta Dec. 1 to look over the Georgia field and arrange some business matters affecting the New Orleans exchange.

Manager T. O. Tuttle, of the General Film exchange has returned from Memphis, Tenn., where he had been called to install W. P. Haslet, of Philadelphia as branch manager, vice Bert King, resigned. O. K. Bourgeois, manager of The Yellow Menace and the Unity Film Service of Atlanta was a visitor here.

MORE KANSAS CITY NOTES.

Mrs. J. C. Patterson Addresses Suffragists.

By Kansas City News Service.

Corydon, Ia.—The local Suffrage Club of Corydon, Iowa, at its last meeting was addressed by Mrs. J. C. Patterson, wife of J. C. Patterson of Lugar & Patterson, proprietors of the Auditorium theater at Corydon, which opened up the motion picture industry in a new light to them, and which met with the hearty approval of the ladies present. Mrs. Patterson is quite active in the theater business,

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Patterson.

Louisville Exhibitors Prosper

Exhibitors in the City Find Business Encouraging—Are Being Asked to Show Slides on the High Cost of Living—Employes are Making More Money and Feel Like Seeing Shows—Conditions in the State.

By Ohio Valley News Service, Inc., 1404 Starks Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Although there is much attention being paid in Louisville to the high cost of living and a joint movement is being engineered by women's clubs of that city to boycott butter and eggs at the prevailing high prices, the moving picture theaters have not been referred to as enterprises which are collecting unduly high prices for the service they perform. Without exception downtown theaters and suburban houses alike, when their managers are questioned, report business excellent. This is in spite of the fact that there has lately been a good deal of competition in the way of the stores being open in the evening for the Christmas shopping trade, in the way of an elaborate and successful local observation of America's Electrical Week and a large number of entertainments of various sorts. The food boycott movement is under direction of the Citizens' Cheaper Food Committee, and in some cases moving picture managers are being asked to use slides calling attention to this movement.

One of the reasons why the moving picture theaters are doing well is that increasing numbers of the larger employers of the city are advancing their rates of pay to employes. Advances of 10 per cent. are the rule and the concerns which have made these advances include the largest in the city and this has given their employes reason for cheer and more than their "picture show money."

Out in the state the situation is much the same. The coal mining corporations have granted advances of 10 per cent. to their employes, while in the city and out a good many of the employing corporations are evening things up by granting their employes an additional month's salary on the year. The farmers are exceedingly prosperous and "good times" are ahead in Western Kentucky, where several large tobacco pools have been sold at high prices. The money for these crops will shortly be distributed, after which the western part of the state will be flush and the moving picture theaters as well as all other businesses should flourish.

Danger in Deflecting Street Line.

Louisville, Ky.—Exhibitors on Fourth street in Louisville have been taking much interest in a movement which recently developed in this city to re-route the Fourth street cars so that instead of making the return trip through Fourth street they would be deflected in the downtown part of the city to Fifth street. This would be a serious matter not only to the retail trade which has chosen Fourth street as the important thoroughfare but practically all of the downtown moving picture theaters. They are either all on Fourth street or just around the corner off that street and draw their patronage from that traffic. Louisville's street cars operate on the cross-town system and the Fourth street cars carry practically the whole of the transfer crowds. Immediate opposition to the proposed change in the routing was offered by the Retail Merchants Association, who acted in a body with sufficient force, it is believed, to have killed the project. Property owners, from whom the merchants lease, also endorsed their tenants. L. J. Dittmar, of the Majestic theater, said that the moving picture exhibitors had not been asked to reinforce the merchants, although if their influence is needed they will at once line up against the change.

Walnut Begins Exclusive Feature Policy.

Louisville, Ky. — Joseph L. Steurle, manager of the Walnut theater, secured from the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises the lease for the "War Brides," Nazimova's success. It was put on at the Walnut for a week beginning Sunday, Dec. 10. This picture, according to Mr. Steurle, begins a series of exclusive features which the Walnut will put on. Business has been good at this house, especially when the features of importance have been run, and many times patrons have had to be refused admittance.

Big Features Gets "The Crisis."

Louisville, Ky. — Much has been made in Louisville of the quick acquisition by Col. Fred Levy, of Louisville, of the rights to the Winston Churchill picture, "The Crisis." This was for the Big Feature Rights Corporation, of which Col. Levy is the head, and the deal, which was closed in a few minutes, covers Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Indiana, as well as Kentucky. It is the purpose of Col. Levy to handle "The Crisis" on a big scale and one of the first presentations will be at the Mary Anderson Theater in Louisville. On the road the film will be handled much as was "The Birth of a Nation," and where it is shown the special orchestra which will accompany it will provide the music.

Manager Pedley's Potato Matinee

Owensburg's Grand Theater Has as Grand a Thanksgiving Benefit for Children—Each Puts Potato in Basket—Some Big Tubers.

Owensboro, Ky.—T. A. Pedley, manager of the Grand theater, proved himself a benefactor to 1,250 children, numerous poor people and the local Associated Charities organization when he held an "Irish Potato" matinee at the Grand, admitting only children under fifteen years of age who brought an Irish potato with them, to be deposited at the door. Incidentally, Mr. Pedley got a large amount of free as well as very desirable advertising for himself and the theater and gave some hundreds of children good cause to prefer the Grand to any other theater they can think of.

Announcement of the matinee, which was held on the Wednesday afternoon preceding Thanksgiving day, was made some time in advance and further announcement was to the effect that the child bringing the largest potato would not only be admitted but would be presented with a book of admission tickets. The little miss who won the book brought a potato which weighed one and three-quarter pounds, while there were many noble Murphies tendered by youngsters.

When the theater was filled there were seven heaping bushel baskets at the lobby entrance, and every potato of the ideal size to bake. A wagon carted them with much ceremony to the office of the Associated Charities and baked potatoes then became an immediate possibility on the menu of many a poor Owensboro family. Produce men of the city estimated that the value of these potatoes, at the market price, was $14. At five cents a head 1,250 children would have turned $62.50 into the cash box, but naturally Mr. Pedley does not feel that he has lost any money.

Bad Fire in Stamping Ground, Ky.

Stamping Ground, Ky.—A film in Adams & Jamieson's Orpheum ignited on Saturday night, Dec. 2, and the blaze destroyed the theater. William Adams, one of the proprietors and manager, was operating the film and lost control of it. In trying to put out the blaze before he fled from the operating room he suffered severe burns about the hands and face. There were about 400 people in the theater—a Saturday night crowd—and a disastrous panic was narrowly averted. There was a general scramble for the exits on the cry of "fire," and although people were knocked down and trampled to some extent no one was hurt sufficiently to cause complaint. There was much excitement over the danger of the theatergoers and few realized the rapidity with which the theater was burning until too late to save it. The flames spread rapidly and practically every business structure on Main street was destroyed, the loss amounting altogether to $100,000. The town was without fire protection. Loss suffered by Adams & Jamieson is estimated at $2,000.

The largest staff of experts in all departments makes the MOVING PICTURE WORLD the one paper in the trade that fully fills the requirements of every reader.

Kentucky Notes.

Pikeville, Ky.—J. A. Mauk, proprietor of the Travelers' hotel, has succeeded Warren Beverley as manager of the Royal theater.

Earlington, Ky. — Carl Duncan, of Killbuck, O., has purchased the Queen theater from Dr. J. E. Bailey and has installed a new gold fibre screen and a new Simplex projecting machine.

Middlesboro, Ky.—The New Brownie theater, which has opened its career, featured the opening with an eight-piece orchestra recruited from surrounding cities.

Campbellsville, Ky.—Final details on the New Alhambra theater were pushed through and the new house is now in operation.

Manager Olson Makes Things Hum

Kansas City Local Censorship Situation in Fair Way to Be Cleared Up—E. G. Olson, of Wichita Film and Supply Co., Takes Maze Theater for Showing of Banned, "The Unborn"—Is Arrested Every Now and Then.

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The question of local censorship in Kansas City is going smash! bang! through the courts, as a result of the intrepid action of E. G. Olson, manager of the Wichita Film & Supply Company, who owns the film "The Unborn," in Kansas, Missouri, and some other states. He bought the the lease of the Maze theater, put on the picture after it had been rejected by the local censor board and tne board of appeals, and is said to be prepared to carry his fight as high as necessary. He and his local manager were arrested a total of five times Sunday, December 3, when the picture was first shown; whatever the result of the trials, appeals probably will be taken..

Recent History in Kansas City.

A few days before the present incidents, the censors caused the arrest of managers of houses, film owners and operators, for showing "Purity" and "Protect Your Daughters" without getting the papers of approval from the board of censors. Judge Coon of the city police court fined the men twenty-five dollars a piece, declaring that the ordinance required the censor board to view and pass on the pictures, and it was obligatory on the exhibitors to secure such review. He said he would stand back of F. F. McClure to the limit in the enforcement of the ordinance. The fines were stayed, on the declaration of the men arrested that they were not familiar with the laws.

Judge Coon Reviews "The Unborn."

Shortly afterward "The Unborn," in accordance with the ordinances, was presented to the censors for review; it was condemned by the censors, and was also condemned by the appeal board. The owners had it exhibited, however, in a suburban theater; and they were arrested for showing a picture that had been condemned. The case came before Judge Coon, who then reviewed the picture, and declared that it was clean, and fit to be shown; he decided that the censors and the appeal board had unjustly and improperly condemned it, and he released the defendants. The city appealed to Judge Latshaw of the criminal court.

The consistency of Judge Coon was preserved in these cases. He had in the previous instances insisted that Mr. McClure had a right to demand the showing of the films; that he would fine and punish owners and exhibitors when the ordinance requiring approval by the censors was disregarded; that he wanted to do all he could to keep the character of pictures shown in Kansas City on a high plane, But he decided in the case of "The Unborn" that the picture was not unclean, that the censors were mistaken, and that the exhibitors should have recourse.

Takes the Maze to Show Film.

The appeal of the case concerning "The Unborn" to the criminal court left the question of the right to show it up in the air. Consequently, it was booked for the Maze theater, whose owners had been arrested for showing "Purity" without review. Apparently these owners did not wish further trouble; for they sold their lease on the Maze to Mr. Olson, and he put J. B. Rudolph, who has been handling "The Unborn" in Chicago, and with the Wichita Film & Supply Company, in charge. The picture was booked for Sunday, December 3. The price was twenty-five cents.

At noon Sunday, when the show opened, the arrests began. The owners were arrested first by Mr. Hinson of the censor's department, on the charge of showing a condemned picture; they were released on their own recognizance. Then Mr. Cunningham of the censor's department arrested them on the charge of showing without a license, and they were again released without bond. Hinson attempted to arrest the operator, but instead took into custody Mr. Rudolph, who had argued against the arrest of the operator, who was merely doing what he was hired to do.

Monday, December 4, the men were all discharged by Judge Coon. The license question was disposed of, because the company had bought the lease only Saturday night, and had unsuccessfully tried to secure a license. Judge Coon discharged them on the other counts, because, he said, it looked like a case of spite and persecution against the film men. He said the censor board should wait for the decision of Judge Latshaw in the previous cases involving Judge Coon's right to pass on the character of the pictures and overrule the censors.

Sensations the Cause of the Trouble.

There are two or three other aspects of the local situation, that will undoubtedly appeal to exhibitors elsewhere who find parallels to their own situations. One is, that the trouble has largely been precipitated by the exploiting of the sensational character of the films. Heretofore, many pictures quite as sensational have been passed, but they have not been advertised sensationally.

The attitude of the "Kansas City Star," a local newspaper which refused some of the copy of "The Unborn," which was run in other papers, is indicative of the situation. The "Star" is said to have retorted that it was not judging the quality of the film, as to whether it was fit to be seen or not; but the notoriety given the picture caused the people to believe it was unclean, and therefore the "Star" did not wish to exploit it. In one of its news stories, however, the "Star" said that the picture purported to be sensational, but as a matter of fact was rather innocuous.

Another feature, is that the film men who are bearing the blunt of the battle, will probably insist that judgment be passed on all films from the same point of view as judgment was passed on theirs. There probably will be insistence that the censors view all pictures; and there will be fights if the censors pass anything that can possibly be criticized. That is, if there is going to be strict compliance with censorship, it will be without fear or favor. Such a ruction is expected to stir things up to a point where the public will want to take part, to get the pictures it wants to see.

Kansas City Screeners Plan Minstrel Show

G. H. Bowles, Publicity Man for Local Universal, Directing Rehearsal for Home Talent Show—Has Lots of Good Material at Hand.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The Kansas City Screen Club is making arrangements for a very interesting and unusual program to be given just before Christmas. A minstrel show will be the feature of the evening, and a stage is being built at one end of the club hall for the purpose. G. H. Bowles, publicity man for the Universal Film and Supply Company at Kansas City, will direct the rehearsals for the minstrel show, in which home talent will be used entirely. Mr. Bowles says that he has some good talent to pick from, many of the film men having done professional work in vaudeville and in stock companies before entering the film game. Mr. Bowles himself has had a good deal of experience in vaudeville and other work, and has written some music, being the composer of the first musical comedy ever written in Kansas City, "The Spartans." A six-piece orchestra has been engaged for the evening, and after the minstrel show a dance will be given. Seats have been arranged for one hundred and fifty guests.

Screen Club Notes.

Kansas City, Mo.—E. R. Pearson, formerly treasurer, and L. J. Scott, formerly secretary of the Kansas City Screen Club, have recently resigned their respective positions, Mr. Pearson because of his resignation as manager of the Vitigraph exchange at Kansas City, and Mr. Scott because he will go on the road for the company for the next three months and will not have time to care for his duties as secretary. G. H. Bowles is appointed the new secretary, but a treasurer has not been selected.

R. N. Abbey with K-E-S-E as Traveler.

Kansas City, Mo.—R. N. Abbey, formerly a salesman for the Vitigraph at Kansas City, has recently accepted a position as traveler for the K-E-S-E exchange of Kansas City.

Kansas City Business Notes.

Manager F. L. Kiltz of Mutual has just returned from a trip to Topeka, Kansas.

Bucklin, Kan.—C. C. Perry, editor of the local newspaper at Bucklin, Kansas, and proprietor of three theaters in the vicinity; one at Fowler, one at Minneola and the other at Bucklin, was in Kansas City recently booking programs.

Great Bend, Kan.—W. S. Nelson, who has recently acquired the lease to the Elite theater at Grand Bend, Kansas, has had the building completely remodeled and refurnished. He will run a strictly feature program, he announced while in Kansas City recently .

G. B. Howe, manager of the Unity Film Corporation at Kansas Sity, reports that he is arranging a complete advertising campaign on the "Yellow Menace" for the exchange men.

W. J. Morgan, manager of the Unicorn Film service at Kansas City, has just returned from a tour of the south part of Missouri. He reports that the ore mines in that country are making lots of money on account of the high prices, and the people seem to have plenty of money to spend. Exhibitors are making money.

P. A. Chase, treasurer of the Unicorn Film Company, who has just completed a tour of the West, was a recent visitor to Kansas City.

P. J. Concannon Visits.

P. J. Concannon, president of the Motion Picture Exchange League of Kansas, was a recent visitor to Kansas City. While here he spent the day with F. L. Kiltz, manager of the Kansas City Mutual.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Recent Kansas City Visitors.

Recent visitors to the Kansas City exchanges: Karl Mensing, Orpheum theater, Leavenworth, Kansas; Charles Thompson, Lyceum theater; Herbert Thatcher, Strand theater, Salina, Kansas, who drove up in his car; F. C. Smith, Neodesha, Kansas; Ben Rothstein, Majestic theater, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

St. Louis News Letter

By A. H. Giebler, 4123 Westminster Place, St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Peck Visits St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Miss Mary Gray Peck, secretary of the National Committee of Films for Young People, in co-operation with the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and affiliated with the National Board of Review, visited St. Louis last week. Miss Peck's visit was made in the interest of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, to interest the club women of all the towns and cities on her itinerary in the Movement for Better Pictures.

Miss Peck visited the exchanges, and spoke before several meetings in the interests of her mission. She was tendered a luncheon at the Town Club on Wednesday, and addressed a large and representative body of local club women, exchange managers and others interested in the movement.

Miss Peck said she found the people interested in the Better Picture Movement, and ready and willing to assist in the carrying out of the objects of any logical plan to maintain a high standard of art and morality in the films. She spoke of her visit to the Kansas censorship officials, and touched on the inadequacy of the legalized censorship as practiced in that state.

A reception was tendered Miss Peck at the home of Mrs. James B. Nugent, under the auspices of the Better Motion Picture League, and she expressed herself as delighted at the progress made by that organization, whose plan of operation is to have films passed on by reviewers appointed by the executives of the body, who grade the pictures by a system of credits, taking into consideration artistic camera work, treatment of subject, possibilities of appeal and educational value, as well as from a moral standpoint. Miss Peck also said she found St. Louis and Missouri, where censorship has never been in effect, far in advance of other cities in the Better Picture Movement.

IN THE NORTHWEST.

Minneapolis Visitors.

Minneapolis visitors last week were: J. H. Ryan, Madison, S. D.; Frank and Joseph McCarthy, exhibitors, Aberdeen, S. D., and Watertown, S. D.; C. W. Waterbury and bride, Palace, Chippewa Falls, Wis.; J. Christoferson, Dreamland, Benson, Minn.; Stanley and Smith, Princess, Sioux Falls, S. D.; H. I. Uptegraft, Gem, Pipestone, Minn.; H. A. Schwahn, Eau Claire Theater Company, Eau Claire, Wis.; B. E. Anderson, Opera House, Elbow Lake, Minn.; George M. Johnson, Jewel, Vienna, S. D.; Fred Boll, Gem, Northfield, Minn., and Star, Farmington, Minn.

Another Wilson Victory.

St. Paul, Minn.—Miss Ruth Wilson, 18, was a winner in the Great West Film Company's photoplay star contest which ended November 30. Miss Wilson received 150,000 votes and defeated Miss Evelyne MacDonald, the Anita Stewart girl at the recent Northwest moving picture exposition by a narrow margin.

Manager H. E. Friedman of the Pathe exchange sent to every exhibitor in his territory recently a weekly booking sheet with the various Pathe serials, and kinds of films listed. Exhibitors were urged to check what service they could use, on what days it could be used and what could be paid for it and return the slip to the Pathe office. Mr. Friedman states he has received a large number of slips back and has secured a volume of new business this way.

R. C. Fox is now in charge of the bookings for "Ramona," the big Clune feature handled in seventeen Western states by Elliott & Sherman.

Admission Prices in Minneapolis

New Garrick Theater Begins Movement in Right Direction by Announcing an Increase in Admission Prices to 15 Cents for 1,000 Seats and 10 Cents for 1,200 Seats—Draws Capacity Houses—Meeting on a General Rise.

By John L. Johnston, 814 Produce Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—It fell to lot of Manager L. V. Calvert of the New Garrick theater here to break the ice for increased admission prices in this city. Mr. Calvert announced that beginning with Sunday, December 2, that the New Garrick theater, the largest exclusive picture theater in the city, would charge fifteen cents for about 1,000 seats on the lower floor and first balcony and that the remainder of the 2,400 seats would be sold for a dime as previously.

On the first day this new admission price was tried out, Marguerite Clark in "Miss George Washington," Famous Players production drew capacity houses at each performance, thus convincing Mr. Calvert that good films will be seen by the public regardless of a five-cent increase in admission.

At a meeting of Twin City photoplay theater managers Tuesday, December 5, the subject of increased admission prices is expected to be settled and in case all of the exhibitors will not agree to the "raise" downtown theaters will likely vote to increase their admission prices. Opposition from vaudeville and jitney theaters is expected.

New Princess Theater Opens.

St. Paul, Minn.—The doors of the New Princess theater were thrown open to the public again on Saturday evening, December 2, following a "dark week" during which time a new pipe organ, new fixtures and new decorations were added to the theater and its policy changed to make it an exclusive photoplay center. Vaudeville has been shifted to the New Palace and hereafter the New Princess will display first run Fox features and other high-class attractions. "The Chattel" featuring E. H. Sothern and "Vixen" featuring Theda Bara were the two attractions for the re-opening week. Bert Goldman is manager of the theater.

William B. Mick Resigns.

Minneapolis, Minn.—William B. Mick has resigned as manager of the Lyric theater, Minneapolis. Mr. Mick took charge of the theater when it became the property of Messrs. Elliott and Sherman in September and previous to that was in charge of the Elliott-Sherman "Birth of a Nation" road show on the Pacific Coast and later in Milwaukee. Mr. Mick's successor at the Lyric has not been decided upon as yet. "The Crisis" will open at the Lyric shortly.

Join Against Advance Deposits.

Duluth, Minn.—It is reported that every picture theater owner in the Zenith City has joined in the crusade against advance deposits on films and has refused to pay a deposit on films, regardless of rental.

L. H. Coen Back at "U" Exchange.

Minneapolis, Minn.—L. H. Coen, after being connected with the Zenith, Independent and Favorite feature film exchanges, has returned to the Universal exchange as Minnesota roadman.

Among Exchange Men.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Benjamin Friedman of the Friedman Film Corporation, has left for St. Louis and Kansas City to arrange for indefinite runs of his big feature "The Spoilers" in each of the big cities.

Minneapolis, Minn.—William A. Lochren, president of the Lochren Film Corporation here, has gone to New York City on business. It is expected that with his return an announcement of the acquisition of several new features will be forth-coming.

St. Paul, Minn.—Manager R. E. Bishop of the Mutual Exchange, Minneapolis, staged a special showing of the Richard Bennet feature "Valley of Decision" at the Strand theater for the benefit of the St. Paul exhibitors. Mr. Bishop also staged a special showing of "Charity" at the New Grand, Minneapolis. Both showings were well attended.

Harry Rowe Gone.—Left No Address.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Harry Rowe, former manager of the Unicorn, Rowe & Walker and New Film Corporation exchanges here has suddenly dissapeared from the city. Mr. Rowe's leaving came as a big surprise to several exchangemen and exhibitors of the city. He has turned his "Uncle Tom's Cabin" film is now being booked by H. R. Brandt, Inc. Mr. Rowe left no forwarding address.

Emily Stevens to Visit.

The Metro exchange plans to take Emily Stevens on a sight-seeing trip of the Twin Cities when the star of "The Wager" and other film plays here this week in "The Unchastened Woman."

H. P. Johnson With Elliott & Sherman.

H. P. Johnson has resigned as roadman for the Vitagraph exchange and is now serving in a like capacity for Elliott & Sherman.

Favorite Feature Gets "Diana."

Manie Gottlieb, manager of the Favorite Feature exchange, has procured the rights for booking "Diana," a three reeler, in Iowa.

Crystal Theater Gets Decision.

The grievance committee of the Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest decided a controversey between Crystal theater, Minenapolis, and two Minneapolis exchanges in favor of the theater, last week. The theater gets $150 worth of service free as a result.

Century Film People Here.

Minneapolis, Minn.—F. L. Hathaway, actor, and N. P. Borrow, cameraman, the Century Film Company, of Roundup, Mont., were Minneapolis visitors last week. Saturday the men returned to Montana to begin work on a new feature soon to be released.

New Northwest Theater Changes.

Albert Lea, Minn.—L. E. Tingley has taken charge of the B-B theater here. He is running Paramount pictures.

Hibbing, Minn.—Harding & Whaley are holding contest here for a name for their new picture theater, scheduled to open December 1, but as yet unfinished because of delayed equipment shipment.

Virginia, Minn.—Frank Meehan has reopened the Grand theater here and is running World, Mutual and V-L-S-E services.

East Grand Forks, Minn.—J. M. Freeman is contemplating the opening of a new picture theater here.

Minneapolis, Minn.—George Granstrom has sold the University theater here to F. L. Lifpitz. Granstrom now controls the Garrick.

Among the theaters that have signed up for the Paramount program during the last week are Rezac's Princess at Hibbing, Minn., the New Strand, Fremont, Minn., and the Regent, Prairie Du Chein, Wis.

Denver Screeners to Hold Dance

Have Found Two Bright Stars Who Can Come, and Date Is Set for December 27 —Mary Miles Minter and Wallace Reid to Lead Grand March at Auditorium Hall—Members of Committee Appointed to Have Charge.

Denver Correspondence from E. C. Day, Denver.

DENVER, COLO.—The long anticipated and much advertised Screen Club Ball which has been promised for Denver since the organization of a club by local moving picture men will become a reality this month. It will be held on December 27 in the City Auditorium. Mary Miles Minter, Mutual star, and Wallace Reid, of Paramount fame, will be the honor guests and, of course, the principal attractions. Both are favorites in this locality and it is doubtful if any other two persons could have been selected who would have been better suited to the occasion.

Officers and members of the Rocky Mountain Screen Club are congratulating themselves on their good fortune in being able to have Miss Minter and Mr. Reid here for even a short stay. For over a year the live wires of the local moving picture industry have been planning to hold a big ball, but were unfortunate in their efforts to obtain a real star to lead the grand march. To give a ball minus a film star, they believed would be nothing more than any ordinary dance, so the event has been postponed from time to time until now definite word has come that Mary Miles Minter and Wallace Reid will be on hand for the big affair.

It is safe to say that the distinguished visitors will be given the biggest welcome ever accorded two screen stars. Extensive arrangements are being made for their entertainment while in the city, while it is anticipated that the auditorium, which has a capacity of 15,000 people, will be taxed to the limit to hold those who desire to rub elbows with and get an intimate view of their film favorites.

Arrangements for the ball proper call for unique and costly decorations, in addition to startling light effects. One of the features of the program will be a minature studio in which the visiting stars will show how a moving picture is taken.

The committee in charge of the ball is composed of Ward E. Scott, chairman; Frank Harris, A. C. Fair, Harry E. Huffman and Harry Nolan.

States Rights Exchange Opens.

Denver, Colo.—Another new moving picture exchange has been established in Denver. Incidentally it is the first of its kind to be opened in this territory. It is to be known as the Supreme Photoplay exchange and will handle only states rights releases. Louis Goldstein, former manager of the Universal and Unicorn exchanges in this city, is in charge of the new enterprise. Associated with him is Leslie Thompson, former Universal manager at Butte, who for the present will occupy his time touring the Rocky Mountain states and visiting exhibitors everywhere.

The Supreme Photoplays corporation will be the representative in this territory of Sol Lesser. They already have taken over a number of state right features, including "Purity" and the "Libertine," and will announce other releases in a few days. They also will handle the five-reel productions of the Ivan brand.

Irving Ehrensaft Heads Local Unicorn.

Denver, Colo.—Irving Ehrensaft, formerly of the Mutual and Universal exchanges, has been named manager of the Unicorn exchange in Denver, to succeed Louis Goldstein, who has opened an independent exchange. Ehrensaft has been employed as chief booker in the Unicorn office for several months.

Louis Marcus, president of the Notable Film Corporation, distributors for Paramount pictures in the Rocky Mountain region, is in Denver for a ten days' visit, combining business and pleasure. He is the guest of Milton H. Cohn, local Paramount manager.

Richard Battles, chief booking clerk in the Mutual exchange, has been called to Boston by the serious illness of his mother.

Supreme Photoplays Corp.

Denver, Colo.—The Supreme Photoplays Corp. has been recently organized to operate in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. Louis Goldstein, its general manager and secretary, has been associated with the Universal since its inception. Leslie Thompson, who was for a considerable time connected with the Paramount and the Universal in the Northwest, is sales manager and has direct charge of the selling forces, and Earl H. Radetsky, a prominent business man of this city, is president. It will exploit the super productions in this territory.

Manager J. W. Scott Goes to Triangle.

Denver, Colo.—J. W. Scott, for years assistant manager and chief booking clerk for the Notable Film Corporation, distributors of Paramount films in this territory, has resigned his position to accept a similar post with the Triangle Company in this city. Scott is one of the best known and best liked men in the film industry here.

Rialto Becomes Big Feature House.

Denver, Colo.—The Rialto, Denver's newest and best illuminated theater, has announced that hereafter it will be an exclusively big feature house. It has just completed successful runs of "Less Than The Dust" and "The Common Law" and the management has arranged to show "A Daughter of the Gods."

Operators' Ball a Big Success.

Denver, Colo.—The annual ball of the Moving Picture Operators of Denver, held last week, was a huge success. It was held in the City Auditorium and a record crowd turned out. Especial interest attached to the lighting effects, which were pronounced the most unique and the most beautiful ever seen here. Following is the committee which had charge of the event: George Thomas, chairman, Oscar Olson, J. E. Dunn, Tom Melton, Herman Brady and James Dooley.

E. M. Erwin Buys Lyric Theater.

East Denver, Colo.—E. M. Erwin, former owner of the Colfax theater, has purchased the Mystic theater in East Denver. The deal marks the retirement of Jack Meyerpeter, who built the Mystic, and was one of the pioneer exhibitors of Colorado.

Des Moines News Letter

By Dorothy Day, Register-Tribune, Des Moines, Ia.

Music at Garden Theater.

DES MOINES, IA.—The Garden theater dedicated its new $15,000 Kimball pipe organ Thanksgiving day. This wonderful new instrument, has been installed by night work during the past two months. It is possible to get any effect desired out of it. The three manual console controls with ease any arrangements of orchestral units.

Arthur T. Hayes, a markedly talented organist, will alternate with Director Mitchell and his orchestra during the afternoon and evening. Mechanical music will be done away with entirely even at the early opening hours and from 5 to 7 in the evening. At these hours Miss Ruth Cline, another musician of recognized ability, will operate the pipe organ.

Saturday Morning Show for Children.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Casino and Garden theaters are both exploiting the Saturday morning matinee, showing especially chosen pictures for the kiddies. The first show begins at nine and the second at ten, and the admission is five cents. The programs have proven popular, as both theaters report crowded houses at both performances.

The Casino is showing selected travelogues, animated cartoons and comedies of the slapstick variety. While the Garden show selected features of five reels, alternating with mixed programs consisting of travelogues by Burton Holmes, the Bray cartoons and comedies. The latter theater's children matinees are sponsored by the City Union of Mothers' Clubs.

Jefferson Opera House Remodeled.

Jefferson, Ia.—The Opera House has been remodeled by taking out the iron pillars and putting in girders. A steam heating plant has been installed to take the place of the two stoves. The stage has been remodeled, four boxes added and new opera chairs have been installed throughout. The first engagement will be "The Birth of a Nation" at a near date.

Iowa Theaters and Changes.

Des Moines, Ia.—J. C. Collins has disposed of the Ozone theater in this city and has returned to his home in Minneapolis.

Clarion, Ia.—The Orpheum theater of this city was destroyed by fire last week. The fire occurred when the show was closed and luckily there was no panic nor personal injury.

Ft. Dodge, Ia.—The New Strand theater opened with Metro's "Romeo and Juliet" the 27th and 28th of November. The Strand is a fine house and did capacity business. It is owned by the firm of Julius & Awe.

Van Wert, Ia.—Smith & Son, of Garden Grove, have opened a motion picture house here. The Smiths have been showing pictures in the Opera House at Garden Grove.

"Pearl of the Army" Card.

Des Moines, Ia.—Mr. Sheridan, of the Pathe exchange, is flooding the territory with an attractive mailing card in red, white and blue, boosting the new Pathe serial "Pearl of the Army." Preparedness is the keynote of the card and a picture of Pearl White, the star, helps out, along with a cut of the painting "The Spirit of '76," the opening scene of the new serial.

Iowa Exchange Notes.

Creston, Ia.—Louis Rosenfield is issuing engraved invitations to the formal opening of the Willard theater, Tuesday, the 5th of December, 7:30 p. m. Mr. Rosenfield is the manager.

Waterloo, Ia.—A. W. McIntosh sold the Crystal theater to J. E. Hostettler.

Redlyn, Ia.—C. W. Diekman, of this city, has opened up a motion picture theater here.

Des Moines, Ia.—Mr. Hiller, of Eau Claire, Wis., who recently sold his two theaters in that city, is in Des Moines looking for a location, not necessarily in Des Moines.

Des Moines, Ia.—Cyrus R. Cooper, traveling auditor for the General Film, is in Des Moines this week.

C. W. Tayler, manager of the General Film exchange in Omaha, was in Des Moines Tuesday, the 28th, talking over business affairs with C. W. Stombaugh, manager of the exchange in this city.

Wm. C. Preller, of Minneapolis, formerly the manager of the General Film in this city, is here this week to attend the Shriners' convention.

D. D. Jones has resigned as cashier for the General Film exchange in Des Moines and is succeeded by R. C. Stewart.

ON PACIFIC COAST.

Miss Rubenstein to Be Home Again.

San Francisco, Cal.—Miss Freda Rubenstein, assistant to Sol L. Lesser, of the All Star Feature Distributors, will return home from a tour of the United States for the Christmas holidays and will take up her duties here about the first of the year. Her work in connection with the booking of the "Ne'er Do Well" has won for her an enviable reputation throughout the country.

San Francisco News.

The Pathescope Company has added equipment for the making of moving pictures.

The Elite theater on Sacramento street has completed extensive changes and additions to its operating room.

A moving picture theater is to be fitted up in the quarters taken over by the Home Industry League of California at Market and Fifth streets for the display of goods made in Northern and Central California.

Extensive improvements are planned for Pantages theater, James Townsend having arrived here from Seattle to plan the changes.

Ralph Earle, Pathe cameraman, has returned from a ten thousand mile automobile trip through the national parks on which he took about 40,000 feet of film.

Charles Goodwin, of the Larkin theater who recently took over the Fairyland theater on Devisadero street, is making extensive changes in the operating room and lobby of the latter house.

The operating room of the Elite theater on Sacramento street is being completely remodeled.

During the absence of L. G. Dolliver in the East, A. L. Noriega is acting as business agent for the Motion Picture Operators' Union.

J. L. Partington, manager of the Imperial theater, has been spending a vacation in the southern part of the state.

J. A. Lloyd, of the Dinuba theater, Dinuba, Cal., was a recent visitor here and stated that work was under way on the rebuilding of this house, which was recently damaged by fire.

Morris Levison, a popular film exchange man of this city, has returned from the Northwest, where he has been for several months.

J. R. Crone, formerly manager of the San Francisco and Los Angeles branches og the Mutual, has been appointed studio manager of the American plant at Santa Barbara. Of late he has been manager of the Vogue studio at Los Angeles.

California Jottings.

Elmhurst, Cal.—S. C. Loomis has taken over John's theater and has changed the name to the Gem.

Napa, Cal.—John Stehle has opened the Lyric theater which had been dark for quite a while.

Le Grande, Cal.—The Standard theater has been purchased by W. C. Kroh.

Stockton, Cal.—David Solari has disposed of the Empire theater to G. F. Gillelen, formerly of Alameda.

Oakland, Cal.—J. Wiseman, of the Golden Gate theater, has been making a number of additions to the equipment of his house of late, including the addition of a Westinghouse motor-generator set.

Dinuba, Cal.—The new theater to be erected by the Haden & Boone Company, is to be located in this city, instead of at Visarila, as was recently reported.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—The Cline theater, a beautiful house with a seating capacity of 1,600, was opened on November 11.

Fresno, Cal.—The Photo theater has been sold by Jackson & Elias to C. W. Williams.

San Francisco a Good Field for Pictures

Manager Knappen of Local International Exchange Accounts for the Fine Showing of His Branch by Health of the Business Here.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Manager H. L. Knappen, of the local branch of the International Film Service, advises that this office is still fourth in the list of twelve exchanges conducted by this concern, as far as volume of business is concerned, and that it is third in the returns on feature productions. In speaking of this showing he said: "Many of the other branch offices serve territories with a much larger population than this one, in fact, several contain single cities with more people in them than are in the entire field reached through this branch. That we are enabled to make this showing is because of the fact that the moving picture industry is in a healthy condition here and because exhibitors have been quick to see the advantages in connecting with a concern that believes in newspaper advertising on a large scale.

"The fact that this branch is third in the volume of business on feature productions is particularly significant and proves that this is a great field for offerings of this kind. The lurid film has had its day and theater patrons here desire clean dramas with the human interest elemcnt. The three that we have offered have gone over in splendid shape and we feel encouraged to put out others of a similar character."

Word has been received that the first release on "Patria," which has been booked for presentation at the Imperial theater, will make its appearance in January, instead of December. The "Beatrice Fairfax" series is still being booked extensively and H. I. Krause, who is covering the Rocky Mountain territory, advises that he has booked this production at the American theater at Salt Lake City.

Using More Calendars Printed With Programs.

San Francisco, Cal.—The monthly calendar program idea is proving very popular with exhibitors and where but one or two were using it a year there are now dozens employing this effective form of advertising. Some are using them in conection with a mailing list, others pass them out at their theaters early in the month, while still others have them distributed at the homes of those within reach of their houses. To issue calendars of this kind necessitates arranging bookings well in advance, but the idea has advantages apart from the publicity secured in that it tends to discourage film exchanges from making changes in their bookings. The Varsity theater of Berkeley put out a program calendar in November for the first time and a neat calendar of this kind bearing the name of the Turlock theater, Turlock, Cal., has also been noted.

W. O. Edmonds Visits Los Angeles.

San Francisco, Cal.—W. O. Edmonds, Pacific Coast manager of the K-E-S-E Service, with headquarters in this city, recently paid a visit to the Los Angeles branch and expresses himself as being highly pleased with the volume of business being done throughout that territory. He relates how one of the traveling men from that branch recently booked more than twenty-two hundred dollars worth of business at one swoop by taking two or three productions to the Imperial valley and giving a demonstration to exhibitors.

William Farnum Week at Rialto.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Theda Bara Week held recently at the Rialto theater, when a different production was presented each day, proved such an unqualified success that the management has decided to feature a William Farnum Week along the same lines. The program selected for this week is in the following order: "Samson," "The Nigger," "Fighting Blood," "The Man from Bitter Root," "The Plundered," "Soldier's Oath" and "The Broken Law."

Kellermann Film at Savoy Theater.

San Francisco, Cal.—The announcement has been made that Sheehan & Lurie, of the Rialto theater, have secured the Savoy theater on McAllister street for an elaborate presentation of "A Daughter of the Gods," featuring Annette Kellermann, and that the house will be opened on New Year's Eve for an indefinite run. A billboard campaign to surpass anything in this line ever seen in the Far West is promised and newspaper advertising will be commenced at once.

Pathe Manager Visits Exhibitors.

San Francisco, Cal.—H. E. Lotz, manager of the local branch of Pathe, recently made a trip to Fresno and other points in the San Joaquin valley, this being the first opportunity he has had since taking charge here of getting out and meeting exhibitors. Within a few days after he arrived in San Francisco he had chosen new quarters and since then has been busily engaged in getting these in smooth working order. O. B. Smith, who recently joined the staff of the local branch, is acting as assistant manager. The latest serial released by this concern, "Pearl of the Army," has been booked at the Rialto theater for a first run in this city.

Paramount Notes.

San Francisco, Cal.—Vernon Moore, manager of the publicity department of the local office of the Progressive Motion Picture Company, recently made a trip through the territory south of San Francisco. He conferred with many exhibitors on publicity matters and offered the active co-operation of the department of which he is the head.

Jack Mills a Visitor.

Jack Mills, of Needham & Mills, who conduct the New theater at Cortland, Cal., was a recent visitor at the local Paramount office. He returned a short time ago from a trip through the couthern part of the State on which he visited the Lasky, Pallas and Morosco studios.

Numerous Visitors in Town.

San Francisco, Cal.—A number of exhibitors have been see here of late to arrange for service and to secure suplies for the winter season among these being E. H. Douglas, of the Elite theater, Merced; W. M. Martin, Modesto; H. D. Hubbard, Calistoga; W. R. Kreb, manager of the Turlock theater, conducted at Turlock, Cal., by Stamm & Beede, and L. Frietas, of the Stockton theater, Stockton, Cal.

G. A. Metcalfe Busy.

San Francisco, Cal.—G. A. Metcalfe is very busy these days for not only is the supply business rushing but in addition he has to attend to many of the details formerly looked out for by Walter Stern, who is still at the Seattle branch. He reecntly sold a complete projection outfit to J. H. Kennedy, of Lemoore, Cal., who is transforming a dance pavilion into a moving picture house, as well as an outfit for St. Mary's church of this city. A large shipment of Speer carbons has been received and this lot is proving to be first-class in every respect.

The Blue Bird production "Gloriana" has been booked at the Portola theater for the week of November 26th.

Portland's Screeners Give a Dance

Rose City Film Fraternity Puts on Most Unique Terpsichorean Frolic of the Year —Portland Public Is Shown a Real Good Time—Out-of-Town Men Attend—Moving Pictures of the Dancers Taken.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore.—On Thanksgiving Eve the Portland Screen Club took old General Public into its confidence and showed it what a good time really was. The occasion was the Movie Ball and all the good fellows of the city and their ladies were invited and they all came.

From the first blare of the bugle announcing the opening number until the last notes of the Home, Sweet Home waltz had died away, the guests were thrilled and hypnotized by the real showman style in which the affair was put over. The proper "atmosphere" had already been created when the guests began to arrive and they plunged into the festivities without ceremony.

The big ballroom was festooned with colored lights and decorated with cedar boughs. In the balconies were a dozen spot lights and flood lights in charge of expert electricians who played them upon the fascinated dancers in a manner that would have delighted any musical comedy veteran. There were moonlight and cloud effects to go with the waltzes and schottisches and spot lights to follow the interpreters of the steps and trots. Then there was a battery of arcs at one end of the hall under which the dancers did the grand march to have their moving pictures taken. Honestly, it was a real affair.

Something to Talk About.

Let's talk about the people who attended. There were the exhibitors and their wives, the exchange men and their wives, the bookers and shippers and their sweethearts and the inspector girls and their beaux. From out of town came George P. Endert, Jack Lannon, A. Bloom, H. C. Feldman and R. C. Montgomery and maybe more that were lost in the crowd. It's a long way to Los Angeles so the ball had to be pulled off without the presence of any recognized photoplay stars but Hazel Hanson and Pauline McCaslin, who worked in pictures last summer in the photoplay metropolis, were among the popular entertainers. E. J. Myrick, of the Columbia, with Mrs. Park Dunn and W. M. Rogers, of the Majestic, with Mrs. E. M. Simonton, led the grand march. Vaudeville acts from the Pantages and Hippodrome theaters filled in while the dancers rested.

The success of the ball was due to the work of a committee headed by F. M. Simonton, assisted by W. M. Rogers, G. A. Reed, E. J. Myrick and Sam Sax. The electrical effects were installed and directed by Art Phillips, chief electrician of the Columbia Theater, assisted by Art Smith, W. A. Van Scoy, of Pathe, was cameraman for the occasion.

Now let's introduce a bit of romance: When staid Eddie Hudson, of Pathe, asked Gladys Over, who works at the Columbia, if he could escort her home from the ball, he discovered for the first time that she lived next door to his house and had lived there for more than a year. Verily, a Movie Ball is needed now and then to build up a fellowship among the workers in the industry.

Broadway Theater Is Sold.

Portland, Ore.—E. A. Thomas has sold the Broadway theater to John Adams. This theater, located in one of the most fashionable of Portland's surburbs, is an exceptionally pretty little house and has become a factor in the amusement of the community. Many pictures have been played there under the auspices of the Parent Teachers' Association of Irvington. Mr. Adams, the new owner, is an old time showman, having operated the Columbia at St. Johns several years ago.

Breaks Record at the Peoples.

Portland, Ore.—On Thanksgiving Day the People's theater broke the record for attendance since the house was opened several years ago. The picture was Marguerite Clark in "Miss George Washington." The People's management said that the week's attendance on the picture would be in the neighborhood of 40,000.

Two New Theaters in Sight.

La Grande, Ore.—There is a persistent rumor that Leiter and Myers are contemplating a new show house here. The location is said to be a corner a block away from the Arcade, which is now under lease by Leiter and Myers, the lease having another year to run.

Corvallis.—J. D. Child has bought out the interest of Byron Taylor in the Airdrome. This theater has been fixed up for winter service, a roof and a new front having been built. It is said that Mr. Taylor, who now owns the ground, may put up a first-class theater building in the spring.

Famous Diva a Fan.

Portland, Ore.—When "The Unwritten Law" showed at the Star recently, Madam Schuman-Heink attended an afternoon performance. The Star management got hold of this news too late to use it as press matter but later the diva met P. N. Mendlesohn, who has the picture in this territory, in a valley town and speaking of the visit to the Star, said that attending motion picture shows was one of her chief forms of recreation.

Moving Pictures in High School.

Pendleton, Ore.—A. P. Park, superintendent of schools, has purchased a new American Standard machine from the Service, Film Company, Portland.

Heard on Portland's Film Row.

Among the road men who worked out of Portland, the following have reported on their trips: Joe Merrick, Universal, just in from the Columbia river territory, business very satisfactory; A. S. Kirkpatrick, Mutual, from Tillmook, business fine; E. E. Goehler, Pathe, from Southern Oregon, reports his product going well; Bill Mead, Triangle, from Eastern Oregon, says things east of the mountains are fine.

Among the visitors not already mentioned were Mrs. Geo. Hunt, Page theater, Medford; W. F. Catchell, Bungalow theater; Woodburn; M. A. Levy, United Film Service, Chicago; Ray Grombacher, Triangle, Seattle, and Al Rosenberg, De Lux, Seattle, with "The Libertine."

The Service Film Company recently installed a new Simplex for Kiggins and McGill at the Rex Vancouver, Washington. Mr. Pumphrey stated that his company has become local agents for the Auto-Arc Company, Chicago.

To Vote on Censorship.

Astoria, Ore.—At the coming city election, December 13, the voters will be asked to decide on the question of municipal censorship. At present there is no censorship under city ordinance. The city authorities backed by the so-called reformers, are proposing censorship and the exhibitors, comprising Messrs. Danz, Tagg, Dean and Wilson, are making an able fight against it.

Women of Bremerton Interfere With Show

Use Means Not Always in Accord with Strict Legal Procedure, According to Local Reports, to Stop Showing of "Purity."

By T. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

BREMENTON, Wash.—It's bad enough when a town has an organized censor board to pounce upon one's best drawing card and order it off the program, but when a crowd of women take it upon themselves to kill a man's show and the men sworn to uphold the law undertake to break up a performance in total disregard of a legal restraining order, then things are in a pretty bad way. That is the opinion expressed by Jack Rantz, of Bremerton. Mr. Rantz and his partner, Ed. Oswald, own the Dream and the Rex theaters in the town which is Uncle Sam's Northwest naval staion, These are the only two theaters in the place.

"If they'd have given us any warning before we'd spent a young fortune on advertising," said Mr. Rantz, "we should have substituted another feature for 'Purity,' so everybody would be contented, but they didn't.

"We had booked 'Purity' for Monday and had been advertising it for over a week when on Friday the ministers from several churches came to us with objections, not so much to the picture itself, as to the advertising. We got everything fixed up all right with ministers, and then we heard next day for the first time of the doings of the ladies. We would have known nothing about it until Monday night, I guess, when they came to close up our theater, if a friend hadn't tipped us off. It seems that for several days a committee of women had been trying to get signers to a petition for the withdrawal of the feature, representing that we had agreed to take it off if they could get 200 names signed. They had got the 200 names by Saturday and went straight with the petition to the prosecuting attorney and filed a complaint signed by the mayor. We got busy and obtained a restraining order to last over Monday. But that night, in spite of the restraining order, several policemen came and tried to stop the show. They didn't succeed, though, and we did a very good business.

"On Tuesday we decided that, rather than wait for a decision from the superior court of Kitsap county, we would submit to a jury trial, which would give us a decision that day. I'm not saying much about the personel of the jury, but—well, they decided against the picture, and we put another feature on Tuesday's program, instead of 'Purity'."

Buy's Rights on Kleinschmidt Films.

Seattle, Wash.—Eugene Levy, manager of the Grand, a vaudeville house, has bought the Northwest rights of Capt. Kleinschmidt's war pictures. Capt. Kleinschmidt accompanied his pictures with lectures at the Moore, Seattle's leading legitimate theater, last week, and it was not until they appeared this week at the Strand, a fifteen-cent Second avenue house, that it became known that Mr. Levy had bought the States rights. Capt. Kleinschmidt left last week for New York.

Licenses in Seattle Not Reduced.

Seattle, Wash.—A Committee representing the smaller theater owners in Seattle went this week before the license committee of the city council asking that the picture houses be taxed at a flat rate of twenty-five cents a seat. According to the present system the theaters are divided into four classes. Those of a seating capacity up to 250 seats are charged $125.00, those having from 250 to 500 seats, $150.00, those with from 500 to 1,000 seats, $200.00, and those of over 1,000 seats, $250.00.

Thus it may be seen that under the terms of the petition, the license of the small exhibitor would be very much reduced, while the larger theaters would have a goodly sum added to their tax. The committee refused the application.

Alaska Company's Picture Shows.

Seattle, Wash.—Motion picture projectors have been shipped from Seattle to the Kennecott Mining Company of Alaska to be installed at their mines at Kennecott and La Touche, and there are to be others for three more of their mines. The superintendents say that there is nothing like the pictures to keep their employes satisfied through the long winter, when they are entirely shut off from the outside world.

Visitors and Their Affairs.

Seattle, Wash,—Joseph Patridge, special representative from New York of the Greater Vitagraph Company, stopped a day at the Seattle office, after a tour of Canada, where he has been placing Vitagraph features.

M. Christie, formerly an exhibitor of Portland and San Francisco, was in town this week buying equipment for his new "Rialto" theater at Everett, which is to open very soon.

C. F. Perkins, formerly an exhibitor of Pasco, Wash., was in town making bookings for the Star theater, which he has just opened at Freewater, Oregon.

W. C. Gowan informed his friends on Film Row this week that he had sold his Orpheum theater at Hoquiam, Wash., to H. C. Thomas, who is going to change the name to the Dream.

VANCOUVER NOTES.

N. M. Trafton, Exhibitor and Business Man.

Vancouver, B. C.—N. M. Trafton, whose likeness is shown herewith, although a comparative newcomer in the ranks of exhibitors, has now progressed to the stage where he is operating a circuit of three moving picture theaters in eastern British Columbia. These houses, grouped under the name of the O-Row-Nay Circuit, are the Star at Trail, the Gem at Nelson, and the Orpheum at Fernie. The first house was secured early in 1915, and the others were added soon afterward, in association with C. Alexander. Later Mr. Alexander assumed the management of the Fernie, but within a short time all were under exclusive Trafton control. Mrs. Trafton is actively associated with her husband in the business, being directly interested in the circuit. The new house to be erected in Trail by the K. P. Lodge, as announced recently in the Moving Picture World, will also be added to the Trafton string upon its completion. Mr. Trafton is one of the big film men of the province, weighing over 250 pounds; and the business done at his houses is reported to be correspondingly heavy.

N. M. Trafton.

Vancouver, B. C.—A private showing of Selznick's "The Common Law" was held at the Colonial theater one night recently. The picture has not at this writing been submitted to the B. C. Censors.

The Week in Vancouver

Sam J. Coffland, a Mining Engineer, Buys Interest of W. P. Nichols in the National Film Service, Ltd., Distributors of Triangle in Western Canada—Farrar Film Gets By the Censor—Interesting Western Theater Combination—Other Notes.

E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. P. Nichols, managing director of the National Amusement Company, and until recently vice-president of the National Film Service, Ltd., distributors of the Triangle program in Western Canada, has disposed of his interests in the latter company to Sam J. Coffland, a mining engineer of Baker City, Oregon. Mr. Coffland now becomes vice-president of the distributing organization, while W. P. Dewees of the Rex theater here and J. A. Schuberg of the Province and Bijou in Winnipeg"(the other two points of the "triangle") retain their former offices of president and general manager, respectively.

Farrar Film Passes Censor.

Calgary, Alberta.—The Alberta censors, who recently condemned Lasky's "Maria Rosa" because Geraldine Farrar, who stars in it, is pro-German, have been induced to alter their decision, and the film has been passed. H. J. Allen of the Calgary headquarters of the Famous Players Film Service pointed out to the censors that Miss Farrar has no interest whatever in the picture, having been paid a straight salary by the Lasky company, and that to reject the picture would not harm her in any way, but would mean actual financial loss to the Canadian company.

Western Theater Combine.

Vancouver, B. C.—An announcement of considerable interest was made recently by W. P. Dewees, managing director of the Rex Theatre Company, who informed the World correspondent of the amalgamation of the Rex theaters in this city and the Province and Bijou theaters in Winnipeg, controlled by J. A. Schuberg. These houses will in future be conducted by the Western Theatre Company, which has just been incorporated in British Columbia with a capitalization of $20,000. Mr. Schuberg is president of the new company, while Mr. Dewees is managing director.

Hypocrites Gets By in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man.—"Hypocrites" was recently passed by the Manitoba-Saskatchewan joint board of censors, and is reported to be doing big business in that territory.

This picture was particularly successful in Alberta, but so far has not succeeded in passing the British Columbia board.

The Dominion Film Corporation.

Vancouver, B. C.—British Columbia, long neglected by producers of moving pictures, is to be the permanent home of a company.

This company—the Dominion Film Corporation, Ltd.—recently purchased the business of the Dominion Educational Films, Ltd., with headquarters in this city, and has just applied for a Dominion charter providing for a capitalization of one million dollars. The new company has as its president and general manager J. Arthur Nelson.

Film Business Notes.

Cranbrook, B. C.—The Rex theater here recently put on a special show for the Red Cross Society, handled through the Daughters of the Empire. Arrangements were made with the Famous Players Film Service to use the Pickford subject, "Cinderella."

Edmonton, Alberta.—The Clara Kimball Young production,' "The Common Law," handled in Canada by the Monarch Film Co., Ltd., did a record business at the Monarch theater here. Although originally booked by Manager Max Allen for a three-day run, the engagement was extended day by day until it had played for six days, to capacity houses. Evening admission was 25 cents.

Vancouver, B. C.—"The Test," the first of the Gold Rooster Plays brought to British Columbia under the new distribution arrangements just put in force by Leon F. Ouimet, Pathe.

Cowboy, Exchange Man and Camera Man.

Vancouver, B. C.—A. D. Kean, "the cowboy photographer of British Columbia," whose picture appears herewith, is a real cowboy and a real photographer, as well as a real British Columbian. After using a high-speed still camera for a number of years, photographing cowboy sports and other events involving speedy action, Mr. Kean did his first moving picture photography at the Calgary Stampede in 1912, and has been operating continuously since that time, in addition to conducting his own exchange in Vancouver, since 1913. Within that time he has made two hundred thousand feet of negative, including a complete pictorial record of every British Columbia battalion which has gone to the front during the present war, and has secured for this province a more extensive military record of this description than is possessed by any other part of the British dominions. These are all held by Kean's Canada Film Exchange, which is now a flourishing organization in charge of two joint managers.

Bust 'em, Cowboy.

Mr. Kean's capabilities as a mechanic are well illustrated by his remarkable little laboratory, most of the apparatus in which was constructed by himself. He is now turning out very high class topical, educational and commercial subjects, and has done a great deal of work for the provincial government and the C. P. R. For three years he has been official moving picture photographer for the Vancouver Exhibition, and has also been in charge of the cowboy sports.

A. D. is Vancouver's most distinctive town character, and no public gathering is considered complete without the presence of the box on the tripod, the high leather boots, and the big sombrero. Mr. Kean has made a strenuous fight to attain his present standing in the film world, but from now on it looks like plain sailing.

"Bust 'em, cowboy!"

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending December 23 and December 30

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See See Pages 1870, 1872, 1874, 1876.)

General Film Company

Current Releases

MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1916. (Serial No.)

SELIG—The Five Franc Piece (Two parts—Drama) 21541-42
VITAGRAPH—A Lesson for Somebody (Comedy).. 21543
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Topical)..... 21544
BIOGRAPH—The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama) 21545

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1916.

ESSANAY—The Little Brown Mole (Third of "The Black Cat" series) (Two parts—Drama)..... 21546-47
KALEM—The Fatal Violin (Comedy)..... 21548
BIOGRAPH—His Wife's Story (Reissue Two parts Drama) 21549-50

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1916.

ESSANAY—Taking the Count (Comedy)..... 21551
KALEM—On the Brink of War (No. 20 of "The Girl from 'Frisco") (Two parts)..... 21552-53
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—They Practice Economy (Comedy) 21554

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1916.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Topical)..... 21555
VIM—Title not yet reported..... 21556

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1916.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—The Dawn of Wisdom (Three parts—Drama) 21557-58-59
KALEM—The Tiger's Claw (No. 10 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama) 21560
VITAGRAPH—A Bit of Bent Wire (Comedy)..... 21561
VIM—Reckless Romeos (Comedy)..... 21562

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1916.

ESSANAY—Dancing With Folly (2d of "Is Marriage Sacred" Series) (Two parts—Drama)..... 21588-04
KALEM—The Vanishing Box Car (No. 111 of "The Hazards of Helen" series) (Drama)..... 21565
SELIG—The Man He Might Have Been (Drama).... 21566

General Film Company

Advance Releases

MONDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1916.

BIOGRAPH—Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama).
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Topical).
SELIG—The Golden Thought (Three parts—Drama).
VITAGRAPH—A Journey to Nowhere (Comedy-Drama).

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1916.

ESSANAY—A Tale from the Decameron (Black Cat Feature—Two Parts—Drama).
KALEM—The Quest of the Golden Goat (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1916.

ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz, Pictorial No. 21 (Cartoon-Com). —Lake Tahoe, Cal. (Scenic).
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Her Financial Frenzy (Comedy).
KALEM—The False Phophet (No. 21 of "The Girl from Frisco") Two parts—Drama).
BIOGRAPH—The Rehearsal (Two Parts—Reissue—Drama).

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1916.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Topical).
VIM—Title not reported.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1916.

KALEM—A Mission of State (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
VITAGRAPH—The Luck Charm (Comedy-Drama).
VIM—Before the Show (Comedy).

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1916.

ESSANAY—Wife in Sunshine (Third of "Is Marriage Sacred?") (Two parts—Drama).
KALEM—A Race with Death (No. 112 of "The Hazards of Helen Railroad Series" (Drama).
SELIG—The Eight Hand Path (Comedy-Drama).

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

STATE RIGHTS BUYERS

ONE ROUND O'BRIEN

The funniest half reel comedy produced
Directed by Mack Sennett

From the Popular Magazine story The Supreme Bumper's Degree by Charles E. Van Loan

Refer all inquiries to BIOGRAPH COMPANY
796 East 176th Street, New York City, N. Y.

General Film Service

REFINED FEATURE COMEDY
HARRY MYERS & ROSEMARY THEBY
DECEMBER 26
IN
"THEY PRACTICE ECONOMY"
But they find it doesn't Pay

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending December 23 and December 30

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 1870, 1872, 1874, 1876.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1916. (Serial No.)

REX—(No regular Rex this day).
REX—Love or an Empire. Special releace. (Two parts—Drama) 02008
POWERS—Sammie Johnsin and the Wonderful Lamp—Comedy Cartoon) .....
Majestic Ceylon as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educacational) 02007

MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Liberty No. 18—The Wolf's Nemesis (Two parts—Drama)..... 02009
RED FEATHER—Mixed Blood (Five parts—Drama) 02010
NESTOR—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy)..... 02011

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Little Partner (Three parts—Drama)..... 02012
VICTOR—So This Is Paris (Special release) (Comedy) 02013
VICTOR—No regular Victor this day.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1916.

LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle release this day.
L-KO—Shooting His Art Out (Two parts—Comedy) 02014
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 51 (Topical).. 02015
LAEMMLE—Homeless (Special release) (Drama).. 02016

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1916.

REX—The Ivy and the Oak (Two parts—Drama)... 02017
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No regular Powers this day.
BIG U—Moonshine Blood (Special Release) (Drama). 02013

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1916.

IMP—In the Dead O' Night (Two parts—Drama)..... 02019
UNIVERSAL—Universal Screen Magazine No. 3 (Topical) 02020
VICTOR—It's Great to Be Married (Comedy)..... 02021

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1916.

BISON—Fighting Joe (Two parts—Drama)..... 02022
LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Jags and Jealousy (Comedy)..... 02023
REX—The Rock of Riches (Special Release) (Dr.). 02024

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1916.

REX—The Woman Who Learned (Special Release) (Drama) 02025
POWERS—Nervy Nat Has His Fortune Told (Cartoon Comedy), and In the Heart of India as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational)..... 02026
IMP—Special Release. Title not yet decided..... 02027

MONDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—Liberty No. 19, An Avenging Angel (Two parts—Drama) 02028
RED FEATHER—A Child of Mystery (Five parts—Drama) 02029
NESTOR—Pretty Baby (Comedy) 02030

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—Birds of a Feather (Three parts—Dr.) 02031
POWERS—Such Is Life in Alaska (Hy Mayer Travelogue) 02032

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Stronger Than Steel (Two parts—Drama) 02033
L-KO—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy)..... 02034
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 52 (Topical).. 02035

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1916.

VICTOR—Good Morning Judge (Two parts—Com.). 02036
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No release this day.
BIG U—Special release. Title not yet decided..... 02037

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1916. (Serial No.)

IMP—Toto of the By-Ways (Two parts—Drama).... 02038
REX—No regular Rex this day.
L-KO—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy)..... 02039
REX—Special release. Title not yet decided..... 02040

SATURDAY, DECEMBER, 30, 1916.

BISON—Giant Powder (Two parts—Drama) 02041
LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy)..... 02042
LAEMMLE—Special release. Title not yet decided.. 02043

Mutual Film Corporation

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1916.

VOGUE—Treed (Two parts—Comedy)..... 05232-33
GAUMONT—Reel Life Number 33 (Mutual Film Magazine) 05234

MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1916.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Twinkler (Five parts—Drama) 05235-36
MUTUAL—Buddy's Christmas (Two parts—Drama) 05235-36

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1916.

GAUMONT—Mutual Tours Around the World (Morrocco, Chantilly, by the Mediterranean) (Travel) 05237

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1916.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 103 (Topical)..... 05238
GAUMONT—See America First (Travel)..... 05239
Kartoon Komics (Cartoon Comedy)....

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1916.

MUTUAL—The Elopement (Comedy)..... 05240

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1916.

MUTUAL—Uncle Sam's Defenders No. 3, "A Jack Tar in the Making" (Topical)..... 05241

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1916.

MUTUAL—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy).... 05242

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1916.

VOGUE—Fickle All Around (Two Parts—Drama).. 05243-44
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 34 (Mutual Film Mag.).. 05245

MONDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1916.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Innocence of Lizette (American)—Five parts—Dr.—No. 162).
MUTUAL—Indiscretion (Two parts—Drama)..... 05246-47

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1916.

GAUMONT—Mutual Tours Around the World (The Theve River, France, Florence, In the Swiss Alps—Travel) 05248

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1916.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 104 (Topical)..... 05249
GAUMONT—See America First (Scenic)..... $5250
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy) ....

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1916.

MUTUAL—Peter's Perfect Photoplay (Comedy).... 05251

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1916.

MUTUAL—Title Not Reported 05252

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1916.

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY—Grimsey the Bellhop (Comedy) 05253

The Funniest Craziest Picture Ever . . Made

Where D'ye Get That Stuff?

The Best Proposition on the Market

STATE RIGHTS

NOW SELLING

They're all trying to hand you something different—but DO they?

Here's the greatest box-office novelty ever released. A proven winner in more than one class of theatre. We've proven that the title gets 'em, that the picture not only PLEASES but HOLDS 'em, and that for clean, satisfying entertainment "WHERE D'YE GET THAT STUFF?" is the goods.

The Featured Star is Popular EDNA AUG Musical Comedy Fun Maker H. C. WITWER & H. H. VAN LOAN Wrote the screamingly funny titles

You can't beat it. You can't even tie it. Listen.

"WHERE D'YE GET THAT STUFF?" has greater advertising possibilities—a greater chance to go over big with the public than any State Rights Picture you ever saw. You can play this picture like a road show.

That's what one of the biggest State Rights buyers in the country is doing and he's cleaning up. You ought to see the magnificent line of paper now ready—one-sheets to twenty-four-sheets—heralds, too; in fact, everything all ready for you to get out and get busy lining up the Exhibitors.

IMPORTANT: "WHERE D'YE GET THAT STUFF?" has been advertised only once and territory is going fast. That's what the experienced men in the business think of the picture. If you want an opportunity to learn how good it is you'd better write, wire, phone or call IMMEDIATELY.

ARGOSY FILMS (INC)

1600 Broadway
NEW YORK

P.S. "WHERE D'YE GET THAT STUFF?" went big in a downtown Broadway, New York, house. It went big in an up town New York neighborhood house. It get's 'em everywhere. When you see all the STARS in this picture who are NOT billed, you'll appreciate what a whale of a production this is. Quick action is desirable if you want to get in on this big success.

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO 96 (Nov. 30).

Port Washington, L. I.—New giant seaplane has her trial trip around Manhasset Bay.

Berkeley, Cal.—Shirt waists and fans predominate at the Washington-California game at Berkeley, while spectators at the Harvard-Yale game are chilly in fur coats.

New Orleans, La.—Miss Georgine Kohn sends a turkey weighing 35 pounds to President Wilson.

Philadelphia, Pa.—In the presence of William A. Rockefeller, a mammoth oil tanker is launched.

San Fernando, Cal.—Farmers in this locality find a new field of usefulness for their automobiles.

Latest fashions in motoring and rain coats, posed by dainty models presented in this number of the Selig-Tribune.

Chicago, Ill.—Industrial Workers of the World scatter the ashes of Joe Hill into the waters of Lake Michigan.

Chicago, Ill.—Health Commissioner Robertson's diet squad gain weight upon individual menus costing 40 cents daily.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Thanksgiving turkey auctions draw the crowds in spite of the high-cost-of-living.

New York, N. Y.—Over 50,000 people throng the Polo grounds and see the Army defeat the Navy by a score of 15—7.

Denver, Colo.—Booze valued at thousands of dollars is confiscated and destroyed by city officials charged with enforcement of the Prohibition law.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 97 (Dec 4).

Corpus Christi, Texas.—This review of the 2d and 3d Texas Infantry proves the fact that maneuvers on the Mexican border has made real soldiers.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Children pursue the occupation of "Rushing the Growler" of spring water to Fairmount Park. The city supply of water tastes bad.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—W. I. Alexander erects a granite monument in a vacant lot as a testimonial for President Wilson as having "kept us out of war."

New York, N. Y.—The Old Guard Veteran Battalion raises "Old Glory" and fires a salute of 21 guns honoring the old custom.

Byberry, Pa.—The young women of this town settle a dispute by racing their automobiles in a bitterly contested race, which almost results seriously, when one car goes through the fence.

New York, N. Y.—A Fifth avenue parade and a review by Governor Whitman form part of the home-coming ceremonies of the 7th Regiment on their return from service on the border.

Latest fashions in furs, posed by pretty models, are presented in this number of the Selig-Tribune.

Pasadena, Cal.—With waste paper so precious that churches are receiving it in place of silver offerings, Jack Cudahys children are busy collecting old newspapers to sell, and send the proceeds to the war orphans of Europe.

Boston, Mass.—H. H. Brown, of Williams College, wins the ten mile Cross Country Race.

THE FIVE FRANC PIECE (Two Parts—Dec. 18).—The cast: Napoleon Bonaparte (Lafayette McKee); Brigadier Jean Villiars (Chas. Wheelock); Jean Villiars (Chas. Wheelock); Allen Green (Barney Furey); Margaret Wilson (Edith Johnson). Scenario written by Myles D. Savelle. Directed by F. J. Crandon.

Napoleon, anxious to make his issue of five franc pieces popular with his subjects, secretly places an order for one million francs in one of his coins, mixes this particular coin with a hundred others, and passes them among those whom he thinks most worthy. One of the coins falling into the hands of Brigadier Jean Villiars, is handed down three generations to his descendant, Jean Villiars.

Jean, an ambitious and young inventor, perfects and patents a device for wireless control of torpedo boats. Allen Green, an unscrupulous promoter, resolves to steal Jean's plans from a cabinet after Jean has refused Green's offer of $10,000 for the idea.

One night Jean has a vivid dream in which his attention is called to an old heirloom, an antique box on the table. That night Green steals into Jean's bed-chamber in an attempt to steal the plans. He does not know that the cabinet on the wall is wired with electricity, and when he endeavors to open it, he is thrown to the floor where Jean finds him and delivers him to the police.

Margaret Wilson, Jean's sweetheart, reads in a French paper that an order for a million francs issued by Napoleon, and placed in an old coin, still holds good. She thinks of the five franc piece owned by Jean. She summons the gardener to file the edge of the coin, and there the money order is found. Thus is Jean shown a way to promote his invention and marry the girl he loves.

THE MAN HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN (Dec. 23).—The cast: Allan Westcott (Robyn Adair); Little Allan (Buddy Harris); Allan's Father (E. J. Brady). Written by Hettie Gray Baker. Produced by Burton L. King.

Allan, a hobo, but evidently a man who has had opportunities which good birth and education offer, happens upon a little poem in a newspaper which had been wrapped around a lunch given him at a back door. As he thinks of the lines, a vision comes of little Allan, "the lad he used to be," who brings to him visions—his boyhood, his start in life with his rich and doting father, his beautiful wife; and then, visions of "the man he might have been." His message given, little Allan disappears.

Too ashamed to go to ask forgiveness, Allan is nevertheless drawn toward his old home. On the walk he meets Florence, his wife. She passes on, but at the steps suddenly turns and holds out her arms to him, forgiving.

ESSANAY.

IS MARRIAGE SACRED? No. 1, "The Burning Band" (Two Parts—Dec. 16).—The cast: Florence Martin (Marguerite Clayton); Chester Randolph (Sydney Ainsworth); Rev. Martin (Thomas Commerford); William Conklin (Edward Arnold)

Florence Martin, tired of her village home, elopes with Chester Randolph, city chap. Randolph turns out to be a crook whose cruelty finally drives Florence to desert him. Her wedding ring is the burning band. She obtains a position as a secretary to a millionaire's wife and falls in love with Conklin, wealthy youth. The newspapers report Randolph killed, and Florence weds Conklin. Then Randolph apears in her bedroom as a robber, discovers her marriage and seeks blackmail. Florence fears to reveal her past to her husband but finally, in an exciting scene, Randolph is shot to death by his crook "pal" and all ends well for the others.

THE LITTLE BROWN MOLE (Two parts—December 19—"Black Cat Feature").—The cast: Leila Fancourt, Olive Berkeley (Lillian Drew); Paul Fancourt (Sydney Ainsworth).

Olive Berkeley was the girl Paul Fancourt first loved. They were separated, however, and he married Leila. The violent temper of Mrs. Fancourt finally resulted in their separation. By fate's decree, she employs Olive, unaware of her identity, as her secretary.

In a tantrum, Leila dies of apoplexy. Olive, who still loves Fancourt, utilizes her strange resemblance to Leila to pose as his wife. She effects a "reconciliation" with him and, as he believes, is remarried to him. Then Paul detects her fraud by the absence of a mole on his former wife's cheek. Olive flees in terror, but Paul pursues and reclaims her, for he has found that his first love was the true one.

TAKING THE COUNT (Dec. 20).—The cast: The Cabin Steward (Ben Turpin).

A crowd of society women come to the wharf to get the Count on his arrival. Ben Turpin and another cabin steward are the only men to be seen in dress clothes. So they are promptly mistaken for the Count and his companion. The pair are entertained extensively and society tolerates their wild antics and believes them highly amusing. However, the police locate them and the pair find themselves back on the ship waiting at the captain's table after their one plunge into the whirl of society.

IS MARRIAGE SACRED (No. 2, "Dancing With Folly"—Two Parts—December 23).—The cast: Alice Drummond (Marguerite Clayton); Herbert Stanley (Sydney Ainsworth); Mrs. Charlton (Lillian Drew); Enoch Drummond (Edward Arnold); Rev. McMillan (Thomas Commerford).

Enoch Drummond, chemist, shows more love for his laboratory than he does for his young and spirited wife, Alice, so she seeks the companionship of the blase Mrs. Charlton in the city. At a masked ball she meets and is flattered by Herbert Stanley, a social viper. He ensnares the innocent young wife, imprisons her in his flat and demands money as the alternative from compromise. Alice makes a clean breast of her predicament to Enoch who, instead of blaming his wife, realizes that the fault was his own. The tenseness is softened by the aged Rev. McMillan's comedy love affair.

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME (Dec. 13).—Mr. Green, a prosperous architect, is tried by his wife's fads. Her latest one is charity. Over the breakfast table she tells him her plan for various charity affairs. She gives his clothes to beggars and each day the army of solicitors is increased and she sends them to hubby's office. When she learns that hubby turns them away she is dumbfounded. She goes so far as to put a drunken woman to sleep in his bed and it is up to hubby to sleep on the floor. The next day Green gets a brilliant idea.

He purchased six dogs and takes them home with him, and when wifey asks the reason she is informed that he believes in animal charity. Trying days follow; he brings home a monkey, several kittens, white mice and an old skate of a horse which he turns loose on the lawn. He next brings home a sick elephant and is confident the elephant will recover if allowed to play on the front lawn with the horse.

That night at dinner Green is enthusiastic over plans for a home for stray animals which he thinks would look nice on the front lawn. They then agree to give up their charities and Green makes out a check for the Bide-a-Wee Home and one for the Associated Charities.

THEY PRACTICE ECONOMY (Dec. 20).—The Newlyweds, on checking up their month's expenses, are appalled at the size of their bills. They decide to begin at once and economize in everything. He walks to the office to save carfare and loses his hat and tears his clothes. She discharges the maid and in washing the dishes drops an armful of her best china and breaks it. He discharges his office boy and sweeps out the office himself, breaking up furniture and losing his best client by suffocating him in dust.

They are invited to the opera that evening and he hurries home to dress. To economize he shaves himself and she presses his trousers. Unaccustomed to shaving,, he cuts himself badly and while she runs for a doctor, the flat iron burns through the trousers and ruins the dining-room table.

In her haste to get a basin of water for the doctor, she swings the gas jet against the lead water pipe and eventually a hole is melted in the pipe. To save a plumber's bill, he decides to fix the leak himself. She discovers that the dinner is burning up on the stove and pours water on it. The resultant steam burns her hands. He runs for the doctor, and the water pipe, left to itself, floods the house.

Unable to go out, they make a scanty supper on crackers and milk, during which he figures up their savings for the day. They find that they have saved $4.20 at a cost of about $900, so he cuts the word "economy" out of the dictionary and tears it up.

VIM.

WHAT'S THE USE? (Dec. 15).—Mrs. Pokes is president of the Gossip Club. Pokes, her husband, very much hen-pecked, is chief cook, dishwasher and general maid of all work about the house. Mrs. Gift of Gab is scheduled to speak on "How to Keep Husbands at Home" at the club that afternoon. When Mrs. Pokes receives this notice she puts Pokes to work at the dishpan and leaves at once for the club.

Pokes drowsily continues his task. His manhood, however, asserts itself and he resolves to declare his independence. Forthwith he takes off the apron. After writing his wife a farewell note and taking an affectionate leave of the dog, his only friend, he leaves the house. Finding shelter in a moving freight car, he rolls on his way to liberty.

Mrs. Pokes returns only to find Pokes gone. Thrown on her own resources, she hangs out a sign "Rooms and Board." The side-door Pullman in which Pokes is traveling stops, and Pokes emerges in a strange town. Walking down the street he sees a sign "Furnished Rooms" and decides to rent one. Mrs. Jabbs keeps the rooming house and her politician husband has her under his thumb. Pokes sympathizes with her, so when Jabbs returns home and demands the room rent money that Pokes has just paid, threatening his wife with blows, Pokes bravely interferes and drives Jabbs away.

To cool his temper, Jabbs takes a trip on a train and gets off in the very town that Pokes has left. By a strange fate, he takes board at the home of Mrs. Pokes. Time passes. If the newspapers had been carefully scanned, two divorce and two marriage notices might have been read. Two honeymoons are next in order and at a quiet little hotel well named "Harmony," the Pokes and Jabbs and Jabbs and Pokes meet. Such complications! They beggar description. Mrs. Pokes arming herself with a tray of dishes decides to take the law in her own hands and settle affairs. Jabbs is knocked out and so is Mrs. Jabbs. Pokes arrives just in time to get a crack on the head with a plate which rudely awakens him from his slumber, and he realizes he is still in the kitchen. Still maid-of-all-work, still hen-pecked, Pokes longs for the day when dreams come true.

RECKLESS ROMEOS (Dec. 22).—Pokes, Jabbs and Reggie Gotrox are all members of the same club and at the same time rivals for the hand of La Belle Edna, a popular actress. Things being dull at the club, Pokes decides to call on Edna. With a headache for an excuse he slips away, procures a large bunch of chrysanthemums, presents himself at Edna's house and is admitted. Reggie, bored by a fellow club member, also decides to call on Edna. When Reggie arrives at Edna's home, Pokes is compelled to hide under the arm chair cover. Reggie is getting along very well when the door bell rings and none other than Jabbs is announced. Reggie takes refuge in the fireplace. Jabbs is smoking a cigar when ushered in the room, and throwing it in the fire place, the legs of his trousers become ignited and he has to crawl out, the chair cover is torn from Pokes and the three meet face to face.

Trouble is in the air, and they nearly come to blows when Edna enters the room and stops them. At her request they all adjourn to the club to await her decision. They finally receive a note at the club from Edna saying: "That the one who will escort her to a swell cafe and prove his love, she will marry." They are all willing, so much so that the dice cup is brought into play to decide. Pokes wins and starts out. He meets Edna just as she is coming out of her home and they go to the Palms Cafe. Dinner is ordered when Edna raises her veil and Pokes discovers he is escorting a mulatto. Horror-stricken, he rushes from the place.

Edna discloses her identity to the proprietor and the guests and they all enjoy the joke. She then telephones to Reggie at the club and he hastens to rescue her. She is seated when he arrives at the cafe and the dinner is served. When he offers to give her a piece of steak she removes her cape, and when he beholds the colored lady that he is dining with he takes a fit and beats it. Passing the club he meets Jabbs, and tells him that it is he (Jabbs) that Edna wants. Jabbs arrives at the cafe. When Edna throws back her cape and also removes her veil, Jabbs, who is ready for the play, laughs and tells her to eat and enjoy herself. Edna, to all appearances, is fairly caught, when in struts a big burly black man and demands that Edna accompany him.

Jabbs interferes and is knocked out. Edna takes to her heels with the black man in pursuit. The chase leads her to her own home, where she is overtaken by her pursuer. In the kitchen, while the black man flourishes a razor, Edna begs for mercy. The black man grabs a wet towel and wiping off the paint from one side of his face discloses the countenance of Pokes. At this juncture Jabbs arrives. Seeing Edna in Pokes arms is too much; he rushes on Pokes but is promptly pushed back on the hot stove. Reckless Pokes by his reckless ways is the most reckless Romeo and carries off the prize.

BIOGRAPH.

THE CONSCIENCE OF HASSAN BEY (Reissue—Dec. 18).—The cast: The rug maker's daughter (Lillian Gish); her sweetheart (Robert Harron); the rug maker (Alfred Paget).

This story is laid in Persia. The first scene opens in the old rug maker's shop where the young daughter and the young man employed by the rug maker are weaving rugs. They are apparently in love with each other. Presently, the bey of the province comes into the shop to order a new rug. He is struck with the beauty of the girl. Some hours later, seated on his throne, his dancing women fail to interest him. His thoughts are in the rug shop. He sends Timur, his most loved slave, forth to the old rug maker's and commands him to bring back the beautiful young daughter. Once in the presence of the bey, she refuses his advances and tells him of her young lover. That young person has followed her to the bey's palace and is ushered in by the faithful Timur. From her curtained chamber in the next room the favorite slave joyfully watches the bey's failure to interest the young woman. In wrath the bey orders the young woman and her lover to the dungeon, where wild beasts are prowling.

In the meantime, an Egyptian snake charmer appears before the bey and interests him in some rare collections from Africa. He decides to add to his collection and buys, among others, an especially poisonous viper. Then the designing Timur, who has always disliked the favorite, goes to the bey. "Two mistresses cannot be at peace in one house," says he, and he suggests that the favorite be put out and that the viper be placed in her jewel box. Thus, while the bey is asking the favorite to dance for his pleasure once more, the snake charmer and Timur enter her chamber and place the poisonous snake in her jewel box. When she places her hand in the box to put on her jewels, she receives the fatal bite. She dies in the arms of the bey who (as a stall) accuses the snake charmer.

Then the girl is brought from the dungeon and again refuses the bey's advances. She faints in his arms. The bey realizes that he is not only the idol of a province, but a man with a conscience. Going into the next room, he seizes his dead favorite, killed by his own hand, and summoning Timur, he tells him to free the boy and the girl. He returns to the chamber and thrusts his hand into the jewel box and meets with the like fate of his favorite and dies in her arms. There Timur finds him, a victim of his designs.

HIS WIFE'S STORY (Reissue—Two Parts—Dec 19).—The cast: Louise Blair (Vera Sisson); William Courtnay (G. Raymond Nye); George Fenmore (Jose Ruben); Henry Bryson (Charles H. Malles).

William Courtnay, a rising young lawyer, candidate for mayor, drops into a restaurant and there sees Louise Blair, a cabaret singer, whose superiority to her surroundings impresses him. Beckoning the girl to his table, he attempts to win her confidence and urges her to give up the unworthy occupation. His words make a deep impression on her. Outside the door of the restaurant a man confronts her, and she gives him money. This man, George Fenmore, has cast a shadow over her life, and now that he has found her again she gives up her position.

A few days later she secures employment in a book store. Courtnay gave the girl his card, but she had dropped it. Fenmore found it. When Courtnay opens his campaign headquarters the blackmailer applies for a clerkship. By chance Courtnay enters the book store and meets Louise again. She consents to become his private secretary. In his private office she comes face to face with Fenmore, but he reassures her. Henry Bryson, chairman of the campaign committee, discovers him threatening the girl, interferes, and is himself blackmailed by Fenmore, who has a hold on him also.

Courtnay urges Louise to marry him, and she consents.

Bryson influences Courtnay to discharge Fenmore, and the latter, forcibly ejected from the offices, goes to Louise, vowing vengeance. Courtnay enters and demands an explanation of the blackmailer's presence in his home. Louise tells how, as a young girl, she had eloped with Henry Bryson, and how Fenmore, his secretary, had discovered that Bryson already had a wife and child. A letter from Bryson's wife, which Fenmore had stolen, afforded ample proof that she had gone out of Bryson's life.

As she concludes the story, Bryson enters with news of Courtnay's victory at the polls. Fenmore, triumphant, asks: "How much will you gentlemen pay to keep this out of the papers?" Bryson, in fury, attacks him, and is killed by Fenmore, who later pays the penalty of his crime.

KALEM.

DUDES FOR A DAY (Nov. 28). The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan); Kluck (Henry Murdoch); Brique N. Mortar (A. Edmondson); Maggie Mortar (Ethel Teare).

Brique N. Mortar's fifth cousin dies leaving him a million or so. Brique and his daughter Maggie are not slow to blossom out in all the glory of wealth. Kluck, the clothier, finds business dull, so he determines to advertise. He hires Ham and Bud to parade the streets in evening clothes bearing a sign, "Kluck's Klassy Klothes."

But as soon as the pair escapes Kluck's watchful eye they discard the signs and decide to be real swells. They encounter the Mortars in the park and Ham extends an invitation to the select Castorbilt Ball that evening. Instead Ham and Bud take the newly-rich pair to the annual "Blow-out of the Gas House Gang." Then things begin to happen and they double their pace when Kluck, in search of his vanished fashion plates, arrives on the scene.

BORDER WOLVES (No. 17 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two Parts—Nov. 29).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Gordoza (Ronald Bradbury); Terry, the foreman (Hart Hoxie); Maria, a half-breed (Josephine West); Kennedy, ranchman (Edward Clisbee). Directed by James W. Horne.

Barbara, together with her father and John Wallace, journeyes to the Kennedy ranch, at Bordertown, near the Mexican boundary. Brent is seeking to purchase the Kennedy ranch and carries with him a letter of credit for fifty thousand dollars on the Bordertown Bank. A Mexican ranch-hand learning of this, carries the news across the border to Gordoza, leader of a band of brigands.

Through the treachery of Maria, a half-breed worker at the ranch, the attack of Gordoza's party is successful, and Barbara, John Wallace and Ace Brent are kidnapped and carried across the line to the bandits' stronghold. A vivid picture of a bestial rebel is painted in the stirring scenes that follow, leading up to a spectacular climax in a pitched battle between cowboys and brigands that effect the defeat of the Mexicans and release of the prisoners.

THE WIZARD'S PLOT (No. 7 of "Grant, Police Reporter—Dec. 1).—The cast: Tommy Grant, of The Chronicle (George Larkin); the woman in black (Ollie Kirkby); Prof. John Atwood (Robert Ellis); Inspector Rathbone (Harry Gordon); City Editor Mansfield (William McKey). Directed by Robert Ellis.

"Watch Marvelo; he is the most dangerous man in New York," says a note left at the Chronicle office for Tommy Grant by a mysterious woman in black. Grant investigates and learns that Marvelo is the name given the mechanical chess player at Sledin's Museum. He visits the museum and seeking to force his man to uncover his hand, leaves a note on the table when he is unobserved. The note reads, "Be on your guard; you are watched."

The ruse is successful, and Grant, following Prof. John Atwood, the man inside the dummy, when he seeks to make his escape, soon finds himself in the midst of a puzzling case. Atwood is an anarchist, with a fiendish plan to stop the war by blowing up a string of ammunition cars along the New York waterfront. With Secret Service operatives Grant succeeds in frustrating the plan in the nick of time. A motorboat pursuit results in the capture of Atwood and his accomplices.

THE TRIAL RUN (No. 107 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dec. 2).—The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); Arthur Lane (P. S. Pembroke); Morton, of the United (G. A. Williams); Superintendent Purdy (George Routh.). Author, S. A. Van Petten. Directed by Walter Morton.

Superintendent Purdy informs Lane that unless he brings in a big express contract for the road he will lose his job. At Helen's suggestion Lane calls on Manager Morton, of the United Fruit Growers. Later, on an auto trip, Morton's machine rams a telegraph pole and turns turtle on the railroad track pinning Morton beneath. Helen happens by on horse-back, and is vainly attempting to lift the auto when she hears the whistle of an oncoming train. Leaping on the horse, Helen hastens down the track to warn the train. But the trainmen miss her warning and she is forced to board the train by throwing her lasso over the brake rail and swinging herself to the car.

The train is stopped in time and Morton tells Helen, "Have your friend arrange for a trial run and if your road can beat the time on deliveries that we are now getting the contract is

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO.
220 West 42nd Street NEW YORK

his." On the day of the trial run, a dynamite explosion near the tracks hurls rocks on top of a freight engine, stunning the engineer, and sending the train running wild down the track towards the trial run special. Helen receives orders to derail the engine, but to save the engineer she decides on a desperate move. By a short cut she overtakes the runaway in an auto and leaps from the speeding machine to the freight, which is quickly brought to a stop.

JAILBIRDS (Dec. 5).—The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan); Roy L. Flush (Henry Murdoch); Flora Flush (Ethel Teare).

As bootblacks Ham and Bud incur the ire of Royal Flush, the gambling prince. But later when Roy finds himself in jail Ham and Bud get their chance for revenge by securing jobs as jailers. As jailers they are more laughable than capable, especially when Flora, Roy's pretty daughter, arrives to effect her father's escape. Ham's weakness for a pair of pretty eyes almost allows the scheme to go through, but vigilant Bud is on hand and the scheme is frustrated.

THE POISONED DART (No. 18 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two Parts—Dec. 6).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Ripley (Ronald Bradbury); Walai, Malay leader (Barney Furey); his aides (Edward Clisbee and Jack Rahmn); Tatsu (Y. Aoyama). Directed by James W. Horne.

Ripley, a mining expert, returns from the Orient with a sacred Malasian cat, which he presents to Barbara. Unknown to Ripley, he has been followed by three Malasians. They trail him to the Brent ranch at Los Alamos and take up their headquarters in an abandoned shack near the Brent home. On the night of Ripley's arrival the cat is left in the care of his Japanese valet, Tatsu. A cry in the middle of the night awakens the household and ranchmen, and investigation finds Tatsu dead, a mysterious wound from a poisoned dart proving that the assassin was a Malay.

A clue sends Barbara, Wallace and the Sheriff to the abandoned shack which they find deserted. Wallace and the Sheriff go off to the town in search of the Malays, while Barbara remains to watch the shack. The leader of the Malays appears from hiding and pounces upon Barbara. Tense gripping drama surcharges the scenes that follow, alternating between a stirring pistol duel in town before Wallace subdues the Malasians and Barbara's struggle to effect the capture of the leader. The clearing up of the mystery later discloses the fact that the bell on the collar about the cat's neck contained the famous Kadevan ruby, stolen from the royal palace.

THE TRUNK MYSTERY (No. 8 of "Grant, Police Reporter" Dec. 8). The cast: "Tommy Grant, of The Chronicle (George Larkin); Babette (Ollie Kirkby); Henri Theophile (William McKey); Mrs. Montt (Mary Taylor Ross); Monsieur Darnac (T. Justin Dow); Detective Galloway (Harry Gordon). Directed by Robert Ellis.

Cleaning out the attic of her boarding house Mrs. Montt comes upon an old trunk which discloses a skull to her startled gaze. Grant arrives on the scene for the investigation with Chief of Detectives Cadogan. They learn that Mrs. Montt purchased the house five years previous from Henri Theophile. The trunk was in the attic at that time but she had never examined it until this day. Investigating after Galloway's departure, Grant finds in the lining of the trunk a girl's photograph inscribed on the back, "To my dear Babette—Alphonse Darnac." Investigation in the filing room of the newspaper later brings to light a clipping telling of the disappearance of a boarder from the boarding house many years before and a hint that he had eloped with the daughter of the proprietor.

Grant evolves a daring scheme to uncover the five-year-old mystery. He inserts a personal reading "Babette—Your sweetheart, whom you thought dead, has returned. Meet him at the Abbey Inn Wednesday noon.—Alphonse Darnac." Babette, now a happy wife and mother, and Henri Theophile, a derelict, see the personal. Their mystification impels both to journey to the Abbey Inn, where Grant and Galloway are in waiting. The meeting brings on stirring complications before the mystery is solved, while Grant is called upon to show daredevil courage in bringing Henri to justice.

THE LINEMAN'S PERIL (No. 109 of "The Hazards of Helen" —Dec. 9). The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); Dick Benton, lineman (P. S. Pembroke); superintendent of the road (G. A. Williams); his assistant (George Routh). Directed by Walter Morton.

Teddy, a Russian wolf-hound, is Helen's companion at the Lone Point station. Dick Benton, the lineman, takes Teddy with him when he goes down the track to fix a damaged wire. The breaking of his defective safety belt plunges him to the ground. He attempts to crawl to his hand-car on the tracks, but collapses on the rails after scrawling a hurried note that he is injured.

Teddy takes the message, written in the lining of Dick's hat, and hastens down the tracks to Helen's station. With uncanny intelligence he succeeds in forcing her to read the note just as the limited roars past the station towards the injured lineman. Helen sets out in pursuit aboard the engine of the officer's special on a siding near the station. By a daring leap to the top of the limited's coach she succeeds in getting the engineer's attention in time to bring the train to a stop within inches of the line man's prostrate form.

THE ICEMAN AND THE ARTIST (Dec. 12).—The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan); Rudolph Rhubarb (Henry Murdoch); Polly Peaches (Ethel Teare).

Observing the cordial welcome given the iceman by the pretty maids along his route Ham and Bud take the first opportunity to ride away in his wagon and go into the business themselves. After numerous laughable experiences they wind up at the home of Rudolph Rhubarb, the artist. They notice Polly, the artist's pretty model, making way with all the valuables in sight and call an officer. Polly is being hauled off to a cell when a professional looking stranger halts the party and proceeds to give Polly a doctor's examination. "This young lady is not responsible for her action," he declares, "she is a kleptomaniac." Rhubarb forgives Polly, the policeman departs, and Ham and Bud are left alone. They decide on a brilliant scheme. "You're going to be one of them maniacs," says Ham to Bud, "and I'll be the doctor." The scheme is put into operation and results in a whirlwind of complications.

THE STAIN OF CHUCKAWALLA (No. 19 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two Parts—Dec. 13).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Corn-Juice (Ronald Bradbury); Letech (Edward Clisbee); Parson Bob (Edwin Harley); Old Dave Sadler (Karl Formes, Jr.); Terry, ranch foreman (Hart Hoxie); Jake (Oliver Hall); Mackeral (Knute Rham). Directed by James W. Horne.

Chuckawalla is reputed as the "pizenest town that ever grew on a desert." It is near the Brent's Los Alamos ranch and its attractions for the cow-punchers are a constant source of trouble. Barbara sets out to "clean-up the town." She starts by buying the local paper and making herself editor. Then a red-hot campaign against the liquor interests, headed by the picturesque "Corn-juice," is set on foot. As the day of the local option election nears the opposition of the rough interests grows more and more desperate and Barbara is forced to the limit before a series of dramatic events results in victory for her cause and the removing of "the stain of Chuckawalla."

THE MENACE (No. 9 of Grant, Police Reporter"—Dec. 15).—The cast: Tommy Grant, of The Chronicle (George Larkin); Maura (Ollie Kirkby); City Editor Mansfield (William McKey); Jean Murot (Herbert Tracy); Detective Cadogan (Harry Gordon); Luigi Verra (Robert Ellis); the landlady (Mary Taylor Ross). Directed by Robert Ellis.

Jean Murot frantically begs Grant, at the Chronicle office, to print a warning in his paper against the holding of the police parade the following day. Grant promises, and returns to his desk thinking that he has been talking to a foolish crank. A few minutes later, Murot is dead outside the Chronicle building—a victim of a bullet fired by a revolver equipped with a silencer. Grant searches in the man's pockets for a clue to the mystery but finds only a small marble. He tells Cadogan of the man's warning but the detective laughs at it as a pipe dream. Grant sets about the job in his own way, however, with the result that he rounds up a dangerous band of anarchists, and prevents the attempt of Maura to throw a bomb at the police parade after a struggle atop a skyscraper.

THE MIDNIGHT EXPRESS (No. 110 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dec. 16).—The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); the express messenger (P. S. Pembroke); Gentleman Joe (George Routh); Banker Randall (G. A. Williams). Directed by Walter Morton.

Through the tapping of the wires a kang headed by Gentleman Joe learns of the shipment of a large amount of currency on the night express. By a daring scheme they hold up the messenger between stations and succeed in making their escape. They go into hiding near Lone Point waiting for the investigation to blow over. Through a clue furnished by Helen the railroad detective stumbles upon them but in the fight that follows he is overcome and the two crooks, boarding an engine in the yard, make their escape.

Helen sets out in pursuit on her motorcycle. As she nears the speeding train a flat car looms up ahead to block her path. But a plank running from the flat car to the ground offers a solution. Without a second's hesitation Helen runs her motorcycle up the plank to the flat car, and as the machine tumbles to the ground on the far side leaps through the air to the handrail of the train. In a second she has the crooks covered with her revolver and the train is brought to a stop.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

REX.

THE IVY AND THE OAK (Two Parts—Dec. 21). The cast: Stoddard (Lee Hill); Denton (Clyde Benson); Evans (T. D. Crittenden); Ivy (Dorothy Davenport); Nina (Lilliam Concord). Written by Alice Von Saxmar. Directed by Donald McDonald.

Stoddard, who graduated in law but who has never practiced, at his thirtieth birthday finds himself bored with life. He is in a frame of mind in which he cannot have faith in any one, not even the girl with whom he is in love. His friend, Denton, likens the friendship of Stoddard and his sweetheart, Nina, who is a clever actress, to the story of Ivy and the Oak.

Stoddard broods over the simile. At last he determines to ask Nina to tell him of her past life, but when he does so, she says that she has as much right to know of his past as he has hers. He will not take this for an answer, and finally she tells her experience. When she has finished, Stoddard informs her that their friendship is at an end. Brokenhearted, she accepts the ultimatum.

Stoddard seeks out his father's friend, Edward, a practicing attorney, and enters partnership with him, but first takes a month's vacation in the country. There he meets Ivy, a sweet country girl, and later they marry and return to the city.

Ivy proves to be of the vampire type, but as long as Stoddard can procure for her all her heart desires she is happy. The time comes when Stoddard is practically ruined; still not daring to refuse her slightest wish, he takes some bonds from the firm's safe—of course with the intention of replacing them.

Later, the owner of the bonds, who is none other than the actress Nina, calls for them. To the astonishment of Edward, the bonds are missing. As he is about to call detectives, Stoddard rushes in. He has come from a stormy scene in which he has told Ivy of his ruin. She has decided that since he cannot provide her with luxuries they must part.

Stoddard and Nina are surprised to see each other, but he confesses the theft of the bonds. He says that he did not know that they belonged to her. Begging her forgiveness, he promises to return them. She forgives him and signifies her willingness of sharing her lot with him, even though he is ruined.

THE WOMAN WHO LEARNED (Two Parts—Dec. 24). The cast, The Husband (Pete Gerald); the Wife (Edna Maison); the Vampire Man (Francis Ford); the Other Woman (Mme. Bourgeois); Mr. Brooks (Jack Holt); his Wife (Roberta Wilson); the Maid (Elsie Maison). Produced by Francis Ford. Written by Grace Cunard.

Edna's husband is unfaithful to her and has been accustomed to going out with the other woman. She is about to become a mother and broods over her loneliness. She finds a woman's card in her husband's pocket and becomes suspicious. She watches his office, sees a woman enter, and follows her in. The husband is caught in a compromising position with the woman, so the wife demands a large sum of money to spend on the expected child.

Twenty-five years later the son is known as the Vampire because of his hatred of women. Born while his mother was embittered by her experience, his hatred for women is almost uncanny. The Vampire attends a house party, and is shunned by the men but much sought after by the women. It is strange that though he hates women they invariably seek him out. One of the married women at the party takes a violent fancy for Mr. Vampire, which causes comment.

The maid at the house has taken a liking to the strange Vampire, who, on several occasions has spoken kindly to her. Mrs. Brooks, the married woman in the case, goes to his room, intending to leave a note for him. The maid is in a room near by and hears her enter. Brooks has suspected that his wife is pursuing the Vampire, and, securing a revolver, follows her. The Vampire man comes into his room, finds the note and reads it. The wife, meanwhile, has not had a chance to get out and hides behind some curtains. The maid, too, comes in and hides.

Brooks forces his way into the room and threatens to kill the Vampire Man, telling him that he knows that Mrs. Brooks is hidden there.

He is about to shoot, when the maid comes from behind the curtains. Brooks thinks that he is mistaken and apologizes. The wife realizes her wrongdoing, and, after her husband's departure, sneaks out, unseen. The Vampire Man sardonically smiles at the ways of women and reiterates his hatred for them.

BISON.

FIGHTING JOE, (Two Parts—Dec. 23). The cast: "Fighting Joe" (William V. Mong); Parson Huntley (Harry M. Holden); Mary (Maud Emory); Jim (Harry Griffith); Jack ("Buddy" Messenger); Boggs (William James). Written by William Parker. Directed by William V. Mong.

Parson Huntley, with a crowd including Mrs. Browne and Mrs. Olson, is tacking up a sign outside the church which reads "Christmas is coming, let us prepare for a good time in the Church." Both Mrs. Browne and Mrs. Olson capture their husbands just as they are about to enter the saloon and take them into the church. "Fighting Joe" arrives with his burro, "Brodie," and seeing the sign on the church gives it a laugh. The men in the saloon see him and they all prepare to fight Joe's name causes consternation to all except Boggs, a gambler, who does not know him. Joe enters and tells him of the sign. Joe changes the sign to read: "Christmas is coming, let us prepare for a good time in the Saloon."

The parson accuses them of sacrilege. There is a fight in which Joe takes the part of the parson, and gives the parson a large sum of money for his Xmas tree. He then leaves. In town, little Jack Jenkins finds his mother crying because her divorced husband, Jim Jenkins, won't leave their little home. Jack tells his father to leave and is abused by the latter. Jim then takes what little money there is in the house and visits the saloon.

He meets Joe and his friends, and, making himself disagreeable, is beaten by Joe and returns to vent his spite on his family. Boggs and his friend, seeing that Joe is loaded with money, attempt to rob him. Joe fights and gets the best of them. The fight is seen by little Jack, who begs Joe to go with him and "lick his father." Jim has just made up his mind to wreck the place, but at first sight of Joe he quickly disappears.

Joe's sympathy is aroused and he takes Jack out and buys all kinds of provisions and toys, and as it is Xmas eve he stays for dinner. The door opens and Jim enters, under the influence of drink. He attempts to strike Jack, but is told by the boy that "Santa Claus Joe" is there. Being afraid of the latter's fists, Jim slinks away. Joe tells Mary that he has a gold mine, and that half of it will belong to Jack if she will marry him.

In Pastor Huntley's church all are happy trimming the Xmas tree, when there is a report that "Fighting Joe" is coming. The men prepare for battle, but Joe declares that he is their friend, when he arrives with his arms full of presents, accompanied by Mary and Jack, whom he introduces to the congregation as his family.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

LITTLE PARTNER (Special Release—Three Parts—Dec. 19). The cast: "Sunny" Lewis (Agnes Vernon); James Allis (Franklyn Farnum); Frank Monroe (Wm. J. Ran); Bill Lewis (Clyde Benson); Mrs. Beacon (Adele Farrington); Reggie (Arthur Hoyt). Scenario by Calder Johnson. Directed by William Worthington.

James Allis and Frank Monroe are partners and strike it rich. On their way to town they stop at Bill Lewis' cabin where he offers them hospitality. Lewis is rather blue, for he has not been able to make a strike, and yet is anxious to send for his little daughter, "Sunny." He shows the partners her photo which wins their hearts.

Lewis finally decides that he will hold up the stage, and sends the money to "Sunny," telling her that he has made a rich strike. The boys in camp start out to look for the bandit. Jim discovers the picture of "Sunny" on the spot. They capture Lewis and he has to pay the death penalty. He exacts a promise from the boys that his litle girl shall never know how he died.

Jim and Frank tell "Sunny" that her father died in the discharge of his duty and laud him as a brave man. Sometime later, the partners decide to send her East to school, telling her that her father left a very valuable mine. One day, Mrs. Beacon, her aunt, reads in the paper that Sunny has inherited a valuable mine from her father and immediately she invites the girl to visit her. Her son, Reggie, tries his best to win the girl for her money, but she has a strong aversion for him.

Jim decides that he will investigate for himself this Mrs. Beacon. He thinks that "Sunny" is in love with Reggie. He soon comes to the conclusion that it is "Sunny's" money they are after. He sends her a fake telegram, saying that the mine has panned out. "Sunny" asks Jim to take her home with him instead of returning to college, and he explains what he has done. Arrived at the camp, Frank tries to make love to the girl, but she tells him that she loves Jim so the two men dissolve partnership.

NESTOR.

IT SOUNDED LIKE A KISS (Dec. 18). The cast: Lee (Lee Moran); Priscilla (Priscilla Dean); Eddie (Eddie Lyons); Father (Fred Gamble); Estelle (Vola Smith). Written by Bess Meredyth. Directed by Louis Chaudet.

Priscilla leads a very unhappy life because of the jealousy of her husband, Lee. She warns Eddie, an old college chum, not to pay any attention to her at the dance which they are to attend. Eddie is a suitor for the hand of the wealthy Estelle, but he is always getting mixed up in some scandal. Estelle finally declares that one more escapade on his part will finish everything.

Both couples attend the dance. When Priscilla and Eddie greet each other as old friends, the other two become jealous. They decide to amuse each other, but make rather a gloomy failure of it. Eddie leaves to get a drink and Priscilla follows the other two into the conservatory. When Eddie returns, she drags him into the conservatory and starts making love to him. Lee is awkwardly making love to Estelle and gets some of her hair caught in a button. The two are astounded by the sound of a kiss—Priscilla has purposely made the noise. Lee drags Priscilla away from Eddie while Estelle bursts into tears.

Lee takes Priscilla home and the two make up. Meantime, Estelle has phoned for father to take her home and the disconsolate Eddie proceeds to forget his troubles in drink, and then assumes proprietorship of a milk wagon, closely pursued by policemen. The pursuit becoming too close, Eddie dodges around a house and climbs into a window—which happens to be Priscilla's. She is dumbfounded and tries to hide him when her husband returns.

Estelle has caught a glimpse of Eddie in the milk wagon. Arrived at the house, she runs into Lee and informs him that Eddie is in the house. The two go to Priscilla's door and find it locked. The other two are cowering terrified inside the room. Priscilla discovers the blond hair on Eddie's coat and feels confident of his perfidy. Lee gets a gun and starts toward the door, but Estelle faints and he catches her in his arms. Explanations follow and Estelle returns to her father.

LAEMMLE.

HOMELESS (Special Release, Dec. 20). A beautiful pet dog, the greatest treasure of his mistress, while out riding one day in his mistress' automobile, is suddenly attracted by the sight of a cat. He jumps from the auto to chase the feline. During the pursuit the collie is lost and tormented by two small boys, who tie a tin can to his tail and chase him, keeping him running for all he is worth. Later he is rescued by a ragged boy, whose home is any place in which he can lay his head. Upon restoring the dog to his mistress the boy is rewarded by a home and good opportunities.

IMP.

IN THE DEAD O' NIGHT (Two Parts—Dec. 22). The cast: Steve Erogete (George Beranger); Dr. Pierre Bouryonne (Dougles Gerrard); Gloria Blain (Ruth Clifford); Adam Brogete ("Doc" Crane); Peters (T. Du Croe).

Steven Brogete is serving a term in prison. His millionaire father has long been failing and this is gloatingly watched by his unprincipled physician, Dr. Pierre Bouryonne, who decides to assist nature by putting some poisonous powder into the medicine. He then carefully substitutes his own name for Steve's in the will of Brogete.

The poison fails in effect and the doctor determines to use chloroform. He is in the act of administering it when the handkerchief is snatched from his hand. Terrified, he turns to confront Steve. Steve, behind the prison bars, has felt his father's need. By main strength he escaped from prison and returned home.

Steve finds the forged will and confronts the doctor with the evidence of his guilt. For a time the doctor attempts to hold the upper hand, but soon sees that Steve is in earnest, and, begging for mercy accepts the only course Steve offers—that of donning his convict clothing and endeavoring to make his escape.

Steve then goes to his father and kneels by his side. In a few moments, Gloria Blain, his childhood sweetheart and his father's ward, comes into the room. When the old man awakens, he finds his two loved ones near him.

A short time after the sheriff appears to tell Steve that he has traced a convict to his very door. Steve says that a short time previously he heard some one rush through the house. The sheriff with his dogs takes up the trail at the front door. Soon the dogs overtake the doctor, and when the sheriff arrives, the villain is dead.

VICTOR.

SO THIS IS PARIS (Special Release, Dec. 19). A young American couple tour Europe and meet with a succession of amusing adventures. They are followed about Paris by a Frenchman whom they think is a Customs House inspector. They discover their mistake when the same gentleman comes up to them and merely requests their autographs.

The crossing of the English Channel and a visit to Eiffel Tower and to many of the sights in Paris are among the unique scenes in this picture.

IT'S GREAT TO BE MARRIED (Dec. 22). The cast: "Baby Doll" (Eileen Sedgwick); her Mother (Louise Mayon); Ray, in love with the mother (Fred Church). Written and Produced by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke.

"Baby Doll" is growing up, but mother refuses to recognize the fact. She intends to keep her a child as long as possible. Ray is in love with the mother, and has never seen the daughter. He brings her a rattle to present to her. Baby sees the presentation and is angry. She hears her mother telling Ray that she is just eight years old, but in reality she is nearly eighteen. Ray urges the mother to marry him the day after Christmas.

The night before Christmas, Ray and her mother fill Baby's stocking, but Baby finds it very hard to be pleased with childish presents any longer. At the Christmas tree Ray meets Baby for the first time. There are plenty of children at the party, but Baby cannot play with them. She can think only of the marriage of her mother and Ray on the morrow.

Preparations for the wedding go on. Mother puts on plenty of paint to hide the wrinkles. Ray arrives at the house and Baby meets him. She confeses that she is eighteen, not eight. They understand each other very well. The minister arrives, and Ray tells Baby to put on her mother's hat and cloak and marry him. They drive away in Ray's machine before Mother discovers that she has lost her bridegroom.

L-KO.

SHOOTING HIS 'ART OUT (Two Parts—Dec. 20). The cast: A Janitor (Phil Dunham); a Jealous Husband (Vin Moore); a Painter (Dick Smith); His Wife (Margaret Russell). Produced by David Kirkland.

This is the romance of a poor dumbwaiter, an artist, his model, a jealous husband and a ladder. For the husband there survived nothing of the pleasure of matrimony but jealousy. For the wife, there was not even that resource. So when an opportunity came to her to pose for the interesting artist on the floor above she welcomed it with open arms.

She put on a distracting Carmen costume and took her stand on the model throne. The janitor of the building had a passion for art. He could not keep away from Dick's studio when beautiful models in all styles of dress were posing. The lovely Carmen was too much for him altogether, and he enveloped her too abundant charms in a fish net. They were disturbed in their art pursuits by the return of the husband, who, not finding his wife in her room, set out to find her. He took the usual extraordinary make of repeating revolver, which shoots a hundred times without reloading, with him.

He broke into the studio, and his wife and the janitor just succeeded in escaping through the dumbwaiter. They chased each other up and down in it, and finally landed on the roof. The husband grabbed one end of a ladder and the janitor took the other, and they teetered back and forth, trying to push each other over the edge of the building. Everything came to an end at last in a general smash-up.

JOKER.

JAGS AND JEALOUSY (Dec. 23). The cast: Wife (Gale Henry); Husband (William Franey); Sculptor (Charles Conklin); Croob (Milburn Moranti); Dog ("Snooze" Franey). Written by Karl Coolidge. Directed by W. W. Beaudine.

The husband makes the acquaintance of the sculptor who tells of his conquests with women.

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO.
220 West 42nd Street NEW YORK

He discloses that he has made a statue which he keeps in his room across the hall. The husband gives his wife a comb.

One day when the wife returns to her apartment she finds the door locked. She is in her pajamas, so she hides in the apartment of the sculptor, who returns at that moment. Some crook has stolen the statue, so the wife takes its place and tries to persuade the sculptor that the statue has come to life. In her haste to escape him, however, she drops the comb.

The sculptor goes to the club and exhibits the comb as evidence. The husband, who is present, hurries home to accuse his wife. Meantime she has discovered the loss and has gone to the sculptor's rooms to find it. She is just coming out when hubby returns. He compels her to return to the sculptor's room, and arranges the door so that whoever comes in will be killed by the discharge of a gun.

The sculptor, finding his door locked and the apartment across the hall open, enters there and falls asleep. The wife's dog opens the door of the sculptor's apartment. The gun is discharged, awakening the wife and the husband, who fell asleep. The husband now realizes that he might have been a murderer and begs his wife's forgiveness. They return to find the sculptor peacefully sleeping in their bedroom.

BIG U.

THE WRONG HEART (Dec. 15).—This is the story of an Indian maiden who is in love with a young brave of another tribe, which is hostile to the one of which she is a member. But her father finds this out and, to prevent the match, he orders her to marry a certain member of the tribe. This she refuses to do and makes a plan with her lover to elope. But the lovers are found out, and he is killed.

UNIVERSAL.

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 49 (Dec. 6).

Play as Well as Fight.—"Anzac" soldiers just from Front, battle on football field under Australian rules, Queens Club—Kensington, England.

Launch Giant Tanker.—John D. Rockefeller's niece christens Standard Oil vessel William Rockefeller—Philadelphia, Pa.

The Gallant Seventh Back.—New York welcomes crack regiment from Border, and the boys are glad to be back—New York City. Subtitles: Landing from ferry. Up Fifth avenue. Welcomed by Governor Whitman.

Speed Madness Kills 4.—Fatalities mark desperate strife for gold and glory by auto racing kings—Grand Prix, Santa Monica, Cal. Subtitles: Where death lurks. Three bad accidents. The winner, Johnny Aitken.

John Harvard's Birthday.—Faculty and students placing wreath on Statue of Founder of Harvard University—Cambridge, Mass.

Safety First for Kiddies.—Police placing warning cards in stores in campaign to prevent accidents by which many are killed or maimed—New York City.

Fur Trimmings Continues to be Fashion's Fancy.—Designs from Maison Maurice. Subtitles: Afternoon wray of purple velvet trimmed with gray squirrel. Dark red velvet evening wrap with sable-dye flying squirrel fur. Royal purple and silver brocade opera wrap. A coat of ermine is very beautiful if you have the price—only $2,500!

Housecleaning a City.—Parade starts campaign to teach children value of "scrubbing"—Philadelphia, Pa. Subtitles: Starting in young.

Unique Preparedness Drill.—200 Freshmen training to qualify for college military troop, Baylor College—Waco, Texas.

Back from "World's Top."—Whaling ship returns from Arctic with rich load of ivory, fur, copper and whalebone—San Francisco, Cal. Subtitle: Some of the cargo.

Parade for Prohibition.—Gigantic turn-out of citizens enthusiastically endorses "dry" fight—Los Angeles, Cal.

Kiddies Helping the Birds.—School children put up houses to keep feathered songsters warm in Winter—St. Louis, Mo.

A Game Girls Like.—Indoor hockey is lively; fair young players take to it as easily as brothers—they don't mind a few falls—St. Nicholas Rink, N. Y. City. Subtitle: An enforced sit down.

Celebrate Evacuation Day.—Famous "Old Guard" marches to Battery, where British quit city 132 years ago—New York City.

Lighting Up Liberty.—Famous statue, France's gift to the United States, to be illuminated hereafter as a permanent nightly beacon at America's gate—New York Harbor. Subtitle: President and Mrs. Wilson arrive for lighting ceremony.

Mutual Film Corporation

GAUMONT.

THE VAMPIRES—(Episode Four, "The Dead Man's Escape"—Three Parts—Dec. 14). The cast: Philip Guard (Edmond Mathe); Enrique Moreno (Jacques Herman); Normandin (Marcel Levesque); Irma Vep (Juliet Musidora); Grand Vampire and Baron Maurice (Eugene Ayme).

Enrique Moreno, the criminal who had tricked the Vampires by impersonating the confidential bank messenger, was in jail charged with the murder which the Vampires had committed. Finding that his explanation is not accepted, Moreno taken a poison and is declared dead by the prison physician. His body is taken to the prison morgue. Moreno comes out of the trance which his supposed poison had induced, strangles the keeper and escapes. He swears to be revenged on both the Vampires and Philip Guard, the newspaper reporter, who had put him in the toils while pursuing the Vampires.

Philip is captured by the Vampires and thrown over a cliff in a large basket. They think him dead, but he manages to escape. By marks on the basket he finds that it has been delivered to Baron Maurice, who lives with his niece in a fashionable part of Paris. Thinking that some Vampire may be among the servants, Philip goes to investigate and finds that the Baron is the Grand Vampire. The niece is Irma Vep.

Returning from his spying expedition, the reporter accidentally meets Moreno in a cafe and denounces him. Moreno coolly swears that he is Philip Guard and that his accuser is the bandit. Much to Philip's surprise he insists that they both be taken to the police station. Two officers are called, and the four men get into an automobile. Moreno has tricked the reporter, however, and the supposed officers are his accomplices. Philip is taken to one of Moreno's haunts to be put to death. Suddenly the bandit tells him he will spare him if he will tell him where he can find the Vampires.

Philip cannot believe that he has heard aright, but Moreno tells him that he himself is relentlessly pursuing the Vampires because they tricked him after he had taken the money from the bank by impersonating the messenger. The reported tells him of the ball given that evening by Baron Maurice for his niece. Moreno hastens to it, but arrives after the big sensation of the evening. The Vampires have drugged the guests and stolen all their jewels. The Grand Vampire and Irma Vep are escaping with the loot when Moreno arrives. The precious gems have been packed in a trunk that is strapped on the top of the limousine. Moreno manages to climb upon the limousine, cut the straps and throw off the trunk while the

Holiday Greetings

Hampton Del Ruth

WITH

Sennett-Keystone Studios

Los Angeles

automobile is in motion. He thus tricks the Vampires.

Philip Guard is rescued from his prison by Normandin, his faithful friend, and soon after receives a note of thanks from Moreno for having put him on the track of his enemies and enabled him to acquire a fabulous fortune. Philip now swears to bring both the Vampires and Moreno to justice.

THE VAMPIRES (Episode Five, "The Eyes that Hold"—Three Parts—Dec. 21).—The cast: Philip Guard, cub reporter (Edmond Mathe); Normandin (Marcel Levesque); Enrique Moreno (Jacques Hermann); Colonel Kastel, a Vampire (Eugene Ayme); Irma Vep (Juliet Musidora).

After Moreno had robbed the Vampires of the jewelry stolen from the guests at the ball given by Baron Maurice, the Vampires determine to put him out of the way. Meanwhile they require funds and plan to rob the guests at a hotel of their jewels. The Grand Vampire, accompanied by Irma Vep, registers at the hotel where there is an American couple. The American has embezzled several hundred thousand dollars and has hidden the money in a park nearby. He has a map of the place so that he can readily find it.

The Grand Vampire keeps the guests of the hotel interested in a story of Napoleon's invasion of Spain while Irma Vep is supposed to be stealing the map from the room of the American. However, Moreno frustrates this plan by substituting another girl for Irma Vep and securing the map. He hypnotizes Irma Vep and carries her away to his own apartment. Despite his success so far, the foe of the Vampires is unable to get the American's money since it has been found by Philip Guard, reporter for the Mondial, who himself is tracking the Vampires.

Moreno takes Irma Vep to his own home and instructs her, while she is in a hypnotic trance, to fire a revolver at the first person who comes through the door. He then invites the Grand Vampire to visit him. Irma Vep shoots the man as he comes into the room.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

THE VALLEY OF DECISION (American—Five Parts—Dec. 4).—The cast: Young Manhood—Arnold Gray (Richard Bennett); Love—Jane Morton (Adrienne Morrison); Ambition—Rhoda Lewis (Blanche Hanson); Wisdom—Dr. Brainard (George Periolat). Directed by Rea Berger.

Arnold Gray (Young Manhood), a young man of means and reputation, is devoting his energies to fighting against child labor and other social wrongs. Rhoda Lewis (Ambition) is an influential club woman who is interested in Arnold. She is instrumental in bringing about his nomination for governor.

Arnold falls in love with Jane Morton (Love), who is a young woman of culture and high aspirations, who is making a name for herself as an author. They are married after a short courtship. Their married life opens happily with prospects of great work to be accomplished; she in the writing of a novel and he in the pursuit of his great ambition. During his absence in Washington in the interests of the Child Labor Bill, Jane realizes she is about to become a mother. Reserving the happy secret as a surprise for Arnold on his return, she makes preparations for the stranger.

Rhoda Lewis discovers Jane's expectations and strongly advises her against the bearing of the child, warning that it will interfere with the writing of her book, and burden Arnold with family affairs at this critical period in his history. Jane sees the logic of Rhoda's reasoning, but her maternal instincts gain the upper hand and upon Arnold's return she tells him the secret. Finally Arnold thinks the matter over and comes to the decision that it is not expedient for him and Jane to have the child and he convinces her of his view.

Arnold's campaign progresses satisfactorily and he becomes absorbed in politics. Jane's spirit and bodily strength is failing. She confesses all this to Dr. Brainard. Arnold is elected and hurrying home after the news finds Jane dead. He becomes governor, but all the zest has gone out of his life and he feels that he has been a complete failure.

Standing by the balustrade on the portico of the Governor's mansion one evening, the spirit of Jane comes to him and shows him the mystic realm of lost tomorrows—the shadow land of souls unborn and the joys that might have been. He sees his son that might have been, and he then turns to the spirit of Jane and with a heart full of yearning and remorse gathers her in his arms. As he does so the vision becomes a reality and he finds himself seated before the fire in his library with his arms about his wife, and realizes that he has awakened from a dream. As he and Jane sit before the fire the vision of a little child comes to them, and he gazes upon it with love and tenderness and a new realization of the meaning of life.

HALLBERG

IS THE FOREMOST PROJECTION EXPERT FOR M. P. THEATRES!

HIS LATEST

20th CENTURY

Motor Generator

HAS NO COMPETITOR!!

MR. W. F. HARRIS WOULD NOT SELL HIS HALLBERG FOR TWICE WHAT HE PAID FOR IT!!!

BROADWAY THEATRE

Hopewell, Va., May 20th, 1916.

J. H. HALLBERG, New York City.

Dear Sir:

I have had your HALLBERG 20TH CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR installed and it is better than I expected; everybody who has been in my theatre has remarked about it. One of the head men of the Du Pont Company's Electric Power plant, here, said it was the best machine he had ever seen. I would not sell it for twice what I paid for it.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) Broadway Theatre,
W. F. Harris.

I am distributor for all makes moving picture machines.

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-Page Catalogue, send 25 Cents.

I EQUIP THEATRES COMPLETELY AND CARRY "SPEER" AND OTHER MAKE CARBONS AND SUPPLIES.

Send $2.50 for latest Operators' Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY"

J. H. HALLBERG

7th Ave. at 49th Street

NEW YORK, N. Y.

Member Nat. Asso. Motion Picture Industry.

LONESOME TOWN (American—Five parts—December 11).—The cast: Louie (C. William Kolb); Mike (Max M. Dill); Fresno Phil and Squire Squirt (Harvey Clarke); Constable Digges (William Tedmarsh); Mrs. Wonder, the widow (Eugenie Ford); Hazy Fogg (May Cloy); Monsieur Dippe (Burdell Jacobs); Proprietor of Store (Frank Thompson); Old Watts (Charles F. Spencer). Scenario written by Al. Santell. Directed by Thomas Heffron.

The hub of the story is Watts, a town in Southern California, said to be a municipal orphan, whose founder has disappeared without leaving any forwarding address, and to whose heirs is now due the accumulated income of fifteen years. The action centers to this hub from three different points. The widow, Mrs. Wonder, poses as the gay relict of the late Isaac Watts and claims the city and all its wonders.

Mike, Louie and a nondescript yclept "Fresno Phil," also turn up as heirs, and to add to the mystery, and incidentally, the enjoyment, little Hazy Fogg, a child of charity, looms upon the horizon as a claimant, and finally the rightful one, supported by such an eminent and powerful friend as Squire Squirt of the legal luminary of the distinguished city without a city father.

For a time it appears as if the gay widow has the strongest claim. No opposition can stand before the flash of her eyes and the charm of her costumes. At the Hotel Watts, at the golf game, and other social and some unsocial functions at which the widow appears, all bow down and worship at her resplendent shrine. Even the memory of the Squire, once so clear that he had on a certain occasion signed a will for the missing Isaac Watts, making Hazy Fogg a sole legatee, forgets that important fact in the hypnotic smile of the widow and genuflexes as limberly as the others when she presents her credentials in the shape of a forged will and testament, bequeathing everything to her.

In the hope of eventually winning the town by first winning the widow, Mike, Louie and Oily Phil, each in turn, withdraws his claim, and the Squire, with judicial solemnity, somewhat mixed with native gallantry, reluctantly awards the case to the charming adventuress. About this time little Hazy Fogg, worn out and sleepy, casts herself down in the shade of the old apple tree and sinks into profound slumber. The roots have evidently struck hardpan, for the three has begun to grow upward out of the ground. It is shaky and even the slight weight of the child leaning against it sways it to and fro. With a crash it falls, tearing up the earth, and most wonderful thing of all, casting up a tin box with oceans of loose coin and a weather-beaten document which proves to be a will in her favor, signed by Isaac Watts and witnessed by Squire Squirt. A fade-in shows the widow hooing it to town along the railroad track, and a second fade-in shows the three hoboes gathered about a campfire, far, far from the land of Watts.

VOGUE.

TREED (Two parts—Dec. 17).—The cast: The Grocer (Larry Bowes); his daughter (Lillian Hamilton); his other daughter (Florence Rosee); the Clerk (Rube Miller); the Other Clerk (Owen Evans); the Oldest Inhabitant (Harry Huckins). Directed by Rube Miller.

In a village grocery are two clerks who are rivals for the hand of the grocer's daughter, Lillian. The grocer also has another daughter, but an ugly one who has one devotee in a septuagenarian, who is passing his declining days as a checker player in the grocery store.

Rube Miller is favored by the grocer's pretty daughter. She dislikes the attentions of the other clerk. Many mishaps take place in the grocery and the concern at many times is in a way to complete wreckage owing to the trouble occurring between the two quarrelsome lovers.

After a serious quarrel with his employer, Rube invites Lillian to the grove for a swing. They are followed by the ugly duckling and her aged suitor. Rube's rival comes down on the scene and tries to make love to Lillian, but he is given his congee by Rube in a matter most drastic.

Owing to the various intricacies of the love affairs of the other clerk, Rube can stand it no

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO., 220 W. 42d St., New York

longer and rebels. He is discharged. Rube plans to elope with Lillian, who now is about to be forced to marry Rube's rival and get a dowry also. Rube is told by Lilllian where the money for her dowry is hidden, and at the hour of elopement Rube takes the dowry. They elope in Rube's latest car, the Fierce Sparrow, guaranteed to go 2:10—two miles in ten days.

Nevertheless, Rube's plans are set awry, as a double wedding is planned, and Rube, owing to his misdemeanors, is forced to promise to marry the ugly duckling, and Rube's rival is to take Fair Lillian. When the guests are arranged for the double wedding, Rube takes the money and skips out with Lillian. With the dowry and the girl they start out to make their escape in Rube's auto. Just as he is about to make a good getaway in the machine he is missed by the ugly duckling. She sees Rube eloping with her sister. She informs the guests and Rube's rival calls the police, and excitement reigns. The police come on the scene in the village's latest vehicle and a chase takes place. Rube's auto comes almost to despair on several occasions and finally, with its occupants it leaps off a high cliff, sails over a yawning chasm and finally alights in a most hazardous position in a high tree. Rube is not beaten, for with the aid of various bombs, sky rockets, etc., he almost vanquishes his pursuers underneath. The latter, however, secure reinforcements, and a hardy woodsman starts with his trusty axe to cut the tree down. Rube, his would-be bride and the auto come tumbling to the ground. He is captured with the stolen money and makes several excuses, but to no avail. The grocer tells Rube that the only way he can avoid the penitentiary is to marry the ugly duckling. Rube takes one look at her and tells the policeman to lead him away, as he would prefer a term behind the prison walls than to be "hitched" to the ugly duckling for life. He is led away. Lillian collapses, then in spite, marries Rube's rival, and the ugly duckling is satisfied to marry the aged man.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 102 (Dec. 13).

At the Battle of the Somme.—Big gun fire is directed by telephone from observation balloons. Subtitles: The big 75s are rushed to more advantageous positions. The air squadron ready to leave at the first signal. A Zeppelin was brought down by an anti-aircraft gun. All on board were lost. The Cathedral ruins. Everything in the line of fire was demolished. Kids will be Kids, even in War times.

Hammonton, Cal.—World's largest gold dredge is launched. Can be operated by three men and digs 15,000 tons of dirt per day.

Norfolk, Va.—Wounded British soldiers, on way home, stop here. Liner "Retorua" en route to Australia with 102 incapacitated officers and men puts in here for coal.

New York City.—Statue of Liberty now permanently lighted. President Wilson gives wireless signal which floods famous statue with light. Subtitles: The President's progress up Fifth avenue was in a blaze of light. A bank of the flood lights.

Boston, Mass.—The new Berthier machine gun. State militia may adopt the "Devil's Bobcat."

San Francisco, Cal.—New Scenic Boulevard opened by mammoth auto parade. 8,000 cars carry 32,000 people over 28 miles of new scenic highway.

Paris, France.—M. Daucourt, the aviator, who bombarded the Krupp works at Essen.

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson addresses Congress at its opening. He recommends measures to prevent nation-wide strikes. Subtitle: Uncle Joe Cannon is back on the job.

Boston, Mass.—Boston Savants view "Charity" at Fenway theater. Mutual production is an expose, a discussion and a preachment in pictures on the subject of Charity and Child Welfare. Subtitle: The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson congratulates Mr. Jas. S. Roth, local Mutual manager, on the success of the production.

Washington, D. C.—Thrift taught with old paper. School children sell old papers to raise fund for playgrounds. Subtitle: The plan extends to the far West where Seattle children raise fund for Christmas presents.

Ventura, Cal.—Threshing lima beans. New caterpillar harvester and threshes employs only 16 men and does the work of 150 by the old method. (Exclusive pictures by Mutual Weekly.)

THE FALSE CLUE (Two parts—Dec. 4).—The cast: Henry Ross (Benjamin Horning); Marjorie Ross, his daughter (Dorothy Davenport); Robert Stanley (Lee Hill); William, the butler (O. B. Nair); the Maid (Lolande Fiada); David Lindsey, detective (Donald MacDonald).

Henry Ross, a retired banker, is found murdered by his butler. Suspicion points to Robert Stanley, a young man, who is in love with Ross's daughter Marjorie, but whose suit was not favored by the girl's father. The maid tells Lindsey, the detective, of overhearing Stanley ask Ross for his daughter's hand, just before he was found murdered and that a quarrel ensued. Stanley is arrested and later the butler tells his story. He relates that since the death of Marjorie's mother, the girl had been practically brought up by him and his wife. He then added that they were the only ones that knew of the secret marriage of Marjorie and Bob. Later Stanley is cleared of the murder and announces to the world his marriage to Marjorie.

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENDERS (No. 1, "From Civilian to Soldier"—Dec. 8).—The first chapter of this series deals with the citizens' encampment at Plattsburg, N. Y., showing the members receiving instructions in military tactics. The New York National Guard is shown in the Van Cortlandt Park encampment and in the mobilization before their departure for the Mexican border. The career of the regular army man is pictured from the time he makes his application at the recruiting station in Central Park to the time he is detailed at Fort Slocum. After fifteen days here a marked improvement in the rudiments of a regular army are shown.

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENDERS (No. 2, "Our Boys at the Border"—Dec. 15).—This reel shows the routine followed by the regular army boys on the Mexican border. It is full of excellent artillery and target practice and shows the infantry in sham battles and the machine gun squads in action. There is much detail of the mechanism of the breachlocks, sighting instruments, shell timing, and the loading and firing of a 4.7-inch gun. Bursting shrapnel shell and some good views of high explosives breaking in midair are also pictured.

ADMIRERS THREE (Dec. 9).—While Peggy is entertaining three callers the light goes out. One of them takes advantage of the darkness and steals a kiss. Peggy indignantly leaves the room, with a fraternal pin as the only clue she has to the culprit which she finds in the lace of her waist. This, however, is not much of a clue, as all of the boys belong to the same frat.

Peggy writes to each of the boys, who are roommates, and tells them that she must have the truth. As a means to get into their old footing with the girl, each one of the boys confesses to the crime. Bob is the first one to confess and

L. A. MOTION PICTURE CO.
Manufacturers of high grade studio equipment
215-217 E. Washington Street
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, INC.
220 W. 42d Street
New York City
"Ask the Exhibitor Who Owns One."

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England

MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

Are You Tired

of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The

Orpheum Collection

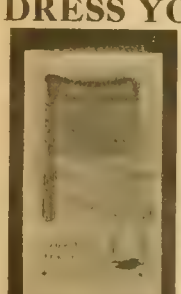
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:

No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.

CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

DRESS YOUR THEATRE IN A SWELL PROGRAM



SUPPOSE you went to the exhibitors' ball attired in an evening suit and tan shoes. It's unthinkable! But how about that well-built, well appointed theatre of yours? What sort of a program do you use? Patrons who have eyes to see pictures have eyes to see programs and if they are nice people, they have well-defined tastes for both pictures and programs. Unless you cater to the "groundlings" you need our created especially for the sort of patronage you enjoy. The De Luxe comes in a series of twelve beautiful designs and is printed in three colors. It is a prestige builder because it is a work of rare art. Inside pages for your full week's program.

4-Page Program De Luxe

No Expense Whatever

If you'll use the back page as advertising space. Territorial protection guaranteed. Samples for the asking. Ask now.

Cahill-Igoe Company "Direct Advertising Specialists" 117 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

Peggy sweetly forgives him. Then when Cort shows up with a confession, Peggy sends him from her in disgrace. Later the doctor calls to confess and he finds that Peggy has the mumps, so for a while he has the inside road. As soon as she is well, Peggy dismisses the doctor and decides to go to the boys' rooming place and see if she can discover to whom the pin belongs. Here she finds that Cort is sick in bed with mumps. The mystery is solved to Peggy's satisfaction, for Cort has been the one she has loved all along.

SEQUEL TO THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY—(Chapter 1, "Fate and Death"—Two Parts—Nov. 27). The cast: Blair Stanley (William Russell); Vivian Stanley (Charlotte Burton); Louise Grafton (Rhea Mitchell); Little Arthur Stanley (Dodo Newton); Quabba, the hunchback (William Tedmarsh); Marmaduke Smythe, English solicitor (Orral Humphrey); De Vaux (Ward McAllister).

Arthur and Esther Stanley and son, little Arthur, en route from Virginia to England, are victims of a train wreck. Father and mother are killed but the child escapes death. Quabba, the gypsy, now the king of the band, learns of the accident from his followers. He hastens to the wreck and finds the bodies of Arthur and Esther Stanley but finds no trace of their son. De Vaux, the conspirator, who has been shadowing the Stanleys, is also present at the wreck; he finds little Arthur and discovers The Diamond From the Sky suspended from his neck. He transfers the jewel to his pocket and disappears into the night carrying off little Arthur. Later Quabba sees De Vaux carrying the child into an orphanage, temporarily used as a hospital. Quabba awaits his chance and steals the child.

UNDER OATH, Chapter Two (Two parts—Dec. 4).—Quabba journeys back to Fairfax, Virginia, and places the child in the care of Louise Grafton, who comes to attend the funeral of her friends. Blair Stanley returns to Virginia from England and, upon meeting his coworker, De Vaux, Blair secures possession of The Diamond from the Sky. Quabba, bent upon getting possession of the diamond for the child, enters Blair's room at night and is discovered. A terrible fight follows in which both Quabba and Blair fall from the window to the ground. Quabba makes off with The Diamond from the Sky.

SEALED LIPS, Chapter Three (Two parts—Dec. 11).—Robert Holgate, upon returning from a long journey, calls on his fiance, Louise Grafton. By chance he sees little Arthur in company with a negro nurse. Robert questions Louise as to the identity of the child. His queries are met with evasive answers and he jumps to the conclusion that the boy is the illegitimate son of Louise. He is furious. Blair Stanley is passing as a wealthy Englishman interested in coal lands. He meets Louise by design and is seen in conversation with her by Robert, who instantly assumes him to be the father of the boy. He vows revenge on Blair. Vivian, wife of Blair, follows her husband to America to revenge herself for having been deserted. She also is in quest of The Diamond from the Sky. Learning of its whereabouts she visits the gypsy van. She finds the diamond just as Blair and De Vaux approach, bent on the same mission. She is not seen, but Quabba discovers the others. They set upon him and bind him and then make their escape. Vivian has slipped away unseen by any and has possession of the diamond.

THE CLIMAX, Chapter Four (Two parts—Dec. 18).—In making her escape Vivian falls over an embankment and is rendered semi-delirious. She wanders far and is found on the Grafton estate by Chloe—the negro maid. Louise takes her in hand and Vivian gives her the chamois bag for safe keeping. Not knowing its contents Louise tosses the bag in a table drawer in her room. Robert, having taken to drink to drown his fancied troubles, becomes intoxicated and wanders about the Stanley home in the absence of its members. He finds the diamond in Louise's room. Enraged, he thinks Blair has given the jewel to Louise. He rushes off with the diamond and meets Smythe who has just arrived from England. He invites Smythe to drink with him and they then play cards. Robert loses all his money and the jewel, too. Later Smythe is recognized by Blair and De Vaux and kidnapped. The diamond is found and taken by Blair. That night Blair meets his wife. They are caught in a storm and struck by lightning and killed. De Vaux in a struggle with Quabba falls down stairs and is also killed. Robert and Louise, now reconciled, finds the bodies of Blair and Vivian. The Diamond from the Sky, which has been a curse so long, is shattered into a million fragments.

Miscellaneous Subjects

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

HIST! AT SIX O'CLOCK (Dec. 18).—The cast: Tillie de Vamp (Betty Compson); Willie Loosem (Neal Burns); Ima Peach (Billie Rhodes); Count de Strychnine (Eddie Barry). Scenario by Wm. E. Wing. Produced by Al. E. Christie.

"The Loosem family must be exterminated root and branch, and the treasure made ours!" So speak the Count de Strychnine, as he lays plans to trap poor Willie Loosem. The Count has the able assistance of the beautiful Tillie de Vamp, who specializes in crowned heads and has only taken this little job to please the Count.

Willie receives a threatening note—"at six o'clock you die unless the tin box containing the treasure is placed in the old oak tree." Willie confides in Ima Peach his love, and together they hie to the old tower to hide the box. They fall into the Count's trap and Willie hides the box in the grandfather-clock. The Count ties Willie to the clock, which will explode at six o'clock, and ties Ima a short distance away. The gore hunters vamoos as the clock shows 5:58.

Ima bites the electric light wire in two and uses it as a magnet to turn the clock back. Saved! Burning the ropes, Willie and Ima escape pursued by the Count. He disguises as a cab-driver and is hired by Willie. The Count's henchmen put the clock on the top of the cab and they drop off, leaving Willie and Ima to ride to doom. 5:59. The dispossessed cab-driver sees his cab, mounts it, sees the clock, finds it fast by his Waterbury, and turns it back. Saved again!

The cab with the clock and treasure once more falls into the hands of the Count and Tillie. The hand reaches six at last and they are blown into the next county. The explosion throws the box into the air and it falls—in Willie's hands. He and Ima cash the treasure and live happily.

WORLD PICTURES.

THE RISE OF SUSAN. (Peerless—Five Parts—Dec. 18). The cast: Susan (Clara Kimball Young); Mrs. Joseph Luckett (Jenny Dickerson); Sinclair La Salle (Warner Oland); Ninon (Marguerite Skirwin); Clavering Gordon (Eugene O'Brien). Directed by S. E. V. Taylor.

Susan, a young girl, the support of her old uncle, earns her living in Madame Millet's fashionable shop. She almost loses her position through her rebuff of the advances of Madame's son, but the arrival of a rich customer renders her services as model necessary. The customer, Mrs. Luckett, a parvenu, struggling desperately to get into society, is struck by Susan's beauty and ladylike bearing, and when a Countess, whom she intended to use as an entering wedge into society, fails to appear, she prevails upon Susan to assume the role of Countess for a night.

Susan is a great success and society goes mad

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby Display Frames
304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

Minusa Gold Fibre Screens; Sanozone, the perfect deodorant; Power, Simplex and Baird Machines; Motor Generator Sets and General Supplies.
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

OUR CATALOGUE OF Brush Electric Lighting Sets
contains more useful information about electric lighting in general than any other book ever issued. Write for it today.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

AMERICAN STANDARD
MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
FIRE PROOF
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

Will you give one family
A MERRY XMAS DINNER?

We are but your agents—you are the host.
300,000 poor people cheered last Xmas in the U. S. by The Salvation Army.
Help us in this way to get close to these people. Give them at least one happy day in the year.
$2.00 Feeds a Family of Five
Send Donations to Commander Miss Booth
118 West Fourteenth Street, New York City
Western Dept., Comm. Estill, 108 N. Dearborn St., Chicago

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO., 220 W. 42d St., New York

Dependable Light

UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC GENERATOR SET
4 K.W., 60 or 110 Volt, Smooth Direct Current, Flickerless Lights. Used for General Lighting Purposes, Moving Picture Machines, Battery Charging, etc.
Write for Bulletin No. 20 to UNIVERSAL MOTOR CO. Oshkosh, Wis.

The Universal Camera
for Motion Photography
Now equipped with new automatic dissolve—producing a true, clean fade-out and fade-in effect.
Write for illustrated catalogue
UNIVERSAL CAMERA COMPANY
559 West Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO
BRANCHES: 1007 Times Bldg., New York; 811 Market St., San Francisco

over the titled lady. Mrs. Luckett is delighted and insists that Susan continue to play the role. At first Susan refuses, but Mrs. Luckett's pleas and the sudden death of her uncle cause her to change her mind, and she decided to go through with the part. As the Countess, Susan wins the heart of Clavering Gordon, a wealthy and attractive young bachelor. Mrs. Luckett had hoped to "land" Gordon as husband for her daughter, Ninon, and she resents Susan's rivalry.

She tells Susan that the disappointment of losing Gordon is killing Ninon, and urges her to go away. Though now deeply in love with Gordon, Susan decides to sacrifice her own feelings to save Ninon. She is about to leave when La Salle, Mrs. Luckett's scheming social secretary, tells her that Ninon is a confirmed drug fiend, and would only ruin Gordon's life. He persuades Susan that she owes it to Gordon to marry him, and save him from Ninon and at last Susan is won over by his arguments.

Just before the marriage ceremony, the scheming secretary reveals his true motives. He demands a large sum of money from Susan on penalty that, if she refuses, he will reveal to the assembled wedding guests that she is not a Countess, but a poor working girl and an impostor. Susan is dismayed. Determining that she will go no further with the deception, and scorning the secretary, she rushes into the midst of the wedding party and confesses all. Before the astonished Gordon or any of the other guests can stop her, she disappears.

Seeking to forget her sorrow and unhappiness, Susan becomes a nurse, and by her sweet unselfishness, wins the love of all whom she meets. After Susan disappeared, Gordon searched in vain, and finally despairing over the results and giving up all hopes of ever finding her, he marries Ninon, in the hope of reforming her. His hopes are vain, for with the years Ninon has grown continually worse, until she has become a shattered wreck. Susan is called upon to nurse her, and though torn with conflicting emotions, when she learns that Ninon is the wife of Gordon, the man she loves, Susan tries desperately to save the drug-crazed woman.

After a fierce struggle, the maddened Ninon succeeds in blinding Susan with a pair of scissors, and then flings herself from the window to her death in the court below. Gordon meets the blinded Susan, and after a brief courtship the two are married. In their great love they are rendered doubly happy by indications that Susan's sight is about to be restored.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

THE AWAKENING OF HELENA RICHIE (Rolfe Photoplays Inc.—Five Parts—Dec. 18)—The cast: Helena Richie (Ethel Barrymore); Lloyd Pryor (Robert Cummings); Benjamin Wright (Frank Montgomery); Dr. Lavendar (J. A. Furey); Little David (Maury Steuart); Sam Wright (Hassan Mussalli); Deacon Wright (William Williams); Frederick Richie (Robert Whittier); Dr. King (Charles Goodrich); Mrs. King (Hattie Delaro); Mrs. Wright (Mary Asquith). Directed by John W. Noble.

To the village of Old Chester comes Helena Richie in search of balm for a broken heart. Her dissolute husband, in a drunken rage, has killed their little child. This tragedy induces Helena to listen to the pleadings of Lloyd Pryor to leave Paris, where the Richies are living, and come to America with him.

Pryor makes frequent visits to Helena in the little home he establishes for her in Chester, and the towns-people accept the statement that he is her brother. Old Benjamin Wright, however, has his own suspicions as to the relations between the two. His interest is more than a casual one, for his grandson, Sam Wright, a young poet, is in love with Helena. The old man tells him his belief with regard to Mrs. Richie. Sam asks her whether the suspicion has any foundation, and when she admits that it has he kills himself.

Dr. Lavendar, the kindly old minister, has in his charge a child who needs a home. He has decided to send the little boy, David, to Mrs. Richie for a trial visit. She welcomes the boy, who fills the place in her heart left vacant by the death of her own child. Her heart becomes bound up in the boy, though she is torn by conflicting emotions by the thought of her own false position.

Helena's husband has been in such feeble health, owing to his dissipations, that she has constantly expected his death to release her, so that she and Pryor may be married. Finally the long-expected event happens, but Pryor has tired of her. His promise of marriage has been nothing but a ruse to get her to elope with him. Looking about for an excuse to break the bonds which have become irksome to him, he tells her that she must give up David. She refuses and he says she must choose between the child and himself. Realizing Pryor's unworthiness, she clings to the child, and Pryor leaves her.

Helena goes to Dr. Lavendar, tells him the truth about her past relations with Pryor, and asks him to let her keep the child with her always. The old man's answer is: "Can you teach him to tell the truth, you who have lived a lie? Can you make him brave—you who could not endure? Can you make him honorable—you who have deceived all"? Helena is silent in the face of this accusation. She decides to give David up, and to leave Old Chester. She tells Dr. Lavendar that on her way to the station next day she will come to bid David goodbye.

Next day at the rectory Dr. Lavendar asks her to take with her a parcel which she will find wrapped up in the coach. She promises, and in the coach finds the package to be little David, all wrapped up for traveling. Her willingness to sacrifice her own happiness for the boy has proved her worthiness to keep him, and Helena and little David leave Old Chester to find peace among new surroundings.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

THE HONOR OF MARY BLAKE (Five Parts—Dec. 18).—The cast: Mary Blake (Violet Mersereau); Flossie Payton (Tina Marshall); Mrs. Hardy (Caroline Harris); Kirk Hardy (Sidney Mason); Richard Kearney (James O'Neill). Scenario written by John C. Brownell. Directed by Edwin Stevens.

Mary Blake and Flossie Payton are actresses who chum together and live in the same rooming house in New York. Richard Kearney, wealthy theatrical manager, offers Mary an important part in a new play, and when the girl goes to his office to discuss matters, Kearney makes love to her. She repulses his advances, and goes home to relate her experience to Flossie.

The next morning there comes to Mary a note from Kearney offering marriage as atonement for his previous conduct, and Flossie urges Mary to "take a chance." This Mary decides to do, and, going to Kearney's office, accepts his proposal. Shortly after Kearney and Mary leave the office to be married a woman enters and asks for her husband, Mr. Kearney.

The office boy tells her that Mr. Kearney has just left to be married. From the boy she gets his home address and when Kearney and Mary return from the church where they were wed, the woman is waiting for them. Confronting the pair, she makes Kearney admit that his marriage to Mary is illegal, because he was married in Australia to the woman who has now appeared after an absence of many years.

Mary, broken-hearted, returns to Flossie and her furnished room, tells her sad story and, comforted by Flossie, decides to go with her chum on tour with a traveling repertoire company. The little town of Hillsdale is the first engagement to be played by the Manhattan Co., and there the show remains a week. One day Mary takes a stroll in the fields and woods near town and is attacked by a tramp who overtakes her in a lonely spot.

The girl's screams are heard by Kirk Hardy, a wealthy young farmer, who rescues her. The acquaintance thus begun is continued. Hardy's mother is a flinty-souled member of the church and the deacons quickly spread the horrible news of her son's social downfall.

When the Manhattan Repertoire Co. ends its engagement at Hillsdale and must leave for the next town, Mary is suddenly stricken with pneumonia and is left behind. Kirk hears of the girl's illness and supplies her with medical attention and nurses, frequently going himself to sit by her bedside. Their love progresses and when the girl recovers they are married.

Richard Kearney had, meanwhile divorced his wife, and learns through Flossie, with the Manhattan Co., that Mary is living at Hillsdale, happily married. Kearney, bent upon possessing the girl, at all cost, goes to Hillsdale, secures an interview, and while Kirk Hardy's mother listens at the door pleads with Mary to go away

Electricity
at your fingers' ends

HAWKINS GUIDES

3500 Pages $1 A VOLUME
4700 Pictures $1 A MONTH

Gives you a complete, practical working course in Electrical Engineering. Easy to study and apply. Every important electrical subject covered so you can understand it.

Books are pocket size; leather covers. Order a set today to look over.

LEARN ALL ABOUT

Magnetism—Induction—Experiments—Dynamos—Electric Machinery—Motors—Armatures—Armature Windings—Installing of Dynamos Electrical Instrument Testing—Practical Management of Dynamos and Motors—Distribution Systems—Wiring—Wiring Diagrams—Sign Flashers—Storage Batteries—Principles of Alternating Currents and Alternators—Alternating Current Motors—Transformers—Converters—Rectifiers—Alternating Current Systems—Circuit Breakers—Measuring Instruments—Switchboards—Wiring—Power Stations—Installing—Telephone—Telegraph—Wireless—Bells—Lighting—Railways. Also many Modern Practical Applications of Electricity and Ready Reference Index of the ten numbers.

Shipped FREE

Not a cent to pay until you see the books. No obligation to buy unless you are satisfied.

Send Coupon now—today—and get this great help Library and see if it is not worth $100 to you—you pay $1.00 a month for ten months or return it

THEO. AUDEL & CO., 72 Fifth Avenue, New York

Please submit to me for examination Hawkins Electrical Guides (Price $1 each). Ship at once, prepaid, the 10 numbers. If satisfactory, I agree to send you $1 within seven days and to further remit you $1 each month until paid

Signature.....
Occupation.....
Business Address.....
Residence.....
Reference.....

M.P.W. Dec. '16

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.
9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

High Grade Printing and Developing

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Prompt Delivery.
Negatives Developed—1c. Ft. Positive Printing—4c. Ft.
Give Us a Trial

Wayne Motion Picture Company
229 Farwell Building, DETROIT, MICH.

PERFECTION IN PROJECTION

GOLD KING SCREEN

GOLD KING SCREENS ARE BEST

TEN DAYS FREE TRIAL

GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

with him. When she again repulses him, Kearney uses his strength to overpower her and forcibly kisses her just at the moment Mrs. Hardy stealthily opens the door and looks into the room.

The mother tells her son; Kirk accuses Mary and she makes no attempt to deny the incident, explaining that she was helpless and that she had nothing to do with Kearney visiting her. Kirk goes to the hotel, meets Kearney and when the showman asks Kirk to take a drink, Hardy seemingly accepts the courtesy, but promptly dashes the poured-out whiskey into Kearney's face. In the fight that follows, a revolver is discharged and Kearney is dangerously wounded.

With her husband under arrest, Mary goes to the hotel and nurses Kearney so capably that she saves his life. Hardy is released, explanations are forthcoming and the happy ending is attained when Kirk and Mary are reunited and Mrs. Hardy contributes her blessing.

UNICORN FILM SERVICE.

JIMMIE DALE, ALIAS THE GREY SEAL (Fourth Episode—"The Metzer Murder Mystery"—Two Parts—Dec. 5).—Balked at their attempt to get rid of Marie La Salle, the Crime Club contrives to get the papers that incriminate them in the matter of the murder of the girl's father and uncle. Cornering Marie in a hotel, they are about to succeed in their devilish work, when Jimmie Dale, the Grey Seal, saves her. Getting the girl home in safety, he arrives at his mansion in time to answer an urgent telephone call from Carruthers, his friend and editor of a newspaper that has offered $10,000 for the capture of the Grey Seal. The message was that Jack Metzer, a stool pigeon, has been murdered and that a grey seal has been found on his forehead.

Jimmie is disturbed that anybody should soil the name of the Grey Seal with the crime of murder. He goes to the spot of the murder with Carruthers, as a cub reporter. A careful examination of the Grey Seal shows him that it bears a finger print—a sure sign that he did not place it there—as he is careful not to allow his fingers to touch the seals he attaches. He draws his conclusions and with a bit of shrewd detective work confirms his suspicion.

The next day, he requests the Captain of Police, who has discovered the crime, to come to his house for a sitting for a portrait, together with Carruthers. He then exhibits the results of his investigation by showing Carruthers that the Captain has put the blame on the murderer as being the Grey Seal, in order to get the reward offered for the fugitive. The Captain is given the choice of leaving the city or being sent to prison for twenty years. In conclusion it may be stated that the Captain occupied Berth 29 on the "Black Diamond" express going from New York that night.

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

WHOM THE GODS DESTROY (Five Parts—Dec. 18).—The cast: Mary O'Neil (Alice Joyce); Leslie St. George Leigh (Harry T. Morey); Sir Denis Esmond (Marc MacDermott); O'Neil (Logan Paul); Father McCarthy (Charles Kent); King of England (Thomas R. Mills); Lady Esmond (Mary Maurice); Carl (Mr. Siegel). Directed by William P. S. Earle.

The ominous call of war gives the Irish rebels an opportunity to prepare to strike for their freedom. One of the most diligent leaders is Sir Denis Esmond, who is prepared to lead the insurgents against England. Leslie St. George Leigh, a close friend of Esmond's, and a true patriot of England, loses his eyesight while doing his duty in the North Sea.

Mary O'Neil, a lovable little Irish lass, is loved by both Leigh and Esmond, and not realizing the cost, she is heart and soul in the insurgents' cause and refuses to give either her answer until Ireland shall be free. Thinking to allay suspicion, she allows Leigh to come to Castle O'Neil while convalescing. When an English officer comes to the castle, Leigh gives his word of honor that Esmond has not been there, for he does not know that he has returned from Germany.

Later the insurgents come in a body to the Castle for Esmond. Leigh speaks to Esmond until he is made to realize the cost, then addresses the rebels, after getting Mary to give him, as he thinks, the English flag, but in reality she gives him the old Irish flag, fearing for his safety. He learns his mistake and signals to an English warship in the harbor for help. One of the insurgents learns of his trick and is about to assault him when Esmond intervenes and orders them to disperse. The soldiers arrive and the mob is dispersed after a struggle in which many are killed. Mary, coming from the Castle, learns the high cost which must be paid for rebellion when she sees the road scattered with wives and mothers crying over their soldier husbands who have fallen in the cause.

Esmond is captured by the soldiers and tried as a traitor. After a time he is sentenced to be hung. Mary clings to his broken-hearted mother through the trouble, and with Leigh's aid they try to obtain a pardon for him. In vain they make their appeals and at last the despairing mother forces her way into the King's presence, Mary following fearfully. Here again her plea is ignored and it is not until General Ramsey, a close friend, intervenes that the pardon is granted and Esmond allowed to go free.

Leigh, realizing that Esmond is now free and that his own affliction would make it impossible for him to ask Mary's hand in marriage, does his utmost to arrange the engagement, but he fails. Later he is given the Victoria Cross for his bravery and dutiful service to his country, but his final reward comes when Mary's love refuses to recognize his blindness and they are pledged to marry. The unselfish friendship of the men and their common love for the sweet Irish girl has made all things possible, and once more they stand together, stronger allied than before.

UNITY SALES CORP.

THE LAND JUST OVER YONDER (November—Six Parts—Dudley Motion Picture Mfg. Co.).—The action of this picture revolves around the absorbing devotion of an old man, whose heart is wrapped up in a young comrade and partner. The young man becomes enamored of a quarter-breed woman, who not only breaks his heart through her unfaithfulness, but also runs away with his money, which has been wrung from mother earth through unceasing toil. Her lover is murdered and the young man is accused and, through the woman's treachery, is condemned to die.

The old man, in the meantime, having broken with his chum because of his infatuation for the woman, gives himself up to gambling and mining camp dissipations. He loses his money and has to strike out into the wilderness again in search of more gold. Coming back at the end of two years, he is elected sheriff of the county and discovers that he is to hang his former chum. Together they start for Carson City, where the old man goes before the governor and tells the story of "Billy Boy's" life. The ring of genuine truth in the narrative convinces the governor of the young man's innocence and he is pardoned.

SOMEWHERE IN MEXICO (Tweedledum Comedy—Dec. 4).—Tweedledum has caught the military fever and enlists in his country's service with the avowed intention of removing Villa from the face of the earth.

His antics shock the dignity of the recruiting officers and furnish no end of amusement to his fellow-soldiers. Tweedledum, however, makes a poor soldier and violates all the rules. The officers are utterly unable to keep him in line if a pretty girl happens to be anywhere near during drill time, but the crowning climax comes when he slips away from his camp to hide and have a quiet smoke.

He happens to select a spot which is near the location of a band of Mexicans and the powder magazine. He carelessly tosses away the remains of his cigar, when suddenly a terrible explosion ensues and almost the entire company of Mexican soldiers are blown to pieces. His own company rush to the scene and promptly make Tweedledum a great hero and give him credit for overcoming the enemy single handed. He is quickly raised to the rank of a commanding officer and receives his newly acquired honors joyfully if not gracefully.

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

WATCH FOR
E. & R.
Jungle Film Comedies
E. & R. JUNGLE FILM CO.
Los Angeles, Cal.

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

Developing and Printing
Fireproof Laboratory
SUPERIOR FILMS COMPANY
ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager
Entire 10th Floor
643 Olive Street, Los Angeles

In answering advertisements, please mention The Moving Picture World

STUDIO
For sale on easy terms or for rent at reasonable price
SPLENDIDLY LOCATED, with full equipment of lights, modern dressing rooms, paint dock, carpenter shop, prop rooms, etc., all steam heated.
During the year past Wm. Fox produced the following features at this studio: "A Fool's Revenge," "The Siren," "Slander," "Tortured Heart," "The Straight Way," "Jealousy," "The Vixen."
For full particulars address
KALEM COMPANY
235 W. 23rd Street, New York City

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO.
230 West 42nd Street NEW YORK

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6692

K-E-S-E.

THE PHANTOM BUCCANEER (Five Parts—Essanay—Dec. 18).—The cast: Stuart Northcote and Jack Burton (Richard C. Travers); Mercia Solano (Gertrude Glover); Billy Logan (Thurlow Brewer); Maurice Furnival (R. P. Thompson); Lord Sangatte (Carroll C. James); Milford (Arthur W. Bates); Lady Barradell (Ethel Davis). Directed by J. Charles Haydon.

Stuart Northcote, a London adventurer, slays the president of a mythical South American republic, and establishes himself at its head. Mercia Solano, daughter of the slain official, leads a conspiracy to avenge her father's death by killing Northcote. The adventurer escapes to London, however, after looting the republic's treasure chest. He is pursued by Mercia and a band.

The adventurer, perceiving his deadly peril, employs Jack Burton, an impoverished young Englishman, to act as his double. The girl shoots at the double, and other fiendish plots are carried out to kill him. Burton frustrates them all.

Then the conspirators penetrate his masquerade. Mercia falls in love with Jack and repudiates her accomplices. The latter discover Northcote's hiding place and slay him. To avenge themselves for Mercia's betrayal, they accuse her and Burton of the crime. The two are brought within the shadow of the gallows, but finally are vindicated by the testimony of a valet who witnessed the murder.

PARAMOUNT.

A CONEY ISLAND PRINCESS (Famous Players—Four parts—Dec. 4).—The cast: Princess Zim-Zim (Irene Fenwick); Pete Milholland (Owen Moore); Alice Gardner (Eva Francis); Tony Graves (Clifford B. Gray); Jan Kouver (William Bailey); Mrs. King (Kate Lester); Alice's mother (Dora Mills Adams); Old Mooney (Russell Bassett).

Among the younger members of the select families of the "Avenue," are Pete Milholland, a "good fellow" and sportsman, and his fiance, Alice Gardner. Only once have they quarreled—that was when Pete disgraced himself by coming upon the polo fields intoxicated. This was good cause, and we now find Peter staring blankly ahead of him with the returned ring in his hand.

Still in a stupor from drink, Pete instructs his butler that he is leaving for Europe and staggers out of the house. He finds himself on the shores at Coney Island, in a garb not his own. During his wanderings in the amusement park, Pete comes before the entrance of the "Turkish Dream." Partially attracted by the pretty dancer and chiefly in need of sleep, he smuggles himself into the place. He has come at the psychological moment, for the proprietor, Mooney, and his daughter, Tessie, the dancer, are in a quandary. Their orchestra, the pianist, has left them. Pete steps into the breach, much to the jealousy of Jan, the boatman, Tessie's ardent lover. As time passes Pete decides to return home, taking with him Tessie and her father. The jovial Irishman and his daughter dislike the idea of leaving their "kind," but with the arrival of the automobile they agree to go.

Tessie is taken care of by Pete's aunt, who would rather do most anything than come in contact with the belle of Coney Island. Her arrival causes consternation in society circles and it is realized by Pete that she is not suitable for him, but he is determined to marry her, as Alice, according to the papers, is going to become the wife of his friend, Tony Graves.

During her stay at the Milholland mansion Tessie notices how Pete controls his feelings when Alice approaches, and how Alice's heart nearly breaks when the two girls meet. Alice and Pete finally come face to face, and Pete learns that the newspaper report of Alice's marriage to Tony was false. He takes her in his arms, and thus they are discovered by Tessie. Summoning all her strength and forcing a smile upon her face, Tessie tells them that she lied and does not love Pete at all, and returns her ring. Pete is overcome to think that he was on the verge of falling into the trap set by this young "vampire," while Alice is overjoyed at the unexpected turn of events, though secretly feeling that Tessie is making a great sacrifice.

Expert Cameraman Furnished

CINEMA CAMERA CLUB

1006 Times Bldg. Phone: 6558 Bryant

The "M. P. World" carries more classified ads than all other trade papers combined—WHY?

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

in a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate .....$5.00 each

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player .....75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $8 to $25 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.50 per thousand, of over 600 players. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, $2.00 per dozen; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK

12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

After Tessie's return to her kingdom on the beach, "The Turkish Dream," true love steals its way into her heart as it had done to Alice and Pete, and soon Jan proves to be her ideal of a husband.

THE ROAD TO LOVE (Morosco—Five parts—Dec. 7).—The cast: Hafsa (Lenore Ulrich); Goruon Roberts (Colin Chase); Lella Sadiya (Lucille Ward); Borah (Estelle Allen); Karan (Alfred Vosburgh); Sidi Malik (Herschel Mayall); The Old Sheik (Joe Massey); Abdallah (Alfred Longsworth).

The action takes place in Algeria where Hafsa, the daughter of wealthy old Sidi Malik, has aroused the avidity of Lella Sadiya, the "mother" of the dancing girls. She gives orders to have the girl kidnapped and brought to her. Meanwhile Gordon Roberts, a young American who is traveling in the Orient, saves the life of Karan, a Bedouin chief, and earns the undying gratitude of the Arab. Gordon meets Hafsa while she is shopping in defiance of her father's commands and wins her regard by sheltering her from the old man. He is infatuated with her and disguises himself as a peddler in order to meet her again. He is discovered by Nakhla, a spy of her father's, who promptly has Gordon beaten by his retainers.

Gordon and the girl elope, but are captured and the American is turned over to one Abdallah with instructions to sell him as a slave. Hafsa bribes Abdallah to let her go in the caravan in which Gordon is kept drugged. Karan learns of the predicament of Gordon and worms his way into the friendship of Abdallah until he can drug the guards. But when Gordon is about to escape, he recognizes Hafsa and demands that she go in his place. Karan finally yields to the girl and takes Gordon away.

Hafsa is delivered to Lella and is not seen again by Gordon until she dances at a great fete. She is offered for sale and Gordon makes a desperate effort to outbid an old sheik, but fails. On the wedding day, Hafsa substitutes her maid for herself and escapes with Gordon, but the deception is quickly discovered and a pursuit is begun. As the fugitives reach the garden gate, Malik arrives and cuts off their escape. The pursuing Lella comes up and stares in wonder at Malik, who proves to be her husband. She is the mother of the girl whom she has been attempting to hand over to the sheik.

Just at this moment the old man himself and his retinue are heard approaching and Lella implores Malik to permit his daughter to go her way with Gordon. Snatching the girl's scarf, Lella throws it upon the edge of the garden well, as the lovers make their escape. When the sheik arrives upon the scene, he is shown the scarf and told that Hafsa has chosen her own fate, rather than marry him.

Under the chaperonage of the faithful Karan the lovers depart across the desert on the road to love.

THE VICTORIA CROSS (Lasky—Five parts—December 14).—The cast: Major Ralph Seton (Lou-Tellegen); Joan, his sweetheart (Cleo Ridgley); Sir Allan Strathallan, her father (Ernest Joy); Azimoolah (Sessue Hayakawa); Princess Adala (Mabel Van Buren); Cassim Beg (Frank Lanning); Seereek, the Nana (Harold Skinner).

In 1857 native regiments, stirred to revolt by scheming rulers and religious fanatics, shocked the world by "The Indian Mutiny. Ralph Seton, a young English officer with a brilliant record, has been thrown into the decadent life of the Mahratta's Court at Cawnpore. He receives a letter from Sir Allan Strathallan saying that he will soon visit Cawnpore, bringing with him the Victoria Cross which has been awarded Seton for heroism, and that he will also bring his daughter, Joan, with whom Seton was in love in England. Seton, to be worthy of both the Cross and the girl, decides to reform.

Azimoolah, a native officer and conspirator, invites the assistance of the Princess Adala to recover the throne from the English, and she reluctantly agrees to entice the young English officer to her home the night of the uprising. In answer to her note, Seton accepts her invitation, and in a drunken moment, invites the officer to accompany him. Joan and her father arrive at Seton's bunga-

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's, low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1301 Race Street, Philadelphia

G. W. BRADENBURGH

802 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

High class multiple reel features in first class running condition, some as new with plenty of one, three and six sheet posters, photos, etc. Prices reasonable. Write for lists of four, five and six reel masterpieces.

low and are somewhat puzzled at the evidences of a carouse. They are taken to the Palace and Azimoolah cleverly warns the Princes in time for the soldiers to escape, all except Seton, whom she hides. Joan, however, knows someone is there and is heartbroken when she recognizes the man whom she considered a great and perfect hero. Considering him unworthy of the Cross, Sir Allan strongly denounces Seton, who gradually sinks lower and lower, is courtmartialed and reduced in rank.

Joan has turned against him. To save him, Adala persuades Seton to don a native costume. Joan has been taken by Azimoolah's men, and under threat of death ordered to write a request that her father's troops be withdrawn from Northern India. She refuses, and the Seereek, desiring rather to possess her than have her punished, commands her brought before him dressed as a nautch girl. She escapes and comes upon Seton dining with Adala; her expressed contempt arouses him to the real situation. On a pretense that she is his prisoner, Seton attempts to reach the barracks with Joan. The deception is discovered and a long siege of hardships follows. Seton gives Joan the Cross just as they are taken out for sentence—Seton to be shot, Joan to be massacred. Seton's executioner is overpowered, the news taken to Strathallan, who arrives at the crucial moment, and gives his daughter to Seton, who he declares has redeemed himself. Joan pins the Cross on her lover's breast as he takes her in his arms.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.—40th Release (Nov. 5).—Gold Mining in Alaska; Have You a Little Heifer in Your Home?; Self Defense Without Weapons; Frenzied Frocks and Frills.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.—41st Release (Nov. 12).—Submarine Gardens; Health First; Navigation on the Yukon; The Law of Gravitation.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.—42d Release (Nov. 19).—In the War Zone with Donald Thompson; An Enemy to Beauty; A Big City's Water Supply; Why Apple Trees are Crooked.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.—43d Release (Nov. 26).—The Battle of the Somme; One of the World's Wonders; The Make-over Shop for Old Men; Motor Polo.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.—44th Release (Dec. 3).—Modeling from Life; First Aid to the Four-footed; Taking the Bumps out of the Ocean; Lake Orta.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.—45th Release (Dec. 10).—Evolution of a Poster; Holiday Resorts of Italy; A Little Experiment in Lip Reading; Turkey Punching.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, No. 92 (Nov. 17).

San Francisco, Cal.—The Signal Corps of the California National Guard returns from the Mexican border, and members are enthusiastically greeted by relatives.

Northport, L. I.—In wire enclosed pens on the farm of J. A. Kane, tiny silver fox puppies are born and brought up to be worth $2,500 apiece. Most expensive fur garments are made from the pelts of these animals.

Washington, D. C.—Back at his desk in Washington, is Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson. On Election night, when all the Democratic leaders had conceded President Wilson's defeat, Tumulty alone claimed his re-election.

San Antonio, Tex.—In different parts of this city, the wives of two prominent Mexicans are being entertained. Mrs. Venustiano Carranza is here assisting her niece to purchase a trousseau, while Mrs. Francisco Villa is attending a family re-union at the home of her husband's brother. Accompanying Mrs. Carranza are her daughters, the Misses Eugenia and Julia. With Mrs. Villa is her young son, Augustin.

Fashions de Luxe.—The latest gowns and hats, creations of Lady Duff-Gordon—Lucille—are shown exclusively in the Hearst International News Pictorial.

San Francisco, Cal.—Hiram Johnson, Governor of California, is elected to the United States Senate by an overwhelming majority. The Governor and his little grandson, Hiram Johnson, 3d, poses for the Hearst International News Pictorial.

South Brookneld, Mass.—Henry Freeman, of this place, is the owner of the only trained steers in the world. He has succeeded in teaching the lumb animals several unique tricks.

Philadelphia, Pa.—C. Emery Titman, well-known club man and baseball rooter, exercises 550 pounds, avoirdupois, to pay an ill-advised election wager.

Lexington, Mass.—On the beautiful estate of Millionaire J. W. Hayden near here, youthful classic dancers led by Winifred Gilrain, given an exhibition of the terpsichorean art.

Washington, D. C.—Dr. Karl Graves, self-styled international spy, is arrested charged with attempting to sell private letters, the contents of which would have embarrassed Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the German Ambassador. Graves appears with his attorney to answer the charge before a United States Commissioner.

In the Battle-Scarred Verdun.—Great havoc is wrought in this city by German seige guns. American ambulances in the region of this battlefront are in constant danger from exploding shells. New methods are devised for transporting wounded from the first-line trenches to the field hospital.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, No. 3 (Nov. 21).

Reading, Mass.—The newly-equipped fire department demonstrates the use of its new life-saving appliances. Firemen leap from dizzy heights into life-nets, to show citizens proper methods to follow in escaping from burning buildings.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Marguerite Walz, exponent of outdoor dancing, performs before the camera in a beautiful wooded setting to demonstrate health-conserving exercises.

New York City.—High school pupils of the Metropolis are being put through a rigid military course to increase their physical fitness. Boys of the Stuyvesant High School, and girls of the Washington Irving High School perform their military exercises under the watchful eye of physical instructors employed by the New York Board of Edueation.

Waukegan, Ill.—Thousands of lake trout are caught in the nets of Lake Michigan fishermen. The trout harvest of the season was exceptionally large. Exclusive pictures show how the fish are caught, killed and prepared for the market.

Footlights and Fashions.—Miss Mary Nash, star of "The Man Who Came Back," appearing at the Playhouse, New York City, poses exclusively for the Hearst International News Pictorial in gowns of her own creation.

On the Somme Front.—French engineers drill underground to plant the destructive land mine, using the same kind of pneumatic drill as that used when tunnelling for the New York subways. Provisions are rusned to the fighting men in the front-line trenches on a peculiarly-constructed wire railroad track.

San Francisco, Cal.—Stanford and Santa Clara Universities clash in the annual championship rugby games of the 1916 season, Santa Clara winning by a score of 28 to 5.

Palo Alto, Cal.—Students of Stanford rally about a bonfire, the material for which required six weeks to gather.

Philadelphia, Pa.—University of Pennsylvania students, 2,000 of them, inspire their football team to defeat the University of Michigan eleven by doing a snake dance through the streets of Philadelphia. They also accompany the football players to the train about to depart for Ann Arbor.

Princeton, N. J.—Yale upsets all football dope and trounces Princeton by a score of 10 to 0 in the presence of more than 40,000 spectators who fill the Palmer Stadium.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, No. 94 (Nov. 24).

Washington, D. C.—Congressman O. D. Bleakley arrives in Washington to begin his winter duties in the House of Representatives, making the trip from Philadelphia in an aeroplane piloted by Sergeant Ocher of the United States Army.

Calexico, Cal.—Thousands of turkeys being raised in the Imperial Valley for the Thanksgiving and Christmas market, are photographed for the Hearst International News Pictorial. The subjects prove camera-shy.

Boston, Mass.—The largest chair in the world, a replica of the executive chair in Washington, is built here to be shipped to Philadelphia for exhibition at the meeting of Advertising Men.

San Antonio, Tex.—Under the protecting walls of Fort Sam Houston, a herd of Texas deer enjoy the freedom of a wooded spot set apart for their home.

Oakland, Cal.—A bevy of pretty girls boost the Lincoln Highway by selling $10,000 worth of Highway pennants in one day, to motorists who pass through this city.

Fashions De Luxe.—The latest gowns and hats, creations of Lady Duff-Gordon (Lucille), are shown exclusively by the Hearst International News Pictorial.

Winchendon, Mass.—In a gigantic toy factory, assistants of Santa Clause are working at utmost speed, turning out toys that will delight the hearts of good little boys and girls on Christmas morning. Pictures show the many processes through which the playthings are put before they are ready for presentation to the little folk.

Chicago, Ill.—Miss Ruth Law, before her cross-country flight from Chicago to New York, in which she made a non-stop record of 590 miles, prepares for her trip by living on the roof of the 22-story Hotel Morrison, here, in a tent where she sleeps and eats to accustom herself to the atmospheric conditions above the earth.

Washington, D. C.—Ex-slaves and their former owners renew acquaintance at a convention in the national capital. A group of the former slaves poses for the Hearst International News Pictorial, their ages ranging from 104 to 125 years.

Santa Monica.—Intrepid motor drivers dare death on the eight-mile Santa Monica Auto Race Course in the contest for the Vanderbilt Cup and prizes of cash. Dario Resta wins over a field of the best race pilots in the world.

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO., 220 W. 42d St., New York

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00
EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS $1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....
Cut out and mail Theatre.....

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, No. 95 (Nov. 28).

Near the Verdun Front.—Giant motor trains carry troops and provisions to the fighting lines. Peasant carts are also forced into service to supply the fighting lines with provisions.

Chicago, Ill.—A city diet squad is experimenting under the direction of Dr. John Dill Robertson, Health Commissioner, on the theory that a person can live on 30 cents a day, the idea being part of a plan of city officials to reduce the high cost of living.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The oil-tanker, William Rockefeller, is launched after being christened by Mrs. Emma Rockefeller McAlpin, daughter of the financier, whose name the new boat bears.

Footlights and Fashions.—Miss Regina Wallace, star of "Rich Man, Poor Man," 48th Street theater New York City, appears in gowns of her own design for the Hearst International News Pictorial.

New Haven, Conn.—Yale defeats Harvard 6 to 3 in their spectacular annual football contest. About 78,000 persons watched the game.

Newport, R. I.—In a heavy gale, the barge Newark is blown away from its escorting tug and goes upon the rocks near Davis Point, endangering the lives of four men.

Santa Monica, Cal.—Death hovers about the dangerous curves of the Santa Monica Motor Race Track, and while Johnny Aitken is winning the Grand Prix Race, four persons are killed in the wreck of a car driven off the track by Lewis Jackson.

New York City.—Many ships of the Atlantic battle fleet enter the Hudson River to give the officers and men an opportunity to attend the Army-Navy football game.

Polo Grounds, N. Y.—The Hearst International News Pictorial presents the only motion pictures of the 1916 football game between cadets of the West Point and Annapolis Academies. Ceremonies attending the game, and the most thrilling plays of the contest, were photographed expressly for the Hearst International News Pictorial by the International Film Service, official and exclusive photographers of the game.

On the Western Front.—Charles Francis Joseph, who succeeds the late Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, visits Kaiser Wilhelm near a battlefield where soldiers of the Central Powers are fighting the Allied Forces. (This section is included in all except New York prints.)

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, No. 96 (Dec. 1).

San Benito, Tex.—In the maneouvres of the National Guard along the Rio Grande River, the White Army is victorious, forcing the Brown Army to retreat before its artillery and infantry attacks.

New York.—Howard Chandler Christie poses for the Hearst International News Pictorial in his studio while making a characteristic Christie picture.

Durham, N. H.—Students of the University of New Hampshire wield pick and shovel to clear and level the site of the new college athletic field. Co-eds carry refreshments to the student toilers.

La Panne, France.—President and Madame Poincare and the King and Queen of the Belgians, visit a refugee camp here. Madame Poincare presents gifts to the children at the camp

Footlights and Fashions.—Miss Margaret Leslie, of "The Basker," Empire theater, New York City, poses exclusively for the Hearst International News Pictorial in gowns of her own design.

Calexico, Cal.—More than 100,000 acres of land, which eight years ago were a desert, are now producing $10,000,000 worth of cotton. Pictures show the cultivation and ginning of the record-breaking crop.

New York City.—The gallant Seventh Regiment returns from the Mexican border and marches down Fifth avenue, reviewed by Governor Whitman and cheered by thousands who line the streets as the regiment marches to its armory.

New York City.—The Statute of Liberty is illumined with incandescent lights, paid for by popular subscription of patriotic citizens of the United States.

In the English Channel.—Remarkable pictures showing the hazardous tasks of the British trawlers sweeping the stormy surface of the English Channel, to remove German mines. Sailors about to face death through exploding mines amuse themselves with games on the outward passage. Mountainous waves nearly capsize the trawler as she proceeds on her dangerous mission.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, No. 97 (Dec. 5).

Washington, D. C.—Memorial services for the late Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria, are attended by notables of the national capital, and representatives of foreign governments. (Note.—This section is included in all except the New York prints.)

San Benito, Tex.—National Guardsmen on duty on the Mexican Border eat their Thanksgiving dinner outdoors. The dinner consists of wild duck brought down by the Guardsmen's guns and prepared by the camp cooks.

New York.—Public Schools of New York keep the pupils outdoors during study and recitation hours. Outdoor exercises improve the physical condition of the children and make them more capable at their studies.

On the Somme Front.—A dummy gun made of wood is erected in a conspicuous place by French troops to deceive hostile aviators. A battery of 155 mm. guns clear a path for an infantry attack.

New York.—The old horse cars that ply the streets of New York are soon to give way to the modern electric equipment. Pictures show the last of the antiquated vehicles travelling about the city piloted by veteran street-car drivers.

Fashions De Luxe.—The latest gowns and hats designed by Lady Duff-Gordon (Lucile) are displayed to best advantage on the screen.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Sailors of the interned German liners held up in this port are constructing a village of small houses, which they will occupy during the winter. German atmosphere pervades the village, and German ideas are carried out in the construction of the church, the old wind-mill and the residences.

Washington, D. C.—Aided by a large company of Boy Scouts, Edward B. McLean gives away more than 400 turkeys to the poor families of the national capital.

Frederiksted, St. Croix.—Negro laborers of the West Indies celebrate Liberty Day, the anniversary of their release from slavery, with a monster parade. D. Hamilton Jackson, leader of the West Indian toilers, who recently procured for them an advance in wages which makes a day's work worth 35 cents, addresses the cheering negroes. The Danish flag, which will be replaced by the Stars and Stripes if the United States purchases the West Indies, flies conspicuously during the festivities.

New York.—President and Mrs. Wilson arrive in New York and proceed aboard the yacht "Mayflower" down the Hudson River, where President Wilson gives the signal for the illumination of the Statute of Liberty. Battleships in the river fire the President's salute of twenty-one guns. Miss Ruth Law's aeroplane is a streak of flame in the sky as she circles the statue just before the President's signal and the emblem of Freedom in New York Harbor flies in the flood of electric light.

INTERNATIONAL SPLIT REEL (Dec. 11).—The Katzenjammer Kids—The Captain goes a'swimming (Animated Cartoon Comedy by George Gregory LaCava). The Magic Isle (Scenes photographed in the West Indies by Tracy Mathewson).

INTERNATIONAL SPLIT REEL (Dec. 18).—Through the West Indies (views of the wonderful tropical isle photographed for the International Film Service, Inc., by Tracy Mathewson). On the Cannibal Isle (Jerry on the Job) (Animated Cartoon Comedy by W. C. Hoban).

FOX FILM CORP.

THE BATTLE OF LIFE (Five parts—Dec. 11).—Mary, the daughter of Tom Boland, a cracksman, who is in love with his pal, Dave Karns, decides to give up her old life because she does not want her brother, Jimmie, to submit to the criminal influence surrounding him. After leaving the house, she wanders in the park. Here she meets Mrs. Wentworth, a woman of wealth and refinement, and the two become friends. Mrs. Wentworth finally engages her as a maid.

Tom Boland and Dave learn of the girl's luck in obtaining a fine position in Mrs. Wentworth's household, and try to secure her aid in robbing the home of her employer. She refuses, but they carry out their plans alone, and Tom is shot. An investigation of the affair is made by the police. Mary is followed from one place to another when Mrs. Wentworth discharges her. After many weeks of hardship, she is re-united with Dave, who was reformed.

THE LOVE THIEF (Five Parts—Dec. 18).—The senorita, Juanita, loves gallant Capt. Arthur Boyce, on duty near the border. He does not love her, but she contrives to make his fiancee, Clare Nelson, think that he does. The result is that Clare breaks off the engagement. Juanita's passion turns to hatred when she finds she cannot compel Boyce to love her. In a fit of rage, she arranges a scheme by which the officer is accused of having murdered a woman. In the trial that follows, Boyce is convicted.

Meantime, a band of Mexicans led by Juanita and Costa, a Mexican in love with Clare, raids an American town. In the place are Clare and her uncle, Nelson, who has been secretly furnishing the Mexicans with munitions. Costa takes Clare prisoner.

Juanita finds the girl with her uncle and Costa in a rude shack. She sees a way to get revenge on Clare. She will force her to marry Lopez, one of the bandits in her employ. While she is thinking over this plan, Arthur Boyce is brought into the hut. He had been exonerated of wrong, when the real murderer, stirred by the pangs of conscience, confessed. Resuming his command, he rushed to the rescue of the captured party, only to be defeated by the Mexicans and taken prisoner himself.

Clare and Boyce are left with Lopez in the shack. By a skillful piece of maoneuvering, the girl outwits the guard, and she and Boyce escape from the building. Rescue is fast arriving from a nearby American army post. The bandits are pursuing Clare and Boyce, and Juanita rides frantically in the vanguard. But she is too late. A stray shot brings her from her horse, and she dies with a curse on her lips for the woman who won the love she could not have.

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

PAMELA'S PAST (Five Parts—December).—The cast includes Maude Fealy, Irving Cummings, Harry Benham, Mignon Anderson, Lucy Peyton and Frank Farrington.

Pamela Congrieve, the daughter of an old fisherman, is a carefree child of nature, whose heart has been won by Lord Charteris, a treacherous noble, who is the secret leader of a band of smugglers. Charteris tells Pamela's father of the wealth he will win if he joins the smugglers, and the deluded old man finally consents.

The smugglers land a cargo on the sea coast, but the suspicions of the revenue officers are aroused and they pursue the smugglers. Lord Charteris and the old fisherman are overtaken, and, to save himself from capture, Charteris tells the coast guards of his rank and claims that he captured his companion, whom he denounces as a smuggler. In spite of Pamela's pleas,, Charteris refuses to aid him, and the old man is put to death.

Vowing to be revenged upon the treacherous Charteris, Pamela goes out into the world. She obtains employment at a wayside inn, and there once more meets Charteris. She stabs him, and believes that she has killed him, but it is merely a ruse of the wily noble. Pamela joins a troupe of traveling actors, and goes to London, where she soon becomes one of the reigning favorites. Pamela's chief admirer is the Duke of Harlow. He asks her to marry him, but she refuses, and struggles vainly to conceal her deep love for him, feeling that her past makes her unfit to be his wife.

The Duke of Harlow's wealth has made Lord and Lady Trevor consider him as a desirable husband for Kitty, their daughter, but that strong-willed person has already selected a future husband who boasts neither wealth nor title. So Kitty and her beloved go to Pamela, whom they know the Duke adores, and beg her to accept him. Then Kitty will not have to wed him. Pamela promises to aid the young couple, and, in order to do so, manages to win an invitation to Lord Trevor's ball.

At the grand ball at Trevor House the load of guilt is lifted from Pamela's heart for she meets Lord Charteris again, and realizes that he still lives. Charteris is as unscrupulous as ever, and determines to steal the Trevor jewels. An opportunity presents itself when Trevor

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES
Five Thousand..... $1.25
Ten Thousand..... 2.50
Fifteen Thousand..... 3.75
Twenty-five Thousand..... 5.50
Fifty Thousand..... 7.50
One Hundred Thousand..... 10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 35,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

SEEBURG

RELIABILITY QUALITY ENDURANCE

100% SATISFACTORY

FOR ANY SIZE THEATRE

SEEBURG ORGANS ARE EQUIPPED WITH ONE OR TWO ROLLS
ALSO WITHOUT MUSIC ROLLS

EXHIBITORS! Before buying an Organ Write SEEBURG for inside facts

You want the better kind of instrument. Therefore you can be safely guided by the judgment of the hundreds of satisfied exhibitors who have SEEBURGS.

Some chains have given us repeat orders until we have sold some of them 10 SEEBURGS. Others have bought 6 and many others several SEEBURGS.

J. P. SEEBURG PIANO COMPANY

Manufacturers

1004 Republic Bldg., CHICAGO

BOSTON 162 Boylston St.
NEW YORK 729 Seventh Ave.
PHILADELPHIA 923 Walnut St.
PITTSBURGH 791 Penn St.
ATLANTA 65 N. Pryor St.
MINNEAPOLIS 80 So. 8th St.
BEAUMONT, TEXAS 702 Pearl St.
FARGO, N. D. Stone Bldg.
ST. LOUIS 602 Princess Theatre Bldg
SAN FRANCISCO 52 Turk St.

shows his guests the famous gems, and after they are replaced in the strong box the key falls to the floor, and is found by Charteris. Pamela, however, suspicious of the man she hates, keeps watch during the night and discovers him in the act of stealing the gems, but Charteris adroitly directs the suspicion upon Pamela, playing upon the prejudice of the others for "the stage-woman." Harlow takes her part. The Duke threatens to prove Charteris to be a scoundrel, and the latter, fearing that he will be exposed, plans to silence Harlow forever. The cowardly plot does not succeed, for word is brought to Pamela and she reaches Harlow in time to warn him. Charteris later succeeds in kidnapping Pamela, but they are overtaken by Harlow, and Charteris is killed, while Pamela, now convinced that her "past" is buried, promises to marry the man she loves.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

New York City.—A nineteen-ton submarine, built in 1879 by John Holland, as a forerunner of the modern giant submarsible, is presented to the Clason Point Military Academy. Subtitle: The cadets form a guard of honor about this historic relic.

Possum Trot, Tenn.—Following the trail scented by their trained hounds, backwoodsmen hunt the popular possum, made famous by former President Taft. Subtitles: Often they find the little possums shamming death on the lower branches of the persimmon tree. But occasionally they have to climb high into the treetops to make their catch.

Saratoga, Cal.—Secretary of the Treasury, William C. McAdoo, and his wife, daughter of President Wilson, visit U. S. Senator James Phelan during their tour of the West.

In the Balkans.—Allied troops take refuge in the deep valleys of the Serbian mountain ranges where they are advancing slowly against the Teuton strongholds. Subtitles: Watching patiently for a glimpse of the enemy. Soon the mountain artillery crashes forth into the distant hills where the enemy is reported. Some prisoners captured in the Balkan fighting.

On the Russian Front.—Fresh troops are being sent to reinforce the Russian armies in Galicia, where the Czar's hordes hope to gain ultimate victory. Subtitles: Infantry crossing over the River San. Soldiers stop to feed the hungry peasants along their line of march.

Our Merchant Marine (Magazine section).—An animated cartoon by John C. Terry. Subtitle: John Bull and the other maritime nations feast in the world of Trade while Uncle Sam can only look on.

Larchmont, N. Y.—Representatives of foreign governments attend a trial test of the new Marlin machine gun which has been accepted by by the Allies. Subtitle: The gun is capable of firing five hundred sheels a minute, and is light enough for use on aeroplanes.

Carlisle, Pa.—One thousand students of the Government's Indian School are receiving thorough military instruction, and army officers frequently inspect the results of their training. Subtitles: Primping before the officers arrive at their section. The Indians have taken well to the modern military organization. The standard bearers of the Carlisle Indian School.

Davis, Cal.—American mechanical genius is ever striving to render farming more efficient and productive, and horticultural students are shown the working of the latest devices. Subtitles: A tractor plowing through very hard ground. A caterpillar tractor which is able to work in very short spaces.

San Antonio, Texas.—The First Virginia Artillery, the oldest regiment of National Guard in the country, engages in field manoeuvres. Subtitles: The Battery's gunners, noted for excellent marksmanship, keep in constant trim. Wisconsin Militia are given a warm send-off as they leave for home, by the troops still remaining on the border.

PATHE NEWS, No. 98 (Dec. 6).

Preparedness Millinery Styles for 1917 (Magazine Section). An animated cartoon by Leighton Budd. Subtitles: The anti-masher. The dirigible, a fetching style. The Joy-Rider.

New York City.—Part of the Atlantic Fleet arrives to act as a guard of honor at the illumination of the Statute of Liberty, gift of the people of France to the Republic across the sea. Subtitles: President Wilson goes aboard the Mayflower to give the command that will illuminate the Statute for the first time. As the nation's chief executive boards his yacht, the mighty ships belch forth their Presidential salute of 21 guns. New York's tall skyscrapers are brilliantly lighted in honor of the notable occasion. Then as twilight falls with the setting sun, the Statue is suddenly flooded with light, and Liberty shines forth from the darkness, the symbol of American freedom and justice, to enlighten the world.

Washington, D. C.—The President and Mrs. Wilson attend requiem high mass at St. Patrick's Church in honor of the late Franz Josef, Emperor of Austria-Hungary.

Mansfield, Ill.—Thousands of geese are shipped frequently to the Eastern markets by W. H. Firke, millionaire goose king, and yet the high cost of living mounts still higher. Subtitles: The geese also appear affected by the military spirit. Boarding their private car.

Graniteville, Vt.—The famous Vermont granite quarries, producing some of the finest quality rock in the world, are supplying the needs of modern structures. Subtitles: Drilling holes for dynamite to blast the large rocks. The granite is also used to make street pavement blocks for large cities. The State Capitol of Vermont, built from the granite rock of these quarries.

Washington, D. C.—Capitol Building is again the center of national interest as Senators and Representatives enter its massive portals to begin the final session of the Sixty-fourth Congress. Subtitles: Vice-President Marshall (left) and his wife are welcomed by the Democratic Committee upon their arrival. Speaker Champ Clarke (right) greets James R. Mann, the Republican leader of the House, and who may be the next speaker. "Uncle Joe" Cannon is still on the job, almost continually since 1873, and his fighting mood indicates a lively session.

The Somme France.—The British Red Cross put a new type of ambulance into use on the battlefield, which reduces the suffering of transportation to a minimum. Subtitles: The stretcher is placed directly on the sliding bed.

Calcutta, India.—A detachment of Scottish troops, assigned to protect the British Indian possessions, march through the streets of the Bengal Capital.

San Antonio, Tex.—Members of the various National Guard Regiments in the Texas camps compete in a cross-country race for championship of the border. Illinois captures the honors. Subtitles: The day of Thanksgiving is not forgotten and the men prepare for a real feast with turkeys and countless pies.

PEARL OF THE ARMY—(Episode No. 3, "The Silent Menace"—Astra—Two Parts—Dec. 17).

Pearl, failing to convince the General Staff that she has discovered a clue to the theft of the Panama Canal defense plans which might prove Payne's innocence, boards the Southwestern Limited on which Payne, under guard, is on his way to prison. Bertha Bonn, following a command of the Silent Menace, travels on the same train. The train is wrecked and Payne is killed.

A stranger, T. O. Adams, evinces a strange interest in Bertha and attempts to take the locket and packet from her, but is defeated in his purpose by the Silent Menace. Pearl, overhearing a wireless message, learns of this and fearlessly "beards the lion in his den."

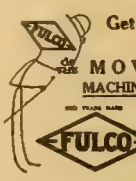
During a struggle in a shack on the edge of a cliff, she and the Menace fall from the dizzy heights into the water below. An ever present silent watcher plunged to her aid. Suddenly, the Menace dives from view. T. O. Adams, who, with Toko, is rescuing Pearl unnoticed, picks up the precious packet and they all make for shore.

THE SHIELDING SHADOW—(Episode No. 12, "The Stolen Shadow"—Astra—Two Parts—Dec. 17).

While trying to escape from Ravengar, Sebastian makes a wild plunge into the river while riding a motorcycle. He manages to swim to a boat and makes his get-away from his pursuers. Realizing that his game is nearly up he prepares for fight, and locating Ravengar's laboratory he makes an effort to secure the mantle of invisibility and the secrets of the dead scientist contained in the diary which Ravengar keeps in a safe. He secures the mantle and the bottle of mysterious black pellets, but in his haste to get away he is knocked down by an auto and taken to a hospital. Ravengar and Leontine discover the theft a short while after and finding a clue pursue him to the hospital.

Sebastian comes to as they reach his bedside

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.



Get acquainted with "FULCO"
The Department Store
MOVING PICTURE TRADE
MACHINES EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
Our catalog covers the line from A-Z
FULCO
E. E. FULTON COMPANY
152 W. Lake St. CHICAGO, ILL.

TO EXHIBITORS.
If you are doing something new and interesting at your theatre let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.
Helpfully yours,
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

QUICK WORK IN THE BOX OFFICE
SPEED Plus ACCURACY
15 Sales per minute —900 to 4500 per hour.
One ticket seller does the work of three with the AUTOMATICKET
AUTOMATIC TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
1717 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO., 220 W. 42d St., New York

SHOWS THAT ALWAYS WIN.

Cinderella	4 reels	Indian Blood	2 reels
Passion Play	3 reels	Big Rock's Last Stand	2 reels
Quo Vadis	3 reels	White Hawk's Redemption	2 reels
Battle Bull Run	3 reels	Lucretia Borgia	2 reels
Custer's Last Stand	3 reels	Hunch Back Cedar Lodge	3 reels
The Southerner	3 reels	Deep Purple	3 reels
At Old Ft. Dearborn	2 reels	Dragon's Claw	3 reels
Geronimo's Last Raid	2 reels	Power of Money	3 reels
For the Flag	2 reels	Fortune of War	2 reels
Will O' the Wisp	2 reels	The Tempest	2 reels
The Sea Dog	2 reels	Barriers Burnt Away	3 reels
Blue Grass Romance	2 reels

200 other good features, machine equipment and supplies. Give us an idea of the show you need. We can furnish it and the price will be right. Advise fully if you wish to buy or rent.

Davis Film Service
79 So. Washington St.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Not Torpedoed!

BEEN SUBMERGED!!
THAT'S ALL!!

The Thirty Leagues Under the Sea

Corporation, ANNOUNCES that its contract with the Universal Film Manufacturing Company for the booking of the

Williamson Submarine Expedition Picture

Expired December 10, 1916

This is the first of the Submarine Pictures (7 reels).
It has already cleared over a quarter of a million dollars.
Only a tenth of the world's territory has been played.
All foreign territory (except Canada and Australia) available.
24 States as yet UNSOLD—virgin territory!
Road companies to be launched immediately.
Full line of advertising for first class theaters.

The vital importance of all things "Submarine" in the affairs of warring and neutral nations make this

The One Great Subject of the Hour!

All Communications to

Thirty Leagues Under the Sea

Incorporated

GEORGE M. WILLIAMSON, President

813-814 Longacre Building
New York, N. Y.

WILLIAMSON BROTHERS
ONLY MAKERS OF
SUBMARINE PHOTO PLAYS

and with a quick movement throws the mantle over himself and disappears. Ravengar, knowing he is in the room orders them to close the door and then with his arms outstretched tries to catch the invisible foe. Suddenly a window crashes to the floor, broken by an unseen hand. Ravengar follows and at the top of the stairs manages to clutch Sebastian. Down the steep stairs they fall, Ravengar losing consciousness and Sebastian, suffering only minor injuries, vanishes with the mantle.

LUKE'S FIREWORKS FIZZLE — (Rolin—Dec. 17).

Luke lands a job in a fireworks factory and fearlessly flirts with fate in the shape of enough gunpowder to send him so far away that it would take four dollars to send him a postal card. He finally ascends to the clouds astride a giant skyrocket.

KING LEAR. (Gold Rooster—Five Parts—Dec. 17). The cast: King Lear (Frederick Warde); The King's Fol (Ernest Warde); Goneril (Ina Hammer); Her husband, the Duke of Albany (Wayne Arey); Regan (Edith Diestal); Her husband, the Duke of Cornwall (Charles Brooks); Cordelia (Lorraine Huling); the Earl of Kent (J. H. Gilmour); the King of France (Boyd Marshall); Edmund (Hector Dion); Edgar (Edwin Stanley); Oswald (Robert Whittier).

Lear, King of Britain, worn out with the affairs of state, calls his three daughters before him to make a division of his kingdom in proportion with the degree of their affection for him. Goneril, the eldest, speaks first and her father with pleased vanity hears her declare that all powers of speech fail to express the extent of her great love for him. He bestows upon her one-third of his kingdom. With equal volubility but greater exaggeration Regan, the King's second daughter, likewise wins another third. Cordelia, the younger daughter, disgusted with her sisters' sordid insincerities, replies that she loves him as far as duty commands. With the other daughters' honeyed flattery in his ears Cordelia's speech fails to please Lear, and he angrily disowns her as an unnatural daughter and gives her share to the others. The young King of France recognizes her true worth and takes her to his own country as his bride.

Then to Lear comes the realization of what he has lost. Eventually the daughters who have the kingdom in their hands close the castle doors on their father, and Lear learns "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child." His breaking heart results in madness, and, deserted by all save his faithful fool, he becomes a wanderer.

With Cordelia, the King of France invades Britain. Cordelia is made a captive and orders given to hang her. To Lear is borne her body which proves the last ill wind to fan out the flame of his flickering life and the tortured soul soon follows hers to "that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler ever returns."

NOW BOOKING
ALL NEW YORK STATE
RACE SUICIDE
IN SIX PARTS
PHAX PICTURES CO.
228 West 42nd Street NEW YORK

TRIANGLE FILM CORP.

THE MATRIMANIAC (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Dec. 16).—The cast: Jimmy Conroy (Douglas Fairbanks); Marna Lewis (Constance Talmadge); Theodore Lewis (Wilbur Higby); G. Walter Henderson, father's idea of a husband (Clyde Hopkins); Rev. Tobias Tubbs (Fred Warren); the maid (Winifred Westover). Directed by Paul Powell.

Jimmy Conroy plans to marry Marna, stepdaughter of the wealthy Theodore Lewis, who disapproves of Jimmy as a son-in-law. His idea of a husband is Wally Henderson. Jimmy and Marna decide to elope. Jimmy cuts the tires on father's automobile and secures a rope ladder, while Marna packs up. Wally sees them eloping and informs father, who hustles him down to the train to prevent a ceremony until he can obtain injunctions and follow on the limited to serve it, Marna being under legal age.

Jimmy has the marriage license, but has no time to get married before getting to the train. Wally takes the same train and lectures them on parental deference, but is shoved away. The train stops ten minutes at a way station. Jimmy rushes to the Rev. Tobias Tubbs, who is bathing. When he comes to the door, clad only in a bathrobe, Jimmy hustles him to the train just as it pulls out. Wally is on the platform and prevents them from boarding the cars.

By the liberal use of money and I. O. U.'s Jimmy digs up a variegated costume for Tubbs and forces him along by hand car, mule back, afoot, and on the bumpers. After numerous adventures the limited, with father aboard, is flagged by Jimmy, who is thrown off, but pulls Tubbs up with him on the observation platform. He is about to be put off again when father pretends to be friendly. Instead he conspires with the conductor to have them arrested for stopping the limited.

Meanwhile, Wally has convinced Marna that Jimmy has deserted her. She, weepingly accompanies him to the hotel, there to await father's arrival. Jimmy and Tubbs are arrested when they disembark. Jimmy escapes and Tubbs is locked up. Father gives the injunction for service and has a scene with Marna. Jimmy has a hairbreadth escape from father and the officers as he attempts to get Marna from the hotel. Then he communicates by telephone and arranges for her to go to the city jail, where he will try to break in and Tubbs will marry him.

Changing clothing with a sympathetic hotel maid, Marna eludes her guard and reaches the jail. Jimmy is sighted trying to break in, and a heart-breaking chase follows over rooftops, up and down the walls of buildings and over apparently unsurmountable obstacles. Marna, discouraged, is sent back to the hotel room. The search for Jimmy continues. He takes refuge on the telegraph wires over head. Walking past several poles, he comes to one where a lineman is working. After explanations, the lineman agrees to help and makes a three-cornered telephone connection between Tubbs in jail, Marna in her room, and Jimmy on the pole.

While the pursuers howl threats below, the unique wedding is under way. Father suddenly realizes it, and dashes for the jail, arriving as the ceremony is completed. In conclusion, Jimmy is shown in his office settling I. O. U.'s. When alone again, he opens the vault, and out steps Marna into his arms.

THE SIN YE DO (Ince—Five Parts—Dec. 16).—The cast: Barret Steele (Frank Keenan); Alice Ward (Margery Wilson); Dace Whitlock (David M. Hartford); Rose Darrow (Margaret Thompson); Robert Darrow (Howard Hickman); Mary Ward (Louise Brownell); Jimmy (Jack Gilbert); Thompson (Walt Whitman); maid (Cleo Morrow).

Barret Steele, a great lawyer, has earned a reputation for doubtful morals. Women find him fascinating, while men fear and admire the keen brain that has never lost a case. He begins a flirtation with Mrs. Rose Darrow, a flighty society matron, whose husband, Bob Darrow, a square-jawed broker, has little time for her foolish amusements. Dace Whitlock, a clubman, and Steele are bosom friends. Steele visits Whitlock's office one morning, and remarks a sweet-faced girl at the secretary's desk. She is Miss Alice Ward, living with her mother, and has attracted Whitlock's attention.

The girl appeals to Steele. He begs Whitlock to let her remain as she is, pure and sweet and undefiled. Whitlock derides him. That night the girl and Whitlock struggle in his office, she to protect her honor. He is killed, and the girl rushes to the street shrieking in horror, and is taken into custody. Steele is asked to defend Alice Ward, but refuses, as he has promised the district attorney to prosecute the murderess. Mrs. Ward starts for his office, and arriving there, finds Rose Darrow, who leaves when Steele discovers in Mrs. Ward his wife. She tells him that Alice Ward is his daughter.

That night Steele, alone in his bachelor apartments, is visited by Rose Darrow, whose indiscretions have been discovered by her husband. Bob Darrow follows her and confronts Steele with a leveled revolver, saying, "Is there any reason why I should not kill you where you stand? Calmly, Steel gazes straight into his eyes, and answers, "Yes. There is a girl in the Tombs accused of murder, and I am going to defend her. That girl is my daughter. Grant me the time for her defense and I will make any reparation that you demand of me."

The day on which the Whitlock murder case is to go to the jury, the prosecution has spent two hours in violent denunciation of the shrinking girl. Then Steele makes his defense, and tells the jury of his wife, who left him eighteen years ago, and of his daughter, the defendant, and that men of Dace Whitlock's stamp deserve death, and that he knows, as, to his everlasting shame and contrition, he has been one of them. An hour later Barret Steele concludes the most eloquent, the most convincing plea for a prisoner's life that the walls of the court room have ever heard. The jury returns with a verdict of not guilty.

Steele's happiness is complete, but he suddenly realizes the debt he has to pay. He goes to Bob Darrow. Darrow, with stern eyes on Steele's face, says, "You owe your life to three people, myself, your wife and your child—they win." On the outside of the door Steele pauses. A wonderful light illumines his face and eyes, and, raising his head, he breathes, "Home."

Powers 6B

We Equip Motion Picture Theatres Completely

Transverter

Projection Engineers

Such an organization as the P. T. E. Co. with its unbroken record of great projection achievements made in thousands of theatres, including some of the finest in our modern time, may fairly claim to possess expert knowledge in all matters relating to efficient and economical results in

PROJECTION ENGINEERING

The Knowledge is Yours to Command

WE ARE DISTRIBUTORS FOR NATIONAL AND SILVERTIP CARBONS

Send for Prices

PICTURE THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY
1604 BROADWAY at 49th Street NEW YORK
Member of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers

Simplex

Piteco Condensers Will Save You Money. Ask about them.

MINUSA

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

Classified Advertisements

NOTE OUR NEW RATES!

Remittances must accompany all orders as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

OPERATOR any machine, six years' experience. Five years in one show, where projection is probably unsurpassed. Sober, no kicker, always ready for business. References exchanged. Otis Wertz, 407 W. Hendrich St., Shelbyville, Ind.

OPERATOR, electrician, repair man. Eight years, any outfit, now employed, but desires change, projection guaranteed. Owen Field, Bijou Theater, Danville, Va.

ORGANIST desires change. High class picture and concert player. Choicest references as to ability and character. A., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

WELL EDUCATED Italian, 35. First-class negative-positive developer. Expert in every kind of film-photography, chemical works. Ten years as developer, foreman, superintendent. Satisfaction guaranteed, reasonable salary. Address Broere, 530 Clinton St., Hoboken, N. J.

OPERATOR, motion picture, very careful, thirty-six. New York license, will go anywhere. Apply Danlides, 27 E. 81st St., N. Y. City.

AT LIBERTY after January 15th. Can prove qualifications as manager and publicity man. Exceptional experience to handle up-to-date proposition. G., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN, working at present for New York company, desires connection with out-of-town company. Has good outfit. F. L., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

LABORATORY MANAGER open for engagement, have 18 years' experience in producing the highest grade of work Capable to supervise any large plant. Address Laboratory, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FILM PRODUCER, if looking for reliable, experienced, recommended cameraman, own outfit, studio, weekly, scenic, communicate Aagaard, 3115 Broadway, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN, wide experience, at liberty; consider proposition with high grade company. Ability easily shown. J. B., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN, with fine camera, best of references. Go anywhere. B., 2940 Boulevard, Jersey City, N. J. Phone Jersey City 1213.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED—Moving picture theaters for cash buyers. Thirty theaters sold in one month. We are the oldest theater brokers in the United States. Send for terms, blanks, etc. Hunt Agency, 339 Brisbane Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

AN APPEAL to men who want to make a success in life. No previous experience necessary. Photo-play house located in town of about 70,000 inhabitants, in central part of New York state, surrounding population within a radius of four miles will make up about 100,000; running continuously seven days week. Receipts for the last thirty days are as follows: Oct. 14, $102.45; Oct. 15, $129.20; Oct. 16, $201.70; Oct. 17, $160.20; Oct. 18, $156.00; Oct. 19, $162.10; Oct. 20, $159.80; Oct. 21, $195.80; Oct. 22, $82.60; Oct. 23, $88.23; Oct 24, $86.40; Oct. 25, $89.10; Oct. 26, $86.35; Oct. 27, $74.05; Oct. 28, $92.25; Oct. 29, $78.00; Nov. 1, $87.25; Nov. 2, $87.10; Nov. 3, $92.85; Nov. 4, $113.15; Nov. 5, $74.00; Nov. 6, $144.00; Nov. 7, 153.30; Nov. 8, $92.15; Nov. 9, $76.70; Nov. 10, $88.85; Nov. 11, $104.80; Nov. 12, $90.30; Nov. 13, $149.45; Nov. 14, $123.20. To conduct this house less than half. A wonderful money-maker. Nothing like it was ever before placed on the market. Trial will be given one week or one month. Our client resides in the city of Buffalo and is about to retire from business and will sacrifice this $15,000 movie for $6,500; $4,000 down, balance on time or $6,000 spot cash. Remember, you will have to act just as quickly as the people acted when we advertised the Hippodrome in Syracuse, N. Y., for sale. We had fourteen buyers for this house. Lewis, 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Movie theater, prosperous city, population 15,000. Seating 300, motor driven machines, modern equipment. Will mail particulars. Box 273, Corning, N. Y.

MOVIE—600 seats, 7 days, completely equipped, 2 Power's 6As 40 minutes from New York. Rent, $125.00. Write Horwitz, 680 St. Nicholas Ave., N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Modern motion picture theater, seating 240. Located in live manufacturing city of 30,000. Selling on account of sickness. Address Wisconsin, care M. P. World. N. Y. City.

THE ELKS' HOME, of Mahanoy City, Pennsylvania, will receive bids for the rental of their Regent Theater, a motion picture house up to and including December 20th. Lease to commence January 1, 1917. Located in a building that cost $80,000. Population to draw from, 20,000. Seating capacity, 600. For further particulars, write Joseph E. Ferguson, Secy.

FOR SALE—Biggest picture theater in Davenport, Iowa. Best equipment; over 800 seats; rent, $350. Will consider trade for theater in Illinois. Address, P. O. Box 401, Aurora, Ill.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—A quantity of Cutler Hammer grid type rheostats, 110 volts, adjustable 25 to 40 amperes. Usual price $30.00, for immediate shipment, $15.00 each, F. O. B. New York. Suitable for use with any projecting machine. Rheostat, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THE GOLD SCREEN—Seamless, 9x12, $27.00; 11x14, $38.50. Stretcher frame, $8.00 extra. You can't get better, why pay more? Sold on trial, guaranteed. Cox Scenic Co., Estherville, Iowa.

GUARANTEED REBUILT MACHINES—1908 Motiograph, $60. 1913 Motiograph, $90. Power's No. 6A, $150. Edison type B, $75. 1911 Motiograph, $75. Simplex Motor Drive, $250. Edison Exhibition, $65. Power's No. 5, $65. Going quick. Rush your order. Amusement Supply Company, 300-2 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

BARGAIN—For sale, electric light plant, 35 H. P. gas engine directly coupled to 22½ K. W. generator. Manufacturer guarantees good as new. Will sell very cheap if sold at once. Also one 40 H. P. directly coupled to 25 K. W. generator. Particularly desirable for theaters. Theater Supply Co., Akron, Ohio. Peo. 'Phone 1597. Bell 'Phone 1016.

WANTED—One exclusive theater in each community to install "Amberlux" lens filters. Price, including business getting slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. Six standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Haliberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

SAVE MONEY on new and second hand cameras, tripods, home projectors, electric lights, developing outfits. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessars, effects devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

FOR "Hoovercine" cameras and tripods; future cash deliveries only, address H. R. Hoover & Co., 229 West 42d St., N. Y. City.

DAVIDSTERN COMPANY, the Motion Picture Camera Clearing House, offers the biggest values possible in high grade tested Cinematograph Cameras. Read this list carefully, then act at once. 1st: 100-ft. Ensign Topical, 50 M.M Carl Zeiss Tessar f.3.5 lens and carrying case, complete $65——2nd: 150-ft. capacity Vista Motion Picture Camera, no lens, $22.50——3rd: Eberhard Schneider Motion Picture Camera, 200-ft. capacity, magazines side by side, Prism focusing device, equipped with genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar f.3.5 lens and carrying case. Our price $100——4th: 200-ft. capacity Ernemann Model A, professional Motion Picture Camera, equipped with a 50 M.M. Ernemann f.3.5 lens, regular and trick crank leather covered box. Complete $110——5th: 400-ft. capacity Ernemann Model B, professional, regular and trick crank, forward and reverse drive, finest mechanism, equipped with 2" Ernemann f.3.5, 3" Helomar f.3.2, and 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto f.4.5 and two extra Magazines with fine Panorama and Tilting top tripod. Price for complete outfit, $325——6th: 400-ft. Pathe, outside magazine, Motion Picture Camera, late model, nickel steel film channel, forward and reverse drive, regular and trick crank, film punch outside diaphragm adjustment and hand dissolve, equipped with genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar f.3.5. lens, 50 M.M. focus, extra magazine, and studio tripod. Our price, complete, $450——7th: Latest model Universal Motion Picture Camera, forward and reverse take-up, regular and trick crank, focusing device, etc., 2" Cooke f.3.5 lens, extra magazine and carrying case, complete, $250——8th: The DAVSCO KINO, the most compact and efficient Camera on the market, 200-ft. capacity, weighs but 10¼ lbs., improved focusing device, round aluminum magazines, equipped with 50 M.M. Tessar f.3.5 lens. Complete, $110. Write for specifications. Panoramic and Tilting top tripods from $20 to $65. Will ship any outfit C. O. D. with privilege of examination, on receipt of 25% deposit. Deposit refunded if not satisfactory. Try our special telegraphic order service. Delivery on time, or we pay all charges. Write or wire today. DAVIDSTERN COMPANY, The National Camera Exchange, 1047R Madison St., Chicago, Illinois.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. Especially series. State price, etc., to F. Thomander, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID for film scrap, discarded reels of films and perforations. Ship to and write The Nickelsburg Brothers Company, Meadow St., Newark, N. J. Checks mailed on receipt of goods.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Used 3, 4 and 5 reel features in good condition. The Big A Film Corp., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

NEGATIVE for sale. We own exclusive world rights on 18,000 feet of unreleased negative, featuring Ethel Grandin in single, double and three reel subjects. Will sell at a sacrifice for cash. Chicago Film Trading & Exporting Co., Shops Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

OVER SEAS BUYERS should communicate with me; second-hand American pictures at European prices. Donald Campbell, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

WURLITZER orchestra piano for moving picture accompaniment. Hand or automatic. Cost $1,500. Good as new. Price, $650. A. Engle, Ft. Dodge, Iowa.

BARGAIN for quick sale. One Wurlitzer electric piano with flute and violin pipes and mandolin attachment. Slightly used. Particularly desirable for theaters. Theater Supply Co., Akron, Ohio. Peo. Phone 1597. Bell Phone 1016.

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors....1795
Against "White Slave" Subjects....1792
"American Ambulance" Pictures at Strand.1781
At Leading Picture Theaters....1783

"Battle of Life, The" (Fox)....1817
Brady Finds Encouragement....1810
Bremerton, Women of, Interfere with Show.1844
Brooklyn Exhibitors Hold Meeting....1784
Buffalo Screen Club for Sunday Shows....1835

Calendars of Daily Program Releases, 1846, 1848
Capital City Exchange Notes....1832
Capitol District Association Formed....1783
Censorship in New England....1792
"Challenge, The" (Pathe)....1813
"Chased into Love" (Fox)....1818
Chicago News Letter....1785
Cincinnati Exchange Men Elect....1832
Cohan to Produce "Broadway Jones"....1809
Comments on the Films....1819
Creative Methods—Shaw....1776
Curran, Thomas A.—Thanhouser Leading Man....1778

De Mille to Produce Cohan Subject....1787
Denver Screeners to Hold Dance....1842

Empress, Marie....1808
"Enemy, The" (Vitagraph)....1815
Essanay Has Small Fire....1811
Essanay Plant Like a Beehive....1791
Exhibitors of Yonkers, The....1806

Facts and Comments....1775
Famous Players-Lasky Takes Over Paramount....1778
"Female of the Species, The" (Triangle)....1815
Foreign Market Good....1784
Fox Feature Scores at Pitt....1834
Fox Publicity Campaign....1794

Garden Theater in Toronto....1835
General Film War Pictures....1781
"Girl Who Doesn't Know, The" (Moss)....1815
Greeley, Evelyn....1809
Griffith Bids Mae Marsh Godspeed....1787

"His Model Wife" (Christie)....1813
"Hist! At Six O'clock" (Christie)....1813
"Honor of Mary Blake, The" (Bluebird)....1816

Indianapolis Tries Sunday Law....1836

Kansas City Screeners to Give Minstrel Show....1840
"King Lear" (Thanhouser)....1812

List of Current Film Release Dates, 1872, 1874, 1876, 1878
Louisville Exhibitors Prosper....1839

MacIvor, Mary....1793
Manufacturers' Advance Notes....1822
"Masque of Life, The," Revamped....1793
Mastbaum, Stanley, Is Host to Film Men....1779
"Menace, The" (Kalem)....1816
Michigan Exhibitor Sounds Warning....1782
Milwaukee Exhibitors Reassure the Mayor.1837
Minneapolis, Admission Prices in....1841
"Mixed Blood" (Red Feather)....1814
Mixed Identities....1794
Montebello, Pete, "Bally-Hooing"....1807
Motion Picture Educator....1804
Motion Picture Exhibitor....1782

Neice, Alice....1793
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity....1788
Notes of the Trade....1829

Ochs Committee Meets and Adjourns....1783
"Oliver Twist" (Lasky)....1817
Olson, E. G., Makes Things Hum....1840
"Out for the Coin" (Christie)....1813

Pathe Washington Exchange Moves....1833
Peck, Mary Gray, Ends Tour....1809
Pedley's Potato Matinee....1832
Photoplaywright, The....1798
Portland (Me.), Changes in....1830
Portland Screeners Give Dance....1844
Problems of the Small Exhibitor....1777
Projection Department....1799

Raver Comes Back....1793
Reichenbach Becomes Free Lance....1811
Reviews of Current Productions....1812
Rialto Changes Exhibition Policy....1792
Rice, Burton, Going Abroad....1808
"Rink, The" (Mutual)....1818
"Rise of Susan, The" (World)....1812

San Francisco a Good Picture Field....1843
Selznick Companies Active....1791
Shift in Bluebird Titles....1810
Short Changing in Tax Tickets....1835
Small Village Theaters Should Combine....1839
Smith, P. H., Makes a Record with Metro..1781
"Social Pirates" (Fox)....1818
Soriero Winning at Boston's Park....1807
"Stain of Chuckawalla, The" (Kalem)....1816
"Stolen Triumph, The" (Metro)....1816
Stories of the Films....1850
Stuart, Roy....1791

U. S. Theater, Bronx, Opened....1781

"Vampires, The" (Gaumont)....1814
Vancouver, The Week in....1845
"Victoria Cross, The" (Lasky)....1813

"War As It Really Is" (Thompson)....1814
"War Brides" at the Duquesne....1834
Ware, Helen....1811
What Practical Exhibitors Say....1777

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Commack....1859
Speer Carbon Co....1882

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
American Seating Co....1881
Steel Furniture Co....1881

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
American Tuto-Arc Co., Inc....1879
Amusement Supply Co....1878
Calehuff Supply Co....1860
Fulton, E. E....1864
Hallberg, J. H....1855
Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co....1879
Hommel, Ludwig & Co....1864
Picture Theater Equip. Co....1866
Porter, B. F....1877
Strelinger, Chas. A....1857
Swaab, Lewis M....1857
Typhoon Fan Co....1881
Universal Motor Co....1857
Westinghouse Electric Mfg. Co....1875

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W....1860
Davis Film Co....1864

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Crown Optical Co....1879
Gundlach Manhattan Optical Co....1877

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
Aerogy Film Inc....1849
Arrow Film Corp....1731
Artcraft Picture Corp....1732-33
Biograph Co....1846
Bluebird Photo Plays, In. Colored Insert 1722
Christie Film Co....1725
Clune, W. H....1736-37
Donald C. Thompson Film Co....1739
E & R. Jungle Film Co....1859
Essanay Film Mfg. Co....1719-1769-70
Fox Film Corp....1740-45
Gaumont Co....1746
Grafton Film Pub. Co....1859
Heaney, John W....1759
International Film Service....Colored Insert
Ivan Film Productions, Inc....1754-55
Kalem Co....1774
Keen Cartoon Corp....1734
Kleine, Geo....1764
Klever Comedies....1730
Knickerbocker Star Features....1733
K-E-S-E Service....1765-68
McClure Pictures....1718
Metro Pictures Corp....Colored Insert
Moss, B. S....1760-61
Mutual Film Corp....Colored Insert, 1748-49
National Drama Corp....1859
Paramount Pictures Corp....1727-29
Pathe Exchange, The....Colored Insert
Selig Polyscope Co....1771
Selznick, L. J., Enterprises....1756-57
Signal Film Corp....1747
Thanhouser Film Corp....1726
Thirty Leagues Under the Sea, Inc....1865
Triangle Film Corp....1752-53
Triumph Films Corp....1738
Unicorn Film Service....1735
Unity Sales Corp....1738
Universal Film Mfg. Co....1720-21, 1723-24
Vim Comedies....1772, 1847
Warner Bros....1763
What Becomes of the Children?....1762
World Film Corp....1750-51

MISCELLANEOUS.
Audel, Theo....1858
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co....1864
Berlin Aniline Works....1875
Bioscope, The....1856
Cahill-Igoe Co....1856
Cinema Camera Club....1860
Cine Mundial....1881
Corcoran, A. J....1857
Del Ruth, Hampton....1854
Eastman Kodak Co....1877
Erbograph Co....1859
Evans Film Mfg. Co....1877
General Chemical Co....1880
Gunby Bros....1880
Harbeck, Stanley....1859
Il Tirso Cinematografo....1880
Kalem Co....1859
Kinematograph Weekly, The....1858
Kraus Mfg. Co....1860
Marion, Louise M....1880
Moore, Wm. N....1881
M. P. W. Circulation Coupon....1861, 1877
M. P. Directory Co....1879
M. P. Electricity....1878
National Ticket Co....1862
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co....1864
Richardson, F. H....1829
Richardson M. P. Handbook....1880
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co....1879
Salvation Army Free Xmas Dinner....1857
Screencraft....1878
Stanbury, R. K....1829
Standard M. P. Co....1859
Superior Films, Inc....1859
Wayne M. P. Co....1858
Willis & Inglis....1856

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Los Angeles M. P. Co....1856
Universal Camera Co....1857

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photo Player Co....1869
Seeburg, J. P., Piano Co....1883
Sinn, Clarence E....1856
Wurlitzer Co., Rudolph....1871

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Kline Poster Co....1875
Menger & Ring....1857

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
American Standard M. P. Co....1857
Enterprise Opt. & Mfg. Co....1882
Power Co., Nicholas....1883
Precision Mch. Co....1873

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Genter, J. H., Co....1880
Gold King Screen....1858
Minusa Cine Products Co....1880
Radium Gold Fibre Screen Co....1856

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co....1882

Fotoplayer
for Better Music

WE ALSO ANNOUNCE OUR NEW

VOX MYSTICA

Contralto
and Baritone Voices

Our expert voicers have developed these wonderful new tones—the almost life-like notes so soft, dreamy and rich, that will stir the depths of your very soul and make your picture throb with the breath of life.

Our well known FOTOPLAYER may now be had by you with VOX MYSTICA in addition to its many other distinct qualities and advantages.

Don't forget that we are the foremost builders of musical instruments for motion picture theatres and design and build pipe organs equipped with the latest features; our experts are at your disposal and will be glad to serve you.

Fotoplayer

Tear off and mail.

American Photo Player Co., 62 West 45th St., New York.
Please send me full information about Vox Mystica in the Fotoplayer.

(Name) .....

(Address) .....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1846, 1848.)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem

Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Nov. 29—The Wages of Sin (Three parts—Dr.) (Biograph Reissue No. 101).
Dec. 4—My Baby (Comedy—Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 5—A Bit of Human Driftwood (Two parts—Drama—Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 11—Her Sacrifice (Drama) (Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 13—The Honor of the Law (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph reissue).
Dec. 18—The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 19—His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).

ESSANAY.

Nov. 28—A Tin Soldier (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 29—Dreamy Dud Joyriding With Princess Zilm (Cartoon—Comedy).
—A scenic subject on the same reel.
Dec. 2—The Final Fraud (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 5—The Egg (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 6—A Waiting Game (Comedy).
Dec. 9—A Failure at Fifty (Three parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 13—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 20 (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Long Beach, Cal. (Scenic).
Dec. 16—Is Marriage Sacred? No 1, "The Burning Band" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 20—Taking the Count (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Dancing with Folly (2d of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

Nov. 28—Dudes for a Day (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Border Wolves (No. 17 of the "Girl From 'Frisco") (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 1—The Wizard's Plot (No. 7 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Trial Run (No. 107 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).
Dec. 5—Jailbirds (Comedy).
Dec. 6—The Poisoned Dart (No. 18 of the "Girl from 'Frisco" Series—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 8—The Trunk Mystery (No. 8 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Lineman's Peril (No. 109 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Icemen and the Artist (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The Stain of Chuckawalla (No. 19 of the "Girl and the Game") (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 15—The Menace (No. 9 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
Dec. 16—The Midnight Express (No. 110 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).
Dec. 19—The Fatal Violin (Comedy).
Dec. 20—On the Brink of War (No. 20 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Tiger's Claw (No. 10 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Vanishing Box Car (No. 111 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).

SELIG.

Nov. 18—The Girl Detective (Drama).
Nov. 20—The Sheriff's Blunder (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Selig-Tribune No. 93, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 23—The Selig-Tribune No. 94, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 25—Hedge of Heart's Desire (Comedy).
Nov. 27—Following the Flag (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Selig-Tribune No. 95, 1916 (Top.).
Nov. 30—The Selig-Tribune No. 96, 1916 (Top.).
Dec. 2—Mistakes Will Happen (Drama).
Dec. 4—The Brand of Cain (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 4—The Selig-Tribune, No. 97, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 7—The Selig-Tribune, No. 98, 1916 Topical).
Dec. 9—The Purchase Price (Drama).
Dec. 11—Twisted Trails (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Selig-Tribune, No. 99 (Topical).
Dec. 14—Selig-Tribune, No. 100 (Topical).
Dec. 16—The Road to Fame (Drama).
Dec. 18—Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 18—The Five Franc Piece (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 21—Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 23—The Man He Might Have Been (Dr.).

VIM. FEATURE COMEDY.

Nov. 1—Gertie's Garters (Comedy).
Nov. 8—Marked No Funds (Comedy).
Nov. 15—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).
Nov. 22—The Good Stenographer (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 6—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 13—Charity Begins at Home (Comedy).
Dec. 20—They Practice Economy (Comedy).
Dec. 27—Her Financial Frenzy (Comedy).

VIM.

Nov. 17—Good and Proper (Comedy).
Nov. 23—Mother's Child (Comedy).
Nov. 24—Money Maid Men (Comedy).
Nov. 30—The Prize Winners (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Ambitious Ethel (Comedy).
Dec. 7—The Guilty One (Comedy).
Dec. 8—A Rare Boarder (Comedy).
Dec. 14—No release this day.
Dec. 15—What's the Use (Comedy).
Dec. 20—He Went and Won (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Reckless Romeos (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Dec. 1—Have You Heard About Tillie? (Com.).
Dec. 2—Our Other Lives (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).
Dec. 4—Where Is Your Friend? (Comedy).
—Swedish Model Farm (Educational).
Dec. 8—His Wife's Allowance (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Accident Is the Best Policy (Com.).
Dec. 15—Bears and Bullets (Comedy)
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama)
Dec. 18—A Lesson for Somebody (Comedy).
Dec. 22—A Bit of Bent Wire (Comedy).

General Film Company Features

BLACK CAT FEATURE.

Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama).

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Dec. 2—Our Other Lives (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

Nov. 24—Twin Souls (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Butts Casey—Crook (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Master of Her Soul (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Dawn of Wisdom (Three parts—Drama).

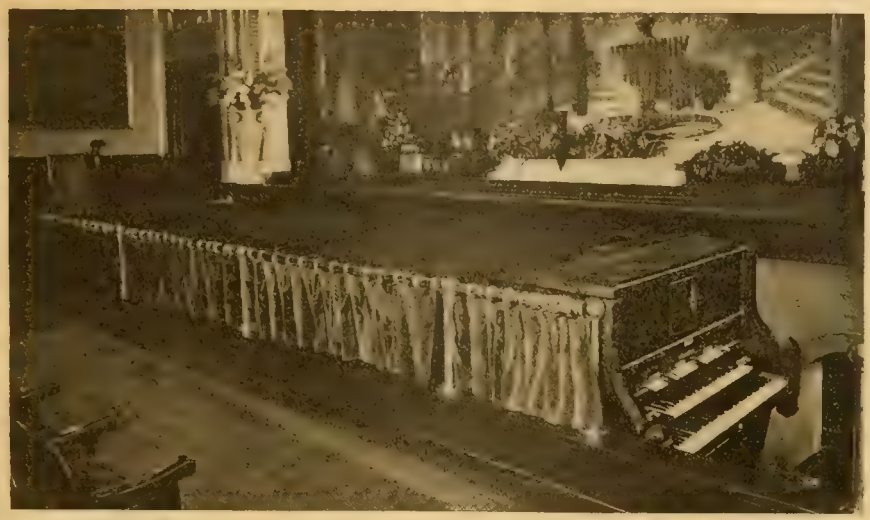
A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City



Model "V" Orchestra installed in Alhambra Theatre, Sandusky, Ohio.

Make Your Picture Theatre a Bigger Paying Investment

Every business man must keep abreast of the business times, if he makes his investment a sure and safe one. Better service always results in better profits in any business.

The Wurlitzer (Hope-Jones) Unit Orchestra Will Bring the Crowds Your Way

It first of all plays up and intensifies the film efficiency which many times is lost because of lack of musical interpretation. Then of itself it is a magnet of great power, as it gives you the quality of all the different instruments contained in the "Orchestra" and the musical effect is no small factor in direct attracting power for people of every class.

Mr. Wm. T. Martin of the Alhambra Theatre, Sandusky, Ohio, says: "I heartily recommend this instrument for any one who wishes to make a name for their house." We have scores upon scores of testimonials from the foremost theatres in America that will prove that you should install one of these wonderful Orchestras at once if you act for your own best interests.

Write for our Catalogue on Unit Orchestras

THE RUDOLPH WURLITZER COMPANY

121 EAST FOURTH STREET, CINCINNATI, O.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1846, 1848.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Dec. 6—Number 49 (Topical).
Dec. 13—Number 50 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 51 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 52 (Topical).

BIG U.

Nov. 30—The Mother Call (Drama).
Dec. 1—The Circle of Death (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 7—(No release this day).
Dec. 7—Seeds of Jealousy (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 15—The Wrong Heart (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 21—No regular Big U this day.
Dec. 21—Moonshine Blood (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 28—No regular Big U this day.
Dec. 28—Special release. Title not yet decided.
Dec. 31—Special release. Title not yet decided.

BISON.

Dec. 2—The Greater Power (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 9—The Good Woman (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Taint of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 23—Fighting Joe (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—Giant Powder (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Nov. 28—Should She Have Told (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 5—Ashes (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Two Roads (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—Birds of a Feather (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Dec. 8—The Call of the Unborn (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—(No release this day).
Dec. 10—Bubbles (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 15—Scratched (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—No release this day.
Dec. 22—In the Dead O'Night (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—No regular Imp this day.
Dec. 24—Special release, title not yet reported.
Dec. 29—Toto of the Byways (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—No regular Imp this day.

JOKER.

Nov. 25—A Janitor's Vendetta (Comedy).
Dec. 2—Scrappily Married (Comedy).
Dec. 9—The Tramp Chef (Comedy).
Dec. 16—Their Dark Secret (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Jags and Jealousy (Comedy).
Dec. 30—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Dec. 6—(No release this day).
Dec. 6—The Strange Mother (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 9—(No release this day).
Dec. 13—Green Eyes (Drama).
Dec. 16—No release this day.
Dec. 16—Mother's Guiding Hand (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 20—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 20—Homeless (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 23—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 27—Stronger than Steel (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 30.—Special release. Title not yet decided.

L-KO.

Nov. 29—Eat and Grow Hungry (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Tattle Tale Alice (Comedy).
Dec. 3—No release this day.
Dec. 6—The High Diver's Curse Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 13— Murdered by Mistake (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 20—Shooting His 'Art Out (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy).

NESTOR.

Nov. 20—How Do You Feel? (Comedy).
Nov. 24—Married a Year (Comedy).
Nov. 27—The White Turkey (Comedy).
Dec. 4—Pass the Prunes (Comedy).
Dec. 8—Oh You Honeymoon (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Two Small Town Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 15—I'm Your Husband (Comedy).
Dec. 18—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy).
Dec. 25 -Pretty Baby (Comedy).

POWERS.

Dec. 7—(No release this day).
Dec. 10—The Trials of a Movie Cartoonist (Comedy-Cartoon).
—Superstitious Ceylon (Educational).
Dec. 14—In the Land of King Cotton (Educ.)
Dec. 17—Sammie Johnsin and the Wonderful Lamp (Comedy-Cartoon).
—Majestic Ceylon (Educational).
Dec. 21—No regular Power's this day.
Dec. 24—Nervy Nat Has His Fortune Told (Comedy Cartoon).
—In the Heart of India As Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational).
Dec. 26—Such Is Life in Alaska (Hy Mayer Travelogue).
Dec. 28—No regular Powers this day.
Dec. 31—Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Cartoon Comedy).

RED FEATHER.

Nov. 20—The Devil's Bondwoman (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Mainspring (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 4—Kinkaid, Gambler (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec. 11—The Morals of Hilda (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Mixed Blood (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Child of Mystery (Five parts—Dr.).

REX.

Dec. 1—No release this day.
Dec. 9—A Story from Life (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 10—The Penalty of Treason (Drama).
Dec. 14—The Lawyer's Secret (Two parts—Drama.)
Dec. 15—No release this day.
Dec. 17—No release this day.
Dec. 17—Love or an Empire (Two parts—Dr.) (Special).
Dec. 21—The Ivy and the Oak (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Rock of Riches (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Woman Who Learned (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 29—No regular Rex this day.
Dec. 29—Special release. Title not yet decided.
Dec. 31—The Prodigal Daughter (Drama).

VICTOR.

Dec. 5—(No release this day).
Dec. 5—His Golden Hour (Comedy) (Special).
Dec. 7—The Shadow (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).
—Racoons (Educationel).
Dec. 12—No release this day.
Dec. 12—Billy the Bandit (Comedy (Special).
Dec. 14—It Didn't Work Out Right (Comedy).
Dec. 19—No regular Victor this day.
Dec. 19—So This Is Paris (Special release—Comedy).
Dec. 22—It's Great to Be Married (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Good Morning, Judge (Two parts—Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Nov. 24—Number 1.
Dec. 8—Number 2.
Dec. 22—Number 3.
Dec. 29—Number 4.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Nov. 20—Liberty No. 14, "A Modern Joan of Arc" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—Liberty No. 15, "The Flag of Truce" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—Liberty No. 16, "Court Martialed" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Liberty No. 17, "A Trail of Blood" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Liberty No. 18, "The Wolf's Nemesis" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—Little Partner (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Liberty No. 19, "An Avenging Angel" (Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Nov. 20—The Measure of a Man (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Bugler of Algiers (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Sign of the Poppy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Price of Silence (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Right of Mary Blake (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Right to Be Happy (Five parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Nov. 9—The Fight on the Dam (Drama).
Nov. 23—The Star Bucks (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue).
Nov. 23—Calamity Ana Guardian (Comedy) (Reissue).
Nov. 30—Calamity Anne's Vanity (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike (Dr.) (Reissue).

CUB.

Nov. 8—Nearly a Hero (Comedy).
Nov. 10—His Blushing Bride (Comedy).
Nov. 17—Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 11—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Bad Samaritan (Two parts—Drama).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Dec. 28—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 1, "The Jade Necklace"—Two parts—Drama).

NORTH AMERICAN.

Nov. 27—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 1—"Fate and Death"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 2—"Under Oath"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 3—"Sealed Lips"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 4—"The Climax"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Dec. 12—Mutual World Tours, No. 6, The Nile, Carcassone and Lake Luzerne (Travel).
Dec. 13—See America First (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics.
Dec. 17—Reel Life, Number 33 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Dec. 20—See America First (Travel).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 21—The Vampires (Episode No. 5, "The Eyes that Hold"—Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—Mutual Tours Around the World (Morocco, Chantilly, by the Mediterranean (Travel).
Dec. 24—Reel Life, Number 34 (Mutual Film Magazine).

MUTUAL.

Dec. 7—His Uncle's Ward (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 8—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 1 "From Citizen to Soldier."
Dec. 9—Admirer's Three (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Turn of the Wheel (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Gertie's Latest Love Affair (Com.).
Dec. 15—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 2, "Our Boys at the Border" (Topical).
Dec. 16—One Dollar Please (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Buddy's Christmas (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 20—Mutual Weekly No. 103 (Travel).
Dec. 21—The Elopement (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3, "A Jack Tar in the Making" (Topical).
Dec. 23—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Nov. 15—Number 98 (Topical).
Nov. 22—Number 99 (Topical).
Nov. 29—Number 100 (Topical).
Dec. 6—Number 101 (Topical).
Dec. 13—Number 102 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 103 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 1876.)

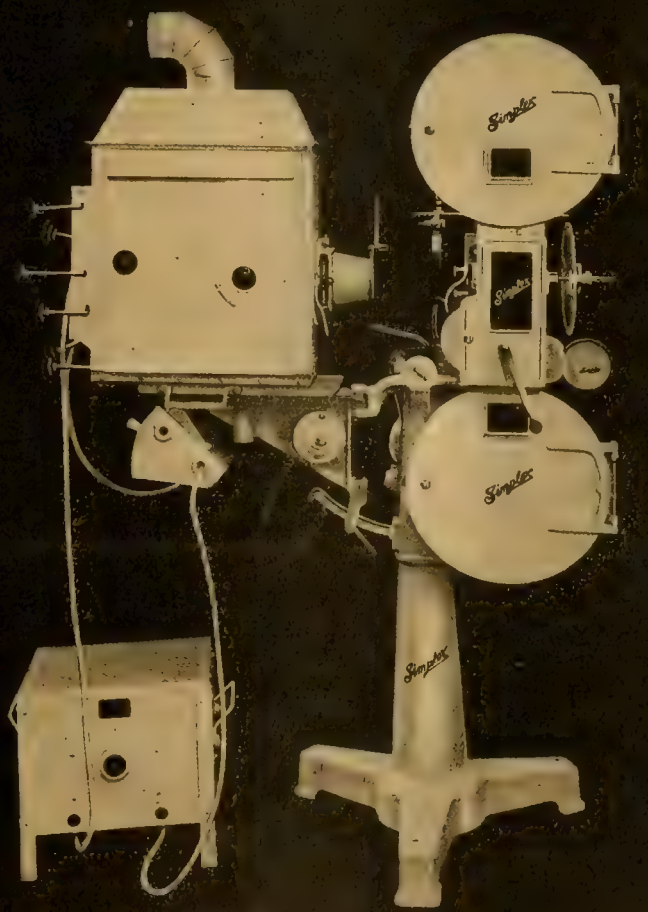
Simplex
TRADE MARK REG.

for PERFECTION
in PROJECTION



MADE AND GUARANTEED BY
THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1846, 1848.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 1872.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

The Pawnshop (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 13—Behind the Screen (Two parts—Comedy).
December—In the Rink (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Nov. 9—East Is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Nov. 16—Immediate Lee (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 153).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Nov. 13—Peck o' Pickles (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 152).
Nov. 23—Lone Star (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 155).
Nov. 27—A Dream or Two Ago (Five parts—Drama) (No. 156).
Dec. 4—The Valley of Decision (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 158).
Dec. 11—Lonesome Town (American—Five parts—Drama) (159).
Dec. 11—Miss Jackie of the Navy (Five parts—Drama) (160).

NOVELTY.

Nov. 25—An Artful Dodge (Comedy).

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 5, "The Burned Record" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 6 (Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Nov. 19—With or Without (Two parts—Com.).
Nov. 26—Up the Flue (Comedy).
Dec. 3—The Wicked City (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 10—Shot in the Fracas (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 17—Treed (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 24—Fickle All Around (Two parts—Com.).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Black Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Stolen Triumph (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Pidgin Island (Five parts—Dr.).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Comedy).
Oct. 2—Nearly a Deserter (Comedy).
Oct. 16—Bridget's Blunder (Comedy).
Oct. 30—A Troublesome Trip (Comedy).
Nov. 13—A Villainous Pursuit (Comedy).
Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Com.).
Dec. 11—His Ivory Dome (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Their Week End (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Nov. 27—Nanette of the Wilds (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—A Coney Island Princess (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Traveling Salesman (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Snow White (Five parts—Drama).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Dec. 4—The Best Man (Comedy).
Dec. 18—In Society and Out (Comedy).

LASKY.

Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Oliver Twist (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Victoria Cross (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO.

Dec. 7—The Road to Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 28—The Redeeming Love (Five parts—Drama).

PALLAS.

Dec. 21—The Right Direction (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Nov. 16—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 23—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 30—What Happened to Willie (Cartoon-Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Nov. 20—British Egypt (Scenic).
Nov. 27—The Real Streets of Cairo (Scenic).
Dec. 4—The Lower Nile (Scenic).
Dec. 11—The Upper Nile (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

Nov. 5—40th Release (Edu.).
Nov. 12—41st Release (Edu.).
Nov. 19—42d Release (Edu.).
Nov. 26—43d Relase (Edu.).
Dec. 3—44th Release (Edu).
Dec. 10—45th Release (Edu.).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Dec. 10—The Shielding Shadow, No. 11, "The Great Sacrifice" (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 10—Pearl of the Army, No. 2, "Found Guilty" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—The Shielding Shadow, No. 12, "The Stolen Shadow" (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 17—Pearl of the Army, No. 3, "The Silent Menace" (Two Parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Shielding Shadow, No. 13, "The Hidden Menace" (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—Pearl of the Army, No. 4, "War Clouds" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Shielding Shadow, No. 14, "Absolute Black" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Pearl of the Army, No. 5, "Somewhere in Grenada" (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Nov. 26—Arms and the Woman (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—Divorce and the Daughter (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Challenge (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—King Lear (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Romantic Journey (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Joy and the Dragon (Five parts—Dr.).

PATHE.

Dec. 3—The Old Fogy (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—Life of Our Saviour (Seven parts—Drama) (Colored).
Dec. 3—How Matches Are Made (Industrial).
—The Island of Kyuschu, Southernmost Japan (Scenic) (Colored).
Dec. 10—The Faithless Friend (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 10, "Fashions and Charity" (Fashions).
Dec. 17—The Taint (Three Parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—Bobby-Bear, Investigator (Educational—Colored).
—Spanish Costumes and Dances (Costumes—Colored).
Dec. 24—Against Heavy Odds (Drama).
Dec. 24—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 11, "A Day of Sport" (Fashions) and —Young Fur Bearing Animals (Edu.).
Dec. 31—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12, "Frills and Thrills" (Fashion) and —Making Rasins (Cal.) (Edu.).
Dec. 31—Silk Industry (Industrial).

PATHE NEWS.

Dec. 6—Number 98, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 9—Number 99, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 13—Number 100, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 16—Number 101, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 102 (Topical).
Dec. 23—Number 103 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 104 (Topical).
Dec. 30—Number 105 (Topical).

ROLIN.

Nov. 19—Luke Patient Provider (Comedy).
Nov. 26—Luke's Newsie Knockout (Comedy).
Dec. 3—Luke's Movie Muddle (Comedy).
Dec. 10—Luke—Rank Impersonator (Comedy).
Dec. 17—Luke's Fireworks Fizzle (Comedy).
Dec. 24—Luke Locates the Loot (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Luke's Shattered Sleep (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Nov. 26—The Children Pay (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 2—Children of the Feud (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Wharf Rat (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Matrimaniac (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 23—The Heiress at Coffee Dan's (Five parts—Drama).

INCE.

Nov. 26—The Devil's Double (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 2—The Criminal (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Bawbs o' Blue Ridge (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Sin Ye Do (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—A Gamble in Souls (Five parts—Dr.).

KEYSTONE.

Oct. 1—Haystacks and Steeples (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Lady Drummer (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 6—A Tugboat Romeo (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 8—Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Nov. 16—The Border Strife (Drama).
Nov. 19—The Gulf (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 28—The Guilty Hand (Two parts—Drama).

GAIETY.

Nov. 19—Easy Come and Easy Go (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Watches and Women (Comedy).

HIPPO.

Nov. 29—Cupid's Torpedoes (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Nov. 15—Saturday Night (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 16—Davy's Daily Doings (Comedy).
Nov. 30—Curse You, Jack Dalton (Comedy).

JUDY.

Nov. 17—A Sorry Plight (Comedy).
Nov. 28—He Loved and Rode Away (Comedy).
Dec. 3—Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Comedy).

PURITAN.

Nov. 14—The Inner Soul (Three parts—Drama).

RANCHO.

Nov. 13—The Desert's Prize (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—The Flower of the Prairie (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—The Brand of Cain (Drama).

SUNSET.

Nov. 13—Wanted (Drama).
Nov. 18—Slaves of Passion (Three parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—Deserted (Drama).
Dec. 1—Love's Sacrifice (Drama).

SUPREME.

Nov. 15—Tangles Fates (Drama).
Nov. 16—A Timely Reward (Drama).
Nov. 30—Whose was the Hand (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 3—The Telltale Heart (Drama).

LILY.

Nov. 17—The Climax (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Path of Life (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Nov. 29—His Other Wife (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Heart of Ramona (Three parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Nov. 29—Scarbrow's Revenge (Drama).
Dec. 3—Love's Mirage (Drama).

MONMOUTH FILM CORP.

Dec. 4—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 1—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 11—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 2—"The Stolen Rubies"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 3—"The Counterfeit Five"—Two parts—Drama).

Owing to the present lack of "AGFA" METOL

We have produced this emergency developer, to supply the trade with a product that can be used in similar proportions for like results.

Emergol

SAMPLE POUND
$12.00

Berlin Aniline Works

213-215 Water Street
NEW YORK

MR. EXHIBITOR

We are filling orders for wide-awake Exhibitors in every State in the Union, as well as Canada, England and Australia. This shows that our goods are getting results for the Exhibitor.

Do you realize that you are passing up one of the best methods to increase your patronage by failing to use our goods?

Our seven-colored portraits of the popular film stars on post cards, wall hangers and program covers we guarantee will get you results.

NOTE THE FOLLOWING PRICES

Portrait Cards (post card back)	$3.50 per 1000
Portrait Cards (wall hangers, 4x8, plain back)	4.50 per 1000
Portrait Cards (program covers)	5.00 per 1000

Send us a Trial Order and convince yourself. List of stars and samples will be sent upon request.

Kline Poster Co., Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.
Wholesale Dept.—1423-5 Vine Street

Our Goods can also be secured from the following Jobbers:

Theatre Supply & Equipment Co., Wichita, Kan.
Lears Theatre Supply Company, St. Louis, Mo
Exhibitors' Supply Company, Chicago, Ill
Michigan M. P. Supply Company, Detroit, Mich
Motion Picture Supply Company, Cleveland, Ohio
Southern Theatre Equipment Co., Dallas, Texas
Southern Theatre Equipment Co., Atlanta, Ga
Chatel Film & Supply Company, Charlotte, N. C.
Novelty Slide Company, New York City, N. Y.
Ludwig Hommel & Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOBBERS IN OTHER LOCALITIES SHOULD COMMUNICATE WITH US.

Westinghouse

Your Success

depends largely upon the kind of photo plays coupled with the manner in which they are shown

Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment

changes the alternating current into the direct current you need to get the best results from the film.

Our engineers will be glad to assist in the solution of your power problem.

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

495

W
WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1846, 1848.)

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Dec. 21—The Lash of Destiny (Van Dyke Film Co.—Drama).
Dec. 28—Whoso Taketh a Wife (U. S. Amusement Co.—Drama).
Jan. 4—The Rainbow (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Seven parts—Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Nov. 20—Some Kid (Comedy).
Nov. 27—Tramp, Tramp, Tramp (Comedy).
Dec. 4—The Sea Nymphs (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Miss Billy Buttons (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Hist! At Six O'Clock (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 15 (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 16 (Two parts—Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Dec. 4—The Vixen (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Battle of Life (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Island of Desire (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Victim (Five parts—Drama).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Dec. 11—The Scarlet Runner, No. 11, "The Missing Chapter" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Enemy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Rah, Rah, Rah! (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Capt. Jinks' Hidden Treasure (Com.).
Dec. 18—Whom the Gods Destroy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Help, Help, Help (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Capt. Jinks' Sprained Ankle (Com.).
Dec. 18—The Scarlet Runner, No. 12, "The Car and the Girl" (Last No.) (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Ninety and Nine (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Shanks and Chivalry (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Captain Jink's Getaway (Comedy).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE INC.

Dec. 4—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Scenic).
Dec. 5—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 97 (Topical).
Dec. 8—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 98 (Topical).
Dec. 11—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Scenic).
Dec. 12—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 99 (Topical).
Dec. 15—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 100 (Topical).
Dec. 18—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Scenic).
Dec. 19—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 22—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 25—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Split Reel).
Dec. 26—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 103 (Topical).
Dec. 29—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 104 (Topical).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

November—The Sex Lure (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Five parts—Drama).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Dec. 4—The Breaker (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—A Message to Garcia (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Phantom Buccaneer (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Truant Soul (Five parts—Drama—Essanay).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.)
Nov.—The Foolish Virgin (Drama).
Nov.—Panthea (Drama).
December—The Argyle Case (Drama).

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Nov. 27—The Men She Married (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—All Man (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Broken Chains (Five Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Rise of Susan (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—The World Against Him (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM INC.

December—The Celebrated Stielow Case (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.

December—Snow White (Four parts—Fairy Tale).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

HARPER FILM CORP.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE COR.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORPORATION.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.)

HENRY W. SAVAGE.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.)

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Yellow Menace, No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Yellow Menace, No. 13, "The Sky and the Submarine" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Yellow Menace, No. 15, "The Ray of Death" (Two parts—Drama).

TWEEDLEDUM RELEASES (UNITY).

Oct. 9—Torpedoed by Cupid (Comedy).
Oct. 16—A Scrambled Honeymoon (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 23—Some Hero (Comedy).
Oct. 30—Tweedledum's Busy Night (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 6—A Lucky Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Lend Me Your Wife (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Bath Tub Elopement (Comedy).
Nov. 27—A Short-sighted Crime (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Burlesque Show (Two parts—Comedy).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

You Need Them in Your Business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD represents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as

The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade — The Record of Moving Picture History in the Making

NOW READY—VOL. 29. — JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1916

WE HAVE AT YOUR DISPOSAL

Bound Volumes for the years 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1915. Four volumes each year. Shipped as per your instructions at $1.50 per volume—transportation charges additional.

INVEST $28.50

and have at your hand for ready reference every issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD which has been printed since January 1, 1912. These neatly bound books are invaluable to the wide-awake moving picture man.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Ave., New York City

THE speed and quality of the sensitive emulsion, the strength and toughness of the base, the consistent excellence covering a long period of years, the marked dependability—these are the qualities that have made it desirable, for your interests and our own, to place the identifying stencil mark

"EASTMAN"

on the margin of our film.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The best theatres in the country are equipped with

Gundlach
Projection Lenses

This is in recognition of their superior illuminating power and perfect correction for a sharp, brilliant picture.

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.
808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

Quality means EVANS means Perfection

We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People
Developing and Printing ONLY

EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Telephone—8881 Audubon 416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE

D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor

B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

.....
.....
.....

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 200 Pages.
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

Make Your House Popular

By a perfectly projected picture. You cannot do this with an old junky machine. Write us today. We will sell you a new machine of any make on our EASY PAYMENT PLAN. You would be surprised at the number of Theatres throughout the country that are purchasing from us in that way. Why don't you investigate today.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Power's, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.
Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Bound Volumes

of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD are the

Accepted Reference Books

of the Moving Picture Trade

Your Office Equipment Is Not Complete Without Them

ADDRESS CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
17 Madison Ave., New York City

Screencraft

or

The Making of a Photoplay

By Louis Reeves Harrison

Has Just Come From the Presses

A scholarly examination of the new art of writing for the picture screen which points the way for better results thoroughly and logically through deductions by one of the ablest and most widely experienced screen authors of the day.

This latest addition to the list of Chalmers Publishing Company books dealing with the motion picture art has already received the unqualified endorsement of some of the foremost men in the industry and will be found invaluable by photoplay writers who are making a serious study of their work.

It is a University Education on the Subject!

Artistically Bound in Cloth. Price $2.00 the Copy, Postpaid

Published by

The Chalmers Publishing Co.

(Publishers of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD)

Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill. | 17 Madison Ave., New York City | Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Order Direct From Our Nearest Office or Through Your Local Bookseller

Crowd Your Theatre

by showing the best illuminated and clearest-cut pictures. The full value of the pictures depends directly on the character of the projection lens.

See that your projector is equipped with the new objective. It embodies the most improved mechanical principles, and gives a steadiness and brilliancy of illumination that brings out sharply every detail of the picture.

Marlux

Your operator will be interested in the way in which the Marlux is focused.

See your Dealer or write direct to

CROWN OPTICAL COMPANY
Rochester, N. Y.

PERFECT ARC CONTROL

F. H. Richardson, well known authority on motion picture equipment says of the

TransVerteR
TRADE MARK

"While in Cleveland I witnessed a remarkable demonstration of the ability of this machine to maintain constant current at variable arc voltage. We set the arc working at 50 volts, 50 amperes . . . . there was no appreciable change at all in the amperes until the voltage had mounted to 80, whereupon I turned the arc to, amazing as the statement may seem, approximately 1¼" in length without the slightest change taking place in the amperage delivery, and the arc did not break.

"Although there were two perfect arcs and the illumination was not appreciably affected on the first machine, still the ammeter read 50 amperes, so that we had two arcs, each drawing 50 amperes, with a generator only furnishing a total of 50, and with an arc voltage at either machine of 50. . . .

"I can recommend the Transverter to the careful consideration of the moving picture theatre manager and operator."

Can you do this with your present equipment? If not, you should not be satisfied. Send for descriptive literature and latest price bulletin.

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
1908 West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

Cut that out, Operator

Keep both hands free—not one on the feed rod all the time. Get the Boss to put in an Auto-Arc like other houses are doing. Set it once, and it keeps a perfect arc for you without further attention. Impossible for carbons to freeze or burn apart. Makes pictures clear, sharp and snappy.

AUTO-ARC

was invented by a practical operator who knows what your troubles are, and how much you have to do. It never goes wrong. Simplicity itself. Get one on 30 days' trial. You can put it on, and, once you have tried it, you or the Boss won't have it taken away again. He will like it because it soon pays for itself. It actually saves about one-fourth of the current.

Price f. o. b. factory Owensboro, Ky., only $60.00. Money back guarantee.

Write for further information.

American Auto-Arc Co., Inc.
407 S. Dearborn St. CHICAGO, ILL.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
80 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Every Camera Man

CAN AVOID SCENE MIX-UPS

and keep accurate record of each exposure, by using the book we will send you, postage prepaid, if you will send us 15c in stamps.

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. CO.
1339 Diversey Parkway, CHICAGO

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRROROID Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRROROID INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test — Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.
Price, 33 1/3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over.
Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME.
Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRROROID, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.
If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRROROID screen installed.
Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

Stereopticon

Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures
(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired) for theatres, lyceums and clubs near New York City. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION
445 W. 23rd St., New York
Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not lecture on or sell motion pictures.

MINUSA
"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"
The ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN—Perfected.
MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY.
SAINT LOUIS | CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO | PITTSBURGH CALGARY, ALBERTA | NEW YORK
SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped . 1c ft.
Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language 5c complete per foot
Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

HYDROQUINONE

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY

NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL and CAST IRON
HIGH Quality
LOW Price

Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

The "M. P. World" carries more classified ads than all other trade papers combined—WHY?

When You Want Opera Chairs Remember We Have

50,000 CHAIRS

Always in Stock
in six different designs in Antique Mahogany and Circasian Walnut finishes, assuring you of a satisfactory selection.

Immediate Service
Other designs of unupholstered and Upholstered Chairs in unlimited numbers furnished in 25 to 50 days after receipt of specifications.

General Offices 1010 Lytton Bldg. CHICAGO

AMERICAN SEATING COMPANY

Sales Offices in all Principal Cities

$3,000 Cash—

Is the price one high grade manufacturer received for the world's rights on a five-reel film outside of the United States and Canada.

He could have doubled that price if he had opened his eyes to the rapidly developing export trade.

CINE MUNDIAL

The Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World is reaching 5,000 progressive men of the motion picture industry in Latin-America, Spain, Portugal, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands.

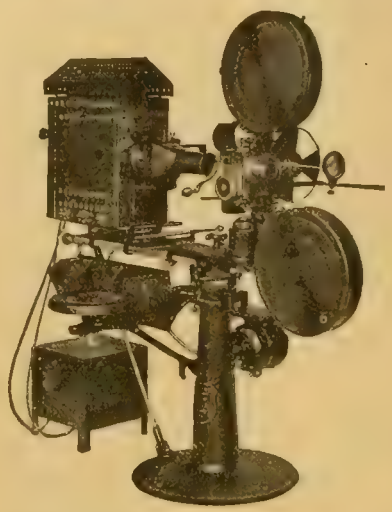
This is a market worthy of your keen attention.

For full information address

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City
SPANISH DEPARTMENT

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS
1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

MOTIOGRAPH



WATCH THIS SPACE IN NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE FOR SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT, ALSO CHANGE IN MOTIOGRAPH PRICES

Customers who intend using the

Motiograph

for their holiday projection must send their order at once.

THE MOTIOGRAPH REPRESENTS THE ESSENCE OF SIMPLICITY, STRENGTH and DURABILITY.

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
574 West Randolph Street,
CHICAGO, ILL.
Western Office
833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

Ornamental Theatres

PLASTER RELIEF DECORATIONS
Theatres Designed Everywhere

Send for our 1916 catalog. It contains forty beautiful full-page illustrations—some in colors—of theatres we have designed and decorated. It shows several styles of ticket booths, lighting fixtures and ornaments; it will give you many valuable ideas for decorating your new theatre or improving the looks of your present one.

Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.
Archer Avenue and Leo Street, CHICAGO, ILL.

AS we live, we learn—as we learn, we advance—advancement means we are moving with present day developments.

SPEER PROJECTOR CARBONS were conceived by Mr. J. S. Speer, better known as the "Carbon King," and assisted by an able corps of engineers and carbon experts, they have been developed—improved—bettered—perfected, until today they are unsurpassed in quality or service.

EXPERIMENTS were made; tests conducted; carbon manufactured and the entire idea fostered several years ago. The great European War, however, placed the motion picture industry on the brink of despair. The situation became serious—immediate action was necessary—SPEER PROJECTOR CARBONS saved the day.

TO relieve this alarming condition, a new factory had to be erected, special machinery designed, inexperienced hands employed, and the carbons placed upon the market within a few months.

CONDITIONS such as these left little time for refinement, polish or elegance. Quality was established from the first, but the smaller details had to be left for a later day development.

NOT content to manufacture a carbon that would satisfy—but rather one that would delight—the faithful employees of the Speer plant have worked unceasingly to show "class" in the goods they are turning out.

THEIR efforts were not in vain—the advancement is most pleasing—operators attest the improvement and delight in the results obtained.

FURTHER explanation is not necessary. Each carbon is our reputation in itself. Ask the operator who uses them, or conduct experiments for yourself.

WE welcome just comparisons with other carbons, the results increase the orders received in our daily mail.

"The Carbons That Are Guaranteed"

FOR SALE BY THE FOLLOWING DISTRIBUTORS

J. H. Hallberg, 727 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y.
Kleine Optical Co., 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.
Southern Theatre Equipment Co., 74 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga.; 1815 Main St., Dallas, Tex.

Sole Canadian Distributors

The Perkins Electric Co., 322 Craig St. W., Montreal, Canada

E. E. Fulton Co., 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
Kansas City Machine & Supply Co., 813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
G. A. Metcalfe, 117 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.

Sole Export Representatives

Interocean Film Corporation, 220 W. 42d St., New York, N. Y.

Speer Carbon Co.

ST. MARY'S, PENNA.

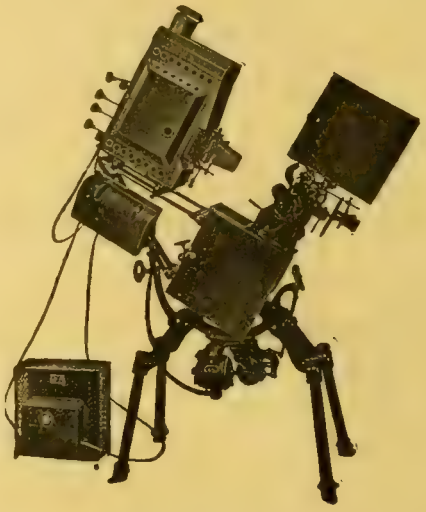
NPCo

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

SERVICE

IS THE TRUE MEASURE OF

WORTH



THE SUPERIOR SERVICE

RENDERED BY

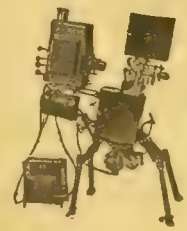
THOUSANDS OF POWER'S CAMERAGRAPHS

PRACTICALLY SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE INDUSTRY

Conclusively Determines Worth Without Comparison

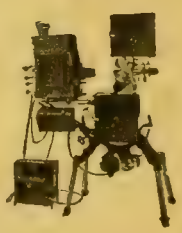
IN THE FIELD OF

MOTION PICTURE PROJECTION



CATALOG "G" MAILED UPON REQUEST

Write Today



NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK

Vol. 30, No. 13 December 30, 1916 Price 15 Cents

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Scene from "The Foolish Virgin" (Selznick).

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

MERRY CHRISTMAS

from the Seven Stars of SEVEN DEADLY SINS

McCLURE PICTURES

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

Book the entire series of seven five-reel features.

Released by Superpictures, Inc.
Through Triangle Exchanges

McCLURE PICTURES

K E S E
KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

MAX LINDER

MR. EXHIBITOR:

I am here to make your patrons laugh. Meet me face to face on the screen and see for yourself.

Yours for Success,

Max Linder

Essanay
GEORGE K SPOOR PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

K-E-S-E
K-E-S-E
K-E-S-E
K-E-S-E

UNIVERSAL PICTURES Present The T

Grace Cunard

"The Purple

Get aboard the Success Band-wagon. Hook with the most successful of all serial producers. clare yourself in on the big box-office attraction t will pack your theatre for continuous capacity. D hesitate, argue, stall or wait until your competi beats you to it. Better be sure than sorry. BO "The Purple Mask" NOW, and get ready to bo hard.

If you are Running You theatre for PROFI

You can assure yourself of a big and profitable e every week that this smashing sensational serial running. If you have not received the big FREE (to Exh tors) Advertising Campaign book write your nearest change today. Tells you all about this great picture; numerable advertising helps; props that will make a big s cess for you. Get the book and full information from one of the 73 Universal Exchanges, or

UNIVERSAL

FILM MANUFACTURING C

CARL LAEMMLE, President

"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Greatest SERIAL STARS on Earth

Francis Ford

in "The Mask"

Written and Staged by

Francis Ford and Grace Cunard

The Sensational Serial Success of the Season

Mystery
Romance
Adventure--
Thrills--
Stunts--Lavish
Production

Huge, Brilliant Cast Headed by the Two Greatest Serial Stars in Earth

Announcing

"Polly Put the Kettle On"

A Romantic Drama of Smiles and Tears

From the Story by Grace Helen Bailey

Featuring

DOUGLAS GERRARD

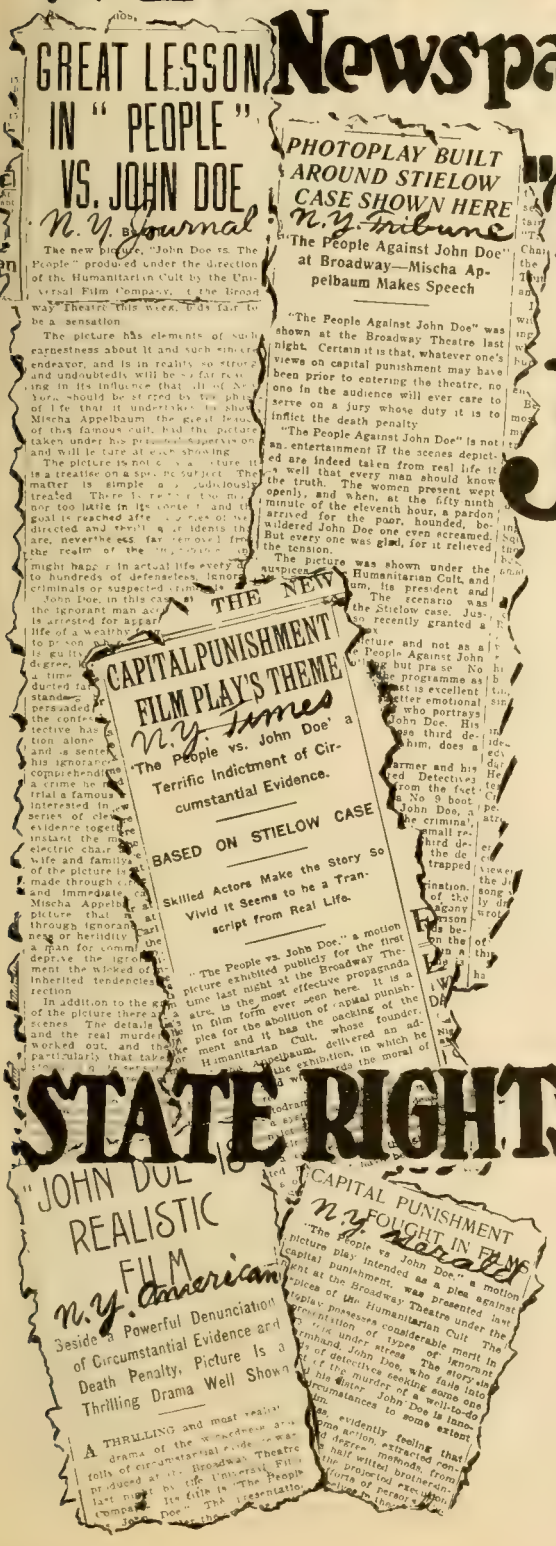
DIRECTED BY DOUGLAS GERRARD

Book through any UNIVERSAL Exchange

RED FEATHER PHOTOPLAYS

HANS GRAHF

What New York Newspapers Said About "The People versus John Doe"



GREAT LESSON IN "PEOPLE" VS. JOHN DOE
N.Y. Journal
PHOTOPLAY BUILT AROUND STIELOW CASE SHOWN HERE
N.Y. Tribune
"The People Against John Doe" at Broadway—Mischa Appelbaum Makes Speech
CAPITAL PUNISHMENT FILM PLAY'S THEME
N.Y. Times
"The People vs. John Doe" a Terrific Indictment of Circumstantial Evidence.
BASED ON STIELOW CASE
Skilled Actors Make the Story So Vivid It Seems to be a Transcript from Real Life.
"JOHN DOE" REALISTIC FILM
N.Y. American
Beside a Powerful Denunciation of Circumstantial Evidence and Death Penalty, Picture Is a Thrilling Drama Well Shown
CAPITAL PUNISHMENT FOUGHT IN FILMS
N.Y. Herald

Produced by LOIS WEBER

Producer of such successes as "Where Are My Children," "Shoes," "Hypocrites," "Jewel," etc.

Greatest Endorsement Ever Given a Picture

TIMES:—"Conveys the same feeling of reality and sincerity that the production of John Galsworthy's 'Justice' did."
AMERICAN:—"The audience forgot it was looking at 'pictures' and sat spellbound. . . . A triumph of screen-drama technique."
HERALD:—"Excellently acted."
TRIBUNE:—"As a picture it deserves nothing but praise. The cast is excellent."
EVE. JOURNAL:—"A great lesson . . . Sensational as to realism . . . Should be seen by everyone."—Zit.
EVE. TELEGRAM:—"Excellent motion picture 'thriller.'"
EVE. MAIL:—"A vivid and graphic screen argument, acted with splendid realism."
EVE. SUN:—"Has its special appeal."
EVE. GLOBE:—"Whoever chose the cast is deserving of the highest commendation."

STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING

Unanimous endorsement from the greatest papers in New York is your assurance of a big production that was enthusiastically received. That is the kind of picture that will get you immediate and constant bookings. "The People vs. John Doe" is the type of picture that people storm theatres to see. It is the most powerful arraignment of the evil of Capital Punishment ever presented. It creates enthusiasm which is reflected in huge box-office receipts. Wire or write for complete information, open territory, etc., to STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT.

UNIVERSAL FILM M'F'G CO.

Carl Laemmle, President.
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe."

1600 Broadway New York

By Mail — Telephone — Telegraph, and Personal Calls requests have been coming by storm for State Rights on that grand old reliable money-getter for Exhibitors

"Absinthe"

"It's Wonderful—"

I believed that State Rights Buyers would appreciate such a cracker-jack proposition as I am personally offering on "ABSINTHE," but I never really believed I would receive so many inquiries and requests on this great play—easily my greatest work. Makes a man feel good to know that there are showmen in the business, who know a good thing when it's offered. I am selling State Rights territory faster than I believed I would. BUT I still have some mighty fine profitable territory left. When you realize that "ABSINTHE" was

Produced by HERBERT BRENON

who counts among his huge successes such productions as "NEPTUNE'S DAUGHTER" —Nazimova in "WAR BRIDES"—"A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS" and others, you may be sure that "ABSINTHE" will win BIG—especially with its new dress—new scenes, new titles, new action, entirely worked over and far stronger than the original print.

STATE RIGHTS GOING FAST

I repeat State Rights are going fast, so get busy. In this great play I had the brilliant support of such a star as LEAH BAIRD and a company of French, German and English artists, all of which means much in advertising possibilities to Exhibitors and Millions of Picture Fans. Write, wire, telephone or call for terms, territory prices, etc.

EXTRA—I have prepared at great cost some powerful advertising matter, FREE to State Rights Buyers. Ask for it. It tells everything. Read my P. S. below and communicate with me today.

P.S. I will arrange with a limited number of large Theatres to appear on opening night in person. Write me and I'll tell you more about this stunt.

King Baggot

Suite 407,
1600 Broadway,
New York

NOW BOOKING
HERBERT BRENON
PRESENTS
MME
NAZIMOVA
IN
"WAR BRIDES"
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
IN
"The FOOLISH VIRGIN"
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
IN
"The COMMON LAW"
COMING
NORMA TALMADGE IN "PANTHEA"
ROBERT WARWICK
IN
"The ARGYLE CASE"
SELZNICK PICTURES
BUFFALO BRANCH
LOUIS T. ROGERS Gen. Mgr.
15 SWAN ST. BUFFALO, N.Y.

COMMENCING XMAS NIGHT
1 9 1 6
JESSE L. LASKY
presents at the
FORTY-FOURTH STREET THEATRE
NEW YORK CITY
CECIL B. DEMILLE'S
CINEMA MASTERPIECE WITH GERALDINE
FARRAR
AS JOAN OF ARC
IN
"JOAN THE WOMAN"
BY JEANIE MACPHERSON

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS PRESENT
CLEO MADISON
IN
'BLACK ORCHIDS'
The Love Affairs of a Heartless Woman
Produced by Rex Ingram

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS [INC]

WHILE BLUEBIRD Photoplays have driven it home to every nook and corner of this mighty country that "THE PLAY'S THE THING"—BLUEBIRDS have in addition presented a list of STARS whose brilliancy shines forth in as great splendor as those offered in any feature photoplays on the market.

A STAR in a poor play means cheating the public who pay to be entertained. A poor play without a STAR is teetotally absurd. The perfect combination is a brilliant star in a brilliant play—that's the magnificent combination in all

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS.

Study the list of BLUEBIRD STARS herewith appended. Compare them to ANY set of real STARS to be seen in ANY feature in this or any other country: LOIS WEBER—PHILLIPS SMALLEY—FRANKLYN FARNUM—DOROTHY DAVENPORT—MYRTLE GONZALEZ—ELLA HALL—DOROTHY PHILLIPS—VIOLET MESEREAU—MARY MAC LAREN—RUPERT JULIAN—EVERETT JOHNSTON—GEORGE HERNANDEZ—LOIS WILSON—ROBERTA WILSON—LITTLE ZOE RAE—and others.

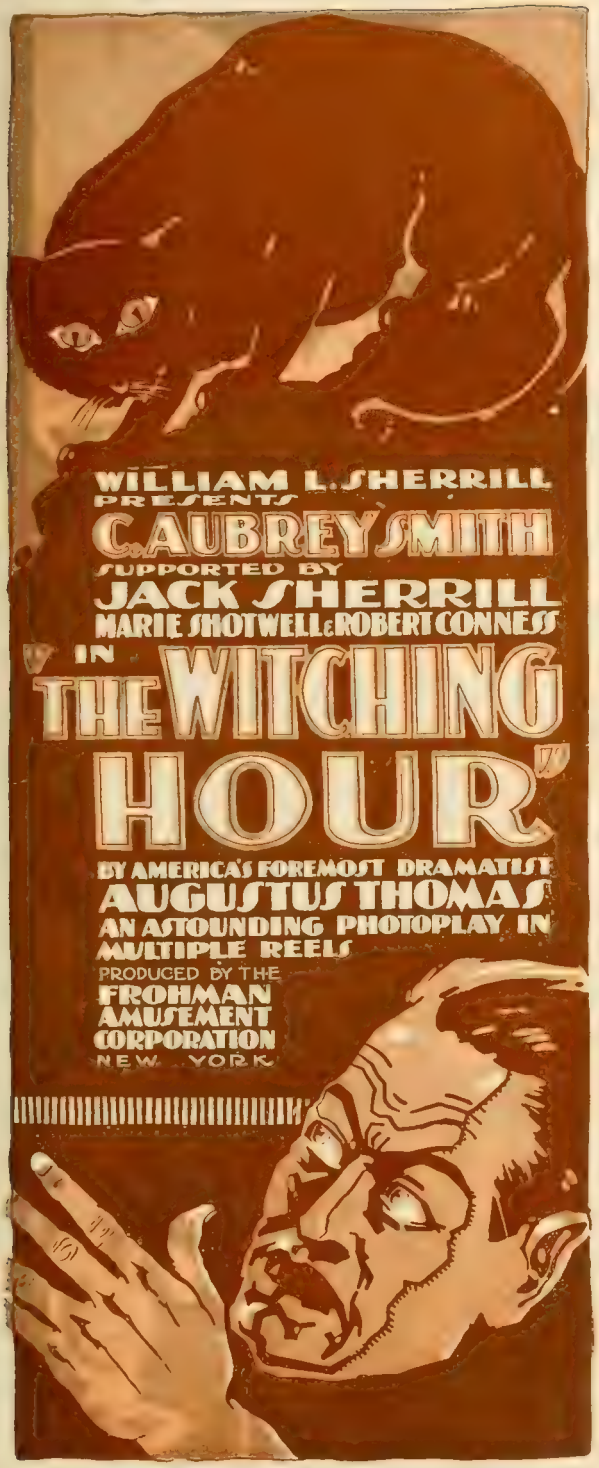
The all-powerful argument for BLUEBIRDS lies in each individual BLUEBIRD production itself. BLUEBIRD popularity is growing by leaps and bounds with an irresistible force. YOU can share in the daily increase by making booking arrangements NOW.

As proof of the pre-eminent superiority of BLUEBIRD photoplays over any feature photoplays on the market—ask your nearest BLUEBIRD Exchange to exhibit "GOD'S CRUCIBLE" to you, or if you aren't in a position to view it, book it on our recommendation. Play it up stronger than any feature ever exhibited in your House. Watch the result.

Book through your local BLUEBIRD Exchange or Executive Offices

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, (Inc.)

1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK



"THE WITCHING HOUR"

BY

AUGUSTUS THOMAS

PRODUCED BY

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL
PRESIDENT

Cast

Jack Brookfield	C. AUBREY SMITH
Frank Hardmuth	Robert Conness
Clay Whipple	Jack Sherrill
Tom Denning	Freeman Barnes
Justice Prentice	Lewis Sealy
Helen Whipple	Marie Shotwell
Viola Campbell	Helen Arnold

Directed by George Irving

RELEASED AS A SUPER-FEATURE on

STATE RIGHT BASIS

Booked as a special attraction at the Rialto Theatre, New York.

Critics and the trade generally are one voice in classing this production as marking a new era in motion picture achievement.

THE ADVERTISING MATTER BEFITS A ROAD SHOW

One sheets, three sheets and six sheets, two styles each. Striking twenty-four sheet, all from hand drawn colored sketches. One, two and three column newspaper cuts. Three styles artistic slides. 11 x 14 hand-colored photographs. 22 x 28 hand-colored enlargement. A six foot novelty display clock dial for lobby. 23 x 35 duplicate of trade and newspaper reviews, Press Sheets and 3 Color Heralds.

The numerous bids on this production justify the state right buyer who requires an extraordinary and special attraction to wire for further information.

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, President

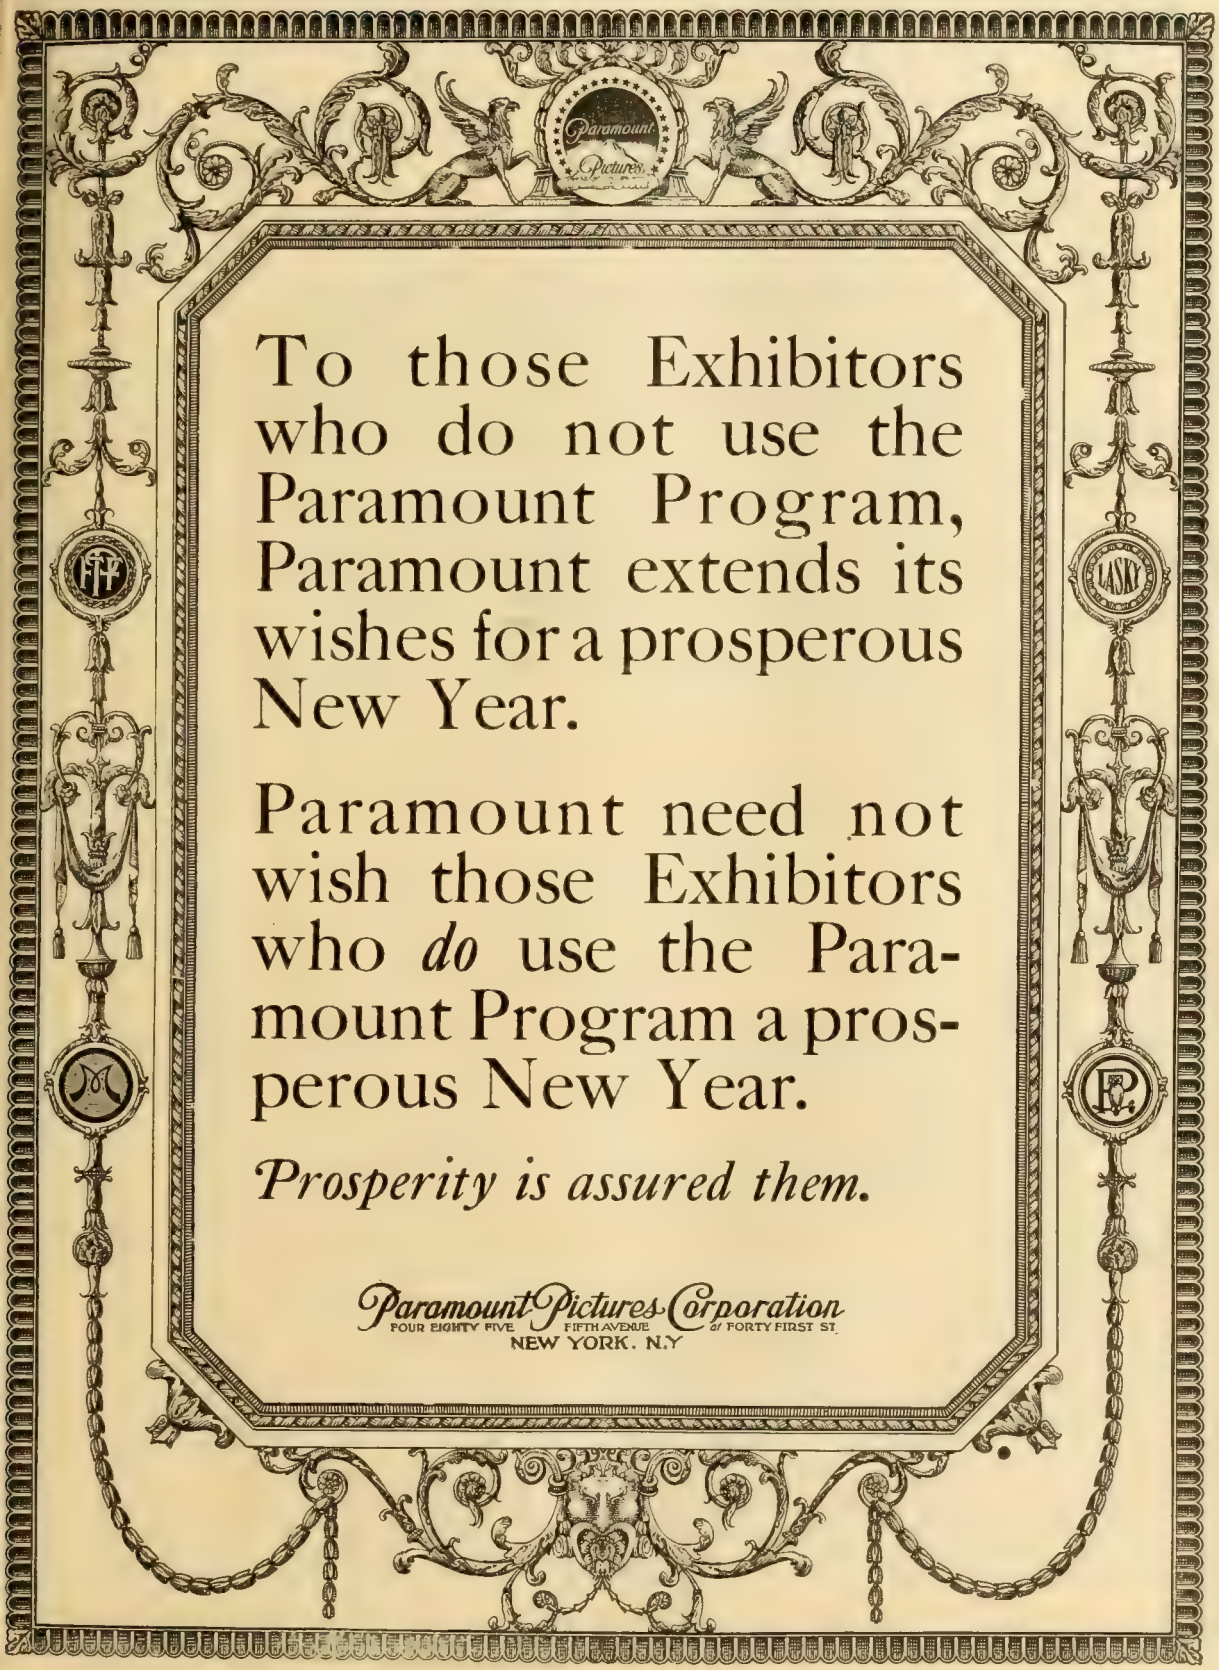
18 East 41st Street New York City

THE WITCHING HOUR

The wonder of Cinematography
Hailed as the years Marvel
Eliminates other "masterpieces" as competitors

Works through the entire gamut of human emotions
Incomparable in its wondrous effects
Teeming with startling situations
Carries one along by the immensity of the story
Human in its appeal to all mankind
Imposing in its staging and settings
Novel in its theme
Great is what the critics say

Happy in its ending
Overwhelming as a whole
Unchallenged as a superlative Photo-Drama
Released as a Special Attraction



To those Exhibitors who do not use the Paramount Program, Paramount extends its wishes for a prosperous New Year.

Paramount need not wish those Exhibitors who do use the Paramount Program a prosperous New Year.

Prosperity is assured them.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK. N.Y

Paramount Pictures of the Week

RELEASED MONDAY, DECEMBER 18th

DANIEL FROHMAN

PRESENTS

FRANK McINTYRE

SUPPORTED BY

DORIS KENYON

IN

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN

An adaptation of his greatest stage success

PRODUCED BY

FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM CO.

ADOLPH ZUKOR, President

Special music for this production may be obtained at your exchange

Canadian Distributors, Famous Players Film Service, Limited
Calgary, Toronto and Montreal

Released by

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE AT FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Paramount Pictures of the Week

RELEASED THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21st

PALLAS PICTURES

PRESENTS

VIVIAN MARTIN

IN

THE RIGHT DIRECTION

The story of a beautiful girl of the slums, a baby and a dog

PRODUCED BY

PALLAS PICTURES

Canadian Distributors, Famous Players Film Service, Limited
Calgary, Toronto and Montreal

Released by

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Artcraft Announces

MARY PICKFORD

in her latest picture

"THE PRIDE OF THE CLAN"

Produced by Maurice Tourneur

HAVE YOU A PICKFORD CONTRACT?

First Showing January 8th in 81 Artcraft Theatres

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

TRIANGLE

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DECEMBER 31st

Dorothy Dalton

IN

"The Female of the Species"

KAY BEE

Here is a drama with real heart interest and real punch. There is a powerful plot, logically developed, filled with tense situations which are different, all worked up to a gripping, satisfying climax. PICTURES SUCH AS THIS VOUCH FOR THE CONTINUED PRESTIGE OF TRIANGLE PLAYS.

Lillian Gish

IN

"A House Built Upon Sand"

FINE ARTS

Lillian Gish is a sure box office attraction—So is the play. She is a little social butterfly who marries a real man. With this situation as a starting point, a story has been developed filled to the brim with appeal and the dramatic portrayal of human emotions. ANOTHER PICTURIZED REASON FOR TRIANGLE SUPRE MACY.

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE COMEDIES

They mean to your patrons, sunshine and laughter. They are the bright spots in motion pictures. They mean packed houses and happy audiences.

TRIANGLE
MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE
COMEDIES

MACK SWAIN

ROSCOE ARBUCKLE

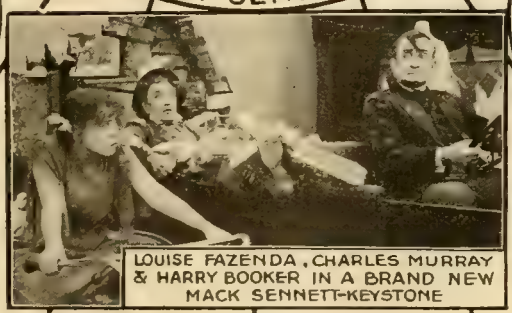
MACK SENNETT

CECILE ARNOLD

ORA CAREW

CHESTER CONKLIN

SLIM SUMMERVILLE



LOUISE FAZENDA, CHARLES MURRAY & HARRY BOOKER IN A BRAND NEW MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE COMEDIES are the banner box office attractions. The element of FUN will be popular just as long as these comedies are with us. They are always new, always novel. They are light and frothy and spell sunshine and laughter. Their fun-magic will lure the crowds to your box office. Your patrons know. LET THEM DECIDE.

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONE COMEDIES ARE RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION

ALIGNED in this new motion picture company are personalities that have been responsible for the biggest developments of the modern stage and screen.

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, the President, was a founder of one of the first companies formed to produce feature films in which good taste and refinement were dominant. He has, from the beginning, been a factor in the production of better pictures and helped through shrewd and intelligent understanding to make motion pictures one of our greatest industries.

EDGAR SELWYN, the Vice-President, has, with ARCHIBALD SELWYN and CROSBY GAIGE brought the theatrical producing firm of Selwyn & Co. to the forefront in dramatic production. Their plays, their clientele of authors, their alertness and their code of business honor have made for them a position that is the envy of many older firms and the model for most of the newer ones.

ARTHUR HOPKINS, Vice-President, is one of the producers who, because of his creative ability and capacity, has been invited into this alliance. His knowledge of stagecraft gives him high rank at the start in the field of motion picture production.

MARGARET MAYO is the author of several of the most profitable plays in the history of the American stage and is also one of the ablest judges of plays in the theatrical profession. Her judgment and discerning vision are counted as great assets by this company.

Our advice to ALL EXHIBITORS is to watch and read the future announcements of this company with great care.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

Telephone: Vanderbilt 11.

MAIN OFFICES: 16 East 42d Street, New York City.

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

DECEMBER 30, 1916

NEW MUTUAL SERIAL IS ABSOLUTELY NOVEL IN THEME AND PLOT

"THE Perils of Our Girl Reporters"—the sensational new Mutual serial, is absolutely novel in theme and plot. It is different in every respect from any other serial that exhibitors have had an opportunity to book. It pictures newspaper life—from the "inside." It depicts the trials and tribulations encountered by reporters in securing front page news. It shows theatre patrons an angle of every day life that will prove a revelation. It is the "something different" in motion pictures that the public is so eagerly searching for.

Daring Girl Reporters.

Everyone knows that there are women on the staffs of every large daily newspaper. Some of them are society editors. Some of them "cover" social functions and entertainments. Some of them are what is known as "sob sisters." In search of material for "sob stories" the girl reporters covering this class of work are compelled to venture into strange places—to probe the life of the underworld—to venture daringly where few women ever go. The experiences they encounter form the basis of this new motion picture serial—"The Perils of Our Girl Reporters." It is new. It is novel. It is thrilling.

Stories Based on Real Incidents.

All of the fifteen stories in "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters" are based on real incidents in newspaper life. This amazing new serial was made by the Niagara Film Studios. It was directed by George Terwilliger. It features Earl Metcalfe, Helen Green and Zena Keefe. Each story is complete in itself. Each is two reels in length. The first chapter is released on December 28th. Bookings can be made now at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges.

Latest Chaplin Release Is Pleasing Public

Charlie Chaplin's newest laugh-maker—"The Rink"—is a pronounced success. Charlie Chaplin's funny feet have made millions laugh. Charlie Chaplin's odd hat has caused countless chuckles. Charlie Chaplin's famous cane has proven a magic wand for inspiring mirth. But Charlie Chaplin's roller skates—they are really the feature of "The Rink"—are setting a hot pace for the feet, the hat and the cane already mentioned. Capacity houses are the rule at every theatre showing "The Rink." You can book it now at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges.

Mutual Star Productions For December

Week Beginning December 4th.
Title. Lead.
The Valley of Decision.....Richard Bennett

Week Beginning December 11th.
Lonesome Town.....Kolb & Dill
Miss Jackie of the Navy.....Margarita Fischer

Week Beginning December 18th.
The Twinkler.....William Russell

Week Beginning December 25th.
The Innocence of Lizette.....Mary Miles Minter

HELEN HOLMES WINNING

By Her Daring Work in "A Lass of the Lumberlands"

A HOST OF NEW ADMIRERS

"Helen Holmes grows more popular each day," writes an exhibitor from Indiana. Many exhibitors thought it would be hard for Miss Holmes to find a stronger vehicle than "The Girl and the Game." Now they are discovering that "A Lass of the Lumberlands" is even stronger—even better—is winning the fair star a host of new admirers. In this newest of Mutual chapterplays—"A Lass of the Lumberlands"—Helen Holmes is performing feats of daring that surpass all her previous efforts. In single chapters of the new play there are more dramatic moments than the average serial has in its entire length. Wise exhibitors are capitalizing this interest of the public in Helen Holmes for themselves. By showing "A Lass of the Lumberlands" they are packing their houses nightly. You have the opportunity of doing the same for your theatre. Any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges in America will accept bookings on this record-breaking chapterplay.

"The Vampires" Series Exceedingly Popular

Exhibitors all over the country are reporting tremendous business with "The Vampires." This is the sensational series of mystery-detective tales made by Gaumont. It is being released through the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. Audiences are amazed and delighted with the odd incidents depicted in the film. There is a surprise in every chapter. Bookings can be arranged at your nearest Mutual Film Exchange.

MARY MILES MINTER IN "THE INNOCENCE OF LIZETTE" IS AT BEST

DAINTY Mary Miles Minter—"America's Darling"—is at her best as the featured star of the Mutual Star Production scheduled for release the week of December 25th. "The Innocence of Lizette" is the title. James Kirkwood is the director. The picture was made at the studios of the American Film Company, Inc., at Santa Barbara, California. The little tale unfolded is a story of innocent childhood. It is as sweet as a breath of Springtime.

The Story in Brief.

In brief the story tells how Lizette, the child of an old actor, is left in the care of a motherly old lady at the death of her parent. Early in life Lizette becomes an assistant to the son of her foster-mother, at the latter's news stand in a big office building. There she meets and falls under the spell of a gentleman-crook, who to her appears a beau ideal. Still later an aged millionaire, with offices in the building, observes and is fascinated by Lizette. He had lost a little daughter who much resembled her. In time he seeks to adopt Lizette and is successful in his plan. Months later the girl goes on a visit to her foster-mother. The sudden illness of her adopted parent results in Lizette's return to the millionaire's palace. On the steps she finds a baby. In her innocence she takes the infant within and claims it as her own. The millionaire is horrified. He asks regarding the child's father. Lizette is momentarily dumb. Then she recalls the gentleman-crook she had once admired. Unthinkingly she gives his name. The millionaire investigates. Just as the gentleman-crook is about to levy blackmail upon the millionaire, the real mother of the child calls to reclaim it. Lizette's innocence is established, and everyone is happy.

Star Is Wholly Delightful.

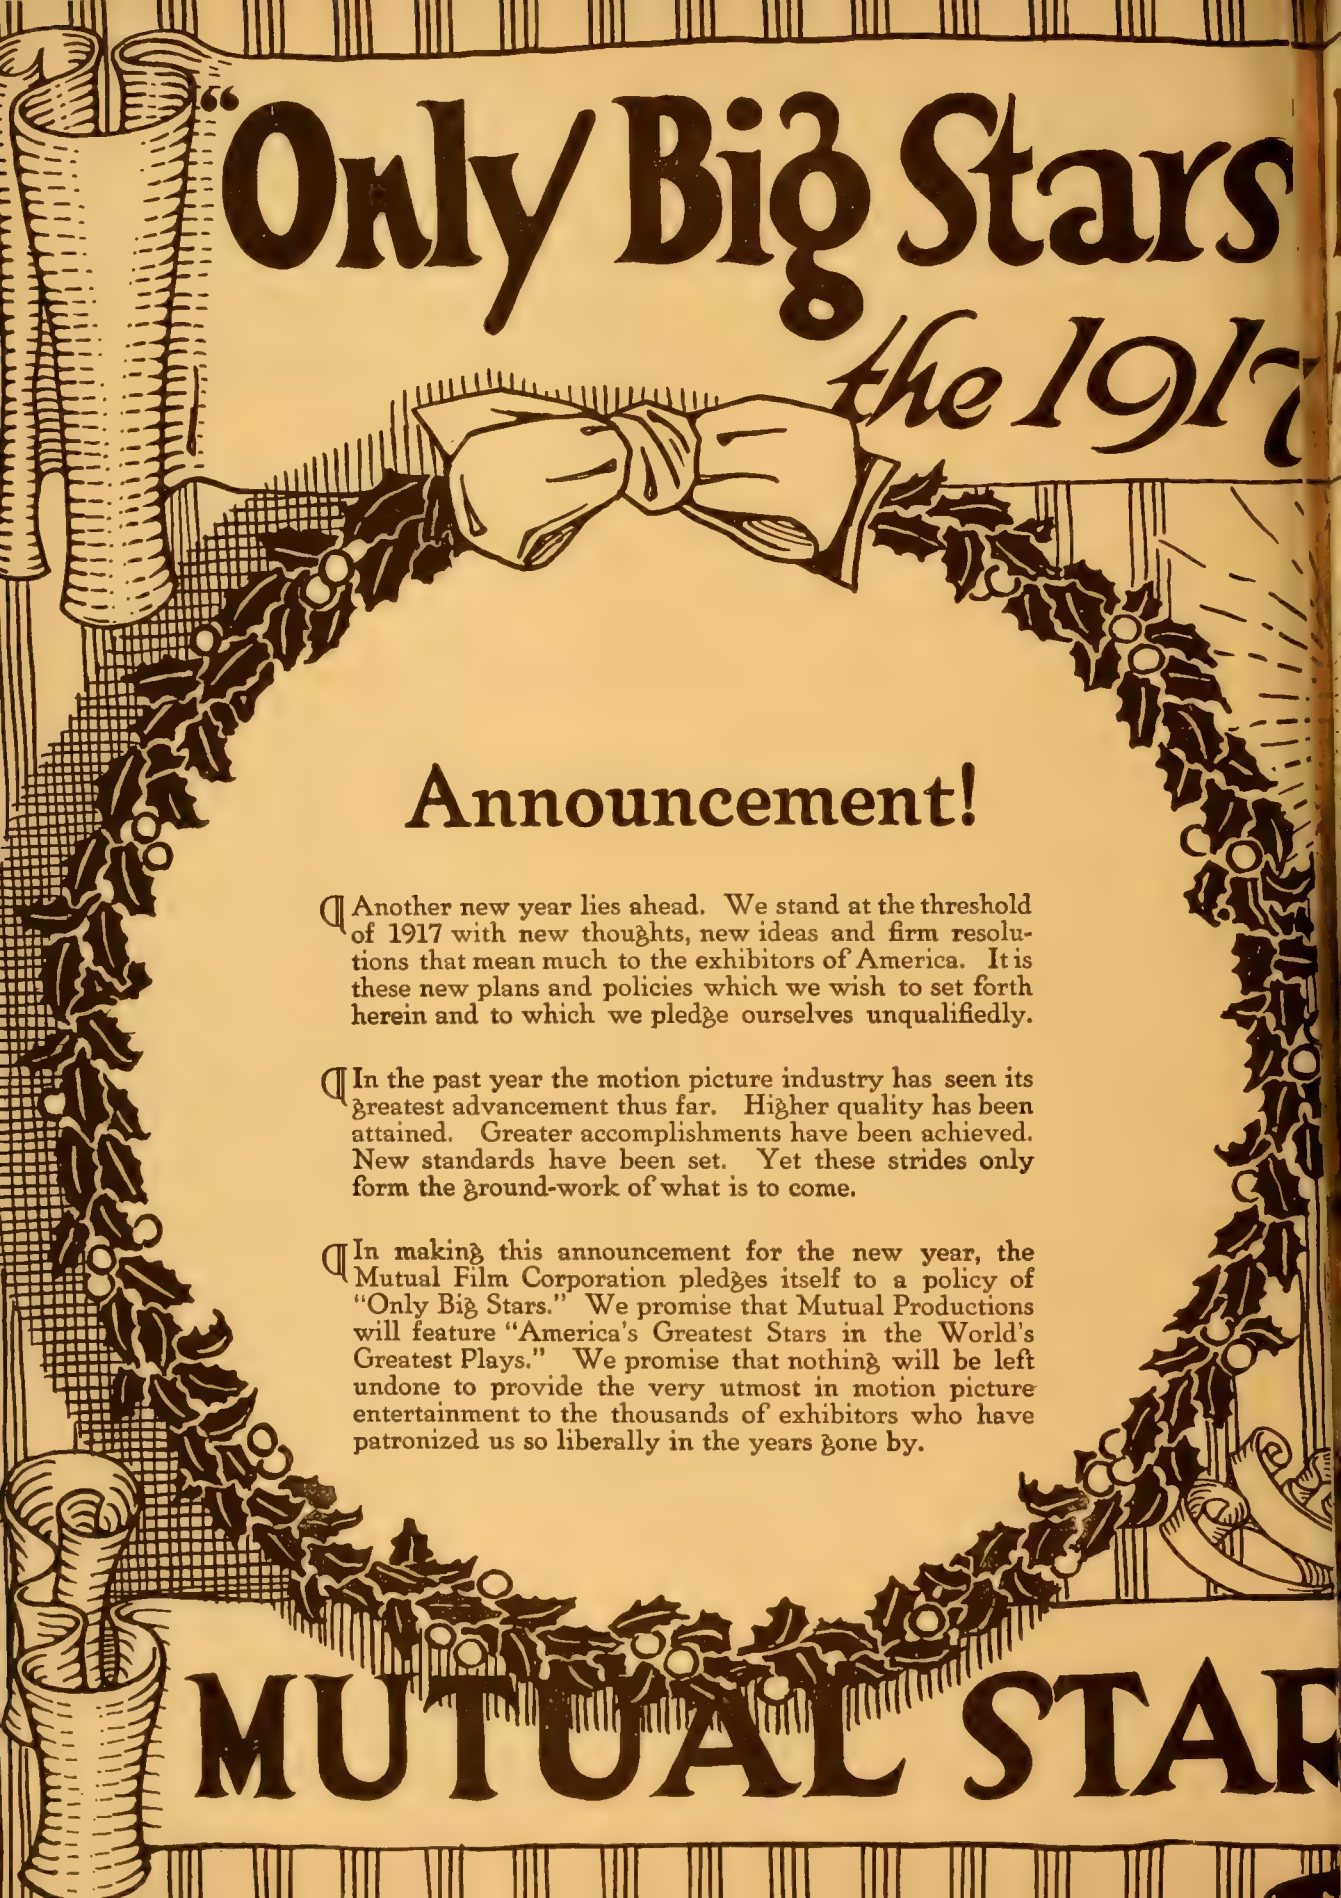
Mary Miles Minter as Lizette is wholly delightful. The supporting cast is most evenly balanced. Perfect direction and photography make the release a notable one. Bookings can now be made at any Mutual Film Exchange. This is the fifth of the Mary Miles Minter Mutual Star Productions. The others are "Youth's Endearing Charm," "Dulcie's Adventure," "Faith" and "A Dream or Two Ago." Mutual exchanges can supply them all.

Who Wins $10,000?

Scenario writers and their friends are packing theatres the country over to see who won the prize for the best sequel to "The Diamond From the Sky." Exhibitors showing it consider it a better buy than U. S. Steel.

"Only Big Stars

the 191



Announcement!

¶ Another new year lies ahead. We stand at the threshold of 1917 with new thoughts, new ideas and firm resolutions that mean much to the exhibitors of America. It is these new plans and policies which we wish to set forth herein and to which we pledge ourselves unqualifiedly.

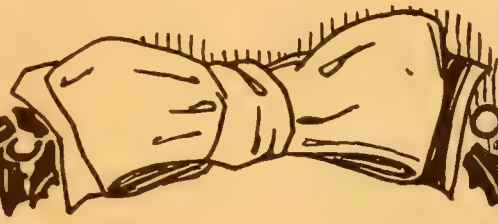
¶ In the past year the motion picture industry has seen its greatest advancement thus far. Higher quality has been attained. Greater accomplishments have been achieved. New standards have been set. Yet these strides only form the ground-work of what is to come.

¶ In making this announcement for the new year, the Mutual Film Corporation pledges itself to a policy of "Only Big Stars." We promise that Mutual Productions will feature "America's Greatest Stars in the World's Greatest Plays." We promise that nothing will be left undone to provide the very utmost in motion picture entertainment to the thousands of exhibitors who have patronized us so liberally in the years gone by.

MUTUAL STAR

For Mutual"

Policy



¶ We promise to prove that the confidence placed in us by the exhibitors of America has not been misplaced—that from it has sprung a feeling of loyalty and zeal that can result only in greater co-operation, greater productions, greater profits to those Exhibitor friends.

¶ Pledging ourselves to this new policy for 1917—"ONLY BIG STARS FOR MUTUAL"—we announce herein a few of the stars who will appear in the new Mutual Star Productions:

NANCE O'NEIL
(Frank Powell Producing Corporation)

MARJORIE RAMBEAU
(Frank Powell Producing Corporation)

MARY MILES MINTER
(American Film Co., Inc.)

RICHARD BENNETT
(American Film Co., Inc.)

CHARLIE CHAPLIN
(Mutual-Chaplin Specials)

WILLIAM RUSSELL
(American Film Co., Inc.)

MARGARITA FISCHER
(Pollard Picture Plays Company)

(Many Other Big Stars Will Be Announced Soon)

¶ Resolving to present, in the coming year, a new and greater array of feature productions, serials and travel pictures, with a service, through our sixty-eight exchanges, that we believe will be unequalled anywhere, we invite Exhibitors to enjoy the exceptional prosperity that must result.

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

68 Exchanges in America JOHN R. FREULER, President

PRODUCTIONS

MUTUAL

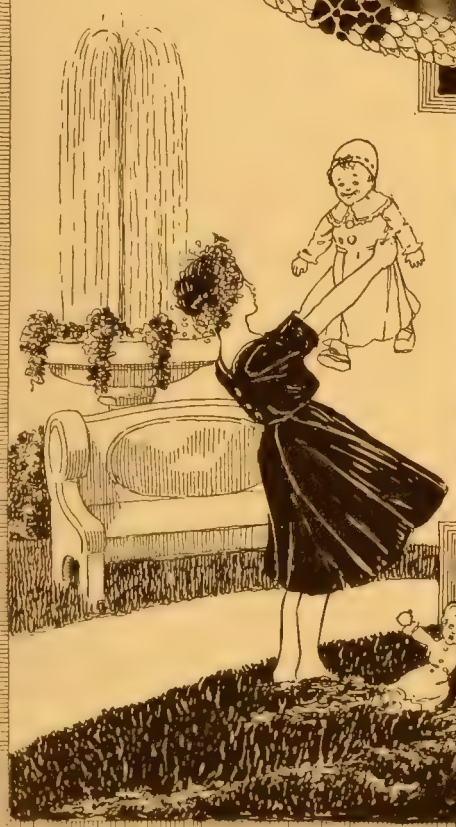
American Film Company, Inc.,
Presents
America's Darling

MARY MILES MINTER
IN
"THE INNOCENCE OF LIZETTE"

An odd and wholesome story of innocent childhood—sweet as a breath of Spring-time. Fifth of the Minter Series of Mutual Star Productions. Directed by James Kirkwood. Released the week of Dec. 25th.

Booking Now at 68 Mutual Exchanges

Mary Miles Minter Mutual Star Productions Now Playing:—
"Youth's Endearing Charm"
"Dulcie's Adventure"
"Faith"
"A Dream or Two Ago"



MUTUAL

More Than 2000 Theatres Are Running This Amazing Chapterplay

THEATRES everywhere are "holding 'em out" with the newest and best of the Helen Holmes serials—"A Lass of the Lumberlands." Manager after manager is proclaiming it the greatest drawing card he ever had—bigger—better—more spectacular than any of the previous Helen Holmes productions.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS Featuring HELEN HOLMES

There are more big scenes in single chapters of "A Lass of the Lumberlands" than the average serial contains in its entire length. Daring Helen Holmes holds audiences spellbound by her recklessness. This phenomenal new chapterplay is delighting the most blase of theatre patrons. Exhibitors are voting it a real business builder. Stimulate business at YOUR theatre. Book "A Lass of the Lumberlands" now at any Mutual Exchange. 15 amazing chapters—a new one each week.

Produced by Signal Film Corporation Directed by J.P. McGowan

NOW BOOKING AT 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES

Scene from Chapter 9 of "A Lass of the Lumberlands"

MUTUAL'S BIG NEW SERIAL

Featuring
Earl Metcalfe
Helen Green
Zena Keefe

THE PER GIRL RE

Produced by
Niagara Film Studios
Directed by
George Terwilliger

NOW BOOKING AT SUCCESS!

ILS OF OUR PORTERS

15 Chapters
First Chapter
Released Dec. 28TH

Jewel thieves are caught red-handed—society blackmailers are exposed—international conspiracies are frustrated—strange crimes are revealed—and all through the clever work of girl reporters—in the Mutual's big, new serial success, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters." This new and absorbing series of motion picture stories—based on real incidents in newspaper life—is sure to pack every theatre showing it. It's new. It's novel. It's "different." The same news that builds circulation for newspapers will now build bigger box-office receipts for YOU. Don't wait. Book "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters" NOW. You can secure this big new serial at the nearest Mutual Film Exchange.

The Stories in "Perils of Our Girl Reporters"

1. The Jade Necklace
2. The Black Door
3. Ace High
4. The White Trail
5. Many a Slip
6. A Long Lane
7. The Smite of Conscience
8. Birds of Prey
9. Misjudged
10. Taking Chances
11. The Meeting
12. Outwitted
13. The Schemers
14. The Counterfeiters
15. Kidnapped

68 MUTUAL FILM EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

Reel Life
The Mutual magazine in film

TOURS
Around the World

4
Single Reels

The Mutual Weekly
News of the World First

See America First– with
Gaumont Kartoon Komics

"DESSERT in the THEATRICAL BILL OF FARE"

Most people consider dessert the best part of the meal. That is why the Gaumont Company knows exhibitors everywhere will echo the words of this successful program-maker:

"Gaumont single-reels are truly as dessert in any good theater's bill of fare. The traditional Gaumont quality in photography and Gaumont thoroughness in treatment characterize them all."

Every spectator finds things of interest in these weekly releases. They are carefully edited to make their appeal general.

BOOK THEM AT 68 MUTUAL BRANCHES

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING, N. Y.

THE MOTION PICTURE APOSTLE OF SUCCESS

One Box Office Attraction
About Which There Is No Doubt

HENRY W. SAVAGE'S

5 Reel Visualization of the Greatest Character in Fiction

ROBINSON CRUSOE

A Picture that will Bring Results

WARNER BROS.

DISTRIBUTORS

729 Seventh Ave., New York

GEO. F. DRISCOLL bought
Canada without even a showing

"There must be a Reason"

SELZNICK PICTURES

Joseph M. Schenck
Presents
NORMA
TALMADGE
In "PANTHEA"
By Monckton Hoffe

THE STORY OF A
LOVE THAT WAS GREATER THAN LIFE OR DEATH

DIRECTED BY ALLAN DWAN

Harry Rapf
Presents
ROBERT WARWICK
In
(By Arrangement with Klaw and Erlanger)
"THE ARGYLE CASE"
By Harvey J. O'Higgins, Harriet
Ford and William J. Burns

A GREAT DETECTIVE
STORY WITH A BIG LOVE INTEREST

DIRECTED BY RALPH W. INCE

LEWIS J. SELZNICK
SOLE DISTRIBUTOR

SELZNICK PICTURES

HERBERT BRENON'S

Presentation of

NAZIMOVA

In

"WAR BRIDES"

By Marion Craig Wentworth

Is A Message To America
Of Europe's Tragic Conflict

MOTHERHOOD VERSUS WAR!

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

In

"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"

By Thomas Dixon
Author of "THE BIRTH of A NATION"

A PICTURE FOR EVERY GIRL WHO EXPECTS TO MARRY
AND FOR THE MAN WHO IS TO MARRY HER

ALBERT CAPELLANI

DIRECTOR GENERAL

LEWIS J. SELZNICK
SOLE DISTRIBUTOR

YOU HAVE A

"FULL HOUSE"

EVERY TIME YOU EXHIBIT

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

CHRISTIE COMEDIES ARE GREAT DRAWING CARDS FOR THE EXHIBITOR
THE STARS ARE CLEVER, GOODLOOKING AND POPULAR AND THE STORIES ARE SENSIBLE AND REALLY FUNNY

JAN. 2ND OPEN - MARKET RELEASE

"HIS MODEL WIFE"

- FEATURING

BILLIE RHODES
AND HARRY HAM

Christie Film Co.

OFFICE AND STUDIOS— LOS ANGELES. SUNSET BLVD. AT GOWER ST. CALIFORNIA

Christie Comedies

Released on the
METRO
Program
January 1.
POPULAR
PLAYS & PLAYERS INC.
presents
The Star of Charm
EMMY WEHLEN
in
VANITY
A METRO wonderplay in Five Acts
from the story by Aaron Hoffman
directed by
John B. O'Brien

METRO
at your each week weeks the the motion public

The Great

Wm. Christy Cabanne's master production in chapters that thrill and fascinate

BOOKING

METRO

offers theatre for fifteen idols of picture in Secret

Story by Fred de Gresac

A Nation-wide Advertising Campaign supports it

Presented by QUALITY Pictures Corporation

Produced by SERIAL Producing Company

NOW AT ALL EXCHANGES

YOUR
ONE REEL
PICTURES should be of the Same Quality as your Feature Pictures.

To make this certain
METRO
recommends the great

METRO-
DREW COMEDIES

and METRO
TRAVELOGS

each is the best of its kind

METRO
PICTURES
CORPORATION

FOXFILM COMEDY SERVICE

Two-reel Comedies of Distinction

Released Weekly Beginning January 1, 1917

REMEMBER

FOXFILM COMEDIES are released independently of all other FOX offerings.

They are available for any exhibitor, whether he books the regular FOX program or not.

You can show them.

All exhibitors can show them.

FOXFILM COMEDIES are not merely comedy pictures. They are not merely program fillers. They are two-reel productions. They present comedy stars.

You can advertise them just as you do your big features.

Each one is a box-office attraction that will fill your theatre.

Book them now.

FOX FILM CORPORATION

THE BOND OF BLOOD

Leads a dying man to acknowledge his crime and absolve his own daughter from the accusation of guilt—

WILLIAM FOX

Presents

Valeska Suratt

The Empress of Fashion in

The VICTIM

The story of a struggle against fate

FOX FILM CORPORATION

TO BE RELEASED
JANUARY 8, 1917.
WILLIAM FARNUM
IN THE FIRST
Super De Luxe Production
The
PRICE of SILENCE
A POWERFUL AND MASTERFUL
WILLIAM FOX
PRODUCTION
Carrying a message of a great human appeal. Showing the gifted screen star in his greatest role.
DIRECTED BY FRANK LLOYD
TO BE RELEASED
JANUARY 22, 1917
THEDA BARA
In A Super De Luxe photoplay
The DARLING of PARIS
A POWERFUL AND MASTERFUL
WILLIAM FOX
PRODUCTION
A wonderful, soul-stirring photodrama suggested by Victor Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."
DIRECTED BY J. GORDON EDWARDS
FOX FILM CORPORATION

B. S. MOSS
729 SEVENTH AVENUE . NEW YORK CITY
PRESENTS

MARIE EMPRESS
IN A PHOTOPLAY SERMON FOR PARENTS

The World's Curse Is Ignorance
Because Ignorance Does Not Know
and Will Try Anything.
Is "The Girl Who Doesn't Know"
Entirely At Fault?
Or Does the Blame
Rest With Her Parents Who Have Kept From Her the Knowledge
That Will Protect Her
Against Betrayal?

A Photoplay
Of Tremendous Timeliness

A "Live" Opportunity for Wide-awake State Right Buyers

THE GIRL WHO DOESN'T KNOW

The Bur-lesque Show

with

The World Renowned

Tweedledum

AS ITS STAR

Is Absolutely the Most Laughable Comedy Released this Year

ONE REEL

Produced by Eagle Film Mfg. Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

BOOK NOW

—AT ANY—

UNITY EXCHANGE

BILLY DUNN,

Supervising Director

UNITY

729 7th AVE., NEW YORK

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

Announcement

After December 17th, 1916 we will own and operate every Exchange in the U. S. A. through which World Pictures Brady-Made are distributed.

Notice to Southern Exhibitors

Effective December 17th, 1916 the business of this Corporation theretofore handled for us by the Southern World Film Co. will be handled through our own direct branches, at Atlanta, Dallas and New Orleans, respectively.

Notice to All Exhibitors

It will be unnecessary for you to call upon our Branch Offices for Advance Advertising Posters on forthcoming Brady-Made releases.

Our Branch Office serving you will send these to you post-paid, or together with other advertising material in ample time for proper display.

Notice: These posters are furnished GRATIS. Insist upon receiving them, and then use them for their full seat-selling value. We make them for you.

WORLD FILM CORPORATION
130 WEST 46th ST., NEW YORK

Canadian Distributors, THE REGAL FILMS, Ltd
37 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont.

WILLIAM A. BRADY in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents
E. K. LINCOLN
JUNE ELVIDGE
in "The World Against Him"
Directed by FRANK HALL CRANE
Produced by PARAGON FILMS Inc.

What Becomes of the Children ?

Written by

Corra Beach

¶ To the patrons and friends of Pathé Exchange, Inc.

A Merry Christmas

and a happy New Year is our earnest wish.

¶ We are grateful for your support and to merit its continuance is our dearest hope.

¶ To those who have found time in the midst of the hurry of business to write us and tell us they appreciate the service we give them, special thanks.

¶ Grateful for the past and hopeful for the future is our thought in these closing days of 1916.

Pathé Exchange, Inc.

J. A. Berst

Vice-president and General Manager.

Pathé

We've aroused country-wide interest in

Pearl of the Army

for you, Mr. Exhibitor! The pictures will do the rest!

In eighty six of the biggest newspapers of the country, covering every section, has been published the greatest "teaser" advertising ever seen in any bussiness.

You are familiar with the result - it has made "Pearl of the Army" a household word, and exceeded our fondest hopes. These teasers are being followed up in the same papers by forceful and costly advertising.

Get your share of business quick. Book "Pearl of the Army" now!

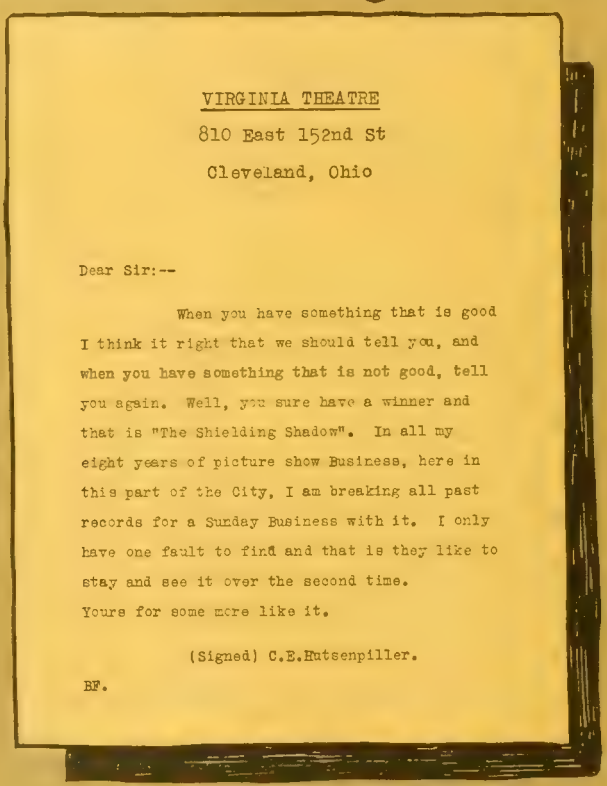
All star cast with Pearl White, Ralph Kellard and Theodore Friebus.

Produced by Astra under the direction of Edward José.

PATHÉ

Breaks attendance record of eight years with

The Shielding Shadow



VIRGINIA THEATRE
810 East 152nd St
Cleveland, Ohio

Dear Sir:--

When you have something that is good I think it right that we should tell you, and when you have something that is not good, tell you again. Well, you sure have a winner and that is "The Shielding Shadow". In all my eight years of picture show Business, here in this part of the City, I am breaking all past records for a Sunday Business with it. I only have one fault to find and that is they like to stay and see it over the second time.
Yours for some more like it.

(Signed) C.E.Hutsenpiller.

BF.

What this great serial has done for Mr. Hutsenpiller it can do for you!

Produced by Astra
under the direction of
Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie

Pathé

A single picture, "Little Mary Sunshine", made Baby Marie Osborne famous: every exhibitor who has ever run one of her pictures is sure to run them all and advise his friends to do likewise. "Shadows and Sunshine" was her last picture. It was a great money getter.

If you haven't run "Little Mary Sunshine" or "Shadows and Sunshine" you don't know how profitable clean pictures are in pleased patrons and box office receipts.

Baby Marie Osborne is one of the greatest drawing stars of the screen.

Announcing

Little Mary Sunshine

(Baby Marie Osborne)

in the five part Gold Rooster Play

Joy and the Dragon

Produced by Balboa
under the direction of Henry King

Released Dec. 31

"The gods have been lavish in their favors to this four year old girl. She has imagination, intelligence, a winning personality and magnetism,—the power to catch and hold the attention."

—Edward Weitzel, Moving Picture World.

Pathé

A great preacher once stated he could have made his best sermon better if he had put more time on it. For six months we have been making to please your patrons. We know now how to put 1000 feet of fashions into 500 feet each week. The other 500 feet will be either a scenic or educational up to the usual Pathé standard. Big newspapers are publicizing these fashions to help you, too!

Florence Rose Fashions

PATRIA

THE GREATEST SERIAL OF THE AGE
WITH THE BEST KNOWN WOMAN IN AMERICA

MRS VERNON CASTLE

BACKED BY THE GREATEST ADVERTISING
AND PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN EVER LAUNCHED

INTERNATIONAL

PREPARE!

PAT

THE PREPAREDNESS

Mrs. VERNON

TO BE RELEASED

Written by
Louis Joseph Vance

INTERNATIONAL

PREPARE!

RIA

SERIAL SUPREME WITH

CASTLE

JANUARY FIRST

Produced by
Wharton Inc.

INTERNATIONAL

The Ocean Waif

"MOTION PICTURE COCKTAILS"

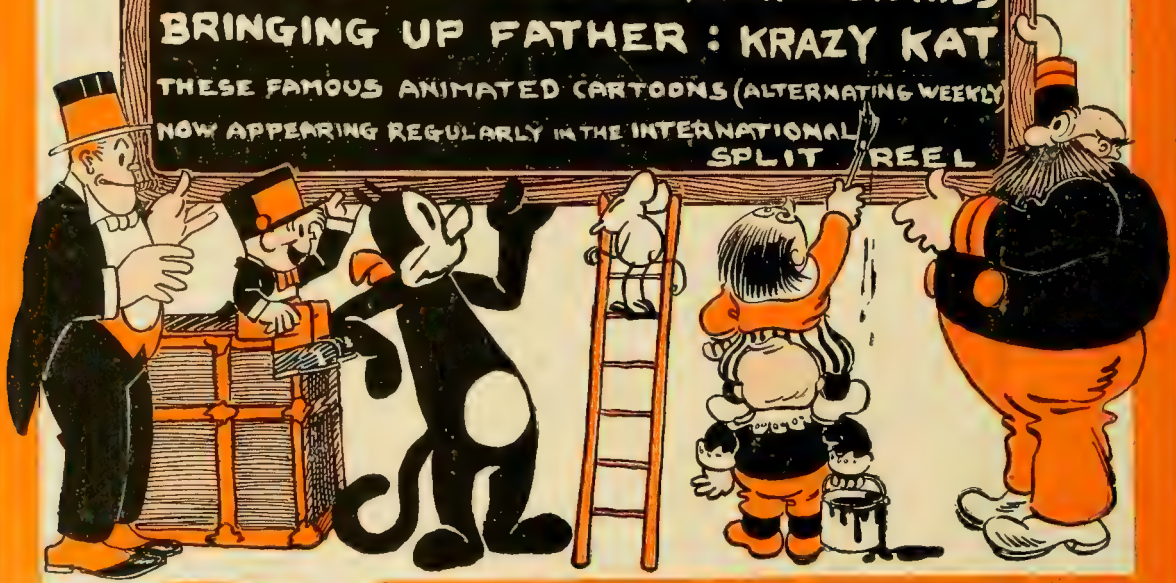
JERRY ON THE JOB

THE ORIGINAL KATZENJAMMER KIDS

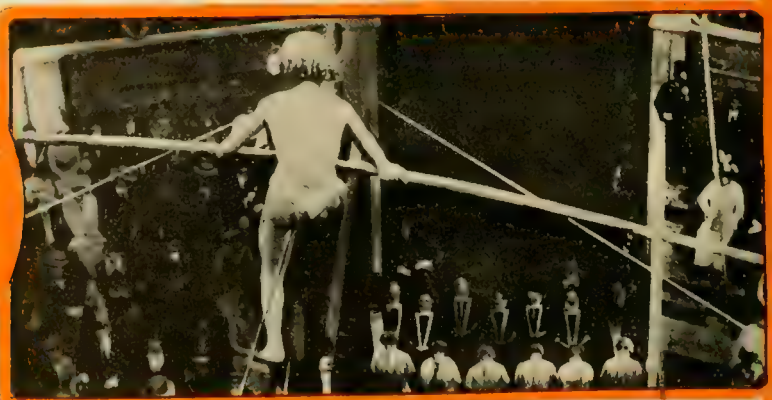
BRINGING UP FATHER : KRAZY KAT

THESE FAMOUS ANIMATED CARTOONS (ALTERNATING WEEKLY)

NOW APPEARING REGULARLY IN THE INTERNATIONAL SPLIT REEL



The Jockey of Death



EXCHANGES

ATLANTA 146 Marietta St.
BOSTON 118 Piedmont St
CHICAGO 207 So. Wabash Ave
CINCINNATI 532 Walnut St.
CLEVELAND 750 Prospect Ave., S.E
KANSAS CITY 1305 Walnut St.
LOS ANGELES 912 So. Olive St.
NEW YORK CITY 729 Seventh Ave.
OMAHA 1417 Harney St
PHILADELPHIA 1335 Vine St.
PITTSBURGH 804 Penn Ave.
SAN FRANCISCO 280 Golden Gate Ave.
ST. LOUIS 3313 Olive St.
SEATTLE 1214½ Third Ave.
WASHINGTON 712 11th St., N. W

AGENCIES

ALBANY 68 State St.
BUFFALO 39 Erie St.
DETROIT 71 Griswold St.
MINNEAPOLIS 606 Produce Exch. Bldg.
NEW ORLEANS 338 Barronne St.
INDIANAPOLIS New Lyric Theatre Bldg
SALT LAKE CITY 314 McIntyre Bldg.

INTERNATIONAL

WHAT'S STIRRING
Between The Top
Of Your Collar And
Your Hair-Parting?

THE BILLY WEST
Specials
TWO-REEL SCREEN YELLS
NOW BOOKING
"His Married Life"
"Boarders and Bombs"
"His Waiting Career"

Unicorn Film Service
CORPORATION

IKE SCHLANK, President
EXECUTIVE OFFICES, 126-30 WEST FORTY-SIXTH STREET, N.Y.
TWENTY-EIGHT BRANCHES EVERYWHERE

Romance-Fun
-Pep
TWENTY-ONE REELS
A WEEK
1, 2 AND 3 PART
DRAMAS, COMEDIES,
WESTERNS

Do you depend on your EAR or upon RESULTS?

"The Republican party," observes Booth Tarkington, "needed a lesson and it got it." That was one difficulty with the Progressive party. It never took a lesson in its life, depending wholly on its ear. On which, alas! it made its exit.

READ, MARK, INWARDLY DIGEST!

MR. EXHIBITOR

Beginning in January

MACK SENNETT

KEYSTONE COMEDIES

For the First Time Anyone
Can Have them regardless of His Program

ONE EVERY WEEK
THEY ARE PIPPINS

KESSEL &

EXECUTIVES

MISS MABEL NORMAND

IN

"MICKEY

GET READY"

BAUMAN

NEW YORK CITY

MUTUAL VOGUE COMEDIES

VOGUE FILMS Inc., Presents—

"FICKLE ALL AROUND"

TWO REELS RELEASED DECEMBER 24th

Featuring Rube Miller

Supported by Lillian Hamilton

THE candy merchant and his wife thought little Dorothy—the candy maker—a dear. Neither of them suspected she might be married. When her husband became infatuated with the candy merchant's wife, and the candy merchant with Dorothy—well, complications were sure to develop—uproarious ones. Four people all guilty of flirting outrageously—each afraid to accuse the other, lest his own guilt be revealed. On this story Rube Miller builds a thousand laughs in the latest Vogue Comedy—"Fickle All Around." Vogue comedies are "different." You can book them at any of the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges. Try them on YOUR patrons.

Slapstick with a Reason

VOGUE COMEDIES

VOGUE FILMS, Incorporated

General Offices: 6225 Broadway, Chicago, Ill.

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

SELIG Offers

TOM SANTSCHI

Supported by an All-Star Cast, Including George Fawcett, Mary Charleson and Will Machin in

"The Country That God Forgot"

"I'm Going to Give Her All the Gold"

Fate cuts merry didoes in The Country That God Forgot! Red-blooded manhood, honest self-sacrifice, intrigue and love—and all in the Great Solitude.

In the end, a great awakening came to Helen Brant—In the end, a great punishment came to the Snake in Eden!

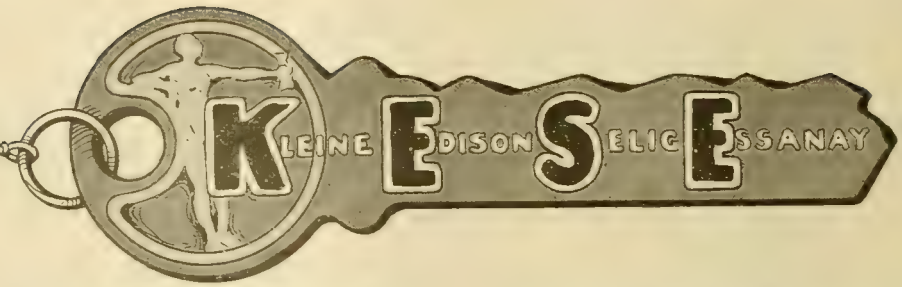
CASH IN WITH "THE ROSARY" DURING the HOLIDAYS

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.

CHICAGO - - - ILLINOIS

RED SEAL SELIG PLAYS

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E



Essanay Photoplays Endorsed!

BRYANT WASHBURN
and
NELL CRAIG
are presented in
"The Breaker"

Taken from the story of Arthur Stringer in the Saturday Evening Post.

Wid says:

"The action in 'The Breaker' is interesting . . . I believe it is a good, safe bet. . . . The suspense and interest will be held nicely. . . ."

EDNA MAYO
and
EUGENE O'BRIEN
are presented in
"The Chaperon"
By Marion Fairfax

S. A. Zippas, General Manager of the Tri City Amusement Co., Hopewell, Va., says:

"Everyone praised 'The Chaperon' in every way. They said if our pictures continued to be of this class there would need to be no worry about future patronage."

BRYANT WASHBURN
and
MARGUERITE CLAYTON
are presented in
"The Prince of Graustark"
By George Barr McCutcheon

The Management of the Arcadia Theatre, Philadelphia, writes:

"The Prince of Graustark opened to S. R. O. house and played all week. Endorsed by public and press in highest terms."

OTHER ESSANAY FEATURES

"The Return of Eve"
"The Sting of Victory"
"According to the Code"
"That Sort"
"Sherlock Holmes"
"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row"
"Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen"
"The Havoc"
"The Discard"
"Vultures of Society"
"The Misleading Lady"
"Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines"
"A Daughter of the City"
"The Alster Case"
"The Raven"
"The Crimson Wing"
"The Man Trail"
"The Blindness of Virtue"
"In the Palace of the King"
"The White Sister"
"The Slim Princess"
"Graustark"

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S. Pat. 1907

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

RICHARD C. TRAVERS

and

GERTRUDE GLOVER

are presented in

"The Phantom Buccaneer"

By VICTOR BRIDGES

Directed by J. Charles Haydon

SCREEN TIME 1 HOUR, 20 MINUTES

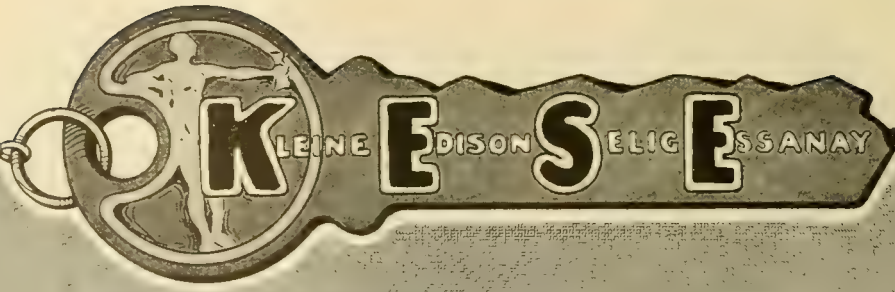
A London adventurer overthrows a South American republic, slaying the president. The daughter swears vengeance. She forms a conspiracy and drives the adventurer from the country. She follows him and attempts to kill a double he has hired to impersonate him. She falls in love with the double. The two are accused when the real adventurer is slain. They are saved from the gallows by a dying man's confession.

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

Essanay

GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago



HENRY B. WALTHALL

with

MARY CHARLESON

is presented in

Victor Rousseau's powerful drama of a

HIDDEN MENACE

"THE TRUANT SOUL"

WALTHALL'S GREATEST PLAY

SCREEN TIME 2 HOURS

A photoplay of intense passions—of hate, greed, shame, pride, revenge, sacrifice, love. It shows man sunken to the depths of vice and degradation, man raised to sublime heights. It grips the very soul and holds the spectator fascinated, breathless, from beginning to end.

BOOK THIS SUPER FEATURE NOW

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY
K-E-S-E
K-E-S-E

General Film Service

BLACK CAT

FEATURES are now

Filling All Theatres

Do you realize the cumulative value of this repeated advertising to your patrons? Every time you announce a Black Cat feature you will pack them in. 100 thrilling and fascinating photoplays each entirely separate. Here's your chance.

"In a Looking Glass"
featuring
Richard C. Travers, Nell Craig, Ernest Maupain
Screen time 32 minutes.
Released December 12

"The Little Brown Mole"
featuring
Lillian Drew and Sydney Ainsworth
Screen time 31 minutes.
Released December 19

"A Tale from the Decameron"
featuring
Nell Craig and Ernest Maupain
Screen time 30 minutes.
Released December 26

"The Girl God Made for Jones"
featuring
Bryant Washburn
Screen time 35 minutes
Released January 2

OTHER ESSANAY PLAYS

"Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21"
By Wallace A. Carlson with Lake Tahoe scenic Screen time 18 minutes. Released December 27

TRADEMARK

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

General Film Service

REFINED FEATURE COMEDY
HARRY MYERS &
ROSEMARY THEBY
DECEMBER 27th
IN "A FINANCIAL FRENZY"
Wifie has a money spending spell that nearly drives him Insane

General Film Service

"GRANT, POLICE REPORTER"

IT'S UP TO YOU! We are giving you in this KALEM Superseries, the most sensational quality series ever released—greater in DRAWING POWER than most five or six-reel productions. IT'S UP TO YOU!

But in the latest episode which the author, Robert Welles Ritchie, calls

"A Mission of State"

it's up to Daredevil GEORGE LARKIN and —how he does make good!

IN REGULAR SERVICE!

December 29th

"THE HAZARDS OF HELEN"

Oldest and Greatest of All Series Pictures. Now in Its Third Big Year of Success.

You can start with the next episode which is

"A Race with Death"

Released December 30th

Helen's perilous ride to beat the runaway car with its human freight to the siding switch and her leap from the saddle to the speeding car provides thrills aplenty. OBEY THAT IMPULSE!

A HAM Comedy

"The Quest of the Golden Goat"

An old-fashioned laugh-fest is contained in this broad burlesque of Secret Societies.

Released December 26th.

Attention-compelling one and three sheet posters on "Grant, Police Reporter," and "The Hazards of Helen."

KALEM COMPANY

235 West 23rd Street New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX
EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.
(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.
CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.
PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands .....$3.00 per year
Canada. . . ..3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid).....4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.
(Index to this issue will be found on page 2038.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, December 30, 1916

Facts and Comments

Who claims that the Exhibitors' League has been assailed? Only those who desire to befog the real issue, or, unless a half score individuals or so constitute the entire league. What say you?

* * *

A CORRESPONDENT wants to know why the Annette Kellermann picture is permitted to remain on exhibition while pictures "with not a thousandth part of her nudity" are banned from New York City. Nudity of itself is not objectionable, else the art galleries of the world should be forever closed. Even at her dressiest moments Miss Kellermann is put to no great expense for costuming, but it is not so much a question of nudity as of situation that is considered. The vilest book in the English language was written on a bet that its author could produce such a work that should not contain a single word that could not be uttered freely in the most careful circles. It is not nudity of flesh, but nudity of thought, that is objectionable, and a vampire in a fur coat may be far more offensive than innocence clad only in a sweet smile, provided that it does not appear that the story was planned merely to provide for the undraped smile. It is not so much what you do, but how and why, that counts with that great board of censorship, the public.

* * *

THE great majority of exhibitors in America place too low an estimate on their programs. This is shown by the low admissions charged. For 10 or 15 cents we daily see moving picture shows that are well worth 25 cents, and for 5 cents we see shows that are well worth 10 cents. It seems the most extravagant thing in the world nowadays to see magnificent neighborhood theaters that have cost (many of them) over $150,000 offering a good five or seven reel feature and a comedy, or an educational film, for 10 or 15 cents. The Regent, the Majestic, the Washington and the Strand-Broadway in Detroit always charge 25 cents evenings and 15 cents for matinees. And they are always well filled—but they have fine accompanying orchestral music.

* * *

THE secretary-treasurer of the company publishing National League President Ochs' new paper—Louis Blumenthal—made a statement before the members of the Brooklyn Exhibitors' League on the morning of December 10 which should afford to the exhibitors of the country matter for serious reflection. Mr. Blumenthal said that the inception of Mr. Ochs' paper was due to the attitude of the trade papers toward the Manhattan exhibitors' organization at the time of the controversy between the local league and the Board of Trade over its exposition last spring. The exhibitors' exposition was opened on May 1. So far as we knew Mr. Ochs was not at that time a candidate for the presidency of the National League. The statement of Mr. Blumenthal has interest in that it will go far to confirm a very strong impression that Mr. Ochs' publishing ambitions existed prior to the thought of his candidacy for National President. In other words, that that candidacy was an afterthought, born of a desire to create a combined political and business axe that would be potential in launching and sustaining his journalistic venture. The trade is under obligation to Mr. Blumenthal for his clarifying statement.

* * *

THE Democratic County Committee of New York County, better known to the world at large as Tammany Hall, has in a formal set of resolutions declared in favor of an amendment to the present law that will make legal beyond question the showing of motion pictures on Sunday. It states that such exhibition does not interfere with the holiness or sanctity of the Sabbath and in the judgment of the committee does not disturb religious worship. It goes further and declares that many believe the spirit of modern times makes possible the regulation of the Sabbath as a day of rest without violation of religious principles and without denying to anyone innocent diversions that should not be forbidden. The committee recommends to the New York City legislators the passage of a law that will sanction the Sunday showing of pictures. This unusual action of Tammany Hall should not be overlooked by the exhibitors of the country. The great political organization of New York City as an organization rarely goes upon record on public questions. That the County Committee has seen fit to take this action rather than leave it to the "leader" to give voice to the sentiment in an interview is sure indication of the great importance the members place upon this public question.

Perpetuating Ignorance

By Louis Reeves Harrison

THE first exercise of almost any human mind is directed toward supplying bodily needs. When that body is vigorous there lies within it a desire for exercise. When that mind is vigorous, and bodily needs are supplied, there lies within it a yearning for exercise. In countries where men labor to the point of exhaustion for a mere pittance very little progress need be expected. In this country, wherever men receive a living wage for a reasonably limited period of work, they have hours of mental recuperation, and a very large proportion of them feel a manifestation of surplus energy in a craving for one or another form of knowledge or acquirement of the truth on subjects to which their daily thoughts have been attracted.

Millions of such people go to the picture shows. Why feed their minds with what is false? Nearly all of us want the truth about life—why not give us what we want? Most of all we want stories dealing with conditions in which we are interested as a whole people. The tragedies of ancient civilizations concern us little except when they have a large bearing on our own affairs. So with the social conditions of other countries. Only when they serve to illustrate some vital need of our own are they of direct and positive value.

We are deeply interested in ourselves, our present problems, our future prospects, of whatever makes for our advancement. This is not due to selfishness. We realize the futility of any attempt on our part, especially while we are busy with our own building of personal character and national strength, to regulate world affairs. We can accomplish a little as individuals. The best we can offer as a race is example.

The best the screen can offer is certainly not dressed in the cast-off clothes of the stage. Look at our hero, the one copied from ready-made clothing advertisements, unless he is that reversion to the primitive found in imaginary border life with a belt of cartridges and two big revolvers! Look at our stoop-shouldered and chalk-faced heroine! Even when she is depicted as an outdoor girl she is only a Broadway soubrette lost in Palisade Park. Look at our adventuress in the big picture hat and very little else to her waist line!

Look at our villain struggling to keep his black mustache on by uptilting his cigar! He wears such a beautiful dress suit when he conspires with the adventuress to get "the papes" or the jewels! Look at our white-haired banker, the one who is so easily ruined on the street that he is about the last man to trust with an investment! Look at our ingenue, first dressed in rags that the contrast may be more powerful when she dons a Paquin creation. Look at our Southern gentleman with a string tie and a broad-brimmed Panama, attended by the faithful old cullud man with white hair and one hand on his kidneys!

It is all right to select manly men and beautiful women for types. They are to represent something physically as well as mentally, but why not dress them as we meet them in ordinary life and let them act in response to human impulses and human training rather than with the stale mannerisms of the stage? Character is complex. It may require brains to analyze human nature and bring into vision its peculiarities, but is it not about time to employ brains instead of stilted convention? Is it not true that a very large proportion of the characters shown in screen plays are mere theatrical puppets?

Characterization should be reasonably truthful so far as our own people are concerned. The farmer's daughters are far from being the simps portrayed by the theatrical director. They are well educated and quite capable of taking care of themselves in real life. They own more motor cars than the City Chap, and they do not fall for him half so much as the foolish city women who frequent cabarets by thousands and are landed by star crooks who are also star dancers. The Southern Girl is both charming and highly cultivated—why should she be pictured as the ignorant daughter of a whiskey-distilling outlaw?

We are inclined to look at the human being from an intensely American and common-sense point of view. Foreign settings, valuable because of their picturesque beauty and varied costumes, often fail to carry the picture over because the story characters are made to act out of accord with our ideas of how they should. Our viewpoint is sane, reasonable and progressive. Screen people, especially when presented from the purely arbitrary and always artificial standpoint of theatricalism, are less intelligent than American children.

There exists plenty of brilliant opportunity for the producer of sincerity who has courage enough to handle vital subjects and keep clear of imposed limitations from the outside. The New Art needs leaders, not followers. A New York paper recently acquired a large increase of circulation by attacking and exposing fake advertisers. The fakirs withdrew their ads, but the paper had taken a high stand, and reputable concerns found it gave them standing to advertise in its columns. It requires bravery and determination to throw off demoralizing influences, but truth is bound to prevail in the end.

Why deplore the stupidity of those victimized by humbug? Show them the truth. Why wail about the wide chasm between the ignorant and the intelligent in audiences? It grows out of distributing misinformation through the pictures themselves. Why not picture society as it is, with all its blessings, with all its many faults? We know that there are conditions to be remedied which bear directly upon the interests of those common people, most of them working long hours for inadequate pay. We know that the toiler, the real producer of wealth, is exploited in spite of our pretended civilization. Why not formulate stories of justice and compassion?

We know that there is a vast amount of unhappiness among married women, though the ideal marriage is the only basis of true happiness for both sexes. It is not a question of blaming the women or the men when their birthright is found to be a mess of pottage. The ignorance we are perpetuating may be the real cause of heartbreaking misery where should be lasting happiness. A close investigation will show that most people enter marriage unprepared to make it what it should be.

Skilled writers do not use preachment to carry a point. They do it by making an impression. The emotions are addressed rather than the intellect—that is where their skill comes in. The skilled writer does not argue. He reaches a much more powerful effect by presenting an illustrative and dramatic phase of the very life we are leading. To hang up false lights is to deliberately, or ignorantly, mislead, with no gain in entertainment and a decided loss of opportunity. People generally are eagerly seeking the truth—why not exert intelligence enough to give them what they most desire?

Better be careful what you say about "stock" these days. Some folks are getting awfully touchy, even when no names are mentioned. We wonder why.

The Sunday Question Abroad

MANY times within the current year—and for that matter during the year preceding—this office has received numerous letters from exhibitors asking for information and advice regarding Sunday moving pictures. In most of these cases correspondents were anxious to learn how the opening of picture theaters on Sundays could be brought about, and some desired enlightenment as to whether or not a state law prohibited these Sunday shows.

In London, England, as in the large American cities, a more liberal view is taken, so that the great masses may have their lives brightened by diverting and clean recreation.

But exhibitors in London, recently, have been much exercised by the action of the Bishop of Willesden, who is opposing strongly the granting of licenses to picture theaters on Sundays. A champion of Sunday picture shows in the great metropolis has arisen in the person of a man of the Bishop's cloth, the Rev. A. J. Waldron, who makes the following spirited reply, as given in the London Bioscope of Nov. 9:

I wish to call the attention of the Bishop to certain questions connected with this subject.

The cinemas on Sundays are essentially a "People's" entertainment.

In London not 10 per cent. of the people attend any place of worship. Does the Bishop propose to close down all means of recreation for the people?

If logical, he must include bands in the parks, Sunday League concerts, concerts in hotels and restaurants, golf and motoring by the rich and well-to-do. No, it is not the latter but the poor he is aiming at.

What are the people to do? Walk the dark streets or go to the "pubs" (saloons)? I know many workingmen, who were accustomed to go to the "pubs" on Sundays, who now take their wives and children to see the pictures.

Think of the tens of thousands of young people in lodging and "living in," what are these to do? The Bishop may answer "they can go to church." But thousands will not; the church is too dull. You cannot fill your churches by condemning rival competition.

The Bishop may reply that the entertainments in the cinemas are inane and sometimes almost immoral. I grant in many cases there is room for improvement, and I believe that is rapidly being accomplished. It is not so much that they are immoral, as stupid. But is not the same charge true of most of the sermons—inane enough to bore you to tears?

We cannot lift things by wholesale condemnation, but only by sympathetic co-operation.

I would remind his Lordship that if Sunday recreation is to be condemned because it entails Sunday labor, most of the choirs in the London churches would have to be disbanded. In our cathedrals and city churches, etc., men are paid to sing. They provide high-class music, they work seven days per week, which (by the way) is forbidden in cinema halls.

The Bishop may reply, "but this is for the purpose of worship." He must know, however, that thousands of people go to church simply because of the music. Get rid of some of these well-trained choirs and the churches would be empty.

The Bishop threatens that if any of the London hospitals receive any of the charity money from Sunday cinema shows it will be seen to that they shall not receive anything from the Hospital Sunday fund. To my mind this is most illogical. They will willingly receive money from railway companies, who run thousands of excursion trains on Sundays. Would they refuse to accept a donation from steamer companies who do the same?

Are the hospitals to inquire into the bona-fides of every donor, to find out whether the stockbroker made his money honestly, whether anything comes from owners of slum property, to refuse any money from licensed victuallers, brewers and distillers, because they trade on Sunday? Oh, what a lack of consistency and common sense in our ecclesiastical critics!

Hands Off the Innocent Recreations of the People.

The people want a rest day, and we all agree that to increase Sunday labor unnecessarily is a curse. But hands off the innocent recreations of the people, unless you treat the well-to-do in the same way.

We must face facts, and acknowledge that the old Sabbatarian ideas are gone for ever, that the British people are determined to have a human Sunday, free from cant and humbug, a day of rest and recreation. It is up to the churches to supply this need. They must cater for the people, and make the churches institutional.

Let us remember that Sunday is essentially a day of rest and recreation, a day for worship and prayer, for joy and more joy.

Don't you think, exhibitors in this country, that the Rev. Mr. Waldron's reply hits the nail right on the head? If those of you who are suffering from Sunday laws can get your local newspapers to publish his reply to the Bishop of Willesden, don't you think it would help to turn public opinion your way?

No man can be forced by law to go to church on Sundays in these enlightened days. Has any one the clear right to prevent him from going to a moving picture show instead?

In some spots in this land of the free the days of the Salem witches are only as yesterday.

Showing Pictures for a Living

IT TAKES, as a general rule, more brains to run a little moving picture theater than it does to run a big one. There is more financial worry and perhaps more profit in the big house. There is more detail in it, for the big houses may be able to afford things like stage sets for every big feature that the small exhibitor doesn't need and he always has more employes to handle. But when it comes to real showmanship, when it comes to discrimination in the choice of film to suit the neighborhood, the little man has to worry, while the big man can sit at ease. The size of the big man's audience gives him momentum and the percentage of discontent isn't dangerous, for one especially good show may dispel all of it.

There is something that may be called a genius for showmanship, and there are two kinds of it. P. T. Barnum was a shining example of the cynical type of showman whose cards are a little ballyhoo, a little humbug and a little performance. It will go with a transient trade; perhaps it is the only thing that will go well. But the neighborhood exhibitor had better cultivate a genius for friendship and humanity.

It is a fact that the usual successful neighborhood exhibitor is apt to be a far more civilized kind of man and a far more useful citizen than the average dealer in things that cater only to the needs of the body. If he is the only exhibitor in the town and is making a success, his position is an enviable one. There is no narrowing influence that keeps his mind knitted to the money that he makes. He must keep awake and broaden his human sympathies every day to meet the growing intellectual need of those whom he serves.

Many men, not the wisest, are ambitious to make much money; others are ambitious to do a great thing in a great way; but there are many who are worthily ambitious to do a good thing well, to enjoy doing it, to be respected and to win ease and comfort by the way. It is from this kind that the best, successful small exhibitors come. Too much competition takes off the bloom; but the exhibitor who likes his business for its own possibilities is not only apt to succeed, but is apt to be a very fine type of man.

Pictures Aid Sunday Observance

W. N. Selig Says They Provide Places for the American Boy to Go on the Sabbath Day.

WILLIAM N. SELIG, one of the pioneers in the motion picture industry, talking about Sunday motion picture shows, and the recent decision of a New York court, said: "One can look back for the past seven or eight years and can then appreciate the wonderful influence wielded by motion pictures in the Sabbath observance cause. Motion pictures, coupled with 'Sabbath Observance,' may sound queer to the 'hide-bound,' but to thinking people the motion picture is a means to a more orderly Sabbath.

"Before the popularity of the motion pictures, Young America, particularly in the cities, was thrown in close proximity to saloons, beer gardens, pool rooms and other amusement places of like character. All the above were particularly tempting on Sunday. Following the establishment of the neighborhood or community picture theater, an immediate falling off of patronage in other directions was noticeable on Sunday. This fact was particularly noticeable to the saloon man, who considers the motion picture theater as his greatest enemy in a business way.

"Then there is the financial side to the question. Young America turned loose for one entire day with a week's wages in his pocket rarely had funds the following Monday morning. It costs money to play pool or indulge in Sunday excursions. When the motion picture theaters became numerous all this was changed. Young America and his best girl discussed the movies, the players and read all there was to read on motion picture topics. Then it was found that ten cents admission for a Sunday afternoon movie matinee was much better than ten dollars gone and a Monday morning headache.

"Inquire of the liquor dealers and they will inform you that it is not William Jennings Bryan, but motion pictures that must be guarded against if their business is to prosper; make inquiries of clergymen of all denominations, particularly in the cities, and they will support the contention that motion pictures are better than more doubtful amusements that will spring up everywhere should motion picture theaters be closed on Sundays; and then the savings banks will attest to the fact that the movies aid young men and young women to save their money. As one banker informed me: 'The young man and his gal spend two hours in a movie theater Sunday afternoon and the net cost is twenty cents. The next morning the young man has money to put in the savings bank.'"

Thanhouser Talks on Sunday Pictures

Says That They Are Powerful Aid to Family Unity—Are a Conveyance for Thought.

EDWIN THANHOUSER, president of the Thanhouser Film Corporation, has this to say on the question of closing motion picture theaters in New York State on Sundays:

"Moton pictures to me are animated books, presenting thought. Libraries are open on Sunday for the reading of books—or anyone may read a book in his home or office or on a bench in a park. At least, no law has been passed as yet to prohibit reading on Sundays, either in public or private, or of books or Sunday newspapers. To my mind there would be as much consistency in closing up public libraries on Sunday as to close motion picture theaters.

"One intent of the 'blue law' makers is to keep people in their neighborhoods on the day of rest—away from bad influences. Motion picture theaters do this. They keep whole families in the home vicinity and are one of the greatest powers for family unity we have. If you were to study the situation I have just mentioned you probably would be in favor of compelling motion picture theaters to be open on Sundays as a police benefit.

"Finally, I would bring to your attention the moral potency of most picture plays. Even in trifling plots that sometimes are inflated into film plays, there invariably is some substance in the form of a demonstrated lesson. One should leave a motion picture theater in profound thought or in a spirit of exhaltation, and I believe most producers are now appreciating this.

"There should be no immoral subjects in motion pictures, books, newspapers or magazine—and we are approaching the day when this will be so—until then Monday's motion pictures should be the same as Friday's or Sunday's, because the photoplay is a conveyance of thought, as I have said, and the public's capacity for thought is the same every day."

Against Sunday Closing

Mayors of Cities and Towns in Western New York May Refuse to Act.

BUFFALO exhibitors are pleased with the announcement that Mayor Fuhrman of that city is not likely to oppose moving pictures on Sunday. "Since another department of the Appellate Division has held that Sunday moving pictures are legal, the question is in doubt," said the mayor. "I am not in sympathy with the recent decision. Sunday pictures are a boon to the masses."

Walter Hays of the Mitchell H. Mark Theatrical Enterprises, contends that there will be a great storm of public opposition in Buffalo, should the Court of Appeals, following the recent decision in question decide against them.

Frederick Ullman, an attorney, who is financially interested in several moving picture theaters in Buffalo, says he has no fear of Sunday closing in this city. He contends that a strong force from Buffalo would march upon the legislature should plans against Sunday shows be contemplated.

Dunkirk, N. Y., has a new phase of the Sunday show question. County Judge Ottaway of that city recently granted a temporary injunction, restraining the sheriff's department and the Dunkirk police from interfering with Sunday moving picture performances at the Drohen and the Bijou theaters of that city. The application for the injunction was made by Thomas P. Heffernan, attorney for Mrs. Mabel Drohen, owner of the two houses.

Mayor W. E. Schnell, of Tonawanda, N. Y., and Mayor B. L. Rand, of North Tonawanda, N. Y., recently received communications from the State Civic League, of Albany. The letters referred to Sunday closing. Mayor Schnell said he would not take any action in the matter. Mayor Rand said he would refer the communication to City Attorney J. P. Lindsay for an opinion as to whether the recent decision applies to cities of the third class.

DENVER SCREENERS FILM BALL.

Denver screeners can have their big Film Ball. It seems that a grand march is not in the firmament unless it's led by two stars. For over six months the bright planets have been passing the city singly and never could the Denverites catch two, either going or coming, at the same time until now. Soothsayers declare that the orbits of Mary Miles Minter and Wallace Reid will cross immediately over the city of Denver on the night of December 27 and that both will be on view at the same time. The best place to see them is the immense City Auditorium.

DOROTHY GREEN AS QUAKER MAIDEN.

Dorothy Green, vampire of the screen, enjoys playing adventuress roles in the cinema world, and yet, upon frequent occasions, she enjoys impersonating contrasting characters. She is shown in the role of a demure Quaker maiden, and looks the part, as all her admirers will agree. She selected this quaint costume for one of the scenes in "Patria," the International's serial supreme, to be released on January 1, with Mrs. Vernon Castle as the star.

NEW PICTURE HOUSE PLANNED.

It is reported that Messrs. Steiner, Wesiner & Schwartz, owners of the new 14th Street picture theater, are seeking a site on the lower East Side, whereon to build a photoplay house. They plan to model the theater after the Rialto, with a seating capacity of 2,500.

LESSER HAS NEW YORK OFFICE.

Sol Lesser and Leon D. Netter announce the opening of executive offices of the Masterpiece Film Attractions and the purchasing department of the All Star Features Distributors at 523 Long Acre Building, New York City.

Profits! Yes, we will give one-third of the profits for advancing the cause, and we will give another third for general welfare and another third will go to prevent special privileges and another third will go for the benefit of a home for—yes, we simply have to give away our profits, and we have not yet decided what we will do with all the other thirds.

Bleak Alaska Has Real Picture Showmen By S. J. Anderson

Exhibitors Code and Gross Tell Interesting Story of Film Conditions in Far North

Seattle, Washington.

THE picture theaters of Northwestern and Central Alaska have the best service of any on the continent! We are used to hearing exhibitors boost their own shows in a mild sort of way, but that statement did take away our breath, especially in view of the fact that we have heard so many rumors of the difficulty of getting film into those frozen towns of the North, and also considering that the speaker was a man who usually means exactly what he says. It was W. F. Code, of the Alaska Dream theater, Nome, Alaska. He went on to prove his statement:

"We have Paramount, Triangle, Fox, Metro, World, Pathe, Big Four, and Mutual Masterpieces; and we change every night," said Mr. Code. "'Civilization' was put on in Fairbanks, Alaska, before it was in Spokane, Washington."

"But how can they do it?"

"Why, on the last boat that left here for Northern Alaska I sent 1000 reels, and they won't come back until next spring. You see, A. R. Thorne, of A. E. Lathrop, and I have formed a combine called the Alaska Feature Film Company. Mr. Lathrop owns theaters in Anchorage, Seward, Valdez, and Cordova. Mr. Thorne owns the Thorne in Fairbanks. We formed the film company for the primary purpose of getting films for ourselves, but we do rent them to the few other houses in our territory. Now we get the films we want. If we can't rent them we buy them, but we seldom ever have to do that. The exchange manager who wouldn't begin to talk business with us when we wanted two or three features to take to Alaska for the winter finds his subject intensely interesting when he learns we are asking for twenty-five or fifty features now. Of course, we don't have to lay in such a supply in summer. We have regular boat service then."

"But even with this arrangement, how can you make an every-night change a paying proposition? Nome is a small town, isn't it?"

"Yes, there are only 2,500 people there in summer and less in winter, but I have always gone into the advertising game like a circus manager. I've just pulled 'em out of their homes, and they've got the habit now. You could bet your last dollar on at least fifty, perhaps sixty, seats being occupied by the same people every night.

"You see, I haven't any competitors now. There used to be some, but I put them out of business with my change every night. Since then I've found that my little theater with its 250 seats is not large enough, so I'm building a 600 capacity house."

"Where are some of the theaters located that don't belong to you or your partners?"

"There's one here at St. Michaels," he said, pointing out the town on the map. "St. Michaels is an army post, and the picture show is at the Post Exchange. Then there's another at Candle, which is farther north than any other picture show in the world. Candle is 204 miles northeast of Nome, and it is between the two towns that the famous Alaska Sweepstakes are run by dog teams. All the film carried to Candle in the winter goes by dog train. There are just about 150 people in the town and the show is run by some of the merchants who don't care whether they make any money on it or not. What they want is a picture show twice a week, and they are going to have it.

"They wanted to run 'Tillie's Punctured Romance' this Christmas, and I wanted to send the picture to another town, so I put what I considered a prohibitive price on it; but they took it anyhow, and in order not to lose money on it they are going to ask $2.50 and $5 a seat. And they'll get it, too. Once when they were running the same show for three consecutive nights I asked them what their receipts were for the first night.

"Seventy-nine dollars and seventy-five cents," answered the manager. 'And for the second night?' I continued. 'The same amount.' 'And for the third night?' 'The same amount.' 'The same every night?" 'Exactly,' he answered. 'But you charge $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Where did you get the 75 cents?'

"'Well," he explained, 'Mrs. Johnson brought her two months old baby with her, and I charged her two bits for him.'"

(Two-bits, it may be explained to the Easterner, is 25 cents.)

"What is the regular admission price in Alaska?" Mr. Code was asked.

"Two-bits, with more, of course, where there are loges."

Just then Mr. Code glanced across the desk to where W. D. Gross was vigorously making crosses at the end of a letter.

"What are all the crosses for, Gross?" he asked.

"They are kisses for the boy," answered the proud father. "I told her to give him ten for me."

"Mr. Gross has a corner on the business in Southeastern Alaska," explained Mr. Code. "Get him to tell you about it there."

It was with difficulty that we finally got Mr. Gross interested in theaters. His mind was back in Juneau with "the boy." He lives there all year, the winters being scarcely any colder than in Seattle. His presence in this city now is explained simply as a business trip. Mr. Code, on the other hand, always spends the winters here, on account of the severe winters in Nome.

With Juneau an open port the year round, and several hundred miles nearer Seattle than Nome, Mr. Gross doesn't find it necessary to buy or rent film in the quantities that Mr. Code and his associates do, but he does have some trouble getting them, just the same. He has been running World and Metro in his eight houses, and he has just signed for the new Mary Pickford features and for Billie Burke's "Peggy." He is also maneuvering for Triangle. His houses are situated in Juneau, Douglas, Haines, Skagway, Petersburg, Sitka, Ketchikan and Wrangell.

Mr. Gross' Coliseum in Juneau seats 1,000, is new, and is the finest theater in Alaska. There is even an incline instead of steps leading to the balcony, and the finishing touch, according to Mr. Gross, is the pair of canary birds that begin to sing as soon as the fountain begins to run and the music to play, and they never stop until all the lights are out for the night. He is not very enthusiastic about his balcony, though. In spite of the fact that it is architecturally well planned for a theater he says that no one except the natives will go up here, even if they have to stand and wait below. Mr. Code came forward with an explanation for that, however.

"It's because the natives go up there, Gross," he said. "Why, before I had a balcony in my theater, when the natives used to sit in the last few rows, the people would hold their noses as they passed. You know they wear those oilskins, and the smell is something awful. Now I send the natives up into the gallery and fan perfume into the front of the house, while a big suction fan draws all the bad air and smells out at the back. In my new theater I am having built a small raised balcony at one end of the regular balcony with a separate entrance to it from the outside. I am going to send the natives up there."

Having told us what they could of the business of today, these two pioneers became reminiscent. Mr. Gross has been in Alaska nineteen years, going first to Dawson. He preceded Mr. Code by two years, but the latter beat him into the motion picture field, having been an exhibitor for nine years. He began, he said, when Miles Brothers, the first exchange on the coast, were operating in San Francisco.

"Those were the days," he explained, "when you had to buy a film outright, and pay from $125 to $175 for it. And by the time you had spent six or seven hundred getting your show, even though you did charge $1 and $1.50 admission, you didn't make anything on it. Unless a man had some other source of income in those days he soon went broke in the picture business."

TENNESSEE PLANS TO REORGANIZE.

According to W. C. Morris, secretary of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Tennessee for the past two years, plans are under way to effect a reorganization of the Tennessee exhibitors. Mr. Morris was elected to office of league secretary for Tennessee at the meeting held in Chicago at the time of the recent national convention there, but states that very little interest was manifested in the league at that time by the local managers, and that it had been impossible to get them together. Two meetings were called by the secretary for Nashville, but upon his arrival in the city he found none of the officers present. However, it is believed that a strong representation can be assembled in the near future, and the organization established and maintained on a permanent basis.

American Film Invasion of Brazil

United States' Product Driving Other Countries' Pictures Out of Market.

(From Our South American Correspondent.)

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, November 30.

WHAT little there is left of French and Italian films in this country proves how complete has become the American invasion of this market. An American who arrives in this city for the first time may make himself at home so far as amusements go, and he may see his favorite actor in almost any of the numerous amusement houses on the "avenue." Many times he will hear American music. The following names are seen on the boards in a few minutes' walk around the center of Rio:

"Caprice of the Mountain," "As Ye Sow," "The Love Girl," "The Catspaw," "A Wife's Sacrifice," "The Valley of Lost Hope," "The Social Pirates" series, "For the Love of a Girl," "The Belle and the Bell Hop," "The Latest in Vampires," "Temptation and the Man," etc.

"The Girl and the Game" is announced for early production. This is the kind of adventure that brings big business "The Trey o' Hearts" is getting its share of the glad hand.

"The Broken Coin" had a big run here before going south. It is near the end of its usefulness, the same film having passed through nearly all the houses of importance in South Brazil. It is now running in Porto Alegre, but has become so worn that cuts have made the characters jump all over the screen. "Peg o' the Ring" finds many admirers in Rio.

After the many similar pictures, with duplicate characters, the fine work of Marc MacDermott in "The Catspaw" was highly appreciated. There was a refinement in that film never attained in any other country's production.

"The Social Pirates" is something new to this public, and such treatment of the subject was never known in other films.

Fox films have a high-grade touch that no one here had seen. The business done by this firm has been unbelievable.

The J. R. Staffa enterprise claims to have paid $20,000 for the rights to the Vitagraph's "An American's Home." This film ran for more than a week, afternoon and night, in two theaters, and after a week was returned to the same houses. The film bears the London mark of the Vitagraph company, and is still going strong. It was of marked interest at this time, since the Brazilian public has been undergoing a development of national preparedness. Advertising no doubt brought many patrons, and there is still a long run ahead of the film.

Evidently some one who knows how to make films has been in charge of the Corona house, Italian. The photography is as good as the best, which could not with truth be said of the many pictures sent over from that country. The scenes were better connected, the actors were good, and the work showed study and care.

A heavy advertising campaign has been under way announcing the new films, "D'Luxo."

The question of waiting between performances has always been a serious and expensive one for Brazilian exhibitors, and the best solution of it is that of having two halls showing the same films. This reduces the wait by half, since most houses allow visitors to enter at the end of a regular hour, so as to see the entire show. The halls are side by side, and the films are taken from one machine to the other Most houses have fitted up waiting halls at enormous expense for furniture and orchestra.

A new Universal serial, under the Brazilian name of "Liberdade," is being advertised. It would have in its cast the names of Francis Ford and Miss Cunard to go well with Brazilians.

J. H. C.

EDNA R. SCHLEY JOINS UNIVERSAL STAFF.

Edna Rowell Schley is a recent arrival at Universal City, having been transferred from the New York scenario department of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company to the staff of Eugene B. Lewis, scenario chief.

On matters oriental, Edna Schley is an authority. She was brought up on oriental lore. Her father is the well-known British consulting engineer, Samuel Rowell, who lived many years in India, China and Japan. She is the wife of R. Lee Schley, nephew of Admiral Winfield Scott Schley.

Edna Schley has been a contributor to magazines for the past ten years; her descriptive articles of travel being particularly well known. Besides the stories now ready for production at Universal City, "Coals of Fire" and "The Avenging Arm," Edna Schley is the author of "Sands of the Desert," "The Mark of Mohammed," "The Potter and the Clay," "Submerged" and "Banked Fires."

Alice Dovey

ALICE DOVEY—you've heard of her. Have you seen her? All New York has, for the success of "Very Good Eddie" and "The Pink Lady" has made her one of the shining lights of Broadway. Plattsmouth, Neb., has also, for the little star was born there and the town is proud of her.

Miss Dovey has broken into motion pictures. Pathe announces her as co-starring with William Courtenay, another famous player in "The Romantic Journey." The Pathe people say this tiny leading woman (she is only about as big as a minute) did splendid work in the picture. That wouldn't surprise the father and mother and big family of brothers and sisters back home. They believe in her—thoroughly.

Alice Dovey.

Her name sounds like that of a character in a story book, but it's real and not a stage name. When she was fourteen years old she was sent abroad for voice culture and after three years of study sang before Queen Alexandra at Windsor Castle.

Her first engagement was with a musical comedy, called "The Strollers." Yes, her part was a very minor one—in the chorus. After various engagements with sundry road attractions she finally arrived in New York in "The Stubborn Cinderella." Then she was in Lew Field's productions of "Old Dutch" and "Summer Widowers." Her first distinct hit was in "The Pink Lady," in which she appeared in New York for two years and later in London.

Miss Dovey says her work in "The Romantic Journey" was lots of fun, and even more fun was the seeing of herself on the screen for the first time. "The Romantic Journey" was produced by Astra, under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, and will be released December 24.

WILLIAM GARWOOD TO SUPPORT ENID BENNETT.

William Garwood, one of the best-known leading men on the screen, has been engaged by Thomas H. Ince to appear in forthcoming features on the Triangle-Kay Bee program.

Garwood will support Enid Bennett in her second stellar role, under the direction of Charles Miller. Although he looks young enough to be a college senior, Garwood is one of the veteran favorites of filmdom. He entered the motion picture field in 1910, and during the ensuing six years has played leading parts with the Thanhouser, Majestic, American and Universal companies. In his first appearance, under Triangle-Ince auspices, Garwood will take the part of a young inventor who becomes involved in a romance with a girl of the slums, who will be portrayed by Miss Bennett.

SECRETARY VARNER VISITS WASHINGTON.

H. B. Varner, motion picture exhibitor of Charlotte, N. C., has returned from Washington, where he appeared before the Federal Trade Commission at a hearing given to newspaper publishers of this section, with a view to ascertaining facts as to the reason for the high cost of print paper. Mr. Varner is secretary of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of North Carolina, is a newspaper publisher, and has a number of other interests which keep him exceptionally busy hobnobbing with the powers that be in the National Capital.

You do not need to call a spade a spade when everyone can see plainly for himself that it is a spade. Whoever does you an unworthy act does himself the greater injury. Then, again, money is a great perverter of right and wrong when you think you have to have it.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Michigan Convention

Attendance Not Large But Interest in Proceedings Is Great.

THE Michigan Motion Picture Exhibitors' League held its semi-annual convention in Detroit, Tuesday, December 12. The attendance of exhibitors was far below what it should have been, and a surprising part of it was the absence of the larger state exhibitors. In justice to organization work, let it be frankly said right here that for the ultimate success of any project the full co-operation is necessary of both the weak and the strong, and in the motion picture business, co-operation is necessary from the larger as well as the smaller exhibitors.

Getting back to the convention, it was a real success, even though there were no vital issues at stake nor any radical changes made. The meeting started at 10:30 o'clock in the morning with A. J. Kleist, president, and A. J. Moeller, secretary, at the speakers' table, together with Lee Ochs, National President of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League. There were several addresses of welcome, followed by the reading of the minutes of the June convention, the reading of the proposed new constitution, following which the chairman appointed auditing and membership committees.

Lee Ochs was called upon to address the members and the point he brought out was that there should be the heartiest co-operation at all times, and that if the small exhibitors would keep on with their good work it would not be long before the larger exhibitors would willingly come in. After the noon adjournment, the members gathered in front of the Hotel Statler, convention headquarters, where the Pathe News photographer filmed them.

At the afternoon session, the attendance was considerably larger, in fact the room was almost filled with representatives of all branches of the industry. Lee Ochs was the first speaker and he reiterated on a more elaborate scale his morning remarks. Then followed brief remarks by various exchange managers, all of whom expressed a willingness and desire to co-operate with the exhibitors on all matters.

Reports of the auditing committee and membership committees were then read and approved. The convention then went into executive session for members only for the discussion of the deposit and other apparent abuses. Resolutions were passed expressing thanks to those who had worked so faithfully to make the convention a success, with particular stress on the entertaiment committee, consisting of Messrs. Wilkinson, Perry and Wadlow.

In the evening the banquet took place in the large banquet room of the Hotel Statler. There were present more than 100 men, comprising exhibitors, exchange supply men and invited guests, many with their ladies. The menu was a splendid one, following which there was an hour of vaudeville entertainment provided by the local committee. Then came the speaking. F. A. Schneider, president of Detroit Local No. 1, introduced A. J. Gilligham as toastmaster, and everybody knows that "Gil" cannot be excelled in that capacity. He did a fine job.

The first speaker of the evening was Ira W. Jayne, of the Recreation Commission, and he spoke of the power of the motion picture and the reasons why all pictures should be free from bad influences. His remarks were later substantiated by James Couzens, Police Commissioner; Charles H. Culver, Legislative Member; Lee Ochs and Fred Herrington. George Weeks, of Detroit, read an original scenario with local color that proved a hit.

Southern Exhibitors to Organize

Discuss Formation of League to Deal With Trade Problems Only.

MANAGER E. M. Clark, of the Baker-Grand theater at Natchez, Miss., was in New Orleans last week, and while there met several other exhibitors in the New Orleans territory for the purpose of discussing the formation of an exhibitors' league which shall have for its purpose something more than the social features which have heretofore been the rock upon which such organizations have split.

There has been some opposition among the exchange men to the proposal of an exhibitors' league growing, perhaps, from the fear that any concerted action among the exhibitors would naturally result in antagonism to the exchanges and their present methods of conducting the business, but Mr. Clark declares that any such contingency is the farthest from his intention with reference to object of his activities toward a permanent organization.

The prime purpose of the organization, he declares, is to co-operate with the exchanges in every way possible for the betterment of the business for all concerned. He points out that under some of the present arrangements there cannot be the most free and friendly feeling between the exhibitors and the exchange men from the fact that the exhibitors who are permanently in the business and have established adequate credit among other merchants with whom they deal, are placed in the same category with unreliable and transient exhibitors by the exchanges and required to assume burdens that are excessive and unwarranted.

Advance deposits are combated by the exhibitor who pays attention to his theater and who pays his bills promptly. The requirement that the exhibitor shall pay return express charges on films is another subject for complaint, nor are these two objections the only ones that the exhibitors enumerate when they are making a catalogue of the woes to which the exchange men subject them.

It is the purpose of the league to discuss these questions with the exchange men and join with them in an endeavor to purge the territory of irresponsible and indifferent exhibitors and bring the business up to the standard whereby exchange men can operate without undue losses and the exhibitors can run the theaters without unnecessary outlay and petty annoyances. And it is the desire to accomplish this end while fostering the most friendly spirit. The recent failure of the Mississippi exhibitors to complete an organization for that state is all the more reason, Mr. Clark believes, for the exhibitors in the entire territory forming one strong organization.

New Jersey Exhibitors to Dance

Arrangement for the Coming Ball of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League Progressing Rapidly.

AT THE meeting of the New Jersey exhibitors held on Friday, Dec. 8, at League Headquarters, forty-seven members responded and a very spirited meeting was the result, at which it was decided to give a ball at Kreuger Auditorium, Newark, on February 1, 1917.

The president of the New Jersey League, Dr. H. Charles

Hespe, presided and the following joint chairmen of committees were appointed: Printing—Philip Bornstein, F. E. Samuels, J. G. Crawford; Publicity and Press—W. Stephen Bush, Harry Reinchenbach, Leon J. Rubenstein, Jacob J. Kalter; Music—H. Austerman, chairman; Program—F. E. Samuels, chairman; Ticket—David J. Hennessy, chairman; Badge—Arnold Davis, chairman; Lighting Committee—W. C. Smith, B. F. Porter, L. E. Atwater; Reception—F. C. Cross, chairman; Floor—R. H. Mertens, chairman; H. J. Rockefeller, R. C. Cross, J. J. Crawford, Martin Singer, Philip Bornstein, David J. Hennessy, Arnold Davis; Entertainment—F. E. Samuels, chairman; Invitation—J. Crawford, Dr. Hespe, Philip Bornstein; Finance—J. G. Crawford, Philip Bornstein.

A number of applications have already been received for space in the souvenir program and all indications point to a big success.

These Exhibitors Want to Know

Members of the Central New York Local Ask Questions of the National Association.

INSPIRED by the statement made by a certain director of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry to the effect that that organization had no power to adjust the matter of advance deposits which is being so strenuously objected to by reputable exhibitors, the Central New York Local No. 10, through its president W. H. Linton, of Utica, N. Y., has addressed a lengthy communication to F. H. Elliott, executive secretary of the National Association, seeking a definition of the powers of that organization to deal with that important subject. The letter reads as follows:

December 15, 1916.

F. H. Elliott, Executive Secretary,
National Association of the M. P. Industry,
New York City.

Dear Sir: The exhibitors of the country I believe, should be informed of the powers of the directors of your association, although I am speaking especially for the exhibitors of Central New York.

When the National Association was formed, some of the delegates to the National League at Chicago, myself included, who listened to the arguments why a National Association of the allied industries should be formed, understood that the directors of the proposed association would have the power to correct any of the evils or injuries done by one allied industry toward another, providing of course that the particular industry was a member of the National Association. With this understanding of the powers of the directors of the National Association, I brought up before one of your directors, who was present at a meeting of our Local of Central New York, a few days ago, why your board could not correct the great injustice some of the exchanges and all of the big feature companies are doing the legitimate exhibitors today by demanding an advance deposit which is to remain with the company as long as the exhibitor continues to run the service, and which has been the cause of more friction and unfriendly feeling between the exhibitor and the exchangeman who demands this deposit, than should exist between them if both parties are to reap the best benefits from such connections.

The director to whom I alluded, said that the Board of Directors of the National Association had no such power. Will your association state to the exhibitors, through the trade's papers, whether your association has such power or not, and if it has such power why it should not correct this injustice?

We feel that something should be done to relieve the exhibitors of this injustice and burden imposed on them, and also create a better feeling between the exhibitor and the exchangeman. As it stands now, the exhibitor feels that the producers and exchanges are his enemies and are working him for all he is worth—they get him both ways, coming and going. First, he has to put up big deposits before he can even look at certain pictures. Then he has to pay in advance for each picture and also the express both ways, as well as for all the advertising.

Now, has not the exhibitor the right to feel that the producer and the exchange has him coming and going, and should he not feel deep indignation at such treatment, and should not the producers and exchanges realize, as good business men, that it is to their own interests that at least this big injustice of advance deposits should be done away with at once?

The exhibitors, or the majority of them, are perfectly willing to pay a week in advance and this is guarantee enough for any good producer. If his program is good, the exhibitor is only too anxious to keep it and the producer knows this. If they produce pictures that will not get the exhibitor money, they cannot expect the exhibitor to keep the program, for upon the prosperity of the exhibitor depends the prosperity of the whole industry, and it is certainly to the interests of the producers to see that only good pictures—good in every way, and that don't require censoring—are put out.

Any method proposed by producers or exchanges whereby the League or any body of exhibitors should guarantee the account of any exhibitor would meet with instant refusal. Why should the exhibitors as a body finance an individual exhibitor? We don't want the exhibitor to have credit unless he is worthy of it and then let the exchange who sells him decide that point. Let the exhibitor pay for his service before he gets it, and then there is no need of anyone guaranteeing his account, for he has no account.

The "fly by night" exhibitor that the exchanges are always holding up to the legitimate exhibitor as a reason why they should have an advance deposit is just the exhibitor that the exchanges should not sell; if they do sell him they do so at their own risk, as it hurts the bonafide exhibitor to have such an exhibitor start up.

We exhibitors have financed a good many producing companies by our advance deposits, and we certainly are not going to finance any exhibitor. Nothing else but an elimination of the advance deposit and the return of the deposit already up, with an agreement that all exhibitors shall pay a week in advance for their showings, will satisfy the exhibitors today. Then every producer's program will stand on its merits. The producers know now that this is only justice to the exhibitors, and that they have no reason that is worthy of name why this advance deposit should not be done away with at once.

Yours very truly,
W. H. LINTON,
Central New York Local No. 10,
Utica, New York.

Trigger Sounds Warning

Former President of Manhattan Exhibitors Reminds Theatre Managers of Past Experiences and His Candidacy for President.

SAMUEL H. TRIGGER, long influential in the organization of motion picture exhibitors of Manhattan, issues a letter to all members of the organization reminding them of the meeting and election of officers which is to take place on Wednesday, December 20, at 2 o'clock sharp. Mr. Trigger also reminds exhibitors of what Mayor McClellan did to them nine years ago and warns them of what may happen to them now if the Sunday closing law should be enforced. Incidentally he calls attention to the fact that he is a candidate for the office of president of the local. The letter follows:

Nine Years Ago and Now.

It is absolutely IMPERATIVE that you be present at the MEETING of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League to be held on WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 20, at 2 P. M. SHARP.

The above to you may seem like a stereotyped form, but there is need for you to look sharp and be on the alert at this time.

The heading which reads, "Nine Years Ago and Now," is simply a reminder that Mayor McClellan caused a general uprising of the Motion Picture Industry of Greater New York on December 23, 1907. Now, in 1916, our interests are threatened not by the Mayor, but by a decision from the Appellate Division. Last week every theater in White Plains, N. Y., WAS CLOSED ON SUNDAY.

This is getting too close to home to be comfortable. We desire your co-operation in our endeavor to combat this adverse decision. There are other local matters which are detrimental to our interests, and I consider it an opportune moment to take these matters up at this meeting. From what the undersigned knows, the final solution of the present difficulties can be attained by concerted action and co-operation.

Incidentally, I desire to state that at this meeting we are to have an election of officers. These are troublous times and a wise decision may mean the retention of your business. I am in the ring for president. NUFF SED.

Looking forward with keen interest to your support and assistance, believe me to be at your service.

Northwest Exhibitors Meet

Start Fight Against Advance Deposit System—Committees Appointed.

AT a recent meeting in Minneapolis of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest, a committee was appointed to do its utmost to bring about a speedy death to advance film deposits and a motion was carried to the effect that all deposits must be returned to members of the corporation by February 1, 1917.

The committee selected to battle the deposit system is composed of Oliver A. Rowe, Lowell V. Calvert, H. P. Greene, Fred Upham and David G. Rodgers. Among other committees appointed at the meeting were: Auditing committee, Messrs, True, Green and Calvert; convention committee, D. G. Rodgers, D. W. Chamberlain, H. P. Greene, C. W. Campbell, H. J. Breilein, W. B. Watson, M. E. Hoppenrath, C. E. Van Duzee and William Koenig; grand ball committee, James A. Keough, F. W. Thayer, C. H. Hitchcock, W. B. Watson, M. A. Hoppenrath, A. L. Hill and L. V. Calvert. The next annual convention of the Northwest body will begin on Tuesday, May 1, 1917, and end Thursday, May 3, 1917. A grand ball will be given by the exhibitors within a month, it is planned.

Thomas Furniss, Duluth, addressed the gathering and told of his efforts to increase admission prices in the Zenith City. President Gilosky requested the grievance committee to aid exhibitors Mr. and Mrs. Noyes fight against the increased license fee at Cornell, Wis. The fee was recently raised to $100 per annum. The meeting also voiced its opinion of the practice of film exchanges in renting films to schools, churches and unlicensed exhibitors and went on record as being strongly against such transactions.

Following the exhibitors' meeting, the newly formed advisory board of the National Association of the Industry met at the Zenith Film Co. exchange and Thomas Furniss outlined the work of the national body and urged more co-operation from local exchangemen. J. F. Cubberley presided at the meeting.

GETTING READY FOR NORTH CAROLINA CONVENTION.

THE stage is all set for the opening of the three-day convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of North Carolina, to be held here the latter part of this week. The prediction is that this will be the biggest event of its kind ever held in the State and the committeemen here are working hard with this end in view. As the Moving Picture World went to press a tentative program of the convention was furnished. On the opening day Mayor Kirkpatrick will address the delegates in the assembly hall at the Selwyn Hotel, the headquarters of the convention.

The Mayor's welcome will be acknowledged by President Wells and the balance of the time will be devoted to speeches by William Brady, F. J. Rembush, W. Stephen Bush and others. The convention will wind up on the third day with a ball at the auditorium, at which will be present a number of stars. Among these will be Rose Tapley of the Vitagraph and Robert Walthall of the Essanay Company. The convention sessions will also be attended by the exchange managers from Washington, Charlotte and Atlanta.

To Oppose Missouri Tax

Theatrical and Motion Picture Men Will Fight Proposed Tax of $100 Per Annum.

THE Committee on Legislation of the Theatrical Managers and Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of St. Louis, Mo., has addressed a circular letter to the members of that organization and managers throughout Missouri, advising them of the proposal to increase the tax on all legitimate and picture theaters in that state to $100 per year. The circular reads as follows:

You are no doubt aware, by reading the daily press, of the much-discussed new system of taxation contemplated for the State of Missouri, and in which motion picture theaters are to be taxed $100 per year.

The St. Louis T. M. and M. P. E. A., believing that this additional taxation to that already paid by motion picture theaters to their respective cities and to the Federal Government is an injustice, both to the theaters and their patrons and that this will result, if the measure is passed, in not only reducing the quality of the entertainment by the theater being forced to economize, but in some cases to the actual closing of theaters, appointed a special committee with full power to do all that is possible to have this contemplated action defeated in its infancy.

Progressive States will have to recognize that motion picture theaters are educational institutions, that they are one of the important and popular recreations of the masses and, furthermore, that it is through this medium that the illiterate as well as the immigrants who cannot utter a word of English can be educated and entertained and that consequently motion picture theaters, properly conducted, are an asset to any city, and that they should be encouraged rather than taxed. The State of Maine, recognizing these facts, taxes motion picture theaters only $10.00 per year.

The St. Louis T. M. and M. P. E. A., believing that a concerted action by exhibitors from all over the state will be a better influence to our end, urges you to write a letter to the Governor-elect, Frederick D. Gardner, St. Louis, Mo., and to your state representative and senator, protesting against this unjust taxation and also to use your influence among your friends to help have this measure defeated.

Should you belong to any exhibitors' organization it will be well to have your association take a similar action. Please acknowledge receipt of this communication and advise us if we can be of any assistance to you.

VON RITTBERG GOES BACK TO STAGE.

The call of the stage gets 'em all sooner or later and they abandon, for a time at least, the new for the old, the "movies" for the "talkies." Among the latest to heed the call is John von Rittberg, who will play "Professor Bhaer" in Wm. A. Brady's revival of "Little Women," which will open with matinees at the Playhouse on Monday, December 18th. The occasion of his first call to the stage is worthy of note; how as a youth with titles and a diplomatic career weighing heavily upon his too democratic shoulders, he climbed the wall of his Alma Mater and entering a theater for the first time witnessed a performance of "Beethoven's Last Days." From then on he cherished one all absorbing dream that grew to a fixed determination, and renouncing everything that birth and tradition had marked out for him he answered the "call," cloaking his illustrious identity under the modest pseudonym of "Jacques Jensen."

Mr. von Rittberg has over four years of motion picture experience; his schooling beginning with the Selig Polyscope Company in the laboratories, negative and film editing departments, where he mastered the technicalities of motion picture production. At his request he was then transferred to the stock company, where he played leads, characters and heavies and in four weeks was given, in addition, the assistant general directorship.

IZZIE SCHLANK, MINNEAPOLIS BOOKER.

Izzie Schlank, brother of President Ike Schlank, of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, is now doing the booking at the Minneapolis exchange of that concern. Manager Hewitt states that Mr. Schlank possesses a better acquaintance among the exhibitors of the Northwest than any other man in the field. His personal attention to each and every account has resulted in cementing a friendly feeling, which has had the result of big business.

Unity's New Year Policies

Proposes to Issue Only High Class Features—"Glory" the First Release.

IN ORDER to meet the growing demand for better and bigger features, the Unity officials have outlined for the New year a program of offerings to its allied exchanges in a series of feature pictures that will equal any of the standard brands now being put out. The very marked tendency in the development of the industry during the past few months toward independent productions and independent bookings gives the Unity organization the very best opportunity for carrying through to success a program that calls for quality first. Contracts have already been signed for the distribution of features far superior to any that have been offered up to this time through an independent distributing organization and during the coming year Unity will offer to its exchanges no feature that does not measure up to a high standard of excellence, marked either by the presence of well-known stars who are themselves guarantors of high-class entertainment or by the striking name and quality of the picture, which cannot be successfully produced without good principals.

For January, Unity is offering as its special a delightful rural drama, "Glory," produced under the auspices of Maude Lillian Berri, starring the delightful Juanita Hansen and the ever-humorous comedians Kolb and Dill. This is a picture that will please. Its settings are most attractive, the principals are a guarantee of good acting and the story is very appealing. Following this, Unity will announce other quality productions to prove that it will keep faith with their exchanges and show for the coming year a substantial development as a distributing company.

Violet Reed in Support of Petrova

ONE of the latest additions to the Metro-Popular Plays and Players forces is Violet Reed, who is supporting Mme. Petrova. Miss Reed was born in Chicago, educated in the public schools of Philadelphia, and then she attended Lombard University at Galesburg, Ill.

Violet Reed.

She went on the stage at the age of 18, appearing in "Coming Through the Rye." Next she was seen with Eddie Foy in "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway." Concert work appealed to her at this point in her career, and she left the stage and studied voice culture. Then she appeared in oratorio and cencert work, but abandoned that to go into motion pictures.

First she was seen with Edmund Breese in "The Spell of the Yukon," in which she played the part of Lou. Since then she has been in productions in which Mme. Petrova is the star. In "The Orchid Lady," she is Mrs. Harding, a society woman; in "The Black Butterfly," Lady Constance, an Englishwoman, and in two other Petrova plays she has prominent parts. Miss Reed is of the blonde type of beauty.

THEATER MEN FORM BOOKING ORGANIZATION.

At a meeting of prominent New York City exhibitors last week the Exhibitors' Protective Association was formed. Sidney Cohen was elected president; Mr. Meyer, of Meyer & Schneider, vice-president; John Manheimer, of Brooklyn, secretary, and Abraham Wolf, treasurer. It is understood the chief object of the new association will have to do with booking arrangements. Although but ten or a dozen exhibitors were concerned in the preliminary organization it is intended to materially extend the membership. At present the theaters represented cover seventy days' bookings on first runs. Each member of the association put down a substantial deposit as evidence of his good faith.

Kleine Enthusiastic Over 1917 Outlook

Head of K-E-S-E Service Declares Exhibitors Approve of New Booking Policy.

GEORGE KLEINE is enthusiastic over the prospects for Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service during the coming year. Mr. Kleine is now in Chicago, working with George K. Spoor, president of Essanay, and William Selig, with a view to arriving at a decision with regard to their late spring releases. The Essanay and Selig studios have their work all mapped out for the K-E-S-E service up to April 1.

"Judging by the volume of business done since the K-E-S-E service was established and by the reports from satisfied exhibitors throughout the United States, K-E-S-E is about to enjoy a record-breaking year," said Mr. Kleine to a Moving Picture World representative before leaving New York. "My special booking plan appears to appeal strongly to exhibitors, and they realize I am not trying to tie them up for too long a time, but am satisfied to have each installment of releases stand on its merits, as I am confident it means another contract for a second installment and so on throughout the year. I am especially interested in Essanay's super-feature, "The Truant Soul." I saw this picture screened in Chicago and can safely and, in fact, enthusiastically recommend it to any exhibitor who wants an exceptionally strong attraction for his theater."

From Mr. Kleine's department of information the following statement has been issued:

"K-E-S-E 1917 business will really begin with the last release this year, December 25, Essanay's "The Truant Soul," featuring Henry B. Walthall, with Mary Charleson prominent in the opposite role. This super-feature has been booked solid at the first-run houses during Christmas week and it will give K-E-S-E 1917 business a flying start in itself. If there existed any doubt as to the welcome this picture, Walthall's crowning achievement, would receive at the hands of exhibitors, it was swept away after the first trade showing at the Studebaker theater, Chicago, Tuesday, December 12. Five hundred exhibitors accepted Mr. Spoor's invitation to view the subject. Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio exhibitors were represented. The screen time is two hours, and when it was finished five hundred exhibitors voiced the opinion that it was one of the strongest pictures they had ever viewed. The majority of them at once arranged for bookings.

"It may be that enthusiasm was kindled by the presence of the stars, Mr. Walthall and Miss Charleson, who, after the picture had been shown, addressed the exhibitors for a few minutes, each receiving an ovation, Miss Charleson being fairly buried with floral offerings from admirers. It was her first big production under Essanay's banner to be released through K-E-S-E.

"The year 1917 will bring to the K-E-S-E Service Max Linder, the famous Frenchman, who is just completing his first picture for Essanay under a contract that is to run one year and calls for a picture every thirty days, each approximating thirty minutes screen time. Linder will be a big star because of his established reputation and acknowledged ability. His first picture deals with his trip to America from France, and Essanay studio folks, privileged to view it in the making, pronounce it the best bit of comedy ever screened in this country.

"Another strong feature for this service during 1917 will be the picturization of three Cohan and Harris productions at the Essanay studio. President Spoor purchased the motion picture rights for these three 'best sellers' of the stage and the work of production will begin soon after January first. These plays are 'Hawthorne of the U. S. A.,' 'Young America' and 'On Trial.' These three Essanay features will be directed by James K. Young, one of the best known directors, and each will be designed for a screen time of approximately one hour and twenty minutes.

"Selig's studios also are scenes of activity these days, preparing for the coming year. Mr. Selig has placed his best scenario writers, best directors, and best players at the exclusive disposal of the service, and is now busily engaged producing 'Little Lost Sister,' scheduled for release January 8, and 'Princess of Patches,' scheduled for February 19. Vivian Reed will probably be featured in the latter subject.

"Edison productions will figure largely in the early months of 1917, 'Master Passion' being booked for release January 22 and 'Princess from the Poorhouse' February 12, followed by 'Builder of Castles' March 11. There may be a re-christening of the 'Princess from the Poorhouse' and another name selected before release date. Edison's releases in this service have been tentatively decided upon as far ahead as April 1, when 'Law of the North" will be presented.

"At the Essanay studios Henry B. Walthall has almost completed 'Little Shoes,' scheduled for release January 15.

"Mr. Spoor is assembling a cast for 'Skinner's Dress Suit,' taken from the famous story by that name, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. This is scheduled for release February 5.

"'Understanding Adora,' another Essanay feature, is listed for release March 4.

"All in all the year 1917 gives prospect of an immense and satisfactory business for K-E-S-E and exhibitors who subscribe to this service."

Jacques Hermann

TO THE American exhibitor bent upon furnishing his patrons news of the leading photoplayers who appear upon his screen, the disinclination of French artists to bare their private life to public view is in striking contrast to the American star's appreciation of publicity. However, the Gaumont Company has been able to furnish a photograph of Jacques Hermann and give some details of his artistic career.

Jacques Hermann.

The demand for information about this popular Gaumont player is due to the prominent part he plays in four of the nine episodes of "The Vampires." His first appearance is in "The Ghost," the episode released December 7. In "The Vampires" Mr. Hermann has a particularly effective part. It is melodramatic in the extreme, and his art gives the characterization the semblance of reality that contributes greatly to the success of the photo-novel. He is cast as Enrique Moreno, a criminal who poses as a gentleman from the Argentine Republic. In reality he is a powerful competitor of the great French crime trust known as The Vampires. How he is at last forced to join the trust forms the grand climax of the several episodes in which he figures.

Mr. Hermann first attracted notice on the Parisian stage by his finished performance of the part of the youth in Henri Bernstein's "The Thief," the part played in America by Leonard Ide. His success in this stirring drama was responsible for his advance to the position of a leading man, a place more difficult to attain in France than it is here. His success on the speaking stage was responsible for his acquisition by the Gaumont Company. It is expected that he will be seen in other French dramas imported for release as special Mutual productions.

FRANK POWELL SIGNS MORE PLAYERS.

Two more well-known players from Broadway have been signed by Frank Powell to support Marjorie Rambeau, the star of "Cheating Cheaters," at the Eltinge Theater in New York City, in her first production released through the Mutual Film Corporation, "The Greater Woman."

Miss Josephine Park, who has just completed her engagement in David Belasco's sixty-three week Broadway success, "The Boomerang," is at work at the Powell studios at College Point, Long Island. So is Aubrey Beattie, long a favorite on the legitimate stage and prominent in numerous Broadway successes, who will make his screen debut when this picture is released.

Mr. Powell also has engaged Robert Elliott as leading man for Nance O'Neil in the first of O'Neil pictures which will be distributed through the Mutual. This will be a picturization of "Mrs. Balfame," the first of Gertrude Atherton's novels to be transferred to the screen, and in which Mr. Elliott will play "Dwight Rush."

More Harris Pictures Coming

Syndicate Being Formed to Produce Stories Written by the Well Known Song Writer.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the formation of a syndicate to produce scripts from the pen of Charles K. Harris, the man who has made a fortune as a song writer. Already three stories have been selected for production. The first will be "A Mother's Duty; or, A Life's Lesson." The second and third are "Fools in Bohemia," and "Break the News to Mother." The latter is based on the popular song. It was said early last week the organization of the producing company would be completed in a few days.

Charles K. Harris.

For the basis of "A Mother's Duty" Mr. Harris has taken a pathetic incident that came under his own observation—a story of life in New York. The author declared in his office the other day that his treatment of the subject was sure to arouse the ire of men in New York, that they would deny the truthfulness of the conditions he was going to expose, but he knew his ground—knew that he was reflecting actual conditions and he was prepared to defend his story against all comers. This first subject of the new company will treat of the stage, of the hardships endured by the hundreds, the thousands, of girls who come to the big town with theatrical ambitions and little or no money to see them through.

"In 'A Mother's Duty' there will be no tinge of white slavery, there will be no revolver, no safe-cracking; there will be nothing to offend," said Mr. Harris. "I believe when you see it you will agree with me there is a punch in every reel."

Mr. Harris called attention to the fact that in the six pictures produced from his pen there had not been a single elimination by any censoring authority. He said it would be his aim to continue along the same line. The writer of songs and the author of scripts said it had been known to the trade for some time that he had scripts to sell, but there had been a reluctance on the part of producers to pay his price for them—$2,500 and a percentage on the business done by the subject. When Mr. Harris evolves a story he writes it out as a novel, puts enough copies on sale to enable him to obtain a copyright and lays the script in his drawer. No scenario ever leaves his possession unless it is sold. He said his sympathy went out to those who were compelled to send stories from one studio to another.

"When I go to see a motion picture I want to see the working out of a story of which I have no previous knowledge," said Mr. Harris. "I believe there must be many of the same mind. That is why I can't get interested in adaptations of plays, with a great majority of which I am familiar. I have been a playgoer all my life. I want to see a story of today, of America as it is now, one that reflects the problems that have to be met by the man in the street.

"I believe in starting a story with a punch. I have no patience with the old idea of the playwright, of a climax in the third act, and let it go at that. I believe the public is tired of that idea. That is why I believe there is going to be a change—that the producers will have to come to the authors who can do original stuff. We hear there are many producers who will pay any money to get stories, but I know of good writers who have not yet seen enough money in it to tempt them to give up their time to evolving strong stories for the screen. They will come to the motion picture industry when the producers offer them the right money.

"Get your real stories and you can do away with your high-priced stars. People say, 'Where are you going to get your ideas?' I will stand over on that corner and in half an hour get enough ideas for five scenarios. You don't have to dig into musty old books or shopworn plays. People are not interested in what happened in Europe hundreds of years ago.

"I do not believe in death scenes, either. Those who go to pictures have got troubles enough. There are ways to make your audience cry as well as laugh without dragging in the Grim Reaper. And send them away happy, but do it in a logical way. Frame your story to that end."

The Harris pictures will be made in New York City. One of the men composing the syndicate owns a studio in this city, and this will be the home of the new company.

Marie Dressler to Play for Mutual

Two Million Dollar Company Organized to Exploit the Famous Comedienne.

MARIE DRESSLER, famed star of stage comedy, is forming a two-million-dollar corporation for the production of a series of pictures for distribution through the Mutual Film Corporation. President John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation has confirmed rumors of the deal, following a series of negotiations opened at the Mutual's New York offices and closed at the Chicago executive offices between Mr. Freuler and J. H. Dalton, husband of Miss Dressler.

Marie Dressler.

"Contracts have been drawn," said Mr. Freuler, "and the formation of the corporation is under way. The organization is in the hands of Mr. Dalton, Crawford Livingston and myself. The plans call for ample capital for the decidedly pretentious scale on which the Dressler studios will make these pictures for Mutual distribution."

It is understood the first work of the Marie Dressler Motion Picture Corporation, the official name of the new concern, will be the production of twelve two-reel feature pictures based upon and under the title of "Tillie's Nightmare," the successful Marie Dressler hit on the speaking stage.

While the twelve two-reelers represent the immediate, first work of the Dressler-Mutual studios Miss Dressler has other important plans, including the production of a series of special feature productions starring a number of her famous artist friends from the fields of the opera and dramatic stage. These players are American stars of international fame.

Putting One Over on the Reviewer

How It Happened He Criticised Something in a Picture That Actually Was Not "In" It.

HOW a reviewer sometimes may criticise or praise a scene in a subject which is not "in" the picture as the public sees it was illustrated last week in the case of "Oliver Twist." At the trade showing a couple of days prior to its release the keen eye of Ben Schulberg, publicity chief of the Famous Players-Lasky company, noted a look of pain on the face of the World man as the dozen reviewers left the room at the ending of the picture. "What's the matter? Don't you like that ending?" he inquired. "Do you?" was the reply. Mr. Schulberg did not answer.

A few days later, as a group of reviewers were awaiting at the Paramount offices the putting on of a show, one of the party remarked that "Oliver Twist" was making a hit at the Strand.

"Did you notice the ending, how Oliver Twist faded into Marie Doro in an elaborate gown?" asked the World man.

"It didn't happen," was the answer.

"How about that, Bennie?" inquired the reviewer, turning to Mr. Schulberg.

"Naturally enough," was the response, with a smile that indicated he felt the smokes were on the World man. "When I got back to the office Friday night I recommended the finishing scene be eliminated. It went through, and on Saturday morning all exchangese were wired to cut it out."

And if the publicity chief had called up 3510 Madison Square the only growl on the picture would have been cut out, too.

International Two Years Old

Hearst Motion Picture Interest Shows Remarkable Development in Short Period.

THE current month marks the entrance of the International Film Service upon its third year of active participation in the moving picture industry. It was incorporated on December 3, 1914, following the great success attending the production of "The Perils of Pauline." Its growth has been phenomenal, and it stands today at the beginning of its third year in the front rank of both producing and distributing companies. The International quickly outgrew the original offices on Fifty-ninth street and now occupies two entire floors at the top of the new Godfrey Building, at Seventh avenue and Forty-ninth street, New York, in the center of the moving picture district. It has fifteen branches in all the principal cities of the United States, besides a number of agencies through which the work of distribution is done effectively and expeditiously.

The list of achievements by this company in the two years of its existence is a notable one. Besides the "Perils of Pauline" it sponsored "The Exploits of Elaine," "The Goddess" and the "Adventures of Wallingford." Early in the present year it went more extensively into the business of producing and distributing with the serials, "The Mysteries of Myra" and "Beatrice Fairfax." In addition to these, it has ready for release on January 1 the spectacular patriotic photoplay, "Patria," by Louis Joseph Vance, with the world-renowned Mrs. Vernon Castle in the title role.

In the line of features, the International has also recently released three Golden Eagle Features, "Jaffrey," which proved immensely popular; "The Flower of Faith" and "The Ocean Waif," all of which are playing to big houses all over the country. Another Golden Eagle feature soon to be released is "When My Ship Comes In," made from the story of that name by Gouverneur Morris, which was first published in Hearst's Magazine. Jane Grey is the star of this picture.

The International also purposes to release at stated intervals a series of "adventure" photoplays, the first of which was "The Jockey of Death," one of the most successful "thrillers" ever screened. It is doing a great business with no indication of ever losing its popularity.

One of the most important departments of the International is that given up to the news of the day. The newsreels formerly released by Hearst-Selig, and later by Hearst-Vitagraph, now appear under the name of the "Hearst International News Pictorial" and are released twice each week, recording in pictures all the important happenings of the world.

In addition to all this the International releases each week what it calls a split-reel, containing a scenic or an educational feature and a cartoon by one of a large staff of famous artists. Some of these, whose work in animated form is controlled exclusively by the International, are Tom Powers, F. Opper, George McManus, James Swinnerton, George Herriman and Walt Hoban.

The International also releases a fashion reel, depicting all the latest creations from Paris, London and New York, in women's apparel, with the stars in the latest Broadway theatrical productions as models, a distinctly novel feature in this branch of film work.

McClure Pictures Publicity

Magazine Advertising in Twenty-five Publications One of Many Aids to Exhibitor Showing "Seven Deadly Sins."

McCLURE Pictures, Inc., announces this week the details of the campaign of magazine advertising that will be one of the many publicity aids for the exhibitor who books the "Seven Deadly Sins," the McClure series of seven five-reel features that is to be released by Superpictures, Inc., through the Triangle exchanges.

The fiction story of the "Seven Deadly Sins" is now running in the Ladies' World, which has a sworn circulation of more than a million copies each month. Twenty-four other magazines of national circulation will carry large displays heralding the "Seven Deadly Sins." The total sworn circulation of the twenty-five magazines used for advertising the "Seven Deadly Sins" is 11,421,100 copies of each issue. Estimating that each copy is read by five persons, the total circulation of "Seven Deadly Sins" displays will be more than fifty million.

The magazine advertising campaign will extend over January, February, March and April. The weeklies in which the "Seven Deadly Sins" will be advertised are Collier's, Leslie's and Judge. The monthly periodicals on the list include the Ladies' World, McClure's, Pictorial Review, People's Home Journal, Today's, Metropolitan, Motion Picture Magazine, Motion Picture Classic, Photoplay, Pictureplay, Film Fun, Modern Priscilla, McCall's, Munsey's, Mother's Magazine, Sunset, Argosy, Ainslee's, Popular, Smith's, Vogue and Vanity Fair.

Besides the magazine campaign thousands of lines of advertising will be carried in the daily newspapers throughout the country.

In order to test the interest in the "Seven Deadly Sins," coupons are being inserted in many of the magazine advertisements. These call for a Shirley Mason souvenir and are to be filled out by motion picture fans who want to see the "Seven Deadly Sins."

Although this coupon has appeared thus far only in the Ladies' World, nearly 100,000 motion picture patrons have sent them in, each one naming the theater in his home town in which he wants the series to be shown.

Essanay Buys Cohan Hits

Three of George M.'s Best Sellers Will Be Produced—James Young Engaged as Director.

THREE of the greatest stage hits of recent years—Cohan & Harris productions—will be produced by Essanay. President George K. Spoor has purchased the motion picture rights to these "best sellers" of the stage and work of production will commence soon after January 1. The plays are: "Hawthorne of the U. S. A," "Young America," "On Trial."

The first named was one of the most popular types of romantic plays ever staged. It enjoyed phenomenal runs in New York, Chicago and on the road. Douglas Fairbanks was the star. It deals with the adventures of a daring young American in a mythical kingdom. He reforms the entire system of monarchy and puts it on an American basis, naturally wedding the princess.

"Young America" was the intensely human story built around a boy's love for a dog, which came out to make an instantaneous hit last season. It has the appeal required by film followers and is certain to make an ideal photoplay, in the belief of Essanay officials. The play was written by Fred Ballard.

Few dramatic offerings of the past decade have met with the success of "On Trial." This deep, appealing play won crowded houses wherever staged. Its success in New York and Chicago was notable in the history of the American theater.

James Young, one of the best known directors of the motion picture industry, has been obtained to produce these features, each of which will be designed for a screen time of approximately one hour and twenty minutes. Mr. Young's career on the stage and in pictures has given him an excellent record, with many strong Vitagraph, World and Lasky features to his credit. His work has included the filming of the greatest work of America's best known playwrights.

No cast for any of the three productions has yet been announced by Essanay, but work on the first will begin early in January. In each the leading stars of the Chicago company will be seen, promises George K. Spoor. These plays will be put on with careful regard for detail and with every possible expenditure. Good backgrounds, both exterior and interior, will be obtained regardless of cost. Coupled with the assurance of excellent production, Mr. Spoor believes the success with which these plays have been met by thousands of theater-goers will make them certain hits in photoplay form, and features that possess an extraordinary advertising value to the exhibitor.

PREPARING FOR UNIVERSAL BALL.

Preparations are under way for the annual ball and dinner of the Universal employees, which will be held at Reisenweber's, Saturday, January 13. Ever since the organization of the Universal it has been the custom to set aside one night a year which is devoted entirely to merriment and where every employee of the company, from President Carl Laemmle to the third assistant office boy, meet on an equal footing.

Much of the success of the Universal has been due to the unwavering loyalty of the employees, and the annual gathering of the entire working force has contributed to the growth of this loyalty. On this occasion there is no distinction between the heads of departments and their workers. All are on the same plane and all enter into the spirit of the affair with happy abandon.

Many surprises are in store for the guests this year, but the officials in charge of the ball are maintaining a strict reticence and refuse to give an inkling of what is planned.

Goldwyn Gets Big Playwrights

Veiller, Hopwood, Cobb and Megrue Will Aid New Producing Company.

THE Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, the new Goldfish-Selwyn-Hopkins alliance, makes announcement that it will have first call upon the services and advice of Bayard Veiller, Avery Hopwood, Irvin S. Cobb, Margaret Mayo, Edgar Selwyn and Roi Cooper Megrue. All of these are playwrights who have provided a long list of successful plays that established the theatrical producing firm of Selwyn & Co. as one of the biggest factors in American theatricals.

Margaret Mayo, as the head of the scenario department of Goldwyn Pictures, in seeking to create a powerful literary organization for the new company, naturally gave first thought to the men whose staged works have had such immense box office values.

Mr. Hopwood, with "Seven Days," "Nobody's Widow," "Fair and Warmer," and "Our Little Wife," had created for himself as an author a high position and had thus far resisted all efforts to induce him to write for the screen.

Bayard Veiller, as the author of "Within the Law," wrote the play that has been the greatest moneymaker of the past decade and seems now to have duplicated that initial success with another quite as great, "The Thirteenth Chair." Thus far his work has not been seen on the screen.

Irvin S. Cobb, with an audience of millions of readers in every part of the world, has with two minor exceptions undertaken nothing for the screen, so that his first multi-reel for Goldwyn Pictures will be in the nature of a debut for him in pictures.

Roi Cooper Megrue, now brought into authorship for the cinema, has written in quick succession, "Under Cover," "It Pays to Advertise," "Under Fire," and "Under Sentence," and "Potash and Perlmutter in Wall Street," in collaboration with Montague Glass, and "Back Home," in association with Irvin S. Cobb. He is one of the newer forces in the American theater, a dramatist of remarkable vitality and capacity for surprises. Only one of his plays has ever had screen production.

Miss Mayo as author of "Polly of the Circus," "Baby Mine," "Twin Beds," and other great plays, has proved herself to be perhaps the foremost writer of delightful farces among all American authors. She has two new productions ready for Goldwyn stars.

Edgar Selwyn, besides having been both an actor and playwright and having other productions for Goldwyn Pictures, brings his fine knowledge of stagecraft and management to the new company.

Arthur Hopkins, the discoverer and joint producer with Cohan & Harris of "On Trial," one of the stage's most sensational successes, has always revealed an almost psychic sense with regard to "new authors." Mr. Hopkins will also announce through Goldwyn Pictures Corporation in a few days a distinguished group of literary experts whose cooperation he will have both in stage and art management. The entry of this group into film production will give added prestige to the motion picture.

As indicative of the atmosphere that invests the new company and the type of work which seems to be expected of it, there is interest in the fact that some of the most distinguished artists, scenic designers and decorators have tendered their services, without cost, to the Goldwyn Pictures for listing as advisory experts on production.

New Color Process

Boston Men Said to Have Perfected Method Applicable to Motion Pictures—To Make Dramatic Subjects in Florida.

A MOTION picture producing company from the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation of Boston, Mass., under the management of C. A. "Doc" Willat, started on its journey for Jacksonville, Florida, on Monday, December 11, to begin work on the first of a series of multiple reel dramatic subjects by the new color process. Wray Physioc has been engaged as director, and among the players are Grace Darmond, Niles Welch, Charles Brandt, Herbert Carleton, Caroline Harris, Joe Dailey, George De Carleton, Louis Mountjoy, Louise DeCosta, Virginia Lee, Violet Axzell and Evelyn Axzell. The first story was written by Anthony P. Kelly.

The new color process, which is known as Technicolor, was perfected by Herbert F. Kalmus, Dr. Daniel F. Comstock and W. Burton Wescott, who, it is said, have been working upon the color process for several years and who claim to have some thirty patents covering every phase of the work. It is said that the examples of photography by Technicolor methods show that the inventors have overcome many of the faults that have baffled others who have essayed to produce motion pictures in natural colors.

"Doc" Willat, who is known as an expert in motion picture photography, has been working with the Technicolor people for the past several months.

The results of the work in Florida will be awaited with interest, as it will probably demonstrate the practicability of the new color process.

Sherrill Tells His Plans

Outlines the Frohman Amusement Corporation's Purposes for 1917—No Sensational Titles.

THE numerous offers from state right buyers on the Frohman Amusement Corporation's special release, "The Witching Hour," is the deciding factor in the final formulation of the plans of that company to hereafter produce photodramas of a special character.

William L. Sherrill, president of that company, has had under consideration the plan of manufacturing photoplays that might be released as extraordinary attractions and which would not be classed as a program feature. However, before definitely determining upon this policy, Mr. Sherrill awaited the reception which would be accorded "The Witching Hour," and has become convinced that the independent state rights buyer, in order to uphold profitable program release, must have an extraordinary or special production to offer his exhibitor.

"I was rather dubious," stated Mr. Sherrill, "in the first instance concerning the popularity of the one hundred dollar a day feature. I was not altogether convinced that the state right buyer would pay a sum commensurate with the outlay and endeavors put into an extraordinary attraction, but I am free to state that I have been more than agreeably surprised with the attitude of the state right buyers, as is evidenced by their willingness to pay according to the drawing power, all things considered, of a production."

"We not alone devoted to the making of 'The Witching Hour' twice as much time as is ordinarily put into a high class feature but did not stint in the expenditure necessary to make that production 100 per cent. perfect. Even in territory ordinarily considered rather meagre field for state right exploitation, I received offers on that production that substantiated the judgment I have now formed that in every state in the Union there is a healthy and consistent demand for productions of unusual merit.

"It is because of this state of facts that I have determined to produce photoplays embodying stories that are the product of the best literary and dramatic minds and that I shall spare no expense in their staging. I do confess, however, that I find it difficult to procure just the right kind of material.

"I feel that I have the proper appreciation of what the public wants and I am hewing away from the ultra-sensational and the appeal to passing fancy.

"Furthermore, and I think this is altogether important, I have had and will steadfastly refuse to produce attractions with the drawing power centered in a sensational title. It is not altogether strange that the public has justly awakened to the fact that a sensational title means nothing in a show that runs anywhere from an hour and a quarter to two hours. The trade may confidently look forward to some unusual examples of the progress of the art of cinematography from the Frohman Amusement Corporation."

AL SANTELL DIRECTS KOLB AND DILL.

Al Santell is the latest scenario writer to turn director at the studios of the American-Mutual Company at Santa Barbara, Cal. For the past few months Mr. Santell has been centralizing most of his work on the productions featuring C. William Kolb and Max Dill. But it was not until the beginning of the production of "Beloved Rogues," the fifth picture featuring the Mutual's famous character men, that Mr. Santell went over into the directing field.

B. F. BRENNAN RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS.

B. F. Brennan of the Brennan Booking Agency, New Orleans, and also of the Iberville and the Hip Theater, is receiving the congratulations of his friends. It's a ten-pounder, it's a son, and he arrived on December 8.

Come on exhibitor, your only hope lies in a new Moses who will rid you of all your troubles, make you all successful and happy ever after at a dollar a throw. Oh! It's a great "Come On" game! Are you on?

Geraldine Farrar as Joan of Arc

Photodrama on the Life of the Maid of Orleans Soon to Be Shown in Forty-fourth Street Theater—De Mille Selects Title, "Joan the Woman."

CECIL B. DE MILLE'S ten-part photoplay based on the life of the immortal Joan of Arc and entitled "Joan the Woman," with Miss Geraldine Farrar as the star, will be shown publicly for the first time on Christmas Day in the Forty-fourth Street theater, New York. The presentation will be made by Jesse L. Lasky and the engagement will continue indefinitely at that theater. Future exhibitions in other cities continue a matter of mystery.

Scene from "Joan of Arc" (De Mille).

The photoplay was written by Miss Jeanie MacPherson. It took more than four months in the making. Miss Farrar was at the Lasky studios in California all last summer appearing in the part of the Maid of Orleans. No figures have been given as to the cost of the spectacle, although an intimation of the lavishness of the production is contained in the list of the cast, among whom, in addition to Miss Farrar, are Wallace Reid, Hobart Bosworth, Theodore Roberts, Raymond Hatton, Charles Clary, Cleo Ridgely, Marjorie Daw, James Neill, Horace B. Carpenter, Tully Marshall and others. Alvin Wyckoff was the photographer. Mr. De Mille, who is director-general of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, has devoted himself practically exclusively to this master production for more than the past half year.

Leaving Los Angeles a week ago Mr. De Mille stopped in Chicago long enough to show the completed picture to Miss Farrar, who is in that city appearing with the Chicago Opera Company preliminary to her engagement with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York. Jesse L. Lasky also attended the private exhibition, having gone to Chicago from New York to meet the party.

Considerable favorable comment was caused by Mr. De Mille's announcement on his arrival in the East that he had named the photoplay "Joan the Woman" instead of "Joan of Arc."

"The title 'Joan the Woman' far better expresses the thought of the photoplay," said Mr. De Mille, while discussing this detail. "It is true that no woman of history in all time is better known to the public of all nations than Joan of Arc, or the Maid of Orleans, as she is called, but the thought we were particularly eager to convey was the humanness of this remarkable woman, who at nineteen was commander-in-chief of the armies of France and who single-handed awoke a nation from an unpatriotic sleep into such activity and valor that France for all time has continued a free nation.

"I shall remain in the East for several weeks, until after the premiere of the picture in the Forty-fourth Street theater. Part of my time will be devoted to the eastern studios. While here I will supervise the preliminaries incidental to the making of the George M. Cohan photoplay, 'Broadway Jones,' which will be released by Artcraft Pictures Corporation."

Since he was last in the East Mr. De Mille has been made president of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company, one of the subsidiaries of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. He said that the co-operative plan of producing between the Lasky and Morosco studios in Hollywood was working for greater efficiency and better photoplays.

Ivan's Past Performances

The Director General of Ivan Films Pleased with the Year's Work.

"LOOKING back upon the road of endeavor, the Ivan Film Corporation can point with pride to the record it has made in its productions during the past year," says Ivan Abramson. "Such photoplays as the following, which the exhibitors have entitled box office winners, are worthy of special mention: 'The Faded Flower,' 'Her Surrender' and 'The Sex Lure.'"

Ivan Abramson.

Ivan Abramson, the director general of this concern, gives strict adherence to the policy of casting each photoplay with players who are prominent for their ability and aptness for the parts assigned; for his logical stories, his selection of exterior and interior scenic effects.

"Don Dundas, scenario editor of Ivan, should be specially mentioned for his composition of stories containing logic, stage technique, human interest and strong, tense situations," said Mr. Abramson.

"The very wide field now open to the Ivan Films is the best evidence of this fact. The establishment of an exchange in Boston and one in Buffalo makes it possible for the exhibitors of New England and upper New York to be in direct touch with Ivan Films' representatives and be enabled to obtain prompt bookings. The quick sales of state rights to all of its releases is more evidence of the popularity of Ivan Films.

"The arrangement made with the Hawk Film Company of New York, which will distribute the Ivan Films in all centers of the world outside of this country and Canada, is another proof of the world-wide demand these plays have created for themselves," continued Mr. Abramson. "To start the New Year with a photoplay of rare distinction, I have just completed the selection of title, theme, story, star cast and settings for a new play. This play will have a far-reaching effect morally, artistically and financially."

PATHE CLUB ENJOYS THEATER PARTY AND SUPPER.

Pathe Club members and friends to the number of 190 enjoyed a theater party and supper on the night of Saturday, December 9. Seats had been secured for "The Century Girl" at the Century theater, and after the performance supper was served in a private ball room at Reisenweber's.

An interesting feature during the evening was the raising by subscription of a Christmas fund of 1,000 francs by C. R. Seelye for the benefit of the widows and children of Pathe employees in France who have been killed in the war.

Club President J. A. Berst, through illness, was unable to attend. Secretary J. W. Kyle acted as committee on arrangements for the affair and attended to all details in a very satisfactory manner. Other officers and governors present were Vice President Paul Brunet, Treasurer G. Bardet, M. Ramirez-Torres, G. A. Smith, P. A. Parsons, F. C. Davidson and L. E. Franconi.

The living counterpart of the Pathe trademark was saluting the dawn when the party finally broke up, and the affair was voted the best of the many pleasant outings and dinners the club has had under Mr. Berst's presidency.

Stock—we mean the engraved kind, of course—may be sold or it may occasionally be given for "services rendered" and "in consideration of one dollar, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged." 'Tis wonderful what can be purchased for a dollar sometimes.

The Drews at Columbia

Comedian Lectures Dr. Freeburg's Cinema Constructors at the University—Mrs. Drew Applauds.

MR. AND MRS. SIDNEY DREW were the features of the meeting of the Cinema Constructors, at Columbia University, December 14. The Cinema Constructors is a study club composed of the pupils of the Photoplay Class of Columbia University and the graduates and is conducted by Victor O. Freeburg, PhD., professor of photoplay construction. It meets weekly and generally considers some specific photoplay, either a current production or one loaned for projection before the club. The Metro has loaned several Drew comedies which were compared with the original scripts and the improvements noted, so the players were no strangers to the club when they made their debut in person. Mr. Drew read a carefully prepared speech of three typewritten pages, covering the points brought out in an interview with him printed in these pages last summer and then, striking out from the script added much more of real interest to photoplay writers, dwelling upon the need for compactness of construction and the omission of unnecessary scenes that cumbered the story though they might be effective enough in themselves. He also made additional reference to plausibility and contended that no actor could do good work in a part he felt to be unreal. Following the chat their Duplicity was projected and Mr. Drew drove home his lesson in plausibility by explaining that in the original script Mrs. Drew was caused to speak to her husband while in disguise and Mr. Drew contended that no matter how hard she might seek to change its tone or timbre, no married man could fail to recognize his master's voice, and so the story was charged to let in a second and real servant to do the talking.

Mrs. Drew was suffering from a cold and did not speak, but added considerably to the enjoyment of the club by greeting them after the meeting broke up.

William Wright in Jacksonville

Spends Day With Studio Manager Boyd, Then Rushes Back to New York.

WORK on Kalem's police reporter series being produced in Jacksonville, Florida, is proceeding most satisfactorily, states William Wright, who has just returned from a flying trip to the southern film city made in the interests of his company.

"Grant, Police Reporter," with George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby featured, bids fair to duplicate the unrivaled success of "The Hazards of Helen" series, now in its third year. Larkin, says Wright, has been entertaining the natives with never before attempted daredevil feats: leaping off roof tops, swinging across dizzy spaces on telephone wires and otherwise risking his life; the inevitable result has been that special police protection has been necessary to keep the camera "lanes" clear.

The Kalem Company, says Mr. Wright, feels greatly elated over the cordial reception accorded its latest series by the rank and file of exhibitors, a great many of whom have written most enthusiastic letters about "Grant, Police Reporter," expressing the hope that the series will be continued indefinitely.

Mr. Wright also hints of important news to be given out to exhibitors in the near future, the gist of which is "watch Kalem." This bit of "watchful waiting" will surely be endured because, with Phil Lang, scenario editor, and Frank Clark, writer, stirring things up on the coast, and the signing of a new author almost every week, Kalem's plans for the future are likely to become "news" at any moment.

JURY DISAGREES IN IMPERIAL CASE.

In the case of the Imperial Film Exchange against the Motion Picture Patents Company and the Kalem, Vitagraph and Pathe Companies, an action for malicious prosecution growing out of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against the plaintiff corporation, and tried before Justice Hotchkiss in New York Supreme Court, the jury brought in a disagreement of nine to three in favor of the plaintiff, the Imperial Film Exchange, on Tuesday, December 12.

IMPORTANT TO EXHIBITORS.

As will be noted in a two-page advertisement in this issue, the Mack Sennett Keystone comedies, one each week, beginning in January, will be available to exhibitors regardless of program. This will be a reversal of the precedents of the past four years and a half, which period covers the age of the brand. The announcement will constitute news of the first importance to exhibitors.

At the Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of December 17 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"The Traveling Salesman" at the Strand.

FRANK McINTYRE made his debut as a moving picture star at the Strand Theater the week of December 17 in a film adaptation of his best known stage success, "The Traveling Salesman." The picture is an entertaining mixture of comedy and drama, in which this jovial comedian is thoroughly at home. Among those in support of Mr. McIntyre are Doris Kenyon, Harry Northrup, Julia Stuart, Russell Bassett, Harry Blackmore, James O'Neill, Jr., Harry Lee and Richard Gray.

The second installment of "Our American Boys on the European Battle Fields," another chapter of Ditmar's "Living Book of Nature," new scenic studies, a new comedy and the Strand Topical Review were also shown.

Grace Hoffman again heads the list of soloists.

"Truthful Tulliver" at the Rialto.

The Rialto offered William S. Hart in "Truthful Tulliver" as its principal dramatic attraction during the week. The screen play is all that the most exacting lover of western drama could ask. Hart plays the part of a mining town newspaper publisher who incurs the enmity of the saloon and dance hall element. The romance of the story finds an ideal exponent in Alma Reubens, and there is excellent work on the part of Norbert A. Myles, Nina Byron, Walter Perry and Milton Ross.

A burlesque on the story of Damon and Pythias, "The Grand Canons of New York," and the topical digest were the other picture numbers. Vincente Ballester and Jenny Defau were retained as the soloists.

"The People vs. John Doe" at the Broadway.

At the Broadway Theatre the Universal Film Manufacturing Company presented for the second and last week the gripping anti-punishment propaganda feature, "The People vs. John Doe." The presentation was made under the auspices of the Humanitarian Cult, of which Misha Appelbaum is founder and leader and which numbers something over 100,000 members. The story has to do with the arrest, trial, imprisonment and sentencing of a man accused of murder and doomed to the electric chair. He is proven innocent at the eleventh hour and saved through the efforts of friends. There is much that is interesting in the story, and the abuses to which circumstantial evidence is put is forcefully brought home.

Gertrude Glover

GERTRUDE GLOVER'S appearance in "The Phantom Buccaneer" is her first in a feature under Essanay's banner. Miss Glover is one of the youngest stars on the screen.

For the past year this dainty young miss has been appearing in shorter productions at the Essanay's studios in support of Bryant Washburn and Richard C. Travers. Among them are "What I Said Goes," "The Final Fraud," "His Little Wife" and "Our People." She had parts in "The Misleading Lady" and "The Discard." Her work has met with such marked success that when "The Phantom Buccaneer" was filmed she was given the leading feminine role. Richard C. Travers is the leading man.

Gertrude Glover.

Miss Glover is a Chicago girl, having received her primary education in that city's public schools. Her father was the late Lyman G. Glover, noted dramatic critic and afterward theatrical manager. It was through her father's work that she obtained her first knowledge of theatrical work. She studied for the stage, but before her debut received a satisfactory offer from Essanay which she accepted. Miss Glover has been with that organization ever since.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Invoking The Law

Recent Outrages by Chicago Rival Operators' Unions to Be Probed by State Attorney Hoyne.

THE prolonged fight between the two rival moving picture operators' unions in this city, which has been waged for several years past with more or less violence, has evidently reached the culminating point.

State Attorney Maclay Hoyne has begun an inquiry into the struggle and is making an investigation of the recent bomb outrages and outbreaks between the rival organizations, with the object of grand jury action in case the evidence is sufficient.

"I am going to put a stop to it," said Mr. Hoyne recently. "The men who are guilty will be sent to the penitentiary. No serious consequence to life, but considerable to property has resulted so far, but one can never tell when it may.

"The men responsible for these things carry revolvers and are armed. They should and will be sent to the penitentiary. The police department has done nothing about it, but they could stop it if they were active."

On Tuesday, December 12, four detectives from State Attorney Hoyne's office and four from the police detective bureau raided the headquarters of the International Alliance of Theatrical Employes and Moving Picture Operators in the Baltimore Building, 219 S. Dearborn street, where thirty-five members of the union were seized. In the safe were found five sticks of dynamite, nine fulminating caps, six time fuses, a loaded revolver and 75 feet of electric wire.

The following men were arrested and booked on charges of keeping explosives: Jos ph P. Armstrong, president of Local 110; Arthur E. Allison, business agent; Edward W. Collier, secretary and treasurer; Hal L. Johnstone, financial secretary; Arthur Hollins, Herman Goldberg, Fred E. Havill, Harold R. Swimming and Frank R. Connelly.

The men taken claim that the arrest was a "frame-up" and that the explosives were "planted."

Since the ousting of Jack "Miller," business agent of Local 110, about two months ago, several successors have been appointed and infractions of the law have shown an increase.

Reel Fellows' Club Elects New Officers.

The fourth annual election of officers of the Reel Fellows' Club of Chicago was held in the new club rooms, 127 West Madison street, Thursday evening, December 14, and was the most hotly contested battle for offices in the history of the organization.

Three tickets had been in the field for more than a month, but at the election, after the smoke had cleared from a three-hour battle for ballots, it was found that the entire progressive ticket, headed by Ralph O. Proctor, had won out.

The following were elected: Ralph O. Proctor, president; Richard C. Travers and M. G. Watkins, vice-presidents; Eugene A. Hamburg, secretary; A. E. Curtis, assistant secretary; Harry C. Miller, treasurer.

Board of Govenors: R. R. Nehls, Wm. J. Sweeney, Don. J. Bell, Fred W. Wild, Jr., and David Russakov.

Looking Backward at Moving Pictures.

While rummaging his old files recently George Kleine chanced to run across a letter written by him to licensed film exchanges, which bears the date of February 9, 1909. He handed it to me for perusal, and on reading it I was impressed that it was worthy of reproduction in print, if for nothing else than to show the great stride made by moving pictures in the past eight years.

The letter referred to a copy of the Lincoln number of the Chicago Tribune of Sunday, February 7, which had been mailed to each exchange, and which contained a series of advertisements which were the first demonstration of a broad policy along the lines of constructive work for the popularization of moving pictures. It then proceeds:

In the theatrical section of the Tribune you will find a half page advertisement by the Essanay Company and half page given to our Gaumont and Urban-Eclipse films; and in section 7 of the paper you will find a full page advertisement of the Selig Polyscope Company, as well as a full page advertisement signed by Prof. Starr of the Chicago University.

It is advisable that exchanges grasp the purpose which we have in mind, and that they bring up this matter with their customers in order that the latter may realize the broad purpose which is before us. The following facts are given merely to enable exchanges to place an argument properly before theater owners.

The article on motion pictures in section 7, which does not mention the name of any interested dealer, is paid for by Messrs. Spoor, Selig and myself. This space cost $1,200 and the writing of the advertisement $100. It is the best article ever written from the standpoint of the outsider on motion pictures.

Mr. Selig's separate advertisement cost him $1,200. Mr. Spoor's and mine, each $600.

It will be noted that these advertisements are not direct business getters for us, the main purpose being to interest that large fraction of the people who think motion pictures are on a low plane and beneath their attention.

In a word, we want to make customers for the theaters who will benefit before either the exchanges or the manufacturers can obtain any return from this class of work.

Further advertisements of this nature will appear in the Chicago American "Lakes to the Gulf" edition, and in the New York Sun, which will be issued the Sunday before Taft's inauguration. The co-operation of all exchanges is asked, so that these matters can be properly placed before their customers that they may realize the time, thought and money that are being devoted to their interest.

Those of us in the business at that time can recall the standing of moving pictures as an entertainment. So-called "respectable" people were ashamed to be seen going into or coming out of a picture theater, if "theater" it could be named. Intelligent people scoffed at moving pictures and the "high-brow" element passed by on the other side.

The "Starr" article well deserves the place of merit given it by Mr. Kleine. Everyone will remember it by its title, "The World Before Your Eyes." It has been translated into every civilized language, and has been read by untold millions. It was the eloquent harbinger that brought the better housing of pictures, an innumerable throng of patrons and a wonderful improvement in pictures themselves.

When Messrs. Kleine, Selig and Spoor arranged for the writing of the article and paid $1,200 for the space it occupied in the Tribune—not to speak of the large sums spent by them to bring about the exaltation of the moving picture industry by the broad policy which they espoused—they unwittingly became a trio of immortals in the history of moving pictures.

Chicago Film Brevities.

The following statement by D. W. Griffith, bearing the date of Dec. 13, was received at this office:

"I see a story in some publications to the effect that I am to direct Miss Mae Marsh in her new picture. I cannot understand why such a statement should be published as there is no truth in it. Miss Marsh, as I understand, signed a contract with a company in which I have no interest. While I wish her all the success in the world, I am directing, solely and only, Griffith productions and they have no connections, in any manner or form, with any other company. I will esteem it a favor if such publications would communicate with me through my New York office before using my name in connection with enterprises of other people. It requires all of my time on my own productions without fostering those of others."

* * *

A meeting of the advisory committee of the Chicago executive division of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry was held at the Hotel La Salle, Friday afternoon, Dec. 8, with John R. Freuler in the chair. During the proceedings it was moved and carried that the regular meetings of the Chicago advisory committee shall be held henceforth at the call of the chairman, once every 30 days.

* * *

Joe Brandt, general manager of Universal, was in the city recently, and left for Pittsburgh the evening of the day of his arrival. While here Mr. Brandt arranged with a syndicate of 35 newspapers to advertise "The Purple Mask" serial.

The special invitation showing of "Patria"—International's widely heralded serial on national preparedness, with Mrs. Vernon Castle in the title role—was held in the Gold Room of the Congress Hotel, Wednesday evening, Dec. 13. It was a prominent society affair and many of Chicago's "four hundred" were present. Great interest was taken in the films, and spirited applause was given Mrs. Vernon Castle in the role of Patria Channing. Armin Hand's orchestra played the accompanying music. Dancing in the Elizabethan room followed the exhibition.

The trade showing of "Patria" was given at the Colonial theater Thursday morning. The spacious theater was filled both downstairs and in the balcony, and frequent applause was given while the first episodes were run off.

John Bowman, the manager of International's Chicago office, is to be congratulated on the success of both these exhibitions and for his nice care in arranging for them.

* * *

A meeting of the exchange men of Universal was held in the Sherman House Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 8-10. M. H. Hoffman, general manager of the Universal exchanges, presided.

The main object of the meeting was to work for the greater efficiency of the exchanges of the company, to promote better co-operation with exhibitors, and to establish a more friendly feeling between exhibitors and the exchanges.

The following were present: M. H. Hoffman, general manager of exchanges, and Harry Cohen, New York; R. C. Cropper, Kansas City; Barney Rosenthal, St. Louis; Art Smith, Buffalo; J. Schnitzer, Indianapolis; C. Haig, Toronto; E. Armstrong, Salt Lake City; D. B. Lederman, Des Moines, Jake Mitchell, Omaha; J. F. Cubberley, Minneapolis; Mr. Mullen, Boston Mr. Carrick, Philadelphia; Mr. Dardine, Charlotte, N. C., and I. Van Ronkel, C. R. Plough, Frank J. Flaherty, I. L. Leserman, J. Fieldman, Louis Laemmle and Ellis Cohen, all of Chicago.

* * *

I. Van Ronkel, manager of Bluebirds service, and in charge of the booking of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" in the state of Illinois, informs me that bookings have far exceeded expectations. He has been so busy in looking after exhibitors in Chicago that the state, outside of Cook County, as yet remains untouched. He reports a big demand throughout the state, which will be attended to in due time.

The Reel Fellows' Club of Chicago announces a "Days-of-'49 Stag" for Saturday evening, Dec. 16, at 180 West Washington street. Each member of the club has been furnished 25 tickets to test his loyalty. These tickets are to be presented to the friends and acquaintances of each member. They are marked "complimentary," but a nominal charge of 50 cents must be paid before the admittance of the holder. The announcement reads: "In order to make this date immortal in the life of the club and so that all time will be reckoned as 'fore' or 'after' the 'Days-of-'49 Stag,' we ask that you as a brother Reel Fellow, with the welfare of the club at heart, be not only there yourself (if possible in Western costume), but also to see that the 25 tickets of your friends are presented."

* * *

"The Truant Soul," Essanay's great eight-reel special feature, with Henry B. Walthall and Mary Charleson in the leads, was given a very successful trade showing at the Studebaker Tuesday, Dec. 12. Exhibitors turned out en masse to see this fine production.

* * *

Fred S. Meyer, the well known manager of the Minneapolis branch office of Universal, has severed his connections with that company and has assumed the management of the General Film Company's office in that city. Mr. Meyer spent nearly four weeks in New York City since resigning from Universal, and reports that he learned a great deal concerning the future of the film industry during that time. He received his new appointment in New York City. Mr. Meyer was the able representative of Universal for several years, and has been connected with that company for five years in all. He is a live wire, and I wish him all success in his new work.

* * *

The Swastica brand of scenics, known as "Scenes from Many Lands," which was arranged by Manager H. W. Hill, of the Orchestra Hall Cinema-Concerts, and were run in that house last summer, has been released to the Lubliner & Trinz circuit in Chicago, and the New Grand Central theater in St. Louis. These contrastive pictures of human life and activities in various parts of the world show how people of different nationalities do the same thing in a different way. The pictures formed a popular attraction at Orchestra Hall.

* * *

Negotiations, which have been pending for several weeks between Alfred Hamburger and Carl Laemmle, have resulted in an agreement to operate the Playhouse (formerly Fine Arts) jointly. In other words, Mr. Laemmle will have a Chicago theater in which the more important Universal and Bluebird features will have initial runs in this city. It is given out by Mr. Hamburger that it will not be the house policy to present only Universal and Bluebird productions, as it will be the object of the management to offer the best films on the market.

* * *

The second annual charity ball and midwinter circus in support of the American Theatrical Hospital Association, will be held in the First Regiment Armory, this city, Saturday evening, Dec. 16. The grand march will start at 10 o'clock p. m., and will be led by Nell Craig and Bryant Washburn, of the Essanay acting forces. Last year the grand march was led by Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

* * *

Wm. N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Co., makes the following announcement of forthcoming Selig features: "We shall produce some feature plays the coming year which we think worthy of special mention, and for which we hope as great favor as has been accorded such productions as 'The Spoilers,' 'The Ne'er-Do-Well,' 'The Rosary' and 'The Crisis.' We shall spare neither time nor expense in making these productions the final word in artistic detail."

The photoplays include "Monsieur Beaucaire," one of Booth Tarkington's most successful stories, in which Richard Mansfield achieved a fine stage success; "The Bread Line," by Albert Bigelow Paine; "Little Orphan Annie," by James Whitcomb Riley; "The City of Purple Dreams," by Edward Baird; "The First Born," by Francis Powers; "Bob Hampton, of Placer," by Randall Parrish; "A Kentucky Colonel," by Opie Reid; "The Illustrious Prince," by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Several other big productions are also contemplated. Mr. Selig states that well-known stars will have care of the leading roles in each of the big photodramas mentioned.

Director Al. Green and his company have returned from Mississippi, and the finishing touches are now being added to "The Princess of Patches" at the Selig studios here. The players returned from Greenwood, Miss., Sunday, Dec. 10, where some beautiful exteriors were filmed right in the environment called for by the story. The photoplay was adapted from this story by Gilson Willets, the well known author.

Mr. Selig is now planning the release of a number of unusual productions through the General Film service, the character of which, with interesting details, will be announced in the near future.

* * *

The following programs have been announced at the prominent downtown theaters in Chicago for the ensuing week:

Studebaker—"War Brides" (Herbert Brenon Film Corporation for Selznick Pictures), featuring Nazimova, closed its two weeks run on Friday, Dec. 15, and was followed the next day by Clara Kimball Young in "The Foolish Virgin" (Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation). This change took place according to existing contracts between Jones, Linick & Schaefer and Lewis J. Selznick, which require a presentation of "The Foolish Virgin" on a certain date.

Ziegfield—"An Enemy to the King" (Vitagraph), featuring E. H. Sothern and Edith Story, enters its third week at this house.

La Salle—"Idle Wives" (Universal). This is the third week.

Colonial—"Intolerance" (D. W. Griffith. The big run continues unabated in numbers and enthusiasm.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BAY STATE EXHIBITORS.

Ernest H. Horstmann, president of the Massachusetts branch of the Exhibitors' League, announces that the annual meeting of the Bay State exhibitors will be held at the Quincy House, Boston, on Thursday, December 21, at which time officers will be elected. The session will be preceded by a dinner, slated for 6.30 p. m., the tickets for which are $1.25.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN

Wharton Brothers Working on "Patria"

Mrs. Castle and Company of International Players to Stage Elaborate Scenes—William Randolph Hearst to Be Present.

MRS. VERNON CASTLE, the celebrated dancer and International star, has arrived in Los Angeles with her company of players. Mrs. Castle will start rehearsals this week under the direction of Jacques Jaccard on the last five episodes of "Patria," the patriotic filmdrama now being produced by the Wharton Brothers for International. The picturesque site of the old Universal ranch in the hills back of Hollywood has been chosen as studio location. Work is already under way.

Theodore and Leopold Wharton are in Los Angeles, having arrived recently from Ithaca, and William Randolph Hearst, newspaperman and proprietor of the International, is expected shortly. He will be present personally to inspect the work of the company.

Jacques Jaccard is well remembered as the director of the "Diamond from the Sky" for the American. His latest thriller was "Liberty" for Universal. He is surrounding himself with a cast of "stunt-makers" and daredevils which, together with the other noted players, should produce a most unusual picture.

Empire Feature to Build Studio

New Company Plans Big Project—Purchases Forty-Acre Tract Near San Diego.

ACCORDING to a newspaper report, the Empire Theater Film Trust, a newly organized motion picture company, has purchased a forty-acre tract on Murry Hill, near Grossmont, in the vicinity of San Diego. Embodied in the agreement arranging for the transfer of the land is a clause specifying that $20,000 will be dispensed in opening the operations and beginning the project within the next six months. The company proposes to build a studio to cost $100,000 and produce features. Henry Kabierske, well known pageant man and feature director, has been appointed director general.

Plans for the production of three ten-reel spectacles are already under way and will doubtless receive attention as soon as the necessary buildings are constructed. These are "The Conquest," an Indian story; "The Silver Arrow," by Elbert Hubbard, and "The Ten Commandments." Many other productions are already planned and the casts for many have been selected. It is Mr. Kabierske's intention to begin the filming of exteriors at once.

All of the buildings are to be permanent and will include a main building, 360 feet long, embracing many stages of ancient, medieval and modern architecture, and containing a stage 200x60 feet, costume departments, property rooms, a fire department, hospital, and laboratories. In addition to the main building will be an administration building, including offices, an assembly hall, a library and museum.

A board of managers, including S. H. Woodruff, architect and builder of New York and Los Angeles; Tracy E. Shoults, of Los Angeles; Hugh McKean, of Philadelphia and Los Angeles, and William B. Gross, for whom Grossmont was named, will administer the affairs of the concern. The Union Trust Company will act as temporary custodian of the property.

FILM STARS TO STAGE BENEFIT FOR ARMORY.

Under the auspices of the Hollywood company, Federal Coast Reserves, the "Movie Revue of 1916" was staged at the Mason Opera House December 12, for the purpose of raising funds for the construction of an armory.

The topliner on the bill was "The Critic," by Sheridan, put on by twenty-five Lasky players under the direction of Hobart Bosworth. Kingsley Benedict and company put on a sketch, and specialty numbers were given by popular stars.

Bessie Love One Year in Pictures

BESSIE LOVE, who makes her appearance in Triangle's "The Heiress at Coffee Dan's," has celebrated her first anniversary as a film player. Prior to her appearance as a Swedish servant girl in "The Flying Torpedo," Miss Love was only an obscure extra, with plenty of hope and courage.

Director John Emerson is said to have discovered her while he was seeking types among the hundreds of supernumeraries who visited the studios for "extra work." His prophetic eye finally rested upon bright but unimportant and unpretentious Bessie, who little realized her opportunity was at hand. It did not take Bessie long to verify the unfailing judgment of Mr. Emerson, for she made a hit in the part and became a screen personality.

Bessie Love.

In rapid fire order she stepped into better known productions such as "The Aryan," where she was featured with W. S. Hart; "The Good Bad Man," with Douglas Fairbanks, and with Wilfred Lucas in "Hell-to-Pay Austen." More laurels were won recently in the stellar role of "A Sister of Six."

DOROTHY PHILLIPS AS TOURNAMENT HERALD.

Dorothy Phillips, Universal star, has been chosen herald for the Pasadena tournament of roses, to be held on New Dorothy Phillips as the Herald.

Year's Day. Handsome photo engravures of Miss Phillips, together with a brief summary of her career, both on the legitimate stage and in the pictures, adorn the many vivid hued posters which have been distributed to advertise the event.

Miss Phillips is shown in characteristic pose, seated on a beautiful white horse, surrounded by significant accoutrements and properly garbed.

Los Angeles Film Brevities.

After a tour of nearly a year as an attraction on the Keith Circuit of vaudeville theaters, Violet MacMillan has returned to Universal City to resume work for a month with the Big U company.

While at Universal City Miss MacMillan also will have several new films made for use during her coming vaudeville tour, which will begin about January 1.

* * *

The Fine Arts Company emphatically denies the rumor that Douglas Fairbanks is to leave it for the purpose of organizing a company of his own, and gives out as supplementary information the fact that there yet remains three years of the contract entered into between it and the popular film star. Upon completion of his present production, a South American story, Fairbanks will leave with his director, John Emerson, for the New York studios of the Fine Arts, to produce several stories that require the locale of the Eastern metropolis.

* * *

J. Warren Kerrigan has left Los Angeles for New York on business connected with his feature company.

* * *

At the Selig Studios, Colin Campbell is rapidly nearing the completion of an eight-reel feature by Gibson Willits. The story is founded upon facts gathered by Mr. Willits from the police records of large cities. The complete cast comprises Fritzi Brunette, Bessie Eyton, Vivian Rich, Eugenie Besserer, Tom Santschi, Jack Richardson, Ed Coxen, George Field, Al Filson and Harry Lonsdale.

* * *

Oscar Apfel, who until recently was directing William Farnum at the Fox studios, has joined this week the Yorke-Metro forces. He will direct Harold Lockwood and May Allison in coming Metro releases. Mr. Apfel produced his first picture with the Edison Company and remained with that concern for one and one-half years. Then followed the same length of time with the Reliance and Majestic companies and a similar period with Lasky, for whom he directed "The Squaw Man," "Cameo Kirby," "The Circus Man," "Brewster's Millions" and other features. He directed "The Wild Olive," "Peer Gynt," "Kilmeny" and "The Little Gypsy" for the Pallas Morosco concerns and then went to Fox, where he produced nine pictures with William Farnum as his star.

* * *

William D. Taylor is to succeed Director Oscar Apfel at the Fox studios.

* * *

Manager J. R. Crone of the American studios denies that the company is considering moving the plant from Santa Barbara. This denial was issued as the result of statements appearing recently in Los Angeles newspapers that the Flying A intended to move its plant to Culver City. The only basis for such assumption, according to Mr. Crone, may have been the receipt of a letter from Harry Culver, asking the "Flying A" people to consider a plan to move to Culver City. "We have not considered accepting such an offer at any time," says Mr. Crane.

* * *

Mrs. Jennie McMurry Jenkins, widow of Leslie Browning Jenkins, the cameraman killed at the Grand Prize automobile race at Santa Monica November 18, when the racer of Lewis Jackson ran wild, filed an application this week with the State Industrial Accident Commission for compensation. The Keystone Film Company is named the defendant.

* * *

The Stability Building Corporation is constructing a twelve-story structure at the corner of Third street and Broadway, which is to be dedicated to the exclusive use of the motion picture industry. The ground floor of the building will be devoted to a theater which will have a seating capacity of 2,400 persons. The backers of the project include some of the leading capitalists of the city. The theater has not been leased.

* * *

One of the newest film concerns is the Monogram Film Company, with Clyde Schlatter, formerly manager of the Mutual Exchange in Oklahoma City, as general manager. The Lasky Company has lost Robert Gray, as a result, who will direct Shorty Hamilton, former Keystone comedian, with the new concern, in a number of two-reel western comedies written by W. H. Clifford. The company is working at the old Reliance studios at 1654 Fairview street.

Fifty studio lamps have been purchased by Fred J. Balshofer in order that inclement weather conditions may not have an ill effect on the production of photoplays in the Metro studios.

* * *

Suffering from a number of lacerations resulting from flying glass in an automobile accident, Mary Miles Minter, youthful American film star of Santa Barbara, is confined to her home in that city. Her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Selby, and her sister, Gertrude Selby, have more serious injuries, the former being laid up with a broken arm and the latter suffering from severe contusions and abrasions. On the day of the accident the three left their home for Santa Barbara, with Mrs. Selby at the wheel of the car. On the Lancaster boulevard the car skidded and overturned.

* * *

A rip-roaring comedy was finished at Mack Sennett's big fun factory during the past week. The picture is entitled "A Lost Baby," and was made under the direction of Clarence Badger. Mr. Badger has practically the same company with which he has been identified ever since he went to the Keystone company.

* * *

Woe to Pancho Villa and his bandit clan if they start a rough house anywhere within the vicinity of Tiajuana within the next few days. "One ton" of Keystone comedianism is at the well-known racing town. What these heavyweights would do to Pancho's fighters should they come to combat would be humiliating to tell, if one is to judge by the healthy array of prizefighting talent included in this "one ton" of fun. Those in the party are Ed Kennedy, Tom Kennedy, Al Kaufman, Eddie Gribbon, Mack Swain, Eddie Cline, Bert Henderson and Fred Fishback.

* * *

The Christie studio has been in the "grip" of the recent epidemic of colds. Al Christie himself was the first to fall a victim and, as he did not stop work except for one day, he was several weeks getting well. Harry Ham was next to appear heavily wrapped up, shivering and wry of neck. Then Billie Rhoades caught it and had to phone an alibi for that day.

* * *

Workmen in the scenery department of the Clune Studios at Bronson and Melrose avenues are busy making the scenic embellishments which will be a notable part of the National premiere in January of Clune's new production of Harold Bell Wright's story, "The Eyes of the World." It is said Artist Jack Holden, who was the creator of the beautiful settings in "Ramona," has prepared for "The Eyes of the World" the largest cyclorama drop ever painted for a theater west of New York. It is a gorgeous reproduction of a California mountain scene. This is only one of the parts planned for the embellishments of the new production.

* * *

The high regard in which Clune's production of "Ramona" is held among Californians as an accurate presentation of the state's history is shown by the request received at the Clune offices from J. L. Gillis, state librarian, for a set of photographs of characters and scenes from that production. These photographs are to be handsomely mounted and sent to the historical department of the library at Sacramento, where they will be displayed. The Los Angeles public library has had a set of these views on exhibition for some time.

* * *

Wallace Reid, the Lasky star, will depart on Christmas Day for Denver, Colo., to lead the grand march for the Local Screamer's Club ball and to appear in person at the Paramount theater. Upon his return trip Mr. Reid will stop off at Salt Lake City.

* * *

Fannie Ward, Mae Murray, Blanche Sweet and several other Lasky stars are engaged in dressing dolls for a charity bazaar to be given in Chicago. They have also dressed a number of dolls for the benefit of the children of Los Angeles.

* * *

Marie Doro has started work on her next Lasky production under the direction of Frank Reicher, with Elliott Dexter as her leading man. The story is by Beatrice C. De Mille and Leighton Osmun. Others in the cast are Horace B. Carpenter, Billie Elmer, Lillian Leighton and Florence Smythe.

* * *

Kathlyn Williams having completed her latest Morosco production, is taking a brief vacation and will shortly start on her next production at the Lasky studio.

* * *

Director Walter Edwards, with a company of twoscore players, has been camping on the picturesque sand dunes in the vicinity of Playa del Ray. The locale of this story, which is from the pen of John Lynch, is in the Cape Cod country, and Edwards has selected the historic Southern California beach resort as typical of the New England coast.

* * *

What is declared to be one of the most complete settings ever erected at the Ince plant is being used by Director Charles Miller this week in his filming of the new Triangle play in which Enid Bennett is appearing as star. It represents the interior of a chemist's laboratory and contains every manner of instrument and device known to chemical research. Genuine drugs of every description are on the shelves on the walls, the test tubes and vials litter the tables and work benches. William Garwood has been specially engaged to appear opposite Miss Bennett as the principal figure in the scene being made within the setting.

* * *

With a company of fifteen players Director Raymond B. West returned this week from San Francisco, where he has been filming "Sea Stuff" for the current Ince play by Leona Hutton.

* * *

Through Luis Camer, veteran exchange manager in Cuba and in Mexico, the Signal Film Corporation, we are informed, is negotiating for the opening of an exchange for the handling of their films in the Island Republic. As planned at present, the agency will be located in Havana.

* * *

Marie Walcamp has left the Universal company to support Mrs. Vernon Castle in the serial "Patria."

* * *

Succumbing to the lure of his first love, that of scenario writing, Captain Leslie Peacock is back at the old stand with the Balboa Film Company at Long Beach, having resigned his directorship with the Universal company.

* * *

Suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia, Vivian Rich is confined to her home. Upon her recovery she plans to resume her work with Selig.

* * *

George Fisher, who was with Ince at Culver City, will be given an important role in the production of James B. Hendrie's novel, "The Promise," by Yorke-Metro. Another member of the cast will be Paul Willis, who played in "The Fall of a Nation."

* * *

It is reported that Kolb and Dill will leave the American Film Company at Santa Barbara as soon as they have completed their next feature.

* * *

James Davis, formerly director at the Kalem-Hollywood studios, is to succeed J. R. Crone as manager of the Vogue studios.

* * *

Wedgewood Nowell has been made a director at Universal City. He was formerly with the Bluebird Company and was featured in several productions with Cleo Madison.

* * *

A series of comedies to be entitled "Bringing Up Father," after the cartoons by George McManus, are to be filmed by a new company headed by John Brennan, who gained a reputation by his work with the old Kalem comedies.

* * *

Eva Tanguay, eccentric comedienne, who is now in Los Angeles, is reported to be the recipient of several lucrative offers from film companies of this city and vicinity.

* * *

Mignon Anderson, for several years with Thanhouser, is now a member of the Universal company.

* * *

A well-earned vacation is being enjoyed by Tom Mix, who has left the Selig company. He is reported to have received several offers from Los Angeles companies.

* * *

Confined to her apartment at the Hotel Lankershim with a serious attack of grip, Cleo Madison has been unable to see friends for several days.

* * *

Little Mary Sunshine, the dimunitive Balboa star, appeared with her company before the Woman's City Club, of Los Angeles, on the afternoon of December 18, and showed how children work in the making of pictures.

George Wight, general publicity manager of the American Film Company at the Santa Barbara studio, has severed his connection with that company to seek wider fields of activity. Mr. Wight is a well-known newspaper man. In addition to his studio duties he has been handling the Mary Miles Minter publicity.

* * *

The "Screamers," that wild and woolly bunch of picture scribes, will have another blowout this week at the Town and Country Club at Mount Washington. Mrs. Castle, the Whartons and the other members of the party engaged in making "Patria" for the International, are to be the honored guests.

* * *

Adelaide Woods, who has been in charge of the scenario department of Mabel Condon's Exchange, has returned to her old love, that of acting with the Universal company.

* * *

D. Bershon, manager of the California Film Exchange, who books all the Universal attractions, reports that the Superba theater has contracted for eight Bluebirds, beginning on December 24, with Rupert Julian's production of "Marley's Ghost," founded upon Dickens' story, "The Christmas Carol."

* * *

"Seething Humanity" is the title of a five-reel photoplay being filmed at Universal City under the direction of Rex Ingram, who also wrote the story. Millard K. Wilson and Molly Malone play the principal parts, with Wedgwood Nowell, Gypsie Hart, Nicholas Dunaew and Dorothy Barrett in the supporting cast.

* * *

Fred Newmeyer has been put in stock at the Rolin studio and Fred Jefferson has been promoted to assist Director Hal Roach. It is planned to add another company in the future to supply Pathe with Rolin comedies.

* * *

Fred Mace is no more with the Keystone. His contract with Mr. Sennett has expired and we are informed the popular comedian contemplates starting a company of his own.

* * *

A beautiful Persian picture is to be filmed by Allen Holubar, director of artistic productions at Universal City. It is an original story by Grace Helen Bailey of the Universal scenario staff, who has been engaged in its preparation for the past three months. In addition to directing the picture Holubar will enact the leading role of the play, which is entitled "The Broken Bowl."

* * *

Ruth Ann Baldwin has commenced the filming of a one-reel photoplay, "Pink Fondant and Blue Serge," at Universal City. The principal roles are being played by Dorothy Davenport, Irene Hunt and Edward Hearn.

* * *

Harry Todd hobbled around to the Rolin studio this week on one foot, a weakened leg, and a hickory cane. This was his first visit at the plant since he tore the ligaments of his leg six weeks ago while doing a comedy fall.

* * *

Manager A. C. Balance, of the Metro exchange, is driving around in a new car.

* * *

Irving Lesser, manager of the Golden Gate Film Exchange, reports business prosperous. "The Libertine" is proving popular with exhibitors. Next week it goes on for an extended run at the Pickwick theater at San Diego, and has also been booked for the Superb theater in Los Angeles. Tally's Broadway theater is, according to Manager Lesser, starting the New Year right with Clara Kimball Young's second picture, "The Foolish Virgin," a Selznick production.

* * *

H. D. Naugle is in Los Angeles to spend the Xmas week at home.

* * *

E. M. Levy, assistant manager of the Los Angeles Mutual Exchange, reports that T. L. Tally of Tally's Theater has booked the entire series of the Mary Miles Minter De Luxe features.

COMMENTING ON COMEDIES.

Concerning the general run of motion picture comedies a contributor to the Salt Lake Telegram of Salt Lake, Utah, makes the following observation:

Why is it we have so few really funny "movies"?

I have seen many comedies on the speaking stage which were full of laughs, but few of them have been pictured. Instead we have on the screen the slapstick abomination, utterly lacking in humor, and when the producer seeks to rise above this the result usually is far fetched and dreary.

Why not some of the old Hoyt farces and such stage successes as "Too Much Johnson," "Charley's Aunt" and "The Private Secretary," as well as other real comedies that made people laugh not so many years ago?

J. J.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Window Cards.

The Liberty theater, Seattle, does not depend upon window cards alone for publicity, but it makes much of them along with big newspaper ads, boards and novelty devices. The work done is so unusually good that we are giving a number of examples of these cards and extracts from the story accompanying the photographs.

In preparing our window card campaign, we decided to bill only the main thoroughfare, as we believed our card-message was only for the people already down town. It was an easy matter to decide the best streets; the crowds were an evidence of that, but it was an entirely different matter to get the locations we wanted. locations which the legitimate houses could not obtain, but which we deemed essential to a successful campaign.

Right here is where we met our next difficulty, for it was decided that the man who would later place these cards should be the man to make the investigation. We were fortunate in getting a lithographer of varied experiences, at a salary which we later found was the highest paid on the coast, but it proved a real economy, judged by the high-class of work and the splendid results achieved! By a tactful approach and straight from the shoulder talk, he was able to get locations, hitherto considered as "impossible"—and we were ready to start. From one hundred cards, the amount quickly rose to 250, then 350, and from plain black and white cards the present three and four color cards have evolved. The cards were of unusually high-grade stiff cardboard stock, the kind that would not curl up in the window. However, some of the more exclusive stores still held off—so to solve the problem of these stores as well as get locations in front of the counters of soda fountains (good all the year locations in this climate), as well as in front of the cashier's box in restaurants, we had glass-covered frames in plain, neat designs, to match the woodwork of the window or store interior made, and we won over forty or more locations. These locations were of double value because in practically every case they represented exclusive showing in a highly desirable location.

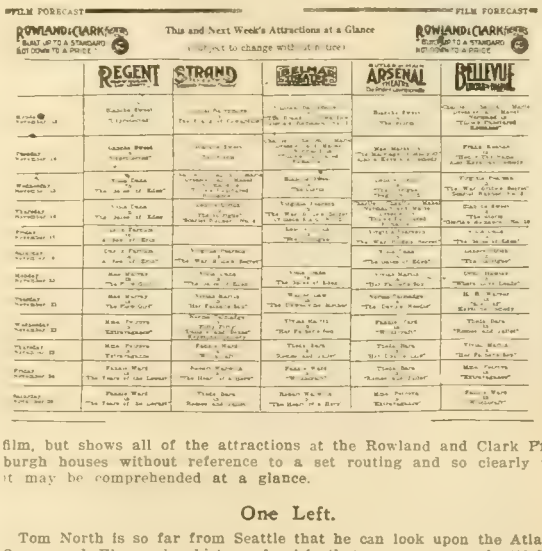
We believe the window card campaign has helped our business in two ways: First, it serves as a connecting link in our advertising between billboard and newspaper, by keeping our theater's name and the play showing, constantly before the people—and second, it directly helps the matinee business. With the thousands of people shopping or promenading to and fro in the business section, the card's message proved a veritable magnet, drawing the crowds already downtown to our theater.

The pictures of window cards are some of the more recent ones designed by Mr. Fullerton. They are in two and three colors with tone variations. As you will notice, they are aimed to be effective in their simplicity, attractive by choice of cuts, colors (which do not show in reproduction) and brevity.

The Liberty is a 2,200 capacity house and can do things in a big way. The work is planned by Gordon M. (100 per cent.) Fullerton, who is the author of the above. It is not always possible to go to this expense for cards, but it always is possible to get something into the windows according to the resources of the house.

For Chain Houses.

For chain theaters using the same general program in rotation, some sort of general program is best, and in that program a schedule of programs. The Film Forecast now has a scheme that works about the best of any we have seen. It is not based on the regular rotation of



FILM FORECAST FILM FORECAST

ROWLAND & CLARK THEATERS — This and Next Week's Attractions at a Glance — ROWLAND & CLARK THEATERS

	REGENT	STRAND	ARSENAL	BELLEVUE
Sunday	Empress Theatre		Empress Theatre
Monday	Empress Theatre
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Friday
Saturday
Sunday
Monday
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Friday
Saturday

film, but shows all of the attractions at the Rowland and Clark Pittsburgh houses without reference to a set routing and so clearly that it may be comprehended at a glance.

One Left.

Tom North is so far from Seattle that he can look upon the Atlantic Ocean and Fireman's shirts and wish that one was as plentiful as the other, but Ryland Sizer, who edited the V-L-S-E Pals, is sticking to the Pacific. He has hooked up with the Converse Company, a supply house, and promises to send in advertising from time to time. For a starter he sends along an extra gotten out by James Clemmer of the Clemmer theater and the Klemmer-Klink. It boomed "The Spoilers" and the Clemmer, and looks much like a real newspaper until you notice the absence of a head to the sheet, and you do not get that detail until the rest has begun to sink in. It is not a new stunt, but it is well done.

Lucky.

The Censor theater, Albion, Mich., writes that they notice that we always jump on the name of the house and once remarked that their ten-page program was probably costly to fold. They rise to explain that their printer has a folding machine that will take the job like a short order cook turning out an oyster stew. We have written to find out if the printer can be coaxed to give up details.

As to the name, they write that they took it on purpose to make it patent that the house was not one of those sex-stuff shops, and they thought that Censor was the most definite name they could find, so they are using it. It does not speak well for general exhibiting conditions in that part of the country that a house needs to emphasize the fact that it is decent, but Mr. Fiske writes that "Censor" has come to be something more than a name. It's a good house policy, particularly for a house that caters to a college faculty and those who gather in a college town.

In passing, Mr Fiske wrote, in the first place, to shoot holes in us for what recently got into the paper as a Censor poem. We pasted up what he printed in his program, but the printer seems to have had other—very different other—ideas, and he is as poor a printer as he is a poet. Do not blame Mr Fisk—or us—for that poem.

Rash.

There is a house manager down in Washington, N. J., who must be part goat for he offers to come out on the stage after a certain advertised attraction and eat his hat if the audience does not say it is the best picture ever shown in town. And the gleeful correspondent who sends in the clipping adds that this is the same manager who lately announced that he would rather run a good show than eat a turkey dinner, but that he was compelled to raise the prices three days a week that he might have chicken for Sunday dinner. He certainly does run to food in his advertising.

Chaplin's Ladifren'.

The Orange theater, New Haven, Conn., sends in a lot of weekly program cards, some of which are good, but many of which are spoiled by the use of two colors and over-printing. Sometimes the overprint is merely a black "The House of Quality" across the name of the house in red, but once they over-print a cut and it looks as though the form dropped out of register. A novelty is the card reproduced here. The sort of people who like Chaplin comedies will be appealed to by this card of "Miss A. Goodeal," and will carry them about and show them to others. The original is the usual visiting card size, white stock and printed in red, though here a two-color would have worked better; the name in black and the rest in red. We rather think the house does its own printing, for it could not afford two-color work otherwise. The work does not look amateurish, but the use of color does.

The Printer Agrees.

W E L Reeger, manager for the Chamberlin Amusement Company's theatorium, Mt. Carmel, Pa., writes that the printer agrees with us that there was too much ink on a late program, and so he sends in some new ones to show the change. He writes:

Enclosed please find several programs for the theatorium which I have the honor of managing.

I take a keen interest in Advertising for Exhibitors department and find many good pointers in these columns.

In fact, the whole edition of the World is interesting and helpful to me, and I don't feel as though we could very well get along without it.

Business is good at all three theaters that The Chamberlain Amusement Enterprises, Inc., are handling here, and we attribute much of our success to our advertising methods.

You will notice that I have changed the face of the program for the week of November 20 to 27, as well as the inside of the program.

This gives the whole program a different look and gets away from the stereotype manner of printing a program which I think will make the people look up and take notice.

Something a little different every little while will add interest and attract attention, and that is what we want—attention.

I thank you for the many kind notices that you have given me in your valuable columns and trust that my efforts may have been a help to some one who may have read them.

I took the last notice I got in the World over to the printer and had a talk with him over the matter, and he agreed with you that there was too much ink on the Theatorium program and was glad to get a compliment, on the Valentine program, as he prints them both. [illegible] If we speak about printing, go talk it over with the printer, and if he doesn't agree with us, write us again. We never stuck type as a job, but off and on we've stood over the make-up stone for the past twenty-three years, and we know the difference between a quoin and a quad. If we point out printing troubles it is because we want to help managers get the jobs they are paying for. The Mt. Carmel programs were done on Hennegan covers and the paper is very absorbent. To get an impression that would stay on top with the ink he was using the printer had to use so much that it spread a lot. He got too much on. Now he is turning out a better job. It can be done if you show him that you know. The change in make-up Mr. Reeger speaks of is on the inside pages. Instead of running the advertising in two columns, up and down, he makes it six columns across two pages. He would get a better layout still if he did not make up each page as a unit, and instead let the two middle pages be printed as one with unbroken rules. It can be done easily if the printer will take the trouble, and he will gain space. As it is, printing across, he gets a better layout for himself and his advertisers, and at the same time a more distinct and distinctive program.

Strand Stunts.

Charles G. Branaham, publicity man for the Strand, Minneapolis, worked a couple of clever stunts recently and one that is a lottery. The best one of the three was to have a number of girls work in the fashionable sections leaving cards with Miss Pickford's autograph and in the corner the words "The Strand." If the idea was to take advantage of the social custom that permits one to make a call by means of a card, then the entire card should have been engraved, for the autograph was not in keeping with the rest of the idea, but doubtless it made a lot of talk.

And He's Welcome.

John Koetting, of the Lyric, Ste. Genevieve, Mo., writes that he is sending a whole fistful of programs and in return wants to ask a few questions. Three of the programs are of varying types and he wants to know which we like best and if we think it advisable to make a weekly change of style. If you'll look at the cut you will see that two of these carry cuts and one is a type front. Some of the other cut front pages are better done than that at the left, but some are worse. None of the three samples strike us as being particularly good. They are 5½ by 8½ and too much white space is wasted. This does not show in the cut, but the deepest of the three shown is a six-inch type page. There must be some white space, top and bottom, but a two and a half inch space is a waste. It looks incomplete—as though Mr. Koetting had run out of ideas before he ran out of paper. The same trouble shows in the other pages. The margin top and bottom is too great and out of proportion to the side margins. Top and bottom margins can be a little deeper than the sides, but not much and certainly the margin should not run more than a quarter of the sheet.

For a starter the "Lyric" cut should be moved to about three-quarters of an inch from the top of the sheet. Just below should run the name of the town and state. Then run a single rule across, set in the date and the volume and current number and then a parallel rule. Now run the cut and below a type title even if the cut itself carries the title. Below the caption run a brief comment on the play, eight-point type, two columns to the page. Then it will look like something. If type is wanted—and a cut is better if there is room for house stuff inside—then use the two columns to the page, the standard thirteen-em column with a wide space between columns and no column rule. Get a two line head to cover this type and make the headline yell at the reader. Don't say "good show this week," but "Why did Tommy Jones slaughter his sister?" The answer may merely be that he did it to get a ticket to the Lyric that she had. Get them interested enough to start reading and they will keep on reading when you slide off into your selling talk. Make that front page something that will haul off and hit a fellow in the face and if you can get a turn over line such as "We tell about it inside," or something better, work that in a ten or twelve point display face. Just a fist pointing off page, and presumably around the corner should do the trick.

Typesetting costs money, but if you pay for typesetting pay enough to set enough type to fill. Have it look like something. If you cannot afford to fill four pages, get out two, but fill those. Merely fill them, don't stuff them, but don't let a man feel that you're a cheater the moment he picks up the sheet, and type faces too large for the page and margins too deep will inevitably create that impression. If you don't want to have a two-pager and can't afford a four, take a two-pager anyhow, turn it sideways and make that into a four. You'll have a four by five instead of a five by eight, but it will look like something.

Mr. Koetting gets some good reading. Some he gets from this department and some he writes, but it is mostly good—what there is of it. But he talk of "Good things to come," and may have but three items. He has only to look at his own recent back pages to see how much better a full page, two columns wide, really looks. There comes a point where the eye tires following the line, and the smaller the type face the shorter the line should be. You can use a longer ten-point line than one in six point. Take a six-point line four and a half inches wide and there comes a point where the eyes loses itself and cannot get back. If there are many lines the difficulty is greatly increased.

That will be about all for programs this trip Mr. Koetting also sends in some newspaper work, including one of his competitors ads. He explains that Robert Warwick's name has been associated with his house until lately, when he appeared on the opposition program. The opposition manager is one of the old-fashioned sort who thinks that the way to run a house is to bother about the other fellow, and even if he had Warwick he didn't want him, so he added this note to Human Driftwood.

> Note:—While the theatrical career of Warwick is short and uneventful, save for a short term at singing, he is rated as a pretty fair amature, and if you don't expect too much of him you will enjoy his work in this his best production.

That will please Mr. Warwick about half to death, but we would be interested in knowing what the other half of the "amature" would do if he met up with the management. It is pretty rotten business policy. The Lyric advertisements get a good display for small space on the Bleich style of running across the column for a narrow advertisement, rather than up and down.

From London.

Philip Wright Whitcombe, of the English Triangle, hasn't sent stuff in in what is colloquially known as a dog's age, whatever that may be, but he has gotten as far toward it as acting by proxy, at any rate, for it is at his suggestion that we have had the pleasure of looking over the Majestic Triangle, which is gotten out by L. Castleton-Knight, manager of the Majestic, London, which uses mostly Triangle pictures. It is eight pages with a surfaced cover and nicely gotten up in every way. In the first issue the salutatory is headed "What the people want—" and it is answered that they want dependable information and not fancy lies. At the bottom, in the same display type is "And what they get!" which leads to the turn of the page and a description of Triangles. This is not a special booklet gotten out once to introduce Triangles, but a regular fortnightly feature, yet it is as carefully prepared and as well printed as though the success of a campaign centered on a single issue The reproduction cannot well do justice to the work, for the reduction is too small and the cuts cannot be given their values, but it will suggest the artistic lines along which Mr. Castleton-Knight is working. The house, in the Clapham district, seats above three thousand persons, and is splendidly planned, to judge from the handsome booklet descriptive of the theater.

Those Busy Heibergers.

The Heiberger family seem to have the Bethlehems all sewed up. Thomas W. Heiberger is now running the Broad in the Steel City with his brother at the Lehigh Orpheum and their father at the Lorenz. He sends in three programs for the new house, the first two of which follow the old Lehigh-Orpheum layout, which we have always liked exceedingly well. The third is a narrower sheet, 3½ by 6½ inches, green stock and ink. This gives less room for the announcements, as it also carries the Lorenz bookings on one of the inside pages. As the running head is the Broad Theater line, the single allusion to the Lorenz is found in an eight-point italic. The heading and the front page as well should be changed if this is a joint program. A good example of joint programs can be found in the issue for December 23rd, or October 21st. The present style is confusing and does not help the Lorenz. Apart from that the program is well done and we welcome another Heiberger. We can't have too many of them if they are all like the original model.

By the same token the Lehigh Orpheum is just getting over its third anniversary. It celebrated with a twelve-page program and extra good features.

Program Stuff.

L. A. Guimond, of the Lyceum, Monticello, N. Y., writes such good program stuff that we watch for it. The only trouble is that once he gets the mill grinding it out, he does such long lengths that it is not easy to reprint without getting a reproachful glance from the boss and an inquiry as to whether we don't think it would be a good job to write at least part of the department ourselves; but we are lifting a couple of paragraphs from a three-column argument on management. Mr. Guimond explains that he did not bring a certain subject to town because he knew that it was not the feature it purported to be. Possibly someone else did. With this cue you can write the rest to suit your own house. The stuff runs:

> When you pay down your money at the box office of any motion picture theater you practically put yourself in the hands of the manager of that theater. No one not closely identified with the industry has the time to scan the reviews each week (and there are hundreds of them), to determine what is worth while and what isn't. When you see some certain comedian advertised in a production, someone who has done good work in the past, it is natural to infer that he will be good in this feature also. Actually you have left it to the management of the theater to decide whether or not the offering is one which will please his patrons, yourself among the rest.
>
> If he puts on an attraction which he knows is not advertised he is, in effect, "handing you a lemon"; on the other hand if he puts on a poor production believing all the time it is a good one and just as represented in his publicity matter, he is in the wrong business because he is dipping into something about which he knows nothing. When you want motion picture entertainment patronize a theater where the management has effectively demonstrated its knowledge of the business in general, just the same as you purchase your meat from a practical butcher who doesn't charge you Delmonico prices for chuck steak. Very many of us wouldn't know the first thing about cutting flat bone sirloins, but then—we also have sense enough to be in some business we know, not the butcher business.

It is a great thing to have the confidence of your patrons, and the way to gain this is to prove to them that you know your business, not alone by talking, but by booking the right sort of stuff.

Weekly Envelopes.

Some time ago we spoke of the stunt of J. A. Quincy, of the Elite, Greenleaf, Kansas, in getting out specially printed envelopes for his announcement of "The Battle Cry of Peace." Evidently he likes the stunt, for he is using it regularly for features. L. J. Scott of the Kansas City Greater Vitagraph sends in some and adds that Greenleaf has a population of only 781. That doesn't bother Mr. Juincy. He covers the surrounding towns, and in a pinch he uses the telephone as well as his special advertising and various local papers. He is an intensive cultivator of the most pronounced type. Imagine a man in a town of less than 8.. taking super-features and playing to from $200 to $300 gross! It can be done, but not from a desk chair or the place across the street, though of course in Kansas they have no places across the street.

Here's an Idea.

The Elmwood, Buffalo, gets out a very tasty six-page folder program 2½ by 4 inches, drab stock printed in black. The other week they put out those "America's Sweetheart" Mary Pickford folders, which has merely the "America's sweetheart" on the front. They did not just put these in with the program. They slipped half into the folder so that merely the legend showed and curiosity did the rest. That single idea more than doubled the value of the enclosure because it presented it in the most interesting light. There is always a best way, even if you have to do a little thinking.

Handy.

The Press Book for the sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky," sent out by the American Film Company, is unusually well planned. It is loose sheet stuff, printed on one side and stapled. There is a page for the advance and a page of stuff for each instalment, enough material for each chapter to supply the papers in a town of the second class without repeat, and it is the sort of writing that editors will take without undue cutting. It is newspaper copy and not press agent rave. That is the sort of thing that really helps the exhibitor.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

About the Museum.

CONTRIBUTIONS are coming in slowly for the photoplay museum of Columbia University, but they are coming in and there is a growing interest shown in the foundation of what presently will become a unique and valuable feature. It is not merely an adjunct of a class of the University. It is the makings of a museum that eventually will be open to all persons interested in photoplay in any form. At present interest is centered in the writing end solely because to the writing end must be credited any further improvement in film making.

Perhaps the most valuable and important single contribution comes from R. Richards, of New York City, who has generously turned over to the museum his files of this paper dating back to the beginning of 1911. The publishers will see that the file is kept up to date in bound volumes. Miss Alice Brown, J. W. Kellette, C. Doty Hobart and others have contributed manuscripts and Emmett Campbell Hall has promised the carbon of "The Road o' Strife," which is probably the most elaborately handled script ever produced. In the original, held by the Lubin company, it is a bound volume about four inches thick, on various colors of paper, about seven tints being used to denote the various types of scenes.

Marc Edmund Jones lectured the Cinema Constructors, a club composed of past and present students November 24, and others have promised to appear before the club. At a recent meeting the script of a Drew comedy was read from the original and then the reel itself was run, showing the changes made by the Drews; a lesson in script improvement that is of real value.

Have you no special scripts that you can send in? It all helps and the material will be preserved where it will do the most good to the greatest number.

Not the Way.

Some time ago we printed a letter that a writer was sending out with his scripts. That is, we printed such parts as would not prohibit the circulation of the paper through the mails. We did not mention the writer, but its author, E. A. Kelley, of Berkeley, Cal., seems to be proud of his composition and writes: tagging on his L. L. B. in much the same vein as his first letter. Mr. Kelley seems certain that we oppose his questionable methods because we have to 'pet the manufacturers" which is somewhat opposed to the ideas that certain manufacturers hold. Mr. Kelley is wrong. We object because his abusive and filthy language, addressed to editors and manufacturers, hurts not alone his chances but the chances of all outside writers. Certain editors and more manufacturers are only too glad to get material that will uphold them in their contention that free lances should be wholly ignored, and Mr. Kelley's peculiar style of correspondence is hurting the business and not merely himself. Mr. Kelley may think that the way to get on with editors is to "indite the uncivilized, ill-born, ill-bred, not-thinking hog with every profane name this side of kingdom come," but general experience has proven to the contrary.

Fiction and Photoplay Rights.

William Lord Wright says in his department:

> Successful writers of fiction reserve their "photoplay rights" now as a matter of course when a few short years ago such action was unthought of. Why should not the writer of photoplays, ambitious sometime to write fiction, reserve his fiction rights to photoplays?

One reason is that conditions are dissimilar. When Bob Davis buys a story for Mr. Munsey, he may permit the author to retain his photoplay rights, if the author insists, because the reservation does not bother him. He can print the story in the magazine and that is all there is to it. With the photoplay producer conditions are different. He buys and makes the play. Then he perhaps gives the fiction rights to one of the 37,975 photoplay story magazines, or, in any event, he prepares a synopsis for the trade, which is printed in the Moving Picture World, and perhaps a sketch of the story appears in the criticisms of the play in a dozen or more sheets. All of this is to advertise the film. All of this is necessary and yet all of this very clearly detracts from the value of the idea as fiction to the magazine man unless simultaneous publication can be arranged for. To reserve the fiction rights would be to require that no synopsis shall be distributed, and this would destroy the advertising value. For this reason it is better to sell the fiction rights, reserving the photoplay rights, than to reverse the process and put the photoplay first. For that matter few editors, if any, will be interested in the fiction rights after the story has been screened. Bannister Merwin tried this scheme out several years ago, and dropped it. People would write in to complain that they had already seen the story on the screen, whereas the visualization of a published story seems to help the sale.

At Columbia.

This from the report of Dr. Freeburg, on Marc Edmund Jones' recent appearance at Columbia University:

> "Some synopses are so strikingly original that they fail to strike either the scenario editor, the manager, the 'star,' or the 'star's' director," was the remark of Marc Edmund Jones while addressing the Cinema Composers at Columbia University on November 24. Mr. Jones contended that many amateur writers of ability fail to market their stories because they are too radically different from those previously filmed by the prospective purchaser. "Success in photoplay writing," he said, "is largely a matter of salesmanship, the trick of offering the producer what he thinks he wants."

Mr. Jones has said something of the sort in this department, but it will bear repeating because it is so peculiarly apt at the moment. Don't offer what you know the public wants. Offer the producer what he thinks he wants.

Mark 'Em Off.

Mark from your list the Barker-Swan Company. It has shut down for lack of funds. Note that the eastern office of the Universal script room has been closed and that stories should be sent to the western studio, only. Note, too, that Kalem scripts should take the same westward course.

Merged.

Lately a lady got all het up because she sent a script to Famous Players and Lasky returned it. She hinted that it was a Federal offense to open letters addressed to others. She did not know that the two companies had been merged, though columns have been written about the change in the last few weeks.

You cannot market intelligently unless you follow the trade. Read the paper all the way through each week, and include the advertisements. It is the only way to keep posted on the trade changes.

Don't Blame It on Durant.

H. R. Durant, formerly of Famous Players and now representing Thomas Ince's script interests in the east, asks that the impression that he ever offered to criticise scripts be corrected. The mistake seems to have arisen from the announcement that Hector Turnbull would offer free criticisms of stuff sent Lasky and the subsequent combination of Lasky and Famous Players. Mr. Durant is no longer with Famous Players and never did offer to criticise scripts.

The Play Sure Is the Thing.

One of the most beautiful pictorial productions ever made is not cleaning up at two dollar prices because it has no story. It is wonderfully pretty to look at, but there is no other interest because there is no plot on which interest may hang. Take the histories of all big pictures and you will find that the success is in direct ratio to the story. The most profitable and the most lasting of these was "The Birth of a Nation," and this because, in spite of its partisan preachment, it did have a story as well. Take the same author's later effort and an impossible story detracts from the interest. The same director's second attempt is a more wonderful production but less story and therefore a lesser interest. It is the same with the other big reels. It is the same with the half reel comedy. The more story there is the greater the interest and the more lasting the success. And still producers of motion pictures will not read the handwriting on the wall and spend five or ten thousand dollars for a story upon which to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars. For that matter several thousand feet were made for one production before the story was finally decided upon.

The THIRD Edition of

Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiffer Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Important Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor

Manufacturers' Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply by mail without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Manhattan Operators Notice.

At midnight, December 21st, there will be a meeting of all moving picture machine operators of Manhattan at Parkway Palace, 110th Street, Manhattan.

This meeting is held by Local 306 and admission thereto can only be gained by those holding a New York license card. All licensed operators, either union or non-union, are cordially invited to attend. Non-union operators will not incur any obligation by attending, though it is hoped we may be able to convince you of the advisability of joining with your fellows in organization in order to properly protect your interests.

Local Union 306 asks you to attend, and this Department and its editor advises you to do so. The editor will himself be there, and will address you. There will also be other thoroughly competent speakers.

Notice to Unions and Examining Boards.

During the past years a great many requests have come to the editor asking him to set forth a list of questions for examination. This has been an impractical thing to do, for reasons which have been repeatedly explained.

I now, however, make this offer. During my tour of the country next spring I will be glad to, wherever time permits, appear before either official or union examining boards, and examine either a genuine candidate or one of the examiners himself, in order to show what, in my opinion, an examination ought to consist of, and the way in which it should be given.

I cannot promise to do this in all cities, because in some cases where the distances to be traveled are long I might not have the time, but where time and physical and mental strength will permit, I will be very glad to accommodate in this respect.

Roll of Honor on Question No. 159.

The Roll of Honor on Question 159 consists of W. B. Allen, Edmonton, Canada; M. M. Moon, Sherman, Texas; F. N. Irvin, Lufkin, Texas; H. C. Crose, Gary, Ind.

After careful consideration of the answers of the four men who had knowledge and nerve enough to tackle this particular question, and whom I have placed on the Roll of Honor, not because I considered their answers as being correct, but because they were the only four men out of probably 30,000 operators who had sufficient nerve to even made a stab at it. I am going to answer the question myself. As a matter of fact there have been very much fewer answers received to this particular question than to any one of the other one hundred and fifty-eight questions of the series, which I believe shows that operators, as a whole, are not at all sure of their grounds on this particular point.

Both Friends Allen and Crose based the relative percentage of the voltage drop through the tube and the voltage delivered at the arc, which, of course, would make a rectifier which was delivering high secondary voltage very much more efficient than one delivering low secondary voltage, because the drop across the tube is practically constant at 15.

Now I may myself be in error, but I don't regard this as the right way to figure rectifier efficiency. If I am wrong correct me.

Reply to Question No. 159.

By F. H. Richardson, New York City.

The Question:

Has the mercury arc rectifier or the motor generator set the higher efficiency?

The Answer:

My view of the matter is that the only proper way of reading either the motor generator or rectifier electrical efficiency is to take a wattage reading of both the input and output at the same instant of time. The difference will be the loss in the machine, and the output (the smaller) divided by the input will be the real, actual over-all efficiency of the machine. Now unfortunately I have not at hand bona fide readings of the mercury arc rectifier's efficiency, though I have plenty of them taken from motor generator sets under varying conditions, some of which would, I think, astonish you. I shall not therefore undertake to draw comparison as between the electrical efficiency of the motor generator set and the mercury arc rectifier, except to say that, taking all motor generator sets, meaning by this good and bad, I don't think there is a particle of doubt but the electrical efficiency of the rectifier is the higher of the two. On the other hand, it is a question whether the electrical efficiency of the mercury arc rectifier (I am speaking only of rectifiers used for projection work) is higher than the electrical efficiency of the best makes of motor generator sets. Personally, I believe it is, though not very much, but my believe in the matter, although it has pretty good basis, does not constitute proof.

There are, however, other things to consider besides the electrical efficiency. The exhibitor wants the "over-all" efficiency, meaning not only the electrical loss in the machine itself, but also the cost of up-keep. The mercury arc rectifier, if it be suitably located, will deteriorate but very slightly through use, except in one of its parts, viz.: the tube. Fifty ampere tubes cost $35.00 here in New York at the present time. They are considerably higher, I am told, in points distant from the factory. Now if the machine be intelligently handled, and not subjected to violent shocks the tube may last for a long, long time—even so much as two to three thousand hours, and one would expect it to last at least not less than five hundred hours. Tube renewal will be the main item of upkeep expense with the mercury arc rectifier; in fact it constitutes practically the only upkeep expenses. What the actual life of the windings of the machine may be I don't know, but see no reason why, provided the machine be located in a place free from moisture, it should not last anywhere from 25,000 to 75,000 hours of active use, always assuming that there is no overload.

The item of upkeep on motor generator sets include (a) renewal of brushes and brush tension springs; (b) occasional turning up of the commutator and under-cutting of the mica; (c) oil; (d) new bearings, and, finally a new armature shaft, though the life of the armature shaft, if properly lubricated, ought to cover a period of at least 20,000 hours of use. In addition to this there is, of course, the possibility of injury to an armature through carelessness, or the ruining of a commutator, and, taking it as a whole, most certainly these various items will fully cover, if not exceed, the cost of tubes for the rectifier.

I believe, therefore, it is but a fair statement to say that the over-all efficiency of the projection mercury arc rectifier is probably somewhat, though not largely higher than that of a first-class motor generator set, and is very much higher than that of a poorly constructed motor generator set.

I would be very glad to have wattmeter readings taken by operators of their mercury arc rectifier, but it will be necessary to have two simultaneous readings, one of the input and one of the output. A reading of the input taken even as little as fifteen seconds later or earlier than a reading of the output would have no value.

Initiation Fees.

The operator over whom the fight was made by the Voyons theater, Lowell, Mass., sends in a communication in which he says:

> I do not belong to the Knights of Labor or the I. A. T. S. E. I am just a plain, non-union operator trying to make a real operator of himself. The union won't give a man a chance. They want $100 to join, and how many operators can dig up $100 every time they want it? If I could I would not work for a living, but make the $100 do it for me. Now look at it for a moment from a hard-working man's point of view.

My dear sir, under some conditions the fact that you are a non-union operator would be nothing against you, because there are many non-union operators in the smaller towns who are non-union simply because circumstances make it impossible for them to join. With you, however, it is different. You say the union wants $100 to join. This, I believe, applies to Boston; I doubt if it applies to Lowell, though it might. But, even so, I have no quarrel with an initiation fee even that high. When the initiation was low it was found that while the men joined readily they dropped out with equal ease. But when a "hard-working man" pays $100 into an organization, he is going to think several times, and think good and hard too, before he gives up his membership. You say a hard-working man cannot dig up $100. Well, in the first place, I have no manner of doubt but the union will be willing to make an arrangement with any applicant who is otherwise desirable to pay the initiation fee in reasonable installments. In the second place, while this does not necessarily apply to you, still if some of the aforesaid "hard-working men" would not wear out so much leather polishing a brass rail in front of the mahogany counter, the top of which is usually wet, or in the exhilarating pastime of chicken hunting, they might be able, upon occasion, to dig up even as much as $100. In other words, if they patronized the savings bank instead of this other very pleasant, but very expensive things, the $100 fee would soon cease to hold such frightful terrors. In the third place, did you ever stop to consider this fact, for fact it is: Operators' salaries are low as the matter now is, but supposing we disband every organization of working men in the country, or, to put it another way, suppose there never had been an organization of working men, do you realize the fact that under those conditions, low as operators' pay now is, it would be very much lower? Under those conditions the carpenter would receive what he used to get, viz.: $1.25 to $2.25 for a ten or twelve-hour day; the brick-layer, painter and plumber ditto, and so on down the line. The operator in the large cities might get a maximum of $15.00, or even reach the sublime height of $18.00, with a minimum of God knows what, and in the small towns they would probably be doing as the theatrical manager used to do, viz: let the stage hand set the scenery for the privilege of seeing the show.

As a matter of fact, my dear sir, inadequate as operators' salaries now are, you, as a non-union operator, are receiving in salary every day you work the sum of probably at least $1.00 more than you would receive if there were no such thing, or never had been any such thing as organized labor, therefore, every day you work the union in effect pays you, a non-union man, the difference between the wage and what you would receive had there never been any such thing as organized labor. Do you get the idea? There is no earthly use in disputing the proposition, and away down in the bottom of your soul, my boy, you know it is an absolutely incontrovertible statement of fact. I therefore, advise you to not only make the "best operator you can of yourself," but to join with your fellows in an organization to promote your and their mutual interest, even as I strongly advise, and always have advised the theater manager and the exchange man to join together in organization to promote their mutual interests. This is the age of organization and the individual standing alone has about the same chance the fly has in a room liberally supplied with nice, sticky fly-paper.

Metal Screen.

John Koltzan, Brooklyn, N. Y., says:

At last I see the brothers are coming to a realization of the harm done to film by bad all-metal reels. I mention the all-metal reels, because these are the ones which cause all the trouble. (I cannot agree with you there, brother, though poorly constructed metal reels cause a lot of it. Ed.) Some have a core out of true, while others have the core loose. Then, too, very often the reel itself is bent out of shape, causing it to catch on the upper magazine door. In fact, I have had all kinds of trouble with the all-metal reels, and very little with the wooden hub article. Six months ago I made a complaint about this particular thing, and at that time was laughed at by several operators, who themselves have now told me they are experiencing similar difficulties. If exchanges would only see to it that no metal reel leaves the exchange except it be in perfect condition they would be doing a great deal toward prolonging the life of their films. As to the wooden hubs, they, too, have their faults, because sometimes we find them with large nails or big screws driven into them, and these catch on the springs on the upper magazine door, which of course makes trouble.

And now another thing. Now that most every house has two machines, the operator dissolves one picture into the next without a stop. It seems to me it would be a good idea for the producer to make all multiple release films with the end of part one having the same scene as the beginning of part two, only the end piece should be about 5 or 6 feet long, while the beginning of the next part should be 12 to 20 feet, as they see fit.

The brother then goes on to describe the method of connecting the two dowsers so as to dissolve one picture into the next, but both this and the matter of multiple release reels have already been dealt with in the department, with which evidently Brother Koltzan does not keep in as close touch as he ought to.

With regard to the reels, this, too, has been dealt with, but deserves further attention. Friend Koltzan is absolutely correct when he calls attention to the enormous amount of damage done to film by reason of reels in bad condition, but the "bad condition" is by no means confined to the all-metal reel, though they perhaps are, taken as a whole, in considerable worse shape than the wooden hub variety. When films [illegible] reels which are in bad condition they, the exchanges, [illegible] and damage to the [illegible] property. As I have before pointed out a reel of film is worth considerable money, whereas reels are a pretty cheap commodity. Why then should an exchange seek to save a few cents by using imperfect reels, when these imperfect reels are more than likely to do damage to the film far in excess of the cost of the reel? I don't know just what a reel does cost, but assuming it to be 25 cents each, I can vouch for the fact that it is no uncommon thing for a 25-cent reel to do at least $1.00 worth of dam[illegible] run, and as a matter of fact there is no man[illegible] that a poor hub, or reel which is bent out of [illegible] is more harmful to the film than the cost [illegible] would amount to. We have in this glorious land of the free, a great many exchange members. We also, in this wonderful land where the patriot grows, have a very great number of exchange mismanagers, and it is the mis-managers who send out reels in poor condition. Real managers would not think of doing such a thing. Being men who possess judgment and good sense, they know it does not pay; that it is not good management. It would, of course, be impossible to say what percentage of the total damage to film might be traced to imperfect reels, but one is safe in saying that the percentage would be found to be quite high.

Can't Be Did.

From the far west comes the following interesting letter, which I am using in the department in addition to sending reply by mail, name and address being, of course, suppressed:

In reading the department I noticed a letter from B. H. Mullins with regard to wanting to join the union. His case and mine are almost precisely alike. I have operated for more than four years, have a good job in a small town, and, being a married man, do not feel I could leave a good paying position to work for six months in some city in which there is a union in order to comply with I. A. laws, and thus be able to join. I am getting good results, using a Powers Six B, pulling 35 amperes through a Fort Wayne convertor. However, after studying the different books you have recommended, I more and more realize what a big game projection really is. The latest addition to my library is your Handbook, toward which I feel the same as does every operator who has one. It just simply can't be beat. I certainly would like to become a member of the I. A., and it will be for me a proud moment when I can flash the union slide on the screen. Would you please call the attention of the secretary of the I. A. to my case, as I feel I am competent to pass any reasonable examination necessary to obtain membership. Certainly I am if experience and study count for anything.

I am making this a personal letter, as I wish to ask your private opinion on the following: (a) What do you consider the best metallic surface screen on the market, meaning by this the one that will produce the brightest picture? (b) Which, in your opinion, has the best intermittent movement, the Powers latest model, or the Simplex? Enclosed you will find post office money order to pay for private reply to these questions.

I have taken the liberty of printing this because I am in receipt of a great many letters very similar to it. As I understand the matter, every town in the United States now lies within the jurisdiction of some I. A. local. I am referring your letter to the International Secretary of the I. A., with request that he inform you as to what jurisdiction you are in. There is, of course, a hesitation on the part of some locals about taking in small town operators. This is to some extent due to the fact that experience has shown that the average small town operator (I am now speaking of the average only; there are, of course, exceptions) wants to join for one thing, and one thing only, viz: to get a posiiton in a larger city or "go on the road." This the average small town man strenuously denies, but the fact remains that four times out of five when a local takes in a small town man it very quickly finds him seeking a job either in the city where his membership was granted, or in some other, and this, of course, tends to complicate the situation, as the labor market in these cities is almost invariably already overstocked. It is a big question, gentlemen, and one not so easy of solution. Theoretically the I. A. wants every operator in the country, small town or otherwise, organized; practically, however, there is a hesitation on the part of many locals in applying this theory.

Personally I believe, however, that, regardless of the foregoing, every competent small town operator ought to be taken into the organization if he wants to come, and those who do not want to come ought to be gotten in if possible. There are two horns to the dilemma, and it seems to me the refusal to accept into membership competent small town men is the horn that is most likely to gore deepest and cause the most serious trouble.

Interesting Problem from Italy.

Arpád Kirner, Aritzo, Italy, Province Cagliari, writes as follows:

You may wonder to receive a question from a European friend of your magazine, but through the Moving Picture World your knowledge weekly crosses the ocean, and I highly appreciate and admire it. And now for the question: Is it possible that the condenser itself, or the distance of the arc to it does affect the sharpness of the picture on the screen? I use a short focus double plano-convex set (diameter 4 inches; B. F. about 2 inches; E. F. about 3 inches). It may not be a first class make (glass is greenish) but the lenses are well ground. The objectives I use are of f:35 and f:29, very high class, 6, 3 and 2 inches E. F., but any one of them gives the following result: If the arc is at the right optical point (about 3 to 3½ inches from back condenser) I get a fine white spot close around to the aperture, and a powerful, bright and very uniform light on the screen, but the picture on the last is absolutely impossible to get sharp; also at the very best position at the objective the picture seems literally and completely out of focus. Then when I bring the arc far backward from the condenser, in a position which is surely optically the very wrong position (6 or 7 inches from the back condenser) I suddenly get a marvelous sharpness of picture, but the white spot around the aperture is more than thrice the greatest necessary diameter, and the loss of light is absolutely enormous, consequently the projection is uniformly, but very, very slightly illuminated. This experiment was made not once but a great number of times. All possible reciprocate positions of the optical elements and of the lamp house, and of the arc were tried. Now, I made up my mind to know from you what is wrong. The objectives are not at fault, as they are the very best on the market, large size Zeiss Tessars f:3:5, and finest make Petzwals f:3.5 and f:2.9—the result is always the same. This distance of the lamp house to aperture is not at fault, as it is the optically and practically best. The condensers are close together, one-sixth of an inch apart. I tried no other condenser.

The things I do not understand are chiefly: What is wrong? And if the wrong is the condenser, how is it possible that it can render completely and constantly out of focus the projection; also when the objective is best focussed? After my mind the condenser could affect only the intensity, uniformity or color of light; it could not alter the sharpness of the objective rays.

If the condenser causes the trouble please name make, system, size and shortest possible focus of complete set (I prefer short focus in order to get more light) which will give perfect sharpness. Do you know some condenser set on market which is free from spherical or chromatic aberration, similar to the combination recently calculated by Brother Martin? How far does the triple (with meniscus) condenser reach this condition?

I tried a negative (divergent) between condenser and aperture, but I got only a strong decrease of light. Maybe the lens I added was not right.

This particular letter presents a most interesting problem. I immediately submitted Brother Kirner's letter to the Scientific Department of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company, and to the Crown Optical Company, both of Rochester, N. Y. I received no reply whatsoever from the Bausch & Lomb people, who were presumably stumped with this particular proposition, but from S. E. May, secretary of the Crown Optical Company, comes the following letter:

Dear Mr. Richardson: We were very much interested in the problem submitted to us by you and the copy of the letter sent from Italy. The fact of the matter is that we have ourselves observed an exactly similar phenomenon and have on several occasions been obliged to revise formulas to overcome this trouble. We found that the difficulty seemed to be chiefly concerned with the relation between the focal lengths of the front and back elements of the projection lens. It appears to us that your man is endeavoring to use a lens which was not designed for projection purposes, and has therefore been unfortunate enough to make an improper lens selection.

We should be very much interested to get a comparison of a comparatively cheap lens, such as our Marlux, with the expensive lenses mentioned in his letter. In order to get this comparison, we will be willing to send him one of our Marlux lenses 6 inch focus with the understanding that if this lens does not solve his difficulties in every way, we will be perfectly willing to take the lens back and stand transportation charges on it both ways. In the event that he finds it satisfactory, he has only to remit us the price of the lens.

To us the main thing involved is not the cost of the lens but a report which we would expect to receive from him as to whether this lens actually solved his difficulties or not.

Will you please advise us as to whether you think this action would be advisable, and if so where to send the lens?

The information contained in the foregoing is of more than ordinary interest. I have advised Mr. Kirner to accept the Crown Optical Company's very liberal offer.

No, there is no condenser connected for spherical aberration, and it is not yet determined that such a condenser would be desirable. The meniscus bi-convex has some slight effect in reducing aberration. Just why the focus sharpens when you pull down the arc seven or eight inches from the condenser I do not know.

Aperture Lens.

John Griffiths, Ansonia, Conn., says:

Commenting on Friend Martin's latest "Development of the Aperture Lens," October 28th issue, he says: "In this connection the aperture lens produces precisely the same results as the well-known expedient of increasing the distance between the condensers and the aperture." Martin was referring to the action of the aperture lens on the size of the shutter position. The aperture lens has only a very slight action on the size of the shutter position (presumably meaning the diameter of the light ray at that point. Ed.), but has great influence on the position in which it is located. On the other hand, increasing the distance between the condensers and aperture has a great influence on the size of the shutter position, and but slight influence on its location. I see our "Uncle Dudley" has come to the conclusion that the aperture lens carried in the same mount with the objective lens is what we are going to come to finally. What we may be coming to is an aperture lens built in conjunction with the objective lens, and not merely carried in the same amount, because the picture projected on the screen would only be a re-production of the imperfect virtual image projected by the aperture lens.

Well, confound you, that is what I meant, if I didn't say it. Certainly the aperture lens carried in the same mount would have to be made an integral part of the objective lens. That is just plain, ordinary horse sense. The reason I don't believe the fixed position aperture will work is, as I have already said, because any given objective may work at any one of a great many different distances from the aperture, and that being the fact I cannot see how it will be possible to use an aperture lens in fixed position at the aperture. Mind you, I don't say it can't be done, but I nevertheless, cannot see how it can Wants Them Published.

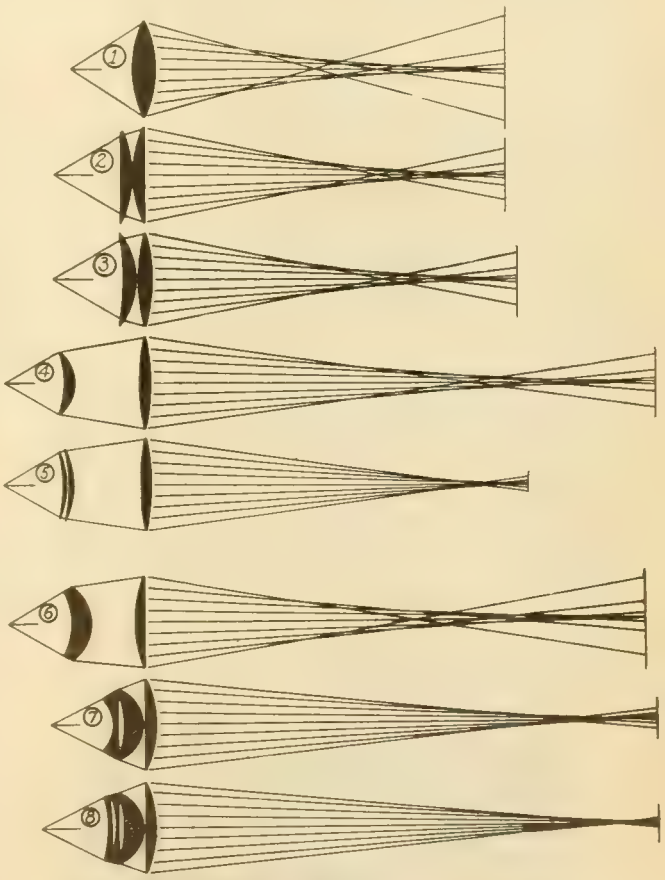
C. T. Taubler, St. Louis, Mo., says:

Received the question booklets and believe every operator should have them, in addition to the Handbook. Yes, I think you ought to publish the questions and answers in book form; also it should be done before the new year. Then you should publish a book of questions and answers every year. I do not believe, in fact, I know not one operator in fifty, taking the country over, can answer anywhere nearly all the questions, especially when it comes to the different kinds of motor generator sets, retifying outfits, etc. An operator may have a rectifier, yet never get an opportunity to see any of the other similar devices, but if he has the questions and answers in book form, in addition to the illustrations in the Handbook, he would find things he would never locate or think of looking for. I also think the Handbook should be put into question and answer form, because most operators make their principal use of it in times of trouble, and then they almost pull the leaves out turning them so fast in hunting up the subject they want.

Of course a Handbook in question and answer form would be all very well in its way, but I believe, after all, the present form is best. The index is reasonably complete, and if the operator who purchases the book does not study it and become familiar enough with it to locate what he wants when he wants it, that is his own fault. As to the questions and answers, why, well I am still thinking about it. It is not a question easily decided, because the mere printing of the book, with things at their present cost, is considerable of a financial undertaking.

Interesting.

I publish herewith a series of eight drawings by Brother Martin, Los Angeles, Cal., showing eight possible designs of condensers. This is published more as an interesting curiosity than anything else, because I do not believe the last five combinations shown are practical, though they are, of course, all theoretically possible. Take Nos. 6, 7 and 8, for instance: the negative lens shown (the one with the thin edges and thick center) most certainly would break almost immediately or else its center would bulge and warp. I do not see how it could possibly be



EVOLUTION OF THE CONDENSER.

Showing the gradual development and normal growth of ideas from one stage to the other, the progress tending towards the gaining of a long distance from condensers and the correction of chromatic and spherical aberration. Somewhere within the series should be found or interpolated one or more types which will best answer the practical requirements of the M P Condenser — Ralph M Martin.

otherwise, and in No. 8 the loss through reflection at the eight surfaces of glass would, it seems to me, be very high; also unless the glass was very pure, indeed, the absorption of light would also be considerable. Following this I intended to publish a drawing showing Martin's idea of an improved condenser, though it is an idea with which the editor is unable to agree. However, I think the publication of these drawings will at least serve a good purpose in arousing the interest of operators as to the possibility of the condenser end of the projection machine optical system problem.

Something Turned Up.

Walter Drenckpohl, Centralia, Ill., writes:

This is the first time I have taken the liberty of attempting to say anything with regard to projection, but something turned up the other day which I think supplies the chance to butt in. What I wish to say is: Why an operator who breaks a film does not take sufficient interest in his work to patch it together properly and in frame. I received a feature last Monday from the Mutual which had a patch about every 40 feet, and every one of them was out of frame. This evidently was all done by the same operator, as they all looked alike. The emulsion was only half scraped off, and the film stuck together wherever it happened to hit. If this was done by a rewind boy I believe it would have been the operator's duty to check up his work. There is nothing more annoying to an audience than to have the picture jump out of frame every two or three minutes. Enclosed find a piece of film I saved from this picture. It is not a very good patch, as you will see. Don't you think the words "Splice it Right" would be just as suitable for a placard on the operating room as "Safety First" is on the busy streets of a large city?

Yes, Brother Drenckpohl, it would. The sample you sent is a particularly atrocious example of vile work. The emulsion is not scraped at all, neither are the sprocket holes matched. There is not much use in criticizing this particular instance, because evidently it was done by some irresponsible kid who did not know the very first thing about splicing film. In addition to the faults mentioned there is cement smeared over the film for at least one-half inch each way from the patch.

Maybe So, but ———.

Charlie Bare, Mt. Carmel, Ill., says:

Have just been considering the question raised as to using the neutral wire of the three-wire A.C. circuit as one wire of a D.C. circuit. My answer is that it cannot be done, and here are my reasons. I suppose Brother Hughart's A.C. circuit is 60 cycle. If so there would be sixty times a second that the neutral wire would be carrying positive current and sixty times a second it would be carrying negative current, A.C., whereas from the D.C. it would carry either positive or negative all the time, and you can readily see there would be trouble when the neutral wire is compelled to carry both positive and negative current at the same time. I cannot see where a man can get the idea that a single wire can carry two opposing directions of current at the same time. I am operating a Simplex. Am always glad when the time comes for the "World" to arrive.

For your information, Brother Bare, let me say that telegraph wires carry messages in both directions at the same time; also for your further information let me say that so far as the A. C. current be concerned the neutral would have absolutely no electrical affinity under heaven for anything except the opposite pole of the alternating current generator, and the wire attached thereto. Assuming that the neutral would be negative to the direct current generator positive, then it would have no affinity under heaven for anything except the postive pole of the direct current generator, or if the positive pole of the direct current generator be attached to the neutral, then vice versa. I personally am unable to see why the scheme would not work all right though, as I said, I don't think it would be a desirable connection. Let us hear from some of you electrical sharks on the proposition. The question raised will be found under the heading, "Steel Pole Line," page 544, October 28th issue.

Another Explanation.

M. E. Carner, Willets, Cal., writes:

I am sending you solution of "Interesting Problem," August 12th issue. Have had the same trouble myself. Am running a Power's Six A and am convinced a great many fires are caused by that same trouble. Attached find piece of film which will show how it is done. You will observe that some sprockets have jumped over the patch until the sprocket holes are badly torn and some of them entirely torn out. Now if the damage becomes great enough to reach from the patch to the intermittent sprocket the sprocket will tear both sides when the patch strikes the tension shoes, thus allowing the film to stop in front of the light, very likely causing a fire.

I don't know what small town operators would do without the Moving Picture World, the projection department and the Handbooks. I most heartily wish to yourself and the World all possible success.

I have gone to the trouble to make a cut of the broken sprocket holes simply to show how careless some operators are. Just why the sprocket jumped this particular patch I really don't know, because, although the sprocket holes are not exactly matched, still they are not off so badly that they ought to cause the sprocket to climb or punch up the film as badly as this. However, the fact remains that they did climb and did punch the film, and this particular piece of damaged film should have been amputated long before the damage reached the proportion here shown. To get in that condition I should say that the film had been run through the machine at least half a dozen times, and each time there must have been a serious jump of the picture on the screen.

A. C. and D. C.

William Samhammer, Coplay, Pa., says:

Is there any difference in the strength of A. C. and D. C., voltage and amperage being the same? I have a new Handbook and would not sell it for a hundred dollars if I were not sure of getting another. I also have Hawkins' Electrical Guide, and like it very much Have asked for a place as apprentice-operator, but cannot secure it until the other man quits. Have operated in a small town theater for about a year, but am willing to serve two more years if I can get enough to support myself on. Am now 20 years of age, so in two years would be able to get a license as operator.

Now here is a young man with the right spirit. First, he is willing to study; second, although he has already operated for a year he is willing to serve a two year apprenticeship, and thus perfect himself in his chosen profession. My compliments to you, Brother Samhammer. I wish we had more men with an equally large opinion of the importance of perfecting themselves in their chosen calling.

As to A. C. or D. C. being the "stronger," I don't think I quite get your meaning. If you mean to ask which one will project the brighter picture, why if you will turn to page 290 of the Handbook you will find the answer to your question given in detail. The light giving power of the crater of the electric arc depends upon the area of the crater, and due to the reasons set forth on page 290, the D. C. crater is always much larger than that of a D. C. crater of equal amperage, therefore the effective projection light power of the direct current arc is much greater than the effective light giving power of the alternating current arc of equal amperage. You can, however, get the same candle power of projection light from the alternating current arc by increasing its amperage, but the amperage will have to be just about double that of the D. C. arc. If this is not the information you are seeking, please communicate with me again. It is always a pleasure to help a young man who shows the spirit you do.

Cooke-Telar Lenses.

H. G. Crose, Gary, Ind., says:

You will find attached a page from the catalog of a Chicago firm. I would call your attention to the Cooke-Telar lens which is designed to supply a given focal length with about one-half of the bellows extension required by other lenses, which would mean, for the same focal length, one-half of the back focus when applied to the projector. These might prove valuable in motion picture projection, provided they do not sacrifice other qualities to too great an extent. I believe your light on that radiant, vibratory energy which excites the senses of vision is proving most valuable to operators, and will have much to do with getting better optical equipment on the machines. I spent a week previous to the Chicago Exhibitors' Convention getting my operating room ready for inspection, and then went in to Chicago to invite you out, but was disappointed. If you are ever near Gary in the future, we would be glad to have you stop off and let you know what a no-good bunch of operators we are. We would like to have you in the summer some time, if possible, as the boys have a camp here on Deep River, under the management of Brother Bayliss Cosner. (I beat you to it, old top. It has already been published in the department.—Ed.) I am sure the fish would be glad to have the privilege of nibbling at your bait. But seriously we would like to have you whenever you can come.

Well, Brother Crose, I had expetced to raise a cloud of dust getting back to Little Old New York when I left Wisconsin, but Cleveland is demanding that I stop there, and if you wish it, I will stop in Gary also. I won't arrive there, however, much before the last of May.

As to the lenses, I have sent the following letter to the Chicago firm. If it develops into anything I will spread the result forth on the pages of the department.

Sweet, Wallach & Company, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Mr. H. G. Crose, Gary, Ind., has sent me a page of your catalog showing the Cooke-Telar lens. Will you kindly advise whether or not these lenses are adapted to the projection of pictures, and what the effective diameters or openings of the lenses of various focal length are, this latter being of extreme importance? Please give these diameters in inches, in order that there may be no error. I would also like to know whether or not these lenses are available in all the different focal lengths at this time, and if they are suitable for the projection of pictures. I would suggest, gentlemen, that you send me some samples for testing. They will, of course, be handled very carefully and returned to you in good order. Very truly yours,

F. H. Richardson

He Let the Parade Go By.

C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y., writes:

> Well, Brother Richardson, I started "hammer and tongs" after question 159, and the more I "hammered" the less I found I knew about the respective efficiencies of the rectifier and the motor generator set. The claims of each manufacturer disputes the claims of the other. (Wonderful!—Ed.) I wrote the G. E. Company direct, but—nothing doing. Now, inasmuch as I have never had the pleasure of using either of these perfectly good machines, I have decided to sit on the fence and let the parade go by. I shall watch with much interest the replies to questions 159, 160 and 161.

The editor is wondering if it would not be well for him to build a bomb-proof cellar before publishing the replies to those particular questions.

Picture Not Clear.

Earl Sinks, Golconda, Ill., sends in subscription to the Moving Picture World and says:

> I have a Power's Six A, with automatic loop setter, etc. Am using 110 volts A. C. through Fort Wayne compensarc. The throw is 75 feet. I use cored carbons and one 6½ and one 7½-inch condenser. My trouble is that the picture is not clear. It shows the moving of the carbons. When the carbon is far apart it casts a dark shadow across the picture; when close I have a dark spot in the center. What is the trouble?

In the first place, Brother Sinks, see to it that your lamp in the Six has the same angle that the Five lamp has. Next I think you have a spot in too sharp focus at the aperture. I would suggest that you line up your lens system as per Tables, A. B, C and D, November 4 issue. Here is the way to do it. First: measure the diameter of your objective lens and the exact distance from the aperture to the back surface of the objective lens when the picture is in sharp focus on the screen. Next run your eye along the lower line of figures in Table A until you find one corresponding to, or very nearly corresponding to, the diameter of your objective; then, having found that, let your eye pass up the perpendicular column of figures above the figure representing the diameter of your objective until you find the figure corresponding, or very nearly corresponding to the back focus at which your lens is working. If you do not find any such figure, then your lens is of too small diameter to be used at the back focus you are using it. If you do, however, find a figure corresponding, or very nearly corresponding to your back focus, then let your eye travel to the left horizontally until you reach the extreme left-hand column, and the figure contained therein will be the distance you should have between the apex of the front lens and the film, the apex being the highest point on the rounded, or concave surface of the lens. That is point No. 1. Next look in Table B, under the head "Amps. A. C.," and find the amperage you are using. Then under "Using Plano-convex" you will find the distance the crater should be from the center of the condenser. Then looking at Table C, locate the curve line most near to the intersection of the horizontal line representing 4¼ and the perpendicular line over "21" and see what its number is. Then look in Table D for the corresponding number and you will get your condenser combination. For instance: Suppose you have an objective lens 1½ inch in diameter, that you are using 60 amperes A. C., and that the back focus is 3 inches. First at the bottom of the tenth column to the right (not counting the first one) in Table A you will find the figures 1½, the diameter of your objective. Following up perpendicularly in the column above we find 3 in the second space from the top. Following this line out to the left we find that we must have 21 inches between the apex of the front condensing lens and the film. We thus establish our first point as 21. Now look at Table B. Opposite 60 amperes A. C. With plano-convex lenses we find we can bring our arc to within 4 inches of the center of the condenser mount without excessive condenser breakage, using improved condenser mount, of course. Looking at Table C, in the column of figures at the left, we find "4," and following straight out to the right on the horizontal line opposite that figure until we come to the line immediately over the figures "21." In the horizontal row of figures at the bottom we find curve line 3 to be the nearest to the intersection of those two lines, and looking in Table D we find that curve 3 calls for a 6½-6½ condenser combination. Try that out and let me know how it works. I think you will find it will overcome your difficulty. If it does not we will see what else can be done.

Proper Lens Diameter.

John Solar, Watertown, N. Y., says:

> In using Friend Griffiths' tables (presumably November 4 issue.—Ed.) it is highly important to use the proper diameter, or effective aperture, of the lens. An examination of the 4-in. E.F. Bausch & Lomb, and a Gundlach of the same focal length, discloses the fact that the diameter of the glass in the Bausch & Lomb lens is 1½ inch and in the Gundlach is 1¾ inch. But the inside diameter of the clamp ring of the Bausch & Lomb is 1 13/32 inch, and the diameter of the Gundlach is 1 15/32 inch. These rings act as diaphragms, or stops, which form the effective aperture of the lens. From the above figures we see there is really only 1/16 of an inch difference in the effective aperture of these two lenses, whereas if we measure the diameter of the lens barrel itself we would have a difference of approximately ¼ inch.
>
> If we measure the diameter of the opening on the outside of the Gundlach lens, it will be found to be about 1 23/32 inch, which, by the table, would call for a distanace of 18 inches between condensers and film aperture, but if we take the effective aperture, or inside diameter of the clamp ring, we have 1 15/32 inch, which by the table calls for a distance of about 22 inches, instead of 18. From this we see that the tables would lose a large part of their value unless we take the actual effective diameter of the lens. With the Bausch & Lomb lens, the lenses are clamped in from the outside at one end, and the measurement may be taken at this point. The principal thing is, however, to use smallest diameter at any point in the lens as the effective diameter, or diameter of the lens. One of these lenses projecting a picture at about 70 feet worked at a back focus of about 2½ inches, and the other for the same distance at a back focus of 3 inches, with only 1/16 of an inch difference in diameter. The lens with the longer back focus projected a picture from 40 to 50 per cent. better than the one with the shorter back focus.
>
> This seems to show us that it is not so much the amount of light which passes through the lens which projects a sharp, bright picture as it is the quality or design. I don't wish to be understood as meaning to say, however, that it is not desirable to pass all the light possible through the lens, but we can pass all the light we can generate, and it will not improve the picture unless we have a condenser that will focus this light to sharp, distinct points. From my experiments and observations of projection, I believe that any appreciable improvement in projection will, in the end, come from better designed projection lenses. This sounds simple but, believe me, the chap who accomplishes that end will have a dome which at least partly fills his hat.

I would recommend to the careful consideration of the Bausch & Lomb, the Gundlach, and the Crown Optical Companies that portion of this article in italics. Also I would recommend to operators that they pay careful attention to what Brother Solar says about the effective lens diameter when attempting to use the tables. As to Brother Solar's remarks about the amount of light passing through not improving the picture unless the definition is sharp, why that is not true. Friend Solar, I think, is confusing two very different problems. We can get a much more brilliant picture by passing additional light through, even though the definition be poor, but the mere passing of additional light won't have anything at all to do with the sharpening of the picture. That is and can only be accomplished by excellence of lens construction. I have long advocated the use of high-class lenses. I am firmly convinced that the cheap projection lens has only one quality to recommend it, viz.: its cheapness. I would like to see the Bausch & Lomb, the Gundlach and the Crown Optical people put out a projection lens costing $50 or $60, and worth that money. I say $50 or $60 because I believe from what I have learned on this subject a really high-class astigmatic lens can be marketed at that price, and we certainly need it. Not only does the high class lens give much sharper definition, but it gives greater brilliancy, because it makes the whites whiter and the blacks blacker; also if a true astigmatic it produces a perfectly flat field.

Film Lubricator.

There is now on the market an article known as the "Film Laundering Outfit" and "Triple Strength Film Lubricator," made in Louisville, Ky., the idea being to prevent the deposit of emulsion from first run films on the tension shoes. As to the efficiency of the lubricator and laundering, I am not prepared to either commend or condemn it, not having made a test. However, the sales of the lubricator are made with a "money back" guarantee. It is sprayed on the side of the film while the film is wound on the reel, therefore its application is very simple. Its manufacturer shows some excellent letters of recommendation from operators, but there is a wide difference between "letters of recommendation" and actual bona fide tests made by and for this department.

When You're in Trouble
RICHARDSON'S
MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK
FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS
Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe for Your Ailments.
There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.
BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID
Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture World office will promptly fill your orders.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Schiller Bldg. Chicago, Ill. 17 Madison Ave., New York City. Haas Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.

Motion Pictures in Maritime Provinces

Remarkable Development of the Industry in Few Years—Many New Houses Now Building or Projected

IF ONE can judge by present indications, the three Maritime Provinces, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, believe firmly in the future of the motion picture industry. By the time, say nine months from now, that all theaters now in course of construction, and those for which plans have already been made, are ready for business the total investment in moving picture theaters in the three provinces will represent approximately $1,170,000. It is only within the past year or so that this section of the dominion has taken hold of the moving picture industry in any sort of a whole-hearted way, but the hesitancy that marked its development in the early stages has more than been offset by its rapid progress during the last few months.

Splendid new picture theaters are being constructed on an elaborate scale in communities where heretofore it was never thought that a permanent amusement of any kind could be properly supported. Outlying districts are being invaded by exhibitors, one, two, and very frequently three nights a week with very gratifying results. Maritime exhibitors' investments of the last six months alone represent more money than put into any other venture, with the possible exception of the war.

With the country laboring under a heavy burden, with the three provinces stripped of 39,000 of their able bodied men, general prosperity, with which the motion picture industry has kept apace, has warranted a proposed expenditure since last September of $470,000 or nearly half a million dollars. Estimates based on figures furnished by men who are familiar with conditions, set the valuation of $500,000 on all investments previous to September, 1916. It is obvious, then, that motion picture development in the Maritime Provinces since last fall, has been almost doubled.

Were a great conflict not raging, in which the Dominion was taking a very important part, and affairs running along in their natural course, this rapid advancement, after a long period of inactivity, could not pass unnoticed, but with the country deprived of one-twentieth of its wage earners, and with the demands upon its purse, and what is infinitely more precious, its flesh and blood, the march of the photoplay can be called little short of phenomenal. The vision of the men who have nursed the motion picture industry from its infancy to its present state of robustness coincides with that of Sir Thomas Esmond, a member of the British House of Commons from North Wexford, Ireland, who while making an address in St. John, said, "All Canada needs is people—population to make it the greatest country in the world. At the close of the war, the sons of Ireland, and other British colonies, will turn their eyes towards Canada, and then we shall see it progress as it never has before."

The pictures, the theaters, the service, and even the methods of advertising are improving, and Canada, though perhaps slow in awakening to this has jumped in with a hearty good will to show that the esprit de corps is not lacking in one man of the great industry.

Judging by the last census the population of the provinces is between 900,000 and 1,000,000 people. Thirty-nine thousand of these have taken up arms. The remainder, scattered over large areas, with thousands living in small villages that the moving picture has not yet invaded, represents the patronage upon which the hundred or so exhibitors have to depend. Estimates show that 100,000 of these people seldom see a photoplay once in six months. This leaves, after deducting the 39,000 now in the service of the Empire, about 861,000 upon whom the Maritime exhibitors must depend to keep their theaters running. The whole shows a per capita investment of about $1.40. Considering the amount of rural territory over which the investment is distributed, and the many interlying sparsely settled communities, it is believed that a very favorable comparison can be made with sections of the United States, except, of course, the densely populated urban districts.

There is little difficulty in substantiating this claim of the Maritime Provinces. Previous to September 1st the estimated value of the then ninety odd houses was $500,000. No one can reasonably dispute that as a fair valuation, placing, as it does, the average value at $5,000. It is very easy to account for the remainder.

New Picture Theaters.

J. Kelty, proprietor of the People's theater, Yarmouth, N. S., will, it is understood, have ready for occupancy by early spring a house that is to cost $50,000. The firm of Seymour and Gibson, from which Mr. Seymour recently withdrew his interests, early in the fall completed the erection at Woodstock, N. B., of the New Bijou, costing about $15,000. F. G. Spencer, proprietor of a chain of 14 theaters in the provinces, already has plans under way for a new $100,000 house on King's Square. St. John, opposite B. F. Keith's new Imperial. Early in October, Charles F. Givan completed the construction in Sussex, N. B., of the Lyric, a snug little house, representing an investment of $15,000. One of the most important openings of the year will be the new Casino of R. J. McAdam at Halifax, N. S. The house, costing $100,000, will be open and doing business before Christmas.

P. J. Leger recently completed his new opera house at Bathurst, N. D. The exact cost of the building is not known, but judging from its seating capacity and exterior and interior finish, it could not possibly have been built for less than $10,000. A house of similar design and size was but recently opened at Newcastle, N. B., by W. Richards. The cost is said to be around $10,000. J. J. Daley, formerly in partnership with Mr. Givan at Sussex is rebuilding the old opera house, and is investing $15,000 in the structure. Solomon Soffe, who is making his debut into the moving picture business at Pictou, N. S., will have his new theater costing $25,000 ready for business by New Year's.

New Glasgow, N. S., as a single community is leading the provinces in the way of moving picture theater construction. N. W. Mason is soon to have ready his $80,000 house, and Warren Smith is rivalling his achievement with one costing $100,000. Early in the spring ground is to be struck in Kentville, N. S., for two theaters; one is to be the property of Clark and Hiltz, and the other of F. H. Seltzer. Each, according to estimates, will cost about $25,000.

These figures, totaling as they do $1,170,000, do not mean that old theaters are being deserted for the new ones. Neither do these figures represent extensive improvements that have been made throughout the provinces, especially in St. John, McAdam, Fredericton and other large centers.

HOLAH MANAGER OF INTERNATIONAL CINCINNATI OFFICE.

The newly opened branch office of the International Film Service in Cincinnati will have for its manager C. E. Holah, one of the best known men in the trade. Mr. Holah entered the moving picture industry seven years ago being first engaged by the General Film Company at Cleveland, and later at Columbus, Ohio. After a year of successful work there, he was transferred to New York where he had charge of the paper departments at both branches of the General Film Company. His work in the metropolis earned for him promotion to the Chicago office, where he managed what was at the time the largest paper department in the country. In February, 1915, he went with Pathe as manager of their Cincinnati office, meeting with such signal success that at the end of the year Vitagraph made a bid for his services in the same city.

WILLIAM FOX SHIFTS RELEASES.

A change in releases has been made in the list recently announced by the Fox Film Corporation. Instead of "The Island of Desire," in which George Walsh stars, "The Love Thief" will be released on December 18.

The extraordinary attention which is being given to "The Island of Desire," because of the nature of its story, necessitated the change.

DORIS KENYON RETURNS FROM VACATION.

Doris Kenyon, who plays the leading part in "The Ocean Waif," released by the International, has just returned from Tupper Lake, in the Adirondacks, where she visited her brother, Dr. Raymond T. Kenyon, who represents Essex County in the New York State Legislature.

Plots and Portraits

By Epes Winthrop Sargent

Analysis of the Star System from an Entirely New Angle, by a Theater-Goer Who Sees Much

WRITING from a resort near Los Angeles, J. J. Inman-Kane aptly classifies one type of motion picture in a few words. Mr. Kane, to disarm criticism, is studying the writing of motion picture plays. But he is not one of the over-hasty who damn the business in general because he does not sell his scripts. He knows that he must study before he can collect the profits of those studies. One of his methods of study is to see practically every picture thrown on the public screens at Los Angeles and it is with no half knowledge that he writes:

> The trouble with the cinema is too much star and too little plot. And now we have the "Miss Blankety Blank Film Company." What do they give us? A five to eight reel motion portrait of Miss Blank.

And that is just about what many of them are—motion portraits. Sometimes they start out with a plot, but it doesn't last. Miss Blank is getting a very fancy salary. They must get their money back by using her all they can. They most assuredly do. We get Miss Blank on the front line and in close-ups, in silhouette, profile, full face, bust, three-quarters and full length. Now and then we get a glimpse of the story that someone started to tell, but it is seldom that there is enough of the story to gain interest, and what little has been left in is so distorted and pulled about to give Miss Blank extra prominence that it does not interest even mildly.

Of course it is one of the fundamentals of story construction that all of the action must be held to the leading character, but this does not mean that the central figure shall camp upon the front line or pull the camera with her when she goes up stage.

This is an angle of the star evil that has not been emphasized very greatly, and yet it is a very real evil. A company pays so much money for a star, that they overwork her in their efforts to get their money's worth, and the star is perfectly willing to be overworked if it gives her the undue prominence that she considers her right. This is one reason that few stars last more than three to five seasons. They tire the public. Sit right down and write out a list of the stars of five years ago. Barring Miss Pickford, how many of them are stars today? They may be featured in plays, but how many rank with the ten players who draw the most money to the box office on the strength of their names? People are no longer interested, because they have seen too much of them.

And yet, mind you, many of these fallen stars still demand, and receive, large salaries; not the four figure checks that the present-day stars get, but more than they are worth to the exhibitor in the box office report and more than they are worth to the manufacturer in the demand they create for his product.

And the stars of old lasted longer than will some of the stars of today, because they had better material. They were seen in plays, in the old days. Now they are seen in a series of poses. When you are tired of seeing them, you stop going, knowing that there will be little in the play to interest you. This is one reason that there are so many women stars as against a few men. They last longer on the screen on mere looks. The men need more plot as a background for their portraits, for even to the hero-worshipper a man looks silly merely posing for five thousand feet. He must be given something to do, and that makes for more plot.

It is sufficient that a woman looks "cute" or impressive. Plays can be built that will feature her dimpled elbow or her fetching ways and she can get away with it. Rules of construction, dramatic values, plot values and even common sense are swept aside to make the star's holiday. She looks cute in boy's clothes. Nine plays out of ten show her so dressed, whether this fits the plot or not. She can dance. She dances in all plays, and if the author leaves the dance out the star and the director put the dance in.

It is getting to the point where the writer of photoplays is becoming extinct. He has been nudged out by the faker and the made-to-order writer, the man who takes the measure of the star and writes a play to those dimensions. One of the soundest actors on the dramatic stage has been crying for more than a year for a chance to show what he can do in a certain line. Being a man of sound sense, he wants something real. And his editor cannot get it for him. He doesn't know where to look, for one thing, and if it was brought him he would not know it if he saw it, for he is merely a hand-me-down from the fringe of journalism with no sense of story values.

In spite of all the talk of the past year, nothing has been done to genuinely encourage authors. Much has been done to disgust them—most of all by those men who are by their professions strongest for the uplift. Portrait painters and effect designers are wanted, not authors. And largely it is the star system that is to blame.

British Notes

THE productions of the Film Company of Ireland referred to in recent letters are to be released through Davison's Agency, the principal of which is at present in New York.

* * *

Ernest Reed, the general manager of the Fox Company in this country, has left London on a business visit to the States.

* * *

One of the partners of the Cine Exchange of Paris while in London informs me that an important resolution has been passed by the artistes of the Theatre Francaise to the end that none will appear in future in screen productions.

* * *

John McKenzie, a former camera man of Kinemacolor, has been engaged by J. D. Walker to take a series of travel and industrial pictures in Great Britain.

* * *

Much is being heard in London of the Spanish film version of "Christopher Columbus," from the Barcelona station of Film Cinematographies. Mr. Drossuer is the producer and was assisted in the task by William Bourgeois and Wague. The length is ten reels and the first public presentation is expected to take place in Paris in a few weeks' time.

* * *

Roscoe Spurgeon has now settled down to the organization of his new exchange. The film he will handle will be known as Windmill Exclusives and his address will be Great Windmill House, Great Windmill Street, London W. The first release of which Mr. Spurgeon has world's rights for disposal is a naval picture entitled "For the Honor of Australia." This will be followed by the Frohman productions recently acquired in America beginning with "The Conquest of Canaan."

* * *

The Exhibitors' Association is now being reconstructed by a professional organizer of such matters into the National Union of Exhibitors. Quite a number of exhibitors, members of the original association, do not approve of the change and intend to form immediately a contemporary society. A limited liability company may be registered at Somerset House within the near future for this purpose.

* * *

The London County Council at its last meeting carried a recommendation that a new condition of the issue of kinema licenses shall be that no person under the age of eighteen years shall be employed as operator and that a competent operator shall be present in the box the whole of the time the projector is being operated.

* * *

Ireland has entered the censorship arena with a determined onslaught. Two municipal offenders have been appointed by Dublin Corporation as censors of moving picture films to be exhibited in the city.

* * *

Percy Nash, producer with the Neptune Film Co., yet more recently associated with the Tiber Film Co., of Rome, has entered into partnership with Chevaliar Bocchi for the production of feature photoplays in England and Italy. Mr. Nash is now at work upon a picturized version of Louis N. Parker's historical play "Disraeli," which had a successful season in London last winter.

* * *

The Trans-Atlantic Film Co. is releasing on the open market plan the Universal serial "Liberty" on January 1st.

Spokes from the Hub

By Marion Howard.

SEVERAL screen players, here in the spoken play, were bidden to the December meeting of The Film Club on Sunday evening at Hotel Lenox. Among these were Donald Bryan, Raymond Hitchcock, Henry Bergman, Lew Fields, Arnold Daly, Royal Byron and Frank Bacon. It was an unusually jolly hour for members and bidden guests, among whom were David E. Dow of the New England Film Distributors, who gave a short talk on his early experiences with the crude camera. Mrs. William H. Foster of the Ford Hall movement gave a short talk on the attitude of the club women on censorship, against which they set their seal at the great Biennial in New York, where every state in the Union was represented. She urged good robust pictures for children, even with Indians in plenty, and spoke optimistically on the industry's outlook. Mr. Bacon, here in "The Cinderella Man," but better known to thousands of "fans" for his work with the Metros in "Rosemary" and "The Silent Voice," received a cordial welcome. He spoke briefly, and closed with a humorous story. Delbert M. Staley, head of the College of the Spoken Word, and who is training many for the screen, gave "April Showers," a gem of a monologue. Donald Brian told of an experience while rehearsing in "A Voice in the Fog," and later he gave songs with dance steps, much to the edification of all. Beatrice Roberts, who won the prize at the recent ball here, was one of the guests, also the handsome wife of David E. Dow, introduced as "A Daughter of France." Many new members joined. The club attended the private view of "Charity" the other day as guests of the Mutual Film Corporation here, and whose headquarters are near the Fenway Theater, where it was shown to a large company of the Hub's literary lights, clergymen and playgoers generally. Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, introduced as a "live wire" in the pulpit, addressed the company before the play, which met with favor here.

* * *

Among visitors at the recent ball and wholly unnoticed by the management was Mrs. L. Case Russell, the clever writer and author of "The Black Butterfly," featuring Mme. Petrova, and which has been unduly credited to others. Mr. North, Mrs. Clifton, and now Mme. Petrova, have all been credited in print with the authorship, but it is Mrs. Russell who "did the deed" from start to finish. She is at work on "To the Death" and "The Soul of Magdalene." Mrs. Russell is the wife of one of the new Sunbeam pictures promoters here in the Hub, and she writes me that "The House of Shadows," the play for the Sunbeams, is coming along well, with Vaughan Glaser in the leading part.

* * *

We had a delicious little comedy here last week put out by the Christie Film Company called "His Baby," and that baby was the real star of the short reel, for rarely have we seen one so natural and well behaved. Neal Burns and Betty Compson make a dandy pair. Another gem of a play was Pathe's "Shadows and Sunshine," featuring baby Marie Osborne, of whom we expect much after "Little Mary Sunshine." It was put on by Mrs. Ayer, who is doing capacity business at the Exeter and who gives her patrons very high class pictures.

* * *

"War Brides" rightly had a run here at the Globe and drew well for reasons all know. So much has been written in favor of the play, the directorship and the great lesson of it all, that words are superfluous from me. I went three times to see it for the detail and when I saw commuters and others going out before the final picture I was sorry to have them miss that wonderful tableaux with the body of the "woman who dared" held high aloft for the cringing men representing War lords. It was wonderfully effective and so like Herbert Brenon to think of it.

* * *

Did you know that the Hub maintains a Children's Museum? Well, it does, and admission is free. It is delightfully located on the shore of Jamaica Pond and on Saturday afternoons the children are entertained with a talk on subjects worth while, illustrated with five-reel pictures. Charles C. Greeley last week told them all about coffee, taking them into Mexico and Brazil, showing the process and how it is sent all over the world. Cards of admission are required for these and the kiddies look forward to the coming Saturday. While they are educational they are so full of life and scenery, new to the eyes, as to make them invaluable. Brookline, called the richest city of its size in the land, is minus a motion picture house, so devotees are driven into town by the thousands. The Friendly Society, however, meets the difficulty in showing pictures in Union Hall in the Village and for the small sum of 10 cents. This attracts the children largely, who go in for a nickel. The plays are admirably selected. Last Saturday they put on "The Habit of Happiness," one of the cleverest Triangles put out for Douglas Fairbanks—a play of optimism. "Her Majesty the King" was also on the program, a dear little kid play, of interest to adults.

* * *

"Good gracious, if that isn't our old friend 'Freneau,' in 'Gloria's Romance,'" exclaimed a woman in my ear at a theater putting on "Less Than the Dust," which I saw for the first time last night. Sure enough, the hero was none other than David Powell and he made a dandy hero at that. The woman did not know his name, as it was not listed in the Kleine play, but it shows how indelibly the faces get fixed in memory. The play itself is sure to warrant a "repeat" anywhere. Little Mary has repeated her visit here, to our rock-bound coast, and has finished the newest picture featuring bonnie Scotland.

* * *

H. B. Warner in "The Vagabond Prince" made good here and it was a treat to note the outdoor scenes with the California hills around Inceville where they were taken. Warner is a great local favorite and then, too, the name of Thomas H. Ince is so reassuring of something well done. We liked particularly the titles and their setting.

* * *

"The Wager" was some play, starting off with a bet and ending with a surprise twist so dear to the average fan. Emily Stevens did her stunts well, especially with the victim of the bet and it was quite out of the ordinary all through. "Bought and Paid For" proved a most creditable Brady-made picture, featuring his versatile daughter, Alice, and Montague Love, who is strong with the women fans here. "The Madness of Helen," another World film picture, was especially strong and gave Miss Clayton an opportunity to play double. Carlyle Blackwell was all that the dear things in front expected. Quite the gem of the week and from the Paramounts was "The Soul of Kura San," with the Jap players and the new leading woman for the Laskys. Myrtle Stedman who was, as a youth next me said "Some beaut." While the play has not the tempo of "The Cheat" or "The Honorable Friend," it stands out as an achievement quite in keeping with the work of Sessue Hayakawa.

* * *

"Charity" is sure to draw when given the public here by the Mutuals. Linda Griffith has a message here rightly directed. Creighton Hale has done nothing better and is consistent all through. W. S. Hart in "The Return of Draw Egan" gave us another "wild and woolly" play, well done of course. "The Gates of Eden" for the Metro offering was good in spots and Viola Dana would put anything over. I liked the Shaker end of it as it was so correctly done, for well do I recall as a girl the Shirley Shakers here, and their peculiar methods. "The Man Who Stood Still" was another fine play and Lew Fields did himself credit in his conscientious interpretation.

* * *

Well, I was surprised enough to find Earle Foxe, that dependable villain so long with the Laskys, playing a comedy role in a Metro reel featuring Ralph Hertz, the erstwhile husband of Lulu Glaser. He did not seem to fit somehow and we hope to see him cast in one of the more serious plays later.

* * *

Someone sends me from the other side a picture of Ellen Terry in a scene from her first screen play, "Her Greatest Performance," to be put out in January by The Ideal Film Co., Ltd., of London. Strikes me she has made a success of it despite her years and the incidental marks of father time. Thus we will see the art of Terry perpetuated as in the case of Bernhardt and many other noted players.

* * *

Why not pay more attention, directors, to the American flag in picturing cities? We had a fine look at St. Louis but twice the flag was noticed in tatters on pretentious public buildings. It was inexcusable and showed great lack of observation on the part of someone, to say nothing of the absence of a spirit of local pride on the part of the thousands who daily pass under the flags. Unfortunately there is no law against this form of desecration but there should be a law of respect for a flag that stands for so much in these days of strife.

Fichtenberg Discusses Trade Development

By N. E. Thatcher

New Orleans Motion Picture Man Looks for Many Changes in Next Six Years—Suggestions for Distributing Organization

HERMAN FICHTENBERG, pioneer New Orleans exhibitor, and no small factor in the manufacturing end of the picture business, has just returned from an extended visit in New York, where he made an exhaustive study of the conditions which are now affecting the film industry. Mr. Fichtenberg, by reason of his residence at a long distance from New York, is especially and, it might be said, rather fortunately situated for the observation of the signs of the times and for the deduction of logical conclusions therefrom. Constant contact with affairs in New York, which is admittedly the business, or rather the exploiting center of the film business, is apt to give the most astute person a perverted, or, at least a biased view of the situation as it relates to affairs of general influence upon the trade. Therefore, the opinions of Mr. Fichtenberg are worthy of more than casual consideration. He has a lot of his money in New York, but he has his motion picture eye on the entire field in the United States.

Six Years to Make Film Business Conservative.

The situation at the present moment is not as the New Orleans exhibitor would like to have it. The chaotic condition of the business is annoying and not without its element of danger, but Mr. Fichtenberg possesses the valuable faculty of taking the broad view of the situation and this faculty gives him an abiding faith in the future of the business and its ultimate establishment upon a firm and absolutely systematic basis. He declares that it will take six more years of hard and, to a great measure, experimental work, to get the great industry upon a firm and established foundation so that it can take its place and receive its merited recognition in the conservative business world. As the basis of this belief he points to the tortuous road which the automobile and kindred modern businesses had to travel before they found themselves and began to make money with any degree of certainty.

He notes that few of the men who were first identified with the automobile business are with it today and he predicts that few of the names that are now a power in the motion picture field will long survive not that these men are failing to do the best they can according to the light as they see it, but because it appears to be a rule of modern business that men and their methods disappear simultaneously from the field as the process of development continues.

Continuing this line of reasoning, Mr. Fichtenberg predicts that few of the producing companies that are now dominating the motion picture world will be in the field six years from now. The time is made specific because business history shows that it requires fifteen years for any great industry to become stabilized. The film industry is now practically nine years old in this country. It has had a romantic and a spectacular existence. No other big business has run riot so rapidly.

Separate Distributing Agencies.

"Do you know," exclaimed Mr. Fichtenberg, suddenly leaning forward in his chair, "that there has been just as much money lost as there has been made in the film business? Don't lose sight of that fact."

From this fact he makes the deduction that radical changes are necessary for the salvation of the business. Foremost among these changes, he believes, will be the passing of the territorial film exchanges from the control of the various manufacturers. Under the present system it is utterly impossible to prevent the enormous waste of money that is going on all of the time. This money has been spent with such apparent abandonment as to create the impression that any and every branch of the film business must be a veritable gold mine, notwithstanding that such a belief is lamentably far from the truth. It is due in a very large measure to the practice of the executives shutting themselves up in offices in New York and failing or refusing to get into that intimate touch with all sections of the country which has characterized the most successful of other national business institutions.

This objectionable feature will be overcome by the establishment of thoroughly organized and largely capitalized distributing agencies which will take the products of the reputable manufacturers and distribute them under economical methods, thus eliminating wasteage and much of the expensive lost motion that is now eating the profits in the business. It is a good business proposition to have all of the heads of departments on these distributing agencies the owners of stock in the concern, thus making them willing to exert their best efforts at all times for the advancement of the concern. This stock would be issued subject to recall or cancellation upon severance of employment with the agency.

Trusted Men as Stockholders.

Mr. Fichtenberg believes the United States will eventually be divided into districts under this plan and that the men in charge will be in intimate touch with all of the conditions in the district and will be able to serve the exhibitors in an almost perfect manner. He further predicts that the first distributing agency that will allow its trusted men to become stockholders in the parent concern as soon as they become territorial owners, will become the largest single factor in the motion picture business. By territorial owners he means the men who would buy certain territory as it might be assigned in the apportionment of the United States and control the distribution of films in that territory. For instance if a company were to be formed in New York with large capital for the distribution of films and its territory would be allotted to the various subdivisions, then each owner of a subdivision should be allowed to own a substantial block of the stock of the company. In that way the strongest kind of an organization could be built up and one that would withstand the storms that are now threatening the best of the companies that are operating under the old haphazard and ruinous methods.

Co-operation with Artists.

Mr. Fichtenberg is a firm believer in the co-operative plan in the business. He has just closed a contract with one of the most noted film stars on the screen for five years and during that time there is to be a stated division of the profits. By this method he believes that the ruinous practice of film stars bidding against their employers and periodically changing their affiliations in accordance with the attractiveness of their latest financial inducement, will be eliminated. He thinks the industry will thus be allowed to find itself in a large measure and that the other problems will eventually work themselves to satisfactory solution.

And, notwithstanding the very unsatisfactory conditions that prevail in the industry today, he has an abiding faith in the business and declares that the future outlook for the wonderful industry is growing brighter all of the time.

NEW THEATER IN CHILLICOTHE, O.

Plans are being made for the erection of a new theater in the central business district of Chillicothe, O., by Messrs. Albert Douglas and August P. Herman, owners of the Queen and Star theaters of that community, which have been under the management of C. A. Smith, and have been the Paramount exhibitors in that community for a number of years.

The new theater, when completed, will have a seating capacity equal to the Queen and Star theaters, and will be built along the most modern lines, running from the main street to the block in the rear, and having exits on all sides, with a modern ventilating system, and of the latest theater equipments.

OSCAR APFEL GOES TO THE YORKE-METRO.

Oscar Apfel, who until recently was directing William Farnum at the Fox studios, has migrated to the studios of the Yorke-Metro at Hollywood, California. He will direct Harold Lockwood and May Allison, alternating productions with Jay Hunt. This method has been found both economical and productive of better productions by several companies.

ELLA HALL FEATURED IN "POLLY-OOLY."

Director Jack Conway has under production at Universal City a five-reel photoplay, "Polly-Ooly," featuring Ella Hall with George Webb, James McCandless, Bob Worthington and Gretchen Lederer in her support. The story was written by Edgar Jepson and prepared for the screen by E. J. Clawson of the Universal staff.

STRONG CAST FOR "VICAR OF WAKEFIELD."

Supporting Frederick Warde in the Thanhouser edition of "The Vicar of Wakefield" will be Carey Hastings, Kathryn Adams, Gladys Leslie, Boyd Marshall, William Parke, Jr., Arthur Bauer, Grace De Carlton, Thomas A. Curran, Robert Vaughn, Morgan Jones and Barbara Howard and Tula Belle.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Interesting Educationals

Including Four Scenics, a Mining Subject, an Indian Pow-Wow and a Christmas Subject.

"Such Is Alaska."

THIS subject, which is being released by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, undertakes with considerable success to convey a correct idea of what Alaska is like. Intermingled with scenes of Alaskan landscape are a number of animated drawings, some of which undertake to trace a similarity between the seals and the Eskimos. Large herds of reindeer are also shown with explanations regarding the raising of the reindeer. Tom cod fishing and the preparation of the white whale meat, which is used for food by the Eskimos are also interesting.

"Universal Screen Magazine No. 4."

In the fourth issue of the Universal Screen Magazine five interesting subjects are presented. The first is a short but clearly explained illustration of a new automatic mail handling device by which mail and parcel post can be delivered to and received from a moving train with little or no inconvenience. The second subject shows how the A. S. P. C. A. cares for sick or injured horses. We see an injured horse placed in the ambulance by means of motor power, taken to the hospital, where to save it the pain of walking, it is placed in an iron harness and lifted bodily to the operating table; where it is made secure before the injured part is carefully dressed. The third subject is a lesson for the housewife in mixing biscuits. And, by-the-way, a cooking lesson appears in each issue of the Universal Screen Magazine, arranged in conjunction with the National Housewife's League. The fourth subject is the Venus Fly Trap, a plant whose sensitive, thorn-edged leaves close like the two sides of a shell the moment an insect touches them. The fifth subject is a study in animated sculpture, entitled "Birds of a Feather."

"Radium."

Reel Life No. 32 contains an instructive treatise on radium, a metal which has proved itself invaluable in combating diseases of the tissues. The metal, found in carnotite, is crushed and then crystallized. We learn that radium at the present time sells at $37,000 per gram, and that it takes 10 tons of carnotite to make $5,000 worth of radium. A well illustrated subject.

"The Nile."

"Mutual Tours Around the World No. 6" contains as its opening subject nicely photographed and well chosen scenes along the river Nile, from Cairo to Luxor, including Assuit. We are shown the pumps which force water to the irrigation canals, various craft passing to and fro along the river, a river boat run aground in the shallows because of a stranded felucca, an ancient village on the banks of the Nile, the dam of Esna, through the lock of which we pass, and interesting samples of Egyptian architecture.

"Lake Luzerne."

Delightful views of this beautiful lake snuggled among the mountains of Switzerland are found in "Mutual Tours Around the World No. 6." In these views are included the city of Luzerne, which is situated at the western end of the lake, Tell's Chapel and the Statue of William Tell.

"Carcasonne."

Views of the various points of interest around Carcasonne, an old feudal city of France, are also to be found in "Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 6." The interior walls of this city, we are told by subtitle, were built in the 6th century, and the exterior walls in the 13th century. Among her fortified towers as shown are the towers of Aude, Narbonne, St. Narziare and Visigoth. The old cathedral of St. Naziare and various chateaus, etc., are also shown.

"Hiyu Skookum Pow-Wow La Push."

One of the Educational Film Corporation of America's recent offerings, which shows us how the Indians of the village of La Push, on the northwest corner of the United States, forty miles south of Tatoosh Island, celebrate the Fourth of July. In the present instance the Quillitutes, owners of the town, invited their neighbors, the Quinaults and Taholas, for a six-day pow-wow. This pow-wow included the hoisting of the American flag, the reading of the Declaration of Independence and the rendering of "America" by a double quartet of natives. There was also a wrestling match, and a smiling contest, a white girls' race, a ball game and a horse race. The horse race proceeded on the sea shore in co-operation with the moods of the tide; postponements occurred at the rise of the tide, while the racing went ahead with as much celerity as many arguments and much talk would allow at the ebb.

"Oddities in Film Form."

One of the newest of the Robert C. Bruce film offerings for the Educational Films Corporation of America is a collection of odd happenings and individualities which he came across in the course of his sojourn in the western states, or out-of-the-ordinary occurrences, as they are termed in subtitle. The first of these has to do with the motorcycle "nut" whose Big Idea is to get as near the summit of Mt. Hood, Oregon (11,225 feet) as gas will carry him. At 8,000 feet he was forced to change his mind on account of the softness of the snow. Another oddity is the White Clark Crow found only in western Montana, and which has an unusual appetite for peanuts, with its greatest competitor the rock squirrel. A porch house built by a proprietor at a western summer resort, a group of children, big and little, actually bathing and sporting in a mud pool, and some fishing scenes complete the film.

"Working for Santa Claus."

In No. 32 of "Reel Life" will be found a short subject treating of the making of Christmas toys, and also an attractive display room, in which a little boy and girl are represented as awaking on Christmas morning to this roomful of wonderful toys, including a train of cars on a miniature track, a wonderful French doll, a set of china from which they proceed to take a light morning repast, and in which the doll is included, and other things equally interesting to children.

M. I. MacD.

"The People vs. John Doe"

Strong Appeal in Favor of the Abolishment of Capital Punishment in Five-Reel Universal Production.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

HUMANITARIANS will find in this five-part feature production a worthwhile subject for propaganda. It was written and produced by Lois Weber, and has the dramatic qualifications that situations such as the story presents must needs afford. The story, which is not based entirely on any one murder trial, has evidently been inspired by the recent Stielow case, and drives its truth home with considerable force.

John Doe is an illiterate farmer who can neither read nor write. At that point of his career when the family treasury is about depleted a well-to-do and kindly man of his own profession gives him work and a house in which to keep his family. The murder, one stormy night, of his benefactor, brings upon him the onus of the crime. A false confession wrung by an unscrupulous detective from the half-witted brother of John Doe, plus the result of a "third degree" examination, brings him almost to the electric chair, when evidence gathered through the instrumentality of a woman lawyer who has interested herself in the case causes the judge to commute his sentence.

While this is not a pleasant picture to view, still it is one that inspires thought in the right direction, and is probably the most powerful production on the subject that has yet been made.

"The Sheep of Chelan"

A Film of Industrial Value, Presented with Touches of Poetic Beauty.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

ONE is never more strongly reminded of the artistic possibilities in the making of the educational film than in viewing a subject of ordinary industrial quality, such as "The Sheep of Chelan," whose preparation has been guided by a poetic mind. Except for references made to the price of chops, and one or two points of practical interest, we would forget that the herds of sheep roaming about the beautiful forest reserve of Chelan had traveled across country for possibly a period of ten days before being crowded on a three-deck barge, 2,500 at a time, and brought up Lake Chelan, to the reserve where they are herded and fattened for the market.

Scene from "The Sheep of Chelan" (Educational).

In looking at this film, which was made for the Educational Films Corporation of America by Robert C. Bruce, it will be noticed that the scenes have been chosen with an eye to obtaining the most picturesque views afforded in this beautiful location of river and rock, mountain and lake and forest. Most telling are such scenes as those in which groups of sheep appear on the wooded hillside, partly in sunlight and partly in shadow. We are reminded of how the herder loves God's out-of-doors, and sings to himself and the hills the day through, and of how the faithful dogs do the work of watching the flocks while the herders keep on singing.

How to Gather and Hold Audiences

Booklet Issued by the National Committee on Films for Young People Contains Valuable Information.

"BETTER FILM ENTERTAINMENTS" is the title of the useful little booklet that is being circulated by the National Committee on Films for Young People (in affiliation with the National Board of Review) and which contain a fund of information of extraordinary value to those who are active in the promotion of better film entertainments. The facts and suggestions contained in this booklet are based on experience gathered by this committee, and are intended to serve individuals and organizations endeavoring to stimulate interest in selected film entertainments. These suggestions appear under various headings, such as "Where Do the Films Come From," "The Cost of Pictures," "Where and How to Start Entertainments" and "Special Lists." The second half of the booklet is given up to the discussion of "Children's Motion Picture Entertainments."

This booklet, which should be largely in demand, can be had by application to the National Committee on Films for Young People, 70 Fifth avenue, New York City.

MODERN ROAD BUILDING METHODS.

The Du Pont Company, of Wilmington, Del., have had made at considerable expense a two-part film illustrating the latest up-to-date methods of road building. It illustrates the troubles that accrue from inadequate drainage, and methods used in correcting them. It shows the dangers of boulders and stumps in and near the road, easy and quick methods of crushing and hauling stone, repairing a dirt road, re-surfacing a worn-out road, ending with views of a completed road which affords easy and rapid transportation. It is planned to have this film, which runs about thirty-five minutes, shown at meetings of farmers, road builders, automobile associations and other gatherings directly interested in good roads.

UNICORN CHANGES DENVER MANAGER.

Louis Goldstein, long associated successfully with the Unicorn Film Service Corporation's Denver branch, has resigned to take a half interest in the Superior Features, Inc. The position left vacant by Mr. Goldstein's resignation has been assumed by R. Ehrensoft, who brings to his new post the experience of several years in the motion picture industry. In speaking of the resignation of Mr. Goldstein, Fred B. Murphy, vice-president and general manager of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, said:

"It is with great regret that we part with Mr. Goldstein, as his record in connection with the "Jimmie Dale Series" and the Billy West comedy pictures was a most enviable one. We wish him all success in his new venture. Mr. Ehrensoft, who takes up Mr. Goldstein's duties, is a man in whom we have every confidence. Mr. Ehrensoft's open record speaks for itself and undoubtedly he will duplicate and even surpass Mr. Goldstein's achievements."

J. V. LYNN, PARAMOUNT'S SALT LAKE PUBLICITY MAN.

J. V. Lynn, a well-known figure in the motion picture industry in the western part of the country and who has grown up with the business, has been appointed the publicity and advertising manager of the Progressive Motion Picture Company, of Seattle, Wash., distributors in that district of Paramount Pictures.

Nearly four years ago, Mr. Lynn opened and operated the Grand theater at Everett, Wash. He later took over the Princess and Star theaters of Everett, and operated them in conjunction with the Grand. His interest in Everett was sold about a year ago, from which time he has been acting as manager and publicity agent for the People's Amusement Company, Paramount's first run exhibitors in Portland, Ore.

OHIO CENSORS PASS WM. F. ALDRICH'S FILM.

A man's first film is dearer to his heart than his whole program is later on. W. F. Aldrich has a first film that has been shown to the Ohio Board of Censors and passed by them without a single cut. It was neither feared or expected that they would cut, for the story is clean and wholesome, according to Mr. Aldrich—we have not had the privilege as yet of seeing it. The title is "The Slave Mart." The story is of modern New York and the title comes from an incident in the story and is the name of a play within the picture, the play being a part of a cabaret show. Margaret Snow and James Cruze have the leading roles in it. It is to be sold on the state rights plan.

DARWIN KARR BACK IN NEW YORK.

Darwin Karr has been in Chicago with the Essanay Company for a year and a half and has just returned. He looked to us even younger than when he went to Chicago; perhaps it is in the quality of his smile, he being glad to get back to the Screen Club, of which there is only one. There may be Chicago Screen Clubs and clubs in other cities, but they all must tack on the name of the district or some other qualification. Darwin is always welcome at his own home club, the Screen Club. It is said that a new serial is the reason for his return to the metropolis.

LAEMMLE BUYS INTEREST IN PLAYHOUSE.

Pending negotiations which hung fire for several weeks between Alfred Hamburger, prominent theater manager and owner of Chicago, and Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, to operate the Playhouse jointly during its photoplay season were terminated Friday, December 8, and papers signed by the interested parties. The agreement takes effect immediately and will be put in force during the forthcoming summer months or sooner if the theater becomes available.

At last! At last! Just the thing we have waited twenty years to see. Twenty years, by the way, that's a long time in this film business. Some wait!

Artistic Subtitles

Exemplification of Recent Development Seen in Triangle-Kay Bee Work By Irvin Willat.

THERE has been growing of late a new conception of the perfect photoplay that admits the subtitle as an important factor. The old idea said that the technically perfect photoplay was one whose action was self-explanatory. That is, the entire story was to be told in pictures, and there was to be no resort to printed matter to carry the action along.

Miniature Figures in Introductory.—Subtitle from "A Gamble in Souls."

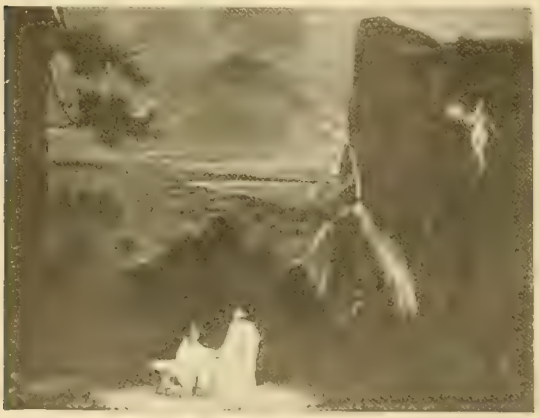
In due course of time, and after considerable experiment, it became evident that there is frequently an economy in the printed line that cannot probably exist in detailed physical action. To quote Sir J. M. Barrie's new classic instance, how in the world is one going to convey in pantomime that one has "a brother who drinks port in Shropshire?"

No film producing organization has been more keenly alive to this fact than Triangle-Kay Bee. Fortunately Irvin Willat, an artist of discernment and distinct capabilities had been placed in charge of the photographic and art department. Willat set to work to develop the subtitle to its ultimate possibility. According to the Willat definition, this means that the subtitle must fit absolutely into the play of which it is a part, carrying the action forward and explaining events that it may be impractical to picture, besides throwing sidelights of humor or wisdom upon the plot.

Willat began in one of the earliest of the Triangle-Kay



Continuation of Action of Miniature Figures in Subtitle from "A Gamble in Souls."

Bee releases to utilize the decorative subtitle, supplementing the printed line with symbols of the ideas developed.

Probably no better instance of this may be cited than the subtitle in "Civilization's Child," where the efforts of a ward politician to get an unprotected girl into his clutches was symbolized by a realistic picture of a spider endeavoring to entice an unsuspecting little fly into the meshes of his web.

The decorative subtitle which Willat originated and continues to carry out so successfully in Triangle-Kay Bee releases, has been imitated far and wide. But Willat is by no means through. He is not particular whether he is complimented by imitators or not. As fast as others get out copies, he springs something new.

This explains one more innovation, exemplified in the subtitles of the new Kay Bee production, "A Gamble in Souls." Persons viewing the advance showing of this Triangle feature were pleasantly startled to have the miniature figures in the introductory subtitle come to life, and give just an inkling of the action to follow in a brief prologue—the sort of prologue that has not been in general use since the time of the strolling mummers in Elizabethan England.

In its way, this photographic subtitle will be one of the most significant examples of art progress of the motion picture year.

Shipman With the Williamsons

Old Time Amusement Manager Becomes Business Manager of the Submarine Film Co.

THE Williamson Brothers and the Submarine Film Corporation have now completed their organization for the making and marketing of Submarine Photo Dramas, of which definite announcements will be made in the near future. With no failures, and two most pronounced successes to their credit, the Williamson Brothers hold a unique and firmly established position in the motion picture industry.

Their first picture—the first Submarine Motion Picture ever made, and known throughout the world as The Williamson Submarine Expedition Picture—has already cleared over a quarter of a million dollars. Their second picture, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," made in partnership with the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, and the first photo drama ever made under the sea, is destined to make two separate fortunes for its joint owners.

Ernest Shipman.

The money power back of The Submarine Film Corporation, is provided by some of the most prominent business men of the south. T. S. Southgate, president, is a millionaire broker of Norfolk. A. F. Cathey, vice-president, is a power in the Coca Cola industry. C. R. Capps, one of the directors, is vice-president of the Seaboard Air Line Railway. Nathaniel Beaman, treasurer, is the president of the First National Bank of Norfolk. George and Ernest Williamson are respectively secretary and general manager.

Due to his long experience in the theatrical and motion picture business, Ernest Shipman has been selected to act in the responsible capacity of business manager. A friendship started June, 1913, when the Williamson Brothers were exhibiting the possibilities of submarine photography at the First International Moving Picture Convention at the Palace. At that time Ernest Shipman realized the import of their inventions, and later, when in charge of the Feature Booking Department of the Universal, demonstrated the accuracy of his earlier judgment, by doing over $141,000 worth of business inside of ninety days, with their first submarine picture.

Ernest Shipman has had nearly twenty years' experience as theatrical manager, advertising expert, and moving picture exploiter. He has been twice around the world with attractions, knows the amusement conditions in all foreign countries and has a host of friends and prominent business associates everywhere. He is emphatic in stating that the greatest motion picture of "tomorrow" will be filmed on the bottom of the ocean.

Among the Picture Theaters

Regent Theater, Bradford, England

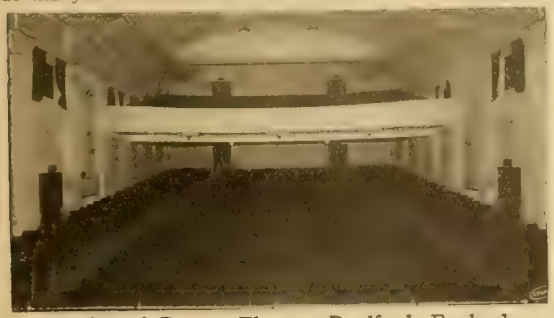
A Fine Example of a British Moving Picture House.

THE Regent theater in North Parade, Bradford, England, is one of the most beautiful moving picture theaters in the North of England. Its central location makes it easily accessible from any part of the city. It is owned by the Regent Picture House (Bradford), Ltd., and was opened on September 30, 1914.

The front is built of terra cotta and is quite imposing. The lobby is finished in white marble, and is separated from the foyer by beautiful oak doors. The foyer, which is handsome in design, is paneled in oak and expensive Wilton carpet is used as the floor covering. Wide staircases of marble lead from the foyer to the balcony or Grand Circle as it is called in England. The balcony is one of the finest to be found in moving picture houses in the North of England, and the seating arrangement of this floor as well as that of the parquette floor is such as to give perfect sight lines to the screen.

Winter Garden in Regent Theater, Bradford, England.

The Regent is a combination of utility, comfort, and safety. The interior has been upholstered in dark blue velvet and here, too, a dark shade of Wilton carpet has been used. It is in effective contrast to the interior decorations which are done in white and gold. The ceiling is high and has many artistic embellishments. The modeling over the proscenium arch is particularly striking, and is one of the predominant features of the building.



Interior of Regent Theater, Bradford, England.

The Winter Garden, which is a characteristic feature of England's amusement places, is fitted with cafes, women's and men's writing and retiring rooms, cloak rooms, telephones and every other convenience for the comfort of the patrons. An orchestra plays in the Winter Garden during certain hours of the day. It is artistically decorated with trellis work, flowers, climbing vines and handsome electroliers; and is heated by means of hot water radiators. Ventilation of the Regent has been based upon the most modern scientific principles.

There is nothing in the building of an inflammable nature that is not fully protected. The building itself is fireproof, and the emergency exits are of such capacity and are so conveniently situated that the whole of the house, even if filled to its capacity, could be emptied in four minutes.

The musical accompaniment to the pictures is one of the features of the Regent. The house is open from 2 until 10:30 p. m. daily, and the Winter Garden and cafes, which the public can visit without going to the theater, from 11 a. m. until 10 p. m. daily.

Picture Show 11,400 Feet Up

Workers of Mines Company Give Entertainment Twice a Week in Clubhouse—People Miles Away Walk to See Pictures.

IN a little mining camp 11,400 feet up in one of the mountains of Colorado and six miles from the nearest railway station moving picture shows are given twice a week. The entertainment is given on the second floor of the Tomboy Clubhouse, at Smuggler, Colo., which was built at a cost of several thousand dollars by the Tomboy Gold Mines Company for the workers of that company, which has offices in Smuggler. The building, which is three stories in height, is of wood construction with a cover of sheet iron laid over the outside of it. It is painted in black and trimmed in white. The maintanance of the clubhouse and the operating expenses attached to it are paid by the members. The dimensions of the house are 30 by 52 feet.

The Tomboy Club House, Smuggler, Colo., Where Motion Picture Shows Are Given.

Motion picture entertainments are given on Tuesdays and Fridays. The admission price is 15 cents, and the bill is made up of features and pictures picked from the various programs. J. H. Graham, chief electrician of the Tomboy Gold Mines, is in charge of the "theater," while W. E. Howland, assistant chief electrician of the mines, is in charge of the projection room. Mr. Howland is also a charter member of the I. A. T. S. E., Denver, Colo. The "auditorium" has been fitted with a stage and a number of dressing rooms. The walls of the "theater" are done in beaver boards with panel effect. When moving pictures are not given the chairs are removed and the hard wood floor waxed for dancing. The building is electrically lighted and heated by steam. Music is furnished by a pianola. The pictures are projected by a Power No. 6, and the throw is sixty feet. The size of the picture is twelve feet. Mr. Howland in a letter to the Moving Picture World says that the place is well patronized and that people living miles away will walk to the "theater" to see the show. The first floor of the structure is given over to bowling alleys and pool tables with a section reserved for a general meeting place. The third floor is devoted to sleeping quarters.

Homestake Opera House, Lead, S. Dak.

Mining Company Builds for Its Employees $280,000 Theater and Recreation Building.

FOR the benefit of its employees, the Homestake Mining Company of Lead, S. Dak., has established an institution in that city which is known as the Homestake Opera House and Recreation Building. It was opened on August 31, 1914, and is controlled by the mining company. One section of the structure is taken up by a theater with a seating capacity of 800, while the other is devoted to a recreation department. Here can be found a library with 20,000 volumes, rest rooms, billiard rooms, gymnasium, six bowling alleys, a tank with a capacity of 90,000 gallons, 12 shower baths and a number of other things from which pleasure may be derived. Although this building has been erected primarily for the employees of the mining company, the public and visitors to Lead are invited to partake of the enjoyment of its facilities. All expenses attached to the maintenance of the building are paid by the company. The bills incurred by the booking of entertainments are what the employees have to foot. Whatever electric or heating bills are created by the use of the theater are not attached to the bills for entertainment. These are paid by the company, and the price of admission to the show, which is open to the public, is governed by the total amount expended in securing the entertainment. The program is made up of motion pictures and the admission prices invariably hover around the five and ten-cent mark. Occasionally vaudeville and road shows are booked.

M. C. Kellogg.

So it can be seen from this that the theater is not run with the object of making it a commercial proposition. The theater is under the management of M. C. Kellogg, a man who has had over twenty years' experience in all branches of the amusement game. Every seat in the auditorium is upholstered in olive green and is twenty-four inches wide.

Homestead Opera House, Lead, S. Dak.

The Homestake Opera House is constructed of brick and reinforced concrete. The interior decorations are gold and old rose. The frieze is hand-painted. Mosaic tile has been used as the flooring of the lobby. The wainscoting in this part of the house is marble, and the ornamentations are in gold and in contrast to the interior decorations. The woodwork here has been finished in mahogany and white enamel. All lighting fixtures, which are of the inverted type, are of a special design and made of cast brass with ivory finish.

The house stands upon a plot of ground 60 by 140 feet, and represents an investment of $280,000. The Sturtevant ventilation system is employed. Before the air is sent into the auditorium it passes over steam coils which regulates its temperature. The seating arrangement is divided by two wide aisles. The floor of the auditorium is made of cement and is inclined, giving proper vision of the screen from any seat in the house. Battleship linoleum has been used to cover the floor and to deaden the sound of footfalls. The stage is 33 by 70 feet in size and has a complete fly loft. It is large enough to accommodate a company of sixty persons. There are twelve large dressing rooms adjoining the stage, and each one is fitted with all conveniences.

The operating room is made of cement; its walls are covered with asbestos plaster and the floor with rubber. Two Power's projection machines are used, a 6A and a 6B. A D.C. motor generator set and a double set of switches to use

Interior of Homstead Opera House, Lead, S. Dak.

A. C. in case of emergency with two separate leads to each machine, are a part of the up-to-date electrical equipment. The size of the operating room is 12 by 20 feet with a 12-foot ceiling. It is sufficiently ventilated. C. W. Carstarphen is the chief operator. The screen, which is 12 by 14 feet in size, is made of specially prepared canvis and the throw is 87 feet.

The bill at the Homestake is made up of features and regular program material. It is changed daily. Three shows are given, one at 2.30 in the afternoon and the others at 7.30 and 9.30 in the evening. The orchestra of seven pieces is in charge of Robert Grimes.

Piccadilly Theatre, Rochester, Opened

Quarter of a Million Dollar Photoplay House Started on Its Career With Showing of Latest Famous Players Production.

THE Piccadilly theater, in Rochester, N. Y., which has been under construction for the past six months, was opened, November 24, with "Miss George Washington," a Marguerite Clark picture made by the Famous Players Film Company. The Piccadilly theater is the newest, largest and finest house in Rochester. Paramount pictures constitute the greater part of the program. The theater is located at the corner of Clinton avenue and Mortimer street. It has cost the directors, known as the Clinton-Mortimer Corporation, a quarter of a million dollars to erect. The most advanced ideas of theater construction and picture presentation are embodied in the structure. Every detail of design and management has been carefully planned and thoroughly carried out.

W. H. Seeley, managing director of the theater and the corporation, is largely responsible for the design of the house and the entire project. W. F. Bossner, formerly of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, is advertising and publicity manager of the Piccadilly Theater and the Clinton-Mortimer Corporation. A special feature of the program is a sixteen piece orchestra. A huge pipe organ has been installed.

The new house is not only a monument to the pride of its owners but to the people of Rochester as well. Its opening was an event in the city. A huge advertising campaign has been conducted by means of billboards, street car advertising and newspaper space. A small fortune has been spent in this branch alone. One big feature in connection with the opening of the theater was the distribution of 7,500 copies of the December issue of "Picture Progress" as a gift from the management of the house to the citizens of Rochester. Most of the advertising matter carries a line to the effect that to every person leaving his name at the box office or mailing it to the office of the company, there will be mailed each month a copy of the magazine.

Artcraft Policy of One a Month

Walter E. Green, President of Distributing Organization, Outlines Plans for the Release of One Master-Production Each Month Commencing Jan. 1.

With the conclusion of 1916 at hand, the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, through its president, Walter E. Greene, announces that beginning with the new year it will inaugurate a new policy of one master production a month, each subject upholding and improving the high standard already established by this organization. The initial production to be released under the new policy on January 8th will be Mary Pickford's second Artcraft subject, "The Pride of the Clan," produced by Maurice Tourneur, this to be followed in February by the first George M. Cohan offering "Broadway Jones."

In connection with his company's plans for the coming year, Mr. Green said: "Plans for the increase of our output to the extent of one extraordinary production each month commencing with the new year, are now well under way. Although we are still young it has not taken us long to realize that Artcraft standards and policies ill have material effect upon the motion picture industry during the coming year. The fact that this has already been firmly established results in our plans for the enlargement of our scope and ideals.

"Built as it is on an ideal and guided and directed by men of skill, knowledge and experience in the motion picture world, Artcraft intends to make the coming year one that will attract and hold the attention of all exhibitors. Having shown that we know what the exhibitors want we are going to continue and enlarge our policies. The best is always the most profitable and the best selling. With this in constant view and always confident of our plan, we intend to present this year more real things and more big things than have ever before been distributed by one concern. In fact, we are going to have for exhibitors a novelty, and a surprise novelty, every month of the coming year; this is saying a great deal, but knowing our plans and what we expect to do, we are ready to back the assertion.

"So with unfaltering belief we are coming forward with the greatest of stars of the motion picture and the theatrical world. Our new plans will result in the presentation of Mary Pickford in the best and biggest productions in which she has ever been seen; each succeeding one will outrival its predecessar. The George M. Cohan and other Artcraft subjects will present bigger and better pictures tending to advance the art of the screen. In the handling of all of these productions Artcraft will maintain the method of distribution built on experience, far-sightedness and with equity to all concerned."

Swanson May Close Liberty

Bill Says That He Will Make One More Try With New Program—Thinks Patrons Unappreciative.

WILLIAM H. SWANSON, head of the Swanson circuit of picture theaters in Salt Lake and other far western cities, announces that if, after a trial of a few weeks on feature pictures, the Liberty theater does not pay, he will close the theater and rent it as a store room. Mr. Swanson says he will not remodel or rebuild the theater and that the decision to turn the theater into store rooms if the venture does not pay was reached a short time ago.

"I have decided that the house cannot make money and I am not going to lose any more," said Mr. Swanson. "I believe the public of Salt Lake is the most unappreciative I have ever met. I have lost $200,000 trying to give the people of the city entertainment, not to saying anything of my investments here. The Liberty will be a store room if the pictures I have in mind do not make good."

A national officer of the American Federation of Musicians was in Salt Lake about December 12 to look into the troubles which have arisen between the union musicians of Salt Lake and the Swanson theater circuit. Joseph N. Weber, head of the American Federation of Musicians, has ordered the local union to hold the entire case in abeyance until the national officer of the union makes a complete investigation.

The trouble between the theaters and the musicians arose over the installation in the Rex theater of a mechanical player. The union musicians who operated the mechanical player was paid $25 a week and the assistant 50 cents an hour. The union demanded that the operator receive $50 a week and the assistant $1 an hour. When this rate was refused, all of the theaters owned by Mr. Swanson were declared unfair.

New Paramount Exchange Manager

F. H. Gilman Appointed Manager of Paramount's 23rd Street New York Exchange.

F. H. GILMAN, who has been connected for a number of years with the 23rd street office of the Famous Players Exchange, distributors of Paramount Pictures in New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, has been promoted to the position of manager, succeeding W. F. Seymour, who recently resigned. Mr. Gilmore is well known among the exhibitors in this district, and will continue the well-established policy of the exchange of "Service plus co-operation for the exhibitor."

The 23rd Street New York Exchange recently established a publicity department, which will now be in charge of C. J. Haggerty, who will keep exhibitors in constant touch with the co-operative advertising aids issued by Paramount.

Miss Billington Signed by Mutual

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, Inc., of the signing of a contract with Francelia Billington to appear in a series of dramatic productions in support of William Russell.

Mr. Russell, who is famed for his work under American-Mutual auspices, is already engaged in studying over several new plays in which he and Miss Billington are to appear.

Francelia Billington.

"Miss Billington is an undoubted acquisition," said Mr. Hutchinson. "She is a thoroughly capable actress of the type so tremendously valuable in motion picture work. She is a splendid all-round athlete, a swimmer, a crack shot, an experienced automobile driver and a horsewoman. The engagement of Miss Billington is, of course, in precise accord with our new policy of only the biggest stars for American-Mutual productions. I do not see how we could have improved on our recent acquisitions.

Miss Billington was born in Dallas, Texas, where at a very early age she became famed as a rider. Soon after Miss Billington was ten years old her parents moved to Louisiana, and it was only six years ago that the family took up a residence in Los Angeles. Her first experience in motion picture work was with the Kalem company, with which she played leads for a year before joining the New York Motion Picture Company, under whose auspices she appeared in "Ruy Blas," "The Lovers' Plight," "The Peach Brand," "The Intruder," and other features.

The new American star has dark brown hair, large grey eyes fringed with long dark shading lashes, a perfect olive complexion and an extraordinary command of facial expression. She has the indefinable quality known as "atmosphere."

BRADY ENGAGES KITTY GORDON.

William A. Brady, director general of the World Film Corporation, has engaged Kitty Gordon as the star of at least three motion picture plays to be produced during the next six months.

Mr. Brady and his associates hold a further option upon Miss Gordon's services as a motion picture star for the next eighteen months following the expiration of the original contract, so that the document virtually covers a two years' period.

This is not Miss Gordon's first appearance as a World-Brady attraction. Several months ago she played the star roles in "Her Maternal Right" and "The Crucial Test" for this corporation, and in the interval she has devoted much of her time to screen personations for other photoplay producers.

Paramount Gets Good Start

Pauline Frederick and Blanche Sweet Are Initial Stars in New Year's Program.

TWO exceptional features will be released by Paramount New Year's week. The Famous Players' production of "The Slave Market," with Pauline Frederick in the leading role, and the Lasky production of "The Evil Eye," with Blanche Sweet in the leading part, are the two program features for the first week of 1917.

Surrounding the program will be the forty-seventh edition of the Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen; the forty-eighth edition of the series of "weekly trips around the world," conducted by Burton Holmes, "From the Bay of Fundy to the St. Lawrence," and a Klever Komedy, "He Meant Well," in which Victor Moore is starred.

Pauline Frederick could not be more ideally cast than in the proud Spanish beauty in "The Slave Market," a thrilling romance of the Spanish main of love, adventure and heroism, from the pen of Frederick Arnold Kummer, one of the best known writers of the day. The production abounds in picturesque settings and in the thrills that go to make up a good pirate tale. The production was staged in Cuba, and a great many of the thrilling scenes occurred on shipboard. Thomas Meighan, the popular Lasky star, makes his first appearance in a Famous Players production in support of Miss Frederick. The production was directed by Hugh Ford.

Hector Turnbull is responsible for "The Evil Eye," the Lasky production in which Miss Sweet will be presented. This is a tense story of an American girl's adventures among Mexicans, a Mexican story without war. Miss Sweet has played a great variety of characters in Lasky pictures, but in this production she rises in the social scale and is seen as a physician practicing her profession among a lot of superstitious and suspicious Mexicans. George H. Melford directed the production and Miss Sweet is supported by a star cast of players including Tom Forman, Webster Campbell, J. Parks Jones, Walter Long, Ruth King and William Dale.

Four exceedingly interesting subjects are to be seen in the forty-seventh edition of the Paramount Pictographs, beginning with "How Submarines Are Foiled," and picturing how it has been possible to capture and destroy cruising submarines in the war of nations, which new method of combating one of the latest of war's destructive agents was discovered during the present conflict in Europe by reason of necessity. The second subject is that of how a walking stick can be used by the modern swordsman for self defense. Another subject shows the faith that people have placed throughout the centuries in some person's ability to locate wells and subterranean streams by the aid of divining rods is still preserved in some rural communities.

Burton Holmes in his forty-eighth "weekly trips around the world," which he has been personally conducting for Paramount during the past year takes his fellow travelers from the Bay of Fundy to the St. Lawrence, during which trip he shows many remarkable sights.

For the first week in the New Year Victor Moore will be presented in "He Meant Well," a Klever Komedy, which is screamingly funny from start to finish, being a story of intense action injected with a great amount of comedy suspense and sufficient heart interest, ultimately ending happily.

Paramount has made elaborate plans for exhibitors aids for 1917, and with each of the releases for this week special advertising and publicity helps have been prepared for the exhibitor.

Paramount's policy for the coming year will be to give co-operation to the exhibitor in every phase of his business. It has planned to add many new advertising and publicity ideas to the great amount of free accessories recently issued in the campaign of exhibitor's co-operative service.

"INTOLERANCE" FROM COAST TO COAST.

D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance" has now virtually made a coast to coast conquest of this country. New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and finally Chicago has endorsed it by newspaper tribute and crowded house. In New York this spectacle is now in its fourth month at the Liberty Theatre. San Francisco and the neighboring Oakland register eleven weeks of record making business. When the Los Angeles run is completed the figure will be ten weeks—an astonishing figure by the way, for a city of this size.

Arrangements have now been completed for the Philadelphia opening which will take place Friday evening, December 22, at the Chestnut Street Opera House, and for the Pittsburgh opening scheduled for the same night at the Pitt Theatre. Another organization, which will make the twelfth on tour, will commence its season at the Montauk Theater, Brooklyn, December 17.

Shirley Mason—McClure Pictures

SHIRLEY MASON, one of the seven stars of "Seven Deadly Sins," the McClure series of five-reel features, is only 16 years old and she is the tiniest star in picturdom—with one exception. Marguerite Clark is the exception and Shirley, standing fifty-nine inches in her bathing suit, tops Miss Clark by one inch.

Viola Dana is Shirley Mason's older sister—older by about a year—and the competition between the two young actresses has been keen. Miss Mason, until she joined McClure Pictures, was with Edison, playing leading parts under her own name — Leonie Flugrath.

Shirley Mason.

Shirley Mason was born in Brooklyn and has been on the stage since she was four years old when she appeared on Broadway in a part that she created all by herself. She was "Little Hal" in "The Squaw Man," in which William Faversham starred. She played "Little Meenie" in "Rip Van Winkle" and was "Peter" in "Passers-By."

Viola Dana made a great hit in "The Poor Little Rich Girl" and Shirley was her understudy, playing the part several times in New York and inheriting the leading role in the company that went on tour with the play.

With the Edison Company Miss Mason was exceptionally successful in ingenue roles. She was in "Mary Had a Little Lamb," "Vanity Fair," "The Littlest Magdalene," "Lucia," and other successful Edison Photoplays.

In the Seven Deadly Sins, Miss Mason is the girl around whom the stories revolve. She is tempted by the seven sins one after the other, and with George Le Guere, who is the youth who loves her and wants to protect her from temptation, she appears in every one of the seven features.

Miss Mason is a great favorite with all the other McClure stars—Nance O'Neil, Ann Murdock, Charlotte Walker, Holbrook Blinn, H. B. Warner and George Le Guere all watched over her during the making of the series, helping her in her eager desire to learn every angle of her chosen profession.

WARNING TO EXHIBITORS.

J. G. Hansen, manager of the Gem theater, at Reading, Pa., wants to caution theater managers against Robert Bauer, who makes a business of selling candies in theaters and who put over a deal on him that was not altogether on the level. He says that Bauer looks like a Greek, is of medium height, black hair and smooth face. Any information as to his whereabouts will be appreciated by Mr. Hansen.

BAIER SUCCEEDS JACOBS BOOKING OFFICE.

Walter A. Baier has taken over the business of the Jacobs Film Booking Office, at Milwaukee, Wis., and will operate under the title of Walter A. Baier Film Booking Office. He is now handling such well known productions as "The Little Girl Next Door," "Wars' Women" and "Where Are My Children" for the city of Milwaukee.

AD KESSEL CONVALESCENT.

Ad Kessel, president of the New York Motion Picture Corporation, for the first half of December was confined to his apartments in the San Remo, New York, suffering from nervous breakdown. His many friends will be glad to know he is on the high road to complete recovery.

WILLIAM HILKEMEIER SICK.

William Hilkemeier, a well known New York exhibitor and prominent in the affairs of the Manhattan Exhibitors' Local, has been sick for the past three weeks. He is now at home after an operation in the hospital and is improving rapidly.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"The Truant Soul"

An Adaptation of Victor Rosseau's Story Produced by Essanay in Eight Reels—Henry B. Walthall and Mary Charleson Featured.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

VICTOR ROSSEAU'S story has to do with the drug habit, the temporary victim being a famous surgeon, whose natural disposition is one of sweetness and good will toward his fellows. When under the influence of the drug this surgeon, John Lancaster, is a profligate creature, whose looks and actions resemble those of his revolting half brother, Scene from "The Truant Soul" (Essanay).

Dr. Lawson. It is another case of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde, where the good and the evil in the same man are so strongly contrasted that one is impressed as if there were two distinct and separate entities in the same person.

The story is told so clearly in the Essanay production that there is no need to give it in detail here. As seen on the screen it is powerful in its appeal, the mind being held in compelling thrall throughout. It is necessary, however, to state that the mental ordeal, to which one is subjected during the two hours taken by its showing, is sweetly soothed by the devotion and courage of Joan Wentworth, a noble and daring soul, who nurses back to sanity and happiness the wretched victim of narcotics and a brother's hate.

The adaptation of the Rosseau story by Charles J. McGuirk, the direction of the production by Harry Beaumont and the photography by Harry Alvin Zech are to be commended for their worthiness.

Henry B. Walthall really appears in three distinct roles—that of Dr. John Lancaster in his sane moods, that of the same man in the delirium created by narcotics, and also that of Dr. Lawson, the villainous half-brother. With remarkable fidelity he assumes all three, and with a realism that arouses pity, aversion and hate in rapid succession.

The hospital scene, where the renowned surgeon attempts to perform his most difficult operation while suffering from injected morphine, and when surrounded by a notable gathering of men in his profession, is almost overpowering in its tenseness. He calls impatiently to the nurse administering the anaesthetic to increase it, so that the patient may be kept quiet, although reminded at the outset that the heart action forbade it. And so, while the delicate operation was a success mechanically, it availed nothing, as the patient was dead before it was completed.

"A very successful piece of work, gentlemen," says Dr. Lancaster to the professional men around him. "It is a pity the poor fellow will never know what I have done for him."

In this scene Joan Wentworth is only a humble nurse on probation, and the unnerved Dr. Lancaster had discharged her, in the attempt to lift the blame of the patient's death from his own shoulders to hers. But she rewins his favor and gets another chance to redeem herself as nurse in the Lancaster Institute, out in the country, on a hillside. In a sane moment he had felt, through intuition, that this strong, tender-faced young woman could save him from himself, and thus in all the important scenes following she is prominently before the spectator. With the knowledge that Joan is impersonated by Mary Charleson the reader will not be disappointed in forming great expectations.

That tremendous scene which shows the first experience of Joan in combating the desire of Dr. Lancaster for the drug that is working his ruin is awesome and thrilling. In it Mr. Walthall and Miss Charleson do some of the finest acting I have yet seen on the screen. Mr. Walthall reveals all the torture—mental and physical—wrought by indulgence in morphine, and all the terror and pitiable cunning which the fear of being deprived of it arouses in the mind of its victim. Honor is but a thing of shreds and patches and truth but a makeshift, so that the agony of appetite may be relieved. And here Miss Charleson's Joan, in regulating the craving of the tortured wretch and finally awakening in him a vestige of a real spirit of honor, rises to a height, in rendering lofty service, that only a true, self-sacrificing woman can reach.

Joan wins the battle after weary watching and against long odds, and as Dr. Lancaster gradually recovers his right mind the desire to have his good angel always by his side grows until their plighted love sets all fears at rest.

In the harrowing scenes, where the outcast half-brother is mistaken for her lover (Dr. Lancaster) by Joan, Miss Charleson's acting, as well as Mr. Walthall's, arouses in the spectator a maddening desire to enter the fray and kill the offender. And that means fine realism.

Myers, the secretary of Dr. Lancaster, is a strong villain part, very ably sustained by Patrick Calhoun.

"The Truant Soul" will be released as a special super film, through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service, Christmas day, this year.

"The Traveling Salesman"

Famous Players Presents Frank McIntyre in an Amusing Adaptation of His Stage Play.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

THERE is an entertaining mixture of comedy and drama in "The Traveling Salesman," the Famous Players release of December 18. Frank McIntyre interprets the title role in the adaptation of his old-time stage success. As Bob Blake, the big drummer, quick to fall in love "on sight," and to quote, or misquote, Shakespeare for justification in that step, he makes a hit. He has the characteristics, the pep, we ascribe to the traveling man—human, likable. There may be those who will frown upon his tendency to uncover liquor in seemingly arid spots; upon the enjoyment he extracts from a pack of cards when he meets up with his own fellows, and then again there will be many more who in spirit will sit in with him and participate in the fun.

Scene from "The Traveling Salesman" (Famous Players).

Opposite Mr. McIntyre is Doris Kenyon as Beth Elliott, the young ticket agent in the railroad station whose home is about to be sold for unpaid taxes, and who falls in love with the "fat man." Miss Kenyon has charm and ability in portrayal. Harry Northrup, second to none as a screen "heavy," is Franklin Royce, the instrument of Drury, the moneyed man of the York State village, who seeks to buy in Beth's land in order later to turn it over to the railroad and "clean up." Russell Bassett is Drury. Julia Stuart is Mrs. Babbitt, the energetic and talkative friend of Beth.

The story is staged in a desolate, snow-covered country. Director Al. Kaufman was fortunate in being able to secure the first fall of the winter to add to the picturesqueness of the subject. Many of the stage lines have been employed for the titles, and these add to the comedy element. The dramatic phase of the picture is reserved for the closing scenes, and here there is real suspense.

"The Traveling Salesman" is a good subject.

"The Right Direction"

Vivian Martin Is Featured in an Interesting Waif Story Issued Under the Morosco Banner.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

THERE are good human touches in "The Right Direction," released by Morosco, December 21. It is a waif story. Vivian Martin has the leading role, that of Polly Eccles, a child who starts out to push a baby buggy containing what is left of her household "goods" and her brother, "Billy Boy," as well. It is a great little team. There is a fund of interest centering about the pair—trio, it might be said. For we must not overlook Rags, a regular dog picked up by Polly early in her wanderings. There are, it is true, in the working out of the story, a number of coincidences, perhaps an unusual number, but they are well hooked up. The titles, too, are a feature, showing skill and literary ability.

There is realism in the first reel, where the father of Polly, home from a vacation of thirty days on the Island, throws a flatiron and snuffs out the flickering light in the eyes of the consumptive mother. It is a brutal phase of life, but it is true to life, nevertheless. It is then Polly sets out on her journey for California, that Billy Boy may be rescued from a decline like that to which the mother had succumbed.

Colin Chase is Kirk Drummand, the collegian whose lines in life so frequently cross those of Polly. Herbert Standing is his father, the owner of the big mine. Alfred Hollingsworth is Big Bill, the tramp who befriends Polly. Billy Mason, of pleasant memory, is the chum of Kirk. That is a cast speaking for itself.

Scene from "The Right Direction" (Pallas).

Miss Martin fits the role of the child Polly. She has charm, naivete. Billy Boy, played by Baby Jack White, is a show in itself. It is a hard role he carries, but he carries it in such manner as to win the heart and hold it. And thinking of Billy Boy, we come back to Rags.

There are unusual mining scenes, taken around a big California plant hundreds of miles from the studio. There are flashes of the miners descending the big runway; we see the men at work below ground, in the background of one of these the figures "3400" standing out, presumably indicating the depth below the surface. There would have been no occasion for regret had more of the life far underground been shown. The picture is filled with striking contrasts in high and low life.

Three Pathe Pictures

"Joy and the Dragon," a Five-Reel "Little Mary Sunshine" Play; "Somewhere in Grenada," Fifth Episode of "Pearl of the Army," and "Absolute Black," Fourteenth Episode of "The Shielding Shadow."

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

BABY MARIE OSBORNE, better known as "Little Mary Sunshine," is the central figure in a five-reel photoplay, "Joy and the Dragon," written by Will M. Ritchey and produced by Balboa. This remarkable four-year-old child, whose fairy godmother has endowed her with wonderful powers of imagination, again achieves an unqualified success on the screen. The story of "Joy and the Dragon" has been written around the child's personality, and it is evident from the start that the experience she goes through during the action of the drama are all realities. There is no attempt at gestures or the painfully acquired technique of the so-called "child actress" in the efforts of little Miss Osborne. She lives every scene in which she takes part and never shows that she is aware of the existence of such a thing as a camera. Thanks to the charm of her personality, the resources of her imagination and the good sense displayed by those in charge of her costumes, the impression she makes is that of a happy, healthy and lovable little girl going through some odd and interesting experiences.

Scene from "Joy and the Dragon" (Pathe).

The story itself is not very convincing, but this is not at all important. "Joy" is the name of the character played by Marie, and the "Dragon" relates to a box in which there is a fortune in gems belonging to the child. The first view of the little heroine shows her lashed to a raft and adrift at sea. Although she does not turn out to be the long-lost child of any character in the play, she has some unusual adventures. She escapes from an orphanage run by crooks; is the means of reclaiming a young chap who is well worth saving from himself, and is found in dozens of situations that permit her to laugh or to cry and to win the heart of every spectator. Henry King, who has the honor of directing the youthful star and displays especial aptitude for the task, is also Miss Osborne's leading support.

"Somewhere in Grenada."

The fifth episode of the Pathe serial, "Pearl of the Army," reveals "The Silent Menace" still plotting against the United States. The stolen plans again come into Pearl's possession, during a struggle in an auto, which ends with the plucky girl being hurled from the machine. Later in the action of "Somewhere in Grenada" she is thrown from a horse, taken prisoner while at Paso Del Norte, thrust into an underground cell and nearly drowned when the cell is flooded by water. The same swift action and succession of dramatic events that are necessary to serials of this order have been woven into this installment of "Pearl of the Army," and Miss White and the supporting company play the scenes in the proper spirit. The production, by Astra, is of good quality.

"Absolute Black."

The secret of the mantle is disclosed to Leontine in "Absolute Black," the fourteenth episode of "The Shielding Shadow." Sebastian, who is in possession of the magic cloth at the beginning of the number, again loses it, also the black pellets and the scientist's diary, and is obliged to do a desperate climb up a water spout to the top of a high building in order to escape his pursuers. Grace Darmond, Ralph Kellard and Leon Bary still continue to risk life and limb in the same reckless fashion that has characterized their efforts since the opening of the serial, and the suspense which should be found in all well-regulated melodramas in fifteen chapters is not permitted to relax for even a moment. As this is the prime factor in the success of such screen plays, "The Shielding Shadow" fully vindicates its reason for being.

"The People vs. John Doe"

Universal Presents Six-Part Anti-Capital Punishment Film at the Broadway Theater Under Auspices of Humanitarian Cult.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THIS excellent humanitarian production, which is being presented at the Broadway theater under the auspices of the Humanitarian Cult, was written and produced for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company by Lois Weber.

Scene from "The People vs. John Doe" (Universal).

The picture is one that appeals strongly to the sympathies of the public; first, because of the nature of its theme, and, second, because it presents with vivid reality the human side of the question that it proposes to discuss. In the making of the production, so we learn, the players were chosen with "type" as the main object; and while this has been successfully done, it so happens that the players are also competent in dramatic skill. The cast headed by Harry De More as John Doe, consists of Evelyn Selbie, Willis Marks, George Berrill, Maud George, Charles Mailes, Robert Smith and Leah Baird.

The story has evidently been inspired by the Stielow case, and presents John Doe as an illiterate and poverty-stricken farmer, who at the moment of financial depletion is given work and a house to live in by a benevolent man of his own calling. Here the little family is happily established when one morning the benevolent farmer and his sister are found murdered. Falsely accused of the murder, John Doe and his half-wit brother are both placed under arrest; the small item of a revolver having its place among the family belongings and the still more trifling instance of a nine-inch boot are the main points of evidence against him. These clues magnified and added to in significance by a false confession wrung in fear from the half-wit brother are sufficient to bring John Doe almost to the electric chair. The untiring efforts of a woman lawyer on his behalf lay bare the true facts of the case and reveal the brutality of the third degree examination and place the crime on the shoulders on which it belongs, just in time to avert the execution being carried out.

The production is being introduced by Misha Applebaum, founder of the Humanitarian Cult, with an impressive address on the abolishment of capital punishment.

"Truthful Tolliver"

A Strong Five-Reel Triangle-Kay Bee by J. G. Hawks, with William S. Hart at His Best.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

ALL that an actor of intense personality, like William S. Hart, needs is the right sort of opportunity to give that personality adequate expression, and this Mr. Hawks has provided in "Truthful Tolliver." The ideal of Hart's interpretation is that physical energy and force count heavily in the eternal human struggle, whether exerted against mere elements of brutality or in support of purely mental conception of justice and right. A large number of the roles he has assumed in the past have been those of the vagrant outlaw of equally vagrant morals brought to a conversion of character through the influence of woman's influence. While the reformation of wandering outlaws may be occasionally edifying, their lack of importance in any civilization, particularly one so progressive as our own, is apt to rouse but faint interest in the story.

Mr. Hawks has solved the problem with good judgment and that skill which only comes from long practice in picturing the advent of a fearless newspaper publisher in a border settlement of the rudest kind, where all the lowering elements which appeal to man's primitive instincts alone are actively and demoralizingly at work. To Glory Hole, a crude mining settlement, comes Truthful Tolliver from Texas, and the way he cleans up the rotten place is about as sensational as anything of the kind ever shown on the screen. Interest is raised to a high pitch by the tremendous and well-organized opposition to the plucky editor, but when it becomes necessary for him to do or die in a prearranged duel between himself and the two worst toughs in Glory Hole's vilest joint, he lassoes the two in a surprise attack on horse, jumps his horse through a window and drags the toughs after him through the window and down to a group of vigilantes, that they may be run out of town.

This high point is reached near the end of the third reel and seems to conclude the main line of action. The author, however, has daringly prepared another line to be taken up at this point, always a perilous thing in story structure, but it is successfully carried out to a very satisfactory ending. Not only in Hart's exceptionally fine impersonation, but in all other details "Truthful Tolliver" is a stronger play than usual. It is manly in spirit, skilfully constructed, handled in masterly fashion and wholly free from jarring details. It should win wherever shown.

"The World Against Him"

E. K. Lincoln and June Elvidge Featured in Five-Reel Peerless Photoplay Released by World Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE author of "The World Against Him," the five-reel Peerless photoplay released by the World Film Corporation, has provided a full supply of dramatic material for his screen drama, but his selection of characters and situations is often at fault. It is a fundamental principle of playmaking that the villain in the case should possess sufficient strength of character and brute courage to inspire at least negative respect. The villain in "The World Against Him" is a doctor, who exhibits such astonishing traits of moral and physical cowardice that he belongs to the order of beings which should be kept hidden from sight. He performs an operation on an unfortunate young woman when he knows she cannot be cured and that the operation will kill her. Later in the play he is shown a victim of physical fear, refusing to attend two injured men, and bent only on saving his own skin.

As a psychological study in one of the erotic works of the German realistic school, he might be accepted; but, to the general public, the healthy-minded man or woman who patronize the play, he is a lie and an offense.

Many of the devices for unfolding the plot have seen long and honorable service; notably, the misdirected letters, the escape from the prison wardens, and the heroine who must marry within twenty-four hours or lose her fortune.

The story starts in the West, shifts to the East, and back to the West again, and shows a pleasing variety of scene. It has been carefully and generously produced under the direction of Frank Crane, and is acted by a competent cast headed by E. K. Lincoln and June Elvidge. The other names on the program include Ruth Findlay, John Sainpolis, Frederick Truesdell, Julia Stuart, Scar Face, Nicholas Dunaew, Viola Benton and Edward Borein.

Scene from "The World Against Him" (World).

"The Ninety and Nine"

Five-Reel Vitagraph Screen Version of the Ramsey Morris Stage Play with William Courtenay and Lucille Lee Stewart in the Leads.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

WHEN Ramsey Morris wrote the stage version of "The Ninety and Nine," about two decades ago, he founded his big situation on an actual occurrence—the heroic deed of an engineer out West who ran a train at the risk of his life through a forest fire and saved the inhabitants of several towns that were threatened with destruction.

The story that leads up to the sensational finish of the drama tells of the career of a young man who had taken a crime on his own shoulders in order to shield the brother of his sweetheart. The girl's ingratitude in jilting him drives the young chap to drink, and in the opening scenes he is found hanging around the barroom of a small Western town. Ruth Blake, a young girl of the village, becomes interested in the stranger, and by her sympathy and fine womanly qualities awakens the manhood of the outcast. Later she shares his peril when he offers to run an engine to the rescue of a village hemmed in by a forest fire.

The story is told after the fashion of a bygone day, but the screen version retains a good deal of the original appeal that gave the drama several successful seasons on the stage. The theme is a familiar one and is clean and wholesome. The phases of village life and the rescue scenes have been transferred to the screen with excellent results, and the work of the cast is more than ordinarily good. William Courtenay plays Tom Silverton and does the character full justice. Lucille Lee Stewart is the right selection for Ruth Blake. She makes her just the sweet, sincere little woman intended by the author, and her influence over Silverton is accepted by the spectator without question. Josephine Lovett, Frank Lennion, William Lytell and William Dangman have the other important roles.

"The Weaker Sex"

Beautifully Presented Five-Reel Kay-Bee on a Live Theme, With Dorothy Dalton in the Leading Role.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

ON artistry and charm of visualization alone, "The Weaker Sex" is entitled to high praise, but the story by Alice C. Brown proves to be a most entertaining presentment of a vital subject, and the entire cast is so strong that the play has a delightful balance. The idea of demonstrating that sex differences are largely those of sex opportunity is boldly undertaken and successfully proven without in the least interfering with story interest. That the past performance of woman under many enforced social and political disadvantages is a safe guide to what her future performance can be is the sophistry of minds enfeebled by precedent and tradition. She is physically and mentally capable of response to training simply as a human being irrespective of sex. Such is the theme of the play and of the day.

There are some remarkable interiors shown in this delightful visualization of Miss Brown's story—they are superb examples of the motion-picture art. The court room is of fascinating realism—it is an idealism of the real—and the cabaret scenes show a high sense of fitness and proportion. So also with the splendid home interiors—they are impressive without the taint of theatricalism. One is left so entirely free of critical spirit so far as the picturing is concerned that attention is fastened on the story itself and its interpretation. Such a cast! Every role of importance is so well filled that it hardly seems fair to discriminate in favor of the leads, Dorothy Dalton, Louise Glaum and Charles Ray. It is enough to say that they make us live in the story. Miss Brown has proven that a woman can write a fine photodrama. The only serious fault to be found lies in diverting attention for one instant from the lead in the final scenes. There is no interest in the young weakling who has been saved—it is entirely concentrated on the woman who saved him, hence the conclusion would have been far more effective if he had been shown on the verge of a breakdown after her tremendous effort in the cause of justice to wind up the story with her in the safe refuge of her husband's devoted love. The whole release constitutes a valuable contribution to the art of motion picture production.

Scene from "The Weaker Sex" (Triangle).

"The Right to be Happy"

Pleasing Adaptation of Charles Dickens' Story, "A Christmas Carol," for Bluebird Program.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE five-part screen version of that delightful Dickens' classic, "A Christmas Carol," produced for the Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., by Rupert Julian, will be released on December 25, and is destined to give pleasure to many Christmas audiences. But it is true that while this picture is most appropriate to the Christmas season, it can be presented at any season of the year with the same pleasing effect. The production has the genuine Dickens spirit, and the characters are well portrayed. Sometimes in ensemble scenes we are conscious, for instance, of the spirit of the boisterous American girl, rather than the subdued and dignified feminine of the England of Dickens' day, but dealing with generalities, we are pleased.

Scene from "The Right to Be Happy" (Bluebird).

The role of Ebenezer Scrooge is skillfully handled by Rupert Julian, and a better portrayal of the character of Bob Cratchit, Scrooge's intimidated clerk, could not be desired than that given us by John Cook. Claire McDowell appears to good advantage in the role of Mrs. Cratchit, and little Francis Lee as Tiny Tim. The role of Jacob Marley, Scrooge's late partner, whom we see only as a ghost, after being introduced to his likeness in the form of a painting, is played by Harry Carter. Others of the cast are Emory Johnson, who plays the role of Scrooge's nephew, an exuberant type, in excellent style, and Francelia Billington as his sweetheart.

While this production may not compare altogether favorably with some Dickens' productions we have seen that have been made on English soil, still there is little fault to be found with it. Adults will be pleased with it and children will be delighted with this adaptation of the story of the regeneration of an old grouch.

"The Child of Mystery"

Five-Reel Universal Production Features Hobart Henley and Gertrude Selby in Italian Story.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THE scenes of this Red Feather release, based on a story by Willard Mack, is laid on the East Side of New York, in the heart of Little Italy. Its chief features of interest are in the character types and the general fidelity to the conditions existing in this locality. The action itself is a trifle slow and lacks the suspense necessary to a first class offering of the kind. At the same time, the plot is an entertaining one and carries the interest along as it proceeds.

Hobart Henley makes the most of his opportunities, which are not many, in the part of Tony, an Italian fruit vendor. He loves Carlotta, around whom the story centers, with a love destined to be hopeless. This girl is portrayed in an attractive manner by Gertrude Selby. Miss Selby has made the step from burlesque comedy to the drama in a promising way; her natural acting and pleasing personality are greatly in her favor.

It develops early in the story that there is a mystery concerning Carlotta's birth. She has been reared since infancy by an old Italian named Giuseppi, who loves her and watches over her tenderly. But the black hand gang is also watching her, and when the time comes she is made captive and her grandfather, a prominent judge, is held up for ransom. Her rescue by Tony and Giuseppi and her participation in the Andrews ball, followed by a recapture and second rescue, form the chief incidents of the closing reels.

The number is rather mechanical in development, but satisfying in the matter of general atmosphere. Thomas Jefferson, Paul Byron and others are in the cast.

Two Kalems

"On the Brink of War," Episode of "The Girl From 'Frisco," and "The Tiger's Claw." a "Grant" Episode.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

"On the Brink of War."

IN MELODRAMATIC action and in general interest this two-reel episode of Kalem's "The Girl From 'Frisco" series, by Robert Welles Ritchie, is as good as any episode released thus far. The film is a "Western" of exciting gun fighting, fist fighting and sensational riding. Marin Sais, as Barbara Brent, takes an active part in the campaign for the re-election to Congress of John Wallace (True Boardman). The latter's Mexican exclusion platform is the indirect cause of a pitched battle between the Americans and the Mexican population of a Western town.

Word of the affair reaches Washington, and Wallace, brought to realize what legislation such as he proposes would mean, decides to withdraw. He is called a traitor by the tool of a "big exposed he becomes the object of the mob's wrath, and Wallace is about to be overpowered by the populace when he is succored by Barbara and the cowboys. When the "tool" is exposed he becomes the object of the mob's wratch, and Wallace is once more acclaimed a hero.

In the cast with Miss Sais and Mr. Boardman are Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury, Knute Rahm, Hart Hoxie and Edward Clisbee. Directed by James W. Horne.

"The Tiger's Claws."

Convincing underworld types and an interesting story, as well as the daredevil stunts of George Larkin, make this episode of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series a worth-while reel. The thrills come when Mr. Larkin climbs up a drain pipe to the roof of a building, leaps to a roof twenty feet below, climbs hand over hand on a rope between two buildings, and is precipitated through a window when the rope breaks. In this manner he reaches a room where a gambler is just about to shoot a "stool pigeon." A girl is the victim of the gambler's bullet.

With Mr. Larkin are seen Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis, Bert Tracey, Harry Gordon and William McKey.

"Marriage a la Carte"

Laughable Five-Reel Farce Featuring Clara Kimball Young Reissued by World—Produced by Peerless.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THE first duty of a motion picture is to entertain, and that duty is carried out to the letter in "Marriage a la Carte," a five-reel farce to be reissued by the World Film Corporation. The film was produced some time ago by the Peerless Studios from the play "Marrying Money," by Bertram Marburgh and Washington Pezet. Clara Kimball Young is seen in a role which gives her many opportunities to "get over" humorous situations. No mental effort whatever is required to follow the story, whose only aim is to amuse. There is hardly a comedy situation in the pictureplay that has not been used, perhaps a little differently, before or since, but nevertheless the film is crowded with laughs.

Re-edited, and with new illuminated titles which in no small degree add to the mirth of the story itself, "Marriage a la Carte" should be welcomed by exhibitors who would lighten somewhat the procession of more heavy dramatic subjects.

The story concerns Mary Niles (Miss Young), daughter of a rich broker, and Theodore Vandeveer, a penniless young relative of a millionaire. Love springs up between them, Mary thinking Theodore a wealthy young clubman, and Theodore believing Mary to be the daughter of the wealthiest man on "The Street." But Mary's father has lost her fortune. Each believing the other wealthy, the young people elope. Things are straightened out happily when a codicil to Theodore's uncle's will provides that he receive $1,000,000 if he marries.

Chester Barnett is cast as Theodore. Others in the cast are Winthrop Chamberlain, William W. Jefferson, Cyril Chadwick, Alice Gordon, Ina Brooks and E. M. Kimball. Dorected by James Young.

"The Love Thief"

Fox Film Melodrama in Five Reels is Filled With Action and Has Scenes of Battle in Mexico.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE latest Fox Film, "The Love Thief," is melodrama, undisguised and unafraid. It tells the story of a Mexican girl, Juanita, the head of a band of rebels, who has sworn to avenge her brother, after he has been ordered shot by an American army officer. Juanita meets the officer and her hate turns into love, but reverts to hate again when she has been spurned by Captain Boyce. The complications come quickly after this, and the big situation is the rescue of Boyce and his sweetheart from Juanita's band by a troop of U. S. soldiers. During this part of the story the picture is filled with dramatic scenes, the fighting between the Americans and Mexicans being particularly realistic.

To sum the picture up: "The Love Thief" is a rattling good melodrama that has been given the advantage of good direction, excellent acting and a praiseworthy liberality of production.

Gretchen Hartman plays Juanita She makes a stunning looking female bandit and acts with an abundance of fire and dramatic skill. Alan Hale supports the reputation of the American army officer with credit, and Frances Burnham puts all her vitality into the part of Clare Nelson. Edwin Cecil, Willard Louis, Jack McDonald and Charles Ehler contribute well-acted characterizations to the performance, which was directed by Richard Stanton. N. P. Niessen wrote the scenario.

"The Foolish Virgin"

Clara Kimball Young is Seen in a Selznick Production Notable for Direction and Acting—Story Hardly Above Ordinary.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

CHARACTERIZED by splendid direction and acting is "The Foolish Virgin," the Selznick picture featuring Clara Kimball Young. Albert Capellani has adapted and produced this story by Thomas Dixon in his own style—one is tempted to say in his inimitable style. Throughout the nearly seven reels one sees the hand of the master craftsman. Subtitles are scarce; for that matter no more than are shown are needed. There are two or perhaps three times in the course of the story when one is measurably stirred or moved, but not markedly so.

Mr. Capellani springs one distinct surprise. He keeps the spectator in the dark as to the character of Jim Anthony, the supposed mechanic who marries the romantically inclined school teacher. The fact that he is a thief is not revealed until it is discovered by his wife. The disclosure emphasizes the "reversion to type," a not unnatural manifestation by a son of a dissolute father and of a mother who in later life takes up the making of illicit liquor and who also becomes a good customer of her own distillery.

Miss Young as the dreamer of wonderful dreams who marries the first "knight" that appears on her horizon carries her part with her usual charm and distinction. Conway Tearle is Anthony, the husband who goes out and makes good after his narrow escape from death from a knife in the hands of his mother. Paul Capellani is the North Carolina doctor who brings back to life the injured Anthony, protects and cares for Anthony's wife during the years of regeneration, and submerges himself on the return of the man reconstructed. William Welch, Edward Elkas and Catherine Proctor are others in the cast who distinguish themselves by their work.

"The Foolish Virgin" is a good picture. It is carefully staged. Marked by especially clever touches are the scenes of the large schoolroom in the opening of the story. In spite of the realism in the first reel, wherein is shown the squalid environment of the boy who as a man is later to bulk big in the story, the subject is wholesome. It conveys its lesson, too, to those young women who rush into a marriage without investigating the antecedents of their prospective husbands.

"The Awakening of Helena Richie"

Ethel Barrymore Featured in Five-Reel Picturization of the Novel—Produced by Rolfe for Metro.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

IN ITS transference from the printed page to the screen, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," Margaret Deland's widely-read novel, which has been visualized in five reels by Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., for release by Metro on December 18, has lost some of its story-interest, but has been enriched by a portrayal of the name part by Ethel Barrymore. The screen version of the story takes quite a while to get started, and interest is allowed to lag in a considerable degree in the earlier scenes. But after the characters have been established the story moves more rapidly, and the last two reels embrace enough interest-holding material to compensate for any preceding slowness.

Miss Barrymore's interpretation of the part of Helena Richie could hardly be improved upon. In those scenes in which mother-love is uppermost Miss Barrymore is supreme. But she has not received all the support that she might have been given. As a whole the supporting cast is good, but in a few individual cases quite unconvincing.

Interpretations of the emotions of Helena naturally dominate action throughout the picture, and it can be seen that the scenario writer has been hard pressed at times to register just exactly the situation intended. The film is a strong indictment against unreasoning and adamant prudery.

Effective lighting has been used to good advantage in many scenes. The leading male player is Robert Cummings. Little Maury Stewart plays his part well. Others in the cast are Frank Montgomery, J. A. Furey, Hassan Mussalli, William Williams, Robert Whittier, Charles Goodrich, Hattie Delaro and Mary Asquith. Directed by John W. Noble.

"Just a Song at Twilight"

Evelyn Greeley and Pedro de Cordoba Leading Players in Five-Reel Screen Drama Produced by Dixie Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

CONVENTIONALITY is the keynote of "Just a Song at Twilight," a five-reel photoplay produced by the Dixie Film Corporation. The greater part of the action takes place during a dream, and that stock expedient of the hard-working dramatist—the use of the familiar but none the less surprising coincidence, has been employed with great freedom.

Henry Albert Phillips, the author of the story, has followed a form of scenario writing that is now relegated to the third class and does not permit the intelligent spectator to exercise his imagination to the slightest degree. The leading characters lose sympathy by their lack of common sense. When the heroine is in need of money she goes to an old friend—an unsuccessful suitor for her hand—and then lies to her husband about the matter—a fault not justified even by her fear of telling the truth.

The direction also is often at fault and several members of the cast have been permitted to overact. Evelyn Greeley, in a dual role, is earnest and of a pleasing personality, but becomes too automatic in the emotional scenes. Pedro de Cordoba, a well graced actor, is not a fortunate choice for the part of Carlyle Turner, and Charles Wellesley is of the number who display more vigor than art. The best performance of the cast is given by Richard Barthelmess as George Turner.

General Film Program

Appropriate Subject from Selig for Christmas—Many Good Subjects for Week of December 25.

GENERAL Film Service for week December 25-30, inclusive, has reserved for its first day's entertainment, which is Christmas Day, very appropriate films. "The Golden Thought," a two-reel Selig drama featuring Tom Mix, Victoria Forde and the wonderful little juvenile actress, Baby Lillian Wade. As the title would imply, the story carries a good moral, "A Journey to Nowhere," a Vitagraph comedy together with "Some of Our Biggest Star Performers" rounds out this film to one reel. This is followed by the ever-interesting Selig-Tribune. "Two Men of the Desert," a Biograph one-reel drama, features Henry Walthall and Walter Miller. The scenes are laid in the gold fields of California and drift with the story to the city. Blanche Sweet plays the feminine lead in this heart-stirring picture of love and sacrifice.

The fourth of "The Black Cat Features" by Essanay under the caption "A Tale from the Decameron," a two-part drama featuring Nell Craig and Ernest Maupain, will be the first picture screened Tuesday. This will be followed by a Kalem one-reel comedy, "The Quest of the Golden Goat," with Ham, Bud, Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch supplying the fun.

The Essanay Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21, together with some scenes of Lake Tahoe, California, is followed by a Vim one-reel comedy, "A Financial Frenzy," in which the comedy pair, Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby, are seen. A Biograph two-reel drama, "The Rehearsal," featuring Vera Sisson and Jose Ruben, will close the program for that day.

Selig-Tribune News reel showing pictorially all the news both here and abroad, together with the very latest fashions and a Vim one-reel comedy, will be Thursday's offering.

Kalem supplies "A Mission of State," a one-reel drama of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, in which Ollie Kirkby and George Larkin play the leads. Then Mary Anderson will be seen in "The Luck Charm," the second of the "Dangers of Doris" series offered by Vitagraph, followed by "The Property Man," a one-reel Vim comedy featuring Pokes and Jabbs.

The third of Essanay's "Is Marriage Sacred?" series under the title "Wife in Sunshine," featuring Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold and Sydney Ainsworth, is the picture first flashed on the screen for Saturday. Helen Gibson, the "Railroad Girl," is seen in "A Race With Death," an episode of "Kalem's "Hazards of Helen Series," followed by "The Right Hand Path," a Selig one-reel drama featuring Robyn Adair and Virginia Kirtley. This closes the program for the day, week and year.

Kalem's Final 1916 Releases

Laughs, Thrills, Action and Suspense in Abundance.

AS A fitting close to a year of excellent pictures, profitable both to exhibitors and to themselves, Kalem Company announces "The Quest of the Golden Goat" as the final Ham Comedy of 1916, released Tuesday, December 26; "A Mission of State," a single reel episode of "Grant, Police Reporter," released Friday, December 29, and "A Race With Death," one of "The Hazards of Helen" for release on Saturday, Dec. 30.

Bearing out Kalem's boast of "perfect continuity," these releases are packed with sensational thrills, of a dramatic and comic nature. The usual Kalem standard of photography prevails. George Larkin, the man unafraid, in "A Mission of State," will bring gasps from his audiences by a daring leap from the roof of a two-story house into the branches of a tree, and by his nicely-calculated drop into a speeding automobile from a thirty-foot bridge. Helen Gibson's stunt in "A Race With Death" is very spectacular.

LESSER SELLS DENVER HOLDINGS TO SUPREME.

Sol Lesser, president of the All Star Features Distributors, Inc., of San Francisco, has sold out his Denver holdings, including the Triumph Film Corporation's production, "The Libertine," and the Mutual's special production, "Purity," for the States of Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Utah, to the Supreme Photoplays Corporation of Denver.

Mr. Lesser has made arrangements by which the Supreme Photoplays Corporation will handle all of the big independent features that he buys for this territory. As a result of this arrangement Mr. Lesser will, in the future, include these four States in his States right feature purchases, making a total of twenty-four States.

Thanhouser Pleased

The Program of Releases for the Next Three Months Gives Him Cause for Elation.

GOING over the Thanhouser-Pathe program for the next three months, Edwin Thanhouser, president of the Thanhouser Film Corporation, known as "a man of few words," announced "I am well pleased." "'Her' New York," starring Gladys Hulette, is the first Gold Rooster comedy drama to be released in the New Year, on January 7. Agnes C. Johnston wrote the story. Others in the cast are William Parke, Jr., Riley Chamberlain, Carey Hastings, Robert Vaughn and Ethyle Cooke.

Then comes Valkyrien (Baroness Dewitz) in "The Image Maker," on January 21—a drama of reincarnation involving a motion picture company supposed to be working in Thebes, Egypt, with the ruins of temples and tombs for background. W. Eugene Moore is responsible for the direction and Valkyrien was supported by Harris Gordon, Arthur Bauer, Inda Palmer and Morgan Jones.

"A Modern Monte Cristo," starring Vincent Serrano, is the first February release. It is by Lloyd Lonergan and directed by Eugene Moore. Florence La Badie in "The Girl Who Wanted to Live" follows, the story being written by Philip Lonergan and directed by Frederic Sullivan.

And then comes a classic that is the pride of Mr. Thanhouser's heart, "The Vicar of Wakefield," starring Frederick Warde under the direction of his son, Ernest Warde.

"For a story of its kind, I think this picture will thrill America," asserted Mr. Thanhouser. "It is a smoothly flowing condensation of Goldsmith's famous story, and nothing better has ever been done with a classic story in this studio, or elsewhere, if I may boast a bit."

One of the most elaborate of many costly features of "The Vicar of Wakefield" is a prison scene that is quite out of the ordinary. It is the debtors' prison, a great, spacious, rock-walled hall that takes up the entire stage in New Rochelle.

"GLORY" UNITY'S SPECIAL NEW YEAR FEATURE.

As a special feature to inaugurate its new policy of offering to its exchanges at least one special feature picture per month Unity will release during the early part of the year a most attractive drama, under the title of "Glory," starring the charming Juanita Hansen and the well-known comedians, Kolb and Dill. The scenario of "Glory" was written by Aaron Hoffman and produced by Burton King and Francis Grandon.

Miss Hansen plays the delightful role of a young girl who has the entire Western village Glory as her parents. She was adopted by the inhabitants of the little town after her mother, seemingly in disgrace, had left her as a baby in the village hotel, presided over by Kolb and Dill. She is given the name of Glory, and grows up as the idylle of all the town. Kolb and Dill, as leading citizens of the town, constitute themselves her chief parents.

The picture was made in Southern California, and some of the gardens which were used as settings are among the most beautiful in the State, and many of the scenes are laid in the grounds of the beautiful Jevne home in Pasadena. The peculiar attractiveness of this picture lies in its simple, clean and wholesome character, giving an actress of Miss Hansen's known qualities full play. Both she and Kolb and Dill are well enough known to guarantee that this picture will offer motion picture lovers a maximum of good entertainment.

HAWK FILM COMPANY BUYS IVAN RIGHTS.

The Ivan Film Productions, Inc., has completed an arrangement with the Hawk Film Company, whereby the latter for a period of a year became the exclusive foreign distributor of Ivan releases for the ensuing year. The Hawk Film Company maintains offices at 145 West Forty-fifth street, New York, and business offices in the principal cities throughout the world, notably, Paris, London, Rio de Janeiro, Berlin and other world centers.

The thorough equipment of the Hawk Film Company for the distribution of photoplays assures for the Ivan film plays the most thorough distribution possible to secure. Already they have exhibited throughout the more important centers and reports received from Australia, England and South America indicate that the Ivan film plays are received as favorably by critics and public alike.

TWO PARAMOUNT PICTURES STOLEN IN BOSTON.

Efforts are being made throughout the country to locate two Paramount Pictures which were recently stolen from the Famous Players Film Company, of New England, Boston. The prints were those of Mary Pickford in "Emeralda," produced by the Famous Players Film Company, and Donald Brian, in "The Voice in the Fog," produced by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company.

Notifications have been issued by the Paramount exchanges to all exhibitors to immediately notify the exchange in their district, should anybody in their town accept or attempt to book these two productions.

From a number of clues that have been followed, it appears that the prints, after they were stolen, were shipped West, but up to the present time they have not made their appearance.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company

A RARE BOARDER (Vim), Dec. 8. Pokes and Jabbs are the comedians in this comedy reel, which is a fair knockabout reel. Pokes, as a jewelry salesman, makes love to all his female prospects in a boarding house, which leads to many complications. Jabbs comes to the rescue, disguised as Poke's mother, but the women get wise and the two are barely able to escape.

THE PURCHASE PRICE (Selig), Dec. 9.—A moderately strong one-reel drama. Robyn Adair, Virginia Kirtley and E. J. Brady are in the cast. The reel has a somewhat different story—that of a girl who refuses to marry a man because he is poor. The man—a young broker—steals to become wealthy and marries the girl. The man is later forced to confess his crookedness. The girl refuses to forgive him, realizing that she has lost love because of her demand for a price.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO 99, 1916 (Selig), Dec 11.—Seven hundred cow ponies purchased by agents of Allies, Denver; President Wilson officiates at Liberty Statue illumination, New York; insane man, in armor, shoots up court, Hammond, Ind.; delegation greets Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, Washington; World's largest gold dredge launched, Marysville, Cal.; Charles P. Taft to grow cotton on his ranch, Taft, Tex.; Eddie Reichenbacher wins Ascot auto race, Los Angeles; Thanksgiving Day celebrated by National Guardsmen, Corpus Christi, Tex.; 8,000 autos make exploration of new road, San Francisco; fashion section.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME (Vim), Dec. 13.—A laughable number of the Vim Feature Comedies, with Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby putting over considerable comedy. Rose believes in charity to such an extent that beggars get most of hubby's effects. He cures her by becoming the father of a host of stray animals of all kinds. They soon enter into a compact to keep their home for themselves.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL, NO. 20, Dec. 13.—A split-reel sharing funny cartoon burlesques on the news and scenic. Carlson's cartoons show interviews with well-known public characters, a ukele orchard and other funny features. The scenic shows views of Long Beach, California.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 100, 1916 (Selig), Dec. 14.—Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard leave New York for Germany; Stock Show brings out prize-winning live stock, Chicago; Shriner's convention at New Orleans; Miss Clara C. Hayward, society leader, is billiard expert, Philadelphia; funeral services of John D. Archbold, Tarrytown, N. Y.; President Wilson leaving Capitol after delivering message to Congress, Washington, D. C.; cat and rabbit show held in New York; fashions in shoes; "King Sam's" old negro-carrying boat reaches New York; million-dollar fire destroys warehouses in Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE MENACE (Kalem), Dec. 15. Number 9 of the "Grant, Police Reporter," series. George Larkin's stunts in this reel are his jump from an office building window to a suspended rope, up which he climbs to the roof, and his subsequent leap to a lower roof. He does this to prevent a woman anarchist from throwing a bomb into the ranks of the police parade. As thrilling a number as any. Reviewed on page 1,816 of last week's issue.

THE FATAL VIOLIN (Kalem), Dec. 19.—Despite the absence of Ham and Ethel Teare in this number of the "Ham" comedies, it is a funny reel. Most of the comedy is gotten over by Bud and Henry Murdoch. Bud gets mixed up with a gang of anarchists and is singled out to play a violin at a rich woman's concert. The violin is in reality an infernal machine and the resultant complications bring the laughs.

THE QUEST OF THE GOLDEN GOAT (Kalem), Dec. 26.—The comedy ball starts rolling early in this reel and keeps going at a moderately fast rate of speed throughout. Bud and Henry Murdoch are the leading funmakers. Bud goes in quest of the Golden Goat, where he believes he will find a fortune. He runs into a cult of worshippers of the Golden Goat, steals the goat, only to later learn that the fortune has been left for drinks in the Golden Goat Cafe.

A RACE WITH DEATH (Kalem), Dec 30.—A number of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series. Helen Gibson's nerve is displayed in this reel when she leaps from the back of a galloping horse to a fast-moving freight car. The car, running wild, is stopped by Helen just as it is about to plunge into the water through an open drawbridge. Thus she saves the life of a man who has been imprisoned in the box car.

General Film Company Specials

A FAILURE AT FIFTY (Essanay), Dec. 9.—Pathos and humor are found in this three-reel comedy-drama. The film is an acceptable offering. Audiences will probably laugh with and cry with "Old Tim," who cannot stand the efficiency methods introduced into the factory of which his son becomes superintendent. "Old Tim" helps a young friend with an invention that leads both to wealth, and the finish of the film shows a reunited family, with the young friend a son-in-low. In the cast are seen Thomas Commerford, Alice McChesney and Royal Douglas.

TWISTED TRAILS (Selig), Dec. 11.—The riding stunts performed by Tom Mix are the main and best feature of this three-reel "Western." The film has other good qualities; also several inconsistencies, but on the whole is an acceptable offering. The story runs smoothly until Tom marries the girl he rescued, when it becomes rather trite. Tom is given to believe that the girl he married is his sister; but a housekeeper straightens things out by her story of her service in an orphan asylum. Besides Tom Mix, there are seen on the screen Bessie Eyton, Eugenie Besserer, Al. W. Filson, Will Machin, Pat Chrisman and Sid Jordan.

IN A LOOKING GLASS (Essanay), Dec. 12.—The second installment of the Black Cat features. This two-reeler is interesting and worth while. It pleases. The story tells of how a girl uncovers crookedness through a look in her glass. This changes the young superintendent's idea of the worth of girls as office help, and incidentally begins a romance. In the cast are Richard Travers, Nell Craig and Ernest Maupain.

THE STAIN OF CHUCKAWALLA (Kalem), Dec. 13.—Nineteenth episode of Robert Welles Ritchie's "The Girl from 'Frisco" series. The two reels make an exciting and interesting Western. Barbara Brent this time conducts a newspaper campaign for prohibition in a Western "bad town." Marin Sais, True Boardman, and the usual cast are seen. Reviewed in last week's issue, page 1816.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

THE RIGHT TO BE HAPPY (Bluebird), Dec. 25.—This picture is a pleasing adaptation of Charles Dickens' story, "A Christmas Carol." The production, which is in five parts, was made by Rupert Julian, who also plays the role of Ebenezer Scrooge. It is a production that will make good for the exhibitor at any time of the year, is a character study, as are all of Dickens' works, and will be especially acceptable on children's programs. A full review of the production appears elsewhere.

Greater Vitagraph V-L-S-E, Inc.

THE MISSING CHAPTER (Vitagraph), Dec. 11.—Episode 11 of "The Scarlet Runner." The background of this story is a great English hotel and the heroine is a rich girl who drives her own motor car. There is humor rather than convincing romance in the tale; but the plot is intended to bring the love story to the fore. It is weaker than either episode 8 or 9, yet is well acted and interesting. For longer review see issue of October 7, 1916, of this paper.

HELP! HELP! HELP! (Vitagraph), Dec. 18.—Hughie Mack fills the costume of a gallant life-saver in this one-reeler. The scenes by the sad sea waves admit of much energetic fooling and many unexpected baths for most of the characters. Wm. Shea, Ed Dunn, Patsy De Forrest and Nellie Anderson are also members of the cast.

THE NINETY AND NINE (Vitagraph), Dec. 25.—The Ramsey Morris stage play of the same name has been taken for the foundation of a five-reel photoplay with a sensational rescue at the finish. The story is clean and interesting and the leading parts are excellently played by Lucille Lee Stewart and William Courtenay. The picture was reviewed at length on page 1973.

International Film Service, Inc.

HEARST INTEHNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 99, 1916 (Dec. 12.—Wives of American officials are guests of Mexican officials, Matamoras, Mexico; giant flag unfurled, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Manager Bill Carrigan of Champion Red Sox at home, Lewiston, Me.; physical training classes of high school give exhibition, Oakland, Cal.; farm tractors perform, Davis, Cal.; inspectors watch handling of cold storage eggs, New York; auto parade opens new boulevard, San Francisco; footlights and fashions; boxing matches board U. S. cruiser Milwaukee, Mare Island Navy Yard; aeroplane views of Washington, D. C.; cutting Christmas trees for market, Winslow Mill, Me.; with the French Army.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay.

THE TRUANT SOUL (Essanay), Dec. 25.—A powerful photoplay which shows the redemption of a great surgeon from the morphine habit by the sacrificing devotion of a nurse. These well-drawn characters are created to the life by Henry B. Walthall and Mary Charleson, and they are supported by other able players. The production (eight reels) is well directed and beautifully photographed. An extended review appears elsewhere in this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation

THE AWAKENING OF HELENA RITCHIE (Rolfe), Dec. 18.—Ethel Barrymore is featured in this five-reel visualization of the widely-read novel by Margaret Deland. Although rather tardy in telling the story, the latter part of the picture holds a wealth of interest-holding material, ably interpreted by Miss Barrymore. Reviewed in another column of this issue.

HE WOULDN'T WEAR GLASSES (Metro), Dec. 18.—Max Figman and Lolita Robertson are seen in this comedy reel. Without resorting to slapstick, many laughs are dealt out because of the complications arising since Max, who can hardly see without his glasses, mistakes the wife of a jealous man for the girl of his choice. He does not wear glasses because the girl doesn't like them, but everything ends happily.

Mutual Film Corporation.

THE FALSE CLUE (Mutual), Dec. 4.—A well-made two-part melodrama, which contains none of the offensiveness so common to melodrama. The production features Dorothy Davenport, with Benjamin Horning playing opposite her, and treats of the near-havoc wrought by an innocent excerpt from a letter which a detective picked up in the room where the uncle of the heroine is found dead. It is afterward discovered that the man died in a fit of apoplexy.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 102, Dec. 13.—This is an unusually interesting number of the Mutual Weekly, and contains excellent views taken at the Battle of the Somme. The launching of the world's largest gold dredge, the Statue of Liberty under its new lighting system, the opening of a new Scenic Boulevard at San Francisco, Cal., Uncle Joe Cannon back on the job, and other interesting items also appear in this issue.

TREED (Vogue), Dec. 17.—This is an amusing two-part farce-comedy. The action of the picture is free from vulgarity, and in some instances original. One of the funniest happenings occurs when the automobile in which the eloping couple are fleeing runs over a high embankment and lands in a treetop. Pleasing and artistic locations have been chosen for the making of this picture.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS, No. 9 (Signal), Dec. 18.—In this number of the Helen Holmes serial Helen is called back from the camp only to find that her mother is dead, the cabin in which she lived having been destroyed by a falling tree. The paper left by her mother in which she has made known the fact that Helen is the daughter of "Dollar" Holmes, is burned by Holmes when it reaches his hands, and a copy of the page containing the record of the marriage of Holmes with Helen's mother torn from the register affords opportunity for a thrilling chase. Helen jumps from an automobile to the train, gets the paper from the men who have it, and jumps from a high bridge into the water. The title of this number is "The Double Fight."

Mutual Film Corporation Specials

INDISCRETION (Mutual), Dec. 25.—A two-reel subject, featuring Ethel Grandin, Charles Eldridge and Lawrence White. The girl is engaged to a quiet young man and longs for adventure. So she dresses in boy's clothes and goes forth to look for it. She is mistaken for a burglar, compromises her good name and altogether gets more adventure than she wanted. This is an interesting subject in a quiet way, the story being one of average strength.

THE VAMPIRES, NO. 6 (Gaumont), Dec. 31.—Another thrilling episode of the serial in which Moreno is forced to join the vampires, bringing with him Irma Vep. A daring theft of money is made through the instrumentality of one Fleur de Lys after cunningly gaining the signature of a prominent American tourist, which is cleverly affixed to a bank check. Various other interesting melodramatic incidents also take place.

Paramount Pictures Corporation

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN (Famous Players), Dec. 18.—Frank McIntyre brings to the screen an adaptation of the play in which he made a success. He is supported by, among others, Doris Kenyon, Harry Northrup and Russell Bassett. It is a good comedy drama. A review will be found on another page.

THE RIGHT DIRECTION (Pallas), Dec. 21.—A waif story, featuring Vivian Martin. Many good human touches mark the working out of the story, as is set forth on another page of this issue.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

LUKE'S SHATTERED SLEEP (Rolin), Dec 31.—Most of the action in this one-reel knockabout farce takes place in a cheap lodging house, and the characters are all of the tribe of the Great Unwashed. There is plenty of rough-and-tumble fun in the picture, but persons of any pretense to refinement will object to the brand of humor that refers to unsanitary pedal extremities.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS NO. 12 (Pathe), Dec. 31.—"Frills and Thrills" is the title of this number of the fashion show. Many of the garments are of a somewhat personal nature and will unquestionably thrill the feminine heart by their display of captivating frills.

ABSOLUTE BLACK (Astra), Dec. 31.—The fourteenth episode of "The Shielding Shadow" sees the magic mantle again change hands after Sebastian makes another reckless attempt to retain it. A big surprise that is in store for Leontine is also foreshadowed at the end of the episode. A longer review was printed in the issue of Dec. 31.

SOMEWHERE IN GRENADA (Astra), Dec. 31.—The fifth episode of "Pearl of the Army" shifts the scene to the tour of Paso Del Norte, on the border, and permits Pearl White to take several desperate chances with her life. A longer review was printed in the issue of Dec. 30.

JOY AND THE DRAGON (Balboa), Dec. 31.—This is another of the Baby Marie Osborne pictures and has the same charm that made the preceding five-reel "Little Mary Sunshine" numbers so successful. The picture was reviewed at length in the issue of Dec. 30.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

TWO SMALL TOWN ROMEOS (Nestor), Dec. 11.—An amusing number, by Virginia Kirtley, featuring Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, Marian Zigler, Priscilla Dean and others. The scenes occur in a small town, and some good character types, slightly exaggerated, are portrayed. The two country boys play at a dance and become rivals over the city cousin. They are disappointed when her city "feller" shows up. A good number of the type.

IT DIDN'T WORK RIGHT (Victor), Dec. 14.—A comedy number, by Robert F. Hill, featuring Stanley Walpole, Helen Slosson, Joseph Granby and Helen Marten. This is a story of love and jealousy, in which a young man flirts with another girl in order to anger his fiancee. Later he is accused of stealing, and his fiancee stands up for him. The cast is pleasing and the story well presented. It makes an entertaining subject.

MOTHER'S GUIDING HAND (Laemmle), Dec. 16.—Mary Fuller is featured in this as a poor dressmaker; Augustus is the rich young hero. The girl borrows money from him, and when she repays it a romance follows. There is considerable absurdity in picturing her maternal yearnings by showing so many babies. The infants make a splendid feature by themselves, but are brought in rather awkwardly. The number is entertaining, but not strongly constructed.

IT SOUNDS LIKE A KISS (Nestor), Dec. 18.—A comedy number by Bess Meredyth, featuring Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, Priscilla Dean and Babe Sedgwick. This deals with the subject of jealousy. A young married man is suspicious of his wife, who in turn suspects him of flirting with a blonde lady. Trouble starts at a dance and leads to the home of the married couple, where Eddie hides in the wife's room. This is not very new in situations, but the action is amusing throughout.

IT'S GREAT TO BE MARRIED (Victor), Dec. 22.—One of Capt. Leslie T. Peacock's whimsical comedies, with a slightly risque flavor. This concerns a widow, about to marry a second time, who dresses her eighteen-year-old daughter as a child. The deception works well until the daughter sits on the fiance's knees and kisses him. She then elopes with him and leaves mother alone. This is carefully handled and should not offend.

JAGS AND JEALOUSY (Joker), Dec. 25.—A comedy number, featuring Gale Henry, Wm. Graney and Heinie Conklin. A sculptor, a suspicious husband and a curious wife are the chief characters. The theft of a statue brings on the trouble. This is amusing, but not exceptional in any way. It makes an average number.

PRETTY BABY (Nestor), Dec. 25.—A comedy number, by Bess Meredyth, featuring Eddie Lyons, Edith Roberts, Lee Moran, Fred Gamble and a very pleasing infant. The latter lends a strong human appeal to the little story, which instantly attracts the observer. The number is exceptionally attractive and will be widely appreciated.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE NO. 4, Dec. 29.—This issue of the interesting new magazine in film contains a demonstration of a new automatic mail-handling device, an illustration of how the A. S. P. C. A. handles the sick and injured horses of the city streets, a lesson in mixing biscuits, some views of the Venus Fly Trap, an odd Southern plant, and a study in animated sculpture.

PHIL'S BUSY DAY (L-KO), Dec. 29.—A very funny knockabout number, featuring Phil Dunham as a henpecked husband. He gets up late in the morning, flirts with a pretty neighbor and his wife gets after him with the broom. Some of the situations are rough, but not offensive, and some unusually funny stunts are pulled. The chase at the close is a good one.

MINES AND MATRIMONY (Joker), Dec. 30.—A comic number of the knockabout type, by Irene Blake, featuring Wm. Franey, Heinie Conklin and Gale Henry. A gold brick, a number of men down a well, and a bride in waiting are features of the plot. A characteristic number of the nonsensical sort with several smiles in it.

THE PRODIGAL DAUGHTER (Rex), Dec. 31.—A holiday story, by E. M. Ingleton, featuring Alan J. Holubar, Jack Mulhall and Agnes Vernon. It pictures the return of the minister's daughter, who has been ostracized from home. She has a child and the father refuses her admission. Later she tells him she had been married and he relents. This mingles pathos with the holiday atmosphere. It makes a good sentimental offering, though conventional in plot.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

THE PENALTY OF TREASON (Rex), Dec. 10.—A two-reel number, by Helen Jonas, featuring Douglas Gerard and Ruth Clifford. The scenes are laid in Italy and the costuming and atmosphere are good. An army officer insults the sweetheart of a young musician, who revenges himself by exposing the captain and his friends as would-be traitors. The hero is not believed at first and is locked up. The girl then dons trousers and proves her mettle by ferreting out the truth. A strong subject, well presented throughout.

MURDERED BY MISTAKE (L-KO), Dec. 13.—A two-reel comic, featuring Dan Russell in a double role. This is full of laughs and free from vulgarity. The action of the first reel is exceptionally funny and the closing scenes are also good. A society man hires a thug to kill him. A tramp, posing as the victim's double, is followed by the assassin. A good knockabout subject, containing much real humor.

SHOOTING HIS 'ART OUT (L-KO), Dec. 20.—A two-reel comic, featuring Phil Dunham and others. A business man, suspicious of his wife, ties a thread to the back of her dress. He traces her by this means to the dumb waiter and finds she is acting as model for an artist upstairs. Trouble at once ensues. The number finishes on the roof tops. This is a characteristic number, with numerous laughs in it.

FIGHTING JOE (Bison), Dec. 23.—A two-reel holiday number, by Wm Parker and Wm V. Mong. The latter play the part of a pugnacious Westerner, who comes to the aid of a divorced woman and her son. He gets rid of the ex-husband, who still hangs around, and treats the widow and her offspring to a big Christmas dinner. Maude Emory plays the widow and Harry Griffith gives a natural portrayal of a lively boy. The number is not exceptional in presentation, but tells a human and entertaining story.

MR. VAMPIRE (Rex), Dec. 24.—A two-reel subject, by Grace Cunard, featuring Francis Ford, Edna Maison and Lois Wilson. The son of a disillusioned woman inherits her suspicion of the fair sex. He is known as Mr. Vampire. He falls in love finally with a girl he thinks is married—but the man in the case turns out to be her brother. The story is developed in rather a vague way, but the cast is pleasing, and in spite of the faulty construction the subject proves entertaining.

GOOD MORNING, JUDGE! (Victor), Dec. 28.—Ernie Shields and Mina Cunard are featured in this farce-comedy number of two reels. The action consists largely of passing a smuggled necklace about at a house party. The maid finally fastens it around the neck of the dog. This is very slight in plot and does not hold the interest very strongly. Ernie Shields manages to get in some rather pleasing comedy work, but the production as a whole is only an average one.

TOTO OF THE BYWAYS (Imp), Dec. 29.—A two-reel subject, by Catherine Carr, featuring Edith Roberts, Johnnie Walker and Harry Benham. The girl, daughter of an artist, from whom the mother is separated, is raised as a thief. The characterization is a good one and suggests Mitzi Hajos in "Pom-Pom." The Apache settings are also good. The story brings about a final meeting of the girl and her father and then her happy marriage to an artist who sought to reclaim her. This makes quite an original and pleasing screen offering.

THE CHILD OF MYSTERY (Red Feather), Dec. 25.—A five-reel story of Little Italy, written by Willard Mack and laid in the heart of New York's East Side. The plot concerns a girl named Carlotta, granddaughter of a prominent judge, the mother having been an American and the father Italian. As the story progresses the girl is made captive and the black hand gang attempts to collect ransom from her grandfather. This is prevented by her lover, Tony, and her guardian, Giuseppe. Tony then sees the girl won by an American lover. The plot of this lacks suspense and is slightly mechanical in handling. The strong features are in the accuracy of the atmosphere and character types. Hobart Henley, Gertrude Selby, Thomas Jefferson and others appear.

THE PEOPLE VS. JOHN DOE (Universal Special Feature), December.—In this six-part production, which is an appeal on behalf of the abolishment of capital punishment, the question in hand is presented with vivid reality. At the Broadway theater, New York City, where the production made its debut, it is being introduced by Misha Applebaum, head of the Humanitarian Cult, with an impressive address on the subject. A full review of this picture, for which the state rights are now selling, appears elsewhere.

World Pictures.

THE WORLD AGAINST HIM (Peerless), Dec. 25.—The dramatic material in this five-reel photoplay includes the marriage of a convict to the heroine in order to save her fortune. The "happy ending" is brought about for the two. E. K. Lincoln and June Elvidge play the leading characters.

Paramount Celebrates Christmas

Exchanges Have Special Program for Yuletide Holiday. Containing Much to Interest the Children.

PARAMOUNT exchanges throughout the country are making a special drive on special features for the Yuletide holidays, particularly in the smaller communities where the Paramount features are shown less than three days each week, and also beginning to inaugurate throughout the country special matinees for children to be held every Saturday morning during the coming year.

In many sections of the country there has been inaugurated through the different exchanges distributing Paramount Pictures what have become popularly known as children's matinees, on which events a large number of features are rebooked and which have proven to be an excellent business move. These special matinees for children have drawn exceptionally large audiences.

Paramount releases on Christmas day this year the Famous Players production of the well-known fairy tale by the Brothers Grimm, in which Marguerite Clark plays the title role, and in which production on the stage she made a wonderful hit at the Little theater some years past. The Famous Players have made it an annual event to release a feature each Christmas that is particularly adapted for the Yuletide season, and with all the first-run houses showing "Snow White" and hundreds of other Paramount features conducted for Yuletide performances with pictures of similar character, the Christmas and New Year's weeks, this year, through the efforts of the Paramount exchanges, will be memorable.

Among the features that are being given additional publicity as Yuletide features are "A Christmas Carol," "The Two Columbines," "An Alien," "Cinderella," "The Prince and the Pauper," "Molly Make-Believe," "Little Lady Eileen," "A Bachelor's Romance," "Mice and Men," Paramount-Bray cartoons, Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures, "Still Waters," "Seven Sisters," "Such a Little Queen," "Wildflower," "The Goose Girl," "Rags," "Hulda from Holland," "Poor Little Peppina."

"Advertising "Patria"

International Has Great Campaign Under Way in All Hearst Papers.

THE International has perfected arrangements for one of the greatest campaigns of publicity ever launched for a cinema production, in behalf of its patriotic photoplay, "Patria." The production has already been enormously advertised, but with the release date definitely fixed for January 1, the real campaign is now beginning.

The international fame of Mrs. Vernon Castle as the star, and the popularity of Louis Joseph Vance, the author of "Patria," has led to a keen rivalry between newspapers all over the country for the right to publish the story in serial form. Up to date arrangements have been made with twenty-five of the leaders in this contest to do so, and that alone means publicity of the most valuable kind.

Full pages, half and quarter-page advertisements will be used in the newspapers having the largest circulation in thirty of the largest cities of the United States, which will give "Patria" a publicity never before conferred upon a serial of the screen. More than two hundred of the smaller papers throughout the United States will tell the story of Patria to their readers, and great spreads will be used in the motion picture trade papers.

On the Sunday preceding the release of "Patria" all of the Hearst newspapers, whose combined circulation is more than 2,000,000, will carry three full pages concerning "Patria" and its marvels as a practically inspiring screen production.

Before the campaign is closed "Patria" announcements will appear in Cosmopolitan, the magazine with one of the largest circulations in the world; in Hearst's Magazine, Harper's Bazaar, Good Housekeeping, Motor and Motor Boating. It is conservatively estimated that in this campaign of advertising "Patria" will be made known in every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

A publicity campaign of this magnitude is a sure indication that the managers of the International feel that "Patria" is the greatest serial photoplay ever produced and have taken measures accordingly.

"Lovely Mary" Heads Mutual December 25

Ethel Grandin, Alexander Clark and Ben Turpin Other Featured Players of the Week.

MARY MILES MINTER, "Lovely Mary" of Mutual, will appear in a five-part Mutual Star Production entitled "The Innocence of Lizette," the week of December 25. This production is from the pen of Bessie Boniel and was scenarioized by Arthur H. Gooden. The production was filmed at the American Mutual studios, under the direction of James Kirkwood.

"The Innocence of Lizette" is another screen success, replete with delicately handled situations. The story is novel. Miss Minter portrays the character of a little girl, of careful reading, who is taken from the poorer districts into the home of a millionaire.

On Monday, December 25, Ethel Grandin will be seen in a two-reel drama, entitled "Indiscretion." "Tours Around the World," embracing beauty and historic spots, will be shown Tuesday. On Wednesday, "Mutual Weekly," showing all of the interesting news events of the week in one reel, and "See America First," a scenic, on the same reel with "Kartoon Komics," drawn by Harry Palmer, will be released. A one-reel comedy, entitled "Peter's Perfect Photoplay," featuring Bud Ross, is scheduled for Thursday.

Alexander Clark, who is now starring in the stage production of "Princess Pat," is scheduled to appear on Saturday in a one-reel Mutual Star comedy, "Grimsey the Bell Hop."

"Jealous Jolts," a two-reel Vogue comedy, featuring Ben Turpin and Paddy McQuire, is scheduled to be released on Sunday, together with "Reel Life," the reel magazine.

"The Jade Necklace," the first of the stories of "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," written by Edith Sessions Tupper and produced by the Niagara Film studios, will be offered on Thursday, December 28.

These stories will be released in two reels, every week, for fifteen weeks.

SHIFTS IN BLUEBIRD'S JANUARY RELEASES.

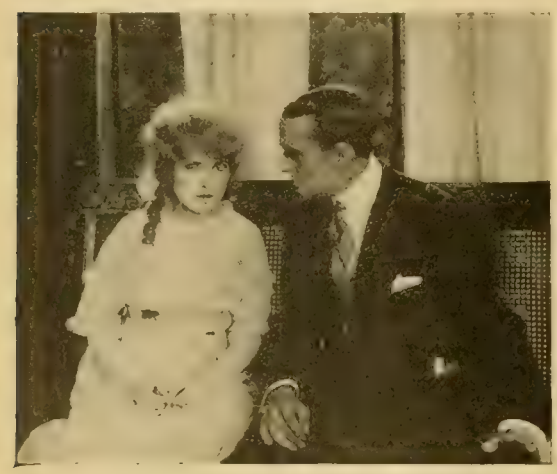
Bluebird has found it expedient to make several changes in the order of their releases for January, using the same subjects as have been previously announced, but shifting the release dates on three of them. "Black Orchids" remains in its original place as the release for Jan. 1 and "The Devil's Pay Day" will, as planned, be the attraction for the week of Jan. 29. "The Piper's Price" returns Dorothy Phillips to the series after one month, on Jan. 8. Bluebird No. 52 will be "Her Soul's Inspiration," introducing Ella Hall as the star, and will be the Bluebird for Jan. 15. "God's Crucible" is set for release Jan. 22 with George Hernandez as the star.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

FANNIE WARD STARS IN CALIFORNIA STORY.

Though California gives to the motion picture screen more settings than any other state in the Union, it seldom is made the acknowledged background for a photoplay. In the Lasky production "Betty to the Rescue," in which Fannie Ward stars on the Paramount Program January 15, California gold mines and orange groves give a genuine Golden Gate flavor to the story. The scenes were all taken within a comparatively short distance of the Lasky studio in Hollywood.

The story was written by Beatrice De Mille and Leighton Osmun and was directed by Frank Reicher. In the cast are included: Jack Dean, Lillian Leighton, Charles H. West, James Neill and Ted Duncan.



Scene from "Betty to the Rescue" (Lasky).

"THE RAY OF DEATH" (UNITY).

"The Ray of Death" is the title of the fifteenth episode of "The Yellow Menace" and, as it unfolds, we see the utter determination of Ali Singh to subdue those around him to his indomitable will in its most violent form. It is hard to imagine that he could stoop so low as to force his own niece to marry a half-breed opium fiend and so vile a character as Hong Kong Harry; but, because of Najla's several outbreaks of disloyalty and treachery to Ali Singh's cause, he determines to forever separate her from the refining influence of her American friends, by forcing her to marry Hong Kong Harry.

There is nothing the unhappy girl can do but submit to force, but death intervenes to release her from so hateful a union. Najla is killed during an attack on Ali Singh's last stronghold.

Manning, heading the raid, is held by deperadoes in front of a machine which emits the sight-killing rays of violet hue. He is made partially blind and cannot wholly recover his sight unless operated upon by the most skilled of specialists. Margaret Bronson and Manning are married, despite his affliction, and the further pursuit of Ali Singh is carried on by Willard Bronson and the police officials, under the leadership of Captain Kemp.

MID-WEST CORPORATION ACQUIRES "CIVILIZATION."

A new and financially strong company, known as the Mid-West Civilization Corporation, was recently formed, with offices at Denver, Col., for the purpose of acquiring the State rights of the Thomas H. Ince picture, "Civilization," for the States of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico and Nebraska. The deal was consummated last week.

The president of the Mid-West Corporation is J. W. Burke and the secretary and treasurer is Frank M. Mikels. The general manager is Max Schubach. The first presentation of the spectacle in this territory will be at Denver, Col., on December 31, to be followed by offerings in Salt Lake City, Ogden, Omaha and Lincoln.

ROBERT WARWICK IN "THE ARGYLE CASE."

The methods of the modern detective, as contrasted with those of the impossible sleuths of fiction, will have their first screen portrayal when Robert Warwick appears in the Selznick Pictures production of the detective play, "The Argyle Case." This is the play on which the internationally famous detective, William J. Burns, collaborated with Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, and which was presented with tremendous success on the stage a few seasons ago, with Robert Hilliard as the star.

Mr. Warwick is rapidly completing the picturized version of this intensely interesting play at the Selznick studios in New York, under the direction of Ralph W. Ince. By way of making sure of correct details, Mr. Ince has enlisted the services of Detective Burns, who is supervising many of the scenes in which such modern instruments of scientific detection as the dictograph and finger-print processes are used. In addition to its thrilling detective story, "The Argyle Case" provides a big heart interest and the producers are confident that it will prove the popular star's greatest screen achievement.

Mr. Warwick is just the type for the lead and plays it with a swing and directness of method that will be most appealing to all pictureгoers. The star has been surrounded by one of the strongest casts of well-known players who have ever appeared in a single feature.

Elaine Hammerstein, the charming granddaughter of the famous Oscar, and well known to all theatergoers, plays the leading feminine role, while J. Cooper Cliffe, recognized as one of the greatest character actors of the day, will be seen in the powerful role of Kreisler, the head of the counterfeiting gang. Others in the cast include Charles Hines, Frank McGlynn, Arthur Albertson, Gazelle Marche, Frank Evans, John Fleming, Mary Alden and Robert Vivian.

"ISLAND OF DESIRE" FINISHED.

After many weeks of work, Director Otis Turner has completed "The Island of Desire," George Walsh's new starring vehicle for William Fox. The nature of the story called for certain atmospheric conditions and the building of an entire tropical island for a large part of the film. This, plus the achievement of several novel photographic tricks, resulted in the extended time devoted to the picture.

"The GIRL GOD MADE FOR JONES" (Essanay).

This is the first short production Bryant Washburn has appeared in for some time past. "The Girl God Made for Jones" is one of Essanay Black Cat features. It reveals a man who seeks everywhere for the girl of his heart's desire, then finds that she literally has been sitting beside him all the while. There are some thrilling scenic effects, including a railroad wreck and a big fire. Intermixed with many thrills are numerous humorous situations involving Jones' search for his "love girl." Alice McChesney appears with Mr. Washburn.

Scene from "The Girl God Made for Jones" (Essanay).

Fox Films Have Daring Stunts

Death Defying Exploits, Catastrophies and Wild Chases Put "Punches" in New Comedy Series.

IN WILLIAM FOX'S new series of comedy pictures, the Foxfilm comedies, brand new methods of laugh production have been resorted to. Camera trickery, mechanical effects and disregard for life and limb on an unusual scale characterize every one of the forthcoming fifty-two releases. Here are a few examples of screen comedy of the modern school selected at random from some of Mr. Fox's new offerings:

Thousands of gallons of water are released from a broken gravity tank on the roof of a hotel and sweep like a young Niagara down through the building and out into the street. There is no question as to the volume of water or power of current. Every piece of furniture and every human being in the six sets that are wrecked is swept along in the rush of water. The carrying away of a huge banquet table, at which are seated fifty guests in evening clothes, comes as the startling climax. Property destroyed in obtaining this one effect represents thousands of dollars.

In another picture an entire village is submerged by a cloudburst. A hundred or more dwelling houses and business places are inundated, the water in the streets extending to the roofs of the structures. It is no miniature set. The main village street with all its activities is shown close up. Then the cloudburst begins. Water accumulates in the gutters, backs up over the sidewalks and gradually rises to the roofs as the villagers climb higher and higher for safety. The cost of this effect in dollars and cents is equal to an amount large enough to produce an ordinary two-reel comedy.

Another early release features a unique race effect. The leading comedian, in the guise of a Marathon runner, is shown passing a bird in full flight and an automobile traveling at a high rate of speed.

One of the biggest "chases" ever shown in pictures is the feature of a Fox film comedy soon to be released. A gang of crooks on a handcar is pursued by officers on a locomotive, motorcycle, automobile and police launch. All are shown action at once. The climax comes when the crooks, deserting the handcar, board an electric engine, which tears its way through a courthouse wall and into a courtroom. Several retakes were necessary for this scene. Once the engine got beyond control of the motorman and wrecked three other sets in which players were at work.

These are just a few of the remarkable effects shown in Foxfilm comedies and Mr. Fox intends that all future comedy releases will contain features equally distinctive.

GAUMONT'S NEW YEAR'S PROGRAM.

The first week of the new year sees the Gaumont photo-novel well under way. The first episode to be released in 1917 is "The Master of Thunder," scheduled for the screen January 4. It tells of the successful efforts of Satanas to release Irma Vep from prison, but ends with the death of the chief of the Vampires in a most sensational manner. This is the seventh of the nine episodes.

There will also be the customary four single reels. The Gaumont editors have set a high mark for 1917 by their opening offerings. These are selected with a view to the general entertainment of every spectator. The first release of the week is "Reel Life," No. 35. This marks the passing of the old year, being released Dec. 31. It opens with pictures of "The Olive Industry in California" and is followed by "The Value of Venom," a picture of the method of combatting snake bite as developed in Brazil; "A Most Unique Basket," showing the use to which the shell of the Armadillo is put, and "Modish Coiffures," another picture in the hair-dressing series.

"Tours Around the World," No. 9, is released January 2. It takes spectators upon a trip to Rio de Janeiro, the picturesque capital of Brazil, and for a ramble around Luchon in the French Pyrenees.

"See America First," No. 69, is released January 3. It gives an adequate showing of Pasadena, Cal., the City of Roses. This was announced for release several weeks ago, but was withheld until sufficient space could be secured on the reel for it. Splitting the reel with this is "Miss Catnip Goes to the Movies," a Gaumont Kartoon Komic by Harry Palmer.

The fourth Gaumont single reel of the week is the Mutual Weekly.

500 EXHIBITORS SEE "THE TRUANT SOUL."

"The Truant Soul," Henry B. Walthall's latest feature, was given a rousing welcome at its first trade showing Tuesday, December 12. The exhibition was given by George K. Spoor, president of Essanay, at the Studebaker theater, Chicago. Five hundred exhibitors and newspaper men were present, scores of the former coming from Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and down-state Illinois cities. The film is released Christmas day through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service. Its screen time is two hours.

NAME "SEX LURE" CHANGED FOR GREATER NEW YORK.

In order to placate the authorities of New York City the Ivan Film Company has changed the title of the "Sex Lure" to "The Girl Who Did Not Care." Under this new name will the "Sex Lure" be released again. Not a scene in the play has been objected to, so therefore it will remain intact.

GOOD REPORTS ON "RACE SUICIDE."

Manager Frank L. Greenwald of the Exclusive Photoplay Service, Inc., 212 Columbia building, Cleveland, gratified with the phenomenal success which has been accorded the film production, "Race Suicide," in the Ohio and Kentucky territory, has completed negotiations for the purchase on the same subject for the territory of Indiana, paying a price to Joseph W. Farnham, distributor of the subject, reported to be a record for the territory.

Mr. Greenwald reports a list of bookings in the new territory which are more than his wildest anticipation and which bespeak for the production a record equally as great as it has enjoyed in the Ohio and Kentucky territory, where it has taken rank as one of the best money-earning films ever shown in these two States.

Another vivid indication of the popularity of "Race Suicide" is demonstrated in the purchase by the Williamson-Waddington Pictures, Ltd., of Australia, of a number of new prints of the subject to meet the demands which have been created throughout New Zealand and Australia. "Race Suicide" has proven itself to be one of the most pronounced American successes ever to have been shown in Australia.

FASHIONS IN MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 103.

Realizing the widespread interest in skating, the Mutual Weekly, manufactured by the Gaumont Company, presents the season's latest fashions for fair devotees of the rink in its issue No. 103. These are filmed upon models at the exclusive rink of the Biltmore hotel. The gowns are from the Fifth avenue establishment of Giddings & Co. The variety of models makes it possible for every woman who sees the pictures to find something that she can adapt to her own use. The Mutual Weekly alternates its fashions, one week showing the latest pictures from Paris and the next week screening the latest modes developed by the leading Fifth avenue designers.

TRIANGLE JANUARY 7TH RELEASES.

William S. Hart and Dorothy Dalton, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum are the stars of the Triangle feature releases for January 7. Hart appears in a Kay Bee production of newspaper life in the old West, entitled "Truthful Tulliver," written by J. G. Hawks. Dorothy Dalton, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum have a vehicle designed to test their versatility to the full in another Kay Bee play of vital current interest, known as "The Weaker Sex," by Alice C. Brown, directed by Raymond B. West.

"THE TWINKLER" (Mutual).

Think of being a thief driven to desperation. Think of having the "only girl in the world" under a false conviction for murder. Think of being "straight," just for the girl's sake, and then deciding to "get the money" for an appeal by just one more "flier in the open market.."

Then imagine running onto a fellow with $10,000 displayed in one little pocketbook, "nipping the leather" and discovering that you have robbed the governor's secretary of the pardon he was taking to the girl for whose salvation you had stolen the pocketbook.

Well, that's the punch in "The Twinkler," the Mutual Star Production of the week of December 18, featuring William Russell, and written by Henry Leverage, editor of the Star of Hope, Sing Sing prison publication, and himself prisoner No. 65368. It is a play that lives from its first line to its conclusion.

Scene from "The Twinkler" (Mutual).

Director Edward Sloman has produced a wonderful drama out of this story from the pen of a man who knows of which he speaks, and William Russell, Charlotte Burton, Clarence Burton, William Carroll, William Tedmarsh and all of the supporting cast have outdone themselves in the sureness of their character portrayal.

Unversal Offers Strong Program

"The Purple Mask" Heads the List—Called a Super-Serial—Also a Five-Part Red Feather.

AS A FITTING end to the year 1916, the Universal Film Manufacturing Company offers one of the strongest programs in its history for the week of December 25. Varied in theme, novel in plot and acted by players of note, the week's releases reach the high-water mark in film production.

The feature of the program is the appearance for the first time of the new Universal super serial, "The Purple Mask," in which those noted exponents of the continued motion picture story, Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, are the stars. This great serial, which will be released in two-reel episodes for sixteen weeks, is unique among photoplay serials, in that each episode is a distinct and separate mystery drama. The serial was written by Miss Cunard and directed by Mr. Ford. In the cast supporting the stars are such well-known screen artists as Gene Hathaway, Peter Gerald, Jerry Ash, Mario Bianchi, John Featherstone and John Duffy.

The first episode of "The Purple Mask," entitled "The Vanishing Jewels," will appear during the week of the 25th.

Sharing honors with the new serial is the Red Feather five-act feature, "A Child of Mystery," a stirring, heart-interest drama, with Hobart Henley and Gertrude Selby in the leading roles. This strong release was written by Willard Mack, the well-known playwright, and produced by Hobart Henley. It is a virile story of the love and hatred of the residents of the Italian quarter of a large American city. It is filled with many quaint touches of pathos, which are lightened by bits of genuine humor. In the cast are Thomas Jefferson, son of Joseph Jefferson, most loved of American actors; Paul Bryon, Alfred Allen, Mark Fenton and Nanine Wright. "A Child of Mystery" will be released on Christmas day. Under the Nestor brand, the one-act comedy, "Pretty Baby," with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edyth Roberts as the chief funmakers, will appear on the same day.

On Tuesday, December 26, the Gold Seal three-act drama, "Birds of a Feather," featuring William V. Mong and Nellie Allen, will be released. This is an unusually strong short feature, written and produced by Mr. Mong. It is a decidedly new type of crook play, replete with thrills. In the cast are a number of screen favorites, including Lydia Yeamans Titus, Harry Holden and George A. Dayton. The Hy Mayer travelogue, "Such Is Life in Alaska," will be released in one reel under the Powers brand on the same date.

"Stronger Than Steel," a film version of the original story from the Smart Set by George Bronson Howard, in two acts, is the leading release on Wednesday, December 27. This is a tense society drama, in two acts, scenarioized and directed by Allan Holubar, who plays the leading role opposite Louise Lovely. The Universal Animated Weekly and the L-Ko one-act comedy, "The Perils of a Plumber," with Dan Russell, are presented on the same day.

The Victor two-act comedy, "Good Morning, Judge," written and produced by Francis Ford, will appear on Thursday, December 27. An excellent cast of film laugh builders, which includes Ernie Shields, Mina Cunard, Jane Hathaway, Walter Belasco, Eddie Polo and Lewis Short, makes this one of the funniest film comedies ever offered. The other release of this date is a strong one-act Big U drama, "The Flash of Death."

Three productions are offered on Friday, December 29. The Imp two-act underworld drama, "Toto of the Byways," written by Catherine Carr and produced by Lee Kohlmar, with Edyth Roberts and Harry Benham in the leading roles, is the feature of the day. The other releases are the Rex one-act drama, "The Gilded Life," produced by the Smalleys and the L-Ko comedy, "Phil's Busy Day," featuring Phil Dunham.

"Giant Powder," a two-act mining drama, is a strong offering which will appear upon the Bison brand on Saturday, December 30. This is a gripping story of love and adventure by Maxwell Ryder. It was produced by Henry McRae and is acted by a powerful cast, headed by Edith Johnson and Fred Church. The Joker comedy, "The Tale of a Turk," with Gale Henry and William Franey and the Laemmle one-act drama, "The Face on the Screen," with Florence Lawrence, will also appear on the same day.

On Sunday, December 31, will appear the Rex two-act drama, "The Prodigal Daughter," by E. M. Ingleton, and directed by Allen Holubar. This is a delightful story, interpretated by Agnes Vernon, Allen Holubar, Ruth Corbin and Jack Mulhall. The Powers split-reel, "Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not," an animated cartoon, and the Dorsey educational, "Civilization of the "Far East," and the Big U two-act drama, "The Mad Hermit," with Francis Ford and Grace Cunard, are the other releases of the day.

This week also brings to an end the Universal special serial, "Liberty," which has proved one of the most successful serials ever released, and thousands of letters have been received by the Universal, commending it and asking for more stories along the same line.

APOLLO WANTS A TRADE MARK.

Apollo Pictures, Inc., offers one hundred dollars for the most suitable and acceptable trade mark design submitted to Harry R. Raver, president of the corporation, at his office, 1400 Broadway, on or before February 1, 1917. The figure of Apollo Belvidere may be used in creating the design, the wording to be limited to "Apollo Pictures, Inc."

Praise for "Pearl of the Army"

Many Newspaper Critics Unite in Lauding the Quality of the Latest Pathe Serial.

THE enegetic boosters of the Pathe publicity staff, always on the lookout for leads that favor the successful exploitation of the several serial productions now being offered by that company, has gathered together the criticisms written by newspaper critics in various parts of the country where the latest Pathe serial, "Pearl of the Army," has been shown. Here are some of them:

R. E. Pritchard, motion picture editor of the New Orleans Item and one of the most progressive newspaper men now connected with motion pictures, states all four reasons in the following article published in a recent issue of the New Orleans Item: "There are thrills in every foot of 'Pearl of the Army.' With a dramatic story of love, mystery and adventure, and an all-star cast supporting her, Miss White is certain to achieve the greatest success of her career. It is doubtful if any star in the work has so great box-office pulling power. Pathe's name on a serial is a guarantee of its high quality. 'Pearl of the Army' lacks none of the essentials of a successful serial. It has a strong love interest, the development of which starts with the first episode. There is mystery, adventure and suspense. Every reel is replete with thrills of the kind that bring audiences back week after week."

Pathe's reputation, in the opinion of the photoplay editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is the most important reason. Under the heading, "'Pearl of Army,' Thrilling Serial, Proves Winner," the Plain Dealer says: "Every once in a while some chronic kicker comes along and in wearied tones complains against that twenty-minute entertainment he frequently encounters on a moving picture program that ends with a 'Continued next week.' It seems to injure his feelings to be invited to come again on the same day next week and watch an impossible but thrilling and mysterious plot unfold. But, in spite of chronic kickers, producers—particularly Pathe—continue to produce moving picture serials and exhibitors continue to book them to boost their business, on the poorest night of the week. And if the public didn't prove that they liked this melodramatic form of entertainment, would Mr. Exhibitor and Mr. Producer continue spending their good coin? 'Pearl of the Army,' starring Pearl White and featuring Ralph Kellard, is the newest serial from the house of Pathe, and if the first three episodes may be considered as a criterion, it should prove as popular as 'The Shielding Shadow,' which is rapidly drawing to a satisfactory close. When it comes to injecting real mystery into serials, Pathe walks away with the blue ribbon every time. Mystery and thrills in the 'Pearl of the Army?' Whew!"

The popularity of Pearl White in Dayton, Ohio, was demonstrated in a rather forcible manner during the week of the first release of "Pearl of the Army." The Dayton Daily News in its issue of December 7 stated that several hundred patrons of the Ideal theater were unable to see the first episode and it was necessary for Manager Rawson to arrange to bring back the first episode, which was shown the following week, together with the second episode. The Daily News quoted Mr. Rawson as saying that if the crowd continued to come he would either have to get a larger theater or show the pictures a full week. He stated he had never seen a more enthusiastic audience.

"THE PURPLE MASK" (Universal).

As a fitting close to a successful year the Universal Film Manufacturing Company will release the super serial, "The Purple Mask," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford in the stellar roles during the week of December 25. "The Purple Mask" marks a new departure in continued film dramas and promises to be the most successful serial in the history of motion pictures. Instead of the usual method of having one episode depend upon another, so that when a patron of a theater happens to miss an episode he loses the trend of the story, each episode of "The Purple Mask" will be a complete two-act drama. The suspense of the story has been maintained without leaving the fan in a quandary.

"The Purple Mask" was written by Grace Cunard and produced by Francis Ford, the stars, who hold the unique position in the film world of having appeared in more serials than any other players on the screen. They will be remembered for their excellent work in "Lucille Love," "The Broken Coin" and "Peg o' the Ring," Universal serials which met with acclaim wherever they were shown.

SAM PHILLIPS TO DEAL IN SCRIPTS.

Sam Phillips has organized and is president of the Feature Film Producers' Co-operative Association, which will furnish scenarios for feature pictures to several of the well known motion picture companies.

Mr. Phillips' long experience as a musical comedy man, photoplayer, and then director, well fits him for the duties of the executive head of an organization of this character. Many will remember him for his comedy work on the screen and with several well known film corporations, and of late the Milo Corporation of Baltimore.

A staff of trained writers will prepare the scripts sent out from the studio and will read and pass upon all script submitted by "free lance" writers, prepared to purchase at regular rates any material which can be used.

Brady Has Mobile Plan

Units of His Force of Reserve Pictures May Be Moved Up to the Firing Line at Moment's Notice.

THERE is no let-up in the World Film Corporation's policy of producing plays far in advance of the dates set for their release—the many advantages of which are so obvious as to require little or no explanation at this time.

"We are now working on pictures which will not be released in the ordinary course of affairs until next June," said Director General William A. Brady in referring to the current operations of his company. "Nobody, however, need take it as a positive statement that none of these plays actually will be presented before the interval has expired.

"One of the high points of our plan of accumulating completed plays is that in the possibility of circumstances arising under which any of our material should become of peculiarly timely value we would be in a position to substitute it upon our program at a moment's notice without disturbing the continuity of our productions in the least.

"For example, events in Europe might at any instant concentrate attention upon Russia in a way to render the public mind peculiarly receptive to a stirring story of life in the Czar's domain. In that case we would be ready to put forward Alice Brady in "The Snowbird" at once, although this photoplay is not scheduled for release until March 19.

" 'The Snowbird,' by the by, contains some unusual spectacular features, among them a complete production of the ballet, 'Scheherazade,' the principal roles danced by Alice Brady and Alexis Kosloff, with a corps of 100 Russian dancers. This ballet was devised and directed by Kosloff expressly for the present picture, the scene showing the interior of the Imperial opera house during a performance. Miss Brady for the past three months has been taking instruction in dancing for this particular picture, going to Mr. Kosloff's studio every evening, and I am free to say that her work in 'Scheherazade' is entirely remarkable.

"Following in due course among our new releases not previously announced will be Ethel Clayton in 'The House Cat,' with Rockliffe Fellowes; Lew Fields in 'The Corner Grocery,' with Doris Kenyon; Alice Brady in 'Motherhood,' supported by Edward Langford and John Bowers; Gail Kane in 'Glass Houses,' with Evelyn Greeley, Frank Mills and Gerda Holmes; Carlyle Blackwell and Olive Tell in 'Who Is Sylvia,' with June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley, and Kitty Gordon in 'The Haunting Shadow,' with Montagu Love and Alex Frances. There are four others in hand, for which titles have not been chosen as yet.

"Definitely dated for release, subject of course to change, are Alice Brady in 'A Woman Alone,' January 1; Gail Kane and Carlyle Blackwell in 'On Dangerous Ground,' January 8; Robert Warwick in 'The Man Who Forgot,' with Gerda Holmes and Doris Kenyon, January 15; Ethel Clayton in 'The Bondage of Fear,' with Rockliffe Fellowes, Arthur Ashley and Henry Hull, January 22; Marie Dressler, with Johnny Hines in 'Tillie Wakes Up,' January 29; Gail Kane in 'Her God,' February 5; Alice Brady in 'Frou Frou,' February 12; Carlyle Blackwell, with June Elvidge, Muriel Ostriche and Henry Hull, in 'The Parasites,' February 19; Ethel Clayton in 'The Web of Desire,' with Rockliffe Fellowes, February 26; Robert Warwick in 'A Girl's Folly,' with Doris Kenyon, March 5; Carlyle Blackwell, with June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley, in 'The Eleventh Hour,' March 12; Alice Brady in 'The Snowbird,' March 19.

"The engagement of Kitty Gordon is in line with our plan of leaning strongly toward women stars of recognized ability and striking physical beauty. Our careful observation of the ever-shifting current of public favor indicates that the popular demand at this moment is strongly in the direction suggested, and I am well satisfied with our present equipment in this direction, while Carlyle Blackwell fully fills the bill as our star juvenile and Lew Fields leaves nothing to be desired as the star of our occasional comedies.

"I may add with gratification that the business of the World Film Corporation for months has been going forward by leaps and bounds. The most significant feature of this situation is the fact that more and more theaters are taking these photoplays for week runs, while showings of three days are becoming quite general, proving that we have been underestimating the solid drawing strength of the motion pictures, where they are of good enough quality to stand scrutiny."

NEW STARRING VEHICLE FOR CONSTANCE TALMADGE.

Constance Talmadge is the latest star to appear on the Triangle-Fine Arts program. In recognition of her clever work in support of Wilfred Lucas in "The Microscope Mystery" and of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Matrimanic," it has been decided to give Miss Talmadge the opportunity that her talents deserve.

A new play, replete with comedy situations, has been prepared by Mary H. O'Connor of the Fine Arts scenario department, and Miss Talmadge's company, under the direction of Paul Powell, has already left for the Santa Cruz mountains of Northern California to begin active work. The construction of an entire log-cabin village and other elaborate scenery is made necessary by the plot of the new feature, and Director Powell will take a force of carpenters to the location for the purpose.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "PANTHEA."

Norma Talmadge, perhaps the most popular of the younger school of motion picture stars and who recently left the Triangle Company to appear as the star of her own producing company, under the Selznick banner, will soon be seen in the first of her new productions, "Panthea." This is a picturization of the famous novel by Monckton Hoffe, in which Mme. Olga Petrova starred in this country and which was received with acclaim by the public and press throughout Europe just before the war. The picture is finished and will be given its first public showings just after the New Year. It is reported to be an intensely powerful and dramatic production, with one of the most appealing love stories ever seen.

An excellent cast has been utilized in the production of this great feature photoplay, which was directed by Allan Dwan, formerly one of the leading producers of Triangle pictures. Among the players of prominence who will be seen in the pictures are Roger Lyton, George Fawcett, Earle Fox, Murdock McQuarrie, Count E. Von Stroheim, Norbert Wicki, Herbert Barry, Jack Meredith, Henry Thorpe, William Abbington, Winifred Harris, Ieleen Peisey, Stafford Windsor, William Lloyd, Dick Rosson, Frank Currier and J. S. Furey.

UNUSUAL ADVERTISING NOVELTY IN "THE WITCHING HOUR."

In addition to unusual drawings in the lithographs and other advertising matter, the Frohman Amusement Corporation has gotten up, as an advertising novelty, to be issued with its production, "The Witching Hour," a novelty stand, being the dial of a clock, which measures 4 feet in diameter and stands 5 feet 6 inches high. In place of the numerals on the dial, there appears the letters of the words "Witching Hour." The hands of the clock are movable so as to show the hour of the next performance of that production.

"THE MASTER OF THUNDER" (Gaumont).

The seventh episode in the thrilling photo-novel Gaumont is releasing through Mutual under the general title of "The Vampires" will be seen January 4. This is "The Master of Thunder," an absorbing series of incidents which disclose a French prison, the French colony of Algiers, and a wonderful scene showing the return of Irma Vep to her Apache haunts in the slums of Paris. Henri Leubas, undoubtedly one of the greatest screen actors of France, is afforded some excellent opportunities in this episode.

The opinions of American reviewers support in unanimous fashion those of their European confreres. It is pleasing to note that the high favor with which this sensational photo-novel was greeted has not been dulled as later episodes were screened. Last week one skilled trade paper critic said: "Just as full of fire and and energy as any of their predecessors (Episodes V and VI). There is a grimness that is wholly compelling, that grips one's attention and holds it throughout. The chapters are full of hair-raising incidents."

"Unusually thrilling," "a remarkable spectacle" and "an interesting situation" are some of the phrases of another reviewer to describe incidents in two episodes preceding "The Master of Thunder." In this episode the little European favorite, Tiny Tim, makes his bow in his photo-novel, appearing as the son of Normandin. Tiny Tim will be recalled as a popular child player in Gaumont releases of a year or so ago, and his return to the American screen will be welcomed by a host of friends.

Scene from "The Master of Thunder" (Gaumont).

Among the characters of the production who are prominent in this number are Philip Guard, the reporter, and his faithful friend Normandin, Satanas, Irma Vep, and Venenos, slated to become the head of the Vampires upon the death of Satanas.

Metro's New Year Offerings

Begins 1917 with Many Big Features and Many Prominent Players.

THE Metro Pictures Corporation has just announced its Christmas releases for the beginning of the New Year. They embrace one of the most important lists of productions ever offered for the screen. The list, which covers the period from January 1, 1917, to March 19, inclusive, embraces twelve great features, as follows:

January 1, "Vanity," with Emmy Wehlen as star; January 8, "A Wife by Proxy," with Mabel Taliaferro as star; January 15, "The White Raven," Ethel Barrymore; January 22, "The Promise," Harold Lockwood and May Allison; January 29, "The End of the Tour," Lionel Barrymore; February 5, "The Weaker Sex," Mme. Petrova; February 12, "One of Many," Frances Nelson; February 19, "Threads of Fate," Viola Dana; February 26, "The Belle of the Season," Emmy Wehlen; March 5, "The Secret of Eve," Mme. Petrova; March 12, "The Beautiful Lie," Frances Nelson; March 19, "The Hidden Spring," Harold Lockwood and May Allison.

Besides this dozen of Wonderplays, Metro will have another New Year's offering to the public in its serial, "The Great Secret," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne as stars. The serial is in fifteen chapters, each chapter consisting of two reels. More than $500,000 was spent on the production, in which 600 people took part.

The first feature to be released, "Vanity," with Emmy Wehlen as star, is a powerful story of how a beautiful young woman was trapped by her own love for finery. The story of this play was written by Aaron Hoffman, and the scenario was prepared by Wallace C. Clifton. John B. O'Brien directed the production. In this production Miss Wehlen has an opportunity to appear in gorgeous gowns of the latest style. Supporting her are such noted actors as Paul Gordon, Edward Martindell and Tom O'Keefe.

"A Wife by Proxy," with Mabel Taliaferro, is a charming story of an Irish lass who comes to America in search of fortune and, obtaining a position in the home of a bachelor, becomes the means of unearthing a great blackmailing plot. While she is exposing the blackmailers she wins the love of her employer. The story was written by John B. Clymer and Charles A. Logue, and the scenario prepared by June Mathis. John H. Collins directed the production, which is presented by the Columbia Pictures Corporation.

"The White Raven" is an unusual play for Ethel Barrymore. In it she is seen first as a dancehall girl in Alaska and again as a grand opera prima donna in New York. For the first time Miss Barrymore appears in short skirts and does a song and dance "turn." This play offers many opportunities for her talent and the contrast between the dancehall girl and the prima donna is a striking one. The story was written by Charles A. Logue. It is presented by Rolfe Photoplays, Inc.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison will begin the New Year with the picturization of a famous novel—"The Promise"—as their first vehicle. The production, directed by Jay Hunt, was made at the Yorke studios, Hollywood, Cal. This is Mr. Hunt's first production under the Metro banner. The story, picturized by Richard V. Spencer, is a tale of the great Northwest and of a man who kept his word. James B. Hendryx, author of "The Promise," has pronounced the screen version one that is beautiful, exciting and impressive. In the cast are George Fisher, recently with the Triangle forces, who played the part of Christus in "Civilization"; Doc Pomeroy Cannon, Lester Cuneo, Lillian Hayward and many others. One of the features of the production is a college football game.

Lionel Barrymore appears to great advantage in "The End of the Tour," which is presented by the Columbia Pictures Corporation. This play, dealing with the tribulations of a stranded road company, was taken from a short story which appeared in the Morning Telegraph.

In "The Weaker Sex," Mme. Petrova appears in a part entirely new to any in which she has heretofore been seen. She is the light-hearted, winsome daughter of an old Irishman. Mme. Petrova herself wrote the story, from which Wallace C. Clifton prepared the scenario. The production was directed by Perry Vekroff. In the cast are Mahlon Hamilton, Robert Broderick, Mrs. Mathilde Brundage and Maury Steuart.

"One of Many" is an offering that carries a profound moral. A prosperous man flirts with a manicure girl. Taking advantage of her straitened circumstances, he pays court with money and abandons her only to learn that his son has married her. The situation that follows is tense with emotion. Wm. Christy Cabanne wrote the story and directed this production, which was produced by the Columbia Picture Corporation and is presented by Arthur James.

In "Threads of Fate" Viola Dana has a play that is splendidly suited to her type as a star. It is a story that deals with vivisection. She, a country girl, sees the horrors of using dumb animals for experimental purposes and wins a young physician away from such practices. Eugene Nowland directed the production. Richard Barry wrote the story and June Mathis prepared the scenario. The play is presented by the Columbia Pictures Corporation.

Emmy Wehlen has an unusual vehicle in "The Belle of the Season." This is a picturization of a poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. It is filled with romance and pathos. B. A. Rolfe presents it.

"The Secret of Eve" gives Mme. Petrova an opportunity to appear as a Gypsy woman, and in three other characterizations. The story, presented by Popular Plays and Players, Inc., was written by Aaron Hoffman and directed by Perry Vekroff. Wallace C. Clifton prepared the scenario.

Another picturization of a poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox is "The Beautiful Lie," and Frances Nelson shows to rare advantage in it. "The Hidden Spring" is from the novel of the same name.

Masterpiece Film Attractions, Inc.

Opens Up New York Office as Headquarters—Will Buy Features of Quality.

WITH the primary purpose to buy and distribute features of quality and merit from independent producers and company's selling States rights, Sol. Lesser, in association with Leon D. Netter, has just opened the home office of the Masterpiece Film Attractions, Inc., in New York.

With branch exchanges already established in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York, the Masterpiece is already exploiting several big productions, among which are "Purity," featuring Audrey Munson, and "The Libertine," featuring John Mason and Anna Hanlon.

The offices on the fifth floor of the Longacre building in New York will be the headquarters in the eastern territory, and act also as buying office for the States of California, Nevada, Arizona, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico, the territory handled by the All Star Features, Inc., of San Francisco.

Further announcements of newer offices to be opened and of other features which will be taken over will be made in the near future, as soon as negotiations are brought to a head.

THRILLS IN 13TH "SHIELDING SHADOW."

The thirteenth episode, entitled "The Stolen Shadow," is announced for release the week of December 17. It is an amazing episode, in which Sebastian escapes from Ravengar and Leontine and the police by riding his motorcycle at top speed from a wharf into the river. This is a thrilling scene.

He is picked up by a fisherman in a motor boat. Throwing his rescuer overboard, he speeds away. He returns and steals the mantle of invisibility and the pellets. Ravengar and Leontine pursue him.

Sebastian is struck by an automobile and taken to the hospital. As they reach the room to which he had been carried he regains consciousness and, using the mantle of invisibility, disappears from sight.

Ravengar, knowing that he is in the room, orders them to close the door. Then, with his arm outstretched, he tries to catch the invisible form. Suddenly the window crashes to the floor, broken by an unseen hand. Ravengar follows and manages to catch Sebastian. Down the steep stairs they fall, Ravengar losing consciousness, Sebastian suffering only minor injury and vanishing with the mantle.

GOVERNMENT BUYS CUSHMAN GENERATOR SETS.

The United States government recently bought sixty-six Cushman generator sets for moving picture work in the various army posts. Some of these went to the Philippine Islands, some to the Canal Zone, some to China and others to various parts of the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, etc.

This large order was given to the Cushman Motor Works of Lincoln, Neb., only after competitive tests, and it is a strong indorsement of the Cushman outfit. This outfit is especially desirable for moving picture work, because of its compactness, owing to the small size and light weight of the engine, which weighs only 190 pounds and yet develops full four horsepower.

The Cushman Motor Works, Lincoln, Neb., will be pleased to send full information upon request. Address Cushman Motor Works, 938 North Twenty-first street, Lincoln, Neb.

"THE VICTORY" (Fox).

The story of a woman's victorious battle against fate and her escape from the talons of crime closing about her forms the theme of "The Victim," Valeska Suratt's latest screen drama for William Fox. The picture will be released on December 25.

Chief in Miss Suratt's support are Herbert Heyes, Claire Whitney, John Charles, Charles Edwards and Joseph Granby. Mr. Charles, who plays the "heavy" of the photoplay, is a newcomer to Fox films, but he has been in the silent drama for many years. Some of his most important work was done in leading roles with Tyrone Power. Miss Suratt, as usual, will display a wardrobe unsurpassed by that of any actress.

"THE LIBERTINE" BOOKING STRONGLY.

F. E. Backer, general manager of the Mammoth Film Corporation, reports that "The Libertine" is booking so strongly that he has been compelled to purchase four additional prints.

He has just signed up the B. S. Moss and the Proctor & Keith circuits for all their theaters. He is also sending out eight road shows throughout New York State and the New England States, and has already received bookings for indefinite runs in Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse.

The Rialto theater in Brooklyn has played "The Libertine" for a week's run, doing a smashing big business.

Fairbanks to Return East

Famous Triangle Star Will Make a Few Pictures at Fort Lee, N. J.

THE announcement that Douglas Fairbanks will return East this month to reopen the Triangle studio at Fort Lee has aroused much interest in local film circles.

"Doug" is scheduled to leave Los Angeles on December 16, so he will be in New York during the holidays. He will be accompanied by Mildred Harris, the fifteen-year-old Fine Arts favorite, who made a lasting impression in the role of the ingenue with Sir Herbert Beerbohm-Tree in "The Old Folks at Home." Miss Harris will appear as Fairbanks' leading lady at the star's personal request, as he considers her one of the most promising young actresses in the pictures. She is a blonde of the real blue-eyed, golden-haired type, and recently won first prize in a California beauty contest.

It is said that John Emerson, who is directing Fairbanks' current production, "The Americano," will continue to direct the famous comedian during his winter season at Fort Lee.

BLACK ORCHIDS (Bluebird).

Rex Ingram has made another production for Bluebird, in which Cleo Madison is the star. The recent Ingram-Madison presentation of "The Chalice of Sorrow" won great favor and was generally rated among the most beautiful of Bluebirds. Now comes "Black Orchids," for release January 1, in which Miss Madison has another tragic role in which to reflect her emotional talents upon the screen.

"Black Orchids" is a story within a story and, although the inner narrative has a tragic ending, the play as a whole attains the much desired happy ending because of the lesson conveyed to a flirtatious girl who is entering upon the married state with foolish ideas that seem bound to bring disastrous results.

Rex Ingram has introduced some original ideas in production and photography and Bluebird believes that "Black Orchids" will start the New Year most propitiously for exhibitors in that this feature is sure to give splendid satisfaction to the public, with attendant gratification to the theater manager.

Wedgewood Nowell, who was Miss Madison's leading man in "The Chalice of Sorrow," fills the same position in the "Black Orchids" company, Francis McDonald, Richard La Reno, Howard Crampton and Wm. J. Dyer being others in Miss Madison's support.

CHASE FINDS DEMAND FOR UNICORN SERVICE.

Treasurer P. A. Chase of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, has just returned from an extensive trip throughout the country which embraced not only an inspection and reorganization of the Unicorn's twenty-eight exchanges, but also afforded him a opportunity to come in contact with the exhibitors from coast to coast. Mr. Chase made several interesting mental notes while on his tour, and not the least significant of the facts which he discovered was the crying needs by exhibitors of really good short subjects.

"I found," said Mr. Chase, "through the medium of conversation with a large number of exhibitors, that the Unicorn with its twenty-one reels a week, is supplying a distinct demand for short subjects, both in comedies, dramas and western pictures, which hitherto has been unfulfilled, or else the exhibitor has been supplied with an inferior brand of pictures of this class.

"From my interviews with various exhibitors and from the statistics which I have been able to compile from my observation of the field, it would seem that there is a distinct famine for short pictures of the standard which the Unicorn Film Service is endeavoring to supply."

KALEM INCREASES ITS PRODUCTION OF PRINTS.

So many exhibitors using General Film Service have written in to the Kalem Company and to the head office of the General Film Company to report that they find it difficult to always obtain Kalem films, that drastic action to remedy this situation has been taken.

Extra prints of "The Girl from Frisco" series, the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, the "Hazards of Helen" and the Ham Comedies, are now being shipped to the various General Film exchanges on a schedule well in advance of the release dates. Hereafter and henceforth there will be sufficient prints of all Kalem pictures on hand in the G. F. exchanges to supply the growing demand for them.

D. J. GRAUMAN OPENS EXCHANGE.

D. J. Grauman, theatrical man of San Francisco, has decided to enter the picture business and will begin by opening an exchange in San Francisco for the handling of feature films, under the name of the D. J. Grauman Feature Film Company, for the States of California, Arizona and Nevada. In addition to other features which Mr. Grauman will buy in the open market for his territory, he has closed a contract with the Unity Sales Corporation, through Andrew J. Cobe, vice-president and general manager, whereby Grauman's exchange becomes the regular Unity exchange for the three States named, and all pictures distributed by Unity will be handled by the new exchange in future.

EXTRA REEL FOR FAMOUS PLAYERS' "SNOW WHITE."

So exceptionally beautiful and delightful has the Famous Players' adapation of the fairy tale, "Snow White," starring Marguerite Clark, proven to be in its completed form that the producers have decided to make it the first six-reel picture ever released on the Paramount program. The average Paramount picture consists of only five parts, any variation being in the direction of abbreviation.

This decision on the part of the producers to add an extra reel to their Christmas day release places them in the role of the Santa Claus of the film industry. "Snow White," which was produced by arrangement with Winthrop Ames, was made a Christmas day release because of its holiday spirit.

All the exterior scenes for the picture were staged in Georgia, the interiors being produced at the Famous Players' studio in New York City. The camera work, which is especially difficult because of the great amount of trick work required in depicting the magic and witchcraft of the story, was done by Lyman Broening, who has been Dawley's photographer in many of his most successful pictures.

Prominent in support of Miss Clark are Creighton Hale, one of the best-known stars of serial pictures on the screen, who plays the Prince in "Snow White," and Lionel Braham and seven celebrated midget players, who are seen as the Dwarfs.

"THE PRIDE OF THE CLAN" COMPLETED.

The actual production of Mary Pickford's second photoplay, "The Pride of the Clan," to be released by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, has just been completed and the final cutting and assembling of the film is now under way at the Fort Lee plant. The new production is scheduled to make its first appearance before the public on January 8.

It is readily felt that "Little Mary's" presentation of the Scotch character, "Marget MacTlvish," in this photoplay will prove her greatest portrayal on the screen. The role affords her particular opportunity to assert the "Pickford charm" which she has evidenced in the past with such great success.

The story offers a typical Pickford subject and weaves itself about the pretty daughter of a Scottish chieftain who at an early age is placed at the head of her clan when a severe storm at sea results in the loss of her father and several other fishermen off the western coast of Scotland. There is an indescribable pathos in the situation of the young girl living alone in a wretched hulk on the seashore ruling the rugged and untutored fishermen and their families. Although Marget is amongst them, she is not of them, possessing a spirituality of soul and a brightness of outlook that stands out in contrast to the uncouth ways of the islanders.

"WIFE BY PROXY" (Metro).

"A Wife By Proxy" is the title of the Metro Wonderplay with charming Mabel Taliaferro as star, which will be released January 8, 1917. In this new five-act production Miss Taliaferro will have the part of Jerry McNairn, a lovable girl from the Emerald Isle, who wins happiness and fortune in a thoroughly unusual way. "A Wife By Proxy" was directed by John H. Collins for Columbia Pictures Corporation, and will be released on the Metro program. It is the joint product of John B. Clymer and Charles A. Logue, and was adapted for the screen by Mr. Collins. A. A. Sadwell is responsible for the photography, which is said to be exquisite.

Miss Taliaferro has a thoroughly congenial part as the winsome Jerry. Prominent in her support is Robert Walker, who plays Burbeck. Mr. Walker has been seen in many of the Metro productions of Viola Dana. A popular player in the cast is Sally Crute, who has the role of the adventuress, Beatrice Gaden. Yale Benner, who has the part of Curtis; Ricca Allen, Ed. Mack, George Melville, Fred Jones and Jerome N. Wilson are other clever players in "A Wife By Proxy," one of the most charming vehicles in which Miss Taliaferro has ever been seen.

SCENIC BEAUTY IN "THE ETERNAL SIN."

No greater contrast could be imagined than that between Herbert Brenon's last production, "War Brides," which is now being shown in almost every large city in the United States, and the photodrama upon which he is now engaged, "The Eternal Sin," in which Florence Reed will be seen as Lucretia Borgia, for Selznick Pictures. "War Brides" was ultra-modern, taken from a play written by a woman, its theme a tremendous social struggle, and its scenes naturally confined to places which, while extremely picturesque, did not permit the artist to indulge his sense of the beautiful. "The Eternal Sin" goes back to the Italian Renaissance, is from a drama by Victor Hugo, the immortal author of "Les Miserables," its story essentially a drama of persons instead of classes, and its scenes, costumes and all accessories of the most exquisite beauty.

FIVE METRO COMEDIES IN JANUARY.

Metro Pictures Corporation will issue five one-act comedies during the month of January, owing to the fact that the month contains five Mondays. Three Metro-Drew comedies will be released, and two Ralph Herz comedies.

These are, in rotation, "The Matinee Idol" (Ralph Herz), January 1; "Cave Man's Buff" (Mr. and Mrs. Drew), January 8; "His Perfect Day" (Mr. and Mrs. Drew), January 15; "Married But Single" (Ralph Herz), January 22; and "The Pest" (Mr. and Mrs. Drew), January 29.

All of these are gems of humor, the two with Mr. Herz being of the more unctuous variety, the Metro-Drew comedies being the usual Drew type of domestic comedy known to all motion picture lovers. There is fun for all in Metro's January comedy releases.

AT THE CHRISTIE STUDIOS.

Ethel Lynn, such a pretty little lady, is putting the frills in Harry Ham's freshest Christie comedy.

Charles H. Christie wires that he is going to stick to New York while the going is good. He has signed up contracts with every State in the United States except the "show-me" State. He has also signed up the Philippines, Great Britain, New Zealand, Australia, Canada, and the few countries left still to be conquered by the Christie comedies. Mr. Christie thinks he will bring aplenty of scalps when he returns shortly to Los Angeles.

Billie Rhodes has started on a perilous career in "Gay Deceivers," with Harry Ham, in a Christie comedy.

Neal Burns has proved himself an expert auto-comedian in "Her Friend the Chauffeur," passed on Al. E. Christie's O. K. Another good laugh-getter sailed by with flaunting colors, "Small Change," with Neal Burns, Betty Compson and Eddie Barry.

Notes of the Trade

KITTY STEVENS is to be seen in a Metro-Rolfe production in which Ethel Barrymore is starring. Miss Stevens had the part of Dance Hall Molly in "The Cowboy Girl," the first production Edwin Carewe directed in the west for the Yorke studios. Later she played the role of Natannah in "Peer Gynt," and next she was with Mabel Taliaferro in "The Snow Bird," under the direction of Mr. Carewe.

* * *

Edward N. Hoyt, who is in Stuart Holme's new production for William Fox, has been on the stage for thirty-four years.

* * *

In the new World-Brady picture play "All Man," Robert Warwick and Mollie King play the big roles.

* * *

"Is Marriage Sacred?" will be inaugurated by Essanay December 16. The first of these gripping picture dramas will bear the individual title, "The Burning Band." Each of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" photodramas will deal with one of the home-destroying complications in married life, but will have a separate and complete story to tell. One will be released through the General Film Service every Saturday. Screen time approximately 33 minutes.

* * *

Alexander Hesse, one of vaudeville's most successful portrayers of French and Italian characters, appears in support of Harry Watson, Jr., in the latest "whirls" of George Kleine's comedy series, "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer."

* * *

Tony Lally, manager of the Regus Theater, Binghamton, N. Y., is conducting a campaign on special advertising on Paramount Pictures. He has posted the stock one-sheets in a great many store windows and is going after advertising strong.

* * *

Clarice Snyder, a child actress, will be cast in a boy part in a new Metro feature for Mme. Petrova.

* * *

Jack Pickford, who leaped lightly from the pages of Booth Tarkington in "Seventeen," to Dickens in "Great Expectations," is doing some of the greatest work of his career in the role of "Pip" in the latter adaptation, in which the Famous Players are again co-starring him with Louise Huff.

* * *

Essanay's Black Cat features are making a hit. Exhibitors' reports from "The Egg," the first of that series, proclaimed the production a big drawing power. "The Little Brown Mole," the second release under the Black Cat banner, is in demand for bookings by theater proprietors throughout the country. President George K. Spoor of Essanay has arranged to release a Black Cat feature every Tuesday. Each photoplay is a thrilling story, complete in itself. The screen time is approximately 33 minutes.

* * *

The new Crescent theater, in Ithaca, N. Y., seating capacity 1,300, will open November 27, showing Marie Doro in "The Lash." The New Crescent is under the same management as the Star Theater, Dr. Howe and Mr. Charles Hamer. Paramount Pictures will be shown. This house is one of the finest in the state and equipped with the most modern apparatus throughout, beautifully decorated, catering to the very best people. The policy will be photoplay features exclusively.

Negotiations have been completed between the Yorke Film Corporation and James B. Hendryx, the author, for the screen rights to his novel "The Promise," published by G. P. Putnam's Sons of New York and London.

* * *

Production of "The Promise" will begin soon after Lockwood and Allison complete their work in Harodl MacGrath's "Pidgin Island."

* * *

Shirley Mason, the sister of Viola Dana, is featured in two forthcoming Edison features, "The Law of the North," and "The Tell-Tale Step," which have just been completed and which are scheduled for early release through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service.

* * *

The new illustrated titles for the World Film's special Clara Kimball Young service have been so well received that the corporation has permanently engaged the corps of artists chosen for this work, and they will decorate all future World-Brady picture plays.

* * *

The Apollo Theater, owned by Hurtig & Seamon, at 125th street, New York City, has inaugurated a policy of two days on each Paramount Picture. The plan began November 27th. This house formerly ran a daily change but found Paramount Pictures worthy of a two-day run.

* * *

Monte M. Katterjohn has signed a three-year contract to write Triangle-Kay Bee dramas.

* * *

The Universal Nestor Company, directed by Louis W. Chaudet, is filming "Sailing at Four," featuring Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran with Edith Roberts. Bess Meredyth wrote the scenario. It is a one-reel comedy.

* * *

Jack Richardson has joined the Selig Polyscope Company and is playing a leading role in Director Colin Campbell's motion picture drama.

* * *

Club women throughout the United States are taking great interest in the Thanhouser production of "King Lear," starring Frederick Warde, which is to be released through the Pathe exchanges on December 17.

* * *

The Universal Joker Company, under the direction of W. W. Beaudine, is filming a one-reel comedy, "Trunks and Trouble," featuring Gale Henry and William Franey, with M. Moranti and C. Conklin. The story was written by Karl R. Coolidge of the Universal staff.

* * *

In the cast of the new fourteen-episode Metro-Quality serial starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, will be found Belle Bruco, who played the part of the authoress in search of thrills in the five-part Bushman and Bayne photoplay, "In the Diplomatic Service."

* * *

Frank McIntyre is preparing to make his photoplay debut in the Famous Players adaptation of his great stage success, "The Traveling Salesman."

* * *

Universal Director Marshall, who was previously co-director with Harry Carey, and who since has been assisting Jaccard in the direction of the "Liberty" serial, has been given a company of his own, and is producing a two-reel drama entitled "A Renegade Patriot," written by Eugene B. Lewis.

* * *

Viola Dana, Metro star, has begun work in the Rolfe studios on a new feature which will probably be called "The Mortal Sin." The play was written by John H. Collins, who will direct Miss Dana in the production.

* * *

"The Rise of Susan," with Clara Kimball Young as its star, will be released upon the regular World Film program December 11. This is not a part of the World's special Clara Kimball Young service and has never been shown outside the corporation's own projection room.

* * *

The Universal has now made an arrangement for securing a series of views of Alaska, and this series will start the week of November 27.

* * *

Adella Barker, who has made a strong impression as the nurse in Metro's screen version of "Romeo and Juliet," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the title roles, has joined the cast, including those stars in the big serial being produced at the Metro-Quality studios.

* * *

Albert Kelly, formerly with Director John H. Collins at the Edison studio, has joined Mr. Collins as assistant director at the Metro-Rolfe studios. He is at present assisting him in the preparation of a five-part photoplay, with Mabel Taliaferro as star, called "Jerry of the Emerald Isle."

William Beatman Davidson, a leading man with wide screen experience, has been signed by Edwin Thanhouser to support Charlotte Walker in Lloyd Lonergan's play, "Mary Lawson's Secret," which Director John B. O'Brien is now making at the New Rochelle studios.

* * *

J. Herbert Frank will appear as an American, a traveling salesman, in "The End of the Tour," Lionel Barrymore's forthcoming Metro-Columbia feature.

* * *

Florence La Badie has nearly completed "The Girl Who Wanted to Live," a story of prison reform and political intrigue, by Philip Lonergan. Frederic Sullivan, her director, will begin soon to make ready to produce Miss La Badie's next Thanhouser feature, which has been written for her by Agnes C. Johnston.

"Divorce and the Daughter," starring Miss La Badie, is to be released on December 3. This play was written by Miss Johnston.

* * *

Director George Cochrane is filming "The Web," prepared for the screen by Harvey Gates and featuring Cleo Madison. In the cast are such well known Universal players as Roberta Wilson, Jack Nelson and Daniel Leighton. The story is being filmed in two reels.

* * *

George W. Hill, long associated with D. W. Griffith as cameraman, has joined the Metro-Popular Plays and Players forces. His first work for Metro is the photographing of a new play for Mme. Petrova, written by Anna Steese Richardson and directed by Edmund Lawrence.

Picture Theaters Projected

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—E. A. Schiller, of the Schiller Amusement Company, and Marcus Loew, of the Loew Vaudeville Circuit, are reported planning to erect a moving picture and vaudeville theater.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—The Palace Theater has been leased by George Slater.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The Savoy Theater on McAllister street, has reopened under the management of M. E. Cory. The structure has been improved, redecorated and a new organ added to the attractions.

WILEY, COLO.—The opera house leased by J. J. Sarah is being converted into a modern moving picture theater.

DALTON, GA.—J. B. Brown will remodel his moving picture house.

COGGAN, IA.—Improvements are being made to the opera house operated by Philip Burst.

CENTREVILLE, IA.—The Orpheum theater has been remodeled and redecorated.

OAKLAND, IA.—The Unique Theater is now being operated by Fred A. Crosby.

STRAWBERRY POINT, IA.—The Lyric theater is now being conducted by A. A. Beguhn.

LAMONT, ILL.—The front of the Ideal theater has been remodeled and the seating capacity increased.

LAWRENCEVILLE, ILL.—A. M. Gee is planning to erect a one-story moving picture theater, 28 by 102 feet.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—J. R. Brannen has disposed of his interest in the Criterion theater on Main street to Harry Kornbloom.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—The Empress theater, located at the corner of Wayne and Clinton streets, has been thoroughly renovated and refurnished. The house was recently taken over by new interests.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—C. E. Springer, 1224 Olney street, has the contract to erect a one-story moving picture theater for George R. Quinn, to cost $7,000.

LAWRENCE, KAN.—The Bowersock Theater has been taken over by S. L. Ware.

HAYS, KAN.—Milliard Kirkman has plans by C. A. Smith, Salina, Kan., for a one-story moving picture theater, 50 by 80 feet.

BALTIMORE, MD.—James Goeller has awarded the contract to William Gaken, 2339 McElderry street, to erect a one-story brick addition to the moving picture house at 1444 Hull street, 21.4 by 87 feet, to cost $3,000.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Blanke & Zink, 648 Equitable building, are preparing plans for remodeling the Arcadia on North avenue for a moving picture theater, to be known as Majestic Motion Picture Parlor. The improvements will cost approximately $85,000.

FREEPORT, ME.—The Little Hip theater, recently taken over by H. M. Wilshire, has been remodeled and opened for the exhibition of moving pictures.

FARMINGTON, MINN.—The Star Theater, recently purchased by F. W. Ball, has been remodeled, the interior redecorated and a new projection machine added to the equipment.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Frank N. Lux is reported planning to erect a moving picture theater at 155 North Sneling avenue.

TWIN VALLEY, MINN.—The New Photo theater has been greatly improved with a stucco front.

NEWTON, MISS.—The Majestic theater is now being conducted by R. G. Davidson.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO.—A. H. Haas has plans by W. E. Parlow, H. H. building, for a one-story moving picture theater 45 by 112 feet, to cost $18,000.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—A. W. Eliott of the Sapphire Amusement Company, who recently leased the Grand Opera House, is making a number of improvements to the building.

SPRINGFIELD, MO.—The new Princess Theater has been opened under the management of S. E. Wilhoit. The house will seat 1,200 persons.

GREAT FALLS, MONT.—The Sexton theater, recently taken over by Col H. P. Sexton, has been extensively improved and the interior redecorated.

BENNINGTON, NEB.—The opera house has been leased by John Sass, who will conduct it as a first-class moving picture house.

SUTTON, NEB.—The Lyric Theater has been taken over by Ferdinand Grosshaus.

PITMAN, N. J.—The Park theater, built and owned by Atlantic City parties, has been sold to A. S. Clark, a local business man.

SUSSEX, N. J.—Globe & Smith have plans by F. B. Gross, 126 Market street, Paterson, N. J., for a one-story moving picture theater, 42 by 90 feet, to cost $8,000.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Shampan & Shampan, 772 Broadway, are preparing plans for a one-story moving picture theater, 50 by 90 feet, to cost $20,000.

CORNING, N. Y.—H. G. Drehmer, 50 Ontario street, has the contract to erect a two-story moving picture theater, store and apartment building, 72 by 100 feet, for the Viele Estate, A. L. Kiff, manager, for $20,000.

FAR ROCKAWAY, L. I., N. Y.—Fanny Jetkowitz plans to build a one-story extension, 25 by 18 feet, and make alterations to her moving picture theater, to cost $4,000.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Sam Siegel, 1581 Broadway, New York City, has plans by E. G. Atkinson, Parker building, for extensive improvements to his theater building, to cost $20,000.

HERTFORD, N. C.—Campbell & Perry have the contract to erect a two-story moving picture theater building, 60 by 92 feet, for J. Broughton & Bro.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.—Elks Home & Auditorium Company has changed its title to Auditorium Company. It will erect a theater and store building, lobby flanked by two stores on each side; several stores on Fifth street side; seating capacity 2,000; estimated cost $150,000.

EDGELEY, N. D.—Shiels & Weaver have opened a new moving picture theater, costing $10,000, and having seating capacity of 400.

NAPOLEON, N. D.—The Pastime is the name of a new moving picture theater opened here.

ASTORIA, ORE.—The Crystal theater has been remodeled and the seating capacity increased.

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING COMPANY
Los Angeles, California
Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)
Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced. Available for state rights.

"MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER

FOR REAL SUN-LIT PICTURES
PERFECT REEL DISSOLVING
The voltage of the "MARTIN" polyphase converter is maintained constant, so that the starting of the second arc does not disturb the light given by the first, making the dissolving of the reels as simple as if the arcs were operated in a Direct Current district. Our emergency panel does away with expensive compensarcs and cuts the wiring and installation cost in half.
Write for further information.
NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC CO.
669 W. Adams St., Chicago 1010 Brokaw Bldg., New York

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Canada Bans International Film Service

Chief Press Censor at Ottawa Has Sent Notice That No Pictures Whose Sale Will Benefit Hearst Can Be Shown in the Dominion.

By Frederick F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Ave nue, St. John, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—Dr H S Bridges, chairman of the New Brunswick Board of Censorship, has just received an official communication from the chief press censor at Ottawa that all films produced by the International Film Service are to be barred from exhibition in this province, and it is understood that this ruling extends throughout the dominion. The chief press censor bases his instructions on the grounds that the moving spirit in the International Film Service is W. R. Hearst, whose publications were barred from the dominion a short time since.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the British government barred the International News Service from England, and later the Canadian government shut out all his publications from this side of the border. It is understood that the International Film Service operates in several different countries under various names, but that Mr. Hearst is the controlling figure in each case. In this instance the action of the censor is to prevent the International Film Service from making any money in Canada.

One of their productions, "Beatrice Fairfax," is now being shown at the Imperial theater, contracted for through the Famous Players, Ltd. When asked whether this ruling would affect the screening here of the production, Mitchell S. Bernstein, manager of the local exchange, said that this decision would in no way affect the "Beatrice Fairfax" serials, Canadian rights for which had been purchased by his company. Officials at Ottawa notified the Famous Players that, inasmuch as they had already paid for these rights, the picture might be shown, but no other International films would be allowed to come into the country. It is alleged that Hearst was a persistent violator of the censor rules, and his publications and films are now shut out of all parts of the United Kingdom and Canada.

Metro "Romeo and Juliet" Screened.

St. John, N. B.—The Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet" had a private screening at the St. John opera house Sunday afternoon, through the courtesy of Walter C. McKay, manager, and Jules H. Wolfe, Metro representative. The picture had been shown in only one other Canadian city, Montreal. In this city it was declared a wonderful production by censors and press, and the public, judging from its attendance, also voted it a great success.

"Here, Boy, Take My Laundry."

Halifax, N. S.—"Here, boy, take my laundry to the Chinaman's," said Bert Silberstein to a hurrying uniformed figure in the corridor of the Queen's hotel one morning recently. The bellboy-like figure slowed down, stopped, turned and smiled at "Bert." It was an officer in the Royal Navy! A funny grin spread over Bert's face, as you have often witnessed in one [illegible] He said nothing, but now he declares he is always going to leave his laundry at the desk.

Pictures to Boost New Brunswick.

St John, N B.—For the past few months James Gilchrist, secretary of the New Brunswick Farm Settlement Board, has been supervising the taking of moving pictures, aggregating some 6,000 feet, of the splendid agricultural lands in New Brunswick, as well as views showing her wonderful educational system and busy industrial centers.

New England News Letter

By J. J. Phillips, Boston Traveler, Boston, Mass.

Geo. Gustin to Manage Roxbury House.

ROXBURY, Mass.—Geo. Gustin, formerly of the Keith's Bijou theater, Boston, is to manage the new Dudley theater, located directly opposite the Dudly street elevated terminal, Roxbury, Mass., and considered an excellent location. The seating capacity is 1,400 and is thoroughly equipped with all modern conveniences, including a new Simplex machine with a direct throw, insuring perfect projection.

Ushers With Illuminated Letters.

Boston, Mass.—Manager Thos. D. Soriero of the Park theater put over a new wrinkle at this popular Boston house. He has provided his ushers with an electric light arrangement, worn on the back. While of itself it is a minor detail, yet it demonstrated to what point of efficiency this theater is conducted by the popular manager. While the picture is on and of course the house dark, belated patrons are conducted to their seats in absolute quiet, as the knapsack arrangement when the button is touched flares out of the usher's back in letters of fire, "This Way Please." The patrons of the Park were at first surprised; then, seeing the point, follow the usher to the seat.

Louis B. Mayer a Commuter.

Boston, Mass.—Louis B. Mayer of Metro is commuting between Boston and New York these days on the Bushman-Bayne serial, "The Great Secret," to be released Christmas day. The numerous advance bookings in the New England territory indicate the popularity of these Metro stars.

J. W. Carrol in Southbridge.

Southbridge, Mass.—James W. Carrol, for years connected with the General Film Company at Boston, has been appointed manager of the Phelps theater, Southbridge, Mass.

New Theater in Lexington.

Lexington, Mass.—William Viano is about to open the New Lexington theater, which will be located in a central part of this historic old town.

Film Stars at Press Club.

Boston, Mass.—Miss Beatrice Roberts, who won the beauty prize at the recent Boston ball, and several society dancers, under the direction of Miss Winifred Gilraine, are to entertain the members of the Boston Press Club at the club quarters, 3 Beacon street, on Thursday, December 14, at five o'clock.

Miss Roberts will tell of her first experiences as a film actress before the camera for the Atlas Film Company, a Boston organization, and other members of the Atlas company will also participate in the festivities on this occasion.

It is also announced by the entertainment committee of the club that two distinguished personages will be given a reception at the club—Mary Pickford and Billy Sunday.

Saturday Film Show at Dorchester School.

Boston, Mass.—Dorchester high school was turned into a film house and a dancing school by the Dorchester School Center of Dorchester, Mass., Saturday afternoon, December 9, an experiment being tried by this association to provide good amusement for the children of this district on Saturday afternoons.

The reels shown at the school are carefully selected by the assistant manager of the school center. About 600 children attended, paying only five cents, which was used to defray the expenses of the exhibition.

New Pathe Serials.

Boston, Mass.—C. R. Seelye recently visited Boston and advised that Pathe has many good things in store for the New England exhibitors. "Pearl of the Army" is "going over big" throughout the entire country and the next serial, "The Double Cross," is to be a story the kind which makes Pathe the standard serial concern. Manager Farrell reports that the Boston Pathe exchange has closed over 150 first-run accounts on "Pearl of the Army," which include many of the best theaters in all the large cities in New England.

Ross Wilis Comes Back to Boston.

Boston, Mass.—Ross Wilis, formerly of the V.-L.-S.-E. at Boston and later with the same concern at Toronto, Canada, has resigned and accepted a position with R. D. Marston, manager of the Boston branch of the K.-E.-S.-E.

M. Horblit is the new owner of the Scenic Temple, Mattapan, Mass. This theater has a seating capacity of 500 and has been recently renovated and improved by the new owner.

World pictures at the Emery theater, Providence, are proving their worth and S. R. O. is the program every evening.

Fred Lovett, the popular manager of the Royal theater, Providence, R. I., is playing to capacity houses with Metro features.

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Visitors in Calgary.

Calgary, Alberta.—J. L. Torgan of Bassano, Alberta, was a recent visitor to this city. K. M. Leach of the Lyric theater, Swift Current, Sask., and W. B. Findlay of the Monarch theater, Medicine Hat, Alberta, were also callers at the Famous Players exchange. Both have arranged to run the Clara Kimball Young features.

Sam W. Whitehead to Pilot Metro Feature.

Vancouver, B. C.—It is stated that the Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet" will be piloted through Western Canada by Sam W. Whitehead, who handled "The Spoilers" in this territory with such signal success.

Drop us a line, Sam. Abe Smith of the Vancouver office told us about it.

Jules Levine Drops In.

Vancouver, B. C.—Jules Levine, of the University staff, recently arrived in Vancouver for a short stay. Mr. Levine is handling the Bluebird business in Western Canada.

For Longer Runs in Canada

H. J. Allen, Calgary Representative of a Leading Brand, Says Exchange Men Are Trying to Induce Exhibitors in Western Canada to Test Longer Runs —Says That All Concerned Will Benefit by Change.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Building, Vancouver, British Columbia

VANCOUVER, B. C.—H. J. Allen, in charge of a distributing organization in Western Canada, has returned to his headquarters in Calgary, after several weeks spent in Vancouver.

While here Mr. Allen drew particular attention to the advantages of extended runs for good pictures, and stated that while theaters in some of the smaller towns are at present changing their programs daily, the exchanges are trying to induce them to at least give a fair trial to the policy of longer runs. In support of his contention that this is the better paying system in the end, Mr. Allen points to the large number of requests which are continually being received from exhibitors for return dates on various pictures. And it is a peculiar fact that these requests are almost as diversified as the films themselves, leading to the assumption that the exhibitors rebook the pictures which appeal to them personally. Just as no picture will wholly satisfy every member of an audience, so no picture or class of pictures would be unanimously selected for rebooking by a body of experienced exhibitors.

Calgary Famous Players Has Pickford Films.

Vancouver, B. C.—Mr. Allen states that in many Alberta towns, such as Bassane and Tofield, some Paramount exhibitors are regularly charging 25 cents admission.

He also corrected a report previously issued, which stated that all applications for Western Canada bookings on the Mary Pickford productions must go to Sales Manager Ike Soskin, of the Monarch Film Company, in Toronto. Mr. Allen informed the World representative that bookings for Western Canada will be handled by him at the Famous Players' office in Calgary. The Monarch company handles the Clara Kimball Young pictures, as well as the new Mary Pickford subjects.

Reception Given to Grace Darling in Toronto

Banquet and Dance at the St. Charles—Visit to Seventeen Local Picture Theaters—Is Star of Fairfax Series.

By W. M. Gladish, 1236 Gerrard street, East, Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO, ONT.—One of the most enjoyable, and at the same time most fashionable, events in Toronto film circles was the reception and supper tended to Grace Darling, star of the International Film Service, Inc., on the occasion of a two-day tour of Toronto theaters, Dec. 4-5. It was held at the St. Charles and the invited guests were representative of both the exhibiting and exchange sections of the local moving picture business.

The spread was held under the auspices of the Famous Players Film Service, Ltd., which controls the distribution of International releases in the Dominion. The host of the evening was Mr. Phil. Kauffman, Toronto branch manager.

Miss Darling looked sweet in a—oh, well, her wonderful gown cannot be described in masculine handwriting.

A few of the select gathering were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rogers, representing the Fox; James Travis, Toronto branch manager for the Pathe; Mr. Taube, of Regal Films, Ltd., new Canadian distributors for World Brady-Made pictures; Phil Kauffman and executive members of the Famous Players staff; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Roberts, of the Regent theater, and W. M. Gladish, of Moving Picture World.

Sam Glazer Weds.

Toronto, Ont.—Sam Glazer, the popular employe of Paramount, Toronto, left for New York the other day to take unto himself a wife, Miss Anna Cook. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Toronto upon his return.

Canadian Mutual to Reorganize.

Toronto, Ont.—Manager Barrett of the Toronto Mutual branch intimates to the local correspondent of Moving Picture World that a complete reorganization of the Mutual selling arrangements in Canada will be adopted, following the resignation of C. B. Price, for several years Canadian general manager. One detail of the re-formation includes a split in the present territorial arrangement.

Park Theater's New Policy.

Toronto, Ont.—Several changes have been made in the system of management for the Park theater, Toronto, which has passed into the control of Manager Alexander of the Doric theater. The program will be changed three times a week, instead of two, and there will be a matinee each day. Afternoon prices will be 5 cents and 10 cents, while 15 cents will be the admission at night. Among the features screened at this house during the first half of December were "The Common Law," "The Abandonment," "Each Pearl a Tear" and the Chaplin "Behind the Screen."

New Crown Theater Opens.

Toronto, Ont.—Toronto's latest moving picture palace, the Crown theater, Broadview avenue and Gerrard street, east, was opened on Monday evening, December 18, without any more special ceremony than the opening of the doors. The Crown is a brand new theater, with a seating capacity of 925. It is of substantial construction, the building materials being brick and terra cotta. Moreover, it is unquestionably the most handsome theater in Toronto's East End. The controlling interest in the theater is H. P. Redway, a local liquor merchant. He has arranged for film service with the Famous Players and Fox.

Greens and Decorations on Yonge Street.

Toronto, Ont.—Managers of downtown picture theaters of Toronto, without exception, arranged for special lobby and front displays of a holiday nature for Christmas week. Through a co-operative arrangement, the front of every theater on lower Yonge street was gaily festooned with evergreen and strings of electric lights. More than $150 was spent by Manager Willis of the Rialto theater, for instance, for a special display to advertise the Mary Pickford feature, "Less Than the Dust," which was shown the week of December 25. The decorations included panel oil paintings, cutouts, Oriental lamps and festoons of holiday evergreens.

Local Universal Jottings.

Toronto, Ont.—Mr. Decker has been sent to take charge of the Bluebird department at the Montreal Universal office, in succession to W. J. Orkney, who has accepted a position with the Greater Vitagraph there.

Clair Hague, Canadian general manager for the Universal, left Toronto for Chicago on December 7 to attend a general conference of Universal district managers. Bill Bach, Toronto advertising manager for Universal, declares that a new Canadian selling policy for the company is on tapis.

Loew's Yonge Street theater, Toronto, is now booking L-KO Comedies regularly each week, in addition to Fox, Mutual and other pictures.

Quagliotti Kept Guessing.

Vancouver, B. C.—Hector Quagliotti, manager of the Colonial theater, was "up in the air" on a recent Saturday as to what his feature was to be for the following Monday. The Fox production, "The Fourth Estate," scheduled for the Colonial, was condemned by the British Columbia censors, and in the Saturday evening papers Mr. Quagliotti advertised the same company's "A Fool There Was," which was expected to arrive in time to fill the date. Hope was abandoned late on Saturday night, however, and a banner was put up for Pathe's Gold Rooster play, "Saint, Devil and Woman." But even this wasn't allowed to stay, because in the night a big wind came up and blew the banner clear out of the province.

The censors also rejected during this week Metro's "Black Fear," which was to have been shown at the Dominion theater. It was later run off privately one evening at the Colonial, and it seemed to those present that by judicious cutting the points to which exception might have been taken by the censors could easily have been eliminated.

90 Home Workers Get Use of Lyceum.

Winnipeg, Man.—Manager Wilson of the Lyceum theater will turn the house over to the ladies of the Ninetieth Home Workers for two days in the early part of December, donating to the society the net proceeds for this period. The money thus raised will be used to supply parcels to prisoners of war now in Germany. Many local artists have volunteered to sing between reels.

Children Crowd Special Matinee.

Vancouver, B. C.—Frank Gow, manager of the new Broadway theater, recently stated to the World man that his Saturday matinee business with the children is developing at such a rate that he has difficulty in accommodating all who desire to come to the show. One explanation of this condition is found in the fact that each child entering the theater at that time receives a free bag of candy. With a seating capacity of 1,000, Mr. Gow states that on a recent Saturday he had 1,006 children in the house.

Winnepeg, Man.—Manager Schuberg of the Province theater has just begun the distribution of a Triangle magazine, "The Photoplay Mirror. Five hundred copies are given away each Friday to the first 500 ladies entering the house.

Baltimore Censors Back and Fill

Maryland State Board Doesn't Seem to Know What It Is Here For—Films Passed and Later Retracted—Films Banned and Later Passed—Washington Action on "Purity" Causes a Change in Baltimore.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—That the pall of censorship, with all its vagaries, is at last being felt by the exhibitors of Maryland, is very evident, for from the scouting we have done we have no reason to doubt what has come to our ears. It will be remembered, as published in the World some little while back, that when "Purity" was released in Baltimore, Mrs. T. B. Harrison of the Censor Board gave it as her opinion that the picture was a work of art and that with the exception of a few eliminations, which did not matter, the film was all ready for the public.

But what comes later? A sequel. As soon as the Maryland Board of Censors got word that a rumpus had been raised in Washington by the authorities, the Maryland board stated to a theater about to show the film, "That must be recensored!"

"But," exclaimed the manager, "the Board has passed this picture!"

That did not matter. They knew that it had been banned in Washington and so that was enough for them, it had to be recensored. Some one sheets and a photograph which were being used as a lobby display, were ordered to be brought before the Board, and when Mr. W. F. Stone saw them, he raised his hands in holy horror and said: "They can't be used."

It was finally decided, however, that if a coat of paint were given the figures on the one sheets, making them look like bathing girls, the posters could be used. This was done, and when Mrs. Harrison, it is understood, saw one a little later, which was not painted so as to cover each and every part of the fraction of an inch, she tore the poster from its place in a frame in front of the theater.

Case No. 2 reads: "The Devil's Bondwoman," which was exhibited in Baltimore last week, was at the first viewing condemned and the theater booking this picture had to change its program at the eleventh hour. Then on a second viewing by the Censor Board, it was approved. More indecision.

Unattractive Titles the Rule.

Baltimore, Md.—We had a very interesting conversation with T. J. Bohannan the other night relative to the titles which are now being used by the film producers for their plays. Mr. Bohannon is of the Bohannon, Lewy & Fuld Co., and knows the business from A to Z.

"I have talked with a great many exhibitors on the subject," said Mr. Bohannan, "and they all agree with me that the titles that are now being placed on the majority of films, to say the least, are very unattractive and seem to have a tendency to turn away patrons instead of bringing them into the theaters. For instance, tonight we are running this Fine Arts production, entitled "Hell-to-Pay Austin." Now that is a title that a good many patrons of the Mt Royal will look at, shrug their shoulders and say, 'Oh, we don't want to see that thing,' and walk away. And yet the production is suberb." We saw the play through and ageed with him. "And another thing you will find," continued Mr. Bohannon, "is that the majority of the producers seem to give very little attention as to whether their still photographs for advertising in the lobby and their paper depict pleasant scenes or not. They much prefer to enlage on some horrible scene in the play that probably takes up about ten or twenty feet than to bring out the pleasant views. Why can't they select the beautiful and the pleasant out of the dramas as well as the horrible? This advertising means dollars to the exhibitors and it should be remedied."

J. Cochran a Benedict.

Baltimore, Md.—J. Cochran, who manages the Huntington theater, 225 West 25th street, took a leave of absence two weeks ago and became of the fraternity of benedicts. We wish Mr. Cochran much happiness in his new venture.

Exhibitor Ullman of Salisbury in Town.

Baltimore, Md.—I. Ullman, manager of the Ullman Opera house in Salisbury, spent several days in Baltimore last week, accompanied by his daughter, Helen. Mr. Ullman visited the Mutual exchange and stated that business is very good in Salisbury and while at that office booked the latest features with Mary Miles Minter, Margarita Fisher and Richard Bennet. He has been booking from this office ever since it first opened. His theater is on the second floor and on serial nights he charges 5 cents and on feature nights 10 cents.

Baltimore County Licenses.

Baltimore, Md.—According to the report of Clerk of the Court M. J. O'Hara of Baltimore County, for the year ending December 1, it shows that the clerk's fees for advertising moving picture licenses amounted to $76, and that licenses were issued for twenty theaters.

"Quo Vadis?" for Benefit.

Baltimore, Md.—On Sunday, December 10, and all last week, the spectacular film entitled "Quo Vadis?" was shown at the Royal theater, 314 South Broadway, for the benefit of the war victims in Poland. Through arrangements made with Henry J. Skrentny, the owner of this theater, the house was loaned for the occasion without charge. The affair was held under the auspices of the Polish National Alliance and other organizations. Special permission was given by the authorities to exhibit the film on Sunday, and while no admission was charged, a collection was taken up. On the other days, 15 cents was charged in the afternoons and 25 cents at nights. The only expense was the cost of the film.

Bridge and Edmondson Theaters May Combine.

There is a rumor current that the Bridge and Edmondson theaters, which are located at Edmondson and Pulaski streets, and are owned by Ralph Schlichter, will soon be entirely rebuilt so that it will be one large theater with a seating capacity of about 1,000. Then, it is understood, that a straight price of ten cents will be charged. Twenty thousand dollars is the sum that will probably be expended, and the plans will be drawn up by Sparklin and Childs, designers of the Rialto, Strand and other theaters.

Ball By Maryland Movie Club.

Baltimore, Md.—Arrangements for the third annual ball to be held by the Maryland Movie Club are rapidly nearing completion and it is rumored that talent and stage effects will be employed to make this affair an event long to be remembered to those who attend. Thursday, January 11, has been set for the time, and Lehmann Hall on North Howard street had been selected as the place to hold the affair. The arrangements are being made by J. W. Hawkins, chairman; L. Roy, assistant; H. J. Rennver, master of ceremonies, and C. B. Murray, his assistant.

Officers Elected for T. M. A.

Baltimore, Md.—On Sunday, December 10, the annual meeting and election of the officers of the local branch of the Theatrical Mechanical Association was held at their headquarters, 847 Hamilton terrace. The following officers were elected: Frank Cavanaugh, president; John Hoyner, vice-president; M. J. Fitzgerald, recording secretary; Edward Raysinger, financial secretary; Graham Walker, treasurer, and Dr. Harry Boyd, physician. The five trustees are: G. Butterworth, John Itzel, Philip Fitzgerald, Charles Reviol and Harry Andrews. Edward Raysinger was elected as a delegate to the national convention of the association, to be held at Piqua, Ohio.

CAPITOL CITY NOTES.

George C. Schulz Joins Hy Art.

Washington, D. C.—George C. Schulz, formerly manager of the Penn Gardens, a motion picture theater here, is now trying the other side of the game and has joined the sales force of the Hy Art Master plays Company, which is located in the Barrister building. Mr. Schulz opened the Penn Gardens for Edmund K. Fox, its former owner, in 1914, and remained in charge of its affairs until Mr. Fox disposed of his interests last September. This is his first road work, but he has made many friends while on the exhibiting side of the business. He is being well received all along the line. Mr. Schulz spent the week greeting his old friends after a trip through West Virginia and Maryland, after which he left for an extended tour of the Carolinas.

Postmaster Suggests Change in Postal Rates

Recommendations for the Betterment of the Service in Report to Congress Would Expedite Forwarding of Undelivered Matter.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The postmaster general has submitted to Congress his annual report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1916, and has made therein a number of recommendations for the betterment of the service. Among the recommendations offered is one to provide a better means for the forwarding and return of second, third and fourth-class matter, which includes posters, cuts, heralds, photographs, slides, etc.

Under the present regulations such matter remains undelivered at the post office of address for any reason, cannot be forwarded to another office or returned to the office of mailing until the postage for its transmission through the mails is received by the postmaster in whose possession the matter has come. This makes it necessary to hold all such mail until the sender can be communicated with and postage received for its transmission, which frequently works a hardship upon patrons of the mails who need the matter thus delayed for immediate use.

Should the recommendation of the postmaster-general be adopted, it would eliminate this delay, as it is his purpose to have the postmasters receiving such undeliverable matter forwarded at once to the addressee, if his current address is known, or return it to the sender, the postage for such service to be collected at the final destination. This would not only be a great aid to patrons of the mails, but would also relieve the congestion that frequently occurs at large post offices and would lessen the expense of sending out notices that matter is held pending the receipt of postage for its return or forwarding.

Big Program of Films Goes to Alaskan Island.

Washington, D. C.—A long time rental of film has been entered into by the Department of Commerce, which has booked and shipped to St. Paul Island, Alaska, about one hundred thousand feet of motion picture films. The reels are for the most part educational, and of the news pictorial type. There were, however, included in the shipment, a number of comedies and some few dramas. The projection machine and the necessary electric current to operate it will be furnished by the employees of the radio station located on the island.

In view of the fact that these films will form the first motion picture exhibitions ever held in the Pribilof islands, where hunting seals is the sole amusement (and work) of the natives, the department is waiting with considerable interest the report that will be made to it as to how the pictures are received by the natives. The Department of Commerce officials in Washington believe that this will afford an excellent means of providing helpful recreation and diversion, and at the same time will do much in the way of broadening educational efforts.

Still Delay in Getting Films Back.

Washington, D. C.—A number of exchange managers are complaining of the lack of cooperation on the part of some of the exhibitors with respect to their not returning films on time. In speaking of this George Mann, of the Famous Players, says, "The case against some exhibitors, when it comes to not returning films on time,, is serious. Suppose you were booked with a certain feature on a certain day, and had spent quite a little sum of money advertising this particular picture and had your patrons all worked up to the point where they were waiting and eager to see this special picture, and then at the eleventh hour you were notified by the exchange that it would be impcssible for them to supply you with the picture you had 'banked' on because some exhibitor had failed to return the film on time. Wouldn't you feel like fighting? Certainly you would and no one could blame you."

New Theater in Richmond—Theater Changes.

Hopewell, Va.—F. Carle, who operates the Strand theater in this city, has purchased the interests of K. C. Korhan in the American theater. This house has been closed down for a week or ten days, during which time the new owner will make extensive repairs. Mr. Carle is very well known in this territory as an up-to-date exhibitor.

Newport News, Va.—The Onyx theater in this city, formerly operated by W. R. Koch, has been taken over by L. M. Day, president of the Metro Film Service in Washington. This theater has a seating capacity of about 500. It has been closed down temporarily to enable the workmen to remodel it and make it modern in every particular. Mr. Day is in this city looking after his new investment.

Richmond, Va.—There is a rumor current here that Mrs. A. E. Thorpe, who formerly operated the Rex and Hippodrome theaters, but who some time ago disposed of her interests in both, is about to re-enter the business with a handsome new house on Broad street, between Seventh and Eighth streets. The rumor further has it that Walter Colter is to be manager of the theater, that the house is to have a seating capacity of 500, and that the cost of its erection and equipment will be in the neighborhood of $20,000. It is understood that Mrs. Thorpe has been negotiating for the necessary service and equipment and that ground is about to be broken for the construction of the theater.

Capitol City Film Happenings

A Corporation Has Bought a Tract of Land on Thirteenth Street, Washington, D. C., and Expects to Build a New Theater to Seat 2,200—Geo. Mann, A. T. Babcock and C. M. Casey Are Interested—Some Novel Features.

By Clarence L. Linz, 822 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—George Mann, head of the Famous Players exchange here, is one of the members of a corporation that has just completed a deal whereby it secures possession of a large tract of land on Thirteenth street, between E and F streets, northwest, on which it expects to build a new theater, the construction of which will be completed about September 1, next. Associated with Mr. Mann are A. T. Babcock and C. M. Casey.

The property includes 510-518 Thirteenth street and 1306 F street. Plans for the new theater have been made by the Hoffman Company of New York. The corporation is to be known as the Willard Theater Corporation. The theater proper will occupy the Thirteenth street part of the property and the entrance, lobby, offices, retiring room, etc., will be partly housed on the F street property. The entrance of the theater will be on F street. There will be exits on Thirteenth street, and the stage entrance will be on the latter thoroughfare.

The building to be constructed, it is stated, will be one of the most novel in the country for theater purposes, in that it will have no stairways for its patrons to climb. Owing to the slope of the lots it has been possible to plan entrances to both the first, or parquet floor, and the balcony by means of inclined planes, the rise of which will be gradual through the one hundred feet of lobby. The so-called ramp system will be used. An exception will be made in the case of stairways from the upper to the lower box levels, although these, too, can be reached through the regular inclined planes.

The theater is to be large enough to accommodate 2,200 spectators. It will have loges, orchestra chairs, two tiers of boxes and a large balcony. The entrances to the balcony will be in the center of the tiers of seats, instead of at the rear, as is the case in all other local theaters, thus permitting emptying the theater in case of emergency with much greater ease. The building will be of fireproof concrete construction. There will be wide aisles and wide spaces between the rows of seats. The decorative tone will be of quiet dignity.

Robert Howell to Run Circle Theater.

Washington, D. C.—Robert Howell, who has been connected with the Columbia theater for the past sixteenth years, and who is one of the best known theater men in Washington, has been appointed house manager of the Circle theater Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue, northwest, succeeding W. H. Shipman, who recently retired from the motion picture business. Dr. William P. Herbst, president of the Circle Theater Amusement Company, will continue, at least for the present, to take care of the booking of films for this house.

Leo Garner Gets Famous Rights.

Washington, D. C.—Leo Garner, who was formerly assistant to Sidney B. Lust in the management of the latter's business in Washington, and who was recently transferred to Atlanta, Ga., to look after Mr. Lust's interests there, visited Washington last week for the purpose of closing a deal, in company with his employer with the Famous Players exchange, whereby the booking rights in the Atlanta territory for the Famous Players features will be turned over to him.

When Mr. Lust opened the new film exchange at 146 Marietta street, Atlanta, Ga., he promoted Mr. Garner, who had been with him for several years, rising from shipper to assistant in charge of the office, to the position of "boss" of the new Atlanta proposition. That he has made good is evidenced by the added responsibility placed upon him by Mr. Lust.

Mr. Garner expects to move his family to Atlanta shortly after the first of the year.

G. F. Lenehan Reorganizes Local Exchange.

Washington, D. C.—The local Vitagraph V-L-S-E office has undergone a complete reorganization, following the arrival of George F. Lenahan as its manager. An entirely new office force has been installed and the method of conducting the business has been changed with a view to rendering greater service to exhibitors.

The announcement has just been made of the taking over by this office of the North Carolina territory. This was formerly handled out of the Atlanta office. Mr. Lenehan has divided the state in such a way that John Cunningham, a recent addition to the sales force, will handle the western section and Alan Bachrach, who is well known to exhibitors throughout the territory, will handle the eastern section. These two will also divide between them the State of Virginia. Nat Glaser will cover Baltimore, with headquarters at the Hotel Caswell.

Mr. Cunningham, the latest addition to the Vitagraph sales force here, formerly covered the Washington territory for the Triangle. Prior to that, and for some time, he was manager of the branch office of the Mutual in Charlotte, N. C. Alan Bachrach needs no introduction, for he has been traveling through Virginia and North Carolina for so long the exhibitors consider him to be one of them. Mr. Bachrach knows the game from the ground up, having been an exhibitor prior to accepting his present position. Mr. Glaser is equally well known, for he was the manager of the Leader theater on Ninth street, for several years before entering the exchange end of the game. A. J. Mayer is in charge of the booking department and will assist Mr. Lenehan generally.

The company has been awaiting the erection of the proposed film exchange building, which several real estate firms and investors have been putting up "on paper" for the past nine months, but it is getting to the point where it can wait no longer and Mr. Lenehan will have a new job on his hands—that of looking for a place that will comply with the proposed new fire regulations.

Local General Gets More Territory.

Washington, D. C.—The territory of the Washington office of the General Film has been increased by the transfer of the Richmond business to it. The theaters in that city have for the past three years been taken care of by the Philadelphia exchange. A. J. Nelson, manager of the Washington office, and John J. Payette, his assistant, who is in charge of the Baltimore branch of the Washington office, went to Richmond to perfect the details of the transfer. Up to this time all films destined for the theaters there had to pass through Washington. With Washington as the initial shipping point the exhibitors will be able to get their shows more quickly as there will be no transfer to be made before the shows can be delivered. Mr. Nelson is planning to give the Richmond theaters the most efficient service possible.

New Pennsylvania Building Code

Pittsburgh Exhibitors and Others Notified That State Building Regulations Will Be Enforced—A Digest Has Been Prepared for the Use of the Film and Other Trades—Many Desired Improvements.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The exhibitors of this city and throughout the state have received notice from Harrisburg that the building regulations covering moving picture theaters, adopted some time ago, have been approved by the State Industrial Board and are to be adhered to. A digest has been prepared from regulations made up by proprietors of theaters, representatives of architects, members of the State Building Code Commission, the state fire marshal and the Department of Labor and Industry. In this report the attention of architects and builders of structures to be used for moving picture or theatrical purposes is called to "a great lack of uniformity."

This matter of a revised state building code for theaters has lain dormant for several years, following a period of agitation in favor of changing the stringent regulations, which the law imposed upon the exhibitors. In 1913 the Legislature created a building commission, with the state fire marshal as chairman, and worked out a code. In 1914 the exhibitors and exchanges sent committees to Harrisburg and met with the commission. The results of this effort to revise the code were never satisfactory and the changes proposed were not adopted. The new digest includes many of the improvements favorable to the exhibitor.

"Patria" Shown at Moose Temple.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A big event last week was the trade showing of the International's serial "Patria," featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle and an all-star cast, in the Moose Temple, Pittsburgh, on December 11. Over 300 exhibitors from throughout this district, members of the National Security League and other societies attended. Enthusiastic praise greeted the production, both from the photographic and spectacular standpoints.

Previous to the trade showing, five reels of "Patria" were witnesed by a brilliant social gathering at Sewickley Heights, an exclusive residental section of the city.

Intolerance Comes Xmas Week.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pitt theater, Penn avenue and Seventh street, will open the first Pittsburgh showing of D. W. Griffith's masterful production, "Intolerance," on Christmas week. The successful premier run of William Fox's "The Honor System" was brought to a close December 16. "The Honor System" was witnessed by the largest number of people that has ever attended the Pitt within a like period of time, and in spite of efforts to prolong the run it was decided to take the film to New York City for its initial showing there. The advance sale of seats for "Intolerance" indicates another box-office record for the Pitt. Manager Patch has arranged for new and elaborate stage settings to be erected during the intervening week.

Fontana Productions Opens Offices.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The latest big feature concern to invade the Pittsburgh field is the A. G. Fontana Productions, Inc., which has opened offices in the Seltzer film building, Twelfth street and Liberty avenue. L. Newman, general manager of the Fontana Productions, with main booking offices at Philadelphia and other branches at New York and Cleveland, is making his headquarters here at present. H. Marcus is manager of the Pittsburgh branch. This office handles "Civilization" in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. Recent bookings of the subject have been large, Mr. Newman reports, and it is being given extended runs in all the cities and larger towns in this territory.

Jerome Caspar to Run the Liberty.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Rowland & Clark theaters have placed their handsome new acquisition, the Liberty theater, at Penn and Shady avenue, East End, Pittsburgh, under the management of Jerome Caspar, a well-known figure in local amusement circles. Mr. Caspar was until October of this year manager of the Regent theater, of the Rowland & Clark chain, but was recently manager of the Duquesne Garden rink. His experience in all branches of the amusement business, with that gained while at the Regent, should make him most successful in his new position.

Moving Pictures in Pittsburgh Schools.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Recently the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education has introduced moving pictures for their educational value in 14 schools in different sections of the city. The experiment is being carried out with a view to determining the possibilities of this mode of instruction and if successful will become a permanent feature in all the schools in the city and county.

Elite Theater Changes Hands.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Elite theater, Federal street, Northside, Pittsburgh, has been taken over by Scott Lane and Thomas Fitzgerald, two youthful entrants into the exhibiting field. Mr. Lane was formerly connected with a moving picture house in Mt. Pleasant, and Mr. Fitzgerald was formerly an operator at Meadsville, Pa. The Elite is an attractive and cosy house, seating about 400, is well located and enjoys a fine patronage. Universal pictures are shown four days a week and Triangle two days.

Jersey Shore Theater Remodeled.

Jersey Shore, Pa.—The Victoria theater, Jersey Shore, Pa., has been handsomely remodelled throughout and presents a very inviting appearance. The improvement includes a new proscenium and stage. Dr. D. E. Bickel, owner and manager of the Victoria, is setting a high standard in his film attractions and reports a satisfactory business.

Daniel McGarey Joins Liberty Film.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Daniel McGarey, formerly with the local Pathe exchange, has joined the road force of the Liberty Film Renting Company, 938 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh. He will boost the new Art Dramas and other attractive subjects.

Norman Caroll Goes to Supreme Feature.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Supreme Feature Film Service, 121 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh, has recently added to its road force Norman Caroll, an experienced film man and brother of Earl Caroll, the noted song writer.

New Jersey News Letter

New Commercial Film Producer.

NEWARK, N. J.—There has just been formed in this city the Advertising Film Company for the purpose of producing industrial and educational films. Offices have been opened at 212 Ordway building, 207 Market street. The men behind the new concern are Harry B. Papier, 560 East State street, Trenton, president; William D. Finkelstein, 262 High street, Newark, vice-president; and Harold L. Miller, 50 West 11th street, Whitestone, N. Y., secretary-treasurer.

Advertising Film Co.'s Auto.

It is the idea of the company to film the largest industries and manufacturing enterprises in the country. To relieve the otherwise monotony of the picture, a plot will be introduced in every picture, which will also include current events and scenes in the various cities in which the company will operate.

The director and photographer, Harold L. Miller, deserves a paragraph to himself. He is one of the leading camera men in the country, having served with such people as Henry W. Savage, Charles K. Harris, B. S. Moss and Kinemacolor. Mr. Miller will personally photograph and direct all productions of this company. In the photograph herewith produced Mr. Miller is seen in action on the automobile used by the concern for filming pictures.

New Jersey Rights for "Purity."

Newark, N. J.—Through an error we stated that Fred W. Falkner was the owner of the State rights in New Jersey to "Purity," while the owner is Leon D. Netter, who has written, calling our attention to the slip.

New Jersey City House Promised.

Jersey City, N. J.—Mrs. Ottilie Wetter, of 266 Pearsall avenue, is having plans prepared by C. H. Zeigler, architect, 75 Montgomery street, for a two-story brick and granite theater, store and office building. The new house, which will be located at Wilkinson and Jackson avenues, will be erected at an approximate expenditure of $40,000.

Reginald Cooper With New Delivery.

Newark, N. J.—Reginald Cooper, who has severed all connections with the New York and New Jersey Film Delivery Company, is now acting in the capacity of general manager of the General Delivery Service, 288 Market street.

Regent, East Orange, Sold.

East Orange, N. J.—The Regent theater, Main street, which has been under control of Frank McKenna, has been purchased by the Crawford Theaters Company, of Newark. J. G. Crawford, treasurer of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New Jersey, will run the Regent. The deal was consummated through the office of John Blum.

Olga Olanova at Loew's.

Newark, N. J.—Miss Olga Olanova, the vampire of the "Crimson Stain Mystery," received an ovation when she appeared personally at Loew's theater, 99 Springfield avenue, Dec. 6.

Tarheel News Letter

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

Entered Contest for Theater, Sues.

HIGH POINT, N. C.—Nancy Sue Farwell has brought suit against the High Point Enterprise, Inc., and W. E. Stewart, R. D. Craven and E. F. Dardine, who conduct the Point theater in the city of High Point. The complainant states that on or about June 1, 1915, the newspaper offered to the public a proposition to obtain subscribers for it and to sell tickets to the Point theater, and to secure persons to operate for it and furnished a blank application, which was to be signed by the party desiring to enter what was called the contest. In the effort to secure what was known as the "Universal California-Canadian Tour," to be given to the person who secured the greatest number of votes by and at the expense of the corporation, the complainant alleges that she received 1,267,150 votes, but that she was credited only with 1,216,470, whereupon another woman was declared the winner of the contest. She now sues to recover $1,000 for the work that she did in trying to win the first prize.

Jerome Abrams Visiting Charlotte.

Charlotte, N. C.—Jerome Abrams, special representative of the Bluebird photoplays, will spend several weeks here conferring with Manager E. F. Dardine of the Universal and Bluebird exchanges as to the methods to be followed in marketing these features. Mr. Abrams, who is accompanied by his wife, is well pleased with the reception accorded him during his brief stay here by the exhibitors of the territory, and they, in turn, call him a "regular fellow."

Mrs. A. E. Thorpe to Open New Theater

Charlotte, N. C.—Mrs. A. E. Thorpe, who formerly controlled the Rex and Hippodrome theaters in Richmond, Va., was a visitor here last week. It is understood that her mission to Charlotte was for the purpose of arranging for service and to secure equipment for a new theater which she will operate in Richmond.

Wm. A. Conn on Road for K. E. S. E.

Charlotte, N. C.—William A. Conn, formerly manager of the branch office of the General Film here, has recently resigned his position to go on the road for the K.-E.-S.-E. Mr. Conn is an old-time film man, with long experience and an extensive acquaintance with exhibitors of the South. He will travel out of the Atlanta office. Mr. Conn was for some time manager in the West for the Mutual. He is succeeded at the office of the General Film by Mr. Swift, who comes from the New York office.

E. F. Dardine Back From Convention.

Charlotte, N. C.—E. F. Dardine, manager of the Universal exchange here, has just returned from a week's stay in Chicago, where for three days he attended the convention of the district managers of his company. Mr. Dardine is very enthusiastic over the innovations that are announced to be introduced into the Universal and Bluebird releases after the first of the year.

T. H. Brannon to Manage Unicorn Office

Charlotte, N. C.—Thomas H. Brannon, who was formerly a roadman for the General Film and who held a similar position with the Universal, has accepted the position of manager of the office of the Unicorn, succeeding C. O. Moss, who recently joined the Pathe in Washington. Mr. Brannon is a thorough film man. At one time he operated an exchange of his own in Greensboro, N. C. Later he spent several years managaing motion picture theaters in various parts of the State. He has made a host of friends, all of whom wish him success in his new undertaking.

The Past Week in Louisville

The Casino Theater Drops Its Attempt to Create a Demand for Sex Pictures—Vaudeville Is Being Tried Out in Several of the Smaller, Out-of-Town Theaters—Other Notes of the Local Trade.

Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks Building, Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Casino theater has cut out its big productions at 15 and 25 cents and gone back to a regular program and vaudeville acts, following the showing of a film entitled "Sex Lure." This film is misleading in its name, and the advertising of the theater was handled in a sensational way. It brought in a great run of business, but created a sort of sensation, with the result that the city authorities started investigating. Committees representing various social organizations also took the matter up and, rather than start anything that it couldn't finish, the management decided to give up its endeavor to create a demand for sex pictures and went back to its old-time policy.

Trying a Little Vaudeville.

Louisville, Ky.—A number of the smaller theaters and outskirt theaters of Louisville have begun showing a few vaudeville acts in connection with pictures, and are also handling amateur theatricals on Friday night. However, a good deal of care has to be shown in handling amateur productions in order to get around the State labor department, several arrests having been made lately of factory employers who used children under sixteen years of age in their various departments. Houses using vaudeville at present are the Norman, East and West Broadway theaters, Crown, Hilltop, Orpheum, Casino and Baxter.

Incorporators of New Strand Co.

Louisville, Ky.—The Strand Amusement Company, with a capital stock of $10,000, has been incorporated to succeed the Chestnut Street Amusement Company, operators of the Strand theater. Practically the same interests have control of the new company, of which Adrian C. Humphries is the head. The stock is divided into 1,000 shares of the par value of $10. The incorporators are A. C. Humphries, C. D. Coon and Clarence Longacre. The Strand has now been operating for several months and is gradually picking up a nice volume of business, showing first-run Bluebird films for about four days out of each week.

Judge Had Those Tough Kids Spanked.

Newport, Ky.—Judge J. Edward Boltz, of the county court, has decreed a new form of punishment for tough young boys which will undoubtedly have a good effect on behavior in moving picture theaters in the future, and a form which could be adopted to great advantage by many small towns. Several boys, ranging from thirteen to seventeen years of age, were recently ejected from the Hippodrome theater for causing a disturbance. They immediately went to the rear of the building and proceeded to bombard the windows with stones, scaring many people and taking chances on seriously injuring some one with flying glass. When the case was called Judge Boltz ordered the parents of the children to appear in the courtroom on December 11 to administer public spankings to their offspring, and further stated that if the spanking was not well performed that the baliff would attend to the job.

Tickets to Theater as Trading Coupons.

Louisville, Ky.—The Walnut theater has been using various forms of distributing passes to its house to obtain publicity and make the house popular. At the Taylor drug stores a ticket to the shows was given away with every fifty-cent purchase last week, and the same arrangement was made with the Quaker Maid chain of groceries, which gave these tickets with all fifty-cent purchases except of butter, eggs, sugar, and articles on which there is not profit. In fact, the tickets were used in very much the same way as trading stamps by some of the dealers. The tickets are good for any date between December 5, 1916, and February 1, 1917, for any matinee (except Saturday), and for the performance on Tuesday and Friday nights.

Big Feature Right Gets "Crisis."

Louisville, Ky.—Harry Sherman, of the Sherman-Elliott Co., of New York, a motion picture marketing organization, was recently in Louisville, in conference with Fred Levy, of the Big Features Rights Corporation, which has closed a deal with Mr. Sherman for state rights to "The Crisis," in Kentucky, Indiana, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

The Mary Anderson's Festival Program.

Louisville, Ky.—The Mary Anderson theater during the week of December 10 handled a bargain performance under the caption "Festival Week," advertising Mary Pickford in "Less Than the Dust," Theda Bara in "The Vixen" and Madam Olga Petrova in "The Black Butterfly." The Pickford picture ran all week, with the Bara picture on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and the Petrova picture during the balance of the week. Prices were raised to ten, fifteen and twenty cents during the week.

Joseph Desberger Goes to Famous Players.

Paducah, Ky.—Joseph Desberger, one of the owners of the Star theater, and a well-known show man, has accepted a position with the Famous Players Company, and will be connected with the Chicago office, from which he will travel as advance agent for feature productions. Mr. Dave Desberger will continue the operation of the Star.

Gem Theater's Children's Shows.

Henderson, Ky.—The Gem theater, starting December 8, has arranged to give Friday afternoon special performances for children, this action being taken at the request of the Parent-Teacher associations, the Women's Club and other organizations. The management has announced that the shows will be of a permanent nature if the children attend well.

Herbert Morgan to Travel with "Crisis."

Louisville, Ky.—Herbert Morgan, formerly with the Indianapolis office of Bluebird, has left that company to go with the Big Features Rights Corporation, of Louisville, and will book "The Crisis" in about eight Southern states for which the company has state rights.

Louisville News Notes.

Sam Saxe, representing Bluebird in Indianapolis branch, was recently in Louisville, and arranged for an advertising campaign with the local newspapers to give Bluebird film publicity.

Conditions have been so peaceful in Louisville theatrical circles during the past few weeks that the Louisville Photo Play Association, composed of the local exhibitors, has not had a meeting in nearly six months.

The Palace theater, a colored home on Walnut street, has been turning business away on rush nights of late, and in spite of the fact that it is charging fifteen and twenty-five cents for features on two or three nights out of every week.

Memphis Lyceum Temporarily a Loew House

Marcus Loew Will Open Lyceum on January 8 for Pictures and Vaudeville While New Theater Is Being Built for Him.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

MEMPHIS, TENN.—Pending completion of his handsome new theater, Marcus Loew will open the Lyceum theater on January 8 with a continuous moving picture and vaudeville exhibition. Clarence Weis, one of the lessees of the Lyceum, was recently in Memphis, at which time he arranged to transfer the bookings of that theater to the Lyric after January 8.

Active work on the construction of the new $700,000 house in this city will begin within a short time, and when the theater is completed it will remain open throughout the year, probably with an exclusive moving picture program during the off seasons. Mr. Loew will have entire charge of the enterprise and will offer the highest possible grade of service to be obtained. It is understood that a site has been definitely decided upon, which is located on Main street, between Madison and Union avenues. According to the present plans, the new theater will have a seating capacity of 2,500, and everything in connection with the house will be constructed along elaborate lines.

Quartet at the Fifth Avenue.

Nashville, Tenn.—Inaugurating its new custom of providing a special stage act between performances, the Fifth Avenue theater last week offered a high-class singing exhibition, putting on a male quartet for a two weeks' engagement. It is the purpose of this house to continue these acts, the opening week's exhibition having readily found favor with the Nashville public. The Fifth Avenue was originally constructed as a vaudeville theater and the stage has been remodeled to serve in its new capacity. Drop curtains automatically fall into place after each picture and hide the screen from view while the singers are on the stage, and special lighting effects have been installed. New scenery has been placed in position, which, with the addition of velvet side curtains, etc., lends a greatly improved appearance to the theater.

Prices Advance at the Dixie.

Paris, Tenn.—With the recent addition of a special orchestra as an added attraction, announcement is made of the increase in admission prices at the Dixie theater. The matinee prices are now 5 and 10 cents, with 5 and 15 cents for the evening performances. A program is shown comprising the best features, short length comedies and serials. Several days ago a special hospital benefit program was arranged, which included twelve reels of pictures, for which the prices were fixed at 15 and 25 cents. The Dixie theater devotes one solid column each week in the daily newspaper to advertise its forthcoming program.

Art Lobbies at Strand.

Nashville, Tenn.—During the run of the Viola Dana feature, "The Gates of Eden," a huge set of gates was erected in the Strand lobby, which extended across the entire width of the spacious corridor, with an overhead arch lighted by softly shaded incandescents. Leaves and vines entwined the settings, and suspended from the arch were gilded letters 18 inches high spelling the name of the picture. For Vitagraph's "Dollar and the Law" similar appropriate decorations were employed, and much favorable comment has been paid by the public to the artistry of the decorators.

United Located in New Quarters.

Memphis, Tenn.—The United Film Service is now located in its new quarters at 52 South Fourth street, having removed from 153 Union avenue, owing to lack of facilities to handle the fast increasing business of the local branch. Manager Kaufman is now claiming the handsomest home of any film exchange in Memphis, and has equipped the offices with every modern convenience. Invitations have been extended to all exhibitors to make the United their headquarters when in the city.

Fox Films Back to Knickerbocker.

Nashville, Tenn.—Manager W. H. Wassman of the Knickerbocker has closed a contract with the Fox corporation to again show Fox first run features in this city exclusively. The Knickerbocker handled these pictures for a while during the early fall season, and met with marked success, and the reinstatement of this popular service at the Knickerbocker is being received with gratitude by the patrons of that house.

Strand Signs with Vitagraph.

Nashville, Tenn.—Returning from a trip to the Atlanta film market, Manager Carson Bradford announced that he had signed up with Greater Vitagraph for their feature service. Several of these pictures have already been shown at the Strand, and the hearty support accorded by the public lends assurance to the fact that Mr. Bradford played a trump card in booking this service.

K. A. Bugbee Handling Cartoons.

Memphis, Tenn.—The United Film Service announces that Louisiana rights on the Mutt and Jeff and Hans and Fritz cartoons have been placed in the hands of K. A. Bugbee, 407 Carondelet street, New Orleans, and that all future bookings for that territory will be handled from Mr. Bugbee's office. The local United branch, however, retains the privileges on this service for Tennessee and adjoining territory.

Cincinnati News Letter

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Jim Corbett to Lead in Local Feature.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Congress Feature Film Corporation, a new producing company organized recently with a Federal charter, promises the production in and around Cincinnati of a twelve-reel feature of unusual interest, and with many thrilling moments. It is announced by the company that James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, and an actor of some note, both on the stage and in moving pictures, will take the principal part in the play, the scenario of which was written by Capt. Frederick F. Stoll, a former United States postal official. The scenario calls for the playing of a dual role by Corbett. Among the features of the film which have already been arranged for are a race at Latonia, a sensational automobile race at the Speedway, an aeroplane dash over the city, and several dangerous feats by Corbett. It is estimated that the production complete will involve a cost of close to half a million dollars.

Special Screening of "Charity."

Cincinnati, O.—A large group of Cincinnati and out-of-town exhibitors attended a private showing of "Charity," a new Mutual production in seven reels, as guests of Manager R. H. Haines, Cincinnati Mutual film man, recently. The production has not yet been seen in Cincinnati publicly, but is scheduled for early release, and bookings are proceeding in lively fashion as a result of the private view referred to.

Star to Help Start Patria.

Cincinnati, O.—What promises to be a most successful send-off given to a moving picture feature is being arranged by Manager C. E. Holah for the premier showing of "Patria," the International film featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle. Mr. Holah has announced definitely that Mrs. Castle will be the guest of honor at a reception to be held at one of the big downtown hotels about January 1, when "Patria" is first shown in Cincinnati. The social gifts of Mrs. Castle, and her reputation as a leader of fashion, are relied upon to excite unusual public interest, and Manager Holah is fairly bursting with gratification over the publicity possibilities of the new film.

Alice Brady's Reception in Cincinnati

Star of Brady-Made Pictures Appears at Four Performances and Fills Large Theatre at Every Appearance—Screen Club Turns Out En Masse.

CINCINNATI, O.—The personal appearance of Alice Brady, the World star, in conection with the premier presentation of the World Brady-made feature, "Bought and Paid For," at the Alhambra theater, was easily the big event of the week in moving picture circles. The appearance of Miss Brady at the Alhambra was on Sunday, December 3, and it was sufficiently well advertised to attract the biggest crowds Manager Weigel's house has had for some time, especially in view of the fact that a charge of twenty-five cents was made for the day.

While the star appeared only at four performances, two afternoon and two evening, the house was jammed for everyone of the ten shows given during the day, and as this means a total attendance of ten times 500, it can be seen that the Alhambra did a nice business to start the week. A triumphal procession, headed by a band, escorted Miss Brady and Mr. Richardson, of the publicity department of the World Film, acting as her personal manager for the trip, to the theater from the Hotel Sinton, and her several appearances, on which she sang two popular numbers for the audience, were enthusiastically received. The visit of a film personage so well-known as Miss Brady undoubtedly did much in the way of favorable publicity, not only for the World and the Alhambra, but for pictures in general, and local picture men are hoping for more such events.

The Cincinnati Screen Club turned out en masse to witness the first appearance at which Miss Brady appeared.

Some of Manager Libson's Features.

Cincinnati, O.—The return of "The Common Law," featuring Clara Kimball Young, for a second week's run at the Walnut, following the recent successful engagement of the film at that theater, was quite as successful as the initial engagement, according to Manager I. Libson. It was followed by "The Foolish Virgin," featuring the same star, and there is promised next a feature of even more interest, being Nazimova in "War Brides." The Russian actress was seen in this terribly moving drama at a local theater last winter, and Manager Libson believes the photoplay, with its wider scope, will pull heavily. It is a Selznick picture.

Asks for Receiver on Account of Sex Films.

Canton, O.—An extraordinary ground for receivership for a theater has been set forth in a suit filed by L. B. Cool, one of the partners in the firm operating the Grand opera house, against Victor

Schramm, it being alleged that the booking of vicious "sex pictures" has brought the house into disrepute with the better class of theatergoers, and caused irreparable damage to its business. Mr. Cool is district manager for Feiber & Shea, the lessees of the Colonial and Grand theaters in Akron, O., and of other houses in Central Ohio.

Exchange Men Investigate Express Delays.

Cincinnati, O.—Following the well-approved idea that investigation and reform of alleged evils ought to come from within, as it were, the new Association of Film Exchanges of the Chamber of Commerce has delegated to Fred Renshaw, assistant manager of the chamber's traffic bureau, the duty of ascertaining why delays occur in the shipment of films. Such delays have been complained of now and then by exhibitors securing their films from Cincinnati, and the film men now have the expert traffic facilities of the Chamber of Commerce at their service in unraveling such troubles. The officers recently elected by the association have been duly installed, and the appointment of standing committees will be announced shortly.

The largest staff of experts in all departments makes the MOVING PICTURE WORLD the one paper in the trade that fully fills the requirements of every reader.

MID-NEW YORK NOTES.

Morris Fitzer Goes to Rex Exchange.

Albany, N. Y.—Morris Fitzer, formerly with the Fox Film Company, Syracuse branch, has resigned his position to accept one with the Rex exchange at Albany, where he is to handle their new serial, "The Purple Mask."

Alfred Epstein Resigns.

Albany, N. Y.—Alfred Epstein, the hustling Albany manager of the Pathe exchange, has resigned his position. It can be truthfully stated that he has increased the business at the Albany branch nearly 50 per cent. since he took the management, and he will be missed by the exhibitors, as he always co-operated with them and never missed a gathering. Here's hoping that he ties up with some good firm in this district, as we don't like to lose him.

Schenectady Exhibitors Dine.

Schenectady, N. Y.—Mr. Saunders of the Metro was a guest of the exhibitors at their banquet at Schenectady. Other exchanges were represented by the following: Mutual, by Mr. Lawlor; Universal, by Messrs. Charles and Langdon; Bluebird, by Mr. Zimmerman; World Film, by Mr. Sherry; Metro, by Mr. Holway; Exclusive, by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Walder of the World Film came over with the Troy exhibitors as their guest.

Snow Scene on Stage for Xmas.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Earl L. Crabb, manager of the Strand moving picture theater, Buffalo, is using a snow scene on his stage for the Christmas holidays. There are also two Christmas trees ablaze with varicolored lights. The lobby has laurel decorations.

"I am also working special film titles pertaining to Christmas," said Mr. Crabb.

Unicorn Moves Syracuse Office Here.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Unicorn Film Service Corporation has moved its headquarters from Syracuse to Buffalo. C. H. Barolet is in charge and with him is associated Harry Comerville, who is covering Buffalo and vicinity. Manager Moses of Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, recently had a private screening of the Unicorn "Billy West's Pictures," and has arranged to book them.

Buffalo Exchanges Organize

New Buffalo Film Club, Composed of Local Exchange Men, Has Been Formed —Manager Kimberly of World Film and Manager Charles Taylor of Metro Are Temporary Officers—"Service Beyond the Film" Is Its Motto.

By Joseph A. McGuire, 5 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Organization is the dominant feature of the moving picture business in Buffalo this week. The Buffalo Film Club, composed exclusively of local exchange men, is one of the newest associations formed in this city. Manager Kimberly of the World Film, Buffalo, has been appointed chairman, and Charles Taylor, of the Metro, is secretary and treasurer. Permanent officers will be announced later. The first meeting was held at the Hotel Statler. Permanent quarters will be selected at an early date. The organization of the local club is in line with the formation of similar film clubs throughout the country.

"The purpose of the Buffalo Film Club is to protect its members and to adjust the complaints of the exhibitors," said a local exchange manager. "The exhibitors can count on receiving a square deal. 'Service beyond the film' is our motto."

Maurice Cohen Goes to Bluebird.

Buffalo, N. Y.—F. S. Hopkins, Buffalo manager of Bluebird, has secured the services of Maurice Cohen as salesman for Western New York. Mr. Cohen was formerly with the Wold Film, Buffalo, and is acquainted with many exhibitors throughout the state.

Buffalo International Moves Office.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Basil Brady, Buffalo manager of the International Film, has moved his office from 39 Erie street to the Palace Theater building. The Merit Film Corporation, formerly at the same address in Erie street, has also moved its office to the Palace. Joseph Lee is manager and F. W. Wyckoff assistant manager of the Merit in Buffalo.

New Theater at Little Valley.

Little Valley, N. Y.—Carroll & Wood have opened the Olympic theater at Little Valley, N. Y. These young men are live exhibitors and have promised their patrons the best shows obtainable at ten cents. They are using the Paramount and Vitagraph pictures. They have installed a 1917 Motiograph machine.

No Sunday Shows in Hornell.

Buffalo, N. Y.—C. S. Smith, manager of the Shattuck theater, Hornell, N. Y., was a visitor in Buffalo this week. He said Mayor Edward J. Davis of that city had ordered the moving picture shows in Hornell to remain closed on Sunday and instructed the police to enforce the order.

"None of the proprietors is planning to fight the order," said Mr. Smith. "All the theaters, the Lyric, Grand, Majestic and ours were not opened last Sunday. We will begin no litigation, but will await results on the test cases regarding Sunday closing."

As a result of a crusade, Sunday vaudeville has been prohibited in Syracuse. Last Sunday the Temple, a vaudeville house, was permitted to show pictures.

The Sunday show at the Crescent, another vaudeville house, consisted of a "sacred concert" and pictures.

A. I. Shapiro Comes to Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A. I. Shapiro, formerly manager of the Detroit office for Triangle and also manager of that office and special representative for two years for Fox Film Co., is now in Buffalo, and located at No. 15 West Swan street, Buffalo. He will manage the Buffalo office for the Rogers Film Co., of New York, also the Rogson Film Co., of New York, handling the State rights for the Selznick productions, and other state rights productions.

A. I. Shapiro.

Mr. Shapiro has been in the film industry for the past several years, having covered a good part of the country for the above concerns. He will be remembered by a good many exhibitors of New York state, on whom he called as the special representative for Fox films.

Mr. Shapiro has joined the Buffalo Screen Club. He has also filed his application for membership in the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce.

Buffalo Screen Club Moves to Incorporate

Papers Filed Last Week—Present Directors—Many New Members Have Come in Recently, Some from Out-of-Town — Plans for the Holidays.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The Buffalo Screen Club made an important move last week by filing incorporation papers in the county clerk's office in this city. The directors are G. H. Christoffers, Howard T. Brink, Albert Becker, F. S. Hopkins, Ben J. Brandon, John M. Sitterly, William Mack, Charles A. Taylor, Ira Mosher and George Hall. The incorporation will give the club official recognition. According to present plans Buffalo will join with the screen clubs of other cities in the formation of a national organization.

The Buffalo Screen Club is continuing its membership campaign. A recent drive for new members resulted in the following joining the organization: A. C. Hayman, Cataract theater, Niagara Falls; R. B. Albert, Depew; Julius Schwall, Buffalo representative of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay; H. Lorence, Mutual, Buffalo; Sherman Webster, Rogson Film Co.; E. O. Weinberg, Elmwood theater; Harold B. Franklin, Lyric and Family; L. E. Barger, Linden theater; Herbert Griffin, representing the Nicholas Power Co.; H. E. Coffey, Victor Film; F. F. Hartich, V-L-S-E, Syracuse; H. Howard, Kleine-Edison Co., Buffalo; B. E. Cornell, Eckle theater, Syracuse; Edgar Weil, Strand theate, Syracuse; H. L. Taylor, Pathe representative, Rochester; George F. Flaherty, Empire theater, Batavia; A. I. Shapiro, Rogson Film Co., and George Simpson, Rochester.

"We want the exhibitors to join the Buffalo Screen Club," said G. H. Christoffers, president. "They can depend on receiving honest treatement. The exhibitor first is our motto."

Elaborate plans are being made for the New Year's party of the screen club. Business will be forgotten for the evening and festivities will mark the passing of the old year and the arrival of 1917. Tickets for the club's annual ball next month are being sold readily not only in Buffalo, but throughout this territory, and a heavy attendance is expected.

Special Films for Children in Atlanta

Women's Club and Manager Greening of the Grand Theater Work Together to Give Youngsters of the City a Weekly Treat.

By A. M. Beatty 43 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, GA.—The specially censored films for children had their first presentation for the season 1916-1917 at the Grand theater Saturday, December 16. The attraction was the fairy story "Snow-white." It was a source of keen regret a year ago when the Saturday morning picture had to be discontinued for the lack of suitable pictures, but the management of the Grand is much in sympathy with the plan as outlined by the committee from the Woman's Club, under whose auspices the work was conducted a year ago. The manager, Mr. Greening, who has recently come from the north to take charge of this attractive playhouse, will see that the boys and girls will have just what they want.

The committee from the Atlanta Woman's club, who is responsible for the opening of these matinees again, feels that it is just the nicest Christmas gift they could give the boys and girls of Atlanta.

Geo. Allison Returns to Pathe.

Atlanta, Ga.—George Allison, head of the southern division of the International service, has returned to the management of the Pathe film exchange.

He will assume his office in a few days. Pathe is enlarging its scope throughout the southern territory, and Mr. Allison will have direction of a big field of co-workers.

George Allison has long been recognized as one of the foremost film exchangemen in the southern territory. He came to Atlanta four years ago as "pathfinder" for the General Film feature productions, but within a short time following his arrival became attached to the Pathe organization.

Joe Klein, the present southern manager of the Pathe, will be transferred to another city. Mr. Klein has endeared himself during his management of the Pathe interest in Atlanta, not only to the film colony, but to exhibitors.

Xmas Benefits for Tree Fund.

Atlanta, Ga.—A benefit film show was conducted Sunday at both the Piedmont and Georgian theaters for the annual Christmas tree given for the poor of Atlanta. The doors were opened at 2 o'clock and the show run till 10 p. m.

Wells Takes the Piedmont and Georgian

Well Known Southern Theatrical Man Secures Lease of Two Leading Picture Theaters in Atlanta—Richard Tant at the Piedmont.

ATLANTA, GA.—Jake Wells, the foremost theatrical man in the south, took possession Monday of the Piedmont and Georgian theaters, having taken over the lease of Charles and Pete Mion on the Piedmont, which has been operating for some time as a vaudeville and motion picture theater, and leasing the Georgian, the well-known motion picture house, from the Peachtree Amusement Company.

The proposition of leasing the Piedmont was submitted to Mr. Wells when he came to Atlanta the latter part of last week and the deal was effected Saturday night, December 9. Mr. Wells states that, in view of the fact that he has taken possession on short notice, the future policy of neither house has been definitely determined. For the present, however, both theaters will continue to operate as in the past, the programs to remain the same.

As manager of the Piedmont, Mr. Wells has brought Richard Tant, who has been his manager at Augusta, and recently his manager at Knoxville, to Atlanta. Mr. Tant is well known throughout the south.

MILWAUKEE NOTES.

Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

No Film Ball in Milwaukee This Winter.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The resolutions which were passed at the meeting of the commission on motion pictures providing for the eliminating of misleading or untruthful advertising were approved by the Milwaukee Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association at the meeting.

The association voted not to hold a "movie" ball this year.

Wisconsin Theater Notes.

Evansville, Wis.—Marlin Wilder of Delavan has been making arrangements to reopen the Grand theater.

Spring Grove, Wis.—Oscar Clauson will operate a moving picture show here.

Ripon, Wis.—Thomas L. Davison has leased the Armory building to W. T. Hickey. He will operate a moving picture show.

Reeseville, Wis.—A moving picture show has been opened in the opera house.

New Orleans News Letter

By N. E. Thatcher, 3801 Canal Street, New Orleans, La.

Globe Theater's Opening.

Herman Fichtenberg.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—On Dec. 23 the Globe theater, the latest addition to the Canal street theaters, will be formally opened with the presentation of Clara Kimball Young in "Common Law." The Globe theater is a Fichtenberg enterprise and it is one of the prettiest new theaters in this section of the country, everything entering into its construction being of the best, with the result that Mr. Fichtenberg is the proud possessor of a magnificent house. The seating capacity is about 900, which is regretably small, for a theater in the location of the Globe could well care for audiences of at least 1,500. The restrictions of property lines were inexorable, however, and Mr. Fichtenberg refused to sacrifice comfort of his patrons for the few more seats that he might have crowded in to bring the capacity up to 1,000. The Globe adjoins Pearce's Tudor theater and the Pearce bookings happen to contain a Clara Kimball Young feature for the same dates that the Globe is to show the popular actress. At the Pearce house she will appear in "The Rise of Susan." The competitive possibilities in this situation admit of wide speculation were it not for the fact that Messrs. Pearce and Fichtenberg are good personal friends.

New McComb Theater Ready.

McComb, Miss.—The finishing touches are being put on the Jacobs theater and the new house will be opened for business on December 11. It is a fine photoplay house and a credit to the city, which is an important division point of the Illinois Central railroad and one of the best motion picture towns in that section. J. E. Alford will have the management of the new theater.

Al. G. Shear Gets New Features.

New Orleans, La.—Al. G. Shear, manager of the Consolidated Film exchange, has just returned from a business visit of a week at Atlanta, Ga., and he reports the meeting of the managers connected with the Consolidated to be the best one that has been held in a long time. On this trip Manager Shear made arrangements for the handling of the preparedness feature, "Eagle Wings," and the local United States recruiting officers have received orders from the War Department at Washington to lend every assistance to Manager Shear in the exhibition of the feature. In addition to "Eagle Wings," Manager Shear will handle "Idle Wives" and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" on a state rights basis.

Times-Picayune Feature Shown.

New Orleans, La.—The Times-Picayune feature photoplay, which was produced for the purpose of giving fifteen young ladies in the New Orleans exchange territory an opportunity to demonstrate their natural talents for the screen, was given its first public exhibition at Pearce's Tudor theater beginning Friday, December 1, and running four days. It received a very cordial reception and was pronounced an exceptionally good picture. The picture was directed by E. H. Griffith of the Edison studios in New York and was cut and tinted in the Edison plant. It has some remarkably fine views of New Orleans show places. It is to be shown throughout the New Orleans territory, being released through Manager Karl A. Bugbee of the Southern Metro Pictures exchange.

C. L. Worthington Here.

New Orleans, La.—C. L. Worthington, district manager for the Fox Film, has been here for the past few days acquainting himself with the Fox affairs in this territory. He expressed himself as pleased with the business and hopes to make improvements. He has a way of administering the affairs of his district that are rather out of the ordinary. He does not depend entirely upon book reports nor the details as submitted by his local managers, but gets out in the field and makes a close personal study of the various theaters and the conditions under which they operate. It takes a little longer to get over the ground by doing this, but he considers the personal touch invaluable.

New Theola Theater Opens.

New Orleans, La.—The Theola theater, which, under the management of the new owner, Theodore Lala, has been made the most pretentious suburban photoplay theater in the city, opened on Sunday with the Brady-made feature, "The Heart of a Hero." Four matinees were given and the house was jammed to the doors at every run of the picture. The theater has been entirely renovated and remodeled and is practically new. All of the fittings and decorations are of the best and everything that would enhance its attractiveness has been provided. A large orchestra is a regular feature of the house; there are rest rooms and a matron to look after the ladies and every accessory for the comfort of the patrons is in place. There were many beautiful floral offerings by friends of the new management and these were banked in a most effective way in the lobby on the afternoon of the opening. The patronage at the initial showings was an attest of the esteem in which the Theola is regarded. F. L. Bernard is the house manager.

Detroit News Letter

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

Three More Exchange Men Resign.

DETROIT, MICH.—Three more resignations were handed in during the past week, making about the ninth in the past thirty days. J. O. Brooks, manager of the Paramount exchange, resigned to become manager of the Madison film exchange, which is controlled by the John H. Kunsky interests. This exchange will handle "The Crisis," "Idle Wives" and other large features for which they will control the Michigan rights. J. W. Loranger succeeds Mr. Brooks as manager of Detroit. He has been special representative at Pittsburgh for the Paramount, and was formerly with the Casino Feature Film of Detroit.

Samuel Dembow, Jr., resigned as manager of the World Film exchange to become manager of the exchange at Dallas, Texas. He is succeeded by George Cotton, who recently joined the Detroit office.

C. L. Peavey has resigned as manager of the Artcraft exchange in Detroit, and goes to Minneapolis to manage the Paramount exchange in that city. Up to the time of writing, no successor has been appointed. Also at this time no successor is announced to Mr. Shapiro as manager of the Triangle exchange.

Greater Vitagraph Exchange Moves.

Detroit, Mich.—The Greater Vitagraph, now in the Peter Smith building, will move around the first of January to its new quarters at 73 Broadway, just across the hall from the Triangle exchange. Here the Vitagraph will conduct a real exchange, keeping on hand two prints of all releases, and making shipments direct from Detroit. All paper, advertising matter, etc., will also be kept on hand at Detroit. In addition, the whole state will likely be handled in the future by the Detroit exchange. J. R. Duncan and C. A. Meade, the latter division manager at Cleveland, negotiated the deal.

"The Crisis" Is Held Over.

Detroit, Mich.—"The Crisis" went so big at the Washington theater, Detroit, that it was held over for a third week. It has been booked for three days each by leading theaters in Jackson, Saginaw, Lansing, Battle Creek, Ann Arbor and Flint. The Madison film exchange, Dime Bank building, Detroit, will handle this picture in Michigan. J. O. Brooks, manager.

Notes of Detroit Theaters.

Detroit, Mich.—The Majestic theater has closed contracts for showing first run of the "Pride of the Clan" with Mary Pickford, and "Broadway Jones," with George M. Cohan, both Artcraft releases. The Majestic will increase its prices on December 24 to 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Art Hoganson Goes to Rialto Theater.

Detroit, Mich.—Art Hoganson has been appointed assistant manager of the new Rialto theater, Gratiot and Mt. Elliott avenues, Detroit, which opens December 20. He was formerly with the Kunsky chain of theaters in Detroit, and the Gilligham & Smith theaters in Grand Rapids.

Illa Theater Reopens.

Detroit, Mich.—The Illa theater, 841 Dix avenue, Detroit, has reopened for business under the management of C. D. Densmore and R. R. Goldstein. It has been completely redecorated and renovated and newly equipped.

Both the Washington theater, Detroit, and the Broadway-Strand theater, Detroit, ran double bills the week of December 17, with slightly increased prices. Both did a big business.

Watching Springfield Censors

Personnel of City's New Board Is Acceptable—Newspapers in Other Middle West Cities Are Not Encouraging Similar Movements Nor Are They Optimistic of the Value of Such Boards in Any Community.

Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, secretary of the Illinois State Board of Health, has been appointed a member of the moving picture censor board by Mayor Charles T. Baumann. Mrs. Thomas C. Mather, pure food inspector, and Mrs. Roy Ide, who was chairman of the censorship committee of the Springfield Public School council, are the other members. The personnel of the board is believed to be generally satisfactory.

The Springfield movement has been watched by other cities, but papers in those cities do not encourage similar movement. The Canton Ledger says: "How silly it seems for would-be reformers in a city to set their judgment up against that of a national board of censorship in the matter of moving pictures. How direct a slap at managers of picture houses is such a movement. Because local censorship is seldom fair or intelligent, it usually amounts to such drastic measures that its period of endeavor is brief. Managers of movie houses probably desire to please amusement seekers as well as maintain a strictly wholesome reputation by showing only good pictures, far more than any other class of people. Their judgment is probably as good, if not better, than the uninitiated. After a film has passed the eyes of a national board of censors, it is extremely unlikely to carry objectionable features, although it may shock the prude or the narrow-minded individual now and then."

The Burlington (Ia.) Hawkeye does not believe the Springfield plan will work out. "There is a matter that is easily suggested," it says. "The chances are, however, that if a board of that kind is suggested it is apt to have a monkey and parrot sort of a time. What one censor might want stricken out might appear beautiful and valuable to other members of the board. If the board were to consist of one member only, then it might be able to act. And even then the board might be puzzled at times, and the longer a question was looked into the more difficult would the board find it to give an answer.

Praise for Woman Exhibitor.

Waukegan, Ill.—Credit for a notable Thanksgiving dinner, at which 216 mothers and children feasted, is given to Mrs. Carl Muller of the Elite theater. "The idea of banqueting the poor and the needy originated in her brain," says a local paper. "She solicited much of the food and she worked until almost exhausted. She directed much of the work, and her suggestions did much to lessen the hard labor of the day." The entire community assisted in the event. Individuals subscribed to the fund, the gas company installed a battery of stoves for cooking, the electric light company illuminated the banquet, women assisted in the serving, others contributed ice cream and candy, and after all were filled Mr. and Mrs. Muller gave them a special show at the Elite.

Rockford License Fees Remain.

Rockford, Ill.—License fees for moving picture houses will not be changed by the city council. The ten theaters now pay $100 each. Two plans were offered, making the fees range from $37.50 to $300 a year, or $50 for houses seating 500 or under and $100 for houses seating more than that many.

John Padavic Will Manage Exchange.

Quincy, Ill.—John Padavic will manage the Specialty Film Service, Princess building, St. Louis, which was purchased by his father, Anton Padavic. The senior Padavic until recently was proprietor of the Gem and Savoy theaters here.

W. S. Fernald Is Illiscope Treasurer.

Rockford, Ill.—W. S. Fernald has been elected treasurer of the Illiscope Motion Picture Corporation to succeed A. J. Holmquist, resigned.

M. Zelechower Buys Two More Theaters.

Waukegan, Ill.—M. Zelechower, who has been operating the Broadway theater, has secured control of two more houses, the Lyric theater on Washington street and the Auditorium in North Chicago. He has purchased new projectors for all the houses.

New Theaters and Changes.

Wayne City, Ill.—Dr. H. W. Pitner and son Harry have opened a moving picture show here, giving performances Monday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

Mathersville, Ill.—A moving picture show has been opened in the opera house.

LaSalle, Ill.—The Marquette theater, 144 Marquette street, has been sold to Edward Weidner and W. E. Westmeyer of Tonica.

Loami, Ill.—Fred A. Horn has opened a moving picture show here.

Macomb, Ill.—Fred Bagby has sold the Princess theater, on the south side of the square, to Bert David of Kankakee.

Trade Notes of Interest.

Springfield, Ill.—Articles of incorporation have been issued to the Wells Amusement Company, Chicago; capital, $2,000. Incorporators, Thomas F. Mitchell, John A. Maselter, Richard M. Power.

Peoria, Ill.—Demonstration of the possibilities of using motion pictures in Sunday school work was made at an exhibition at the First Baptist church given by the Peoria Sunday School Workers' Association.

Lincoln, Ill.—Manager Burnstine of the Lyric theater coupled the potato matinee stunt with a start of the serial "Liberty," getting a double hold on the interest of the youngsters.

Peoria, Ill.—Dee Robinson, president and manager of the Apollo Amusement Company, entertained the members of the local post of the Grand Army of the Republic at a showing of "Civilization" at the Apollo theater.

Streator, Ill.—"The Birth of a Nation" played a two-day return engagement at the Plumb theater December 8 and 9.

Bushnell, Ill.—The Bushnell opera house had films of the local horse show December 6. They also were shown at the Cozy theater December 7.

Sterling, Ill.—Manager William Schrader of the Vaudette theater has installed a new pipe organ.

Michigan Theater Jottings.

St. Joseph, Mich.—The Caldwell theater will add a balcony seating 350, bringing the capacity up to 1,000. A new pipe organ also will be installed.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—"Less Than the Dust," with Mary Pickford, was given credit in smashing records at the Majestic.

Laurium, Mich.—The Lyric theater, on Hecla street, has been leased by George Distel of Laurium. He will increase the orchestra.

Alpha, Mich.—Manager White of the Cozy theater at Iron River has been making arrangements to open a moving picture theater here.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Pending construction of its buildings, the Monitor Film Company will conduct its operations in temporary quarters secured by the Chamber of Commerce.

Censorship Stirs Kansas City

There Seems to Be Considerable Demand Among Local Censorship Advocates to Extend the Scope of the Present Board—Advertisements in Newspapers and Lobbies—Topic Has Become the Talk of the Town.

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Now that the question of censorship is getting discussed by parent-teachers' organizations, women's clubs, business men, courts, and others, as well as by the censors, there is likely to be a merry war in Kansas City. For instance, if the censors are going to be so strict with moving pictures, they may be asked to be equally strict with newspaper stories—and the city government will be asked the difference between appeals to sensationalism by a picture on a screen and by a picture in a book or other publication. And the same as to burlesque houses and other theaters.

The obvious answer—the answer that is expected ultimately—is that, as a matter of fact, the public is the judge, and buys what it wants, and goes where it pleases, and censors or gives freedom as it sees fit. It is always up to the public. It can put the whole business under trying restrictions, if it sees fit. Both newspapers and film exhibitors have got to conduct themselves accordingly.

Meanwhile, the board of censors is seeking a way to include the newspaper and lobby advertising of the moving picture shows within the scope of its authority.

Shows for Children and Grown-ups.

Morrill, Kan.—"Satisfy the kids and you will get the adults."

This is the theory of Fletcher & Keplinger, of Morrill, Kan. They go on the idea that nearly all older people have much of childhood remaining in them, and so enjoy what the children like.

This policy was indorsed in an emphatic manner recently. The company had booked "Little Mary Sunshine," expecting that it would please the children. It certainly did do that. But many adults saw it, too—and expressed themselves in more earnest manner regarding their appreciation than they usually did when a heavier piece had been shown.

Beautiful Small Village Theater.

Plainville, Kan.—Fred Hoff, Plainville, Kan., had been in the real estate business for many years. Recently he entered the moving picture business and has been quite successful. So successful, in fact, that he decided the town ought to have a better theater than he had been providing them with. The moving pictures had been a side line with him, but he found that it was not only profitable, but a big asset to the town as well. It was helping his real estate sales and rentals. Plainville has a population of 1,000. Whether Mr. Hoff figured on the per capita or not he does not say; but the fact is that he decided on a theater that would represent $15 for every inhabitant—a $15,000 theater for a town of 1,000.

The moving picture business had been a side line, it has been said—but observe, in the picture, that the real estate business is now taking a subordinate position. In one corner of the building, to one side of the entrance to the theater, is a small office which Mr. Hoff uses for his real estate trade. On the other side of the entrance is an office of similar size, for Mr. Hoff as an exhibitor.

The crowds which come to the theater, from the town and from the surrounding country, are of course forced to observe that the real estate office is established in close connection with this fine moving picture theater.

The house seats 610. It is 50 feet front and 100 feet deep.

Exchange Business Notes.

Kansas City, Mo.—It's like pulling teeth to get anything out of C. S. Edwards, Jr., about the business being done by the Pathe exchange at Kansas City—but he bubbled over recently. He had to. Business had been going so good that there wasn't any keeping it in. The first week in December was far and away the best week in the history of the exchange, and the second week ran several hundred dollars over that! "Hard work and the pictures does it," said Mr. Edwards. "The territory is well organized and the boys are working fine."

E. & H. Film Gets Serial Franchise.

Kansas City, Mo.—The E. & H. Film Distributing Company has been organized in Kansas City, Mo., and it has received a franchise for "The Crimson Stain Mystery" for seven States in the South. These States include Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi. P. A. Engler, who will be the active manager of the new distributing company, has left for Atlanta, where he will open the main office. A branch office will be opened in New Orleans soon. Mr. Engler was formerly manager of the Mutual at Wichita, spent two years in the South representing Vitagraph, Fox and General, and lately was in the Kansas City Vitagraph office.

Fred Hoff's 610-Seat Village Theater.

Hobart Hanly Reception at Screen Club.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Kansas City Screen Club had an especially large attendance and enjoyable evening recently, when a reception was tendered Hobart Hanly, the Bluebird star, who stopped off in Kansas City for this event while on his way East from Universal City. Many local exhibitors who had not previously been seen at the Screen Club met Mr. Hanly. The usual Friday night dance was therefore especially enjoyable, because of the larger crowd and the atmosphere of the studio that the conversation took. Several acts from local vaudeville houses were put on a program after the theaters had closed. The Screen Club's hours are late, since the exhibitors do not come until after their first shows, and many wait until their houses are closed.

Pathe Conference Profitable.

Kansas City, Mo.—The first of the monthly salesmen's get-to-gether meetings in the local Pathe office proved quite up to the mark of helpfulness that C. S. Edwards, Jr., had anticipated. The men plunged eagerly into the discussion. Usually one had a solution for a problem of another—and the good and bad points of all suggestions were gone over fully and frankly. Mr. Edwards assisted the meeting by outlining policies and guiding the conclusions with reference to methods of work.

"Jimmy" Goes to St. Louis.

Kansas City, Mo.—Howard E. Jameyson, "Jimmy," as he is called, who has been traveler and recently assistant manager of the Pathe exchange at Kansas City, has gone to St. Louis to work on the city trade. C. S. Edwards, manager of the St. Louis exchange, is father of the manager of the Kansas City exchange, so he knows "Jimmy."

Village Theater Grows.

Kidder, Mo.—W. A. Harter, who had been drilling along for several years in a small, makeshift theater, has taken the bit in his teeth and has started the erection of a $3,500 theater. This isn't very imposing, perhaps—until you stop to think that Kidder is a town of only 300 inhabitants. He has been running "The Iron Claw," and it has helped to put the theater on the highly profitable basis that warrants the new building. Not the picture alone, perhaps—he probably has run others that had drawing power. But he advertised this right, and his advertising brought in scores from the surrounding country. He has them now as permanent patrons, who will help make the $3,500 theater profitable.

Two Sisters Buy Theater.

Salisbury, Mo.—Miss Willie Jackson and her sister, who is a school teacher, have bought the Lyric theater from Mrs. Hammond and have already started on their plans for getting big business. Miss Willie will be the active manager, but the sister will be particularly useful in bringing her point of view as a school teacher to bear on the problems of the exhibitor. These young ladies suggest again the fact that a surprising number of theaters are being run by women—and that it is a fine field for their energies.

Visitors to Local Exchanges.

Kansas City, Mo.—Recent visitors to the Kansas City exchanges were: B. F. Rothstein, Majestic theater, Tulsa Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Flyn, Oklah theater, Bartlesville, Okla.; J. G. Swanson, Odeon theater, Bartlesville, Okla.; J. C. Wright, Corderville, Kan.; J. D. Wineland, Hippodrome, Joplin, Mo.

St. Louis News Letter

By A. H. Giebler, 4123 Westminster Pl., St. Louis, Mo.

Shurman New Fox Manager.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Joe Levy has tendered his resignation as manager of the William Fox exchange at 3632 Olive street and has gone to Pittsburgh, where he will be affiliated with the Masterpiece Film Corporation, a company formed in St. Louis recently with H. P. Wolfberg, former head of the General Film Exchange, as general manager. Mr. Levy came to St. Louis to assume charge of the Fox offices about nine months ago. His all-around geniality, manner, hustling, and seeming ability of being everywhere at once earned him the sobriquet of "Live Wire Levy," and won him a host of friends. Mr. Levy's departure was the cause of deep regret to everyone. Sam Shurman will succeed Mr. Levy. Mr. Shurman, although a young chap, is a pioneer in the film business, and has been identified in all lines of the industry, and knows the exhibitor's side of the question as well as that of the exchange men, since he managed a big feature house at Moberly, Mo., for a long time. Mr. Shurman has been employed by the Fox organization as traveling representative for the St. Louis territory, and his transition from salesman to manager will not be so abrupt as if he had come in from another concern. Mr. Shurman is one of those pleasant and affable fellows that everybody calls "Sam," as soon as they are introduced to him, and for this reason has a great many friends among exhibitors and everyone connected with the film business. Mr. Shurman says he has no special plans for the future except to keep things stirring with Fox features and comedies.

"Civilization" for Charity.

St. Louis, Mo.—Thos. H. Ince's "Civilization" will have its first showing in this city at the Victoria theater, on Delmar near Grand, December 18, when it will begin a four weeks' engagement. The film will be exhibited under the auspices of the St. Louis Post Dispatch Christmas Festival Fund. The Post Dispatch is devoting much publicity to the film and state that exceptional arrangements were made with the Harper Film Company, who gave marked concessions from the regular basis of such transactions because of the charitable nature of the project. Seventy-five cents will be charged for box seats, and twenty-five and fifty cents for the rest of the seats.

Delmar Theater Safe Safe.

St. Louis, Mo.—Thieves tried to break into the safe at the Delmar theater at 4936 Delmar avenue last week, but failed to get as far as the cash. The outer door to the strong box was pried off, but something happened to keep the robbers from carrying their work further, and the contents of the safe—several hundred dollars—was not touched.

New Bluebird Star.

St. Louis, Mo.—The office of the Bluebird Photoplays announces the engagement of a new star in the person of Miss Bernice Baker, a very close relation of Manager S. J. Baker. Outside of the fact that the new star insists on rehearsing at 2 a. m., two or three times a week, her engagement is a great success. In other words, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Baker on November 30.

Indianapolis Arrests Wholesale

Proprietors of Seventeen Picture Theaters Arrested, with Druggists and Shoe-Blacks, on Blue Law Sabbath Charges—A. T. Faring, League Secretary, Will Be First to Be Tried—Shows Semi-Charitable.

From Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The old blue law agitation started recently in this city by T. Ernest Maholm, a justice of the peace, resulted Monday in the filing of affidavits against the proprietors of seventeen moving picture theaters, the owners of twelve shoe-shining parlors, and two druggists.

The following managers and theaters are affected by the affidavits: A. C. Zaring, the North Star; T. C. Baker, Nu-Sho; Frank Green, Owl; J. W. Tucker, Idle Hour; B. D. Crose, Regent; James Hill, the Senate; Richard Bruner, Pioneer; J. M. Thomas, Grand Central; I. Bertman, Victoria; James Nicholson, Columbia; J. Howell, Strand; Fred Mack, Oriental; M. H. Sinnott, Circle; Charles Olson Isis; Gus J. Schmidt, Crystal; H. Keene, Keystone, and J. Sanders, Sanders.

The first case has been set for the latter part of the week, when A. C. Zaring, secretary of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, will be tried. Mr. Zaring's case, to be decided by a jury, will serve as a test for the remaining ones. An affidavit charges that his North Star theater, at Twenty-fifth street and Central avenue, was open Sunday.

Charity Donations on Sundays.

Mr. Zaring said that inasmuch as the managers of the various motion picture houses in the city contributed a certain per cent. of their Sunday receipts for charitable purposes, he does not believe the justice and his cohorts will be able to obtain convictions. This, combined with the fact that the city and county authorities, the church federation and the members of the law and order organizations of the city have never objected to Sunday moving picture shows, is evident, Mr. Zaring thinks, that the charges will not amount to much.

The money donated by the theaters has ranged from $3 to $10 a Sunday according to the size of the playhouse. It is cared for by Bert McBride, of the Security Trust Company, who is treasurer of the committee appointed by the mayor for the purpose of attending to the relief of the needy. The committee maintains an office in the Fletcher Trust building, where a young woman investigates the worthiness of the calls upon the fund. Mayor Bell has said that it is one of the most available funds in the city for persons in immediate need of assistance.

It Was Pretty Near a Monopoly.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The dream of a monopoly of the motion picture business of the United States led to the appointment of a guardian for William H. Roberts, colored, owner of the Washington theater, a motion picture house in Indiana, recently in probate court.

The testimony indicated that continued overwork had led Roberts to entertain some strange delusions, one of them being that he owned all the moving picture houses in the United States except seven. One of his business associates said Roberts had been pleading for another week of liberty in order that he might buy the other seven theaters and establish a monopoly.

Orpheum Sold at Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind.—James L. Sheetz, of West Lafayette, has purchased the Orpheum theater, the handsome Main street motion picture house, from Charles Richard and John Chamberlin. Mr. Sheetz has contemplated extensive changes to the interior of the building. The seats will be rearranged, a new booth placed in front of the theater and a new lobby installed. The house will be closed for the next few weeks pending the remodeling and redecorating. Mr. Sheetz has been proprietor of the Main Street Automobile Company for several years and is well known among the business men of the city.

New Picture House in Newcastle.

Newcastle, Ind.—Ralph Swearingen, of Muncie, will open a new motion picture theater in the Burr block on North Main street, about the latter part of December. The theater will be known as the Strand and will be an exclusive motion picture house with a standard admission of five cents.

Evansville's Savoy Reopened.

Evansville, Ind.—The Savoy theater, Main street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, has been reopened under the management of Arthur C. Hedderick. Both the interior and exterior has been repainted and thoroughly renovated and now has the appearance of a new theater. The management announces an entirely new policy.

New Amusement Company.

Portland, Ind.—The Portland Amusement Company has filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state to engage in the motion picture business. The capital stock is announced as $5,000. The incorporators are J. S. Hines, L. Bergman and B. Bergman.

Colonial at Warsaw Sold.

Warsaw, Ind.—Julius Weingartner, of Fort Wayne, has purchased the Colonial theater from Messrs. Gerard and Cohen and will take possession immediately. The Colonial, one of the city's most popular photoplay houses, is located on East Center street.

T. N. Sinderson Buys Mystic Theater.

Albion, Ind.—T. N. Sinderson has purchased the Mystic theater in Albion and another moving picture house in Cromwell from Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Walters.

B. J. Voight Buys Amusement Stock.

Columbia City, Ind.—B. J. Voight is now sole owner of the Columbia City Amusement Company, taking over the interest of his partner, W. L. Pracht. Arrangements are being made to enlarge the Lyceum to 500-seat capacity.

Dakota Theater Notes.

By Frank H. Madison.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Honnegar Bros. have remodeled the Green Front building into the Colonial theater, which is Aberdeen's fifth moving picture house. It will seat 378 and the front will be colonial.

Bottineau, N. D.—The Bottineau opera house, owned by J. N. Greiner, was destroyed by fire. Loss, $7,000; insurance, $3,000.

Wildrose, N. D.—Albert Baukol and C. B. Neal have purchased the moving picture theater from Messrs. Frotier and Lomen.

Hunter, N. D.—The Pastime theater has been moved to the I. O. O. F. building.

Jamestown, N. D.—The Ruby theater was damaged by fire, causing a loss of $2,000. Harold Gregg, the operator, was severely burned.

Colome, S. D.—J. C. Lakin is now manager of the Colome theater.

Colorado Censorship Rampant

Pueblo City Council to Have a New Measure Presented by Local Censor Board—Mothers' Congress in Denver Proposes to Have the Local Drama League Pass on Moving Pictures—Foolish Arguments Against Film Shows.

By E. C. Day, Denver Times, Denver, Colorado.

DENVER, COLO.—Moving picture censorship is still rampant in this section. While ministers and city officials are drafting an ordinance at Pueblo for the establishment of a legal board of censorship, the Mothers Congress in Denver is striving to have delegated to the Drama League full control over the film productions shown in this city.

Dr. Frederick A. Hatch, pastor of the Mesa Presbyterian church, is leading the censorship movement in Pueblo. He has drafted an ordinance calling for the creation of a board to pass on all moving pictures shown in the city and plans to present it to the City Council as soon as it has been approved by the church societies and women's organizations of the city. It provides for a commission of five persons, one representing the moving picture interests, one representing the city commissioners, one from each of two school districts and the fifth to represent the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Rev. Mr. Hatch read his ordinance before the Woman's Club at its last regular meeting and received the indorsement of the body. The women later passed the following resolution:

Resolution of Pueblo Women's Club.

"The moving picture, as we see it today, is one of the greatest inventions of the age. It may be a wonderful means of education and moral uplift as well as a source of amusement. We feel that only the pictures of this class should be shown.

"Therefore, Be it Resolved by the Federation of Club Women of Pueblo, That we heartily co-operate with and support any movement that may be made toward a proper means of censoring all pictures of a questionable character before they are shown in Pueblo."

Dr. Hanson, a noted social welfare worker, addressed the meeting and the subject of amusement censorship. He said that the vaudeville houses, dancehalls and pool halls were far more in need of censorship than were moving pictures. He pointed out that the boy and girl are social beings before intellectual beings and crave amusement and recreation. These the boy and girl have a right to have as long as they are not injurious, declared Dr. Hanson.

Proposal for Denver Censorship.

The proposal that the Denver Drama League act as a board of censorship of moving pictures in Denver was made by Mrs. T. E. Carmody in an address before the Mothers' Congress. The meeting was to further the cause of the "Better Film Movement," recently started by the Mothers' Congress and Parent-Teachers' Association. No definite action was taken on the suggestion.

Doormen and Ushers Made Special Policemen.

Denver, Col.—All doorkeepers as well as ushers in Pueblo's moving picture theaters have been commissioned as special policemen as part of a campaign to put down the "mashing" evil in the photoplay houses. The theater managers told city officials that they could keep "mashers" away from these amusement places if the employes were given police powers and, as a result, the City Commissioners issued a star to all theater attaches. The ushers and doorkeepers were on duty as policemen for the first time this week.

Bought Picture Theater and Is Sorry.

South Denver, Col.—The Bronx theater in South Denver is involved in a suit filed in the district court in Denver last week [illegible] Stolnoff the present owner, makes charges against George B. Hayward, former owner. The plaintiff says that he was induced to pay over $2,000 for the theater on the representation that it earned $35 a day. He discovered after running the place for several weeks, he alleges, that the income was not as represented.

Peter McCourt Gives Booth.

Denver, Col.—Santa Claus made an early visit to the Home of the Good Shepherd this year and presented Sisters in charge and the girl inmates with a brand new moving picture machine, together with a fire-proof operator's booth. The machine was the gift of the Queen's Daughters, a charitable organization composed of young women, while Peter McCourt, owner of the Broadway theater, was the donor of the booth.

The various film exchanges have agreed to furnish free of charge film for the weekly exhibitions that are planned at the home. The gifts will prove a valuable asset, both as educational and recreational factors.

Paramount Office Changes.

Denver, Col.—Several changes in the personnel of the office force in the Paramount exchange were reported this week. John M. Hayden, former road man for Vitagraph, was appointed chief booking clerk to succeed J. W. Scott, who recently went to Triangle. Other new employes were Edward Bass, poster clerk, and Miss Grace McMillan, inspector.

Kept Three Autos Hustling To and Fro.

Denver, Col.—That resourcefulness is one of the chief requisites of a good exchange manager was illustrated in a striking and unique fashion by Milton H. Cohn, Paramount boss in Denver. As the result of an error, due to a change in the office working force, two theaters in widely separate portions of the city were booked to run the same picture on the same day. There was only one print of the film available and, rather than disappoint either exhibitor, Manager Cohn arranged for a rapid auto-relay, whereby both theaters, the Thompson, on East Colfax, and the Lux, in South Denver, were able to show the picture as advertised.

Here is how the scheme was worked: The Lux started its show with the feature while the Thompson opened with two single reels. When the first reel of the feature had been shown at the Lux it was hustled to the Thompson just in time for its exhibition in the regular order and without delay. When the Lux had finished with the second part it was also rushed to the Thompson, and the third in the same manner. Three autos were employed in the relay and as soon as the films had had their first showing at the Thompson they were returned to the Lux for the second show, and the entire process repeated to provide for a second show at the Thompson.

The feat was a success and demonstrated that "Where there is a will there is a way."

Ed. J. Haslam Promoted.

Denver, Col.—Ed. J. Haslam, who for the past year has served as cashier and bookkeeper of the Mutual in Denver, was last week promoted to the position of assistant manager and chief booker. He has been connected with the moving picture business in various capacities for several years and is one of the most popular filmmen in Denver. News of his promotion will be received with much pleasure.

New Omaha Theater's Inclined Auditorium

Sun Theater Has No Galleries—Upper Seats Reached by Broad Stairways at Both Sides—Members of Operating Company.

OMAHA, Neb.—The auditorium of the new Sun theater has no galleries and no "best seats." The upper seats and those at the top of the incline are reached by wide stairways on each side of the auditorium. The line of vision from all seats is practically perfect.

The exterior is of glazed cream-colored terra cotta in relief designs. The foyer, which is exceptionally large and capable of taking care of about one-half the capacity of the house, is done in old rose and dull gold and a touch of light blue. In the center of the foyer is a lounging room, with fireplaces, easy chairs, table with reading materials and telephones. The ceiling of the auditorium is a magnificent sunburst, worked out in plastic, and carrying the same decoration as the walls.

Samuel H. Goldberg is president of the World Realty Company, which built the new Sun, and Harry Goldbert is treasurer and W. R. MacFarland is secretary. Other prominent members of the company are Harry Rachman, owner of the Grand theater, and W. H. Jones.

New Nebraska Theaters and Changes.

Beatrice, Neb.—Charles Miller of Omaha has purchased the Jewel theater from Leo J. and F. G. Lucey. He will add a gallery which will increase the seating capacity by 150.

Kearney, Neb.—A. L. Lomax will open a motion picture theater, it is reported.

Schuyler, Neb.—The Favorite has been sold to A. B. Young.

Fairbury, Neb.—Wilt Bros., of Delaware, Okla., have opened a moving picture theater in the Conrad building.

Stapleton, Neb.—E. S. Daniels has taken over the Elite theater.

Juniata, Neb.—The Lyric theater has been sold to Neal Sargeant and Carl Kindig.

McCook, Neb.—E. E. Delong has sold the Electric theater to Lee Inee.

Denham Palmer Heads Omaha Vitagraph Offices.

Omaha, Neb.—Denham Palmer of Denver is manager of the exchange which the Greater Vitagraph company has opened at 1111 Varnam street. This exchange will supply exhibitors in Nebraska and Iowa formerly handled by the Kansas City branch.

Fontenelle Feature at Omaha Moves.

Omaha, Neb.—The Fontenelle Feature Film Company will remove its offices from the Empress theater building to 22 Arlington block, on Dodge street, near Sixteenth. This company now has State rights on "War's Women," "Diana the Huntress," "The Unwritten Law." Paul La Marquard is president and manager.

C. I. Ramsdel Leaves Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb.—Charles I. Ramsdel has resigned his position as manager of the Acme Amusement Company to accept a position as manager of a film exchange in Denver.

Seattle News Letter

By S. J. Anderson, Benvenuto, East Seattle, Wash.

Class "A" Changes Hands Again.

SEATTLE, Wash.—A. L. English, who bought the Class A theater from W. H. Smyth last May, has sold it to his operator, L. L. Goldsmith. The Class A, a 600 capacity house, was operated by Mr. Smyth as a first run theater, but Mr. English has been operating it as a second run house on the open booking plan. Mr. Goldsmith will continue his policy.

A Bright New Dime As Souvenir.

Seattle, Wash.—The Coliseum, in advertising "Ramona," the new ten-part picture dramatization of the famous Helen Hunt Jackson novel, offers as a California souvenir with each 25-cent ticket, one of the new 1916 dimes fresh from the U. S. mint at San Francisco. The Coliseum's regular admission price is 15 cents.

Two Theaters, One Company, Same Service, Different Shows.

Seattle, Wash.—The Coliseum theater, owned by the Greater Theaters Company, is under contract to use Paramount pictures, but occasionally there comes along a very good feature under some other brand which Manager Jensen wants to put on at the Coliseum. He books it and simply turns over the discarded Paramount picture to Manager Berg of the Mission, a smaller house belonging to the same company. In this way the Mission, which is a 10-cent house, gets a better program than can usually be seen for 10 cents, and the Coliseum has not wasted anything on films paid for and not used. The Mission is a pretty house, well planned and furnished, except in the matter of a musical instrument. A piano is not adequate for a house of the size and quality of the Mission. With its other attractions it should rank as one of Seattle's most popular houses if its pictures were adequately interpreted by a good pipe organ.

Students See Picture of Game.

Seattle, Wash.—After the University of Washington's Thanksgiving game with the University of California, the student body was asked to be the guests of J. G. von Herberg, manager of the Liberty theater, at the evening performance, featuring motion pictures of the game. Several hundred students enthusiastically responded to the invitation.

De Luxe's Wonderful New Feature.

Seattle, Wash.—Mike Rosenberg, manager of the De Luxe Feature Film Company, announces that he has just procured "father's rights" for the Northwest and the whole world for a grand new baby girl. This is Mike's second daughter, and the responsibility of his growing family is already causing him to begin to lose some of his blond hair.

New Traveler for K-E-S-E.

Seattle, Wash.—C. R. Kearny, formerly with Vitagraph in Seattle, has just signed as traveling representative with Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service out of this city.

C. F. Hill Traveling for Progressive.

Seattle, Wash.—C. F. Hill is again traveling representative for Progressive, which handles Paramount releases. Mr. Hill has been doing work inside the office.

Hub Carleton in Hospital Here.

Hub Carleton, an exhibitor of Okanogan, is confined in the Providence hospital in this city. From the nature of his illness it is feared he will have to remain several weeks.

Two Managers Resign.

Seattle, Wash.—Hugh Rennie, Northwest manager for World Film since last May, has resigned. Mr. Rennie will probably make connections with the New York office. His many friends in this territory are sorry to see him go.

E. S. Coates, Northwest manager for Fox, also has resigned. He expects to go into the automobile business.

Growth in Frisco's Downtown

Many First-Run Houses Now and Others Coming—Apartment Houses in District Increasing—Some Big Capacity Houses to Be Ready Soon — Vaudeville Houses with Eye to Films in Future.

From T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The downtown district, which formerly had so few first-run moving picture houses, now boasts a large number and within a comparatively short time several others will be added to the list, placing this city in the front ranks as an amusement center. For several years the suburban districts have developed their amusement enterprises at a faster rate than the downtown district, but the tide has turned and the business section of the city has again come into its own. The great advance in apartment house building during the past three years has helped this section materially and the recent installation of a new lighting system on Market street, making it the best lighted thoroughfare in the world, according to experts, is serving to attract great night crowds.

All of the excavating work for the new California theater at Market and Fourth streets has been completed and concrete is being poured for the foundations. This theater will be one of the finest moving picture houses to be found anywhere and will represent an investment of more than a million and a half dollars. It will have a seating capacity of almost 3,500 and will be conducted under the management of Eugene Roth, who has made such a success of the Portola theater. Construction work is to be rushed and it is expected that the house will be ready for occupancy early next fall.

Within a short time work is to be commenced on changes in the Empress theater on Market street and Manager Sid Grauman states that it is his intention to turn this vaudeville house into a straight moving picture theater. This house is a very beautiful one, with a splendid location, and has a seating capacity of about 2,000. As moving pictures has been strongly featured here for the past two years, it is probable that the change can be made without much difficulty.

Another addition to the rapidly growing list of downtown houses will be made on the first of the year, when Louis R. Lurie and Howard J. Sheehan, who conduct the Rialto theater on Market street, will reopen the Savoy theater on McAllister street. A ten-year lease on this theater has been secured and it is planned to expend $20,000 in transforming it into an exclusive moving picture house, where productions of extraordinary merit will be featured. The opening attraction will be "The Daughter of the Gods," featuring Annette Kellermann, and this will be put on for an indefinite period.

The Strand theater, at Ellis and Mason streets, will be ready for occupancy within a few months and will be conducted as a vaudeville house. It is being arranged, however, with a view of using it as a moving picture theater, should this step be found advisable.

World Film Doing Good Business.

San Francisco, Cal.—Manager Frank Eberhard, of the local branch of the World Film, expressed great satisfaction with business. He states that there has been an unusually heavy demand for "Bought and Paid For," featuring Alice Brady. S. A. Powell, traveling representative out of this office, has been ill for a time, but started out again on the road recently and celebrated his return by sending in three Brady-made contracts the first day. He formerly handled "The Clansman" in this territory.

McCormick Returns to Coast.

San Francisco, Cal.—J. E. McCormick, who went to Denver, Col., some time ago to represent Sol L. Lesser, has returned to San Francisco to take charge of the campaigns to be inaugurated shortly on "Civilization" and "War Brides." These will be shown at San Francisco shortly after the first of the year.

Sol L. Lesser a Happy Father.

San Francisco, Cal.—A wee baby daughter has arrived at the home of Sol L. Lesser, head of the All Star Feature Distributors, Inc., as a companion for the baby boy that already graces this household. This popular film man is bearing up well under the shower of congratulations pouring in upon him.

Artcraft Manager Visiting Branches.

San Francisco, Cal.—Arthur S. Kane, district manager for the Artcraft, left recently for Los Angeles for a brief stay and will visit in succession the branches maintained at Salt Lake, Denver and Seattle. Mr. Kane keeps in very close touch with the managers in the branches in his district through working and conferring with them and aims to make his visits more than perfunctory trips of inspection. J. J. Patridge, assistant at the San Francisco office, left recently to visit the towns between here and Los Angeles and will shortly spend three weeks in the Arizona territory.

Mark E. Leichter in Los Angeles.

San Francisco, Cal.—Mark M. Leichter, manager of the De Luxe Film Lasky Corporation, with headquarters in the Humboldt Bank building, is making a visit to Los Angeles, where he has succeeded in booking the first release of this new concern, "The Conquest of Canaan." While there he will also look for a suitable location for the establishment of a branch office. Much interest is being taken by local exhibitors in the forthcoming Art Drama releases and the indications are that bookings will be heavy from the first.

Sam L. Warner Arrives on Coast.

San Francisco, Cal.—Sam L. Warner, who formerly represented Warner's Features at London, England, has arrived here to affiliate with his brother, J. L. Warner, head of the Warner Film Attractions. He will take charge of the Los Angeles branch and will commence work at once on "The Crisis," now ready to be released.

New Traveling Man for Mutual.

San Francisco, Cal.—Fred Rodriguez, for several years with the Pathe exchange, and one of the best-known bookers and traveling men in the local film world, has joined the local staff of the Mutual.

R. E. Stebbins Visits City.

San Francisco, Cal.—R. E. Stebbins, formerly manager of the Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco, but more recently with the American Film of Santa Barbara, visited friends in the trade here recently. He has since left for Los Angeles.

Pioneer Exhibitor Dies.

San Francisco, Cal.—J. D. Gibbs, proprietor of the Empire theater, 979 Market street, and one of the pioneer exhibitors in the city, passed away suddenly a short time ago. The business is being continued under the management of Frederick M. Gibbs.

Esparto, Cal.—William Fiske plans to install a moving picture machine in Fiske's Hall.

New Photoplay House at Bend

Oregon's Most Booming Town with 15,000 Population Gets a Progressive Picture Theatre—Most Elaborate Within Many Hundred Miles—Called the Grand—L. C. Rudow Owns and Manages It—Opened December 9.

By Abraham Nelson, Journal Building, Portland, Oregon.

BEND, Oregon.—The newest real motion picture theater in the State opened here December 9. The fact is worthy of special mention because, while not a world beater when measured by metropolitan standards, still Bend's new photoplay house is the most elaborate within many hundred square miles and all Central Oregon is proud of it.

Be it remembered that until a few years ago Bend was without a railroad and was but little better than the average frontier town location in a two-gun celluloid thriller. Today 15,000 people claim Bend as their home and there are three theaters.

The new theater, called the Grand, is built in the O'Kane building, a two-story reinforced concrete structure recently completed. The building is well supplied with curb cluster lights and is the brightest spot in town.

The theater entrance has eight doors, with the cashier's booth in the center, and has plenty of lobby space. It is protected from the weather by a marque of colored and wire glass.

The interior of the house is plainly but tastefully finished, the proscenium arch being quite elaborate. A spacious foyer is provided and the auditorium seats 500. The indirect lighting system is used throughout. Projection is furnished by Powers equipment, Pete Sabo of Portland supplying a new machine recently. Ample storage room is provided to handle road shows.

L. C. Rudow is the manager of the new house. He has been a resident of Bend for a number of years and has formerly operated the Dream theater. The prices charged at the Grand are 15 and 25 cents.

A Fourth House in Baker.

Baker, Oregon.—Haish and Cotter, who own the Grand theater, which is now closed, are contemplating remodeling the house and reopening it. The Empress theater, which is owned by the same people, was remodeled several weeks ago and presents a first-class appearance.

The Baker theater is now being conducted by M. E. Heath, showing pictures regularly together with the road shows that make Baker. Business here is excellent.

Hippodrome Building Sold.

Portland, Oregon.—The Hippodrome theater, at Broadway and Yamhill street, has been bought by Max Houser and associated capitalists. The purchase price is said to have been $350,000, most of it being local money.

John W. Considine built the building about four years ago to house his vaudeville, which was at that time operating over the S. & C. circuit. During Considine's ownership the theater was run as the Empress and the Orpheum. Ackerman & Harris, the present lessees, now operating the Hippodrome there with pictures and vaudeville, took over the house last spring. The National Bank of Commerce acquired the building about a year ago, when Considine encountered financial difficulties.

It is not anticipated that the change in ownership of the building will in any way affect the present lessees.

Crystal Changes Managers.

Portland, Oregon.—The Crystal theater, Piedmont, owned by the Peoples' Amusement Company, has installed F. Q. Hart as manager. Mr Hart is an old-time showman. He is arranging a varied program of regular service, rather than exclusive features, so much now in vogue, and also contemplates showing occasional vaudeville.

Mr. Hart is a pianist and his son, who will also work in the house, is a trap drummer, and they aim to make the musical interpretation of the pictures a feature of the theater.

With the Road Men.

Portland, Oregon.—A. S. Kirkpatrick, road man for Mutual, came back to town from Eastern and Central Oregon with harrowing tales about being compelled to sleep in a one-story hotel with an ambitious polecat under the floor. "'Twas a weird night," says Kirk. He reports good business.

Joe Merrick, of Universal, came in from Tillamook, where he says E. L. Partridge is doing a nice business at the Gem.

C. H. Feldman, G. F., is working Southern Washington for the Portland office.

R. C. Montgomery, World, made a day's layover in Portland and reported nice business for his product in Eastern Oregon.

C. P. (Whitey) Merwin is back to his first love, the theater. He is now running the Circuit, a moving picture house on Second avenue, Seattle.

Heard on Portland's Film Row.

Weiser, Idaho.—It is reported that A. C. Gordon will take over the Star theater from Sullivan & Meek, the change to take place the first of the year.

Portland, Oregon.—Martin Donovan, former owner of the Portsmouth, has returned from an extended honeymoon trip in the East and is looking for a new location.

Portland, Oregon.—J. G. Von Herberg, of Jensen & Von Herberg, Seattle, was a recent visitor in Portland, attending the International Live Stock show here. He selected prize winners for his ranch at Kent, Wash.

Pilot Rock, Oregon.—Jack Root has opened a theater here.

Portland, Oregon.—L. A. Todd, manager for G. F., recently made a trip to Seattle and Spokane, returning by way of Baker, La Grande and Pendleton, thereby combining pleasure with business.

Dan Donnellan is working in Montana.

Established road men report activity in this territory by so-called "special representatives direct from New York City" They are bona fide film men alright enough, but they try to awe the ordinary small-town exhibitor by creating the impression that they represent the producer direct and that they have all kinds of authority. The scheme works for a while, but reports are that the exhibitors soon go back to dealing with the regular road man whom they know.

Spokane News Letter

By S. Clark Patchin, 1811 Eleventh Avenue, Spokane, Wash.

Mormon Church Spent $60,000 for Films Last Year.

SPOKANE, Wash.—Orville C. Pratt, superintendent of the public schools of Spokane, advocated the use of moving pictures in churches as an educational feature. This was in an address before ministers of the Christian churches of Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and Alberta at a session of the Pacific Northwest Parliament held in the Central Christian church, Spokane, December 4 to 7.

He also said: "The Mormon church spent $60,000 for moving pictures for its people last year, and can you show me or tell me of any other church of any denomination that has paid $1,000 for moving pictures for the purpose of interesting the young people in the work of the church? We should take an interest in the young people by obtaining moving pictures approved for the church use and will finally."

His topic was, "Weak Points in Our Bible School System."

Virginia Riblet Signs with Universal.

Miss Virginia Riblet, prominent society girl of Spokane, has just signed with the Universal Film Corporation to appear in leads in several productions, according to word just received by her parents and friends in Spokane. She has been at Universal City several months.

Sir Douglas Mawson South Pole Film Shown.

Several thousand Spokane grade and high school pupils witnessed moving pictures of the Sir Douglas Mawson south pole expedition, in the Lewis and Clark high school auditorium during the past week. The pictures were run primarily for the educational features they contained, with the approval of the authorities.

Managers Exchange Positions.

Spokane, Wash.—T. R. Conlon, manager of the Hippodrome moving picture and vaudeville house, has been transferred to the Portland house and Walter C. Smith, manager of the Portland house, comes to the Spokane house.

International Films Coming.

Spokane, Wash.—Fred H. Locher, manager of the Seattle office of the International, was in Spokane recently making arrangements to have the company's pictures shown in a Spokane theater. The general manager of the San Francisco office of the company is Harry L. Knappen, formerly a reporter on the Spokesman-Review.

The company's service includes all of the Hearst cartoons and the "Beatrice Fairfax" series. A series which will soon be produced will be the "Patria" films, in which Mrs. Vernon Castle will appear. Serials which have been put out by the company are "Jeffery," "The Flower of Faith" and "Ocean Wave."

Gathered Among Spokane Exchanges.

Lewiston, Idaho.—I. M. Binnard, who for several years owned and operated the Temple theater, Lewiston, Idaho, has now added to his list the Grand and Theatorium theaters of Lewiston.

Mr. Binnard purchased the Grand from A. H. Hilton, who is now running the Star theater, Lewiston.

Cheney, Wash.—J. W. Hawk sold the Twilight theater at Cheney to George R. McIntyre. Mr. Hawk went to Seattle.

TORONTO, CAN., NOTES.

Neat Advertising Phrase.

Toronto, Ont.—Manager Roberts of the new Regent theater, Toronto, made a special appeal to Christmas shoppers in his usual newspaper advertising. The ad read as follows:

"INCLUDE THE REGENT ON YOUR SHOPPING TOUR THIS WEEK.

"Break up the long hours of your trip to the stores this week by a visit to Toronto's Photoplay Theater Beautiful. Get an hour and a half rest while viewing the pick of the world's greatest screen features—always shown first in Toronto at the Regent."

Toronto Fox Lair Moves.

Toronto, Ont.—According to an announcement by Ben Rogers of the Fox Toronto branch, the local headquarters are to be moved to the seventh floor of the Hermant building, Wilton avenue, where a fine suite has been secured. The new offices are much larger and brighter than the old. Other "hermits" in the Hermant building include the Greater Vitagraph and the Mutual, each of whom take practically one whole floor of the fireproof structure.

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

KALEM.

THE FATAL VIOLIN (Dec. 19).—With poor Bud life is just one job after another, until he decides to take up baggage smashing. But he happens to get hold of the mysterious white violin case which marks him as a friend to the members of a blood and thunder anarchistic society. The case contains a violin which is really an ingenious infernal machine, for the bow is a knife and when it cuts the strings the violin explodes. The anarchists cast lots to decide who shall play the violin at Mrs. Rollerbill's concert, and the cards are stacked to give the job to poor Bud. Wherever he goes after that, gingerly carrying the violin case, the anarchists are with him—even to the Rollerbill concert. But mix-ups follow, and though they bring on a rapid succession of laughs and give poor Bud many a trying moment, it all ends happily.

ON THE BRINK OF WAR (No. 20 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two Parts—Dec. 20).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Luke Larrabee (Ronald Bradbury); Manoel (Knute Rahm); Terry, ranch foreman (Hart Hoxie); Secretary of State (Edward Clisbee). Directed by James W. Horne.

Barbara Brent takes an active part in the campaign for John Wallace's election to Congress on a platform demanding the exclusion of Mexicans. A crisis is precipitated when Manoel, one of Brent's ranch hands, accidentally shoots Terry. Feeling that his story will not be believed he flees to the mountains, with a posse headed by Barbara in pursuit. Barbara comes upon his hiding place alone but he throws himself on her mercy and she forces the posse at the point of her gun to give him justice. Manoel is lodged in jail.

Larrabee, a politician with an axe to grind, urges Wallace on in his campaign, and by secretly aiding in the escape of Manoel, brings on a pitched battle in the streets of the village between the native Americans and the Mexicans. The bloody affray brings on a crisis in Washington, and the President, to avert war, despatches the Secretary of State to tell Wallace of what his course is leading to. The Secretary prevails on Wallace to announce his withdrawal from the race, and when Larrabee learns of it he arouses the natives with declaration that Wallace has betrayed them. Wallace is set upon by Larrabee in the town, and is in serious danger at the hands of the mob when Barbara and the cow-punchers from the Brent ranch come to his aid. Events finally work out to vindicate Wallace and expose Larabee's crooked actions with the result that Wallace is elected.

THE TIGER'S CLAW (No. 10 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Dec. 22).—The cast: Tommy Grant, of The Chronicle (George Larkin); Big Val Marron (Robert Ellis); Nell (Ollie Kirkby); Benny, the Rat (Bert Tracey); Detective Galloway (Harry Gordon); Mansfield, city editor (William McKey). Directed by Robert Ellis.

Because of jealousy over the girl Nell, Benny the Rat, "squeals" to Detective Galloway on Big Val Marron, leader of East Side gamblers, and the latter's place is raided. Val's political influence secures his release, but Grant determines to keep an eye on him as he knows that the gambler will not be satisfied until he has secured vengeance on Benny. Val prevails on Nell by threats to lure Benny to an apartment for a supposed birthday party. Grant, following Marron, sees him secure a gun, and when he enters the apartment house takes the opportunity to phone to Detective Galloway.

As he finishes the call Nell and Benny enter the apartment. Grant finds the door barred and goes to the rear where a building is being erected. Climbing to a level with the first floor, he sees Marron hiding behind a curtain awaiting Benny. Grant grasps the rope of a crane and starts to swing through the air. Before he can reach the window a shot is heard. A moment later Grant crashes through the window, downing Marron. He turns to find that Nell, her conscience hurt by her part in betraying Benny, whom she really loved, has stepped between "The Rat" and Va. at the moment of the shot and has given her life as a sacrifice.

THE VANISHING BOX-CAR (No. 111 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dec. 23).—The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); Dick Benton (P. S. Pembroke); Edith (Juanita Sponsler); Hedley (G. A. Williams); Powden his henchman (George Routh). Directed by Walter Morton.

Dick Benton succeeds in getting a big award for his Vulcan Iron Works by underbidding Hedley, but it is necessary that he make his first delivery within three weeks to hold the contract. Powden, Hedley's henchman, causes an explosion at the Vulcan works that destroys vital machinery. Additional machinery is shipped in boxcar 2535 to Lone Point, but before the car reaches Lone Point Powden uncouples it and switches it to an abandoned spur track running into the mountains. After the car is taken, the tracks are torn up leaving no trace of the theft.

At Lone Point it seems that the car has vanished into thin air. Without it, Benton will lose his contract. Helen starts out on a search on her motorcycle and comes upon Powden in the mountains near the car. She escapes in Powden's automobile, while he pursues on her motorcycle. She reaches the railroad tracks just as the fast freight is passing. As Powden overtakes her and leaps from the motorcycle to the car, Helen jumps to a flat car on the freight. The car, without a hand at the wheel, swerves, and is hurled over a cliff. Reaching Lone Point Helen tells of her find and a party sets out and recovers the car.

THE QUEST OF THE GOLDEN GOAT (Dec 26).—With all regular jobs barred against him, Bud, by a clever deception, convinces the Chinese laundryman that he is a Celestial and becomes chief engineer of a tub and washboard. Mysterious writing on the cuff of one of the shirts he deciphers to say "I felt my fortune in the Golden Goat." Forthwith Bud says farewell to the job and sets out in search of the Golden Goat. Wild adventures with a pretty priestess of the Order of the Golden Goat, and numerous complications follow before Bud finally learns that the shirt was the property of a sport who had imbibed too much, and the Golden Goat was nothing more than the name of the cafe into which he poured his gold.

A MISSION OF STATE (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Dec. 29).—The cast: Tommy Grant, of The Chronicle (George Larkin); The Countess (Ollie Kirkby); Paul De Graf (Robert Ellis); House detective (William McKey). Directed by Robert Ellis.

Sitting in the hotel lobby Grant notices the Countess communicating with Paul De Graf in another part of the room by means of an ingenious code. He traces a connection between their mysterious actions and the disappearance of a portfolio containing papers of international important from the hands of the Assistant Secretary of State that morning. When he notices a code message planning a meeting in the nearby park, he determines to follow. The Countess and Paul board an auto and speed to the outlying country, trailed by Grant in a taxi.

He surprises the Countess here, but is set upon by the retainers about the place, and kept bound and gaged in an upper room while the two spies make their escape in the auto. Grant succeeds in slipping from his bonds, but finding the door locked, is forced to leap from the window to the ground. He takes a short cut in his taxi and reaches a bridge over the road along which the two spies are coming. As the auto speeds underneath he leaps through the air and by a matter of bare inches lands safely in the car. In a second he has the two covered with his revolver and they are brought to justice.

THE RACE WITH DEATH (No. 112 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dec. 30).—The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); The night operator (P. S. Pembroke); Ranch foreman (George Routh); Purdy, a rancher (G. A. Williams); His daughter, Edith (Juanita Sponsler). Directed by Walter Morton.

The unreasoning jealousy of the ranch foreman, in love with Edith, is aroused by the coming of the new night operator to Lone Point. So that, when it appears that the night operator has robbed Purdy, the rancher, the foreman's jealousy blinds him to further investigation, and he sets out with the punchers to deal frontier justice to the night operator. The latter is thrown into a box car at the Lone Point siding, which is then sent down grade to certain destruction. Helen arrives at the station in time to learn of the terrible deed and sets out in pursuit on her horse. She finally overtakes the locked car and leaps from her horse to the handrail. But before she can put the brakes on the open drawbridge looms up ahead, and it seems that her sacrifice will be in vain for there is barely time to bring the car to a stop. Tugging at the brakes, Helen halts the car within inches of the edge of the tracks.

ESSANAY.

A TALE FROM THE DECAMERON (Black Cat Feature—Two Parts—Dec. 26).—The cast: Mildred Tomes (Neil Craig); John Tomes (Ernest Maupain); Richard Ryder (John Cossar); Thomas North (Victor Benoit).

The beauty of Mildred Tomes attracts the evil attentions of the wealthy Richard Ryder. He invites her and her father, John Tomes, to dinner at his home. Tomes surreptitiously appropriates a rare volume of Boccaccio from Ryder's library. Mildred detects her father's deed and seeks to return the book. Ryder surprises her in his library and accuses her of theft and threatens her with arrest unless she accepts his attentions. A struggle follows in which he falls on a steel spindle and dies. Thomas North, his secretary and Mildred's sweetheart, is accused of murder. North suspects the truth but faces death rather than betray his fiancee. As the shadow of the gallows draws near him, however, Mildred confesses her part in the tragedy. All are exonerated.

CANIMATED NOOX PICTORIAL NO. 21 (Dec. 27).—At Garlico, Mexico, Canimated Noox films a few interesting spots in the small time war, which still lingers on, although the natives have ceased to bet on the result. Growing rhubarb pies in Mississippi has been filmed. "How the Infectious Flivver is Made" is the topic of the weekly pictograph. One hundred pounds of bolts, nuts and screws are poured into a concrete mixer and the finished product soon comes forth. Half of the reel is made up of beautiful scenes on and around Lake Tahoe, the beautiful body of water in California's mountains.

WIFE IN SUNSHINE. IS MARRIAGE SACRED? (Two Parts—Dec. 30).—The cast: Edward Morrison (Edward Arnold); Katherine (Marguerite Clayton); Hitchcock (Sydney Ainsworth); Edith (Lillian Drew).

The demon—social ambition—wreaks the home of Edward Morrison, a rising young artist. His wife, Katherine, squanders his money on fine feathers and entertainments. He reproaches her and Katherine harkening to the evil counsel of Harold Hitchcock, a social viper, divorces Edward. In a few months Hitchcock seeks to rid himself of Katherine. She charges him with having lured her away from her husband, and demands that he marry her. He laughs at her demands. "Marry you?" he exclaims; "never." Realizing her great mistake, Katherine again seeks Edward to plead forgiveness. It is too late. Morrison, since his divorce, has married Edith, his model, who is bringing him that happiness which Katherine could not.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

GOLD SEAL.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER (Three Parts—Dec. 26).—The cast: "Smiling Eddie" Rapp (Wm. V. Mong); Helen Morgan (Nellie Allen); Tom Morgan (Harry Holden); "Big Joe" Smith (Geo. A. Dayton); "Santa Fe" Willie (Wm. C. Carlock); Eddie's Mother (Mrs. Carrie Fowler); Mrs. Morgan (Mrs. L. Y. Titus). Written and produced by William Mong.

"Smiling Eddie" has just completed a prison term and on his way home to his dying mother is accosted by "Big Joe" Smith and "Santa Fe" Willie, both crooks, demanding that he tell them what he did with the loot, for the stealing of which he had been sent up. Eddie protests his innocence of the crime. They take him to Joes' home and there try to compel him to confess. Eddie sticks to his story and begs them to let him go to his mother. They fight and Eddie gets a pistol from "Big Joe" and makes his escape, closely pursued.

When he arrives home he finds that his mother is barely alive, and in his excitement he overturns her bottle of medicine. He goes for more, but "Big Joe" and "Santa Fe" Willie are wait-

TO EXHIBITORS

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theatre let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.

Helpfully yours,

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

ing outside for him. They detain him so long that when he returns his mother has only time to bid him goodbye. Helen Morgan is nursing her and the mother gives her son into Helen's care. Eddie decides to live "straight," and with the help of Helen he starts well on his way. Helen confesses that she has an illegitimate child. Eddie is at first astonished, but he later decides to give her a helping hand.

Tom Morgan is the night watchman in a big bank. "Big Joe" and "Santa Fe" Willie learn that he has an invalid wife and so approach him with a proposition to help them in robbing the bank. However, when the time comes Morgan cannot make himself do this. Eddie decides to help him frustrate their plans. Meanwhile Morgan discovers that his daughter, Helen, is staying with Eddie. Helen and her baby return home, where they are joyfully received.

The two crooks go ahead with their plans, Morgan apparently falling in with their ideas, but Eddie has arranged with the police to capture the two red-handed. Eddie is wounded in the fight which ensues and sends for Helen. She promises, if he recovers, she will marry him.

NESTOR.

PRETTY BABY (Dec. 25).—The cast: Mr. Jones (Eddie Lyons); Mrs. Jones (Edith Roberts); Mr Brown (Lee Moran); Mrs. Brown (Miss Elmore). Written by Bess Meredyth. Produced by L. W. Chaudet.

The Joneses have been married a year and their proudest possession is Jonesy, Jr. Around the corner live the Browns. Mrs. Brown has a great love for animals and when her husband wants to smoke she sends him outside, as her pet poodle is annoyed by the odor. On the sidewalk in front of Brown's a little child falls. He takes him inside to wash his face. When the latter sees Mrs. Brown he lets out a yell and she orders her husband to take the brat out, as the dog dislikes crying children.

The Joneses receive a wire from an uncle who detests children, and does not know that they have one, that he will be with them for a few hours between trains. They hope some day to inherit his millions, and so they take the baby over to the Browns for the day. He finds only Mr. Brown at home, who consents to take care of the child.

Jones shows uncle through the house, and all is well until he spots a baby rattle. Mrs. Jones explains that her bubby is such a baby that he loves to play with such things. Brown, when he sees his wife coming, throws the infant into the clothes hamper. All of a sudden she hears it cry. With murder in her eye, she extracts the howling infant. She insists on returning the baby.

Brown tells Jones that he is sorry, but he has to return the baby. At this Jones replies that it is not his baby. Mrs. Brown gives her husband one look, tears home and starts packing. Hubby wanders along the street wondering how he will get rid of the baby, when he sees an empty taxi. He dumps the baby into the machine and tells his wife that the Joneses finally did admit that it was their baby. She only half believes him.

Uncle leaves, and as soon as he is out of sight they demand their child. Brown confesses that he left it in a taxi, and they all run out. In the meantime uncle has hired this fatal machine, found the baby and the two are getting along splendidly. The quartet hire another car and start in pursuit. Suddenly uncle's machine stops and the driver tells him that he has a flat tire. So he picks up the baby and dashes for the station, and is just about to board the train when the Joneses and Browns run up and claim the baby.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 50 (Dec. 13).

Cops Ready for Winter.—"The Finest" in cold weather uniforms reviewed by Mayor—Los Angeles, Cal.

Famous Hawaiian Dance.—Hula-Hula, from Pacific Isles, introduced on Gulf beach—Galveston, Texas.

Dental Week.—Mayor Thompson presents tooth brushes to children in teeth cleaning campaign—Chicago, Ill.

Firemen's Hard Fight.—Smoke-eaters battle hours against stubborn $500,000 blaze—Brooklyn, N. Y.

Elephant Goes Shopping.—Getting shoes fitted is quite a job, if you have four feet—Boston, Mass. Subtitle: Trying to lace them.

Picking Navy Flying Base.—U. S. Commission on naval stations views proposed under-sea and aviation ground site—Los Angeles, Cal.

Champion Cattle.—Prize winners at International Live Stock Exposition—Chicago, Ill. Subtitle: Riding a Blue Ribbon pony.

Parade on River.—Steamboats help celebrate dedication of new dam to raise water in the Ohio—Huntington, W. Va. Subtitles: The dam. Along the levee.

Builds Bungalow Atop Skyscraper.—Earl Carroll, famous composer, lays cornerstone of unique home at midnight on roof of business building in the heart of Broadway—N. Y. City. Subtitles: Louis Mann making the opening address. View from his bedroom window.

Through with Fighting.—Disabled New Zealand soldiers on way home from French battle line—Newport News, Va. Subtitles: Souvenirs from trenches. "Haka," Maori war dance.

Winning Auto Championship.—Speed king captures 150 mile paved track record—Ascot, Cal. Subtitles: They're off. Eddie Rickenbacher wins.

Closing of Congress.—National Legislators face big problems in last hours of 64th session—Washington, D. C. Subtitles: Speaker Clark and Congressman "Jim" Mann. Senators Kerby, Arkansas, and Shepard, Texas. Senator Tom Taggart, Indiana. "Uncle Joe" Cannon (81 but still young).

Envoy Returns to Germany.—Ambassador Gerard leaves for Berlin to guard U. S. interests—N. Y. City. Subtitle: Mr. and Mrs. Gerard.

The Man of the Hour.—Field Marshal von Mackensen, whose military genius inspired the German drive of conquest straight to Bucharest, the Roumanian capital. Pictures taken on his recent visit to Turkey. Subtitles: Germans marching through a French village. Cleaning up.

Dance on Ice Skates.—Champion professional figure skaters of the world, Bror Meyer and Emmy Bergfeldt, demonstrate their skill—St. Nicholas Rink, N. Y. City.

Cartoons by Hy Mayer.

BISON.

GIANT POWDER (Two Parts—Dec. 30).—The cast: "Sandy" McCann (Edith Johnson); Robin McCann (J. F. Conley); "Bonfire" (Ivor McFadden); Jack Kenny (Fred Church); Mike Kenny (L. M. Wells); Margaret Kenny (Eileen Sedgwick); Terrence Phail (T. D. Crittenden). Produced by Henry McRae.

Mike Kenny, owner of a big mine, sends his only son, Jack, to the camp to "make a man of himself." Jack accepts the situation and finds himself trying to fulfill his father's expectations—not so much on his father's account, perhaps, as because of his wish to stand well in the eyes of "Sandy" McCann, the storekeeper's daughter. She is being courted by one of the drillers known as "Bonfire."

A driller turns up missing one morning and Jack is given his place. He decides to bunk with the men and share their food. "Bonfire" resents "Sandy's" interest in Jack and the two men fight. Jack is too much of a gentleman to continue when he sees that the girl is to be an onlooker. The drillers think that he is afraid of "Bondfire."

This illusion is dispelled, however, some little time later, when the two have an encounter early one morning, just before they begin the morning shift. A crowd quickly gathers and "Sandy" jumps out of bed and appears on the edge of the crowd.

Mike Kenny, with his daughter, and the girl who thinks herself in love with Jack, have come to the mine. They arrive at the moment of the fight, and just in time to see "Sandy" angrily separate the two men and disperse the crowd. Afterwards "Bonfire" shows his true calibre when he rescues Jack, whose foot is caught in a crack in the rocks near where a heavy charge of powder has been placed. He dashes up the hill, followed by "Sandy," and succeeds in freeing Jack just before the charge explodes. "Sandy" tries to thank "Bonfire," but he sees the true state of affairs and leaves her, saying:

"I knew you wanted him. And nobody loves a fat man anyway!"

L-KO.

PERILS OF A PLUMBER (Dec. 27).—The Mr. and the Mrs. live in the closest domestic harmony, until one day when the pipe in the bathroom washstand springs a leak. Mrs. calls hubby and they send for the plumber. The plumber, who is our friend Dan Russell, arrives in top hat and frock coat, followed by his minion with the tools. He is escorted with ceremony to the bathrom and takes off his gloves, coat, shirt and trousers, revealing himself in regulation plumbers' garb. Then he sets to work.

A young Beau Brummel, a most persistent flirt, annoys the Mrs. in the hall of the hotel. She runs back to her room and begs the majestic plumber, who has now reassumed the garb of fashion, to pretend to be her husband and punish the flirt. The Mr. decided to take the chastisement of the flirt into his own hands, and goes to his room for a gun. Here he finds the plumber. Complications ensue in which Dan vainly tries to pose as the wife in her night cap and kimono. A general scrap brings the situation to an end.

PHIL'S BUSY DAY (Dec. 29).—Phil and his jealous wife live in one house, and a father and his pretty daughter live across the way. Phil is a lazy good-for-nothing. He is attracted by the pretty girl and goes through all sorts of adventures in order to meet her. Father does not take to him at all, and his wife is furiously jealous. They both lay plans to restrain him and the girl from meeting each other. Many complications ensue, with the inevitable chase and firing of revolvers. Phil has to return to the wife of his bosom.

BIG U.

MOONSHINE BLOOD (Special Release—Dec. 21).—Red Margaret's practical judgment and commanding personality outwit the agents of the law who try to capture a band of moonshiners, until she comes to know the secret of love. Then she sacrifices her people and herself.

JOKER.

MINES AND MATRIMONY (Dec. 30).—The cast: Widow Bean (Gale Henry); Bill (William Franey); Pete ("Heine" Conklin); Milt (Milburn Moranti); Sheriff (Harry Mann); Sheriff's Daughter (Yvette Mitchell). Scenario by Paul Coulidge. Produced by William Beaudine.

Widow Bean, the village hash dispenser, is loved by both Bill and Pete, who work in the mine close by. The widow's son is in love with the Sheriff's daughter, but father Sheriff will have nothing to do with him. The widow sneaks out to look for her son, who has not come home to dinner. He comes blubbering up and tells her that the Sheriff will not let him have his daughter.

In the meantime Bill and Pete have gone back to the mine, but Bill comes up for air. He proposes to the widow, and she accepts, as he has saved a gold brick. Pete overhears them. He sneaks home, goes to Bill's matress and takes out the gold brick. Hearing a voice outside, he throws the brick out the window. Milt and his girl happen to be passing and it hits Milt on the head.

Pete rushes on looking for the brick and Milt and the girl watch him. He buries the brick, and Milt and the girl see where he hides it. Bill, all dressed for the wedding, goes to get the brick and discovers the loss. At the church the poor widow is waiting. The "friends" go to their shaft and look down. Then Pete gives Bill a kick that sends him down in the hole. Milt asks the Sheriff if he can have his daughter if he discovers the thief, and he consents. Bill has been having all sorts of trouble trying to get out of the shaft.

The widow is all ready to marry Pete when she hears about Bill and tears to his rescue, while Pete goes to dig up the brick. She makes him help pull Bill out. He and a miner grab a rope and swing in, but this makes even balance with Bill and minister. Pete realizes that the only way to get to the top is to throw out his brick. This he does, and no sooner gets to the top than the Sheriff arrests him. The widow grabs the minister and they drop down the shaft and balance even with Bill and the parson. The widow with a smile says: "Marry us." This the minister does.

IMP.

TOTO OF THE BYWAYS (Two Parts—Dec. 29).—The cast: Toto (Edith Roberts); Paul Bentley (Johnnie Walker); Harry Sheldon (Harry Benham); John Bentley (Charles Slattery). Written by Catherine Carr. Directed by Lee Kohlmar.

Paul Bentley, an English artist studying in Paris, has secretly married his model. His father sends for him to return as his mother is ill. Paul confesses his marriage. His father insists that it be kept a secret from his mother, and that he remain until she is better. Letters come for Paul from his wife, but the father destroys them. She is reduced to poverty. Pierre, an Apache of the slums, has been one of her friends. It is to him that she goes when she is about to become a mother. He takes her in and cares for her. She dies, confiding to him her baby, a girl, with the request that she be brought up as a boy in order to avoid the unhappiness which her mother has experienced from her relations with men. Pierre promises.

Sixteen years pass and the baby has grown into an accomplished young sneak-thief. She is called Toto. She visits the art exhibition, where a painting by Harry Sheldon is hung, and is caught by him trying to take his watch out of his pocket. He pities Toto and takes her to his home where he promises "to make a man" of her, think that she is a boy. One day Sheldon reads of the presence in Paris of Paul Bentley, now one of the most famous of painters, to whose teaching he owes all that he has learned of his art. Toto pays a last visit to the Apaches, her friends, and overhears their plans to steal Bentley's painting. They say that once Toto is introduced into his studio the rest will be simple. She pretends to agree.

Sheldon takes her with him to call on Bentley, and he shows them the famous picture. It is a portrait from memory of his lost wife and her baby. Sheldon sends Toto home, and she goes to prepare her plans. She dresses as a girl. She has arranged with the Apaches to give them a signal from the window of Bentley's studio at ten. At nine o'clock she goes to the studio and cuts the picture from its frame.

Pierre arrives and takes the picture from Toto. He recognizes her mother and, shocked, he falls to the floor. The butler, whom Toto tied upon entering, has freed himself and comes in. Toto runs toward the window with the painting. The butler fires and wounds her, but she makes her escape.

Bentley and Sheldon enter and find Pierre. He is dazed and says, "The painting—it was Suzanne and the child whom he never knew." He promises to take Bentley to his child. Toto returns to Sheldon's studio, having removed her girl's dress in the garden. Sheldon comes in and finds her fainting from her wound. Sheldon places her on a couch and cares for her wound. Bentley and Pierre come in and Pierre makes the explanation which results in the disappearance of "Toto of the Byways" for ever.

THE WOMAN WHO LEARNED (Dec. 24).—An idle woman of great wealth finds little joy in living. She rebuffs her little daughter, who urges her to assist in work among the poor. The chance reading of Longfellow's poem makes her realize that her life is tiresome because it is useless.

VICTOR.

GOOD MORNING, JUDGE (Two Parts—Dec. 28).—The cast: Fred Rayo (Eernest Shields); Mrs. Rayo (Jane Hathaway); Mary West (Mina Cunard); Judge Conley (Walter Belasco); Inspector McGowan (Lewis Short); The Inspector's Man (Eddie Polo). Written and produced by Francis Ford.

Fred Rayo returning from England strikes up a flirtation with Mary West, who is endeavoring to smuggle some small articles, and who suspects Rayo of being a smuggler also. Both are searched, but nothing is found. They have seen in a magazine a picture of a famous judge who has convicted a gang of smugglers. Fred arrives home and meets the Judge, and is much alarmed. Mary West spends the week with Mrs. Rayo, and she also meets the Judge. Fred has invited six of his college chums, also suspected of being smugglers, to spend the week with him.

While at dinner Inspector McGowan is announced. Mary discovers in her grip a ruby necklace which she cannot account for and which she leaves on the piano. It is found by Fred, who leaves with it. Fred throws the necklace away and it is discovered by the butler, who starts to wrap it up in a sheet of music. In the meantime Mary runs away, losing her shoe, which is found by Fred. The butler has the necklace wrapped up in the music. Fred wraps the shoe, and calls the butler, who in the meantime has hidden the necklace in back of the piano. Fred sends him to Mary with the shoe, but before he has a chance to obey he is sent out of the room by Mrs. Rayo.

A sneak thief finds the necklace back of the piano. Fred discovers him, takes the package and sends the necklace (thinking it is Mary's shoe) to Mary's room. The thief meets the butler outside and, thinking he has the package which contains the necklace, takes it away from him. Mary again receives the necklace. The thief discovers that it contains only a shoe and throws it away. Mary, finding no place to hide the necklace, places it in Fred's hands. Fred lays it on the table and sits on it.

His friends are very much worried about the inspector, and tell Fred they are going to beat it. Fred jumps up from the table, but cannot find the necklace, as it is stuck to his coat. He leaves the room, not knowing it is there. As they are running for a car they hear a cry from Mrs. Rayo, saying she has lost her necklace. They all run back and help her search. Fred's coat has been torn and he gives it to Mary to mend. She discovers the necklace and throws it out of the window, where it is discovered by a servant, who in turn hands it over to another servant, until it reaches the hands of a maid, and she puts it on a dog. The inspector accuses Mrs. Rayo of smuggling a valuable necklace, but she clears herself. They discover the man who placed it on the dog, and peace is once more restored to the house.

LAEMMLE.

STRONGER THAN STEEL (Two Parts—Dec. 27).—The cast Justin (Allan Holubar); Badger (Charles Dyer); Daphne (Louise Lovely). Scenario and production by Allan Holubar.

Justin is an intellectual faddist. He is in love with Daphne of the Follies, but he thinks marriage old-fashioned. Daphne refuses to have anything more to do with him and his radical ideas.

As he returns home he finds Badger, one of nature's misfits, ready to open the cab door. Thinking to amuse himself he invites Badger in for supper. While the poor unfortunate is eating gluttonously Justin propounds his views. He assures Badger that there is no God, and that the poor are justified in taking what they want. At first Badger will not accept his theories, but finally he decides that perhaps Justin's ideas have a foundation of truth.

So seizing the unsuspecting Justin and tying him in his chair, Badger proceeds to loot the place. Justin struggles to free himself. When he does partially succeed in doing so the two men fight with all the vigor of the primitive. At last Badger seems to be gaining the victory, and Justin deserts his theories and prays to God to help him. His prayer subdues Badger. Astounded, he exclaims that Justin is now asking aid of the very being whom he declared a short time ago did not exist.

The neighbors are aroused by the noise and turn in an alarm, but when the police arrive Justin tells them that there is no occasion for their interference. Daphne is strangely disturbed in her dreams, and, awakening, calls Justin on the telephone, for she feels that some danger threatens him. Justin, now a changed man, tells her that he will see her on the morrow. Her woman's intuition realizes that a change has been effected.

POWERS.

SUCH IS LIFE IN ALASKA (Dec. 26).—Hy Mayer takes us to the top of the world and shows us how the people there resemble the animals of their own country. Wonderful views of the ice fields, of the snowy ranges, and of the herds of reindeer, of which the Alaskan Eskimos are learning from our government, to take proper care, are interpersed with amusing drawings in Hy Mayer's well-known style. At the end some remarkable effects of silhouette drawings which dissolve into the real landscape, and vice versa, keep up wondering how these almost magic effects are obtained.

CIVILIZATION IN THE FAR EAST (On Same Reel as Foregoing).—The Rajahs, or native rulers of India, pride themselves on the possession of large collections of animals. Close-ups of monkey families are shown. The wild boar of India, a most savage creature, feared by animals twice its size, are seen. A great collection of elephants in the possession of one of the native princes appears before us. They are held in veneration by the natives. On occasions of ceremony they are decorated with specially made jewelry and made to lead the procession. Umbrellas—the sign of dignity in the East—are held over their heads. This picture is one of the educational series by Dr. Dorsey.

SAMMIE JOHNSIN SLUMBERS NOT (Cartoon Comedy—Dec. 31).—Sammie needs a good night's sleep, as the cats of the neighborhood persistently keep him awake night after night. They sit on the fence outside and serenade each other. Sammie engages the services of a formidable bulldog, but that night the cats remain away. As soon as he dismisses the dog they return and make the night more hideous than ever. He tries in many ways to get rid of them. Finally they stay away for a time, and he enjoys his repose. Then one night they return, worse than ever. He looks out of the window and sees, not two cats, but a whole row of lusty kittens and their proud parents.

REX.

THE ROCK OF RICHES (Dec. 23).—A rich bachelor decides to study his relatives before he makes his will. After he has visited each and every one he is more puzzled than before. He plans a test. They are all to visit him on a certain day. In the middle of a road he plants a big stone. One by one they pass it by until the humblest of them all decides that the stone is dangerous to traffic, so he moves it away. Underneath is the will to the finder.

MR. VAMPIRE (Special Release—Two Parts—Dec. 24). (A synopsis of this picture was published under the title of "The Woman Who Learned" in last week's issue. That was an error; the right title is "Mr. Vampire." We publish the story again for the benefit of our readers.)—The cast: The Husband (Pete Gerald); The Wife (Edna Maison); The Vampire Man (Francis Ford); The Other Woman (Mme. Bourgeois); Mr. Brooks (Jack Holt); His Wife (Roberta Wilson); The Maid (Elsie Maison). Produced by Francis Ford. Written by Grace Cunard.

Edna's husband is unfaithful to her and has been accustomed to going out with the other woman. She is about to become a mother and broods over her loneliness. She finds a woman's card in her husband's pocket and becomes suspicious. She watches his office, sees a woman enter, and follows her in. The husband is caught in a compromising position with the woman, so the wife demands a large sum of money to spend on the expected child.

Twenty-five years later the son is known as the Vampire because of his hatred of women. Born while his mother was embittered by her experience, his hatred for women is almost uncanny. The Vampire attends a house party, and is shunned by the men, but much sought after by the women. It is strange that though he hates women they invariably seek him out. One of the married women at the party takes a violent fancy for Mr. Vampire, which causes comment.

The maid at the house has taken a liking to the strange Vampire, who, on several occasions has spoken kindly to her. Mrs. Brooks, the married woman in the case, goes to his room, intending to leave a note for him. The maid is in a room near by and hears her enter. Brooks has suspected that his wife is pursuing the Vampire, and, securing a revolver, follows her. The Vampire man comes into his room, finds the note and reads it. The wife, meanwhile, has not had a chance to get out and hides behind some curtains. The maid, too, comes in and hides.

Brooks forces his way into the room and threatens to kill the Vampire Man, telling him that he knows that Mrs. Brooks is hidden there. He is about to shoot, when the maid comes from behind the curtains. Brooks thinks that he is mistaken and apologizes. The wife realizes her wrongdoing, and, after her husband's departure, sneaks out, unseen. The Vampire Man sardonically smiles at the ways of women and reiterates his hatred for them.

THE PRODIGAL DAUGHTER (Dec. 31).—The cast: Rev. Silas Winterburn (Allen Holubar); Dorothy (Agnes Vernon); Dolly (Ruth Corbin); Ned (Jack Mulhall). Written by E. M. Ingleton. Produced by Allen Holubar.

Years before the story opens Ned had loved Dorothy, but a young artist had come to the village and took her away with him. Since that time her father, the Rev. Silas Winterburn, has been a broken-hearted man and has gone about his duties in a mechanical way.

Once each year Ned has dinner with the old man, each hopeful that the other will have some word of their loved one. As they are enjoying their dinner on one of these occasions a ring at the door-bell is heard. The old servant opens the door and finds a small child crying in the falling snow. Upon investigating further he finds the mother. It is the long lost Dorothy and the child, Dolly, her daughter.

Silas calls for his servant, who has taken Dorothy and Dolly into the kitchen near the fire. Silas tells the servant to bring in the child, but the man dares not tell him that it is Dorothy. Dolly comes in and sees the food which she so greatly needs, but she refuses to eat until mother can share with her. Silas orders the mother brought in.

The surprise of the two men may be imagined when they find it is Dorothy. But Silas becomes hard and cruel. He listens sneeringly to her story. In his heart he is glad to learn that the artist married the girl. Finally he declares that Dolly may remain, but that her mother will have to go. The child will not leave her mother, and both make preparations to go. Then the heart of the old man melts, and he welcomes them back to his home.

UNIVERSAL.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE (No. 3—Dec. 22).—This issue shows first the manufacture of feather boas, from the time that the feathers are taken from the ostrich to the finished product being worn on Fifth avenue. Then some views of the floating Charity Hospital, the ship which has been the means of saving the lives of so many New York children. After this the care of the hair is graphically illustrated, and this is followed by glimpses of New York City, the first of a series of pictures of the great cities of the world. The picture closes with a comic incident called "Things That Never Happen," in which a conductor of a street car is shown treating his passengers with almost incredible politeness.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

LIBERTY (Episode No. 18—Two Parts—Dec. 8).—The cast: Liberty Horton (Marie Walcamp); Pedro (Eddie Polo); Capt Bob Rutledge (Jack Holt); Major Winston (Neal Hart); Pancho Lopez (G. Raymond Nye); Jose Leon (L. M. Wells).

The 18th episode begins with Liberty and Pedro trying to make their escape out of the town. The guards discover the means by which they escaped and the pursuing party hastily form and set out to search.

Welcome to Bob and the Major in the hospital. Bob announces to the Major that he is going to Washington to appeal directly to the President for a sufficient body of men to go into Mexico and affect the rescue of Liberty and the wiping out of Lopez. The Major's reason is now restored almost fully, but he is still ill.

General Lopez enters Chihuahua to find that Pedro and Liberty have escaped. Pedro is captured in trying to cover Liberty's escape. He is bound and thrown into a room, but Liberty, who has witnessed his capture, has stealthily followed. The Lopez party with their prisoner arrive at the woods and a rope is put around Pedro's neck. Pedro is made to stand on a plank—bound hand and foot and the rope is drawn taut—Lopez and his men drinking to the general gaiety of the situation.

Bob, meantime, boards the train for Washington, with the citizens of the border cheering him and wishing him success and God speed.

Liberty frees Pedro. They overpower the gang and make their escape.

Bob reaches the ante-room of the office of the Secretary of War. Bob is getting very much irritated over the subordinate's attitude, and he floors the subordinate with a well-directed blow on the jaw. Bob is overpowered. The officer orders his arrest. Then we see the hacienda of Jose Leon, where Pedro and Liberty secretly arrive, and Leon gives them shelter. At the hacienda, a peon laborer of Leon's sees Lopez and his men coming in the distance. He tells his master, who in turn notifies Pedro and Liberty, and this episode ends with Pedro and Liberty at a loss what to do

---

LIBERTY, EPISODE NO. 19 (Two parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Liberty Horton (Marie Walcamp); Bob Rutledge (Jack Holt); Pedro (Eddie Polo); Major Winston (Neal Hart); Pancho Lopez (G. Raymond Nye); Jose Leon (L. M. Wells); Senorita Travario (Hazel Buckham). Directed by Henry McRae.

Pedro and Liberty arrive at the Hacienda in advance of Lopez and his men. Leon gives them shelter. Bob and Liberty are overjoyed to meet again. A peon brings the news that Lopez and his men are arriving. Bob and the other go into the house and barricade one of the rooms, while Leon goes to meet the Mexicans. Leon tells Lopez that Liberty and Pedro have passed by. Lopez believes him, but says, "Did you so easily forgive her for killing Manuel, your son?" Leon demands the truth of Liberty, who explains how Theresa killed them both.

Lopez discovers the deception practiced on him and returns to the Hacienda. His men surround the place and fire at the windows. Bob going for ammunition is seen by Lopez, who pursues him. The two men have a duel with revolvers.

Bob shoots Pancho, he thinks fatally. The peons arrive and take the insurrecto leader into the house. They think him dead. Jack is helped into the house. Pedro is brought into the room where Leon lies mortally wounded on the bed, Liberty is supporting his head. Lopez lies on the floor attended by the women. Leon sends Pedro for his strong box. He realizes that he is dying and wishes, according to the will of Liberty's father, to give his consent to her marriage with Bob, otherwise the property will not come to her. He says that he won forty thousand dollars from Major Winston and then spent the money. He gives money to Pedro, who kisses his hand. He then blesses them and lies almost exhausted on the pillow.

A diversion is created by the arrival of the girl who loves Lopez and has followed him. Liberty and Bob go out to meet her. Leon raises himself on his elbow. "Now, murderer of my son," he exclaims, and shoots Lopez. Liberty and Bob return and have the body of Lopez carried into an adjoining room. Pedro chasing the last of Lopez's men shoots the last three survivors. Lopez is loaded on a cart and taken to the house in the village where the insurrection began. His eyes open and it is seen that he is not dead. Major Winston has succeeded in reaching his barracks and explains how his men were lead into a trap; also that Bob has remained in Mexico trying to get news of Liberty. They are about to send for news of him to the Hacienda, when the four arrive, Liberty, Bob, Pedro and Senorita Travario, who loves Lopez. There is a joyful reunion.

RED FEATHER.

MIXED BLOOD (Five Parts—Dec. 18).—The cast: Nita Valyez (Claire McDowell); Carlos (George Beranger); Big Jim (Roy Stewart); Joe Nagle (Wilbur Higby); Lottie Nagle (Jessie Arnold); "Blootch" White (Harry Archer); Mrs. Valyez (Mrs. Emmons). Scenario by J. Grubb Alexander. Directed by Charles Swickard.

Just over the American side of the Mexican border, Big Jim Burmister, the Sheriff, kept law and order, being both feared and hated by the Mexicans who were thus forced to keep within the bounds. Conducting the saloon and gambling hall is Joe Nagle. His devoted slave, who is also his faro dealer, is "Blootch" White. He is much attached to Lottie Nagle, who bears the surname of the saloon-keeper by courtesy only.

The Valyez family, the newest arrivals in the little town, are a source of interest to all; the girl, Nita, whose Mexican father is dead, has inherited a great many of his traits. Carlos, a gambler and a bully, is enamored of the girl. His passionate wooing almost wins her, but at the last moment her contrary nature causes her to turn upon him with angry vehemence.

Carlos, angered, returns to the saloon. He starts drinking, and before long he is shooting up the place. He is arrested by Jim, who imposes a fine or imprisonment for a year. Carlos is forced to accept the latter alternative. When Nita hears of this, she hastens to the saloon and soundly berates Jim, who has just received word that the nearest town across the border had become infested with the plague. Joe Nagle gives Nita the money to pay the fine of Carlos, thus thinking to win her heart.

Lottie jealously watches this, and later overhears Joe telling "Blootch" to "get Carlos." She warns Carlos and gives him a gun. She has seen the notice of the plague and conceals it so that it does not become public. When "Blootch" accuses Carlos of cheating, the latter kills the faro dealer. Then Lottie whispers to him to take his horse and Nita and go across the border, though she knows she is sending them to brave infection.

Carlos goes to the cabin of Nita, telling her that he has killed the faro dealer and that they must flee; but at the last moment she does not want to leave her mother. While they are arguing, Big Jim raps upon the door. Nita hides Carlos in a closet. Then Jim plays upon her jealousy and intimates that Carlos has been having an affair with another girl. She grasps Jim's gun and shoots toward the closet, but on the instant is sorry for her act. Jim, realizing that she loves Carlos, goes outside. When Nita opens the closet she finds it empty, as Carlos has escaped through the thatched roof.

As Jim is waiting outside, Carlos sneaks along the roof and shoots him. Then he rushes down to Nita and, with sheer force, compels the fainting girl to accompany him. They have just gone when her mother returns, and bandages Jim's wound. Though weak from loss of blood, he takes up the pursuit of Carlos and Nita.

When he arrives, after a day's pursuit, he finds Carlos dying a victim of the plague, while Nita is caring for him. Thinking that she loves the Mexican, Jim leaves for the border, but before he has gone far he falls from his horse, where he is found later by Nita, who has come to seek him, realizing that she loves him.

A CHILD OF MYSTERY (Five Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Carlotta (Gertrude Selby); Guiseppe (Thomas Jefferson); Tom (Paul Byron); Michael Gavotti (Alfred Allen); Judge Andrews (Mark Fenton); His Wife (Nanine Wright); Tony (Hobart Henley). Story by Willard Mack. Produced by Hobart Henley.

Carlotta lives with Guiseppe a violinist, in "Little Italy," the Italian quarter of a great city. With Rags, a monkey, they earn a livelihood playing on the streets. One day Tom, a wealthy chap, is attracted to the girl and asks her to dance at a charity ball, giving her his card and the date. But Guiseppe drags the girl away. Tom and his friend follow them home, but they are seen by Guiseppe, who tells Michael Gavotti, a leader of Black Handers, and his master. Gavotti threatens Guiseppe if he allows Tom to see the girl again. He also tells two of his men to watch the place.

While Guiseppe is absent, Tom appears and persuades Carlotta to come to the charity dance. He is seen by Tony, a fruit vender, in love with Carlotta, and jealous of her. Gavotti's men also see him and are ordered to abduct the girl. Guiseppe returns, finds her gone and informs Tony. The two are heart-broken. Tony learns that Carlotta is not Guiseppe's daughter.

Guiseppe happens to see the monkey, "Rags," near a building and with the aid of Tony he manages to rescue the girl. It is the night of the Charity Ball and Carlotta pleads to be allowed to go and finally Guiseppe consents, if Tony accompanies her.

Judge Andrews and his wife have received word from the Black Handers that their granddaughter, held in custody, would be returned upon receipt of a sum of money. Their daughter ran away with an Italian count, and, dying, had left the granddaughter in care of an Italian friend, the father having died some time before. On the night of the charity dance the Black Hand promised to return the girl. Andrews attends the ball, intending to slip away at the appointed time.

When Gavotti cannot find the girl, he goes with his men to Guiseppe's room, where they find the old man packing. Not until after they have tortured him does he reveal that Carlotta has gone to the charity ball, where the Judge and his wife are startled by her resemblance to their daughter. Carlotta goes into the garden and is abducted by Gavotti. Tom, Tony and the Judge take up the chase, which ends in Gavotti's quarters. Most of the gang, including Gavotti, are killed.

The Judge and Tom take the girl home. Mrs. Andrews is overjoyed at having Carlotta safe. She marries Tom. On her return from the honeymoon she seeks out Guiseppe and Tony, who rejoice with her.

Mutual Film Corporation

GAUMONT.

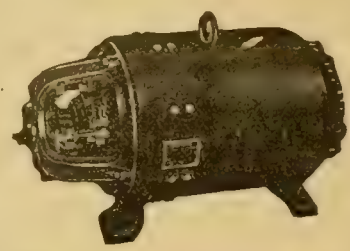
SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 64 (Nov. 29).—This release shows scenes in and around Mount Hood, the highest peak in Oregon. The pictures show general views of the mountain, Govern-

HALLBERG

Is the Foremost Projection Expert for M. P. Theatres!

HIS LATEST

20th CENTURY



Motor Generator

HAS NO COMPETITOR!!

Mr. Nelson, of Millbank, S. D., "is tickled to death" with his Hallberg 20th Century!

THE BENTLEY GRAND THEATRE
J. J. Nelson, Prop.
MILLBANK, SOUTH DAKOTA,
May 18th, 1916.

J. H. HALLBERG,
New York City.

Dear Sir:
Kindly use your own judgment and send me 100 ¾x12" Cored Carbons; I want a good article.
I am still tickled to death that I bought your A. C. to D. C. 20th CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR. It is fine and I have never had one minute's trouble with it since I have had it.
Respectfully yours,
(Signed) J. J. NELSON.

I am distributor for all makes moving picture machines.

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-Page Catalogue, send 25 Cents.

I EQUIP THEATRES COMPLETELY AND CARRY "SPEER" AND OTHER MAKE CARBONS AND SUPPLIES.

Send $2.50 for latest Operators' Book. "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY"

J. H. HALLBERG

7th Ave. at 49th Street
NEW YORK, N. Y.

Member Nat. Asso. Motion Picture Industry.

ment Camp, the glaciers, the ice cascades of Zigzag glacier, Reed glacier, the Crater, Crater Rock, and a general panorama from the summit, showing the sun shining on the snow and the rugged peaks to the south while in the north the lowering clouds show where a storm is gathering. On the same reel is a Shadowgraph entitled, "Haystack Horace, or a Knight of the Road," drawn by Harry Palmer, who created Gaumont's Kartoon Komics. The Shadowgraph replaces the Kartoon Komic in this issue.

SEE AMERICA FIRST NO. 65 (Dec. 6).—The primitive beauty of the Appallachian mountains is responsible for this issue of "See America First." The New River of West Virginia is also shown. The river itself is a mountain stream that winds through the southern part of the state, joining the Greenbriar at the town of Bellepoint. While the mountains lack the rugged grandeur of those of the far west, they have a distinctive individuality and charm which is well brought out in the pictures.

Sandstone Falls and the New River canyon are among the views which are particularly attractive. McKinley rock, which bears a striking resemblance to the profile of the martyred president, is a natural curiosity of more than passing interest. There are pictures of villages and mountain cabins which given one a good idea of the life of the mountain folk.

The Thanksgiving season having called attention to the Pilgrim Fathers, Cartoonist Harry Palmer takes "Our Fathers" as the subject for his Kartoon Komic on the reel with the West Virginia scenic.

SEE AMERICA FIRST (Dec. 13).—The beautiful city that stands between Los Angeles and the foot of Mount Lowe is shown in this issue. It is the City of Pasadena, Cal., known as "The City of Roses." The architecture of the residences has been largely influenced by the Spanish occupation, and the semi-tropical climate is responsible for additional charm.

Among the places of interest shown in this number are Busch Gardens, celebrated Orange Grove avenue, Santa Rosa driveway, and the bridge over Arroyo Seco.

On the same reel is a series of Kartoon Komics drawn by Harry Palmer.

REEL LIFE NO. 30 (Nov. 26).—The first views in this number shows "Gathering Cacao in Brazil. It is from the bean of the cacao tree that cocoa is made. The pictures include views of the trees and pods from which the beans are extracted. The transportation of the beans upon the backs of oxen, the process of fermentation and the roasting to remove bitterness, and the final packing for shipment are some of the entertaining steps shown by the camera.

"Taps," one of the dances which fashion promises to make popular this season, is demonstrated by G. Hepburn Wilson, supreme master of the dancing organization known as the Inner Circle. The dance is a series of pretty steps to a fox trot tempo. The steps are shown in rotation upon the completion of the dance, thus enabling spectators to learn them merely by observation.

Away from the sea-coast a sea food little known is the scallop. This is pictured in this issue of "Reel Life" to acquaint spectators with the fact that it ranks among gourmets as a delicacy equal to the shrimp, the lobster, the crab and the oyster.

The fourth section of the reel is a series of charts which show in graphic fashion the percentage of accidents of various kinds in 100,000 such mishaps.

Upon these 100,000 accidents insurance companies paid out seven and one-half million dollars.

REEL LIFE NO. 31 (Dec. 3).—First we see "An Air Car for Passengers," an illuminating glimpse into the near future. It shows one of the new heavier-than-air machines designed to carry passengers.

G. Hepburn Wilson, supreme master of the dancing masters' order known as the Inner Circle, demonstrates the Biltmore Waltz with a partner. This is one of the season's popular dances and is given to the country through "Reel Life." The various steps of the dance are also shown in order on the screen.

Carrying out the magazine idea, a new department of interest, particularly to women, is introduced in this issue. This is called "Modish Coiffures," and shows how women can dress their hair to best advantage. The desire to make the demonstrations authoritative brought to the Gaumont studio Louis Skala, the artist hair dresser of the Fifth avenue parlors of A. Simonson. One of his subjects is none other than pretty Phoebe Brewster, the charming young model used so frequently by Harrison Fisher.

The poor and friendless prune of two years ago has come into its own. It is now a lordly aristocrat of the table and boarding house jokes about it are things of the past. Pictures of the industry in California are shown in this issue. There are also graphic animated drawings of the poisonous activities of the disease-carrying house-fly.

REEL LIFE, NO. 32 (Dec. 10).—The first section shows the olive industry in California. The second section is a practical demonstration of how "Good Teeth Mean Good Health." Miss Phoebe Brewster, the Harrison Fisher model, is a bewitching sight as she shows how the teeth should be brushed to promote health.

"Turpentine from Waste Timber" shows the new method in the South of blasting the stumps of pine trees, clearing the land at the same time the resinous wood is made available. The fourth section is a demonstration of the Two Two, one of the season's latest dances by G. Hepburn Wilson.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 5 (Dec. 5).—One of the most celebrated tunnels in the world is that used by the railway through the Alps, from Switzerland to Italy, known as the St. Gothard Tunnel. A Gaumont cameraman has followed this twisting, turning railway line and pictured the magnificent views one obtains from the train window, as well as many pictures of the railway itself. Since practically everyone is acquainted with this celebrated feat of mountain engineering, the picture will make a popular appeal none can resist. The tunnel, begun in 1872, required eight years to complete. It cost $11,350,000 to build. It is 9¼ miles in length.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 6 (Dec. 12).—From the dawn of history the Nile River has been a highway of commerce serving Egypt; also as the great fertilizing medium. The Gaumont Company sent a cameraman up the Nile from Cairo to catch for the screen scenes of historic and pictorial interest. The views shown include the Boulacq Bridge at Cairo, typical villages upon the bank of the river, pumps for the irrigation canals, Assiut, the largest town in the Nile valley south of Cairo, the town of Luxor, and the dam and locks at Esna.

Another entertaining series of views on the same reel is of Carcassonne, the old French feudal town known to Americans because of the universal appeal of the poem which voices the regret of the aged peasant that he has never seen Carcassonne. There are views of the inner and outer walls, the former built by the Visigoths in the sixth century and the latter by Louis IX about the middle of the thirteenth century. Two city gates are shown, both built in the thirteenth century. The towers upon the walls have large space in this section of the reel.

Lake Lucerne, Switzerland's most beautiful body of water, is the third section of this issue. The city of Lucerne is shown, as well as Brunnen on the Bay of Uri. There are pictures of the chapel built where William Tell is said to have escaped from the Austrian soldiers, and of the statue erected where the hero was ordered to shoot the apple from the head of his son

THE VAMPIRES (Episode Six—"Satanas"—Three Parts—Dec. 28).—The cast: Philip Guard (Edmond Mathe); Normandin (Marcel Levesque); Satanas (Henri Leubas); Irma Vep (Juliet Musidora); Erique Moreno (Jacques Hermann).

After Moreno had caused the death of the Grand Vampire by having had Irma Vep shoot him while in a hynotic trance, he thought that he was free of the Vampires. He had come to love the girl, and it was a distinct shock to him to receive a message that ordered him to report with Irma to the new head of the Vampires, Satanas. He refused and at the hour given dined in a prominent cafe. Satanas used his wonderful pneumatic cannon to demonstrate his power, and shot through the ceiling of the cafe. Moreno and Irma escape, but accept the warning and call the next day to listen to what Satanas has to demand of them.

The Vampires attempt to kill Normandin, using two pretty women and a man to trap him. The assistant of Philip Guard, the Mondial reporter who is pursuing the Vampires, managed to escape them. He sees a man's feet projecting from beneath a heavy portiere and fires through the drapery. Fortunately, the man is sitting down, for he is Philip himself who has put the three Vampires to flight while Normandin is out of the room.

Satanas orders Moreno, if he values his life, to rob George Baldwin, a rich American from Chicago. With the aid of Irma Vep, the new Vampire recruit develops a novel swindle. Baldwin can only speak a few words of French. These are recorded on a phonograph and spoken into the telephone to a bank cashier when a young woman presents a check signed by Baldwin. The cashier thinks the transaction is correct and pays the money to a Vampire.

Satanas has used this method of binding Moreno to the band, presenting him with all the money which he had secured by the trick. However, he does not reckon with Philip Guard.

(Continued on page 2012.)

You Are Planning For a Happy and Even More Prosperous New Year

If your business is the exhibition of motion pictures, you can guarantee yourself a fuller measure of prosperity by installing a

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN

Perhaps you have always meant to insure that faultless projection, which you know the RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN alone makes possible, but have merely put off the day for making the change. The beginning of a new year is a splendid time to put your long deferred plans into operation.

And, remember, we sell not only projection screens, but what is more important, Screen Service. We'll make everything as easy for you as it can possibly be made.

Write Us Today for Price and Detailed Information

Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc.

LEON SCHLESINGER, Gen'l. Mgr.

220 W. 42d St. New York City

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending December 30, 1916 and January 6, 1917

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See See Pages 2022, 2024, 2026, 2028.)

General Film Company

Current Releases

MONDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1916. (Serial No.)

SELIG—The Golden Thought (Two parts—Drama).. 21567-68
VITAGRAPH—A Journey to Nowhere (Comedy)....
—Some of Our Biggest Star Performers (Comedy) 21569
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Topical)..... 21570
BIOGRAPH—Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Dr.) 21571

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1916.

ESSANAY—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama) 21572-73
KALEM—The Quest of the Golden Goat (Comedy) 21574

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1916.

ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21 (Cartoon-Comedy) 21575
—Lake Tahoe, California (Scenic)..... 21575
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—A Financial Frenzy (Comedy) 21576
KALEM—No release this day.
BIOGRAPH—The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama) 21579-80

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1916.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Topical)..... 21581
VIM—Fat and Fickle (Comedy)..... 21582

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1916.

KALEM—A Mission of State (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama) 21583
VITAGRAPH—The Luck Charm (No. 2 of "The Dangers of Doris") (Comedy)..... 21584
VIM—Before the Show (Comedy)..... 21585

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1916.

ESSANAY—Wife in Sunshine (Third of "Is Marriage Sacred?") (Two parts—Drama)..... 21586-87
KALEM—A Race With Death (No. 112 of "The Hazards of Helen" (Drama) 21588
SELIG—The Right Hand Path (Drama)..... 21589

General Film Company

Advance Releases

MONDAY JANUARY 1, 1917.

SELIG—On Italy's Firing (Three parts—Drama).
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 105 (Topical).
VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Girl God Made for Jones (Comedy-Drama).
KALEM—That Terrible Tenderfoot (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1917.

ESSANAY—A Dollar Down (Comedy.
—Yosemite Valley (Scenic).
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Title not reported.
KALEM—The False Prophet (No. 21 of "The Girl From Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1917.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 106 (Topical).
VIM—Title not reported.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1917.

KALEM—The House of Secrets (No. 12 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
VITAGRAPH—Title not reported.
VIM—Title not reported.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1917.

ESSANAY—When the Man Speaks (Drama).
KALEM—The Mogue Mountain Mystery (No. 113 of "The Hazards of Helen") (Drama).
SELIG—In Payment of the Past (Drama).

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

STATE RIGHTS BUYERS

ONE ROUND O'BRIEN

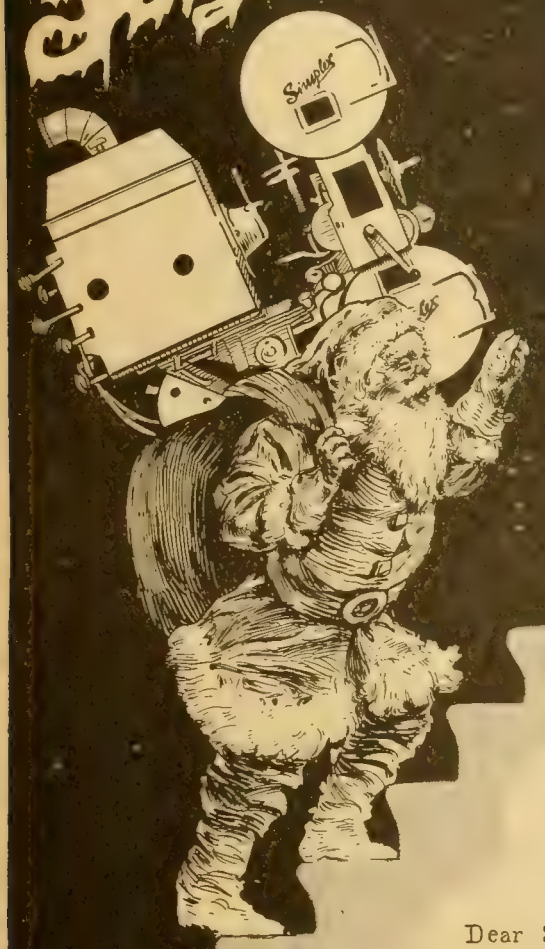
The funniest half reel comedy produced
Directed by Mack Sennett

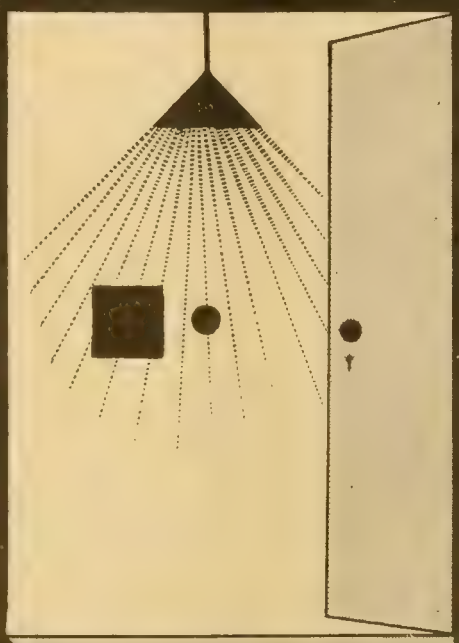
From the Popular Magazine story The Supreme Bumper's Degree by Charles E. Van Loan

Refer all inquiries to BIOGRAPH COMPANY
796 East 176th Street, New York City, N. Y.

HERE'S WHERE I INSTALL A

Simplex





THE REASON

NEW ERA THEATRE
SATISFACTION
N. Y.

Dear Santa:

I have cleaned out my old equipment and want to start 1917 right.

I'm leaving it up to you - so go ahead.

Remember, however, the thousands to whom you will bring pleasure by giving me the best.

Very Sincerely,

D. M. Progressive

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending December 30, 1916 and January 6, 1917

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 2022, 2024, 2026, 2028.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

(Serial No.)

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1916.

REX—Mr. Vampire (Special Release) (Two parts—Drama) 02025
POWERS—Nervy Nat Has His Fortune Told (Cartoon Comedy), and In the Heart of India as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational)..... 02026
IMP—The Woman Who Learned (Special Release) (Two parts—Drama) 02027

MONDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—Liberty No. 19, An Avenging Angel (Two parts—Drama) 02028
RED FEATHER—A Child of Mystery (Five parts—Drama) 02029
NESTOR—Pretty Babay (Comedy) 02030

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—Birds of a Feather (Three parts—Dr.) 02031
POWERS—Such Is Life in Alaska (Hy Mayer Travelogue) 02032

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1916.

LAEMMLE—Stronger Than Steel (Two parts—Drama) 02033
L-KO—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy)..... 02034
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 52 (Topical).. 02035

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1916.

VICTOR—Good Morning Judge (Two parts—Com.). 02036
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No release this day.
BIG U—Special release. Title not yet decided..... 02037

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1916.

IMP—Toto of the By-Ways (Two parts—Drama).... 02038
REX—No regular Rex this day.
L-KO—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy)..... 02039
REX—Special release. Title not yet decided..... 02040

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1916.

BISON—Giant Powder (Two parts—Drama)..... 02041
LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy)..... 02042
LAEMMLE—Special release. Title not yet decided.. 02043

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1916.

REX—The Prodigal Daughter (Drama)..... 02044
IMP—No release this week.
POWERS—Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Cartoon-Comedy) 02045
BIG U—Special Release—Title not yet reported.... 02046
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—Liberty No. 20, "A Daughter of the U. S. A. " (Two parts—Dr.) 02047

MONDAY, JANUARY 1, 1917.

RED FEATHER—Polly Put the Kittle On (Five parts—Drama) 02049
NESTOR—Practice What You Preach (Comedy).... 02050

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1917.

GOLD SEAL—An Old Soldier's Romance (Three parts—Drama) 02051
VICTOR—Bombs and Banknotes (Comedy)..... 02052

(Serial No.)

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1917.

LAEMMLE—No regular Laemmle this day.
L-KO—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy) 02053
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 53 (Topical).. 02054
LAEMMLE—Alone in the World (Special release—Drama) 02055

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1917.

REX—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama)..... 02056
BIG U—No regular Big U this day.
POWERS—No regular Powers this day.
BIG U—The Uprising (Special Release—Drama).... 02057

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1917.

IMP—The Moral Right (Two parts—Drama)..... 02058
UNIVERSAL—Screen Magazine No. 4 (Topical).... 02059
VICTOR—How to Be Happy Though Married (Com.) 02060

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1917.

BISON—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama)..... 02061
LAEMMLE—No Laemmle this day.
JOKER—Love in Suspense (Comedy)..... 02062
REX—Special Release—Title not yet decided..... 02063

Mutual Film Corporation

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1916.

VOGUE—Fickle All Around (Two Parts—Drama).. 05243-44
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 34 (Mutual Film Mag.).. 05245

MONDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1916.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Innocence of Lizette (American)—Five parts—Dr.—No. 162).
MUTUAL—Indiscretion (Two parts—Drama)..... 05246-47

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1916.

GAUMONT—Mutual Tours Around the World (The Theve River, France, Florence, In the Swiss Alps—Travel) 05248

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1916.

MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 104 (Topical)..... 05249
GAUMONT—See America First (Scenic).....
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy) 05250

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1916.

MUTUAL—Peter's Perfect Photoplay (Comedy).... 05251

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1916.

MUTUAL—Title Not Reported 05252

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1916.

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY—Grimsey the Bellhop (Comedy) 05253

If It's Saleable Among Motion Picture People

The Quickest and Easiest Way to Find a Buyer Is to

ADVERTISE IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Circulation Plus the Confidence and Esteem of Those Among Whom It Circulates

Makes the Moving Picture World the Best Advertising "Buy" in Its Field

Rates and Detailed Information Cheerfully Sent Upon Request

Economy!

It Is Poor Economy and Bad Management to Maintain a Beautiful Theatre and Have The Pictures Improperly Projected.

SPEER CARBONS

The Much Needed Improvement Can Be Made With

Any Desired Combination Can Be Effected.

Trade Mark

Solid, Cored and Metal Coated Carbons

The Speer "Hold-Ark" Carbons Assure A Steady Light and Prevent The Wandering of The Arc.

Constructed With A Hard Core and Metal Coated, The "Hold-Ark" Is The Ideal Lower Carbon.

SPEER CARBONS ARE SOLD BY THE LEADING MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY HOUSES

"The Carbons That Are Guaranteed"

MANUFACTURED BY

SPEER CARBON CO.

Dept. "W"

ST. MARYS, PA.

(Continued from Page 2007.)

Guard gets on the trail of the swindlers and forces the woman who received the money from the bank to send for Moreno and Irma. The couple are thus captured by the police.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

THE TWINKLER (Five Parts—Dec. 18).—Bob Stephany, "The Twinkler," is completing a long stretch in prison. He has saved the life of Old Doc, in charge of the dynamo room, and the old man promises to repay Bob, should the opportunity present itself. Bob's fiancee, Rose Burke, whose father, Daddy Burke, has a prison record, comes to visit Bob. She tells him she has but one dream, and that comes to her every night. She pictures Bob in a responsible position, and their living in a vine-clad cottage. Bob is won over by the idea and promises to go "straight."

Freed from prison, "The Twinkler" sets about to get honest work. A crooked detective discovers him and he is forced to submit to blackmail, rather than lose his job. The chief, Boss Corregan, meets Rose and makes advances to her. At the Political Ball he annoys the girl and Bob comes to her rescue. Daddy Burke, Rose and Bob disappear. The next day, Corregan tells Bob to send for Rose to come to his office, because he wishes to apologize to her. Bob suspects that Corregan has designs on Rose and tells her to bring his revolver with her.

Corregan has Bob jailed on a false charge, and when Rose comes to his office she is greeted by Boss, who takes her into his arms. In the struggle which ensues, Rose fires Bob's revolver, and Daddy, who is at the window, also fires a shot and runs away. The police arrive at the scene and find Corregan dead and Rose in a faint. Rose is held for the murder and Bob is released. He is unable to find Daddy and resorts to stealing to secure the money to fight for Rose's freedom. However, Rose is sentenced to execution.

On the day before Rose's scheduled execution Bob meets Daddy Burke. The old man has been seriously injured and when told of Rose's predicament confesses that he was responsible for the fatal shot. Bob hurries to the Governor with Daddy's signed statement. The Governor sends his secretary to the prison with a pardon for Rose. Bob boards a train for the prison city. A fearful storm comes up and all telegraph and telephone communication is cut off. Bob sees a well groomed man displaying a wallet and he cannot resist the temptation to steal it. He escapes from the train and finds his way to a deserted cabin. Here he opens the wallet and to his horror discovers that he has robbed the Governor's secretary and has Rose's pardon in his possession.

Realizing that all communication is cut off, Bob hurries to a nearby town. Here he sees a train and boards it. He arrives at the prison an hour after the time set for Rose's electrocution. There he learns that Old Doc, who has learned of "The Rose's" identity, has been the means of saving her life. He had placed a file in the dynamo and when the switch was turned on, the armature had burned out and it was necessary to send to another town for a new one. "The Twinkler" makes a clean breast of his guilt and produces Rose's pardon. The prison officials agree to forget the incident and set both Bob and Rose free. Old Doc smilingly watches them go.

CHAPLIN-MUTUAL.

THE RINK (Two Parts—Dec. 11).—In the Oskaspeil cafe Chaplin continually shows his disregard for the head chef by throwing him down and knocking him about unmercifully. Chaplin manages to get himself involved in a dozen difficult situations from which he extricates himself with his usual ingenuity. At one moment he appears to be cornered by an indignant husband with whose wife he has been conducting a flagrant flirtation, but the next instant the indignant hubby is hors du combat.

Then there is always Edna to be looked out for. Charlie's sweetheart resents, as always, his flirtatious attitude toward her sex in general and pursues him like a faithful but indignant fiancee, mollified as usual after the offender has been brought to book by his magnetic smile and bland, childlike surrender to her demands.

Edan's flirtation with "old man" Campbell, a giddy old chap of the skating rialto, is countered by Chaplin with an affair involving Campbell's wife, which in the long run gets him mobbed. Probably the best comedy in the play is that presented in Chaplin's efforts as a waiter. His progress between the tables with a tray is one long succession of disasters in which soup invades the decollette of feminine diners and full dress shirts become vivid futurist fantasies done to tomato sauce and mustard pickles.

Everybody knows that Chaplin's feet are the funniest facts about Chaplin. Well, Charlie's feet with roller-skates on them are funnier feet than ever. The skates Chaplin has to wear in order to make them fit his exaggerated shoes, have to be at least eight sizes too big for Charlie, but that doesn't make a bit of difference to so expert a skater as he.

MUTUAL.

ONE DOLLAR, PLEASE (Dec. 16).—Johnny Cooper, assistant dancing instructor at the Cafe Bovine, wakes with a toothache, and at his solicitation of his wife, he visits a "painless" dentist. He is treated with gas and he passes into a land of sweet dreams.

On the street he picks up a racing chart and decides to play the ponies. At the track he places a large-sized roll on Ignatz, a hundred-to-one shot, and Ignatz wins by a nose. Johnny's luck holds good. With the proceeds of his racing venture, he buys a country home and hires a retinue of servants. Disguised as a foreign nobleman and accompanied by his servants in livery, he visits Dutch Lick Spring's largest gambling house and creates quite a sensation. He piles a stack of blues on the wheel and fortune favors him. He pyramids his winnings on the lucky number, wins and breaks the bank.

"Who are you" cries the croupier and the assembled "guests."

"Johnny Cooper, The Tango King," answers our hero.

Enjoying his hour of triumph, Johnny settles back in his chair. The scene fades and Johnny finds himself back in the dentist's office, with Dr. Jerkem before him holding a large molar.

"One dollar, please," hints the Doc., and Johnny reluctantly hands him three quarters, three nickles and a Canadian dime, and sadly pockets his remaining seven cents.

BUDDY'S CHRISTMAS (Two Parts—Dec. 18).—At the "Terrible" mission in the Ragged mountains, the deaconess learns that there will be no Christmas gifts for the children this year and so closes the mission, leaving a Santa Claus suit behind her. Claude Marvin, the last of the Marvins, has but one object in life, and that is to revenge his family on the Sydna clan. The bundle containing the Santa Claus suit is found by Marvin and he takes it to his cabin. Marvin tells the Sydnas that he is going to take Judith Sydna, the beauty of the clan, and marry her so that she will bear him sons to settle the feud. The Sydnas' vow to kill Marvin and swear that if they do not kill him before Christmas they are not fit to carry on the feud and will drop it.

The night before Christmas, a little mountain boy is driven out of the county poor house and starts towards Marvin's cabin. Marvin has managed to kidnap Judith, and they are quarreling when the little lad falls exhausted into Marvin's cabin. The feud is forgotten and the young people set to work to revive the lad. Judith leaves for her cabin. Christmas. Marvin dons the Santa Claus suit for the little boy, and knowing that the Sydnas are having a Christmas tree decides to go there and get some presents. He arrives just in time to save Judith's life, and when the Sydnas raise their guns to shoot him, the girl reminds them of their vows and she turns and kisses Claude.

VOGUE.

FICKLE ALL AROUND (Two Parts—Dec. 24).—The cast: The New Husband (Rube Miller); The New Wife (Dorothy Armstrong); The Old Husband (Larry Boues); The Old Wife (Lillian Hamilton).

Larry and his wife Lillian conduct a candy shop. Dorothy, who has just married Rube, but who keeps her marriage a secret so she can hold her job, works in the store. Rube meets Larry and the two become friends. Larry's wife continually asks him for money, but he refuses her. One day she decides to do some vampiring. She meets Rube and tells him she will give him a kiss for $100. Rube borrows the money of the candy man. He gives Lillian the money

She does not give him a kiss, but does buy herself an expensive coat and Rube a watch and chain. Rube, to avert suspicion, has the watch sent to him, supposedly from a man friend, while Lillian pawns the coat and gives Larry the ticket, telling him she found it and to see if it is for anything valuable. Larry gets the coat and gives it to Dorothy. She meets the messenger with the watch for Rube and sends it to Larry. Things begin to get mixed up; the girls are mixed up in a quarrel in the shop, the boys in the factory, and then the girls get mixed up with the policemen who come to arrest the men.

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS (Chapter 7—Two Parts—Dec. 4).—Agents of Holmes discover that Helen has been sent to Portal to get the first fifty thousand dollars of the promised cash and they at once take measures to rob her of the money. Meantime the hundreds of independent woodsmen at work in the northern camps are reduced to a state of semi-starvation because of the refusal of the Holmes railway managers to ship supplies to the camp. When at last it is made apparent to Holmes that the supplies will have to be shipped or that he will become answerable to the courts for violation of the interstate commerce law, it is decided to destroy the bridge so that there may appear an adequate reason for the refusal to forward the ordered shipments.

While Helen is on her way back to Glacier with the bag of money one of Holmes' emissaries wrecks and sets fire to the caboose on which she is riding and makes off with the bag of money. Helen and Tom trail the gang, and while Tom is gone to secure police assistance Helen is set upon by the ruffians and dragged into an old building. While she is struggling in the grasp of the men who are trying to bind her, Tom Dawson smashes through a window followed by the police and the gang is locked up, Helen recovering the cash intact.

It is then decided to make the run to Glacier by auto in order to evade further plots, and while Helen is driving the machine along a mountain road with Tom in the seat beside her, they are passed by the runaway car of dynamite, crashing its way toward the bridge. Helen at once throws in the high and there begins a chase between the dynamite car and the fast automobile that brings the audience to its feet several times. There are several occasions when the plunging freight car and the motor are but a few feet apart. At last Helen begins gaining on the freight car, and when the level crossing comes in sight she has perhaps two hundred yards in the clear. She drives the motor on to the crossing and with Dawson dragging her along, runs for cover.

When the dynamite car hits the auto and explodes, thus saving the bridge, the air is filled with fragments of all sorts. One of the end gates of the freight car appears to be sailing straight for the auditorium, while automobile wheels and sections of the machine body hurtle through the air in all directions. A thrill in the picture is the spectacle of the Limited train rushing along through the passes of the Yosemite directly toward the car of dynamite which is hurling itself down the grade. Holmes, the millionaire, his son, whose life had been saved by Helen on a previous occasion, and officials of the lumber trust are shown on the train laying their plots in the observation car.

When the passenger stops with the pilot of the engine a foot away from the wreckage left by the dynamite explosion, Holmes and his cohorts are the first to disembark and thank Helen for her heroic conduct. After the track is cleared Helen and Tom board the passenger and are whirled to their destination, where an ovation awaits the young heroine.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS (Chapter 9—Two Parts—Dec. 18).—Discovery, in the wreckage of her collapsed cabin, of "Dollar" Holmes' first wife, who quickly dies, reveals that Helen is the legal daughter of the millionaire lumber pirate, and that he is unlawfully wedded to his second wife. The dying woman writes a note to Dawson senior, with whom she had been living since the day twenty years ago, when she was supposedly drowned. In the note she reveals Helen's parentage. The startling missive demands that the girl share equally with Stephen, Holmes' grown son by his second wife.

Helen, Stepuen and Dawson are dumbfounded upon reading the note. Dawson hastens with the note to Holmes, who calmly reads and burns it. "Dollar" Holmes' swift and devious brain now rings an al rm to him that Dawson

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES

Five Thousand..... $1.25
Ten Thousand..... 2.50
Fifteen Thousand..... 3.75
Twenty-five Thousand..... 5.50
Fifty Thousand..... 7.50
One Hundred Thousand..... 10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

and the girl will attempt to establish proof of her parentage through the marriage license book in the county courthouse. So he orders two of his personal crooks to burglarize the building on a holiday and steal the book.

Helen meanwhile has moved from her former habitation in the woods to the lumbering town, and taken a room across from the courthouse. Holmes' crooks jimmy a courthouse window and gain entrance to the office of the clerk. Tom Dawson, forgetting it is a holiday and the building closed, goes to the courthouse to get a certified copy of the record of Helen's birth. Through the open window Holmes' crooks see him approach, and decide to impersonate employes of the county clerk. At Tom's demand they produce the book of marriage records, and a short search reveals the truth of her mother's deathbed note: she is indeed the lawful daughter of "Dollar" Holmes. Dawson asks for a certified copy of the record, and the crooks make it out.

Holmes' burglars steal the book and escape through the window. They hand it over to Bill Behrens, Holmes' crook-in-chief, at a cabin in the woods and tell him about having given Dawson a certified copy of the record. Discerning Tom not far from the cabin, they overpower and bind him and carry him to an adjacent shack, where they take the record from him and tear it in pieces. Tom is then bound and dragged to a nearby railway embankment and tossed over it. The crooks disperse.

Managing to free himself sufficiently to crawl up the embankment, Tom starts to cross the rails, when his foot entangles itself in a frog, and he is helpless and facing an oncoming express train which bears down on him at sixty miles an hour. Helen rescues him, and their real adventures begin. Helen engages in a fight, races in an automobile, a freight, leaps from the motor into a boxcar, encounters tramps, dives from the boxcar as it crosses a bridge into a river far below, and swims to shore—only to find that the certification had been written with an indelible pencil and the water has erased the words!

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PATHE NEWS NO. 99 (Dec. 9).

Marysville, Cal.—The largest dreadnaught gold dredger ever built is launched for use in the placer deposits of Yba County. Subtitle: A gold dredger in operation.

New York City.—James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany, returns to his post after a short vacation in this country, to resume his difficult and delicate duties. Subtitle: Mrs. Gerard accompanies the Ambassador on the Frederik VIII to continue her admirable work in aid of the war sufferers.

Oakland, Cal.—The rapid progress made in American animal breeding is strikingly presented by the exceptionally fine entries in country-wide Stock Shows. Subtitles: The largest turkey in the United States, weighing 68 pounds and a peacock of superb grandeur. Chicago's Stock Show produces an educated horse, manifesting an extensive knowledge of social requirements.

London, England.—David Lloyd George (center) ascends to the Premiership of Great Britain as the Coalition Cabinet breaks, resolved to vigorously wage the War to a victorious conclusion. Subtitle: Sir Herbert Asquith, forced to retire as the head of the Government as a result of general distrust of the Allies' stumbling campaign.

Rome, Italy.—Thousands participate in a great popular demonstration to voice their approval of the Government's declaration to continue the struggle for the Allies' cause.

On the Western Front.—Sir John French, until recently Commander-in-Chief of British forces in France visits one of the aviation camps. Subtitles: He is shown a new sky-rocket used by aviators for signalling movements of enemy troops. Reviewing a regiment of English troops before they leave for the trenches.

The Mexican Boarder.—An animated cartoon by Leighton Budd (magazine section).

Southport, N. C.—The menhaden fishing industry has taken a decided boom because of its valuable oil and fertilizer products, and lookouts of fishing smacks are constantly on the watch for schools of this fish. Subtitles: The net is spread around the school and then drawn towards the boat. An unexpected catch, a ninefoot shark.

Jersey City, N. J.—Railroad companies threaten another embargo, as hundreds of freight cars congest the terminals because of the lack of ships now aggravated by German submarine raids. Subtitle: Sailing vessels and all kinds of ships recruited to relieve the situation, vainly tackle America's huge exports.

San Diego, Cal.—The Twenty-first Regiment of the United States Infantry give proof of splendid organization in a Butts Manual Drill on the Plaza de Panama of the Exposition Grounds.

Washington, D. C.—In accordance with his usual custom, President Wilson journeys to the Capitol to deliver personally to Congress, convened in joint session, his message on the problems facing the Nation. Subtitles: Former Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan visits the White House to dine with the President. The Capitol is also besieged by one thousand Ohio Corn boys and girls who are touring the country.

PATHE NEWS, NO. 100 (Dec. 13).

New York City.—Ice skating promises to be a popular sport this winter and the fashionable Hotel Biltmore transforms its courtyard into a skating rink. Subtitle: Some fancy steps.

Teaneck, N. J.—Thousands of horses are being shipped every week to the Allied armies of Europe to replace the many that are being killed or wounded in the incessant fusiliade Subtitle: Mules also are in great demand.

New York City.—"Walk to Work" is the slogan of the Health Department's fresh air campaign, and several hundred students of the City College start an 8-mile hike to encourage the idea. Subtitle: Many women also seek to become regular hikers and march along.

London, England.—Sir William Dunn, the new Lord Mayor of the City, arrives in state at the Law Courts to review several regiments of English and Colonial troops. Subtitle: German Fokkers and guns recently captured are exhibited.

Madrid, Spain.—Accompanied by her Majesty the Queen and the Royal children, King Alphonso returns to his capital after a long absence.

Making Fat eople Thin (magazine section). As demonstrated by George Bothner. World's champion lightweight wrestler. Subtitles: With some persons weight increases despite the high cost of living and so Mr. Fat Man turns to modern methods to reduce corpulency. Begin with a few simple exercises which must be practiced daily. The exercises grow harder as you continue, but remember the goal. Heavyweights everywhere are now making a supreme effort for salvation.

San Diego, Cal.—Life of the Indians on their reservations is illustrated in the exhibition of the "Painted Desert" at the Exposition Grounds.

Washington, D. C.—The Council for National Defense, composed of Cabinet members and a Civilian Advisory Commission, meets to organize plans for co-ordination of all national activities in time of war.

Manistique, Mich.—Large numbers of evergreen trees are being gathered in preparation for the extraordinary demand of this popular Yuletide Season. Subtitles: Loading the trees on wagons for transportation through the forests. This boatload of evergreens will make many children happy.

The Fall of Bucharest (magazine section).—An Animated Map Illustrating the Teutonic Campaign against Roumania. Subtitles: The offensive against the latest Entente Ally begins on September 7, when Field Marshall Von Mackenson appears in Dobrudja. On November 7, General Von Falkenhayn crosses the Roumanian frontier through captured Transylvanian passes and marches down the Jiul valley towards Craiova. On November 24, a simultaneous attack from the North and South suddenly commences and Campolung and Islatz are captured the same day. The First Roumanian Army is defeated in the Battle of the Arges on December 3, and Bucharest is threatened from three sides. Then the whirlwind sweep starts toward the capital.

BOBBY BEAR—INVESTIGATOR—(Rolin—Dec. 17).

The antics and more sedate actions of a bear cub during a very busy day are beautifully photographed in Pathe color against an appropriate background.

SPANISH COSTUMES AND DANCES—(On same reel as foregoing).

National costumes and dances photographed against beautiful gardens in Spain's largest cities.

THE ROMANTIC JOURNEY (Gold Rooster—Five Parts—Dec. 24).—The cast: Peter (Wm. Courtenay); Ratoor (Macey Harlan); Cynthia (Alice Dovey); Broadhurst (Norman Thorp).

Peter, a social lion, suffering from ennui, visits a mysterious antique shop conducted by Ratoor, an east Indian, who has, through hypnotism, enslaved Cynthia, a beautiful young girl. Peter notices something wrong in the shop keeper's conduct and decides to investigate. Broadhurst, a millionaire, is in love with Cynthia through whom Ratoor plots to get his millions. Peter makes a nocturnal visit to the shop and, discovering Cynthia imprisoned, tries unsuccessfully to liberate her. Ratoor, dominating Cynthia, compels her to accept Broadhursts proposal and a weeding day is set.

After the ceremony, she warns him against Ratoor and begs him to leave for his own safety. Broadhurst refuses, and keeping Ratoor, who has discovered their abode, under surveillance, arrives too late to save Broadhurst, and he, himself, narrowly escapes from being thrown into the river by Ratoor's henchman. Cynthia, failing by a ruse, to outwit her former master, is again in his clutches.

Peter, still dubious, visits the shop of Ratoor, who, suspecting that he is watched, decides to make an end of Cynthia, who has transferred her husband's property to him. Concealed, Peter sees Ratoor and his gang disappear with Cynthia in the direction of the cemetary. The scoundrels, frightened by uncanny noises, forsake the half-swooning Cynthia who is rescued by Peter following in the darkness.

THE SHIELDING SHADOW (Episode No. 13, "The Hidden Menace"—Two Parts—Dec. 24).—Sebastian who has stolen the Vanishing Mantle from Ravengar, keeps the latter an invisible prisoner and with his own invisibility becomes a hidden and much feared menace.

Sebastian seeks the bottle of black pellets which he has lost and wherein lies the substance of invisibility. It is found by some youngsters, and Pat McGuire, a husky Irishman, prevents them from eating them just as Leontine, also in search of it, arrives upon the scene. While they are talking, an invisible hand tries to snatch it from them, but the Irishman is a match even for an invisible foe. Leontine offers him a large sum of money to guard it for her, and from that time on McGuire meets the uncanny antagonist at every turn. Finally, after a desperate struggle, the bottle is lost in the water, when he falls from a bridge.

Sebastian goes to Ravengar's laboratory to get the scientist's diary and finds Leontine there

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00

EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00

SIX MONTHS $1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....

.....

.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

ahead of him. Securing it, he locks her in and sets the place on fire. Meanwhile Ravengar, short circuiting an electric bell wire with his feet, calls assistance, gains his freedom, and rushing to the burning building, arrives just in time to save Leontine from a terrible death.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (Episode No. 4, "War Clouds"—Two Parts—Dec. 24).—In the first reel, the mysterious hand manipulates the ropes of a huge tent which falls and enmeshes the government officials, just as the stolen defense plans are almost in their grasp. In the second reel, the Silent Menace invades a government building and we see Pearl's heroic hand-to-hand battle with him in the tower and her hair-breadth escape by hanging on the parapet till help arrives.

AGAINST HEAVY ODDS (Reissue—Two Parts—Pathe—Dec. 24).—A drama of the West telling the story of a man's struggle in a man's world, and showing how he achieves the success he deserves.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 11 ("A Day of Sport"—Pathe—Dec. 24).—A number of fashions, showing scenes of the hunt and the country club. We rise at dawn and follow the hounds in a fox chase. Then follows a morning on the golf links showing costumes in keeping with that sport.

YOUNG FUR-BEARING ANIMALS (On Same Reel as Foregoing).—Cunning lion cubs, fox and other offspring of furred animals in great variety photographed in Pathe-color in their native haunts.

THE SHIELDING SHADOW (Episode No. 14, "Absolute Black"— Two Parts—Dec. 31).—Sebastian, gaining possession of Ravengar's secret power—the mysterious mantle, black pellets, and the scientist's diary—takes refuge in the house of Whitey Wang, a denizen of the underworld.

Whitey reports the approach of Ravengar. Sebastian, confident of the powers of his invisible mantle, has no fear of him and remains in the room. But he relies on it once too often, for the mantle's composition without reinforcement from the solution made from the black pellets, the secret of which only Ravengar knows, refuses to work. Ravengar, surmising what has happened, pretends that he cannot see the crouched figure and quickly taking the key, locks the door on the outside and gets two policemen.

With characteristic daring, Sebastian climbs up a flimsy water spout to the roof, and over the house tops a wild chase follows. Like an animal at bay and fighting like a madman, he throws one of his pursuers to his death on the pavement below and escapes.

Whitey, who has been given the pellets and mantle for safe keeping, proves a poor custodian, and through Leontine, Ravengar regains them. She then presses him to explain the source of his mystic powers and Ravengar reveals the secret of "Absolute Black." Suddenly they have an interruption and both turn to face Sebastian with reinforcements. A fight ensues, during which a false wig and moustache fall from Ravengar and Leontine makes a startling discovery.

PEARL OF THE ARMY (Episode No. 5, "Some Where in Grenada"—Two Parts—Dec. 31).—The Silent Menace orders a copy of the stolen plans, slightly altered, returned, to prevent the government discovering their loss Pearl, recognizing the Alliance's messenger, leaps on him as he is departing in an auto for the Capitol. In the struggle, Pearl gets the plans, but falls uninjured from the machine. T. O. Adams meets Col. Dare to join the engineering corps just as Pearl rushes in with the recovered plans. Suspecting Adams, she privately relates to her father how she secured them. Adams, in the next room, overhears this and manages, while being sworn in as Col. Dare's orderly, to steal the plans from his pocket.

Col. Dare, ordered to the Grenadian frontier, establishes headquarters at Paso Del Norte. Bertha Bonn, determined to prevent Brent from marrying Pearl, arrives also. Brent is mysteriously warned that the only way to gain Bertha's silence is to send Pearl, with Adams' belt, containing the precious document, to a designated place. Brent inveigles Pearl to go there by telling her that in this way she may get a clue to prove Payne's innocence.

The Menace orders Bolero, a Grenadian confererate of the Alliance, to storm the town. In the melee Pearl and Adams are taken, as prisoners, to an underground cell connected by a secret passage with his headquarters. The Del Norte water works are wrecked by shell fire, which floods the cell. While the fight between the Grenadians and Americans continues fiercely overhead, the water rises higher and higher on Pearl and Adams below. A bursting shell makes a hole in the ceiling, through which they make their escape.

JOY AND THE DRAGON (Gold Rooster—Five Parts—Dec. 31).—The cast: The wee survivor (Baby Marie Osborne) · Hal Lewis (Henry King); the matron (Mollie McConnell); Slinky Joe (J. Cullen Landis). Written by Will M. Ritchey.

Some fishermen find, lashed to a frail raft, a wee survivor of a ship that hit a mine, "My name is Joy," she said, "Mama's joy—and Papa jus' fell in with the fishes and aint back yet." The fishermen take Joy and the curious oriental casket clutched in her chubby hands to the Haven Orphanage. The institution proves to be a haven for other thinks than orphans, for its heads are a clever gang of crooks, who, with criminal cleverness, have recognized an orphan asylum as the last place the police would suspect.

Joy tells them the way her mother showed her how to punch the dragon's eye on the casket and open a drawer with "pretty stones." The secret drawer reveals a small fortune in gems to the crooks' eyes. Joy, to keep from telling others, is kept a prisoner, but manages to escape in a large baker's bread hamper about to be shipped.

Suffering only minor bumps caused by the train's jolts, she arrives in a mining camp. There she brings a ray of sunshine into the life of a man struggling to forget his past and start his life anew, who adopts her and eventually through the child's influence returns to his home where a welcome and a forgiveness await him. Later he finds the thieves who took Joy's "pretty stones," and recovering them, breaks up the gang, Joy rewarding her adopted daddy by faithfully promising him "when I get big, I'll be your best sweetheart."

Miscellaneous Subjects

UNICORN FILM SERVICE.

JIMMIE DALE, ALIAS, THE GREY SEAL (Fifth Episode, "The Fight for Honor"—Two Parts—Jan. 1.—Henri La Salle, pretended uncle of Marie La Salle, in order to get her out of the way so that he might inherit the La Salle fortune, offers Morarity, keeper of a dive, $5,000 for her detention. Morarity, through the Gopher, an underworld character, gets Marie in his dive and sends for La Salle and the head of the Crime Club—"The Women in Black."

Jimmie Dale, the Grey Seal, is ordered by "Le Tocsin" to save the District Attorney's daughter, who has been abducted by a released convict, Skipper Jack. He is given instructions as to how he can reach the house wherein she is kept. Dorning the disguise of the Grey Seal, he enters the dive of Morarity, not knowing that Marie is there. He releases the District Attorney's daughter, and leaves her where she is found by the police.

Finding Marie bound and helpless, he so makes his escape that the police are let through the room she is in. The police release her and then set out in pursuit of the Grey Seal. They only come across Larry the Bat, who in fact is Jimmie Dale in his underworld disguise. Not recognizing him and taking it for granted that he in his apparent doped condition, could not have been the Grey Seal, the Secret Service men give up the search.

JIMMIE DALE, ALIAS, THE GREY SEAL (Sixth Episode, "Below the Dead Line"—Jan. 8—Two Parts).—Warned by "Le Tocsin" that Skeeters, a diamond thief, was that night about to steal the diamonds of Luddy, a pushcart man, Jimmie Dale, as the Grey Seal sneaks below the Dead Line to save the poor dealer. He arrives in time to get the jewels before Skeeters

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby Display Frames
304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

in a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate .....$5.00 each

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player .....75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.
220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK
12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Quality means EVANS means Perfection
We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People
Developing and Printing ONLY
EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY
Telephone—6881 Audubon
416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

gets them and to escape. Skeeters and his confederates recognizing the work of the Grey Seal are eager to get the rewards offered for him, making a concerted effort to capture him. He eludes them, and once well away from them sends a note to the Chief of Police, telling him that the jewels can be found under Luddy's pillow. The police arrive to see if the note sent by the Grey Seal is true, and are just in time to make a round-up of a long wanted set of diamond thieves.

HIS MARRIED LIFE (Billy West Comedy—Dec. 1).—Billy West is a "much married benedick." His sufferings under the iron hand of his suffrage spouse form the theme of this picture. Billy is seen in the throes of wash day, but finally makes his escape, and becomes enmeshed by the charms of a beautiful heiress. His dawn of love is rudely interrupted, however, when his wife hits his trail, and Billy is ignominiously dragged by the left ear to his matrimonial troubles.

BOARDERS AND BOMBS (Billy West Comedy—Dec. 8).—In this picture the agile Billy becomes the star boarder of a fashionable refractory, and in so doing attracts eye of the landlady's daughter. His popularity with the belle of the house excites envy of the other boarders, and a black-hand plot is formed by which Billy will be transferred to "Kingdom Come" via the "Bomb Route." In the meantime his credit being exhausted, Billy is compelled to work in the kitchen. This proving extremely irksome, he engages in a scrap with the chef, and the outcome of the bomb plot is a triumph for Billy, although the boarding house suffers considerably.

HIS WAITING CAREER—(Billy West Comedy—Dec. 15).—Billy once more lands in a sea of trouble through no fault of his own. As a garcon Billy proves to be an all-around dishwasher and juggler. The food he serves seldom reaches the table of the guests of the restaurant in which he is employed. By various mischances he becomes contraband while en route from the kitchen to the dining room. The unfortunate once more makes deadly enemies who conceive a fiendish plot to remove him from the scene of his misdirected activities. Once more, however, William proves more than a match for his foes, although "His Married Life" ends in the sanctuary of the kitchen stove.

PARAMOUNT.

OLIVER TWIST (Lasky—Five Parts—Dec. 11).—The cast: Oliver Twist (Marie Doro); Bill Sikes (Hobart Bosworth); Fagin (Tully Marshall); The Artful Dodger (Raymond Hatton); Mr. Brownlow (James Neill); Nancy (Elsie Jane Wilson); Mr. Bumble (Harry Rattenbury); Monks (Carl Stockdale); Charles Dickens (W. S. Van Dyke).

Little Oliver Twist, of uncertain antecedents, born in a workhouse, grows up in environments of squalor and penury. The fare of the workhouse for the children is very thin, consisting of a diet of weak gruel, with an onion twice a week and half a roll on Sunday. Finally the outcast plucks up courage enough to ask for more. Immediately the building tumbles about him. Bumble calls in the Supervising Board and Oliver is condemned to the cellar. He finally manages to escape by climbing out of the window. He starts on a long walk to London, meets in with the Artful Dodger and is taken to Fagin's garret, where he is taught the art of thievery. In the meantime Brownlow, a friend of Oliver's dead father, has been commissioned to find him.

Monks, a former servant of Oliver's father, finally traces the boy to the workhouse, but finds that he has fled. Oliver, out on a pocket-picking expedition with the Artful Dodger, is captured by Brownlow. After taking him to the police station, Brownlow decides to take him home. The Dodger rushes back and tells Fagin, Sikes and Nancy that Oliver has been arrested, but at the police station Nancy can not find where he has gone. Monks finally traces the boy to Fagin's, and all of them, anxious for the fortune, search for him.

Oliver has improved under Brownlow's loving hands, but when sent on an errand he is captured by Sikes and made to assist in a burglary. But once in the house, he notifies the inmates and Sikes and his men have to flee. Mr. Brownlow finds him and later meets Monks, whom he forces to confess that Oliver is the young man for whom he is in search. Oliver is kidnapped again and hidden in a cellar, but Nancy informs Brownlow of his whereabouts Fagin and the Dodger are arrested, but Sikes flees, and just after he kills Nancy for telling of Oliver's whereabouts, he falls from the roof while dodging the police. Oliver is returned to Mr. Brownlow and learns that his real name is Master George Laeford, and Oliver, after all of his troubles, comes into his own.

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN (Famous Players—Five Parts—Dec. 18).—The cast: Bob Blake (Frank McIntyre); Beth Elliott (Doris Kenyon); Franklin Royce (Harry Northrup); Mrs. Babbitt (Julia Stuart). Martin Drury (Russell Bassett); Julius, the porter (Harry Blakemore); Watts (James O'Neill, Jr.).

Because a Pullman porter fails to eject him from his berth in the morning, Bob Blake, a traveling salesman, is carried past his station on Christmas morning, and finds himself in Grand Cross. The most interesting sight in that town is the pretty face that smiles at Blake through the window of the telegraph office at the station. Blake is rotund, jovial and trustworthy in appearance, and it is not long before he melts the natural reserve of Beth Elliott.

During the course of an impromptu luncheon in the station, Blake learns that Beth's old home is to be sold for taxes on the following day. He later gathers the information from Beth's friend, Mrs. Babbitt, that the girl has been allowing a Mrs. Stratton to live in the house without paying her any rent ever since the woman had her little store sold over her head by Martin Drury, the local capitalist.

By this time Blake has become deeply interested in Beth and through the medium of a poker game and many applications of "Scotch tea," learns that Royce, a henchman of Drury's, is going to buy in the Elliott place because Drury has a tip that the railroad is going to want the property and that it can be sold for a high price. His antagonism to Royce is heightened by a spice of jealousy—for Royce makes love to Beth openly.

Discovering that Royce is to start to drive for the county seat very early in the morning, Blake has one of his friends put him to bed, and then gets into the rig in his place. Royce, awakening from the effects of too much "tea," makes a violent dash for the livery stable and finds a small car there which he appropriates and starts in pursuit of Blake. There is a wild race in which the car is overturned and Blake succeeds in reaching the court house in time to pay up the taxes in Beth's name.

Beaten at this game, Royce returns at once and tells Beth that her drummer friend has attempted to steal her property from her, and then persuades her to sell the property to him for $5,000. The girl accepts the check and then Blake dashes in to explain the whole affair, and tears up the check. But Royce has one more trump card—he gets Beth out to the Elliott place alone, and, locking the doors, declares that he will not let her go until she accepts the check. After a desperate struggle with Royce, Blake succeeds in freeing the girl and all ends happily.

THE RIGHT DIRECTION (Morosco-Pallas—Five Parts—Dec. 21).—The cast: Polly Eccles (Vivian Martin); Kirk Drummond (Colin Chase); John Drummond (Herbert Standing); Big Bill (Alfred Hollingsworth); Harry Lockwood (Billy Mason); Billy Boy (Baby Jack White).

Polly Eccles, a waif of the New York slums, has important responsibilities thrown upon her shoulders at an age when the average girl still feels that her doll requires her attention. When Polly's drunken father is taken away by the police as a result of the death of her invalid mother, she becomes the sole arbiter of not only her own destiny, but that of "Billy Boy," her sick baby brother, as well.

The charity doctor suggests a change of climate for "Billy Boy" and advises little Polly that California would be the proper place for him. However, Polly and "Billy Boy" are in New York with little means of traveling to any other place. Determined to save Billy, the little waif sells such furnishings as her flat still holds and with her baby brother comfortably installed in a dilapidated baby carriage piled high with pans, pots and other supplies, she is ready to set out for her destination. However, her great worry is to get started in the right direction. Finally in reply to her query a surprised stranger indicates the direction of California, and the "little mother" loses no time in getting under way.

They are hardly outside the city when the front axle of the baby carriage breaks. As Polly

STUDIO

For sale on easy terms or for rent at reasonable price

SPLENDIDLY LOCATED, with full equipment of lights, modern dressing rooms, paint dock, carpenter shop, prop rooms, etc., all steam heated.

During the year past Wm. Fox produced the following features at this studio: "A Fool's Revenge," "The Siren," "Slander," "Tortured Heart," "The Straight Way," "Jealousy," "The Vixen."

For full particulars address

KALEM COMPANY

235 W. 23rd Street, New York City

A Seeburg Pipe Organ

will solve your music problems.

J. P. SEEBURG PIANO CO.

Republic Building, Chicago

The Automatic Ticket Selling and Cash Register Co.

MANUFACTURERS OF

AUTOMATICKET MACHINES

and all kinds of Theatre Tickets

USED UNIVERSALLY

1735 BROADWAY N. Y. CITY

Will you give one family A MERRY XMAS DINNER?

We are but your agents—you are the host.

300,000 poor people cheered last Xmas in the U. S. by The Salvation Army.

Help us in this way to get close to these people. Give them at least one happy day in the year.

$2.00 Feeds a Family of Five

Send Donations to Commander Miss Booth

118 West Fourteenth Street, New York City

Western Dept., Comm. Estill, 108 N. Dearborn St., Chicago

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS

1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

is trying to repair the axle with a piece of string an automobile drives up and Kirk Drummond, son of a wealthy California mine owner, leaps out and assets her. The damage is soon repaired, and at the invitation of Kirk, who is making an automobile tour to California, the little travelers are given a "lift" for some twenty miles nearer their goal. Kirk and Polly part the best of friends, the young man leaving her to meet his chum who is to make the transcontinental auto trip with him. Various amusing and exciting incidents happen to Polly while on her way to the West Coast, including an affair which involves a race between a freight train and Kirk's automobile. The rich man's son again comes to her rescue, which this time is a more serious affair, and saves her life as well as those of "Eilly Boy" and "Rags," a homeless hound which Polly had adopted on her trip.

Kirk, Polly, "Billy Boy" and "Rags" make the balance of the trip together, Kirk's chum having been called back to the bedside of his sick mother, and all finally arrive at their destination. Polly secures a job as waitress at the miners' boarding house owned by Kirk's father. The elder Drummond has had serious reports concerning his son's trip with a girl of the slums, which results in a heated argument between the two Drummonds. Kirk returns to college and due to his father's refusal to hear his explanation, their feelings become strained. Later John Drummond learns that Polly is in his own employ and discharges her. A strange surprise is in store for him, however, which results in a complete change of heart as far as Polly is concerned, and the sad departure from this earth of "Rags," who leaves in a "blaze of glory" while carrying away a stick of dynamite, which helps his mistress save the life of the mine owner. Kirk is also given a surprise when he returns from college and greets an extremely pretty Polly, a healthy "Billy Boy" and a changed father.

THEIR WEEK END (Black Diamond Comedy —Dec. 25).—The Duke of Ozskiopvitch is on his way to the country place of the Climbers to attend a week-end party. His roadster turns turtle and the Duke is knocked unconscious. One of the tires from the roadster rolls through the woods, where it lands around the necks of Box Car Bill and Journeying Jim, hoboes, who are taking a snooze under the trees. They rouse up, and following the path of the tire, come upon a view of the wrecked auto.

Two men passing in a touring car rush the Duke to a hospital. The hoboes find the Duke's trunk and dress themselves up in frock coats, high hats, etc. They discover in one of the pockets the Duke's invitation to the Climbers' week-end. A passing motorist offers them a lift, and lands them in front of the Climbers' estate.

Mrs. Climber and her guests are seated on the veranda awaiting the arrival of the guest of honor. Jim being in front, Mrs. Climber assumes that he is the Duke and greets him. Jim introduces Bill as his valet, and Bill and the butler take the trunk into the house while Jim makes a triumphal entry.

Attired in incongruous outing attire, the boys finally come down to the veranda. Bill picks out a pretty girl and proceeds to make love to her. When Jim sees this, he leaves the other guests, runs Bill out and takes his place on the bench. Bill sets a lawn sprinkler under the bench and turns on the water, breaking up the tete-a-tete. Jim goes in to change his clothes while Bill decides to take a drive.

He finds a horse and tries to harness it. The horse objects and kicks Bill up into the air. Jim, coming out of the house in dry clothes, sees Bill in the air, and running with a wheelbarrow, catches him just as he lands. Jim then finds another pretty girl and takes her for a walk by the fountain. Bill finds a fat girl in a swing and gallantly offers to swing her. In so doing his hat falls off, and in stooping to pick it up the fat girl hits him as she swings back and knocks him across the lawn to where Jim stands at the edge of the fountain. The girl saves Jim from falling in, and he thanks her profusely, but as he stoops to pick up a handkerchief, she knocks him in and falls in herself.

Both retire to the house for dry clothing, while Bill starts to fish in the fountain. Jim comes out in dry clothes again and Bill surprises him by hooking a fine bass. In swinging it out of the water he drops it into a bowl of punch that the butler is bringing out to the guests. Bill thinks he has caught a big fish, but as he holds it in his hand it shrinks down to a small minnow and Bill eats it whole.

He and Jim see a milk maid crossing the lawn and stop her. They tell her she is too pretty to work and that they "will gather the milk for her." They take the milk stool and pail from her and start toward the pasture. Arriving there they set the pail under the cow and wait for the milk to flow. As nothing is forthcoming, they try to seat the cow on the milk stool so that she will be more comfortable. They are interrupted in this by a calf, and as they try to tie the calf up it runs away from them, dragging them across the pasture. They grab onto a tree and the calf, swinging around them in a circle binds them to the tree. They are rescued by the milk-maid and start back to the house.

In crossing the lawn they are attracted by a gas-power lawnmower. Jim tries to run it and the mower runs away with him, mowing down trees and hedges, leaping over stables and stone walls, etc. Finally as the machine passes Bill, he grabs on to stop it, and he and Jim are dragged into the garage, where the mower plunges through a brick wall at the rear. The wall collapses upon them, and we leave them buried to the neck in bricks.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

PIDGIN ISLAND (Yorke Film Corporation—Five Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: John Cranford (Harold Lockwood); Diana Wynne (May Allison); Michael Smead (Doc Pomeroy Cannon); Donald, his son (Lester Cuneo); Uncle Billy (Fred Wilson); His Wife (Lillian Hayward); Lester (Elizah Zerr); Wah Sing (Yukio Avyoma). Scenario by Richard V. Spencer and Fred J. Balshofer. Directed by Fred J. Balshofer.

John Cranford, a secret agent of the United States Customs service, has succeeded in unearthing a gigantic smuggling plot. The operations of the smugglers range from contraband opium to diamonds. Opium is found and confiscated, and burned in the street as a warning against future law-breaking. The men who have been handling it are apprehended, but the "man higher up" remains shrouded in mystery, free to pursue his schemes, and it becomes the purpose of Cranford's life to bring him to justice.

To recuperate before entering upon his pursuit, John goes to the St. Lawrence river for a fishing trip. Expecting to hire his old friend and guide, "Uncle Billy," he is greatly disappointed at finding that worthy man's time engaged by a charming, mysterious young woman, who insists on fishing in the neighborhood of Pidgin Island. Diana Wynne, the girl in question, comes to Billy's boathouse while John is there, and Billy introduces them. They meet often, and John finds himself falling in love with Diana, but his curiosity is aroused by the air of mystery surrounding her, and he cannot understand her strange interest in the launches plying around the island.

To this region comes "the man higher up," Michael Smead, his son Donald and two accomplices, to operate a great smuggling deal on the Canadian border. John recognizes Smead, having previously blocked him in an attempt to smuggle many thousands of dollars worth of diamonds. Donald is a stranger to him, for he is new to the game. John, finding that his "vacation" has furnished him with the biggest job of his life, watches Smead closely. Complications arise from the fact that Diana also is a secret service agent, and she too is watching Smead's band. In so doing her actions arouse John's suspicion that she is in league with the band, and the two agents suspect each other.

One stormy evening Diana intercepts a telegram to Smead which reads: "Pidgin tonight at 8 without fail." She hastens to Uncle Billy, asking him to take her over to the island at once. They set out in the storm, much against the wishes of "Mr. Billy." John, coming directly afterwards, is told of their destination, and fearing for Diana's safety in the gathering storm forces young Lester, a guide, to take him in pursuit.

The storm rages in fury about both boats, and the waves run high. Smead's Canadian agents are in an aeroplane coming toward Pidgin. They are smuggling the gems, which are concealed in the hollow butts of two fishing poles, but the aeroplane is lost in the storm near Pidgin Lighthouse. Billy's boat is dashed to pieces on the reef and Billy and Diana are thrown into the water. They manage to reach an isolated rock, wreckage-washed, to which they cling in mom-

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

Developing and Printing
Fireproof Laboratory
SUPERIOR FILMS COMPANY
ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager
Entire 10th Floor
643 Olive Street, Los Angeles

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

Are You Tired
of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The Orpheum Collection
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:
No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.
Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6692

MAKE YOUR OWN CURRENT WITH A
Brush Electric Lighting Set
Send for 125-page catalogue with very complete information about electrical matters.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

entary fear of being washed shorewards, where the waves are smashing against the reef. Finally Diana is swept from the rock, and Cranford swims to her assistance. Lester, after a struggle, rescues Uncle Billy, and the keeper of the light on Pidgin Reef gives them all a shelter.

Next morning Cranford finds the Smead telegram in Diana's coatpocket, and with it a letter from the customs department establishing her identity. Diana surprises him going through her effects, but he convinces her that he too is a government agent. Uncle Billy finds the fishing rods on the island and brings them to the light house, where Cranford discovers their contents to be a fortune in pearls. He hastens to the village and arrests Smead, Donald and their accomplices almost before they know they are suspected.

When John proposes to Diana she refuses him, telling him she is the daughter of a criminal and the sister of a criminal. Smead is her father, and she has engaged in the service and come to Pidgin to try to prevent her brother from engaging in his father's scheme. But John Cranford refuses to take "No" as an answer, and the sincerity of his wooing wins him Diana's consent to become his wife.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

THE WITCHING HOUR (State Rights—Seven Parts—December).—The cast: Jack Brookfield (C. Aubrey Smith); Frank Hardmuth (Robert Conness); Clay Whipple (Jack Sherrill); Tom Denning (Freeman Barnes); Justice Prentice (Lewis Sealy); Lou Ellinger (William Eville); The Judge (Robert Ayerton); Helen Whipple (Marie Shotwell); Viola Campbell (Helen Arnold); Mrs. Campbell (Etta De Groff). Directed by George Irving. Scenario by Anthony Kelly.

Jack Brookfield, a famous gentleman gambler of Louisville, Ky., finds that he is possessed of remarkable psychic power. His intuition in card games and other games of chance seems to be the result of mental telepathy or mind-reading and his power over other men is a combination of hypnotism and will. He dominates everyone with whom he comes in contact. As a young man, Brookfield was deeply in love with Helen who answered his proposal with a request that he give her a written promise never to gamble again. Brookfield resented her distrust of him and they drifted apart. Years afterward, Brookfield, now conducting a famous gambling house to which only the wealthy come, finds that Helen, who has been married and is now a widow, is again in Louisville with her son Clay, a youth of twenty-one. Brookfield sees in the eyes of the boy the reflection of his mother, and his old love for the mother is awakened.

Brookfield gives a theater and supper party in honor of Helen's return to Louisville, and while the guests are enjoying themselves, one of the habitues of Brookfield's place intrudes and makes himself obnoxious to both the men and women of the party. He has been annoying Clay Whipple ever since Clay first came to Brookfield's gambling house, and the night of the party, this annoyance reaches its height.

For generations, the Whipple family has had a strange obsession in the form of a fear and unexplained dread of the sight of a cat's eye, and this fear is most marked in Clay. At the dinner party, Denning, the pest, is wearing a large cat's eye pin, and as he torments Clay, the boy's eyes fall upon the dreaded cat's eye. Immediately, he becomes half crazed but tries to control himself. Clay rushes from the room, only to be followed by the drunken, jeering Denning, who is bound that the boy shall look at the pin. Finally Clay, driven to desperation, picks up a heavy ivory tusk, which Brookfield uses for a paper cutter, and kills Denning.

One of the guests of the party is Frank Hardmuth, the District Attorney of Louisville, who is in love with Brookfield's niece, Viola Campbell. Hardmuth is jealous of Clay, who is the real object of Viola's affection. As a witness to the murder, Hardmuth sees a means of putting Clay out of the way and he conducts the trial himself, obtaining a verdict of Guilty, and a sentence of death. There seems to be no appeal from the verdict until Clay's mother is looking over some old letters finds one from George Prentice to her mother. George Prentice has become a justice of the Supreme Court of the U. S., and Helen goes with Brookfield to obtain Justice Prentice's help. The Justice agrees to be a witness for the defense. The Justice gives his testimony at the trial and then he and Brookfield, who has recognized in one of the jurors a mind susceptible to his telepathic powers, tries to project, by telepathy, the thought that Clay should be acquitted.

Frank Hardmuth, the prosecuting attorney, is now candidate for Governor and just before the first rtial, Hardmuth and his corrupt political associates had tried to murder the then Governor of the State, Scovill. Failing in the first attempt, Hardmuth had called at the gambling house where, sitting with Brookfield, discussing the attempt, Brookfield had thought of a way of killing Scovill, which thought was telepathetically transmitted to Hardmuth, and when the murder occurred in exactly the way that Brookfield had thought of he realized and felt that he was partially guilty. While he and Prentice are awaiting the verdict in the second trial, the actual murderer of Scovill, a broken-down gambler named Raynor, comes to Brookfield seeking information about Hardmuth. Brookfield's suspicions are aroused and through the force of will power and hypnotism, he makes Raynor confess that Hardmuth instigated the shooting. He then telephones the news to the papers, believing that the mental reaction in the minds of the people against Hardmuth will influence the jury in their verdict. This actually occurs and a verdict of "Not Guilty" is brought in.

Freed from the law, Clay is still afraid of the cat's eye, but Brookfield forces him to realize that it is a purely mental state of mind and makes him get the cat's eye pin and hold it before his eyes. And finally, to prove that Clay is entirely cured of that fear and also that he is not a coward, Brookfield sends him to Hardmuth's hiding place to bring Hardmuth back as he intends to help him escape, feeling that Hardmuth was more or less the victim of his telepathic suggestion. This, Clay does, and Viola realizes that her sweetheart is now worthy of her love. Brookfield promises Helen that he will quit his gambling and she accepts his word for it, and the old romance is completed.

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE NINETY AND NINE (Five Parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Ruth Blake (Lucille Lee Stewart); Tom Silverton (William Courtenay); Rachel Blake, her mother (Josepuine Lovett); Abner Blake, her father (Frank Currier); Buddy Bryson, half witted boy (William Lytell); Reddy Burton (William Dangman). Scenario written by Ramsey Morris. Directed by Ralph W. Ince.

Ruth Blake lives with her father and mother in Marlow, a small town in the West. To this town comes Tom Silverton from the city. He is always intoxicated, and Ruth sets to work to reform Tom. To Marlow comes Kate Van Dyke, a city girl, and her fiance. They stop at the Blake home. When Tom sees Kate there is mutual recognition, but when questioned both deny they have ever met one another before.

Tom starts to drink heavily again, and Ruth drags him out of the tavern one day and sends him home. Her father, infuriated, forbids her to ever see the man again. There is a big barn dance, and all go, except Ruth, who refuses to go because Tom has not been invited. Blake warns his daughter again if he ever sees Silverton in his house he will kill him. Tom comes to bid Ruth goodbye for he is going away. She makes a final plea with him to reform, and he promises to make one more effort. Spying on the two is Buddy Bryson, a half-witted boy in love with Ruth. He hurries to the barn dance and tells Abner that Tom is in the house. Abner comes back. Ruth, afraid of her father's wrath, persuades Tom to escape

WATCH FOR
E. & R.
Jungle Film Comedies
E. & R. JUNGLE FILM CO.
Los Angeles, Cal.

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Get acquainted with "FULCO"
The Department Store
MOVING PICTURE TRADE
MACHINES EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
Our catalog covers the line from A-Z
FUL.CO
E. E. FULTON COMPANY
152 W. Lake St. CHICAGO, ILL.

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
The Kinematograph Weekly
The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—
The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.
9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
FLICKERLESS
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

Minusa Gold Fibre Screens; Sanozone, the perfect deodorant; Power, Simplex and Baird Machines; Motor Generator Sets and General Supplies.
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

Expert Cameraman Furnished
CINEMA CAMERA CLUB
1006 Times Bldg. Phone: 6558 Bryant

via her bedroom window. Abner comes and she denies he has been there. He learns the truth and orders her from his home.

Tom goes to the next town, Cleves, and he is there but a short time when he hears that Ruth is stopping with her aunt there. To her he goes. He breaks down and reveals the mystery that has surrounded him. In New York he was in love with a beautiful girl—Kate Van Dyke. Her weak brother committed a murder, and she begets him to flee and take the blame, for if he did so she would join him later and marry him. He fled, but instead of joining him she becomes engaged to another. He sought consolation in drink. But he is free now for her brother died in a foreign country, and before he died he confessed his guilt.

In Marlow the people are suffering the most intense heat of the summer. A forest fire breaks out and the entire town is threatened. They summon help, but none can be secured. Ruth and Tom learn of the predicament of Marlow. They have been told there are freight cars there and all they need is an engine. Tom and Ruth secure an engine, and Tom drives through the raging forest fire and saves the population before the town is wiped out.

WORLD-PICTURES.

THE WORLD AGAINST HIM (Five parts—Dec. 25).—The cast: Mark West (E. K. Lincoln); Alice Ridgeway (June Elvidge); Ruth West (Ruth Findlay); Dr. Hamilton Welsh (John Sainpolis); Dr. Samuel Boyd (Fred Truesdell); Mrs. Cranby (Julia Stuart); Scar Face (Scar Face); Peblo (Nicholas Dunaew); Vivian Gould (Viola Benton); Ben Rodgers (Edward Borsin). Directed by Frank Crane.

Mark West, a young cowboy, worships his cripple sister Mary, his one desire being to make enough money to take her East, where he has been told she can be cured of her illness by an operation. One day, while acting as a guide to an eastern party, he meets and falls in love with Violet Ridgeway, a young society belle, but, realizing his responsibilities and the difference in their positions, he conceals his feelings. She toys with him as with her other admirers, lightly gives him a ring as a parting remembrance, and then forgets all about him. Upon her return to the East, she becomes engaged to Dr. Welsh, a famous surgeon.

At last West has accumulated the necessary amount and he and his sister come East. Dr. Hamilton and his co-worker, Dr. Boyd, are interested in an experiment which concerns the cutting of the spinal cord. Anxious to try their experiment on a human being, they willingly agree to take Mary's case. After an examination they are convinced that an operation is almost sure to prove fatal, but they decide to go through with it in order to test their theory. As they anticipated, Mary dies under the influence of the anaesthetic. The doctors cover up their work with a death certificate.

Seeing an opportunity for another experiment in the "interest of science," Dr. Boyd writes to Dr. Hamilton and through error the letter is placed in an envelope addressed to West. West, brooding over his sister's death, is horror-stricken when he receives the letter telling of the dastardly work of the noted surgeons. Seizing two pistols, he rushes to Dr. Boyd's office—facing the doctor, he tells him he has come to kill him, but will give him a better chance than was given to his little sister. In the struggle that ensues, Dr. Boyd is killed and West calmly gives himself up to the officers of the law.

Dr. Welsh leaves for the West to escape questioning and notoriety. While he is away, Violet Ridgeway's wealthy aunt dies, leaving all of her property to Violet on condition that the girl marry within three days. It is impossible for Dr. Welsh to return in time to fulfill the conditions of the will, and Violet in desperation consults the family attorney. As a last resort the attorney tells her about the convict West, who is to be hanged within a few days, and urges her to marry him merely as a matter of form—then after the execution she will be free to wed Dr. Welsh.

West is finally persuaded to submit to the ceremony. He is astonished to recognize in his bride the girl whom he loved, but Violet has forgotten all about her flirtation with him. On his return trip to the prison after the ceremony, West breaks away and escapes. Back in his shack in the Western country, he is greeted by his faithful Indian servant.

One day he reads in the paper that Violet, accompanied by her fiancee, Dr. Welsh, is on her way to Reno to obtain a divorce from her convict husband in order that she might marry Dr. Welsh. West determines to revenge himself on the man who helped kill his sister, and at the same time claim his wife for his own. Together with his Indian servant, he holds up the stage and bears Violet and Dr. Welsh away to his shack. The hold-up is witnessed by Peblo, a halfbreed.

Attracted to the girl by her good looks, Peblo determines to get her for himself. Pretending friendship, he lures her to his shack. She realizes all too late his intentions and fights desperately. Her strength exhausted, she is overcome and bound, but is rescued by West, who trailed Peblo. West and the girl finally reach his shack, closely followed by Peblo and his men, and then ensues a desperate battle. West is shot, but though wounded succeeds in killing Peblo and frightening off his comrades. Dr. Welsh acts the arrant coward, and only upon a threat from Violet does he consent to help the injured West.

As West gradually recovers from his wounds all the good of his nature comes to the surface. He tells Violet he is going to surrender himself to the authorities and begs her to return to civilization with his Indian guide, but Violet has come to love her husband and under pretense of giving him up to the sheriff, she leads him over the border line into Canada and safety

FOX FILM CORP.

THE VICTIM (Five Parts—Dec. 25).—Ruth Merrill is unjustly suspected of complicity with her father in the safeblowing attempt of which he is guilty. Ruth is arrested and jailed. After her release on parole, she meets Edna Boulden and her sweetheart, Roy Barker. Edna lives with her wealthy brother, Dr. Richard Boulden.

Although Ruth refuses to take money Edna offers her, she becomes so desperate later that she opens a woman's handbag in a store Ruth's conscience rebels, and she withdraws her hand—without the money. The woman detects her, but misunderstands. The girl flees, but sprains her ankle in running. She lies inert in the road as Dr. Boulden drives by. He places her in his auto, and takes her to his home. During her convalescence, he falls in love with her. Roy Barker, too, is infatuated with Ruth. As he tries to force his attentions upon her one day, Edna enters the room.

Roy explains by saying that Ruth was insulting Edna herself. Ruth is compelled to go, but a servant who overheard Barker, tells Boulden the truth. Boulden and Ruth marry. All goes well until old Merrill escapes from jail. Higgins, a detective, takes up the search. When he learns that Ruth Merrill is the wife of a rich man, he determines on blackmail. He threatens to expose her.

"Come tonight," she says. "I will get the money from the bank."

Merrill, still endeavoring to elude the police, comes to the Boulden home in the suburbs. He notices the detective as he enters. He recognizes the man as Higgins, and climbs through the window to investigate. He is almost frantic with rage as he discovers, from behind the portieres, that his own daughter is being blackmailed by the very officer who sent him to prison.

When Ruth leaves the room to get the bank-notes, he rushes out and faces Higgins. A fight follows. The detective is killed accidentally. Merrill, not knowing of the fatal outcome of the struggle, runs away, and Ruth is accused of murder.

While she is undergoing the third degree, her father takes refuge in a nearby barn, which a careless cigarette smoker sets afire. Merrill is injured so badly that only an immediate operation can save his life. Boulden, the nearest surgeon, is summoned, and when Merrill is well enough to talk, he tells the whole story, and Ruth is freed.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

CUPID'S UPPERCUT (Dec. 25).—The cast: The Girl (Betty Compson); Her Father (George French); The Boy (Neal Burns); His Father (Harry Rattenberry); Prof. Mixer (Dave Morris); The Cook (Stella Adams). Scenario written by William Rice. Directed by Horace Davey.

A stubborn carburetor brings Neal to the aid of Betty, and the attraction is mutual from the start. Meanwhile, their fathers meet elsewhere and find that they are old friends. Without consulting the young people, the fathers lay plans to have them marry. So fathers and children come to cross-purposes as always happens when a parent tries to guide or restrain young love.

Neal wishes to "queer" himself with the girl his father has picked out, so writes her a fresh note asking her to meet him in the park. She accepts and takes her cook as a substitute. But Neal has taken Prof. Mixer as his substitute, and the professor gets fresh with Betty, while the cook tries to make love to Neal. This of course, does not better the situation.

Betty goes home and reports that she has been insulted by "Neal," so her father says he will punish him. To get ready to do so, father calls in Prof. Mixer to give him boxing lessons. All this time the cook is pursuing Neal. Betty comes in, sees the professor and says that he is the one who got fresh. Just about this time the cook drags in Neal as per her instructions, with Neal's father close behind. "There's the man I want to marry," says Betty. "That's the man I picked for you," her father replies, and it takes only a minute for Neal and Betty to "get together," while father smiles wisely.

Powers 6B

We Equip Motion Picture Theatres Completely

Transverter

Projection Engineers

Such an organization as the P. T. E. Co. with its unbroken record of great projection achievements made in thousands of theatres, including some of the finest in our modern time, may fairly claim to possess expert knowledge in all matters relating to efficient and economical results in

PROJECTION ENGINEERING

The Knowledge is Yours to Command

WE ARE DISTRIBUTORS FOR NATIONAL AND SILVERTIP CARBONS

Send for Prices

PICTURE THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY

1604 BROADWAY at 49th Street NEW YORK

Member of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers

Simplex

Piteco Condensers Will Save You Money. Ask about them.

MINUSA

SCREENS "BUILT BY BRAINS"

Classified Advertisements

NOTE OUR NEW RATES

Remittances must accompany all orders as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

ATTENTION.

LOST moving picture manuscript entitled "Van Bibber," by Richard Harding Davis. Please return to John Wheeler, Inc., World Bldg., N. Y. City.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

AT LIBERTY after January 15th. Can prove qualifications as manager and publicity man. Exceptional experience to handle up-to-date proposition. G., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

ART DIRECTOR and technical expert at liberty. Nine years' experience, highest references. L., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

VIOLIN AND PIANO, man and wife, desires first-class motion picture engagement. Long experience, large library. Reference from last employer. Musician, Box 454, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

YOUNG MAN, executive, creative and forceful, desires change for position of unlimited possibilities. What can you offer? H. J. M., care M. P. World, Chicago, Ill.

MANAGER, young man, married, nine years managerial experience. Familiar with every angle of the business, nothing too large. Moderate salary. Excellent reference. G. E. Williams, Batavia, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

AGENCY WANTED—A well-known and credited commission house in Porto Rico (San Juan) would like to represent a first-class film manufacturer; our office in best city location, large rooms for projections and advertising. Address L. P. M., P. O. Box 234, San Juan, Porto Rico. Can furnish best bank references.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

WANT to buy moving picture house in southern Wisconsin, or northern Illinois. Address 112 East Main St., Stoughton, Wis.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR SALE—Biggest picture theater in Davenport, Iowa. Best equipment; over 800 seats; rent, $350. Will consider trade for theater in Illinois. Address, P. O. Box 401, Aurora, Ill.

PHOTOPLAY HOUSE located on the main street in a manufacturing town of about seventy thousand inhabitants. No previous experience necessary to conduct this wonderful money maker. Receipts for the last thirty days are as follows: 14, $162.45; 15, $129.20; 16, $201.70; 17, $160.20; 18, $156; 19, $162.10; 20, $159.80; 21, $195.80; 22, $82.60; 23, $88.20; 24, $86.40; 25, $89.10; 26, $86.35; 27, $74.05; 28, $92.25; 29, $78; 1, $87.25; 2, $87.10; 3, $92.85; 4, $113.15; 5, $74; 6, $114; 7, $153.30; 8, $92.15; 9, $76.70; 10, $88.85; 11, $104.80; 12, $90.30; 13, $149.45; 14, $128.20. Expenses from $50 to $75 a day (according to the show). Our client resides in Buffalo and is not able to look after same on account of the distance and trouble with managers and he has decided to place this wonderful money maker on the market, which is positively worth $15,000, for $6,500, $4,000 down, balance on time or $6,000 spot cash.

The following is a copy of a letter that was received in our office a few days ago and we believe that when you buy this moving picture house you will send us one like it: "Lewis Business & Real Estate Exchange, 580 Ellicott Square, Buffalo, N. Y. My dear Mr Lewis:—Your letter, asking me how I was getting along at hand. I intended answering it before but thought I would wait and see how the business would run. It is now just three weeks last night since we closed the deal on the Hippodrome Theater. My net profits have been so far a little over six hundred ($600.00) dollars, or an average of better than two hundred ($200.00) dollars per week. I am glad that I took your advice, and I will certainly at all times boost your business in my own home town, London, Ontario. When you are in Syracuse, please come and see me. I remain, yours sincerely, James Craig."
Lewis, the oldest established moving picture broker in New York State, offices, 578-580 Ellicott Square, Buffalo, N. Y.

WE CAN SELL your theater. Fifty theaters wanted at once for cash buyers. Any size, any location. We cannot supply the demand. We charge no advance fees. References—People's Bank of Buffalo. Send for terms, blanks, etc. Hunt Agency, 339 Brisbane Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WANTED all kinds of picture theater decoratings, large picture paintings, lobby and foyer decoratings, a "Publicity Ad. Clock," candy, gum and peanut coin machines, 22 in. seat covers, electric sign word "Majestic" and all kinds novelties for theater. Address Majestic, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

WANTED to buy National Ticket Register, also all kinds candy, gum or theater vending coin machines. Will exchange or sell good electric postal card camera. Address National, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—A quantity of Cutler Hammer grid type rheostats, 110 volts, adjustable 25 to 40 amperes. Usual price $30.00, for immediate shipment, $15.00 each, F. O. B. New York. Suitable for use with any projecting machine. Rheostat, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THE GOLD SCREEN—Seamless, 9x12, $27.00; 11x14, $38.50. Stretcher frame, $8.00 extra. You can't get better, why pay more? Sold on trial, guaranteed. Cox Scenic Co., Estherville, Iowa.

BARGAIN—For sale, electric light plant, 35 H. P. gas engine directly coupled to 22½ K. W. generator. Manufacturer guarantees good as new. Will sell very cheap if sold at once. Also one 40 H. P. directly coupled to 25 K. W. generator. Particularly desirable for theaters. Theater Supply Co., Akron, Ohio. Peo. 'Phone 1597. Bell 'Phone 1016.

WANTED—One exclusive theater in each community to install "Amberlux" lens filters. Price, including business getting slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. Six standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

OPERA CHAIRS, 3,000 slightly used, 50c up. 600 upholstered, $1.25. 500 maple folding chairs, 45c. Atlas Seating Co., 10 E. 43rd St., N. Y. City.

HAVE two brand new 1916 model Motiographs, never unpacked. Bargain to quick purchaser. Address M. Martin, 417 Orchard Ave., Bellevue, Pa.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessars, effects devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

FOR "Hoovercine" cameras and tripods; future cash deliveries only, address H. R. Hoover & Co., 229 West 42d St., N. Y. City.

KINOGRAPH, 200 foot, $60. Pittman, $90. Pittman Professional, 400 foot, all with F:3.5 lenses. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

DAVIDSTERN COMPANY, The Motion Picture Camera Clearing House, beg to announce that in addition to the "Davsco" motion picture camera, they are now the agents for the famous "Universal" camera for motion photography. The "Universal" needs no introduction. Write for special proposition. The "Universal" camera equipped with 50 M.M. Tessar lens F:3.5 complete with two aluminum magazines. Price $300. The "Davasco Kino" camera equipped with 50 M.M. Tessar lens F:3.5. Complete with two aluminum magazines. Price $110. Will ship C. O. D. privilege of examination on receipt of 25% deposit. Money refunded in full if not satisfactory. Largest selection of used motion picture cameras in the country. Telegraphic orders shipped same day received. Delivery guaranteed on time or we pay delivery charges. Write or wire today. Davidstern Co., 1047 R-W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. State price, etc., to A. B. C. Film Co., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID for film scrap, discarded reels of films and perforations. Ship to and write The Nickelsburg Brothers Company, Meadow St., Newark, N. J. Checks mailed on receipt of goods.

WANTED—Motion picture films of Hawaii, descriptive of volcanoes in action, scenic views, surf scenes, native life, sporting scenes, etc. Write what you have, condition of film, tinted or plain, number of feet and price per foot. Address, Leffingwell's Travel Talks, 931 Manadnock Block, Chicago, Ill.

"SPIRIT of the Conquerer." State price, condition, paper. What else have you? Peerless Film Co., 145 W. 45th St., N. Y. City.

WANTED to buy films of Alaska or Arctic scenes in good condition. Address Box 402, Kemerer, Wyo.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Used 3, 4 and 5 reel features in good condition. The Big A Film Corp., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

OVER SEAS BUYERS should communicate with me; second-hand American pictures at European prices. Donald Campbell, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

FEATURES for sale, 3, 4 and 5 reelers, all with paper, etc., reasonable. F. Moore, 92 Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

FOR SALE Photoplayer, first-class condition, used only a few months. Model No. 30. Cost $3,000. Fifty rolls of music. Will sell for $1,250, $250 cash. Balance $50 per month. A bargain. Address E. A. B., Box 593, Sacramento, Cal.

BARGAIN for quick sale. One Wurlitzer electric piano with flute and violin pipes and mandolin attachment. Slightly used. Particularly desirable for theaters. Theater Supply Co., Akron, Ohio. Peo. Phone 1597. Bell Phone 1016.

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

"Absolute Black (Pathe) 1972
Advertising for Exhibitors. 1951
Against Sunday Closing 1944
American Film Invasion of Brazil 1936
Among the Picture Theaters 1967
Artcraft Policy of One a Month 1939
Artistic Subtitles 1965
Atlanta Special Children's Shows 1936
At the Leading Picture Theaters 1945
"Awakening of Helena Ritchie, The" (Metro) 1975

Baltimore Censors Back and Fill 1980
Bend, Oregon New Theater 2002
Billington, Francelia Signed by Mutual 1939
Bleak Alaska Has Real Picture Showmen 1955
British Notes 1961
Buffalo Exchanges Organize 1995
Buffalo Screen Club Incorporates 1995

Calendar of Daily Program Releases 2008, 2010
Canada, for Longer Runs in 1980
Chicago News Letter 1946
"Child of Mystery, The" (Universal) 1974
Colorado Censorship Rampant 2001
Comments on the Films 1977

Darling, Grace, Reception in Toronto 1989
Dovey, Alice 1936
Dressler, Maria, to Play for Mutual 1941
Drews at Columbia, The 1945

Essanay Buys Cohan Hits 1942

Facts and Comments 1931
Farrar, Geraldine As Joan of Arc 1944
Fichtenberg Discusses Trade Development 1993
"Foolish Virgin, The" (Selznick) 1975
Foreign Market Good 1963

Glover, Gertrude 1945
Goldwyn Gets Big Playwrights 1943

Hermann, Jacques 1940

Indianapolis Arrests Wholesale 1999
International Film Service Banned 1988
International Two Years Old 1942
Ivan's Past Performances 1944

"Joy and the Dragon" (Pathe) 1972
"Just a Song at Twilight" (Dixie) 1975

Kansas City, Censorship Stirs 1998
Kleine Enthusiastic Over 1917 Outlook 1940

List of Current Film Release Dates, ...2022, 2024, 2026, 2028
Louisville, the Week in 1993
"Love Thief, The" (Fox) 1975

McClure Pictures Publicity 1942
Manufacturers' Advance Notes 1980
Mason, Shirley, McClure Pictures 1970
"Marriage a la Carte" (World) 1975
Memphis Lyceum a Loew House 1994
Michigan Convention 1937
More Harris Pictures Coming 1941
Motion Picture Educator 1964
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The 1937
Motion Pictures in Maritime Provinces 1960

New Color Process 1943
New Jersey Exhibitors to Dance 1937
New Paramount Exchange Manager 1969
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity 1948
Ninety and Nine, The (Vitagraph) 1973
Northwest Exhibitors Meet 1938
Notes of the Trade 1986

Omaha New Theater With Inclined Auditorium 2000
"On the Brink of War" (Kalem) 1975

Paramount Gets Good Start 1970
Pennsylvania, New Building Code 1992
"People vs. John Doe," The (Universal) 1973
Perpetuating Ignorance 1932
Photoplaywright, The 1954
Picture Theaters Projected 1987
Pictures Aid Sunday Observance 1934
Plots and Portraits 1961
Projection Department 1955
Putting One Over on the Reviewer 1941

Reed, Violet, in Support of Petrova 1939
Reviews of Current Productions 1971
"Right Direction, The" (Pallas) 1972
"Right to Be Happy, The" (Bluebird) 1974

San Francisco, Downtown Growth 2001
"Sheep of Chelan" (Educational) 1965
Sherrill Tells His Plans 1943
Showing Pictures for a Living 1933
Shuman With Williamsons 1966
"Somewhere in Grenada" (Pathe) 1972
Southern Exhibitors to Organize 1937
Spokes from the Hub 1962
Springfield, Ill., Watching Censors 1997
Stories of the Films 2003
Sunday Question Abroad, The 1933
Swanson May Close Liberty 1969

Thanhouser Talks on Sunday Pictures 1934
These Exhibitors Want to Know 1938
"Tiger's Claws, The" (Kalem) 1975
To Oppose Missouri Tax 1939
"Traveling Salesman, The" (Famous Players) 1971
Trigger Sounds Warning 1939
"Truant Soul, The" (Essanay) 1971
"Truthful Tolliver" (Triangle) 1973

Unity's New Year Policies 1939

Washington, D. C., Film News from 1991
"Weaker Sex, The" (Triangle) 1974
Wells Takes Two Atlanta Theaters 1996
"World Against Him, The" (World) 1973
Wright, William in Jacksonville 1945

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.

Jones & Commack 2016
Speer Carbon Co 2011

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.

American Seating Co. 2029
Foco Chair Co. 2029
Steel Furniture Co 2029

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.

American Auto-Arc Co. 2030
Amusement Supply Co. 2025
Bell & Howell Co. 2021
Calehuff Supply Co. 2023
Fulton, E. E. 2017
Hallberg, J. H. 2006
Heiter Electrical Mfg Co 2030
Howard Ludwig Co. 2017
Northwestern Electric Co 1987
Picture Theater Equip Co. 2018
Porter, E. P. 2025
Strominger Chas. A 2016
Swaab, Lewis M 2017
Taylor Fan Co 2025

FILM EXCHANGES.

Paramount of W 2027
Universal F 2023

LENS MANUFACTURERS.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. 2030

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.

[illegible] 1896, 2000
[illegible] 1892
[illegible] 2008
[illegible] 1894
[illegible] 1910
[illegible] 1987

E. & R. Jungle Film Co. 2017
Essanay Film Mfg. Co. 1887, 1928
Fox Film Corp. 1911-13
Gaumont Co. 1907
Goldwyn Pictures Corp. 1902
Grafton Film Pub. Co. 2017
Kalem Co. 1930
K-E-S-E Service 1923-27
Kessel & Bauman 1920-21
Moss, B. S. 1914
Mutual Film Corp. ....Colored Insert, 1901-05
National Drama Corp. 2017
Paramount Pictures Corp. 1895-97
Rogers, Louis T. 1893
Selznick Lewis J., Enterprises 1908-09
Signal Film Corp. 1903
Triangle Film Corp. 1900-01
Unicorn Film Service 1919
Unity Sales Corp. 1915
Universal Film Mfg. Co. 1888-91
Vim Comedies 1929
Vogue Films, Inc. 1906
Warner Bros. 1922
What Becomes of the Children 1918
World Film Corp. 1916-17

MISCELLANEOUS.

Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co. 2015
Bioscope, The 2027
Cinema Camera Club 2017
Classified Advertisements 2019
Corcoran, A. J. 2017
Eastman Kodak Co 2025
Erbograph Co. 2016
Evans Film Mfg. Co. 2014
General Chemical Co. 2025
Gundy Bros 2030
Kalem Co. 2015
Kinematograph Weekly, The 2017
Kraus Mfg. Co. 2014
Marion, Louise M. 2027
Meade, Wm. N. 2029
Motion Picture Exhibitors' League 2016
Moving Picture World 2045
M. P. W. Circulation Coupon 2013, 2029
M. P. Directory Co. 2030
National Ticket Co. 2012
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co. 2016
Richardson, F. H. 2025
Richardson M. P. Handbook 2023
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co. 2027
Salvation Army Free Christmas Dinner 2015
Screencraft 2027
Standard M. P. Co. 2016
Superior Films, Inc. 2016
Tarr, H. 2023
Wayne M. P. Co. 2030
Willis & Inglis 2016

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.

Universal Camera Co. 2030

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

American Photo Player Co. 2029
Seeburg, J. P., Piano Co. 2015
Sinn, Clarence E. 2016

POSTERS AND FRAMES.

Menger & Ring. 2014

PROJECTION MACHINE COMPANIES.

American Standard M. P. Mch. Co. 2017
Enterprise Optical Mfg Co. 2047
Power, Nicholas, Co. 2048
Precision Mch. Co. 2009

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.

Atmospheric Screen Co. 2023
Genter, J. H. Co. 2025
Gold King Screen Co. 2030
Minusa Cine Products 2027
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc. 2007

STEREOPTICON SLIDES.

Houston Slide Co. 2023

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.

Decorators' Supply Co. 2027

TO THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY:

Congratulations upon the progress made during 1916!

The organization of the industry for the promotion of economy and efficiency in all departments—for the betterment of the relations between the various branches of the industry; and for defense from unjust attack is now assured.

Our appreciation of the orders which have come to us—from our old friends—as an evidence of their satisfaction; from new customers—as an evidence of their belief in the superiority of our product. Taken together these orders far exceed in volume those of other years.

OUR POLICY.—In the manufacture of motion picture machinery—to add to painstaking study and experiment in design, all the advantage which may be gained through the use of good materials—the application of skilled workmanship. To design and build for durability and efficiency in order that the high quality and great volume of the output may insure low manufacturing costs. To recognize that the machines used in the making and showing of motion pictures are interdependent and so to standardize our product by causing the gauge of film perforation established by our perforating machine to govern the specifications to which we construct the film movement mechanisms of camera and printer—the only effective way to secure the film control and accuracy of register in photography and printing which are necessary to the making of the finest pictures.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT.—We have completed the designing and development of certain machines which will greatly increase the efficiency of the manufacturing processes of the industry. Definite statements concerning them will be made early in 1917.

Other important developments are being carried forward as rapidly as is consistent with the high standard set for our product.

Contracts have been let and machinery ordered which will provide for a 50 per cent. increase in our manufacturing space and equipment.

A PLEDGE.—To use our best endeavors—to expend time, money and engineering skill—in the effort to keep our products abreast of the growing demands—the imperative needs of the industry. And when opportunity offers to point the way—to provide the means—to higher efficiency, greater economy and the production of more artistic pictures.

All this to the end that we may advance the interests of a great industry of which we are proud to be a part—that we may continue to deserve and enjoy the confidence and support of the men who are seeking to make that industry second to none in its character, its aims and its achievements.

BELL & HOWELL COMPANY

Standard Cinemachinery : Perforators : Cameras : Printers

1801-1807 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Illinois

New York Office and Display Rooms, 220 West 42nd Street

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 2008, 2010.)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem.

Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph.

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Dec. 5—A Bit of Human Driftwood (Two parts—Drama—Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 11—Her Sacrifice (Drama) (Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 13—The Honor of the Law (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph reissue).
Dec. 18—The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 19—His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).

ESSANAY.

Dec. 2—The Final Fraud (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 5—The Egg (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 6—A Waiting Game (Comedy).
Dec. 9—A Failure at Fifty (Three parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 13—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 20 (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Long Beach, Cal. (Scenic).
Dec. 16—Is Marriage Sacred? No 1, "The Burning Band" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 20—Taking the Count (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Dancing with Folly (2d of "Is Marriage Sacred?" —Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts Drama).
Dec. 27—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 21 (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 30—Wife in Sunshine (Third of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

Dec. 2—The Trial Run (No. 107 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).
Dec. 5.—Jailbirds (Comedy).
Dec. 6—The Poisoned Dart (No. 18 of the "Girl from 'Frisco" Series—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 8—The Trunk Mystery (No. 8 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Lineman's Peril (No. 109 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Icemen and the Artist (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The Stain of Chuckawalla (No. 19 of the "Girl from Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 15—The Menace (No. 9 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
Dec. 16—The Midnight Express (No. 110 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).
Dec. 19—The Fatal Violin (Comedy).
Dec. 20—On the Brink of War (No. 20 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Tiger's Claw (No. 10 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Vanishing Box Car (No. 111 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
Dec. 26—The Quest of the Golden Goat (Com.).
Dec. 29—A Mission of State (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Dec. 30—A Race With Death (No. 112 of "The Hazards of Helen" —Drama).

SELIG.

Nov. 20—The Selig-Tribune No. 93, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 23—The Selig-Tribune No. 94, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 25—Hedge of Heart's Desire (Comedy).
Nov. 27—Following the Flag (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Selig-Tribune No. 95, 1916 (Top.).
Nov. 30—The Selig-Tribune No. 96, 1916 (Top.).
Dec. 2—Mistakes Will Happen (Drama).
Dec. 4—The Brand of Cain (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 4—The Selig-Tribune, No. 97, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 7—The Selig-Tribune, No. 98, 1916 Topical).
Dec. 9—The Purchase Price (Drama).
Dec. 11—Twisted Trails (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Selig-Tribune, No. 99 (Topical).
Dec. 14—Selig-Tribune No. 100 (Topical).
Dec. 16—The Road to Fame (Drama).
Dec. 18—Selig-Tribune No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 18—The Five Franc Piece (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 21—Selig-Tribune No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 23—The Man He Might Have Been (Dr.).
Dec. 25—The Golden Thought (Two parts—Drama)
Dec 27—Selig-Tribune No. 103 (Topical).
Dec 28—Selig-Tribune No. 104 (Topical).
Dec. 30—The Right Hand Path (Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Nov. 8—Marked No Funds (Comedy).
Nov. 15—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).
Nov. 22—The Good Stenographer (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 6—Hubby's Chicken (Comedy).
Dec. 13—Charity Begins at Home (Comedy).
Dec. 20—They Practice Economy (Comedy).
Dec. 27—Her Financial Frenzy (Comedy).

VIM.

Nov. 24—Money Maid Men (Comedy).
Nov. 30—The Prize Winners (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Ambitious Ethel (Comedy).
Dec. 7—The Guilty One (Comedy).
Dec. 8—A Rare Boarder (Comedy).
Dec. 14—No release this day.
Dec. 15—What's the Use (Comedy).
Dec. 20—He Went and Won (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Reckless Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Fat and Fickle (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Before the Show (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Dec. 2—Our Other Lives (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).
Dec. 4—Where Is Your Friend? (Comedy).
—Swedish Model Farm (Educational).
Dec. 8—His Wife's Allowance (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Accident Is the Best Policy (Com.).
Dec. 15—Bears and Bullets (Comedy)
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama)
Dec. 18—A Lesson for Somebody (Comedy).
Dec. 22—A Bit of Bent Wire (No. 1 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy).
Dec. 25—A Journey to Nowhere (Comedy).
—Some of Our Biggest Star Performers (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Luck Charm (No. 2 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Drama).

General Film Company Features

BLACK CAT FEATURE.

Dec. 12—In a Looking Glass (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—The Little Brown Mole (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—A Tale from the Decameron (Two parts—Drama).

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Dec. 2—Our Other Lives (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—Pep's Legacy (Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

Nov. 24—Twin Souls (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Butts Casey—Crook (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Master of Her Soul (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Dawn of Wisdom (Three parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

CANADA

Provincial Rights Available Now

"ROBINSON CRUSOE"

EVERYBODY'S HERO

5—FULL PARTS—5

Made by HENRY W. SAVAGE
America's Foremost Producer

GEO. F. DRISCOLL
His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal

Provincial Rights money-maker for "live wires" because this picture means S.R.O. for exhibitors and its efficacious drawing powers will last forever as the story has. Exhibitors write or wire me for this clean, wholesome historical super-feature-de-luxe. MORE BIG ONES TO FOLLOW.

All Communications to Montreal

New York address—
801 Godfrey Bldg.

Montreal address—
(permanent)
His Majesty's Theatre

REMOVAL NOTICE

On account of the steady increase of new customers and continued patronage of our old ones, we were forced to seek larger quarters, and now occupy the building at

1233 VINE STREET

EXHIBITORS

Why not deal with a progressive house, and one whose reputation is known to every exhibitor in the country?

Home of
Rembusch's Crystal Gold Fibre Screen
WHY Have the Largest and Best Theatres Installed Them?

Stanley, Regent, Arcadia, Victoria, Savoy, Great Northern, Coliseum, Frankford, Logan and Logan Auditorium, Wishart, Richmond, Empire, Ridge Ave. Druary, Hamilton, Lancaster, Hunts, Wildwood, Queen, Wilmington, and the New Beautiful Strand seating twenty-five hundred, also fifty other large theatres.

WHY? A Demonstration will convince you

This is the finest screen made in the world
Write, wire or 'phone, and we will give you a demonstration free of cost.

Calehuff Supply Co.
CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, President.
1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

WISE PRODUCERS GET BUSY!

Peace will soon be declared in Europe. The demand for film will be enormous.

WE HAVE FOR SALE OR RENT AN UP-TO-DATE FILM LABORATORY

In the heart of New York City, with a capacity of 500,000 ft. per week.

Act quickly and address to Central Laboratory, c/o MOVING PICTURE WORLD, N. Y. C.

SLIDES FOR THE MOVIES

Mr. Exhibitor: Our slides are bright, snappy, well worded and illustrated and will readily sell to your advertisers. Send for catalogue with special exhibitors' discount.

HOUSTON SLIDE CO., 415½ Main St., Houston, Texas.

ATMOSPHERIC SCREEN

becomes more beautiful in tone value with age

The Charm Screen

ATMOSPHERIC SCREEN CO., INC.
220 WEST 42D STREET, NEW YORK

RICHARDSON'S
MOTION PICTURE
HAND BOOK
FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS
Published by
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York city
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 2008, 2010.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Dec. 13—Number 50 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 51 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 52 (Topical).
Jan. 3—Number 53 (Topical).

BIG U.

Dec. 7—Seeds of Jealousy (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 15—The Wrong Heart (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 21—No regular Big U this day.
Dec. 21—Moonshine Blood (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 28—No regular Big U this day.
Dec. 28—Special release. Title not yet decided.
Dec. 31—Special release. Title not yet decided.
Jan. 4—No regular Big U this day.
Jan. 4—The Uprising (Special Release—Dr.).
Jan. 7—Title not yet decided.

BISON.

Dec. 9—The Good Woman (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Taint of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 23—Fighting Joe (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Giant Powder (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Nov. 28—Should She Have Told (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 5—Ashes (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 12—The Two Roads (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 26—Birds of a Feather (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 2—An Old Soldier's Romance (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Dec. 10—(No release this day).
Dec. 10—Bubbles (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 15—Scratched (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—No release this day.
Dec. 22—In the Dead O'Night (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—No regular Imp this day.
Dec. 24—The Woman Who Learned.
Dec. 29—Toto of the Byways (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—No regular Imp this day.
Jan. 5—The Moral Right (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Whelp (Drama).

JOKER.

Dec. 2—Scrappily Married (Comedy).
Dec. 9—The Tramp Chef (Comedy).
Dec. 16—Their Dark Secret (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Jags and Jealousy (Comedy).
Dec. 30—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy).
Jan. 6—Love in Suspense (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Dec. 13—Green Eyes (Drama).
Dec. 16—No release this day.
Dec. 16—Mother's Guiding Hand (Drama) (Special).
Dec. 20—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 20—Homeless (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 23—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 27—Stronger than Steel (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—No regular Laemmle this day.
Dec. 30—Special release. Title not yet decided.
Jan. 2—No regular Laemmle this day.
Jan. 3—Alone in the World (Special release—Drama).
Jan. 6—No regular Laemmle this day.

L-KO.

Dec. 3—No release this day.
Dec. 6—The High Diver's Curse Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 13— Murdered by Mistake (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 20—Shooting His 'Art Out (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy).
Jan. 3—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Nov. 24—Married a Year (Comedy).
Nov. 27—The White Turkey (Comedy)
Dec. 4—Pass the Prunes (Comedy).
Dec. 8—Oh You Honeymoon (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Two Small Town Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 15—I'm Your Husband (Comedy).
Dec. 18—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Pretty Baby (Comedy)
Jan. 1—Practice What You Preach (Comedy)

POWERS.

Dec. 21—No regular Power's this day.
Dec. 24—Nervy Nat Has His Fortune Told (Comedy Cartoon).
—In the Heart of India As Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational).
Dec. 26—Such Is Life in Alaska (Hy Mayer Travelogue).
Dec. 28—No regular Powers this day.
Dec. 31—Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 4—No regular Powers this day.
Jan. 7—The Trials of Willie Winks (Cartoon Comedy).

RED FEATHER.

Nov. 27—The Mainspring (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 4—Kinkaid, Gambler (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec. 11—The Morals of Hilda (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Mixed Blood (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Child of Mystery (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 1—Polly Put the Kittle On (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Dec. 14—The Lawyer's Secret (Two parts—Drama.)
Dec. 15—No release this day.
Dec. 17—No release this day.
Dec. 17—Love or an Empire (Two parts—Dr.) (Special).
Dec. 21—The Ivy and the Oak (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Rock of Riches (Special Release—Drama).
Dec. 24—Mr. Vampire (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—No regular Rex this day.
Dec. 29—Special release. Title not yet decided.
Dec. 31—The Prodigal Daughter (Drama).
Jan. 4—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Special release, title not yet decided.
Jan. 7—No regular Rex this day.

VICTOR.

Dec. 7—The Shadow (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).
—Racoons (Educational).
Dec. 12—No release this day.
Dec. 12—Billy the Bandit (Comedy (Special).
Dec. 14—It Didn't Work Out Right (Comedy).
Dec. 19—No regular Victor this day.
Dec. 19—So This Is Paris (Special release—Comedy).
Dec. 22—It's Great to Be Married (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Good Morning, Judge (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 2.—Bombs and Banknotes (Comedy).
Jan. 5—How to Be Happy Though Married (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Nov. 24—Number 1.
Dec. 8—Number 2.
Dec. 22—Number 3.
Jan. 5—Number 4.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Dec. 11—Liberty No. 17, "A Trail of Blood" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Liberty No. 18, "The Wolf's Nemesis" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—Little Partner (Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Liberty No. 19, "An Avenging Angel" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Liberty No. 20, "A Daughter of the U. S. A." (Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama)
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Nov. 20—The Measure of a Man (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Bugler of Algiers (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Sign of the Poppy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Price of Silence (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec 18—The Right of Mary Blake (Five parts—Drama).
Dec 25—The Right to Be Happy (Five parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN

Nov. 9—The Fight on the Dam (Drama)
Nov. 23—The Star Bucks (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue).
Nov. 23—Calamity Ann Guardian (Comedy) (Reissue).
Nov. 30—Calamity Anne's Vanity (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike (Dr.) (Reissue).

CUB.

Nov. 3—Nearly a Hero (Comedy).
Nov. 10—His Blushing Bride (Comedy).
Nov. 17—Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 11—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Bad Samaritan (Two parts—Drama).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Dec. 28—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 1, "The Jade Necklace"—Two parts—Drama).

NORTH AMERICAN.

Nov. 27—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 1—"Fate and Death"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 2—"Under Oath"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 3—"Sealed Lips"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 4—"The Climax"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Dec. 7—The Vampires (Episode No. 3, "The Ghost"—Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 12—Mutual World Tours, No. 6, The Nile, Carcassone and Lake Luserne (Travel).
Dec. 13—See America First (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics.
Dec. 14—The Vampires (Episode No. 4, "The Dead Man's Escape"—Three parts Drama).
Dec. 17—Reel Life, Number 33 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Dec. 20—See America First (Travel).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 21—The Vampires (Episode No. 5, "The Eyes that Hold"—Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—Mutual Tours Around the World (Morocco, Chantilly, by the Mediterranean (Travel).
Dec. 24—Reel Life, Number 34 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Dec. 26—Mutual Tours Around the World (The Theve River, France; Florence, in the Swiss Alps) (Travel).
Dec. 27—See America First (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon Comedy).
Dec. 28—The Vampires (Episode No. 6, "Satanas"—Three parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Reel Life No. 35 (Mutual Film Magazine).

MUTUAL.

Dec. 7—Gertie's Latest Love Affair (Com.).
Dec. 8—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 1 "From Citizen to Soldier."
Dec. 8—Rehabilitated (Drama).
Dec. 9—Admirer's Three (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Turn of the Wheel (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Title not yet reported.
Dec. 15—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 2, "Our Boys at the Border" (Topical).
Dec. 16—One Dollar Please (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Buddy's Christmas (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec 20—Mutual Weekly No. 102 (Travel).
Dec. 21—The Elopement (Comedy).
Dec. 22—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3, "A Jack Tar in the Making" (Topical).
Dec. 23—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy)
Dec 25—Indiscretion (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 28—Peter's Perfect Photoplay (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Title not yet reported.
Dec 30—Grimsby the Bellhop (Star Comedy).

MUTUAL WEEKLY

Nov. 15—Number 98 (Topical).
Nov 22—Number 99 (Topical).
Nov 29—Number 100 (Topical).
Dec. 6—Number 101 (Topical).
Dec. 13—Number 102 (Topical).
Dec 20—Number 103 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 104 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 2026.)

HYDROQUINONE

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY

NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

If You Need a New Machine and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Mottograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,

Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

THE speed and quality of the sensitive emulsion, the strength and toughness of the base, the consistent excellence covering a long period of years, the marked dependability—these are the qualities that have made it desirable, for your interests and our own, to place the identifying stencil mark

"EASTMAN"

on the margin of our film.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE

D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor

B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRRoroid Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRRoroid INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test — Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.

Price, 33 1/3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over.

Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME.

Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRRoroid, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.

If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRRoroid screen installed.

Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 2008, 2010.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 2024.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

The Pawnshop (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 13—Behind the Screen (Two parts—Comedy).
December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Nov. 9—East Is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Nov. 16—Immediate Lee (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 153).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Nov. 27—A Dream or Two Ago (Five parts—Drama) (No. 156).
Dec. 4—The Valley of Decision (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 158).
Dec. 11—Lonesome Town (American—Five parts—Drama) (159).
Dec. 11—Miss Jackie of the Navy (Five parts—Drama) (160).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

Dec. 18—The Twinkler (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Innocence of Lizette (American—Five parts—Drama).

NOVELTY.

Nov. 25—An Artful Dodge (Comedy).

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Dec. 4—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 7—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 8—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 9—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 10—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 11—Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Nov. 19—With or Without (Two parts—Com.).
Nov. 26—Up the Flue (Comedy).
Dec. 3—The Wicked City (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 10—Shot in the Fracas (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 17—Treed (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 24—Fickle All Around (Two parts—Com.).
Dec. 31—Jealous Jolts (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Black Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Stolen Triumph (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Pidgin Island (Five parts—Dr.).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Comedy).
Oct. 2—Nearly a Deserter (Comedy).
Oct. 16—Bridget's Blunder (Comedy).
Oct. 30—A Troublesome Trip (Comedy).
Nov. 13—A Villainous Pursuit (Comedy).
Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Com.).
Dec. 11—His Ivory Dome (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Their Week End (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Nov. 27—Nanette of the Wilds (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—A Coney Island Princess (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Traveling Salesman (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Snow White (Five parts—Drama).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Dec. 4—The Best Man (Comedy).
Dec. 18—In Society and Out (Comedy).

LASKY.

Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Oliver Twist (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 14—Victoria Cross (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Dec. 7—The Road to Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 21—The Right Direction (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 28—The Redeeming Love (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Nov. 16—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 23—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 30—What Happened to Willie (Cartoon-Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Nov. 20—British Egypt (Scenic).
Nov. 27—The Real Streets of Cairo (Scenic).
Dec. 4—The Lower Nile (Scenic).
Dec. 11—The Upper Nile (Scenic).
Dec. 18—Going to Halifax (Scenic).
Dec. 25—Land of Evangeline (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

Nov. 5—40th Release (Edu.).
Nov. 12—41st Release (Edu.).
Nov. 19—42d Release (Edu.).
Nov. 26—43d Relase (Edu.).
Dec. 3—44th Release (Edu).
Dec. 10—45th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 18—Going to Halifax (Scenic).
Dec. 25—The Land of Evangeline (Scenic).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Dec. 17—The Shielding Shadow, No. 12, "The Stolen Shadow" (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 17—Pearl of the Army, No. 3, "The Silent Menace" (Two Parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Shielding Shadow, No. 13, "The Hidden Menace" (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—Pearl of the Army, No. 4, "War Clouds" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Shielding Shadow, No. 14, "Absolute Black" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Pearl of the Army, No. 5, "Somewhere in Grenada" (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Nov. 26—Arms and the Woman (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—Divorce and the Daughter (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Challenge (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—King Lear (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Romantic Journey (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Joy and the Dragon (Five parts—Dr.).

PATHE.

Dec. 10—The Faithless Friend (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 10, "Fashions and Charity" (Fashions).
Dec. 17—The Taint (Three Parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—Bobby-Bear, Investigator (Educational—Colored).
—Spanish Costumes and Dances (Costumes—Colored).
Dec. 24—Against Heavy Odds (Drama).
Dec. 24—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 11, "A Day of Sport" (Fashions) and —Young Fur Bearing Animals (Edu).
Dec. 31—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12, "Frills and Thrills" (Fashion) and —Making Raisins (Cal.) (Edu.).
Dec. 31—Silk Industry (Industrial).

PATHE NEWS.

Dec. 16—Number 101, 1916 (Topical).
Dec. 20—Number 102 (Topical).
Dec. 23—Number 103 (Topical).
Dec. 27—Number 104 (Topical).
Dec. 30—Number 105 (Topical).

ROLIN.

Nov. 19—Luke Patient Provider (Comedy).
Nov. 26—Luke's Newsie Knockout (Comedy).
Dec. 3—Luke's Movie Muddle (Comedy).
Dec. 10—Luke—Rank Impersonator (Comedy).
Dec. 17—Luke's Fireworks Fizzle (Comedy).
Dec. 24—Luke Locates the Loot (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Luke's Shattered Sleep (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Nov. 26—The Children Pay (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 2—Children of the Feud (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Wharf Rat (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Matrimaniac (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 23—The Heiress at Coffee Dan's (Five parts—Drama).

INCE.

Nov. 26—The Devil's Double (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 2—The Criminal (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Bawbs o' Blue Ridge (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Sin Ye Do (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—A Gamble in Souls (Five parts—Dr.).

KEYSTONE.

Oct. 1—Haystacks and Steeples (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Lady Drummer (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 6—A Tugboat Romeo (Two parts—Com.).
Oct. 8—Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Nov. 16—The Border Strife (Drama).
Nov. 19—The Gulf (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 28—The Guilty Hand (Two parts—Drama).

GAIETY.

Nov. 19—Easy Come and Easy Go (Comedy).
Dec. 1—Watches and Women (Comedy).

HIPPO.

Nov. 29—Cupid's Torpedoes (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Nov. 15—Saturday Night (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 16—Davy's Daily Doings (Comedy).
Nov. 30—Curse You, Jack Dalton (Comedy).

JUDY.

Nov. 17—A Sorry Plight (Comedy).
Nov. 28—He Loved and Rode Away (Comedy).
Dec. 3—Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Comedy).

PURITAN.

Nov. 14—The Inner Soul (Three parts—Drama).

RANCHO.

Nov. 13—The Desert's Prize (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—The Flower of the Prairie (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—The Brand of Cain (Drama).

SUNSET.

Nov. 13—Wanted (Drama).
Nov. 18—Slaves of Passion (Three parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—Deserted (Drama).
Dec. 1—Love's Sacrifice (Drama).

SUPREME.

Nov. 15—Tangles Fates (Drama).
Nov. 16—A Timely Reward (Drama).
Nov. 30—Whose was the Hand (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 3—The Telltale Heart (Drama).

LILY.

Nov. 17—The Climax (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Path of Life (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Nov. 29—His Other Wife (Drama).
Dec. 2—The Heart of Ramona (Three parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Nov. 29—Scarbrow's Revenge (Drama).
Dec. 3—Love's Mirage (Drama).

MONMOUTH FILM CORP.

Dec. 4—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 1—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 11—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 2—"The Stolen Rubies"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Jimmie Dale, alias, "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 3—"The Counterfeit Five"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Jimmie Dale, Alias "The Grey Seal" (Episode No. 4—Two parts—Dr.).

BILLY WEST COMEDIES.

Dec. 1—His Married Life (Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 8—Boarders and Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—His Waiting Career (Two parts—Dr.).

EVERY CAMERA MAN

CAN AVOID SCENE MIX-UPS

and keep accurate record of each exposure, by using the book we will send you, postage prepaid, if you will send us 15c in stamps.

ROTHACKER FILM MFG. COMPANY

1339 Diversey Parkway, Chicago

G. W. BRADENBURGH

882 Vine Street : : : PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Sealed Orders	7 reels	War	$150
Protea III.	5 reels (new)	Sensational	175
An American Gentleman	5 reels (as new)	Drama	75

Write for 1917 catalogue—over six thousand subjects listed.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation

American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush of "Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

Stereopticon

Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures

(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired) for theatres, lyceums and clubs near New York City. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION

445 W. 23rd St., New York

Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not lecture on or sell motion pictures.

MINUSA

"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"

The ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN-Perfected.

MINUSA CINE PRODUCTS COMPANY.

SAINT LOUIS | CHICAGO | SAN FRANCISCO | PITTSBURGH | CALGARY, ALBERTA | NEW YORK

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Lee Street

CHICAGO, ILL.

Screencraft

or

The Making of a Photoplay

By LOUIS REEVES HARRISON

Has Just Come from the Press

A scholarly examination of the new art of writing for the picture screen by one of the ablest and most widely experienced screen authors of the day.

This latest addition to the list of Chalmers Publishing Company books will be found invaluable by photoplay writers who are making a serious study of their work. Also contains a sample "Working Scenario" and illustrations of Mr. Harrison's completed manuscript.

It is a University Education on the Subject!

Illustration of the Author's Own ScenarioForms

Artistically Bound in Cloth Price, $2.00 Postpaid

Published by The

Chalmers Publishing Co.

(Publishers of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD)

17 Madison Avenue - - New York City

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Order Direct From Our Nearest Office or Through Your Local Bookseller

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 2008, 2010.)

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Dec. 21—The Lash of Destiny (Van Dyke Film Co.—Drama).
Dec. 28—Whoso Taketh a Wife (U. S. Amusement Co.—Drama).
Jan. 4—The Rainbow (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Seven parts—Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Nov. 20—Some Kid (Comedy).
Nov. 27—Tramp, Tramp, Tramp (Comedy).
Dec. 4—The Sea Nymphs (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Miss Billy Buttons (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Hist! At Six O'Clock (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Cupid's Uppercut (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 15 (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 16 (Two parts—Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Dec. 4—The Vixen (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Battle of Life (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Island of Desire (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Victim (Five parts—Drama).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Dec. 11—The Scarlet Runner, No. 11, "The Missing Chapter" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Enemy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Rah, Rah, Rah! (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Capt. Jinks' Hidden Treasure (Com.).
Dec. 18—Whom the Gods Destroy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—Help, Help, Help (Comedy).
Dec. 18—Capt. Jinks' Sprained Ankle (Com.).
Dec. 18—The Scarlet Runner, No. 12, "The Car and the Girl" (Last No.) (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Ninety and Nine (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Shanks and Chivalry (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Captain Jink's Getaway (Comedy).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE INC.

Dec. 4—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Scenic).
Dec. 5—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 97 (Topical).
Dec. 8—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 98 (Topical).
Dec. 11—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Scenic).
Dec. 12—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 99 (Topical).
Dec. 15—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 100 (Topical).
Dec. 18—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Scenic).
Dec. 19—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 101 (Topical).
Dec. 22—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 102 (Topical).
Dec. 25—International Split Reel (Cartoon and Split Reel).
Dec. 26—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 103 (Topical).
Dec. 29—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 104 (Topical).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

November—The Girl Who Did Not Care (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Five parts—Drama).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Dec. 4—The Breaker (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—A Message to Garcia (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Phantom Buccaneer (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Truant Soul (Five parts—Drama—Essanay).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.).
Nov.—The Foolish Virgin (Drama).
Nov.—Panthea (Drama).
December—The Argyle Case (Drama).

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Nov. 27—The Men She Married (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—All Man (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—Broken Chains (Five Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Rise of Susan (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—The World Against Him (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.

December—Snow White (Four parts—Fairy Tale).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

HARPER FILM CORP.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE COR.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).

PEAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORPORATION.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

HENRY W. SAVAGE.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Nov. 20—The Yellow Menace, No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Yellow Menace, No. 13, "The Sky and the Submarine" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Yellow Menace, No. 15, "The Ray of Death" (Two parts—Drama).

TWEEDLEDUM RELEASES (UNITY).

Oct. 9—Torpedoed by Cupid (Comedy).
Oct. 16—A Scrambled Honeymoon (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 23—Some Hero (Comedy).
Oct. 30—Tweedledum's Busy Night (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 6—A Lucky Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Lend Me Your Wife (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Bath Tub Elopement (Comedy).
Nov. 27—A Short-sighted Crime (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Burlesque Show (Two parts—Comedy).

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

You Need Them in Your Business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD represents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as

The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade — The Record of Moving Picture History in the Making

NOW READY—VOL. 29. JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1916

WE HAVE AT YOUR DISPOSAL

Bound Volumes for the years 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1915. Four volumes each year. Shipped as per your instructions at $1.50 per volume—transportation charges additional.

INVEST $28.50

and have at your hand for ready reference every issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD which has been printed since January 1, 1912. These neatly bound books are invaluable to the wide-awake moving picture man.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Ave., New York City

OPERA CHAIRS
American Seating Company
1010 Lytton Bldg., Chicago
SALES OFFICES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

"All eyes on a line"
FOCO
ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR
Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising. Write for booklet
Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
LOW Price and CAST IRON

Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.
STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Compelling Recognition—

A strong phrase and yet one that most fully fits, the Spanish Edition of the Moving Picture World

CINE-MUNDIAL

Is doing yeoman service for the concerns that have taken advantage of the great war to establish an export trade.

A selected list of over 5000 progressive people of the motion picture industry are reached each month. Almost blanketing the field in rapidly developing Latin America.

This market is worthy of your keen attention. Why not receive the full particulars?

Address
THE CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 MadisonAvenue, New York City
SPANISH DEPARTMENT

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
Cut out and mail

.....
.....
.....
Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

PERFECT ARC CONTROL

F. H. Richardson, well known authority on motion picture equipment says of the

TransVerteR

TRADE MARK

"While in Cleveland I witnessed a remarkable demonstration of the ability of this machine to maintain constant current at variable arc voltage. We set the arc working at 50 volts, 50 amperes . . . there was no appreciable change at all in the amperes until the voltage had mounted to 80, whereupon I turned the arc to, amazing as the statement may seem, approximately 1¼" in length without the slightest change taking place in the amperage delivery, and the arc did not break.

"Although there were two perfect arcs and the illumination was not appreciably affected on the first machine, still the ammeter read 50 amperes, so that we had two arcs, each drawing 50 amperes, with a generator only furnishing a total of 50, and with an arc voltage at either machine of 50. . . .

"I can recommend the Transverter to the careful consideration of the moving picture theatre manager and operator."

Can you do this with your present equipment? If not, you should not be satisfied. Send for descriptive literature and latest price bulletin.

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.

1908 West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

There Is One Way To Make Any Good Film Please Everybody

Film stories are of all sorts, comedy, tragedy, high life, low life, science, sports, adventure. But no matter what a patron prefers he is interested in any footage that comes out clear and brilliant with vivid detail. Yours will, with the

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

They give full value to every film—your patrons get interest and money's worth. That brings them back again and again.

Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers are the standard among operators who know—and both Edison and Nicholas Power Machines are regularly equipped with them. Your film exchange can supply you, too.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.

6 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), and other high-grade optical products.

The Universal Camera for Motion Photography

Now equipped with new automatic dissolve—producing a true, clean fade-out and fade-in effect.

Write for illustrated catalogue

UNIVERSAL CAMERA COMPANY

559 West Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

BRANCHES: 1007 Times Bldg., New York; 811 Market St., San Francisco

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built. W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

88 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea

425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped. 1c ft.

Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language 5c complete per foot

Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

High Grade Printing and Developing

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Prompt Delivery.

Negatives Developed—1c. Ft. Positive Printing—4c. Ft.

Give Us a Trial

Wayne Motion Picture Company

229 Farwell Building, DETROIT, MICH.

Have Perfect Light

Even the most careful operator will sometimes "freeze" the carbons or let them burn apart. Maintain a perfectly regulated arc without a flicker by installing an

AUTO-ARC

Insures perfect, white light. No "freezing"—no burning apart. Soon saves more than enough current to pay its cost. 30 days' trial guaranteed to satisfy you or your money back. PRICE ONLY $60 F. O. B. OWENSBORO, KY.

AMERICAN AUTO-ARC CO., Inc.

407 S. Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50.

GOLD KING SCREENS ARE BEST

TEN DAYS FREE TRIAL

GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME XXX

October—December, 1916

J. P. CHALMERS

Founder

PUBLISHED BY

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.

17 Madison Avenue, New York

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME XXX October—December, 1916

INDEX TO CONTENTS

A

Activity of N. A. M. P. I. 1302
Adam Leads Off for General Film 1026
Adams, Kathryn—Thanhauser's Leading Woman 1176
Advertising for Exhibitors, by Epes Winthrop Sargent, 67, 227, 383, 539, 695, 847, 1063, 1151, 1315, 1487, 1635, 1795. 1951
Again Refuse to Overrule Censors..... 868
Against Sunday Closing..... 1934
Against "White Slave" Subjects.....1792
American Film Invasion of Brazil.....1936
American Films in Brazil 931
American Pictures in Japan 1172
American Studio Activities.....1029
Another Combination of Picture Companies. 376
An Unusual Presentation..... 549
Applegate, J. S., Opens International Branch 1367
Arey, Wayne, Thanhouser Star..... 90
Arnold, Helen, Prize Winner..... 92
Artcraft Issuing Much Publicity..... 857
Artcraft Opens Office in Kansas City.....1209
Artcraft Wants Master-Directors.....1334
Art Dramas Combination Active.....1171
Artistic Subtitles 1066
Atlanta Special Children's Shows..... 96
Atlanta's Smart Set to Make Pictures..... 584
Atlanta Theaters Merged..... 276
Attractive Bluebirds.....1333
August in Mutual Releases..... 415
Aurora Alderman Said Strand Was Not Safe 129
Australian Amusement Tax.....1649
Autumn Fairs and Picture Shows..... 278
Avondale, O., Picture Theaters Combine....1205

B

Back to the Screen..... 79
Bad Checks, Start Campaign Against..... 889
Baggot, King, in "Absinthe".....1478
Baltimore Building Permits May Be Taxed 1525
Baltimore Censors Back and Fill 1990
Baltimore Operators Dance.....1471
Baltimore Still Enforcing League Ban..... 726
Barrymore, Ethel..... 877
Bathhurst, N. B., New Theater at..... 730
Batting Out the "Big Us"..... 1936
"Battle of the Somme" Banned by Vancouver.1054
Baumer, N. J..... 91
Bay Staters Prepare for Annual Ball 529
Beban Re-engaged by Morosco-Pallas 514
Beecroft Chester, in New Role 830
Behind the Scene 826
Believe Court Will Uphold Sunday Pictures..1620
Bennett and Turner for Mutual Nov. 5.... 874
Bennett, Enid, Becomes Triangle-Kay-Bee Star 705
Berst Reviews Year..... 1473
Big Field Untouched..... 368
Big Hope Crop in St. Louis..... 432
Big Newspaper Advertisement, The.....1028
Billington, Francella, Signed by Mutual....1969
Billy The Exhibitor..... 80
Birmingham Sunday Show Case..... 431
Blankenship Joins Boehringer Interests...1366
Bleak Alaska Has Real Picture Showmen..1935
Bjevins, Eleanor, Screen Actress, and Aviator 1647
Bluebirds by the Dozen..... 91
Bluebirds for Happiness..... 396
Bluebirds for November..... 736
Bluebird Will Add Stars..... 257
Bluebird Will Release a Special..... 870
Boehringer Gets Triangle Rights..... 736
Boehringer Interests Capitalized..... 504
Boosting the Boy Scouts.....1142
Border Tragedy Filmed by Kalem.....1644
Boston City Club on Censorship.....1670
Boston Judge Enjoins Union..... 726
Bosworth and Marshall Join Lasky Forces.. 527
Brady, Alice, Multiple Star..... 705
Brady Finds Encouragement 1810
Brady Makes "Bought and Paid For"..... 878
Brady Returns from West.....1025
Brady, William A., on Trade Conditions..... 250
Bremerton, Women of, Interfere with Show.1844
Brenon's Pretentious Plans..... 527
British Censorship..... 672
British War Films 1501
Broadway Theater Changes Hands..... 988
Bronx Exhibitors Hold Annual Ball.....1143
Brooklyn Exhibitors Ask Questions.....1307
Brooklyn Exhibitors Hold Meeting.....1784
Brooklyn Exhibitors to Dance 992
Buffalo Ball Committee Is Named.....1360
Buffalo Exchanges Organize 1995
Buffalo Express Believes in 1043
Buffalo Screen Club for Sunday Shows.....1835
Buffalo Screen Club Incorporates.....1955
Buffalo Theater Men Meet.....1621
Buffalo Unicorn Changes Quarters..... 833
Burnstein Reports Good Trip.....1331
Burtman and Bayne at Broadway 870
Butte Theaters, High Wages in..... 738
Buying Show at the Exchange 1535
Buy Yellow Monitor for New York 871

C

California Film Week in 1211
Cameraman and the Soldier, The 868
Campbell's Olympic, Admission Prices at.. 579
Canada, Film Titles in Bi-lingual..... 733
Canadian Film Studio, Begin on.....1054
Candidates to Address Film Men..... 674
Capital City Children's Shows 1674
Capital City Exchange Notes 1832
Capitol District Association Formed 1783
Careless Shipping, Complaint of.....1360
Carewe, Edwin, in Hospital..... 866
Cast for Next Artcraft Subject.....1629
Catalog of Educational Pictures 858
Censorship in New England 1792
Censorship Question in Washington, D. C. 530
Censor Talk at Washington Monday Club 1648
Center Theater, Kansas City, to Open.....1209
Centerville's Community Play House Open..1533
Chain of 1000 Picture Theaters Proposed...1044
Chamberlin, Riley..... 867
Change for Better in Local Showmanship..1366
Change in Five Years, A Big..... 1684
Chapter on the Foreign Film, A..... 671
Charleston's New Strand Ready..... 273
Chicago Reel Fellows Club.....1177
Children's Shows in Washington, D. C..... 728
Christie Film Company.....1140
Christmas Cheer in Decorations.....1498
Cincinnati Exchanges Generous..... 108
Cincinnati Exchange Men Elect.....1833
Cincinnati Exchanges Organize.....1362
Cincinnati Screen Club Elects..... 108
Cincinnati's Star Theater Has New Policy.. 277
"Civilization" in South America..... 412
"Civilization" Out of the Tremont..... 424
"Civilization" Sold for Metropolis..... 996
"Civilization" Territory Going Well..... 836
Classics and the Screen..... 863
Cleveland Film Ball on November 15.....1215
Club Women Listen to Film Man..... 552
Cobb, Ty, Playing Before Camera..... 879
Cohan, George M., to Play for Artcraft.... 990
Cohan to Produce "Broadway Jones".....1803
Colorado Censorship Rampant.....2000
Colorado, Censorship Talk in.....1051
Coming "Grant" Episodes..... 561
"Common Law" Well Received 252
Complete Plans for Linder.....1477
"Conquest of Canaan" Rights Selling..... 990
Cook, Ethyle, Thanhouser Leading Woman. 247
Co-operation—In Theory and Practice.....1469
Corcoran, Ethel, Becomes Ethel Dayton....1650
Costello Came Back Strong.....1026
Crandall's Savoy Much Beautified, Reopens 272
Creative Methods—Maeterlinck..... 208
Creative Methods—Shaw.....1776
Creative Producing Its Initial Subject.....1629
Cressy Interests Open Exchange..... 279
"Crisis, The" Is Selling Rapidly.....1175
"Crimson Stain" Doing Big Business..... 877
Cronjager, Henry, Cameraman..... 81
Crosses Water for "Civilization"..... 994
Crute, Sally, in Edison Feature.....1480
Curran, Thomas A., Thanhouser Leading Man 1778

D

Damage Suit, Another.....1302
"Daughter of the Gods" at Pitt Theater.... 890
Davenport, Ia., Ad Club and Lurid Posters..1212
Davison Defends Over English Films 390
Dealers and Exhibitors League 529
Death of George F. Magie..... 556
Decatur's New Avon Theater.....1048
"Deemster" Series at Block Island.....1625
De Mille Cecil Heads Morosco-Pallas 875
De Mille to Produce Cohan Subject.....1787
Denver Club Wants to Be Star-Led 738
Denver Club Women Sponsor Morning Matinees 1211
Denver Now Has Its Exchange Row 280
Denver Operators Dance Thanksgiving Eve..1051

Denver Screen Club Has Plans. . . 280
Denver Screeners to Hold Dance. . . 1842
Denver Theater, Another Fine. . . 588
Deplore Use of "No Children" Signs . 272
Detroit Business Changes . . . 1529
Detroit Needs Central Exchange. . . 1207
Detroit Outskirts Theaters Ass'n. . . 732
Detroit, Prices for Features in . . 1207
Detroit's Majestic, Admission Raise . 583
Detroit's New Regent Opens. . . 109
Detroiters Discuss Advance in Prices. . . 895
Diamond Trade Mark in Selig's . . 864
Disagreement Among Censors. . . 1685
Discussing Minnesota Convention. . . 1623
Dismisses Censorship Appeal. . . 106
Distributors and Exhibitors "Discuss Things" . . . 991
District of Columbia Bars "Purity . 425
Doman, Bob, Crosses the Briny Maybe . 1630
Dressler, Marie, to Play for Mutual . . . 1941
Drews at Columbia. . . 1945
Durant to Work for Kay Bee . . 994

E

Eagels, Jeanne, Thanhouser Star . . . 1027
Eastern Pennsylvania Prospers. . . 888
Edel, Harold, The Strand's Manager. . . 707
Edison Rejuvenated. . . 408
Eight Stars in Lasky Productions. . . 412
Elaborate Features on Paramount Program. 712
Elaborate Musical Score. . . 531
Ellwood's New City Theater, Work Begun on. . . 729
Emerson Back With Triangle. . . 407
Empress, Marie. . . 1808
Enterprise Amusement Company to Build. . . 890
Enterprise, Amusement Theater Named Rialto . . . 1292
Essanay Buys Cohan Hits. . . 1942
Essanay Has Small Fire. . . 1811
Essanay Northland Pictures. . . 716
Essanay Plant Like a Beehive. . . 1791
Essanay Special Feature. . . 1161
Essanay to Have Chaplin Revue . . . 85
Essanay to Make Natural Length Films. . . 1030
Essanay's November Output Large. . . 869
Essanays Coming. . . 409
Eugene, Ore., The People of and Sunday Closing . . . 1370
Exceptional Paramount Program. . . 1340
Exchanges to Correct Abuses Legally . . . 526
Exhibitor and His Neighborhood . . . 1532
Exhibitor Complains of Betrayal Stories. . . 872
Exhibitor Collects Another Fare. . . 424
Exhibitors Condemn "White Slave" Film. . . 374
Exhibitors of Yonkers, The. . . 1806
Exhibitors' Views . . . 1470
Extend "Girl from Frisco" . . . 89

F

Fairer Censorship in Minneapolis . . . 115
Fakes and Facts. . . 525
Famous Players End $100,000 Offer. . . 866
Famous Players-Lasky Takes Over Paramount . . . 1778
Farnum, William, Returns to Screen. . . 874
Farrar, Geraldine, as Joan of Arc . . . 1961
Farrar Says "Joan of Arc" Is Splendid. . . 897
Farrell Heads Boston Pathe. . . 104
Fashion Show Popular in Minnesota. . . 864
Feature Market, The. . . 49
Federation and Minor Operators. . . 1048
Federation Convention Notes. . . 1672
Federation Convention, Operators at. . . 1199
Federation for Better Films. . . 1332
Fenwick, Irene, Joins Famous Players. . . 333
Fichtenberg Discusses Trade Development. . . 1963
Film Bicycling Sure to Bring Trouble. . . 887
F. I. L. M. Club Doings. . . 1625
Film Men at the Border. . . 830
Film Men Firm Against Censorship. . . 51
Fifteen Reels of Pathe. . . 246
Fifteenth "Fairfax" Episode. . . 1343
Firm Against Censorship. . . 209
First Four Art Dramas, The. . . 1314
First Fox Film Comedy. . . 1627
First Showing of "War Brides". . . 1146
Five Christie Comedies. . . 1184
Five Dollar Admissions. . . 1334
Five New Kalem Ars Shown. . . 843
Florence Rose Fashion Show Films, The. . . 871
Fontana Opens Offices Here. . . 1029
Foreign Film Conditions. . . 374
Foreign Mark Good . . . 1784, 1963
Fort Wayne's Strand a Beauty . . . 1264
Four Kalem Releases . . . 224
Four New Kalems . . . 585-1782
Four Selznick Companies Busy . . . 1180
Fourteenth "Fairfax" Episode . . . 1179
Fox Explains Work of President . . . 1470
Fox Entertains the Press. . . 1170
Fox Feature Shows at Pitt . . . 1834
Fox Film Comedies . . . 1481
Fox Men in Convention . . . 1161
Fox, New Ventures in Newark . . . 1198
Fox Picture Presented . . . 581
Fox Publicity Campaign . . . 1704
Fox's Terminal Theater Opened . . . 1722
Fox William to Produce Comedies . . . 874
France Increases Film Imports . . . 965
Frisco License Fees Abolished. . . 1369
From Fox Studios . . . 1536

G

"Garden of Allah, The" by Selig. . . 1628
"Garden of Allah" is Great. . . 1023
Garden Theater in Toronto. . . 1835
Gaumont Has Program of Singles. . . 870
General Film Program. . . 93, 717, 1314
General Film to Go After Thieves. . . 86
General Film Releases. . . 413
General Film Suggestions. . . 1173
General Film War Pictures. . . 1781
Getting at Suburban Patrons. . . 114
Getting Co-operation of Local Newspapers. . . 278
Getting Ready for "Stingaree". . . 1176
Get-Together of Exchangemen. . . 889
Giblyn, Charles, Now with Selznick . . . 870
Give Credit Where Credit Is Due. . . 827
Give Us Your Opinion . . . 985
Give Warning on Misleading Ads. . . 1525
Glover, Gertrude . . . 1945
Going on at Mutual Studios. . . 90
Goldwyn Gets Big Playwrights. . . 1943
Goldwynn Pictures Enters Field. . . 1627
Good Report from Kleine Exchanges. . . 562
Good Roads a Benefit to Film Men. . . 1206
Good Year for Gold Rooster. . . 1339
Governor Whitman Against Censorship. . . 986
Grandin, Ethel, Scores . . . 1170
Great West Film Company Getting Under Way . . . 587
Great West Film Plans Local Studio. . . 1049
Greetings by Aeroplane from Chicago. . . 1030
Greeley, Evelyn. . . 1809
Greene Outlines Artcraft's Scope. . . 679
Griffin, Gerald, Engaged by Metro. . . 551
Grey, E. Henry. . . 1337
Griffith Bids Mae Marsh Godspeed. . . 1787

H

Hallowe'en Ball to Be Brilliant. . . 106
Hampton, Ben B., Heads General Film Co. . . 1303
Hanover Buys Biograph Prints . . . 1631
Hansen, Juanita, Becomes Triangle Star. . . 987
"Hazards of Helen" in Third Year. . . 869
Hermann, Jacques . . . 1940
Hespe, Dr., Defines His Attitude. . . 675
Higher Admissions, Trend Toward. . . 1200
Higher Prices in Twin Cities. . . 1681
Historical Society's Use of Film. . . 1532
Hobart Announces Formal Opening . . . 1528
Hodkinson to Head Superpictures. . . 1140
Holah, C. E. Resigns . . . 732
Holah to Head Local International. . . 894
Honduras Theaters Show Foreign Films . . . 1012
Honor System, The . . . 879
Horne a Product of Stage. . . 88
Horsley Studios Busy Again. . . 1480
How Intelligent Is a Crowd . . . 1138
Hudson Co. Exhibitors Eat and Make Merry. . . 1475
Hughes Against Censorship. . . 375
Hungry for American Pictures. . . 829

I

Ignorant Criticism . . . 1617
Important Bluebirds Coming . . . 1030
Ince, Ralph, Leaves Vitagraph . . . 876
Ince Visits Shadow Lawn . . . 406
Increased Demand for Our Productions . . . 1012
Indiana Theaters Expect Good Season . . . 112
Indianapolis Arrests Wholesale . . . 1999
Indianapolis Tries Sunday Law . . . 1336
Infant Picturalysis . . . 984
Interesting Industrial, An. . . 714
International Adds to Product . . . 864
International Film Service Panned . . . 1988
International Two Years Old . . . 1942
"Intolerance" Breaks Record in San Francisco . . . 1683
Invading South America . . . 1231
Iowa Injunction Won by Selig for "Spoilers" . . . 1364
Ivan's Past Performances . . . 1944

J

Jackson, Tennessee, a Live Picture City. . . 1531
Joplin Theater Succeeds in Spite of Alley . . . 1680
Jourgon, Lieutenant, in Good Health . . . 370
Joyous Gathering of the Troy Clans . . . 1476
Juliets, Competition in, Pays. . . 1047

K

Kalems for October . . . 84
Kalems for November . . . 877
Kalem's Pig Week . . . 212
Kalem's Reporter Series OK'd . . . 1338
Kalem Serial Makes a Strong Start . . . 410
Kalem Stars Welcomed . . . 252
Kalems, Two . . . 1216
Kane Writes of Big Theaters . . . 896
Kansas Censor Law, Move For. . . 1367
Kansas City Has Censor Fever. . . 1680
Kansas City Local Censors . . . 1732
Kansas City Screen Clubs Friday Night . . . 898
Kansas City Screeners to Give Minstrel Show . . . 1810
Kansas City's Grand to Show Films . . . 586
Keep Up the Good Work . . . 1469
Kentucky Building Code Bulletin . . . 428
Kentucky Sunday Agitation in . . . 1679
Kerr, Mollie, with Kalem . . . 712
Kinding Pictures at Boston Theater . . . 414
Kirkwood-Robinson . . . 412
Kleine Enthusiastic Over 1917 Outlook . . . 1040
Kohn Wants the Best Production . . . 563
Kolb and Dill Head Mutuals . . . 1025

L

Lang, Dell, Goes to Coast . . . 1477
Lasky Shows Two Subjects. . . 1342
Latest Pathe News Scoops. . . 532
Laws on Minors Upheld. . . 1476
Lecture Tour Planned. . . 406
Lee, Joe, State Right Buyers Agent. . . 564
Leisure Breeds Quality in Films. . . 210
Lesser Begins Operations in the East. . . 1340
Let Well Enough Alone. . . 1470
Lexington's Strand Stock Deal. . . 1531
Liberty Theater, Pittsburgh, Leased. . . 1675
Licenses of Moving Picture Theaters. . . 1646
Lincoln, E. K. . . 80
Linder, Max, Celebrated Comedian, Is Due. . . 987
Linder, Max, Now With Us. . . 1144
Linder, Max, Ready for Camera. . . 1340
Lobby Made Like Juliet Balcony Set. . . 1046
Local Idea vs. State Censorship in Kansas. . . 898
Longacre Wiseacres and Other Things. . . 1330
Lorimer, Alec, Goes to Australia. . . 1148
Louisville, Business Good in. . . 737
Louisville Exhibitors Prosper. . . 1839
Lowering Duty on Films in Brazil. . . 1330
Lurid Film Has Had Its Day. . . 115
Lyon, E. F., with International. . . 87

M

Macon, Ga., New Capital Theater at. . . 738
MacIvor, Mary . . . 1793
Madison Square Garden Ball. . . 992
Many Players to Attend Boston Ball. . . 1142
Maritime Protest Against Deposit. . . 886
Maritime Provinces Organize. . . 218
Marshall, Boyd, Thanhouser Leading Man. . . 713
Maryland Meeting Postponed. . . 1141
Mask Ball of Film Men Is Leading Topic. . . 272
Mason, Shirley—McClure Pictures. . . 1970
Masonic Theater Gets Back Its Old Name. . . 277
Mastbaum, Stanley, Is Host to Film Men. . . 1779
"Masque of Life, The" Revamped. . . 1793
Masterpiece Film Corporation. . . 1335
May Amend Amusement Tax Law. . . 1206
May Now Expect Censor Appeal Board. . . 117
Mayors on Federal Censorship. . . 251
McIntyre in "The Traveling Salesman". . . 711
McKeesport's Fine New Theater. . . 1042
Meeting of Buffalo Screen Club. . . 1624
Meeting of Illinois Branch. . . 528
Meeting of Miami Valley Exhibitors. . . 872
Memphis, Handsome New Theater Promised. . . 276
Memphis Inaugurates Children's Matinees. . . 893
Memphis Has "Cleaner Film" Movement. . . 1204
Metcalfe, Earle. . . 89
Metro's Christmas Serial. . . 1482
Metro Forecast. . . 1174
Metros in the Making. . . 411
Michigan Convention . . . 1937
Michigan Exhibitors' Meeting Called. . . 992
Michigan Exhibitor Sounds Warning. . . 1782
Michigan Is Now Dry. . . 1207
Mill City Exchange Men, Change. . . 1365
Milwaukee Exhibitors Reassure the Mayor. . . 1837
Minneapolis, Admission Prices in. . . 1841
Minneapolis as a Film Center. . . 1049
Minneapolis, Advisory Board, In. . . 1534
Minneapolis Film Trade Prosperous. . . 587
Minneapolis Operators' Wage Demands. . . 115
Minneapolis Organization on Job. . . 433
Minneapolis Strand a Leading House. . . 587
Minusa Screen Dines World Man. . . 1208
Mississippi Exhibitors Hold Meeting. . . 1210
Mitchell, South Dakota, Sabatarians Active. . . 112
Mixed Identities. . . 1794
Mobile, Ala., Exhibitor. . . 892
Molter Off to War. . . 566
Montebello, Pete, "Bally-Hooing". . . 1807
Moore, Tom, Builds New Theater. . . 580
Moore, Tom, Wants to Build Exchange. . . 1201
More Harris Pictures Coming. . . 1941
Morosco Makes Denial. . . 52
Morrison, Adrienne, Wins Recognition. . . 989
Morrison, James, Joins Ivan. . . 217
Motion Picture Educator, by Rev. U. H. Jackson and Margaret I. MacDonald. . . 238, 395, 550, 677, 858, 1013, 1160, 1324, 1496, 1651, 1804, 1964
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The. . . 54, 248, 373, 528, 675, 872, 991, 1141, 1304, 1475, 1622, 1782, 1931
Motion Picture Photography, by Carl Louis Gregory. . . 75, 235, 391, 547, 703, 855
Motion Pictures in Maritime Provinces. . . 1960
Motion Picture in Politics, The. . . 53
Municipal Government, Report on. . . 1052
Music a Drawing Power on Coast. . . 281
Music for the Picture, by Clarence E. Sinn, 76, 236, 393, 548, 704, 856, 1011, 1159, 1643
Musicians Unfair to Small Theaters. . . 1361
Musidora, Juliet. . . 861
Mutual After Chaplain Film Pirates. . . 1144
Mutual Leaders. . . 1337
Mutual Offerings. . . 565
Mutual Picture of Indian Life. . . 1175
Mutual Program. . . 84, 223, 381, 713, 1001
Mutual Promoter, Sullivan. . . 1173
Mutual Sales Force Revamped. . . 244
Mutual Schedule. . . 246
Mutual to Release "Charity". . . 864
Mutual's New Exchange in St. John, N. B. . . 1356
Muybridge's Motion Picture Experiments. . . 239
Myers' Carmel, New Griffith Protege. . . 862

N

"Nation" Court Quashes Injunction. . . 1044
"Nation" Fight Film on in Ohio. . . 582
N. A. M. P. I. Acts on Important Matters. . . 1474
National Association Has Busy Week. . . 1618

National Board Has Annual Luncheon . 1308
National Theater in Jersey City ... 988
Nashville, Empress Theater Sold at.. 1047
Nashville, Tenn., Theater for Blacks and Whites ... 737
Nashville Theater Consolidation ... 112
Need of Economy in Picture Business 1423 1647
Nelse, Alice ... 1756
New Allen Theater at Moose Jaw. ... 288
Newark Theaters in Merger ... 578
New Castle, Ind., Alcazar in, Sold.....1208
New Color Process ... 1043
New Essanay Stock Company ... 1558
New "Gloria" in the Field, A ... 873
New Group of Independent Manufacturers ... 60
New Hampshire Exhibitors Organize... 528
New International Branch Managers.....1148
New Jersey Candidate Opposes Censorship.. 872
New Jersey Convention ... 54
New Jersey Exhibitors in State Convention ... 573
New Jersey Exhibitors Dance ... 1937
New Orleans' Electra Passes Out ... 430
New Sherry Quarters Formally Opened ... 212
New Triangle Exchange Proposition ... 214
New York Exhibitors Win ... 1507
New York Film Salesman Organizes ... 1629
New York Has a Monkey Dinner ... 874
New York Movie Ball Great Success.....1624
New Orleans—Its Picture Business ... 892
Nine Stars in Kalem List ... 716
Nine Two-Week Pickford Showings.....1029
"No Children" Sign—What It Did in Kenosha ... 897
No Copyright Established ... 56
North, Tom, Comes to New York.....1625
Northwest Exhibitors Meet.....1938
Northwest Exhibitors' Meeting.....1476
Norwalk Theater's Novel Benefit ... 270
Notables in General Film ... 836
Not Interested in New Company ... 717

O

Ochs Committee Gets Cold Feet.....1622
Ochs Committee Meets and Adjourns .1783
O'Hara, Kenneth, Regular Writer ... 990
Olean, N. Y., Tragic Accident at.....1203
Olson, E. G., Makes Things Hum.....1840
On Sending Back That Box of Films ... 1526
Ontario Changes Ticket Tax.....1527
Ontario Exhibitors' Association ... 528
Ontario License Officer Makes Statement.... 894
On the International Program ... 969
Open Bookings and Programs ... 429
Operators Dance With Delegates as Guests..1523
Operators Win with Difficulty.....1054
Oregon Ass'n Wants Sunday Law Killed.... 740
Oregon Blue Laws Repealed.....1370
Oregon, Sunday Closing Proponents in, Hopeful 1536
Our Friends and Our Foes.....209, 369
Overproduction Not Feared ... 394
Over Developing ... 1139

P

Pair of Bluebirds, A ... 1345
Pantages to Make Comedy Films ... 117
Paramount Doings for Election Week ... 864
Paramount for Next Four Months.....1178
Paramount Gets Good Start.....1970
Paramount Managers Meet.....1335
Paramount Plans ... 566
Paramount Program ... 1051
Paramount Picture Play.....1176
Paramount Pictures ... 405
Paralysis of Common Sense, The.....1139
Parkway's Brilliant Anniversary ... 887
Parker, Barnett, Thanhouser Leading Man.. 565
Paterson Exhibitors Organize ... 676
Pathe Increases Output ... 87
Pathe Plans Big Campaign.....1479
Pathe Pictures.....1506
Pathe Program, On The.....1181
Pathe Releases ... 1342
Pathe Washington Exchange Moves.....1833
Pathe's Frisco Exchange Moves ... 899
"Patria" to Be Released December 4 ... 876
"Patria" Has Great Reception.....1478
Pearl White in Patriotic Role ... 257
Peck, Mary Gray, Ends Tour.....1809
Pedley's Potato Matinee ... 1832
Pennsylvania Censor's Complaint.....1042
Perceiving the Invisible ... 48
Perpetuating Ignorance ... 1962
Peters and Stedman Co-Star ... 836
Philadelphia Considers Increases in Taxes.1524
Philadelphia, Film Happenings in ... 731
Philadelphia League Has Meeting ... 373
Philadelphia, the Week in ... 1673
Philadelphia, Week's Happenings in.....1357
Phillips, Augustus, Joins Metro ... 552
Photoplays Popular in Gautemala ... 868
Photoplaywright, The; by Epes Winthrop Sargent..70, 230, 386, 542, 698, 850, 1006, 1154, 1348, 1490, 1638, 1798, 1954
Pickford, Mary, in Dangerous Accident....1332
Pickford, Mary, Opening ... 405
Picture Shows Become Commodity ... 113
Picture Operator's Wife Burns to Death....1053
Pictures Aid Sunday Observance ... 1934
Pictures Make Mankind Bigger.....1050
Pittsburgh, The Week in.....1359
Plea for Truthful Portrayal, A ... 240
Planning an Ohio Convention ... 1745
Plans a Continuous Performance ... 246
Plans of the N. A. of M. P. I.....674
Plots and Portraits ... 1961
Political Power of the Screen ... 78
Politicians? Does It Pay to Lend Theaters to 891
Popularity of Pictures Growing in Colon....1309
Port Huron Commission Calls Hall ... 731
Portland Men Organize in ... 1850
Portland's Civil Welfare Assn. ... 890
Portland's New Censorship Activity ... 436
Portland, No Life for the Censors in.....1536
Portland No Settlement Yet in ... 741
Portland Screeners Give Dance.....1844
Portland's Two D Theater Closes ... 1960
Poster Contest Under Way ... 851
Postmasters Must Be Quicker ... 425
Potential Market in Old Pic ... 216
Present Price of Ice Features ... 270
Pro-Ger Agent Gets Hearing ... 571
Price, Kate, Now a Vim Star ... 245
Prima Note of the Home Talent ... 885
Prize Contest Decided.....1014
Problems of Shopping District Theater ... 900
Problems of Small Exhibitor ... 1777
Producers Non-Partisan ... 521
Private Showing of The Common Law ... 85
Programs That Pay, The ... 369
Programs Vs. Open Bookings.....1363
Projection Battered by Examinations ... 1567
Projection Department, by F. H. Richardson, 51, 251, 487, 642, 699, 851, 1007, 1155, 1319, 1491, 1639, 1799, 1955
Propaganda in Kansas.....374
Protest Meeting of Exhibitors ... 211

Q

Quality, The Remedy for Trade Ills ... 244
Quartet of Kalems, A ... 64
Quincy, Ill., Board Limits School Benefits..1364
Quirk Again Heads Screen Club ... 404

R

Raver Comes Back.....1793
Read to Death.....1300
Read Talks of Foreign Rights.....1147
Real Color for "Frisco" ... 866
Real Thrills in Battle Pictures ... 857
Reed, Violet, in Support of Petrova.....1939
Regal Films Incorporates in Toronto.....1671
Record in Albany Open ... 565
Reichenbach Becomes Free Lance.....1811
Responsibility for Wiring Booths in Ontario..1671
Review Chiefs and Advertising Men Confer.1171
Rialto Changes Exhibition Policy.....1792
Rice, Burton, Going Abroad.....1808
Richardson in Washington ... 77
Richardson Still Rolling Around.....1145
Roanoke, Beautiful Colored Theater, in ... 888
Rogers, Louis T., Forms Company.....1484

S

Sabbatarian Legislators Would Line Up.... 282
Saenger Reunion at Shreveport ... 1530
San Francisco a Good Picture Field.....1843
San Francisco Censorship Abolished ... 111
San Francisco, Higher Admissions in ... 739
San Francisco's "Path of Gold" ... 435
San Francisco, Serials Liked in ... 589
San Francisco, The Film Week.....1211
Says Business Is Picking Up ... 994
Says Canada Should Make Films ... 437
St. John, Good Business in.....1203
St. John Manager Got Publicity.....1040
St. John's New Lyric Now Open ... 576
St. Louis Considers Light in Theaters ... 585
St. Louis, on South Broadway.....1682
St. Louis Theater Managers Elect ... 735
St. Louis to Have Screen Club ... 896
Scandal Mongers Light on Films ... 427
Scenario Department Again Enlarged—Famous Player—Lasky ... 412
Scenics by New Process ... 680
Screen Club Gives House Warming ... 1177
Screen Club Incorporates ... 454
Screeners' Ball Brilliant as Ever ... 1300
Screeners Settled in New House ... 676
Screeners to Dance on November 18 ... 1118
Seattle, New Supply Store in ... 1370
Seattle, Will Build Central Exchange in.... 591
Seeing San Francisco's Chinatown ... 869
Selvers Buys "Crisis" for Missouri ... 867
Selig's "Crisis" a Great Production ... 218
Selznick Companies Active ... 1791
Selznick Leases Great Biograph Studio ... 871
Selznick Takes Pittsburgh Lease ... 1202
Seventy-five Hundred Attended Boston Ball..1472
Shelbyville, Ky., Council Has New Theater Ban ... 1570
Sherrill Gives Views on Open Market ... 407
Sherrill on the Fence ... 245
Sherrill Tells His Plans ... 1943
Sherman Breaks All Selling Records ... 1481
Shift in Bluebird Titles ... 1810
Sherman, Ned, Returns East ... 682
Shipmen With Wharmcliffe ... 1966
Short Changing in Tax Tickets ... 1835
Should Minor Operators Be Left in Charge? 277
Showing Pictures for a Living ... 1933
Screen in Politics, The ... 49
Signal's New Serial ... 92
Simultaneous Showing for "Crisis" ... 1026
Small Village Theaters Should Combine.... 1839
Smith, Will C. ... 1339
Smart Returns from Vacation ... 993
Smith, P. H., Makes a Record With Metro..1781
Social Leaders at the Stillman ... 426
Social Workers to Start Film Exchange.... 734
Society of Motion Picture Engineers ... 333
Society of Motion Picture Engineers Hold Annual Meeting ... 216
Soldiers Get Films by Aeroplane.....1171
Some Job of Cutting ... 714
"Somme" Picture Now Approved.....1537
Something for Nothing.....1617
Soriero Winning at Boston's Park.....1807
South Dakota, Appeal Against Sunday Law..1048
South Dakota People Favor Sunday Shows.. 898
Southern Exhibitors to Organize.....1937
Spain Films the Story of Columbus.....1172
Special Writers Needed.....1644
Specialty Takes Over a Business.....1526
Spedon Returns to New York ... 995
Spoor Outlines Essanay's Activities ... 869
Splendid Openings ... 827
Splendid Work in Kansas ... 675
Spokane Women Want to Censor.....1213
Springfield Censors Ambitious.....1533
Springfield's Film Viewers.....1676
Spurrier's System for Handling Paper....1358
Stanley Exhibitors' Association Formed....1200
Star Exactions ... 1616
Stars Scintillate for Universal.....1027
State Right Pictures Are Many.....1212
Stars With General Film ... 563
"Stingaree" on Screen Again.....1024
Stormy Scenes at Ochs' Hearing.....1304
Strand at Winnipeg, Reopens.....1371
Strand Shows Administration Film ... 404
Strand Under New Control ... 431
Strong, Eugene ... 376
Stronger Organization Needed ... 675
Stuart, Roy ... 1791
Submarine Picture Rights ... 532
Substitute Censorship Proposition ... 991
Suit to Restrain Use of Film ... 271
Sunday Question Abroad.....1933
Sunday Shows Illegal?.....1471
"Sunsets" Visit the Drews ... 408
Sunday Situation in Oregon ... 436
Superpictures in Triangle Exchanges.....1314
Swanson May Close Liberty ... 1969
Swanson's Theater Party of Old Folks.....1050

T

Tacoma Exhibitors' Thanksgiving Fund Week ... 1684
Tacoma, Washington, and the Pictures....1650
Tales of Woe ... 1468
Talmadge, Norman, Selznick Star ... 410
Tandy Interests Get Triangle ... 1366
Taxes for Vaults Under Sidewalks.....1358
Temple, The—A Pantheon of Pictures.....1303
Tennessee, No Lower Taxes In ... 585
Texas Amusement Men Meet ... 992
Texas Court Upholds Censorship ... 1210
Texas Film Trade Improves ... 1368
Thanhouser December Releases ... 1333
Thanhouser Talks on Sunday Pictures....1934
Theater Booth at County Fair Paid ... 896
Theater Employs Official Guardian ... 274
Theater License Situation in Dallas ... 900
These Exhibitors Want to Know.....1938
This Banker Likes Pictures.....1499
Thompson, Donald, War Photographer ... 710
Three Fox Photoplays Set for November.... 876
Thriller on Kalem List ... 1029
Tips on Universal Program ... 414
To Exploit Our Industrial Resources ... 1172
To Oppose Missouri Tax.....1939
To Organize 'Frisco Exhibitors ... 1141
To Review Machine Patent Case ... 988
Toronto Double-Header Film Shows.....1362
Toronto Expects Brisk Business ... 113
Toronto Theaters and Publishers at Odds.. 581
Trade Body Asked to Help ... 278
Triangle Coast Activities ... 247
Triangle Program..64, 222, 379, 535, 691, 844, 1000
Triangle Releases for October 29 ... 409
Trigger Sounds Warning.....1938
Trio of Kalems, A ... 378
Turning 'Em Out at Triangle ... 88
Two Biograph Reissues ... 62, 378
Two Great Blows to Censorship ... 525
Two Kalems.....999, 1182, 1508
Two Metro Rolfe Releases ... 225
Two New-Old Biographs ... 220
Two New Triangles ... 567
Two Single Reel Kalems ... 690
Two Prize Winners on Selznick Program... 857
Two Theaters for Showing One Picture.... 738
Two Triangle Features.....1183, 1653

U

Uncle Sam's Defenders.....1478
Unicorn Reports Successful Business ... 873
Union City, Tenn., New Theater at.....1678
Union and Fox Newark Theaters.....1671
Unity's New Year Policy ... 1939
U. S. Theater, Bronx, Opened.....1781
Use Power of Screen Intelligently.....1370
Unfair Competition by Churches.....1213
Universal Engages New Directors.....1170
Universal Program ... 715
Universal Program for Week of Oct. 2..... 86
Universal Program for Week of Oct. 9..... 256
Universal Program Releases ... 564
Universal Screen Magazine.....1175
Universal's Juvenile Program.....1147
Urban Colorfilms.....1333
Utica Exhibitors Organize ... 54

V

Valentine, Grace.....1028
Vancouver Censors Up Again ... 727
Vancouver, The Week in.....1845
Vancouver's Broadway Now Open ... 901

Vice Film Suppressed..... 52
Victoria, B. C., Restricting Club Entertainments 1537
Visit to Bridgeport Picture Shows 862
Vosburgh Joins Ince Forces 1174

W

Walker, Charlotte, Joins Thanhouser 406
Walker, Robert, Metro Player 1499
"War Brides" at the Duquesne 1854
Warde in "King Lear" 678
War Films, America Wants to See 50
Ware, Helen.....1811
Warner, H. B., Leaves Triangle for McClure's 747
Warning Against Misrepresentation, A.....1302
Warsaw's Beautiful New Theater 1528
Warwick Will Have His Own Company..... 995
Washington, D. C., Boosting Children's Shows in 1358
Washington, D. C., Fire Marshal's Report.. 728
Washington Film Exchange Building..... 579
Washington Exchanges and Censors..... 105
Washington Exchanges Organize..... 1257
Week of General Film, A..... 256
Week of Paramounts, A..... 83
Weekly List of Paramounts..... 258
Week's Work in Fox Studios.....562, 1024
Weilands Open Beautiful New Strand.....1526
Weiss Gets New York Branch..... 214
Welsh, William..... 679
What Constitutes a Guardian?..... 993
What Embarrasses Theater Owners..... 591
What Practical Exhibitors Say.....1301, 1777
What's What on Universal Program..... 878
When the "Cinch" Peters Out..... 706
White, Miss, to Have New Serial..... 875
Who Makes the Winner?..... 670
Who's Who in Sherman-Elliott.....407
Why Some Small Theaters Fail..... 740
"Wild Rose of Iowa" an Historical Film.... 586
Williamette Valley Feels Prosperity.....1053
Will Tour Forty Companies..... 877
Will Try Fraudulent Advertising Law..... 105
Winnipeg Laborites Want Better Operators..1685
Winnipeg's Radical Changes in Censorship.1054
Winston with Sunbeam.....1144
Word About Ourselves, A..... 828
Working in West Virginia..... 249

Y

Youngstown's New Strand.....1044

Index to Reviews, Comments, and Stories of the Films

Appended is a list of subjects covered by our reviews and comments and the synopses furnished by the manufacturers released for the three months ending December 31, 1916. This list of releases with dates is as accurate as it is possible to make it with the information that we have received from the companies whose productions are included. Should any of our readers detect errors, we shall be pleased to have our attention called to them so that we may correct our card index. The letter before the folio indicates the page where the reviews, comment, or synopsis can be found. "R" stands for review; "C" for comment; and "S" for synopsis. Where reference letter is omitted to either review or comment it signifies that none was published, and the omission of reference letter "S" indicates that synopsis was not furnished by the manufacturer. Of the later releases where any or all reference letters are omitted it may be said that the missing information, or part of it, will probably be published in the next volume.

A

Absinthe (King Baggot)—December.
Absolute Black (No. 14 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe-Astra)—Dec 31—R-1972; C-1978; S-2014.
Accident Is the Best Policy (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec 11.
Accusing Evidence—Nov. 23 (Universal Big U Special) S-1221.
Admirers Three (Mutual) -Dec. 9, S-1856.
Adventures of Dorothy Dare (No. 1, "It's Never Too Late") (International Film Service)—Nov.—C-838.
Aeroplane Accident, The (No. 12 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity Sales Corporation)—Nov. 20—S-1068, R-222.
Against Heavy Odds (Pathe)—Dec. 24—S-2014
Alice in Society (3 parts) (Universal—L-Ko)—Nov 7—S-908; C-839; R-537.
Alligator Hunt, An (Universal—L-Ko)—Oct. 25.
All Man (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Dec 4—R-1506; S-1550; C-1513.
Almost Guilty (Universal -Nestor)—Oct. 9—S-290; C-261.
Ambitious Ethel (General Film—Vim)—Dec. 1. C-1819.
American Aristocracy (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Nov. 12—S-1230; C-1034; R-691.
And the Law Says (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe American)—Nov. 6—S-912.
Animated Weekly No. 40 (Universal)—Oct. 4—S-445; C-570.
Animated Weekly No. 41 (Universal)—Oct. 11—S-602; C-570
Animated Weekly No. 42 (Universal)—Oct. 18—S-750.
Animated Weekly No. 43 (Universal)—Oct. 25 - S-908.
Animated Weekly No. 44 (Universal)—Nov. 1—S-1064.
Animated Weekly No. 45 (Universal)—Nov. 8—S-1220; C-1379.
Animated Weekly No. 46 (Universal)—Nov. 15—S-1379.
Animated Weekly No. 47 (Universal) Nov. 23 C-1512; S-1547.
Animated Weekly No. 48 (Universal)—Nov. 29—S-1692.
Animated Weekly No. 49 (Universal) Dec 6
Animated Weekly No. 50 (Universal)—Dec 13—S-2001.
Animated Weekly No. 51 (Universal)—Dec. 20.
Animated Weekly No. 52 (Universal)—Dec. 27.
Any Old Duke 'll Do (Universal—Victor)—Nov. 12—S-909; C-1034.
Arabella's Prince (2 parts) (Mutual—Thanhouser) Oct. 5—S-296 C-95.
Are You An Elk? (Universal—Laemmle Special)—Oct. 16—S-751.
Argonauts of California (Grafton Publishing Co.)—Oct.
Argyle Case, The (Selznick)—December
Army and the Woman (5 parts) (Pathe Gold Rooster) Nov. 26—S-1540; C-1339 R 1181
Around the World in Eighty Days (6 parts) (Herald)—Oct. 1.
Artful Dodger (Mutual—Novelty)—Nov. 25—C-1512.
Ashes (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Dec 5 S 1546 C 1513
Ashes of Remembrance (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Oct. 1—S-2161; C-96.
Afloat and Ashore (No. 4 of Uncle Sam's Defenders")—Dec 29.
Athletic Movements Analyzed, and The Isle of Kyuschu (Pathe) (split reel)—Nov. 22—S-610; C-570.
Atta Boy's Last Race (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Nov. 5—S-918; C-838 R-535.
At the Edge of the Aqueduct (2 parts) (Mutual—Thanhouser)—Oct. 13—C-260.
At the Top of the World, Alaska; and The Fascinating Model (Universal—Powers) (split reel) –Nov. 30.
At Twelve O'Clock (2 parts) (Mutual)—Oct. 26—S-753; C-569.
Avenging Angel, An (No. 19 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature) –Dec. 25.
Awakening, The (No. 7 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) Pathe—Astra)—Nov. 12—R-Nov. 4; C-Nov. 18.
Awakening of Helena Richie (5 parts) (Metro-Rolfe)—Dec. 18—S-1858; R-1975; C-1978.

B

Bad Samaritan, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Eclair)—Nov. 18—S-1065; C-1349.
Bandit's Wager, The (Universal—Big U)—Nov. 5—S-749; C-838.
Barfly, The (Universal—Nestor)—Oct. 23—S-598; C-570.
Barriers of Society (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Oct. 16—S-443 C-418; R-226.
Baseball's Peerless Leader (2 parts) (Pathe)—Nov. 12.
Bath Tub Elopement, A (Unity)—Nov.—S-1384.
Battered Bridegroom, The (General Film—Kalem) -Oct 13 S-746; C-568; R-224.
Battle At Elderbush Gulch, The (2 parts) General Film -Biograph-Reissue)—Oct. 24.—S-597; C-837; R-378.
Battle of Life, The (Fox) (5 parts)—Dec. 11, S-1862; C-1820; R-1817.
Battle of the Somme (5 parts) (Baynes—Urban)—Oct.—R-225 C-570.
Bawbs o' Blue Ridge (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—R-1183; C-1512; S-1700.
Beach Birds (Mutual)—Dec. 14.
Beachcomber, The (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 31—S-748; C-1033.
Beans and Bullets (Universal -Joker)—Oct. 21—S-444.
Bears and Bullets (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 15.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 9, "Outside the Law" (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 2—S-451.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 10, "Play Ball" (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 9—S-607.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 11, "The Wages of Sin" (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 16—S-915.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 12, "Curiosity" (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 23—S-915.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 13, "The Ringer" (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 30—S-916; R-1000.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 14, "The Hidden Menace" (2 parts) (International)—Nov. 6—S-1229; R-1179.
Beatrice Fairfax, No. 15, "Wrist Watches" (2 parts) (International)—Nov. 13—S-1383; C-1349; R-1343.
Beautiful Temples of Ceylon, The (Universal—Powers)—Oct 12 S-291.
Before the Show (General Film—Vim) Dec. 29.
Behind Life's Stage (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct 12 S-291; C-261.
Behind the Screen (2 parts) (Mutual Chaplin)—Nov. 13—C-1188; S-1222.
Belle of the Sagebrush, A (Unicorn-Utah)—Dec 14.
Better Instinct, The (2 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Oct. 6—S-289; C-568.
Better Man, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Oct. 28—S-600; C-570.
Betty's Affair (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 27—S-746; C-1033.
Big Tremaine (5 parts) (Metro-Yorke)—Nov. 20—S-1226; C-1509; R-1509.
Billy the Bandit (Universal—Victor)—Dec. 12. —S-2094.
Billy Forgot (Unicorn—Hippo)—Nov. 2.
Billy's Melodrama (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 9—S-288; C-568.
Birds of a Feather (Universal-Gold Seal) (3 parts) Dec. 26—S-2003.
Bit of Bent Wire, A (No. 1 of Dangers of Doris) (General Film—Vitagraph)—Dec. 22.
Bit of Human Driftwood, A (2 parts) (General Film—Biograph-Reissue)—Dec. 5.
Black Sheep of the Family, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Oct. 23—S-602, C-570; R-380.
Black Butterfly, The (5 parts) (Metro—Popular Plays and Players)—Dec. 4—S-1550; C-1659; R-1657.
Blocked Track, The (No. 100 of "The Hazards of Helen" (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. —S-290; C-416; R-64.
Blue Envelope Mystery, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 23—S-604; C-569; R-536.
Bluff (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American)—Oct. 16—S-[illegible]; C-569.
Boarders and Bombs (2 parts) (Unicorn-Billy West Comedy)—Dec. 8—S-2015.
Bobby Bear, Investigator (½ reel) (Pathe—Rolin)—Dec. 17—C-1659; S-2013.
Bobby Bumps Helps "Helps," a Book Agent (Paramount—Bray Cartoon)—Oct. 25.
Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Paramount—Bray Cartoon)—Nov. 23.
Bogus Booking Agents, The (Kalem)—Oct. 24—S-747; C-837; R-536.
Bombs (2 parts) (Triangle-Keystone)—Oct. 8.
Boomerang, A, and Only a Rose (General Film—Selig) (split reel)—Oct. 16—S-443.
Boots and Saddles (5 parts) (B. S. Moss)—Nov. 11—C-839; R-845.
Border Line, The (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 25—S-1219; C-1658.
Border Strife (Unicorn-Buffalo)—Nov. 16.
Border Wolves (No. 17 of "Girl from 'Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 29—R-1508; C-1658; S-1851.
Borrowed Plumes (No. 8 of "Timothy Dobbs, That's Me") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 2—S-129; C-96.
Borrowed Sunshine (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 24—S-596; C-837.
Bought and Paid For (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Nov. 12—S-1384; C-1034; R-1000.
Brand of Cain (3 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 4—S-1543.
Brand of Cain, The (Unicorn-Rancho)—Dec. 1.
Brand of Cain, The (Selig)—Dec. 4, C-1819.
Brand of Cowardice, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolfe)—Oct 23 S-605; C-693; R-691.
Brand of the Sagebrush (Unicorn—Buffalo)—Nov. 4.
Breaker, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay)—Dec. 4—R-1504; S-1551; C-1512.
Breaking Into Society (No. 9 of "Timothy Dobbs, That's Me") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 9—S-291; C-261.

Bride and Gloom (2 parts) (Christie)—Nov.—R-1184.
Bridget's Blunder (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Oct. 16.
Broken Chains (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Dec. 11—S-1697; C-1660; R-1654.
British Egypt (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Nov. 20.
Bubbles (Imp—Special Release)—Dec. 10—S-1693.
Bud Wilson's Romance (Unicorn—Hiawatha)—Oct. 5.
Buddy's Christmas (Mutual)—Dec. 18—C-1820, S-2012.
Bugler of Algiers, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Nov. 27—S-1382, C-1318, R-1345.
Bungling Bill's Bow Wow (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Nov. 5—S-753; C-1063.
Burglar, The (Universal—Victor)—Oct. 29—S-598.
Burlesque Show, The (Unity—Tweedledum) (2 parts)—Dec. 11—S-1551.
Burned Record, The (No. 5 of the "Lass of the Lumberlands") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Nov. 21—C-1349.
Burning Band, The (No. 1, "Is Marriage Sacred.") (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 16.
Butts Casey, Crooks (2 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker) (Star Feature)—Dec. 1—S-1376; C-1658.
By the Sad Sea Waves (Christie)—Oct 2—S-135.

C

Calamity Anna, Guardian (Mutual—American)—Nov. 23—S-1380.
Calamity Anna, Vanity (Mutual—American—Nov. 30—S-1547.
California's Rocky Coast (Picturesque America) (½ reel) (Pathe)—Dec. 28—S-138.
Call of the Unborn, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Dec. 8—S-1545; C-1513.
Canbyhill Outlaws, The (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 7—S-126; C-416.
Candy Trail, The (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 12—S-289; C-568.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 11—S-441; C-568.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 25—C-837.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 1—S-748; C-1033.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 15—S-1060, C-1348.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 13—S-1690; C-1977.
Canimated Nooz Pictorial and Lake Tahoe, Cal. (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 27—S-2003.
Canned Curiosity (2 parts) (Mutual)—Nov. 2—C-838.
Cantrell's Madonna (3 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph—Broadway Star Feature)—Oct. 7—S-288.
Capable Lady Cook, A (Universal—Nestor)—Nov. 17—S-1062; C-1034.
Captain Jinks' Evolution (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 4.
Captain Jinks' Getaway (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 25.
Capt. Jinks Should Worry (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 27, C-1820.
Captain Jinks Sparined Ankle (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 18.
Capt. Kidd's Hidden Treasure (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 11, C-1820.
Capture of Rattlesnake Ike, The (Mutual—American)—Dec. 2—S-1380.
Car and His Majesty, The (No. 1 of the "Scarlet Banner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 2—S-136; C-96; R-1962.
Car and the Girl, The (No. 12 of "The Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 18.
Case of Beans, A (Universal—Victor Special)—Nov. 14—S-1061.
Ceylon and Sammy Johnson Minds the Baby (Universal—Powers Split Reel)—Nov. 2.
Challenge of Chivalry (2 parts) (Unicorn-Supreme)—Dec. 16.
Chalice of Sorrow, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Oct. 9—S-297; C-259; R-61.
Challenge, The (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Dec. 10—S-1700; R-1845; C-1821.
Chaperon, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Essanay) Nov. 20—S-1227; C-1188; R-1180.
Charity Begins at Home (General Film—Vim)—Dec. 13—C-1977.
Charming Villain, A (Universal—Victor)—Oct 6—S-128; C-96.
Chased Into Love (Fox) (2 parts)—R-1818.
Cheaters (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Oct. 10—S-292; C-261.
Child of Mystery, A (5 parts) (Universal-Red Feather)—Dec. 25—R-1974; S-2006; C-1979.
Children of the Feud (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Dec. 2—R-1344; S-1547.
Children Pay, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Nov. 26—S-1385; C-1349; R-1183.
Children Shall Pay (Universal—Laemmle Special)—Dec. 6—S-1544.
Chorus Girl and the Kid, The (3 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Oct. 27—S-596.
Circle of Death, The (Universal—Big U Special)—Dec. 1—S-1377.
Circumstantial Evidence (No. 13 of "The Grip of Evil") (2 parts) (Pathe—Balboa)—C.260.
Circumstantial Guilt (2 parts) (Universal—Imp) Nov. 24—S-1222, C-1189.
Civilization in the Far East and Such Is Life in Alaska (Universal—Powers)—Dec. 26—S-2006.
Citizens All (2 parts) (Mutual—American)—Oct 9—S-445, C-417.
City's Milk Supply & Here and There in Spain (Pathe Split Reel)—Nov. 19—C-1189.
Classmates (2 parts) (General Film—Biograph—Kalem)—Oct 18—S-441, C-692.
Climax, The (2 parts) (Unicorn-Ally)—Nov. 17.
Climax, The, No. 4 of Sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky" (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 18, S-1801.
Clipped Wings (No. 8 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct 2—S-291.
Close Call, A (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 28—S-597; C-809.
Code Letter, The (No. 1 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 20—S-747; C-692.
Colonel Heeza Liar Gets Married (Paramount—Bray)—Oct. 11.
Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Paramount—Bray Cartoons)—Nov. 16.
Colonel Heeza Liar, Nature Faker (½ reel) (Pathe)—Dec. 25—S-108, C-262.
Common Law (5 parts) (Selznick Pictures)—Oct. 16—R-65.
Common Sense Blackett (6 parts) (Monarch)—Oct.—R-689; C-694.
Coney Island Princess (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Dec. 4—R-1655; C-1821; S-1860.
Conquest of Canaan (Frohman)—Oct.—R-224; C-570.
Conscience of Hassan Bey, The (Biograph-Reissue)—Dec. 18, S-1851.
Conspiracy, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Oct. 21—S-444; C-418.
Converging Paths (2 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 9—S-442; C-568.
Convict, The (Unicorn—Puritan)—Oct. 4.
Corner in Colleens, A (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—Nov. 5—S-918, C-858, R-879.
Cossack Whip, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Nov. 13—S-1228; C-1188; R-1002.
Counterfeit Five, The (No. 3 of "Jimmy Dale Alias the Grey Seal") (2 parts) (Unicorn—Monmouth)—Dec. 18—S-1225; R-1181.
Country That God Forgot, The (5 parts) K-E-S-E—Selig)—Oct. 2—S-136; C-260; R-1820.
County Sheriff, The (2 parts) (Unicorn—Jockey)—Oct. 4.
Court Martialed (No. 16 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Nov. 27—S-1379; C-1350.
Criminal, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—Dec. 2—R-691, C-1349, S-1549.
Crimson Stain, The (No. 7, "The Devil's Symphony") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 2—S-296; R-687.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 8, "In the Shadow of Death") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 9—S-448.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 9, "The Haunting Specter") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 16—S-606.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 10, "The Tortured Soul") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct 23—S-756
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 11, "The Tortured Soul") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 30—S-1068.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 12, "The Restless Spirit) (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Nov. 6—S-1224.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 13, "The Despoiling Brutes") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Nov. 13—S-1224.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 14, "The Bloodhound") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Nov. 20—S-1551.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The (No. 15, "Human Tiger") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Nov. 27—S-1697.
Crimson Stain Mystery, The, No. 16 (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Dec. 4.
Crisis, The (7 parts) (Sherman—Elliott—Selig)—R-218.
Crooked Mix-Up, A (Universal—Joker)—Oct. 28—S-598; C-570.
Crosby's Rest Cure (Metro—Drew)—R-1183; C-1188.
Cry of Conscience, The (2 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Nov. 8—S-910; C-839.
Crystal Globe, The (No. 9 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity Sales)—Oct. 30—S-604; R-1691.
Cupid's Upper Cut (Christie)—Dec. 25—S-2018.
Cupid's Torpedoes (Unicorn-Hippo)—Nov. 29.
Curiosity (No. 12 of "Beatrice Fairfax) (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 23—S-915.
Curse You, Jack Dalton (Unicorn-Jockey)—Nov. 30.
Curse of the Forest (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 16.

D

Dad's Masterpiece (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 28—S-751; C-838.
Dan Daly's Nightmare (Unicorn—Hippo)—Oct. 30.
Daring Chance, A (No. 102 of "The Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 21—S-747; C-692; R-379.
Daring Mission, A (Unicorn—Sunset)—Oct 5.
Daughter of Dixie, A (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Oct. 29—S-749.
Daughter of Mars, A (No. 11 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 23—S-745, C-803.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—Nov.—R-672, C-807.
Daughter of U. S. A., A ("Liberty," No. 20) (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Dec. 31.
Day in New York with Betty (No. 8 of Florence Rose Fashions) (Pathe)—Nov. 12—C-1034.
Day with Governor Whitman, A (Griffith)—Nov.
Dancing With Folly (No. 2 "Is Marriage Sacred.") (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 23.
Dangers of Doris No. 1 (A Bit of Bent Wire) (General Film—Vitagraph)—Dec. 22.
Dangers of Doris, No. 2 ("The Luck Charm") (General Film-Vitagraph)—Dec. 29.
Davy's Daily Doings (Unicorn-Jockey)—Nov. 16.
Dawn of Wisdom, The (3 parts) (General Film-Broadway Star)—Dec. 22.
Deacon's Widow, The (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 21—S-603.
Dead Man's Escape (No. 4 of the Vampires) (2 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec.—R-1804.
Decoy, The (Universal—Imp)—Oct. 19—S-598; C-570.
Deed of Daring, A (No. 4 of "A Lass of the Lumberlands") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Nov. 13—S-1222; C-1189.
Deep Purple, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Dec.—R-1597.
Deschutes Drifitwood (Educational Film Corp)—Nov.—R-1160.
Desert Gold (Unicorn-Rancho)—Dec. 14.
Deserted (Unicorn-Sunset)—Nov. 27.
Desert's Prize, The (2 parts) (Unicorn-Rancho)—Nov. 13.
Designing Woman, A (Universal—Laemmle Special)—Dec. 2—S-1378.
Desperate Duel, A (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 7—S-1218; C-1181; R-844.
Despoiler, The (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Dec.—R-2586.
Despoiling Brutes, The (No. 13 of "The Crimson Stain Mystery") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Nov. 13—S-1224.
Detective's Head, The (No. 1 of "The Vampires") (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 23—S-1224; C-1188; R-1819.
Devil in His Own Home Town (Unicorn-Jockey)—Dec. 17.
Devil's Bondwoman, The (5 parts) (Universal Red Feather)—Nov. 20—S-1221; C-1189.
Devil's Double, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—Nov. 26—S-1385; C-1349; R-1000.
Devil's Prize, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 6—S-913; C-1033; R-846.
Devil's Symphony, The (No. 7 of "The Crimson Stain Mystery") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 2—S-296; R-687.
Diamond Lure, The (Universal—Rex)—Nov. 16—S-1062; C-1034.
Diplomacy & When Little Lindy Sang (Universal—Powers—Split Reel)—Oct. 15—S-292.
Disappearing Shadow, The (No. 6 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Nov. 5—S-918; C-838.
Disposing of a Lover (Unicorn—Judy)—Oct. 22.
Divorce and Daughter (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Dec. 3—R-1342; S-1548; C-1512.
Dollar and the Law, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 20—S-1382; R-1181.
Dream of Two Ago, A (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production)—Nov. 27—S-1381—C-1658; R-1655.
Dreamy Dud in the African War Zone (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 18—S-442; C-692.
Dreamy Dud Joyriding with Princess Zlim (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 29—S-1376; C-1658.
Drops of Blood (No. 7 of the "Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity Sales)—Oct 16—S-296.
Ducking a Discord (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Oct. 15—S-445; C-569.
Dudes for a Day (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 28—C-1658; S-1851.
Dulcie's Adventure (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American)—Oct. 12—S-295; C-260; R-223.
Duplicity (Metro-Drew)—Dec.—C-1820.

E

Eagle's Wing (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Nov.—R-1345; C-1511.
Earthquake, The (No. 4 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 22—S-608; C-570; R-1818.
East Is East (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpiece De Luxe—Turner)—Nov. 9—S-912; C-1188; R-1001.
Easy Come and Easy Go (Unicorn-Gaiety)—Nov. 19.
Easy Ed (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 7—S-907; C-1187.
Eat and Grow Hungry (Universal—L-Ko)—Nov. 29—S-1378; C-1512.
Echo of France (Unicorn—Rancho)—Oct. 31.
Egg, The (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 5—S-1542; C-1819.
Eel, The (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Nov. 10—S-908; C-839.
Elopement, The (Mutual)—Dec. 24, C-1820.
Elusive Enemy (Universal—Imp Special)—Oct 9—S-598.
Emerald Pin, The (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Nov. 23—S-1221; C-1189.

End of the Rainbow, The (5 parts) (Bluebird) Oct. 30—S-754; C-692; R-686.
End of the Trail, The (5 parts) (Fox) Nov
Enemy, The (7 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 11—R. 1815.
Enemy to the King (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 27—R-1345; C-1348; S-1551.
Enlighten Thy Daughter (5 parts) (Ivan)—Dec. 1.
Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916, "The Tramp," "His New Job" and "A Night Out" (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 21—S-412, R-687.
Eternal Challenge, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Eclair)—Nov. 4—S-1222; C-1188.
Eternal Way, The (Universal—Big U)—Oct. 5—S-128; C-96.
Eventful Evening, An (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 21—S-443; C-692.
Every Lassie Has a Lover (Mutual)—Dec. 23.
Evidence, The (Universal Big U Special)—Nov. 10—S-908.
Excuse Me (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster Play)—Dec. 31—S-158, C-262; R-253.
Extravagance (5 parts) (Metro—Popular Plays and Players)—Nov. 6—S-1225; C-1188, R-1179.
Eyes of Love, The (Universal—Rex)—Nov. 10—S-910; C-839.

F

Fable of "The Kid Who Shifted His Ideals to Golf and Finally Became a Baseball Fan and Took the Only Known Cure" (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 4—S-127; C-416.
Fable of "The Kittenish Speranus and the World-Weary Snipes" (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 17—S-442; C-692.
Fable of "The Throbbing Genius of a Tank Town Who Was Encouraged by Her Folk Who Were Prominent" (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 25—S-596.
Failure at Fifty (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 9—S-1542, C-1977.
Faith (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American)—Oct. 30—S-753.
Faithless Friend, The (2 parts) (Pathe)—Dec. 10—S-1700; C-1659.
False Clue, The (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec 4—S-1856; C-1978.
False Magistrate, The (No. 5 of "Fantomas") (3 parts) (Mutual Gaumont)—Oct. 5—S-131; C-417.
Fame at Last (No. 10, "Last of Timothy Dobbs, That's Me") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 16—S-443; C-418.
Fantomas No. 5, "The False Magistrate" (3 parts) (Mutual Gaumont)—Oct. 5—S-131, C-416.
Farmer Alfalfa's Blind Pig (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Dec.
Farmer Alfalfa Sees New York (Paramount—Bray)—Nov. 8.
Fascinating Model, The (½ reel) (Universal—Powers)—Nov. 30—S-1377.
Fasters, The (General Film—Vitagraph)—Nov. 20.
Fat and Fickle (General Film-Vim)—Dec. 28.
Fatal Violin, The (General Film-Kalem)—Dec. 19—S-2003; C-1977.
Fate and Death (No. 1 of Sequel to the Diamond from the Sky") (Mutual)—Dec.—R-1510.
Father Gets in Wrong (Universal—Joker)—Oct. 7—S-127; C-570.
Father Was Right (Unicorn—Gayety)—Nov. 3.
Fear (3 parts) (Hiawatha)—Oct. 18.
Felix Gets in Wrong (Universal—Victor Special)—Nov. 21—S-1221.
Felix on the Job (Universal—Victor Special)—Oct. 31—S-750.
Female of the Species, The (5 parts) (Triangle-Kay Bee)—R-1815.
Fickle All Around (2 parts) (Mutual-Vogue)—Dec. 24—S-2012.
Fifty Fifty (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Oct. 22—S-610.
Fight for Paradise Valley, The (No. 16 of the "Girl from Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem) Nov. 22—R-1346; C-1511, S-1543.
Fight at Camp One, The (No. 8 of "A Lass of the Lumberlands") (Signal)—Dec. 11, C-1820.
Fighting Joe (2 parts) (Universal-Bison)—Dec. 23—S-1853; C-1979.
Fighting for Verdun (European)—Nov
Fighting the Germans (5 parts) (American Correspondent Film Corporation)—Nov. 8.
Fight on the Dam, The (Mutual—American) Nov. 9—S-1222; C-1034.
Film d'Art (3 parts)—Mutual)—Nov. 16.
Final Fraud, The (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Dec 2—S-1376; C-1849.
Financial Frenzy, A (General Film-Vim Feature Comedy)—Dec. 27.
Fires of Fate (2 parts) (Unicorn-Buffalo)—Dec 15.
Firm of Girdlestone, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 9—S-449, C-269; R-225
First Blood (No. 3 of "A Lass of the Lumberlands") (2 parts) (Mutual Signal)—Nov 6—S-1222; C-1034.
Fish (General Film—Biograph) Nov 20—S 1219; C-1511.
Five Franc Piece, The (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 18, S-1856
Five Thousand Dollar Dream, The (Universal Victor Special)—Oct. 16—S-597.
Flag of Truce, The (No. 15 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Nov. 20—S-1221; C-1189; R-1184.
Flivver's Terrible Past (Universal—Nestor) Dec. 31—S-129.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 5, "Betty Selects Her Bridesmaid Frock") (Pathe)—Oct. 1—S-138.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 6, "Betty at the Wedding") (Pathe) Oct. 15—S-452; C-417.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 7, "Betty Entertains Out of Town Guests") (Pathe)—Oct. 29—S-758; C-693.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 8, "A Day in New York with Betty") (Pathe)—Nov. 12—C-1034.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 9, "The Beginning of the Social Season") (Pathe)—Nov. 26.
Florence Rose Fashions (No. 10, "Fashions and Charity") (Pathe)—10, S-1700.
Florence Rose Fashions, No. 11 "A Day of Sport" and "Young Fur Bearing Animals" (Pathe)—Dec. 24—C-1821; S-2014.
Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12, "Frills and Thrills" and "Making Raisins" (Pathe)—Dec. 31—C-1978.
Flower of Faith, The (5 parts) (International—Superb)—Oct. 2—S-137; C-95; R-2101.
Flower of the Prairie, The (2 parts) (Unicorn-Rancho)—Nov. 27.
Following the Flag (3 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 27—S-1377.
Following the Flag in Mexico (Feinberg Amuse Co.)—April—C-1658.
Folly of Fear, The (2 parts) (Mutual)—Oct. 24—S-602.
Foolish Romance (2 parts) (Unicorn—Jockey)—Oct. 17.
Foolish Virgin, The (5 parts) (Selznick)—November—R-1975.
Forgotten Train Order (No. 107 of the "Hazards of Helen" (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 25—C-1511; S-1543.
For Love and Gold (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Nov. 4—S-748; C-694.
For the Flag (No. 12 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Oct. 30—S-1062; C-839.
Found Guilty (No. 2 of "Pearl of the Army") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Dec.—R-1506.
Fowl and Game Birds and Historic New Orleans (Pathe Split Reel)—Nov. 5—S-918; C-838.
Frame-Up, The (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 27—S-597.
Franchise, The (2 parts) (Mutual—American)—Oct. 16—S-446; C-569.
Free Speech (Metro—Drew)—Nov.—C-1349.
Friends (General Film—Biograph-Reissue)—Oct. 23—S-597.
From Citizen to Soldier (No. 1 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders") (Mutual) Dec 8
From the Deep (3 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Oct. 13—S-289; C-692.

G

Gamble in Souls (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—Dec. 23—R-1508; C-1821.
Game That Failed, The (General Film-Vitagraph)—Nov. 3—S-906; C-1187.
Gate of Death, The (No. 104 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 4—S-1218; C-1033; R-843.
Gates of Eden, The (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Oct. 30—S-914; C-1349; R-997.
Gay Deceivers (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 10.
Gertie's Garters (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Nov. 1—S-746; C-1033.
Gertie's Latest Love Affair (Mutual)—Dec. 7, C-1820.
Ghost, The (No. 3 of "The Vampires") (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov.—R-1504.
Ghost of A Chance, The (Metro)—Oct. 23—C-569.
Giant Powder (2 parts) (Universal-Bison)—Dec. 26—S-2004.
Gilded Cage, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Oct. 9—S-605; C-261; R-220.
Girl and the Bandit, The (2 parts) (Universal Special)—Oct. 2—C-96.
Girl Detective, The (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 18—S-1060; C-1511.
Girl From Frisco (No. 9 "The Web of Guilt") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem) Oct. 4—S-290; C-417; R-65.
Girl From Frisco (No. 10 "The Reformation of Dog Hole") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 11—S-746; C-568; R-224.
Girl From Frisco (No. 11 "The Yellow Hand") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 18—S-747; C-692; R-378.
Girl From Frisco (No. 12 "The Harvest of Gold") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 25—S-747; C-837; R-535.
Girl From Frisco (No. 13 "The Son of Cain") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 1—S-1218; C-1033; R-842.
Girl From Frisco (No. 14 "The Witch of the Dark House") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 8—S-1218; C-1187; R-999.
Girl From Frisco (No. 15 "The Brass Bound Chest") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 15—R-1182.
Girl From Frisco (No. 16 "The Fight For Paradise Valley") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 22—R-1346; C-1511.
Girl From Frisco (No. 17 "Border Wolves") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem) Nov 29—R-1508.
Girl From Frisco (Series) (No. 18 "The Poisoned Dart") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 6—C-1819; S-1852.
Girl From Frisco (No. 19 "The Stain of Chuckawalla") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 13—S-1852; C-1977.
Girl From Frisco (No. 20 "On the Brink of War") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 20—R-1975; S-2003.
Girl Who Did Not Care (6 parts) (Ivan)—Nov., S-913; C-1035; R-841.
Girl Who Doesn't Know, The (5 parts) (B. S. Moss)—R-1815; C-1821.
Gloriana (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Nov. 6—S-1066; C-837; R-844.
Glove and the Ring (No. 8 of "The Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov 20—S-1066; C-1188; R-65.
Goddess of Sagebrush Gulch, The (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Oct. 30—S-478.
Going to Halifax (Paramount-Burton Holmes)—Dec. 18.
Gold Band, The (Universal—Rex)—Oct. 20—S-598; C-418.
Gold Cigarette Case, The (No. 9 of "The Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 27—S-1227; C-1348; R-65.
Golden Thought, The (2 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 25.
Good and Proper (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 17—S-1220; C-1348.
Good Morning Judge (2 parts) (Universal-Victor)—Dec. 28—S-2005; C-1979.
Good Stenographer, The (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Nov. 22—S-1220; C-1511.
Good Woman, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Dec. 9—C-1513; S-1691.
Governor's Decision, The (Universal—Imp Special)—Oct. 26; S-749.
Grain of Suspicion, A (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Oct. 4—S-289; C-416.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 1 "The Code Letter") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 20—S-747; C-692.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 2 "The Missing Heiress") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 27—S-747; C-837; R-535.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 3 "The Pencil Clue") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 1—S-1218; C-1033; R-690.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 4 "The Man from Yukon") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 10—C-1187; S-1218; R-843.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 5 "The Rogues Pawn") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 17—R-1183; C-1348.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 6 "The House of Three Dueces" (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 24—C-1511; R-1346.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 7 "The Wizard's Plot" (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 1—R-1508.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 8 "The Trunk Mystery" (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 8.
Grant, Police Reporter (No 9 "The Menace") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 15—S-1852.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 10 "The Tiger's Claw") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 22—R-1975; S-2003.
Grant, Police Reporter (No. 11 "A Mission of State") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 29—S-2003.
Greater Power, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Dec. 2—C-1350; S-1545.
Great Sacrifice, The (No. 11 of Shielding Shadow" (Pathe—Astra)—Dec.—R-1506.
Great Truth, The (Epic Pictures, Inc.)—Dec.—R-1341.
Green Eyes (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Oct. 25—S-597; C-837.
Green Eyes (Universal—Laemmle)—Dec. 13—S-1694; C-1659.
Greenlands Icy Mountains (Paramount—Bray)—Nov. 1.
Grey Seal, The (No. 1 of "Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal") (2 parts) (Unicorn—Monmouth)—Nov.—S-1225; R-1181.
Grimsey, the Bellhop (Mutual-Star Comedy)—Dec. 30.
Grip of Evil, The (No. 12 "Into the Pit") (2 parts) (Pathe—Balboa)—Oct. 1—S-138; C-96.
Grip of Evil, The (No. 13 of "Circumstantial Evidence") (2 parts) (Pathe—Balboa)—Oct. 8—C-260.
Grip of Evil, The (No. 14, "Humanity Triumphant") (2 parts) (Pathe—Balboa)—Oct. 15—S-451; C-417.
Grouchy (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 2—S-1547.
Guilty (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Nov. 17—S-1061; C-1034.
Guilty Hand, The (2 parts) (Unicorn-Buffalo)—Nov. 28.
Guilty One, The (2 parts) (Unicorn—Supreme)—Oct. 6.
Guilty Ones, The (General Film—Vim)—Dec. 7—S-1690; C-1819.
Gulf, The (2 parts) (Unicorn-Buffalo)—Nov. 19.

H

Half Breed's Hatred, The (No. 11 of the "Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity)—Nov. 13—S-913; R-222.
Hans Henri and the Neophyte (Educational)—Nov.—R-1160.
Harbor of Happiness (3 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph—Broadway Star Feature)—Oct. 21—S-746; C-837.

Harvest of Gold, The (No. 12 of "The Girl from Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 25—S-747; C-837; R-555.
Hash and Havoc (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 4.
Haunted House, The (No. 5 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 2—S-2150; C-2130; R-1684.
Haunting Hand, The (No. 8 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Nov 18—S-1230; C-1189; R-1181.
Haunting Specter, The (No. 9 of "The Crimson Stain Mystery") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 16; S-606.
Have You Heard About Lillie? (General Film—Vitagraph)—Dec. 1.
Haystacks and Steeples (Triangle—Keystone)—Oct. 1—R-1001; C-1189.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 100 "The Blocked Track") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 7—S-290; C-416; R-64.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 101 "To Save the Special") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 14—S-747; C-568; R-224.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 102 "A Daring Chance") (General Film—Kalem) Oct. 21—S-747; C-692; R-379.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 103 "The Last Messenger") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 28—S-747; C-837; R-536.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 104 "The Gate of Death") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 4—S-1218; C-1033; R-843.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No 105 "The Lone Point Mystery") (General Film—Kalem) Nov. 11—S-1218; C-1187; R-999.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No 106 "The Runaway Sleeper") (General Film—Kalem—Nov. 18—C-1348.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 107 "The Forgotten Train Order") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 25—C-1511.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No. 108 "The Trial Run") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 2.
Hazards of Helen—Railroad Series (No 109 "The Lineman's Peril") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 9.
Hazards of Helen (No 110 "The Midnight Express") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 16.
Hazards of Helen (No. 111 "The Vanishing Box Car") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 23—S-2003.
Hazards of Helen, No. 112, "A Race With Death" (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 30—C-1977; S-2003.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 79 (International)—Oct. 3—S-450; C-417.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 80 (International)—Oct. 6—S-450; C-417.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 81 (International)—Oct. 10—S-607; C-569.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 82 (International)—Oct. 13—S-756; C-569.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 83 (International)—Oct. 17—S-757; C-693.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 84 (International)—Oct. 20—S-757.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 85 (International)—Oct. 24—S-915; C-837.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 86 (International)—Oct. 27—S-915; C-838.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 87 (International)—Oct. 31—S-1068.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 88 (International)—Nov. 2—S-1228; C-1188.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 89 (International)—Nov. 7—S-1228; C-1188.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 90 (International)—Nov. 9—S-1228; C-1188.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 91 (International)—Nov. 14—S-1383; C-1349.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 92 (International)—Nov. 17—C-1349; S-1861.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 93 (International)—Nov. 21—S-1861.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 94 (International)—Nov. 24—C-1512; S-1861.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 95 (International)—Nov. 28—C-1658; S-1862.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 96 (International)—Nov. 30—C-1658; S-1862.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 97 (International)—Dec. 5—S-1862; C-1820.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 98 (International)—Dec. 8—C-1820.
Hearst-International News Pictorial (No. 99 (International)—Dec. 12—C-1977.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 100 (International)—Dec. 15.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 101. (International)—Dec. 19.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 102 (International)—Dec. 22.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 103 (International)—Dec. 26.
Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 104 (International)—Dec. 29.
Heart, The (Universal—Big U) Dec. 15—S-1854.
Heart of a Fool, The (3 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph—Broadway Star Feature)—Nov. 4—S-906; C-1187.
Heart of a Hero, The (5 parts) (World)—Nov. 6—S-1067; C-839; R-840.
Heart of the Flame (Unicorn—Puritan)—Oct. 30.
Heart of the Hills, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Oct. 30—S-607; C-693; R-536.
Heart of Ramona, The (Unicorn-Hiawatha)—Dec. 2.
Heart of Virginia Keep, The (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay) Nov. 4—S-748; C-1187.
Hedge of Heart's Desire (General Film—Selig) Nov. 25—S-1219; C-1511.
He Died and He Didn't (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Oct. 29—S-602; C-693.
Heel of the Law, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp Special)—Nov. 30—S-1378.
Heine and the 400 (Pathe—Rolin) Oct. 8—S-300; C-260.
Heine and the Magic Man (Pathe—Rolin)—Oct. 22—S-610.
Heir to the Hoorah, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Oct. 26—S-914; C-838; R-842.
Heiress at Coffee Dan's, The (Triangle-Fine Arts) Dec. 25, S-1821.
He Loved the Ladies (Christie)—Oct. 23—S-755.
He Loved and Rode Away (Unicorn-Judy)—Nov. 28.
Help! Help! Help! (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 18—C-1977.
Henry's Thanksgiving (Metro—Drew) Oct.
Henry W. Zippy Buys a Motor Boat (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Oct.—R-538.
Her Chance (Universal—Victor)—Nov 19—S-1061; C-1034.
Here and There (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 20—S-596; C-692.
Here and There in Spain and a City's Milk Supply (Pathe Split Reel) Nov. 18—C-1189.
Heredity (General Film—Biograph Reissue) Dec. 27—S-128; C-261.
Her Father's Son (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco)—Oct. 12—S-449; R-380.
Heritage of Hate, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Nov. 13—S-1064; C-1034.
Her Message to Heaven (Universal—Laemmle) Nov. 25; S-1222.
Heroine of San Juan (Universal—Big U Special)—Nov. 26.
Heroine of San Juan, The (2 parts) (Universal—Big U Special)—Nov. 26; S-1221.
Her Painted Pedigree (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue) Oct. 22—S-602; C-693.
Her Sacrifice (General Film—Biograph-Reissue)—Dec. 11—S-1543.
Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Mutual—Cub)—Nov. 17—S-1064; C-1188.
Her Vanished Youth (Universal-Rex) Nov 5—S-750; C-694.
Her Wedding Day (2 parts) (Universal-Laemmle)—Nov. 2—S-750; C-694.
He Went and Won (General Film-Vim)—Dec 20.
He Wouldn't Tip (Mutual—Vogue)—Oct. 20—S-602.
He Wouldn't Wear Glasses (Metro) Dec 1—C-1978.
Hidden Menace, The (No. 14 of "Beatrice Fairfax") (2 parts) (International)—Nov 6—S-1229; R-1179.
Hidden Prince, The (No. 4 of the "Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph) Oct 23—S-604; C-569; R-1962.
Hidden Scar, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Oct. 16—S-605; C-418; R-378.
Hidden Valley (5 parts) (Pathe Gold Rooster)—Nov. 5—C-838; R-841.
Hidden Menace, The (No. 13 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe-Astra)—Dec. 24—C-1821—S-2013.
High Cost of Living (Unicorn—Hippo)—Dec. 13.
High Diver's Curse (2 parts) (Universal—L-Ko)—Dec. 6.
High Life on a Farm (Universal Powers)—Nov. 9—S-909.
His Blushing Bride (Mutual—Cub)—Nov. 10—S-911; C-1034.
His Conscious Conscience (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 27—S-1546; C-18-0.
His Disjointed Honeymoon (Unicorn—Judy) Nov. 4.
His Golden Hour (Universal—Victor Special)—Dec. 5—S-1545; C-1512.
His Guardian Angel (2 parts) (Mutual)—Nov. 13—S-1223.
His Ivory Dome (Paramount-Black Diamond)—Dec. 11.
His Little Wife (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 7—S-127; C-568.
His Married Life (2 parts) (Unicorn-Billy West Comedy)—Dec. 1—S-2015.
His Model Wife (Christie)—R-1813.
His Moral Code (3 parts) (General Film—
His Other Wife (Unicorn-Hiawatha) Nov 29 Essanay)—Nov. 18—S-1219; C-1511.
His Own Nemesis (Universal Nestor) Oct. 16—S-444; C-418
His Sister's Beau (Unicorn—Judy)—Oct. 3.
His Uncle's Ward (Mutual) Nov 30 C-1820
His Waiting Career. (2 parts) (Unicorn-Billy West Comedy)—Dec. 15—S-2015
His Wedding Night (Christie)—Oct. 9—S-755.
His Wedding Promise (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Nov. 15—S-1220.
His Wife's Allowance (General Film—Vitagraph)—Dec. 8.
His Wife's Mother (Metro) Dec—C-1659
His Wife's Story (2 parts) (Biograph-Reissue)—Dec. 19, S-1851.
Hist! At Six O'Clock (Christie) R-1813; C-1819; S-1857.
Historic New Orleans & Fowl & Game Birds Pathe split reel)—Nov. 5—S-918; C-828
Homeless (Universal-Laemmle Special)—Dec 20, S-1853.
Honorable Algy (5 parts) (Triangle Ince)—Nov. 19—S-1232; C-1189; R-844.
Honor of the Gardells (2 parts) (Unicorn-Puritan)—Oct. 19.
Honor of Mary Blake, The (Bluebird)—Dec. 18, R-1816; S-1858; C-1189
Honor and the Law) (2 parts) (General Film Biograph-Reissue) Dec 13—S-1543.
Honor of the Tribe (2 parts) (Unicorn—Buffalo)—Oct. 22.
Honor Thy Country (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Nov. 14—S-1063; C-1034.
Hot Dogs (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 10—S-907; C-1187.
House of Three Deuces (No. 6 of Grant, Police Reporter) (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 24—R-1346; C-1511; S-1543.
How Do You Feel? (Universal—Nestor)—Nov 20—S-1221; C-1189.
How Life Begins (3 parts) (Geo E Stone)—Oct.—R-221; C-1821.
How Matches Are Made and The Island of Kyuschu, Southernmost Japan (Pathe split reel)—Dec. 3—S-1548.
Hubby's Chicken (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy) Dec 6 C-1819
Human Gamble, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Oct. 8—S-291; C-261.
Humanity Triumphant (No 14 of the "Grip of Evil") (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct 16—S-451, C-417.
Humanizing Mr. Winsby (5 parts)—(Unity) Nov. 6.
Human Targets (No. 10 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 16—S-600; C-839.

I

Ice and the Artist (General Film -Kalem) - Dec. 12—C-1658; S-1852.
Idle Wives (7 parts) (Universal State Rights)—Oct.—R-65; C-261.
Ignorance (Private Feature Film Mfg. Co.)—Dec. "I Am Insured" and "See America First" No. 59 (Mutual Gaumont Split Reel)—Oct. 25—C-Nov. 693.
I'm Your Husband (Universal-Laemmle)—Dec. 13—S-1694; C-1659.
Immediate Lee (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpicture American)—Nov. 16—S-1065; C-1188; R-1183.
Indiscretion (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec 25—C-1978.
Innocence of Lizette, The (5 parts) (Mutual-Star Production-American—Dec. 25.
Inner Soul, The (3 parts) (Unicorn-Puritan)—Nov. 14.
In Society and Out (Paramount-Klever)—Dec. 18.
In a Looking Glass (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay) Dec. 12—S-1630; C-1977.
In and Around Ancient Japan & Sammie Johnsin At the Seaside (Universal—Powers split reel)—Nov. 26—S-1221.
In Classic Greece (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Nov. 6.
Incorrigible Captive (No. 9 of Shielding Shadow) (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Nov. 26.
Indian's Loyalty, An (General Film—Biograph—Reissue—Oct. 2—S-126; R-416.
Influence of the Unknown, The (General Film—Biograph—Reissue)—Nov. 27—S-1376; C-1658.
In Love With A Fireman (Universal—Joker)—Nov. 11—S-908; C-838.
In Modern Athens (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Nov. 13.
Inoculating Hubby (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 13—S-446; C-569.
In Old Ireland (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Oct. 9—C-260.
Interrupted Nuptials, The (No. 14 of the "Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity)—Dec 4—S-1384; C-845.
In the Dead of Night (2 parts) (Imp) Dec. 22, S-1853.
In the Diplomatic Service (5 parts) (Metro - Quality)—Oct 16 S-447; C-569; R-537
In the Heart of India As Seen by Dr Dorsey (Universal-Powers Dec 24
In the Heart of New York (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Oct. 3—S-129; C-96.
In the House of the Chief (3 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Oct 2 S-126; C-416
In the Laps of the Gods (Universal—Victor) - Oct. 1—S-2060; C-260
In the Land of King Cotton (Universal—Powers)—Dec. 14—S-1692.
In the Mesh of Her Hair (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct 22 S-610; C-570
In the Ranks (General Film Vim)—Nov 3—S-908; C-1187.
In the Shadow of Death (No. 8 of "The Crimson Stain Mystery") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 9—S-448.
International Split Reel (International)—Dec 11, S-1862.
International Split Reel (International—Dec. 18, S-1862.
Into the Depths (No. 2 of "The Shielding Shadow) (2 parts) (Pathe Astra) Oct 8 S-300; C-260 - R-1818
Into the Pit (No 12 of "The Grip of Evil") (2 parts) (Pathe—Balboa)—Oct. 1—S-138; C-96.
Intrigue, The (5 parts) (Paramount -Balboa)—Oct 9—R-2101; C-95
Interrupted Nuptials (No. 14 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity) Nov - R-845
Irma In Wonderland (Universal Powers)—Nov. 22—S-1221; C-1180
Iron Woman, The (5 parts) (Metro—Popular Plays & Players)—Oct. 2—S-297; C-569; R-280
Island of Capri (Paramount—Burton Holmes) - Oct. 23.

Island of Kyuschu & Southernmost Japan, & How Matches Are Made (Pathe Split Reel)—Dec. 3.
Is Marriage Sacred? (2 parts) (No. 1, "The Burning Band") (General Film-Essanay)—Dec. 16, S-1850.
Is Marriage Sacred? (2 parts (No. 2, "Dancing With Folly") (General Film-Essanay)—Dec. 23, S-1850.
Is Marriage Sacred (2 parts) (No 3, 'Wife in Sunshine") (General Film-Essanay)—Dec. 30—S-2003.
Isle of Kyuschu, The & Athletic Movements Analyzed (Pathe Split Reel)—Oct. 22—S-610; C-570.
Isle of Life, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Oct. 30—S-751; C-694, R-685.
It May Be Your Daughter (Moral Uplift Society)—Oct.—R-382.
It Could Never Happen (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 28—S-506; C-1035.
It Didn't Work Right (Universal—Victor)—Dec. 14—S-1694.
It Sounded Like a Kiss (Universal-Nestor—Dec. 18—S-1853; C-1978.
It's All Wrong (Universal—Nestor)—Oct 13—S-290; C-261.
It's Great to Be Married (Universal-Victor)—Dec. 22—C-1978.
It's Never Too Late (No. 1 of the "Adventures of Dorothy Dare") (International)—Nov. —C-838.
Ivy and the Oak, The (2 parts) (Universal-Rex)—Dec. 21, S-1852.

J

Jade Necklace, The (No. 1 of "Perils of Our Girl Reporters") (2 parts) (Mutual Magazine)—Dec. 28.
Jack Tar in the Making, A (No. 2 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders) (Mutual)—Dec. 15.
Jacobean House, The (No. 5 of "The Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 30—R-2099.
Jags and Jealousy (Universal-Joker)—Dec. 23, S-1853—C-1978.
Jailbirds (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 5—C-1658; S-1852.
Janitor's Vendetta, A (Universal—Joker)—Nov. 25 -S-1220; C- 1189.
Jealous Jolts (2 parts) (Mutual-Vogue)—Dec. 31.
Jealousy (5 parts) (Fox)—Nov. 20—S-1228; C-1346.
Jenkins and The Janitor (Unicorn—Judy)—Oct. 2.
Jerry McDub (Kern Kartoon Corp.)—Oct.—R-538.
Jerry in Mexico (Mutual—Cub)—Dec. 31—S-486; C-625.
Jerry's Big Doings (Mutual—Cub)—Dec. 8—S-1546.
Jerry's Double Header (Mutual—Cub)—Nov.—S-1223.
Jerry's Revenge (Mutual—Cub)—Dec.
Jerry's Winning Way (Mutual—Cub)—Dec. 1—S-1380.
Jess of the Hill Country (2 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Nov. 3—S-746; C-1187.
Jim Grimsby's Boy (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince) —Nov. 12—S-1232; C-1034; R-555.
Jimmy Dale, Alias "The Grey Seal (No. 1 of "Grey Seal") (2 parts) (Unicorn—Monmouth)—Dec. 4—S-1225; R-1181; C-1659.
Jimmy Dale, Alias "The Grey Seal" (No 2 "The Stolen Rubles") (2 parts) (Unicorn—Monmouth)—Dec. 11—S-1225; R-1181; C-1659.
Jimmy Dale, Alias "The Grey Seal" (No. 3 "The Counterfeit Five") (2 parts) (Unicorn-Monmouth)—Dec. 18—S-1225; R-1181; C-1659.
Jimmy Dale, Alias the Grey Seal (2 parts) (No. 4 "The Metzer Murder Mystery") (Unicorn-Monmouth)—Dec. 25, S-1859.
Jockey of Death, The (5 parts)—(International —Milano)—Nov. 13—S-1068; C-1033; R-999.
Journey to Nowhere, A, and Some of Our Biggest Star Performers (General Film-Vitagraph)—Dec. 25.
Joy and the Dragon (5 parts) (Pathe-Gold Rooster)—Dec. 31—R-1972; S-2014; C-1978.
Jumps and Jealousy (General Film—Vitagraph) Nov. 20.
Jungle Child, The (5 parts (Triangle—Ince)—Oct. 1—S-300; C-261; R-1959.
Just Her Luck (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Dec. 5—S-1379; C-1513.
Just a Song at Twilight (5 parts) (Dixie Film Co.)—R-1975.
Justice A La Carte (General Film—Vitagraph) —Nov. 24.

K

Kartoon Komics & See America First (No. 61) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 8
King Lear (Pathe—Thanhouser)—Dec. 17—R-1812; C-1821; S-1866
Kinkaid—Gambler (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Dec. 4—R-1560; S-1545; C-1513.
Kiss, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Oct. 19—R-688.
Kisses and Fist (Unicorn-Gaiety)—Dec. 14.
Kitty From the City (Universal—Victor Special) —Oct. 24—S-750
Knights of the Bathtub (Universal—Nestor)—Nov. 13—S-1063; C-1034.

L

Lady Drummer, The (2 parts) (Triangle—Keystone)—Oct. 1.
Lake Tahoe, Cal., and Continental Nooz Pictorial, No. 21 (General Film-Essanay)—Dec. 27.
Land Just Over Yonder (6 parts) (Unity)—Dec. 23—R-1090; S-1859.
Land of Evangeline (Paramount - Burton Holmes)—Dec. 25.
Last, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Oct. 2—R-1382; C-569.
Lash of Destiny (Art Dramas, Inc.—Van Dyke) —Dec. 21—S-1697.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A (No. 1 "The Lumber Pirate") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Oct. 23—S-752; C-693; R-686.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A (No. 2 "The Wreck in the Fog") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Oct 30—S-911; C-693; R-686.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A (No. 3 "First Blood") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Nov. 6—S-1222; C-1034.
Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 4 "A Deed of Daring") (2 parts (Mutual—Signal)—Nov. 13—S-1222; C-1189.
Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 5 "The Burned Record") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Nov. 20—C-1349.
Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 6) (Mutual—Signal)—Nov. 27—S-1695; C-1659.
Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 7) (Mutual—Signal)—Dec. 4—C-1659; S-2012.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A, No. 8 (2 parts) (Mutual-Signal)—Dec. 11.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A, No. 9 (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal) Dec. 18—S-2012; C-1978.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A, No. 10 (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 25.
Lass of the Lumberlands, A, No. 11 (2 parts) (Mutual-Signal)—Dec. 31.
Last Man, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph) —Oct. 30—S-912, R-689.
Last of the Fighting Channings (No. 1 of Patria)—Dec. (International) R-1510.
Last of the Morgans, The (2 parts) (Universal —Laemmle)—Nov. 20—S-1378; C-1350.
Last Trust, The (Mutual—Beauty)—Oct. 31—S-753.
La Tosca (2 parts) (Exclusive Features, Inc.) —Oct.
Law of Nature, The (2 parts) (Mutual)—Oct. 17—S-602.
Lawyer's Secret, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex) —Dec. 14—S-1693; C-1660.
Lend Me Your Wife (Unity)—Nov.—S-1227.
Less Than The Dust (7 parts) (Artcraft)—Nov. 6—S-1227; C-1035, R-998.
Lesson for Somebody, A (Greater-Vitagraph)—Dec. 18.
Libertine (6 parts) (Triumph)—Nov.—R-1001.
Liberty (No. 8 "Clipped Wings") (2 parts)—(Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 2—S-291.
Liberty (No. 9 "Trapped") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 9—S-443; C-418.
Liberty (No. 10 "Human Targets") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 16—S-600, C-859.
Liberty (No. 11, "A Daughter of Mars") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 23—S-448; C-859.
Liberty (No. 12 "For the Flag") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 30—S-1062, C-859.
Liberty (No. 13 "Strife and Sorrow") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Nov. 6—S-1065, C-1189.
Liberty (No. 14 "A Modern Joan of Arc") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Nov. 13—S-1063; C-1189; R-1184.
Liberty (No. 15 "The Flag of Truce") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Nov. 20—S-1221; C-1189, R-1184.
Liberty (No. 16 "Court Martialed") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Nov. 27—S-1379; C-1350.
Liberty (No 17 "A Trail of Blood") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Dec. 11—S-1544.
Liberty (No. 18 "The Wolf's Nemesis") (2 parts) —Dec. 18—S-2005.
Liberty (No. 19, "An Avenging Angel") (2 parts) (Universal—Special Feature)—Dec. 25 -S-2006.
Liberty (No. 20, "A Daughter of the U. S. A.") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Dec. 31.
Life's Maelstrom (2 parts) (Universal—Big U) —Nov. 16—S-1063; C-1034.
Life's Shadows (5 parts) (Metro—Columbia)—Oct 9—S-297; C-569.
Life's Stepping Stones (3 parts) (Unicorn—Supreme)—Nov. 5.
Light That Failed, The (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Oct. 15—S-452; C-417; R-63.
Lineman's Peril, A (No. 109 of "The Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 9—C-1658; S-1852.
Little Brown Mole, The (2 parts) (General Film-Essanay)—Dec. 19.
Little Partner (3 parts) (Universal-Special)—Dec. 19, S-1853.
Live Corpse, The (Unicorn—Puritan)—Oct 6.
Lone Point Mystery, The (No. 105 of the "Hazards of Helen") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 11—S-1218; C-1187; R-999.
Lonesome Town (Mutual American) (5 parts)—Dec. 11—S-1855.
Lone Star (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American)—Nov 23 S-1223; C-1512.
Long Search, The (Universal—Big U Special) —Nov. 17—S-1063.
Lord Chumley (3 parts) (General Film—Biograph—Reissue)—Nov. 15—S-1060; C-1348.
Lost Girl, The (No 10 of "The Scarlet Runner") (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 4—S-1382.
Lost In Babylon (Universal—Rex)—Nov. 19—S-1062; C-1189.
Lost Loue, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison) —Nov. 25—S-1222; C-1189.
Lost Messenger, The (No. 103 of "The Hazards of Helen") (General Film—Kalem)—S-747; C-837; R-536.
Lost Ring, The & M. S. Fighting Craft (Unicorn—Judy Split Reel)—Oct. 16.
Lost, Strayed or Stolen (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Nov. 19—S-1065.
Lost Twenty-Four Hours (3 parts) (General—Essanay)—Oct. 14—S-441; C-568.
Love and a Liar (Universal—Nestor)—Oct. 30—S-749; C-693.
Love and Hate (5 parts) (Fox)—Nov.—R-998; C-1348.
Love and Kerosene (Unicorn—Jockey)—Oct. 31.
Love Hermit, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American)—Oct. 26—S-604; C-838.
Love Magnet, The (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 10—S-746; C-568; R-224.
Love Never Dies (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Oct. 23—S-606; C-569; R-379.
Love of an Empire (2 parts) (Rex)—Dec. 17—S-1693.
Love Thief, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 18, S-1862—R-1975.
Love's Mirage (Unicorn-Utah)—Dec. 3.
Love's Sacrince (Unicorn-Sunset)—Dec. 1.
Love's Wilderness (3 parts) (Unicorn-Supreme) —Dec. 11.
Lovers & Lunatics (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 27—S-751; C-838.
Lower Nile, The (Paramount—Burton Holmes) —Dec. 4.
Lucille, The Waitress (Universal—Laemmle Special)—Oct. 25—S-750; C-693.
Luck Charm, The (No. 2 of the "Dangers of Doris") (General Film-Vitagraph)—Dec. 29.
Luck of Jane, The (General Film—Vitagraph) —Nov. 17.
Lucky Tramp, A (Unity—Tweedledum)—Nov 6.
Luke and the Bang-Trails (Pathe—Rolin)—Oct. 15—S-452; C-417.
Luke-Gladiator (Pathe—Rolin)—Nov. 12.
Luke Locates the Lute (Paramount-Rolin)—Dec. 24, C-1821.
Luke—Patient Provider (Pathe—Rolin)—Nov. 19; C-1189.
Luke—Rank Impersonator (Pathe—Rolin)—Dec. 10—S-1700; C-1659.
Luke's Movie Muddle (Pathe—Rolin)—Dec. 3—C-1512.
Luke's Fireworks Fizzle (Pathe—Rolin)—Dec. 17—C-1659; S-1866.
Luke's Newsie Knockout (Pathe—Rolin)—Nov. 26.
Luke's Preparedness Preparation (Pathe—Rolin) —Nov. 5—S-918; C-848.
Luke's Shattered Sleep (Paramount-Rolin)—Dec. 31—C-1978.
Luke's Speedy Club Life (Pathe—Rolin)—Oct. 1—C-96.
Luke, The Chauffeur (Pathe—Rolin)—Oct. 29—S-758; C-693.
Luke, the Gladiator (Pathe—Rolin)—Nov. 12—C-1034.
Lumber Pirate, The (No. 1 of "The Lass of the Lumberlands") (Mutual—Signal)—Oct. 23—(2 parts)—S-752; C-693; R-686.
Lured but Cured (2 parts) (Universal—L-Ko) —Oct. 11—S-291; C-261.
Lydia Gilmore (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous

M

Madness of Helen, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Nov. 19—S-1059; C-1189; R-1119.
Maid to Order, A (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 26—S-506; C-837.
Main 4000 (2 parts) (Universal—Victor)—Oct. 22—S-443; C-570.
Main Spring, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Nov. 27—S-1059; C-1189; R-1044.
Majestic Ceylon as Seen by Doctor Dorsey (Universal—Powers)—Dec. 14—S-1062.
Making an Impression (General Film—Vitagraph—Oct. 2—S-288; R-416.
Making of Crooks, The (5 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 21—S-1261; C-261.
Making Over of Mother, The (Christi)—Oct. 16—S-455.
Making Raisins and Florence Rose Fashions, No. 12, "Frills and Thrills" (Pathe)—Dec. 31.
Man From Yukon, The (No. 4 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 10 S-1218; C-1187; R-843.
Manhattan Madness (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Oct. 1—S-138.
Man He Might Have Been, The (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 23, S-1850).
Mansard Mystery, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Dec. 1—S-1376; C-1350.
Mantle of Deceit, The (2 parts) (Universal—Rex)—Nov. 9—S-910; C-839.
Man Who Stood Still (5 parts) (World Pictures) —Oct. 30—S-914; C-694; R-687.
Man Who Went Sane (3 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph—Broadway Star Feature)—Nov. 18.
Marked "No Funds" (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Nov. 8—S-908; C-1187.
Marooned (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 21; S-442; C-837.
Marriage a la Carte (5 parts) (World Pictures—Reissue)—R-1975.
Married a Year (Universal—Nestor)—Nov. 24—S-1221; C-1189.
Married Misery (Unicorn—Judy)—Nov. 1.

Mary Lost Her Lamb (Unicorn-Judy)—Dec. 15.
Masked Ball, The (No 3 of "The Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 16—S-1401; C-417; R-1962.
Masked Woman, The (5 parts) (Universal—Good Sense)—Oct. 31—S-1750; C-694
Masque of Life, The (7 parts) (Signet Film Corp.)—Nov.—R-811; C-103
Master of Her Soul (5 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker) (Star Feature)—Dec. 8—S-1690; C-1819
Matrimaniac, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Dec. 16—C-1659, R-1952, S-1866.
Mayor's Fall From Grace (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 13—S-288; C-568.
Mayor's Wife (2 parts) (Unicorn)—Nov. 3.
Mazuma and the Three Sisters (Educational Film Co.)—Nov.—R-1160
Measure of a Man, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Nov. 20—S-1226, C-1188, R-1182.
Mediator, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Nov. 13—S-1067, C-1188, R-1341.
Memory Man, The (Universal—Victor Special)—Oct. 2—S-290.
Menace, The (No. 9 "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 15—S-1852; R-1810, C-1977.
Men She Married (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Nov. 27—C-1530, R-1541, S-1549.
Merry Motor Menders, The (General Film—Kalem—Oct. 31—S-1218; C-1033; R-690.
Message From the Sky, A (No. 10 of "The Yellow Menace") (Unity)—Nov. 6—S-754; R-222.
Message to Garcia (5 parts) (K-E-S-E—Edison)—Dec. 11—R-1507, S-1551, C-1659.
Metzer Murder Mystery (No. 4 of "Jimmy Dale, Alias the Gray Seal") (2 parts) (Unicorn-Monmouth)—Dec. 25.
Microscope Mystery, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Nov. 19—S-1232; C-1189; R-844.
Midnight Express, The (No. 110 "The Hazards of Helen") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 16—S-1852, C-1819.
Midnight Toll, The (Universal—Laemmle Special)—Nov. 1—S-750.
Million Dollar Smash, A (2 parts) (Universal—L-Ko)—Nov. 15—S-1062; C-1034.
Mines and Matrimony (Universal-Joker)—Dec. 30—S-2004, C-1978.
Mischief Maker, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Nov. 27—R-1509; S-1381; C-1511.
Mismated (2 parts) (Mutual)—Nov. 20—S-1381.
Miss Billie Buttons (Christie)—Dec. 11—S-1696.
Miss George Washington (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Nov. 20—S-1384; C-1349, R-1346.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (5 parts)—(Mutual Star Production)—Dec. 11—S-1381.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (6 parts) (Pollard-Mutual)—Dec. 11, C-1820
Missing Chapter, The (No. 11 of "The Scarlet Runner") (Vitagraph)—Dec. 11—R-65; C-1977.
Missing Heiress, The (No. 2 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 27; S-747; C—837; R-535.
Missing Witness, The (Universal—Imp Special)—Oct. 16—S-598.
Mission of State, A (No. 11 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 29—S-2003.
Mistake in Rustlers (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 14—S-442; C-568.
Mistakes Will Happen (General Film—Selig)—Dec 2—S-1777, C-1819.
Mixed Blood (5 parts) (Universal-Red Feather) Dec. 18—C-1821; R-1814; S-2006.
Mr. Vampire (2 parts) (Universal Special-Rex)—Dec. 24 (S-2005; C-1979.
Model, The (Unicorn—Judy)—Oct. 7.
Modernizing Ceylon & Motor Mat and His Fliv (Universal Powers Split Reel) Nov. 16.
Modern Joan of Arc (No. 14 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Nov. 13—S-1063, C-1189, R-1184.
Money Maid Men (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 24—S 1229, C-1658.
Money to Burn (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct. 10—S-441; C-568.
Moods of Madora, The (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct. 1—S-138; C-56.
Moonshine Blood (Universal-Big U)—Dec. 21—S-2004.
Morals of Hilda, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Dec. 11—S-1692.
Moth and the Flame, The (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct. 29—S-758.
Mother Call, The (Universal—Big U Special)—Nov. 30—S-1377; C-1349.
Mother's Child (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 23—S-1220; C-1511.
Mother's Guiding Hand (Universal—Laemmle)—Dec. 16—C-1978
Motion Picture Portrait Studies of President Wilson and his Cabinet. The U. S. Government in action—Oct. 2
Motor Mat and His Fliv and Modernizing Ceylon (Universal—Powers)—Nov 18—S-1061.
Mountain Daisy, A (2 parts) (Mutual)—Nov. 6—C-1188.
Mountain Tragedy, A (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Oct. 7—S-128; C-96.
Moving Finger, The (Universal—Rex)—Oct. 29—S-598; C-570.
Murdered by Mistake (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Oct. 14—S-1063, C-1978
Mutual Tours Around the World No. 1 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 7—S-1224
Mutual Tours Around the World No. 2 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 14—S-1224; C-1188.
Mutual Tours Around the World No. 3 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 21; C-1349; S-1695.
Mutual Tours Around the World No. 4 (Mutual Gaumont)—Nov 28—C-1512
Mutual World Tours No. 5 (Mutual Gaumont)—Nov. 7—C-1033; S-2007.
Mutual World Tours (No. 6) (Gaumont)—Dec. 12—C-1659, S-2007.
Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 7 (Mutual-Gaumont)—Dec. 19.
Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 8 (Mutual Gaumont)—Dec. 26.
Mutual Weekly No. 92 (Mutual)—Oct. 4—S-294; C-416.
Mutual Weekly No. 93 (Mutual)—Oct. 11—S-446, C-569.
Mutual Weekly No. 94 (Mutual)—Oct 18—S-603, C-695.
Mutual Weekly No. 95 (Mutual)—Oct. 25—S-753; C-838.
Mutual Weekly No. 96 (Mutual)—Nov. 1—S-912; C-1033.
Mutual Weekly No. 97 (Mutual)—Nov. 8—S-1223, C-1188.
Mutual Weekly No. 98 (Mutual)—Nov. 15—S-1223; C-1349.
Mutual Weekly No. 99 (Mutual)—Nov. 22—S-1381, C-1512.
Mutual Weekly No. 100 (Mutual)—Nov. 29—S-1547, C-1820.
Mutual Weekly No. 101 (Mutual)—Dec. 6—S-1695; C-1820.
Mutual Weekly No. 102 (Mutual—Dec. 13—S-1856—C-1978.
Mutual Weekly, No. 103 (Mutual)—Dec. 20.
Mutual Weekly, No. 104 (Mutual)—Dec. 27.
My Baby (General Film Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 4.
My Official Wife (5 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph)—Dec. 11; R-1654.
Mysterious Motor Car, The (No. 6 of "The Scarlet Runner") (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 6—(2 parts)—S-913; R-2099.
Mysterious Ranger, The (Unicorn—Rancho)—Oct. 3.
Mystery of the Brass Bound Chest (No. 15 of "The Girl from Frisco") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 15—R-1182; C-1348, S-1542
Mystery of the Mesa (2 parts) (Unicorn-Sunset)—Dec. 17.
Mystic Defender, The (No. 3 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct. 15—S-452; C-417; R-1818.

N

Naked Souls (Unicorn—Puritan)—Nov. 1.
Nanette of the Wilds (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Nov 27—C-1512
Narrow Creed, The (2 parts) (Universal -Big U)—Oct. 26—S-600; C-570.
Nation's Peril, A (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct. 15—S-452; C-417.
Nearly a Deserter (Paramount-Black Diamond)—Oct. 2.
Nearly a Hero (Mutual—Cub)—Nov. 3—S-911; C-838.
Near Sighted Autopedist (Unity)—Nov.
Near to Earth (General Film—Biograph)—Nov. 13—S-1060, C-1348.
Neath Texas Skies (Unicorn—Utah)—Nov. 1.
Nervy Nat Has His Fortune Told (Universal-Powers)—Dec. 24
New Porter, The (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 30.
New Salesman, The (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 14—R-843, C-1348; S-1542
New York Hat, The (General Film—Biograph—Reissue)—Nov. 6—S-906; C-1187; R-220.
New York Rapid Transit (General Film—Vitagraph)—Nov. 6—C-1187
Night Shadows (2 parts) (Universal -Bison)—Oct 13—S-290.
Ninety and Nine, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 25—R-1973, S-2017, C-1977
Nobody's Claim (2 parts) (Unicorn—Buffalo)—Oct. 7.
Not in the News (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 14—S-1060; C-1348.
Nuremberg Watch, The (No. 2 of "The Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 9—S-296; C-260; R-1962.

O

Ocean Waif, The (5 parts) (International)—Nov 2—S-910; C-838.
Oh! For a Cave Man (Mutual—Cub)—Oct 6—S-293; C-417.
Oh, You Honeymoon (Universal—Nestor)—Dec. 8—C-1512; S-1544.
Oil and Water (2 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Nov 21—S-1219, C-1511.
Oil Smeller, The (Universal Special Feature)—Oct 14—S-291; C-261.
Old Fashioned Girl, The (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Oct 3—S-127, C-416.
Old Fogy, The (3 parts) (Pathe)—Dec 3—R-1342.
Old Folks At Home, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Oct. 15—S-452; R-418, R-222
Old Homestead, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Dec. 28—S-308; R-95.
Oliver Twist (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Dec 11—R-1811, C-1821, S-2015.
On the Brink of War (No. 20, The Girl from Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film-Kalem) Dec. 20—S-2003, R-1915.
One Dollar Please (Mutual)—Dec. 16—S-2012.
One Step Too Far (General Film—Kalem)—Oct 6—S-290, C-416, R-64.
Only A Rose & A Boomerang (3 parts) (General Film—Selig) Oct. 16—S-442, C-692.
Orchid Lady, The (5 parts) (Metro—Popular Plays and Players)—Dec. 4.
Our American Boys in the European War (Triangle)—Oct.—R-220.
Our Boys at the Border (No. 2 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders") (Mutual)—Dec. 15—S-1856.
O. U. Rooster (Paramount—Bray Cartoon)—Oct. 1—C-260
Our Other Lives (3 parts) (General Film—Vitagraph Broadway Star Feature)—Dec. 2—S-1942, C-1819
Out for the Coin (Christie)—R-1813.
Out of the Shadows and Paradise For a Day (2 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 23—S-596, C-837.
Outside of the Law (No. 9 of "Beatrice Fairfax") (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 2—S-451; R-221.
Over The Hills (Unicorn—Judy)—Oct. 19.

P

Pair of Shadows, A (Universal—Big U Special)—Oct. 9—S-600; C-570.
Pamela's Past (5 parts) (Exclusive Feature)—Dec., S-1862.
Panthea (Selznick)—Nov.
Paradise For a Day & Out of the Shadows (2 parts) (General Film—Selig Split Reel)—Oct. 23—S-597; C-837.
Paramount Pictographs (Paramount)—Oct.—C-260.
Passion Flower (California Motion Picture Co.)—Dec.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 40 (Paramount)—Nov. 5, S-1861.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 41 (Paramount)—Nov. 12, S-1861.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 42 (Paramount)—Nov. 19, S-1861.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 43 (Paramount)—Nov. 26, S-1861.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 44 (Paramount)—Dec. 3, S-1861.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 45 (Paramount)—Dec. 10, S-1861
Paramount Pictographs, No. 46 (Paramount)—Dec. 17.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 47 (Paramount)—Dec. 24.
Paramount Pictographs, No. 48 (Paramount)—Dec. 31.
Pass the Prunes (Universal—Nestor)—Dec. 4—C-1512, S-1544.
Path of Life, The (2 parts) (Unicorn-Lily)—Nov. 20.
Pathe News No. 80 (Pathe)—Oct. 4—S-451.
Pathe News No. 81 (Pathe)—Oct. 7—S-608.
Pathe News No. 82 (Pathe)—Oct. 11—S-608.
Pathe News No. 83 (Pathe)—Oct 14—S-757.
Pathe News No. 84 (Pathe)—Oct. 18—S-757.
Pathe News No. 85 (Pathe)—Oct. 21—S-916.
Pathe News No. 86 (Pathe)—Oct 25—S-916.
Pathe News No. 87 (Pathe)—Oct. 28—S-1065.
Pathe News No. 88 (Pathe)—Nov. 1—S-1065.
Pathe News No. 89 (Pathe)—Nov. 4—S-1229.
Pathe News No. 90 (Pathe)—Nov. 8—S-1230.
Pathe News No. 91 (Pathe)—Nov. 11—S-1386.
Pathe News No. 92 (Pathe)—Nov. 15—S-1386.
Pathe News No. 93 (Pathe)—Nov. 18—S-1544.
Pathe News No. 94 (Pathe)—Nov. 22—S-1548
Pathe News No. 95 (Pathe)—Nov. 25—S-1698.
Pathe News No. 96 (Pathe)—Nov. 29—S-1698.
Pathe News No. 97 (Pathe)—Dec. 2—S-1864.
Pathe News No. 98 (Pathe)—Dec. 6—S-1864.
Pathe News No. 99 (Pathe)—Dec. 9—S-20-3.
Pathe News No. 100 (Pathe)—Dec. 13—S-2013.
Pathe News No. 101 (Pathe)—Dec. 16.
Pathe News No. 102 (Pathe)—Dec. 20.
Pathe News No. 103 (Pathe)—Dec. 23.
Pathe News No. 104 (Pathe)—Dec. 27.
Pathe News No. 105 (Pathe)—Dec. 30.
Patria (No. 1, "The Last of the Fighting Channings") (3 parts) (International)—Dec. R-1510.
Patria (No. 2 "Treasure") (2 parts) (International)—Dec.—R-1510.
Patria (No. 3 "Winged Millions") (2 parts) (International)—R-1510.
Pat's Pasting Ways (Universal—Nestor)—Oct. 20—S-445; C-418.
Pawnshop, The (2 parts) (Chaplin-Mutual)—Oct —S-293; C-260; R-223.
Paying The Price (2 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Oct. 30—S-603.
Pearl of Paradise, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star Productions)—Nov. 2—S-753; C-1034; R-1001.
Pearl of the Army (No. 1 "The Traitor") (Pathe—Astra)—Dec.—R-1506; C-1512; S-1548.
Pearl of the Army (No. 2 "Found Guilty") (Pathe—Astra)—Dec.—R-1506; C-1512; S-1700.
Pearl of the Army (No. 3 "The Silent Menace") (Pathe—Astra)—Dec.—R-1506; S-1864.
Pearl of the Army (No. 4, "War Clouds") (2 parts) (Pathe-Astra)—Dec. 24.

Pearl of the Army (No. 5, "Somewhere in Grenada") (2 parts) (Pathe-Astra—Dec. 31—R-1972; S-2014, C-1978.

Peck o' Pickles (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American—Nov. 1—S-122.

Penalty of Treason, The (2 parts) (Lubin—Rex)—Dec. 16—S-1544, C-1978.

Pen and Inklings in and Around Jerusalem (Universal Powers Split Reel)—Oct. 7—S-128; C-96.

Pen and Sword (2 parts) (Unicorn Split Reel)—Oct. 2.

Pencil Clue, The (No. 3 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 4—S-1218; C-1033, R-1090.

Pen Trip to Palestine, A (Universal—Rex)—Nov. 9.

People, The, vs. John Doe (6 parts) (State Right Feature—Argosy)—Dec. 1—R-1961, C-1979.

Pep's Legacy (3 parts) (Vitagraph—Broadway Star Feature)—Dec. 16.

Perils of a Plumber, The (Universal-L-KO)—Dec. 27—S-2004.

Perils of Our Girl Reporters, The (No. 1, "The Jade Necklace") (2 parts) (Niagara Film Studios)—Dec. 28.

Perjurer, The (Universal—Imp Special)—Oct. 2—S-444.

Persistent Wooing (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Oct. 18—S-441; C-692.

Peter's Perfect Photoplay (Mutual)—Dec. 28.

Phantom Buccaneer, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E) Dec. 23, S-1860.

Phillip Holden-Waster (5 parts) (Mutual Star Feature—American)—Oct. 9—S-455; C-417.

Phil's Busy Day (Universal—L-KO)—Dec 29—S-2004; C-1978.

Pictures Pirates (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Nov. 12—S-912; C-1188.

Pidgin Island (Metro—Yorke) (5 parts)—Dec 25—S-2016.

Pigs (Mutual—Gaumont)—Oct.

Pipe Dreams (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 16—S-1219; C-1348.

Place Beyond the Winds, The (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Nov. 6—S-910; C-830; R-843.

Plain Jane (5 parts) (Triangle Kay-Bee)—Oct. 8—S-138.

Play Ball (No. 10 "Beatrice Fairfax") (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 9—S-607.

Plow Girl, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Nov. 13—S-1383; C-1349; R-1342.

Plumber's Waterloo (General Film—Victor)—Oct. 27—S-597; C-570.

Poisoned Dart, The (No. 18 of the "Girl from Frisco") (General Film—Kalem) (2 parts)—Dec. 6—R-1655; S-1852; C-1819.

Political Tramp, A (Universal—Nestor)—Nov. 6—S-909; C-839.

Poultry A La Mode (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Oct. 1—S-132; C-95.

Powder Trail, The (Universal—Big U Special)—Nov. 12—S-908.

Power of Evil, The (6 parts) (B. S. Moss)—Oct. 1—S-134; C-260; R-222.

Power of the Press, The (3 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Nov. 1—S-748; C-1033; R-220.

Precious Parcel, The (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 19—S-596; C-692.

Pretty Baby (Universal Nestor)—Dec 25—S-2004; C-1978.

Price of Fame, The (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 13—S-1066; R-998.

Price of Silence, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Dec. 11—S-1698; R-1654; C-1819.

Price on His Head, A (Universal—Big U)—Oct. 27—S-600; C-570.

Price She Paid (Selznick)—Oct.

Prima Donna's Husband (5 parts) (Herald Film Corp.)—Oct.—R-101.

Primitive Call, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Oct. 23.

Prince In a Pawnshop, A (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 16—S-449; C-417; R-381.

Prince of Graustark, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E Essanay)—Nov. 6—S-756, C-848, R-877.

Prize Winners, The (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 30—S-1377; C-1658.

Prodigal Daughter, The (Universal)—Dec. 31—S-2005; C-1978.

Professor Jeremy's Experiment (2 parts) (Mutual—American)—Oct. 27—S-751, C-687.

Prowlers of the Jungle (Universal Laemmle Special)—Oct. 2—S-444.

Prudence the Pirate (5 parts) (Pathe Gold Rooster)—Oct. 22—S-616; C-570; R-377.

Pueblo Legend, A (2 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Oct. 10—S-441, C-568, R-62.

Puppet, A (2 parts) (Triangle Fine Arts)—Oct. R-1959—1966.

Purchase Price, The (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 9—S-1543; C-1977.

Q

Quest of the Golden Goat, The (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 23—S-2003; C-1977.

Question Mark, The (5 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Nov. 10—S-907; C-1148.

Quitter, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Nov. 11—S-909, C-839.

R

Raccoons (Universal Ani-Mutt)—Dec. 8—S-1545.

Race With Death, A (No. 12 of the "Hazard of Helen") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 30—S-2003; C-1977.

Ragged Princess, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Oct. 16; R-688.

Rah! Rah! Rah! (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 11.

Rainbow Princess (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Oct. 23—R-680.

Rare Boarder, A (2 parts) (General Film—Vim)—Dec. 8—S-1630; C-1961.

Real Streets of Cairo (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Nov. 27.

Reckless Romeos (General Film-Vim)—Dec. 22, S-1851.

Redeemed (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—Turner)—Oct. 28—S-445, C-569.

Redeeming Love (5 parts) (Morosco)—Dec. 28.

Red Notebook, The (No. 2 of "The Vampires") (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 30—S-1380, R-1819.

Red Whiskered Man (No. 7 of "The Scarlet Runner") (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 13—S-913; R-2100.

Reel Life No. 22 (Gaumont)—Oct. 1—S-446; C-260.

Reel Life No. 23 (Gaumont)—Oct 8—S-603; C-417.

Reel Life No. 24 (Gaumont)—Oct. 15—S-752; C-569.

Reel Life No. 25 (Gaumont)—Oct. 22—S-912; C-693.

Reel Life No. 26 (Gaumont)—Oct. 29—S-1224; C-838.

Reel Life No. 27 (Gaumont)—Nov. 5—S-1224; C-1188.

Reel Life No. 28 (Gaumont)—Nov. 12—C-1188.

Reel Life No. 29 (Gaumont)—Nov. 19—C-1349; S-1695.

Reel Life No. 30 (Gaumont)—Nov. 26—C-151_; S-2007.

Reel Life No. 31 (Gaumont)—Dec. 3—C-1659; S-2007.

Reel Life No. 32 ("The Olive Industry") (2 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont) Dec. 10—C-1820; S-2007.

Reel Life, No. 33 (Mutual-Gaumont)—Dec. 17.

Reel Life, No. 34 (Mutual-Gaumont)—Dec. 24.

Reel Life, No. 35 (Mutual-Gaumont)—Dec. 31.

Reformation of Dog Hole, The (No. 10 of the "Girl from Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 11—S-746; C-568; R-416.

Rehabilitated (Mutual)—Dec. 7.

Rehearsal, The (2 parts) (General Film-Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 27.

Restless Spirit (No. 12 of the "Crimson Stain Mystery") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Nov. 6—S-1224.

Return of "Draw" Egan, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—Oct. 15—S-452; C-418, R-2100.

Return of Eve, The (5 parts) (K-E-S-E Essanay)—Oct. 16—S-607; C-2129; R-2097.

Reunited Party, A (2 parts)—October (Mortimer—Metcalfe).

Revolt, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Oct. 2—S-604; C-261; R-63.

Right Direction, The (5 parts) (Pallas—Paramount)—Dec. 21—R-1972; S-2015; C-1978.

Right Hand Path, The (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 30.

Right to Be Happy, The (5 parts) (Bluebird Photoplay)—Dec. 25—R-1974; C-1977.

Ringer, The (No. 13 of "Beatrice Fairfax") (2 parts) (International)—Nov.—R-1000.

Rink, The (2 parts) (Mutual-Chaplin)—Dec 1, R-1818; S-2012.

Rise of Susan, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Dec. 11—C-1521; R-1812; S-1857.

Rival Fakers (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 21—C-1348; S-1543.

Road to Fame (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 11—S-1691.

Road to Love (5 parts) (Paramount—Morosco)—Dec. 7—R-1656; S-1860; C-1821.

Robinson Crusoe (5 parts) (Savage)—Nov.

Rock of Riches, The (Universal—Rex)—Dec. 23—S-2005.

Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Unicorn-Judy)—Dec. 3.

Rogue's Pawn, The (No. 5 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 17—R-1183; C-1348; S-1542.

Romantic Journey, The (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Dec. 24—R-1653; C-1821; S-2013.

Romance of Billy Goat Hill, A (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Nov. 9—S-292; C-261; R-66.

Romantic Romeo, A (Universal—Victor Special)—Nov. 8—S-908.

Romeo and Juliet (5 parts) (Fox)—Oct. 23—C-837; R-840.

Romeo and Juliet (8 parts) (Metro—Quality Special Release)—Oct.—S-448; R-685.

Room Rent and Romance (Universal—Victor Special)—Oct. 16—S-443; C-570.

Rose of the Prairie, The (Unicorn—Buffalo)—Oct. 30.

Rose of the South (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 4—R-1506.

Royal Blood (General Film-Vim)—Oct. 5—S-126; C-416.

Rules and Cabarets (Unicorn—Hippo)—Oct. 5.

The Rummy (5 parts) (Triangle—Fine Arts)—Oct. 8—S-300; C-261; R-64.

Runaway Sleeper, The (No. 106 of the "Hazards of Helen") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 18—C-1348; S-1542.

Rural Romance, A (2 parts) (Universal—L-Ko)—Oct. 25—S-600; C-570.

S

Safe in the Safe (2 parts) (Universal—L-Ko)—Oct. 4—S-128; C-96.

Safe Proposition, A (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 8—S-907; C-1187.

Safety First (Universal—L-KO)—Oct. 21—C-418.

Sammie Johnsin at the Seaside & In and Around Ancient Japan (Universal—Powers Split Reel)—Nov. 26—S-1221.

Sammie Johnsin Minds the Baby (Universal—Powers)—Nov. 2—S-749.

Sammie Johnsin's Love Affair & Ancient India (Universal—Powers Split Reel)—Dec. 3— S-1377.

Sammie Johnsin and the Wonderful Lamp (Universal Powers Split Reel)—Dec. 17—S-1692.

Sammie Johnsin Slumbers Not (Universal-Powers)—Dec. 31—S-2005.

Sammie's Scandalous Scheme (Mutual—Vogue)—Dec.

Satanas (No. 6 of "The Vampires") (Mutual—Gaumont)—R-1814; S-2007; C-1978.

Saturday Night (2 parts) (Unicorn-Jockey)—Nov. 15.

Sauerkraut Symphony, A (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 17—S-747; C-692; R-379.

Scarbrow's Revenge (Unicorn-Utah)—Nov. 29.

Scarlet Oath, The (5 parts) (World Pictures)—Oct. 23—S-754; C-570; R-534.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 1, "The Car and His Majesty") (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 2—S-136; C-96; R-1962.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 2, "The Nuremberg Watch") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 9—S-296; C-260; R-1962.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 3, "The Masked Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 16—S-450; C-417; R-1962.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 4, "The Hidden Prince") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 23—S-604; R-1962; C-569.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 5, "The Jacobean House") (2 parts)—Oct. 30—R-2099.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 6, "The Mysterious Motor Car") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 6—S-913; R-2099.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 7, "The Red Whiskered Man") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 13—S-913; R-2100.

Scarlet Runner, The, (No. 8, "The Glove and the Ring") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 20—S-1066; C-1188; R-65.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 9, "The Gold Cigarette Case") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 27—S-1227; C-1348; R-65.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 10 of "The Lost Girl") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 4—S-1382; C-1511.

Scarlet Runner, The (No 11, "The Missing Chapter") (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 11—R-65; S-1551; C-1977.

Scarlet Runner, The (No. 12, "The Car and the Girl") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 18.

Science of Crime, The (2 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Nov. 7—S-906; C-1187; R-378.

Scotch-Irish Reel (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Oct. 2—C-95.

Scrambled Honeymoon, A (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 16.

Scrappily Married (Universal—Joker)—Dec. 2—S-1378; C-1512.

Scratched (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Dec. 15—S-1693; C-1690.

Scratch of the Pen (2 parts) (Pathe)—Nov. 5—S-918; C-838.

Secret Kingdom, The (Greater Vitagraph)—R-1656.

Sea Mates (Universal—Big U)—Nov. 2—S-749.

Sea Nymph (Christie)—Nov.—R-1184; S-1551.

Sealed Lips (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 11, S-1857.

Second Mrs. Tanqueray (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 13.

Second Story Ringer (General Film—Vitagraph)—Nov. 13.

Secret Cellar, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp Special)—Nov. 5—S-749.

Secret Kingdom, The (2 parts) (Vitagraph)—Dec., Com. 1820.

See America First No. 56 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Oct. 4—S-446; C-417.

See America First No. 57 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Oct. 11—S-603; C-569.

See America First No. 58 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Oct. 18—S-752; C-693.

See America First No. 59 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Oct. 25—S-912; C-693.

See America First No. 60 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 1—S-1224.

See America First No. 61 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 8—S-1224; C-1034.

See America First No. 62 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 15.

See America First No. 63 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 22—S-1695.

See America First No. 64 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 29—C-1512; S-2006.

See America First No. 65 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 6—C-1659—S-2006.

See America First No. 66 (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 13—C-1820; S-2006.

See America First, 67 (Mutual-Gaumont)—Dec. 20.

See America First, 68 (Mutual-Gaumont)—Dec. 27.

Seeds of Jealousy (Universal—Big U Special)—Dec. 7—S-1544.

Seeds of Redemption (2 parts) (Universal—Big U)—Dec. 7—C-1513.

Selig-Tribune No. 79 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 2—S-442; C-416.

Selig-Tribune No. 80 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 5—S-597; C-416.

Selig-Tribune No. 81 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 9—S-597; C-568.

Selig-Tribune No. 82 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 12—S-747.

Selig-Tribune No. 83 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 16—S-747; C-692.

Selig-Tribune No. 84 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 19—S-907; C-692.

Selig-Tribune No. 85 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 23—S-907; C-857.
Selig-Tribune No. 86 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 26—S-1060.
Selig-Tribune No. 87 (General Film—Selig)—Oct. 30—S-1060; C-1053.
Selig-Tribune No. 88 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 8—S-1218; C-1053.
Selig-Tribune No. 89 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 6—S-1218; C-1187.
Selig-Tribune No. 90 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 9—S-1577; C-1187.
Selig-Tribune No. 91 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 13—S-1577; C-1348.
Selig-Tribune No. 92 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 16—S-1543.
Selig-Tribune No. 93 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 20—C-1511; S-1543.
Selig-Tribune No. 94 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 23—C-1511; S-1690.
Selig-Tribune No. 95 (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 27—C-1658; S-1691.
Selig-Tribune, No. 96 (General Film-Selig)—Nov. 30, S-1850.
Selig-Tribune, No. 97 (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 4, S-1850; C-1819.
Selig-Tribune, No. 98 (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 7, 1819.
Selig-Tribune No. 99 (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 11—C-1977.
Selig-Tribune No. 100 (General Film—Selig)—Dec. 14—C-1977.
Selig-Tribune, No. 101 (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 18.
Selig-Tribune, No. 102 (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 21.
Selig-Tribune, No. 103 (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 25.
Selig-Tribune, No. 104 (General Film-Selig)—Dec. 28.
Sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky" No. 1, "Fate and Death" (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. —R-1510; C-1512; S-1857.
Sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky No. 2 (American)—C-1659.
Sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky," No. 3 (Mutual-American)—Dec. 9, C-1820.
Sequel to "The Diamond from the Sky," No. 4, "The Climax" (2 parts) (Mutual-American)—Dec. 18.
Seventeen (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Nov. 2—S-1067; R-997.
Shadow, The, and Raccoons (Universal—Victor)—Dec. 7.
Shadow, The (2 parts) (Victor) S-1544; C-1513.
Shadow, The (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpiture de Luxe—American)—Oct. 5.
Shadowed Shadow, A (Universal Joker) Nov 4—S-749; C-694.
Shadows and Sunshine (5 parts) (Pathe)—Nov. 12—R-842; C-1034.
Shadows of Suspicion (Universal Laemmle)—Nov. 12—S-908; C-1034.
Shanks and Shivalry (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 25.
She Loved a Sailor (Triangle—Keystone) Nov —R-379; C-693.
Sheriff's Blunder, The (2 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 20—S-1219; C-1511.
She Wanted a Ford (Universal—L-KO) Oct. 22—S-444; C-570.
She Who Last Laughs (General Film—Vitagraph)—C-259.
Sheep of Chelan, The (Educational Films Corp.)—Dec.—R-1965.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 1, "Treasure Trove") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 1—S-138; C-96; R-1818.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 2, "Into the Depths") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 8—S-300; C-260; R-1818.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 3, "The Myster Defender") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 15—C-417; R-1818.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 4 "The Earthquake") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra) Oct. 22 S-608; C-570; R-1818.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 5, "Through Bolted Doors") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra) Oct 29—S-758; C-693; R-221
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 6, "The Disappearing Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe Astra)—Nov. 5—S-918; C-838.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 7, "The Awakening") (2 parts) (Pathe Astra)—Nov 12, R-688; C-1034.
Shielding Shadow, The (No 8, "The Haunting Hand") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Nov 19—S-1230; C-1189; R-1181.
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 9, "The Incorrigible Captive") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra) Nov 26.
Shielding Shadow, The (No 10, "The Vanishing Mantle") (Pathe—Astra) Dec 3 R-1312, S-1548
Shielding Shadow, The (No. 11, "The Great Sacrifice") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Dec 10 R-1506, S-1700
Shielding Shadow, The, No 12 "The Stolen Shadow" (2 parts) (Pathe)—Dec. 17, S-1864.
Shielding Shadow The No 13 "The Hidden Menace" (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra) Dec 24—S-2013.
Shielding Shadow, The (No 14 "Absolute Black") (2 parts) (Pathe-Astra)—Dec. 31 R-1972; S-2014
Shirley Girl, The (International)—Oct.
Shooting His 'Art Out (2 parts) (Universal-L-KO) Dec 20—S-1853; C-1979
Short Sighted Crime (Unity)—Nov 27—S-1696
Shot in the Fracas (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Dec. 10—S-1695; C-1820.
Should She Have Told? (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Nov 28—S-1578; C-1640
Sign of the Poppy (5 parts) (Bluebird) Dec 4—R-1508; C-1511.
Silent Menace (No 3 of "Pearl of the Army") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra) Dec—R-1509
Silk Industry (Pathe)—Dec. 31.
Sin Ye Do, The (5 parts) (Triangle-Fine Arts)—Dec 16, S-1866
Sins of Her Parent (5 parts) (Fox)—Nov 6 S-1065, C-1188, R-1180
Sir John Jellicoe's Grand Fleet In Action (Baynes—Urban) Dec—R-1401
Sister of Six, A (5 parts) (Triangle-Fine Arts) Oct 29—S-758, C-693, R-221
Skirts (2 parts) (Triangle-Fine Arts) July 30—C-693.
Slave, The (Universal—Rex Special)—Oct. 2—S-291.
Slave of Passion, The (Universal-Imp) Dec 11.
Slicking the Slickers (Mutual—Beauty)—Oct. 3—S-294; C-260.
Slinky, the Yegg (Keen Cartoon Corp.)—Oct.—R-538.
Small Town Stuff (3 parts) (General Film-Selig)—Oct. 30—S-747; C-1033.
Snow White (5 parts) (Famous Players)—Dec. 25.
Snow White (4 parts) (Educational Films Corp.—Life Photoplay)—Dec.; R-1651.
Social Buccaneer, The (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Oct. 16—S-448; C-417; R-223.
Social Club (Triangle—Keystone)—July 16 C-693.
Social Pirates (Fox)—R-1818.
Society Hypocrites (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 24—C-570.
Some Bravery (General Film Essanay) Nov 22—S-1219; C-1511.
Some Hero (Unity)—Oct. 9.
Some Kid (Christie)—Nov. 20—R-1184.
Some of Our Biggest Star Performers, and a Journey to Nowhere (General Film Vitagraph)—Dec. 25.
Some Tropical Bird—Parrots and the Spanish Pyrenees (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 1—S-138.
Somewhere in France (Triangle—Ince)—Oct. 29—C-693; R-222.
Somewhere in Georgia (Sunbeam Motion Picture Corp.)—Nov.
Somewhere in Grenada (No. 5 of "Pearl of the Army") (2 parts) (Pathe-Astra)—Dec 31—R-1972; S-2014; C-1978.
Somewhere in Mexico (Units Tweedledum) Dec. 4; S-1850
Somewhere on the Battlefield (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature) Oct 6—S-129, C-96
Son of a Rebel Chief (2 parts) (Universal-Bison)—Nov. 18—S-1062; C-1034.
Son of Cain, The (No. 13 of "The Girl from Frisco") (General Film—Kalem) Nov 1 S-1218; C-1033; R-842.
Son of Erin, A (5 parts) (Paramount—Pallas)—Nov. 9—C-833; R-845.
Sorry Plight, A (Unicorn—Judy)—Nov. 17.
So Shall Ye Reap (3 parts) (General Film Selig)—Nov. 6—S-907; C-1187.
So This Is Paris (Universal-Victor)—Dec. 19; S-1853.
Soul at Stake, A (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Oct. 13—S-290; C-261.
Soul of a Child, The (5 parts) (Pioneer)—R-537; C-570
Soul of Kura-San (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Oct. 30—R-846; C-838.
Southern Italy (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Oct. 16.
Spanish Costumes Dances (1 reel) (Rolin)—Dec. 17—S-1866; S-2013.
Spanish Pyrenees and Some Tropical Birds—Parrot (Pathe—Split Reel)—Oct. 1—S-138; C-96.
Spartan Spleen (Mutual—Beauty)—Oct. 31—S-753; C-693
Spy and the Submarine, The (No. 13 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity)—Nov. 27—S-1227; C-1349, R-915
Starbucks, The (2 parts) (Mutual—American)—Nov. 23—S-1380; C-1512.
Starlight's Message (Universal-Big U)—Nov 3—S-749
Stain of Chuckawalla, The (No. 10, "The Girl from Frisco (2 parts) (General Film-Kalem)—Dec. 13—S-1852; R-1816; C-1977.
Stepping Westward (2 parts) (Mutual Gaumont)—Oct. 19—S-446; C-569.
Stolen Honors (Universal Laemmle Special) Oct. 9—S-598.
Stolen Plumage (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 6—S-290; C-416; R-64.
Stolen Rubies, The (No. 2 of "Jimmy Dale, Alias the Grey Seal") (2 parts) (Unicorn-Monmouth)—Dec. 11—S-1225; R-1181.
Stolen Shadow, The (No. 12 "Shielding Shadow") (Pathe Astra)—Dec 17, C-1659
Stolen Triumph, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolfe)—Dec 11 S-1636, R-1816, C-1820
Storm, The (5 parts) (Paramount Lasky) Oct. 5—R-2102
Story from Life (Universal—Rex Special)—Dec. 9—S-1744.
Straight Way, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Oct. 2—C-417.
Stranger from Somewhere, A (5 parts) (Bluebird) Nov 13, S-1226, C-1623, R-999
Strength of the Conscience (Unicorn—Sunset)—Nov. 4
Strictly Business (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 6—S-126; C-416.
Strife and Sorrow (No. 13 of "Liberty") (Universal Special Feature)—Nov. 6—S-1063, C-1189; R-1184.
Strong Evidence (General Film Vitagraph) Oct. 20—C-837.
Stronger Than Steel (2 parts (Universal Laemmle) Dec 27—S-2065
Stumbling (2 parts) (Universal Imp)—Nov. 3—S-749; C-694.
Such Is Life in Alaska and "Civilization in the Far East (Universal—Powers)—Dec 25 C-1821; S-2065.
Sudden Jim (Triangle—Kay-Bee)—Oct.
Sultana, The (5 parts) (Pathe—Balboa) Oct 29—S-758, C-693; R-534
Sunbeam, The (5 parts) (Metro-Rolfe)—Nov. 27—S-1383; C-1349; R-1342.
Superstitious Ceylon (Universal—Powers Split Reel)—Dec. 10—S-1544.
Swedish Model Farm and Where Is Your Friend? (General Film Vitagraph Split Reel) Dec. 4.
Sweedy, the Janitor (Universal—Nestor) Nov. 10—S-909; C-839.
Sword of Damocles, The (2 parts) (Pathe)—Oct. 8—S-300.

T

Taint of Fear, The (2 parts) (Universal—Bison)—Dec. 16—S-1691; C-1660.
Taking the Honey Out of Honeymoon (General Film—Vitagraph)—Nov. —C-1658
Taking the Count (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 20; S-1850.
Tale of the Wilderness, A (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Oct. 9—S-441; C-568.
Tale from the Decameron, A (2 parts) (General Film Essanay)—Dec. 26—S-2002
Tangled Fates (Unicorn—Supreme)—Nov. 15.
Target of Dreams (3 parts) (General Film-Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Nov. 17—S-1220.
Tattle-Tale Alice (Universal—L-KO) Dec. 1 S-1378
Tea Plantation, Java (Pathe—Globe)—Dec. 22—C-98.
Telltale Heart, The (Unicorn—Supreme)—Dec. 3.
Temptation, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Dec 30—S-308; C-442; R 258
Temptation of Adam, The (3 parts) (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 13—S-1060; C-1348.
Terrors of a Turkish Bath (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Nov. 1—S-749; C-694.
That Dog Gone Baby (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 21—S-602; C-838
That Sharp Note (2 parts) (Mutual—Beauty)—Oct. 10—S-445; C-417.
That Wonderful Wife (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 7—S-293; C-417.
Their College Capers (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 14—S-447; C-569.
Their Counterfeit Vacation (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Nov. 27.
Their Dark Secret (Universal—Joker) Dec. 16—S-1694; C-1660.
Their Divorce (Metro—Drew)—Oct. 30—C-693.
Their First Arrest (Universal—Joker)—Nov. 18—S-1061; C-1034.
Their Installment Furniture (General Film—Vim Feature Comedy)—Oct. 4—S-289; C-568.
Their Week End (Paramount Black Diamond)—Dec. 25—S-2016.
They Practice Economy (General Film—Vim)—Dec. 20; S-1850
Those Primitive Days (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 14—S-447; C-569.
Thread of Life, The (2 parts) (Universal—Imp Special)—Nov. 19—S-1061; C-1189.
Three of Many (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—R-1653.
Three Christmases (1,200 feet) (Metro—Christmas Club of America) Dec. R-1652
Through Baby's Voice (2 parts) (Universal—Laemmle)—Oct. 18—S-444; C-418.
Through Bolted Doors (No. 5 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 29—S-758; C-693; R-221.
Through Solid Walls (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Oct. 27—S-598; C-570.
Through the Wall (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Oct. 2—R-62; C-96.
Through the Wall (Unicorn—Lily)—Oct. 3.
Tigers Claw, The (No. 10, "Grant Police Reporter") (General Film Kalem)—Dec 22—S-2003; R-1975.
Tigers of the Plain (2 parts) (Universal—Big U Special) Oct 16—S-600
Time Clock Bomb, The (No. 8 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 23—S-448, R-1961.
Timely Reward, A (Unicorn—Supreme) Nov. 16
Timothy Dobbs, That's Me (No. 8, "Borrowed Plumes") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 2—S-129; C-96.
Timothy Dobbs, That's Me (No. 9, "Breaking Into Society") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 9—S-291; C-261
Timothy Dobbs, That's Me (No. 10 "Fame at Last") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 16—S-443; C-418.
Tin Soldier, A (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 28—S-1376; C-1658.
Tom's Sacrifice (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 4—S 748; C 1187
Torch Bearer, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production—American)—Sept. 25—S-294; C-260; R-263.
Torment, The (Universal—Big U Special)—Nov 15—S-1063.
Torpedoed by Cupid (2 parts) (Unity-Eagle)—Oct. 9.

Torture Chamber (No. 6 of "The Yellow Menace") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 9—S-132; C-96; R-1684.
Tortured Soul, The (No. 10 of "The Crimson Stain") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 23.
Tortured Soul, The (No. 11 of "The Crimson Stain Mystery") (2 parts) (Consolidated)—Oct. 30—S-1668.
To Save the Special (No. 101 of "The Hazards of Helen," Railroad Series) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 14—S-747; C-508; R-224.
Toto of the Byways (2 parts) (Universal—Imp)—Dec. 29—S-2001; C-1979.
Touch of High Life (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Oct. 8—S-294; C-417.
Trail of Blood, The (No. 17 of "Liberty" Series) Universal (Special)—Dec. 4—R-1513.
Trail of Fate (2 parts) (Unicorn—Sunset)—Dec. 13.
Trail of the Rattlesnake (2 parts) (Unicorn—Rancho)—Nov. 2.
Traitor, The (No. 1 of "Pearl of the Army") (Pathe—Astra)—Dec.—R-1506
Tramp Chief, The (Universal—Joker)—Dec. 9—C-1513; S-1544.
Tramp, Tramp, Tramp (Christie)—Nov. 27—S-1384; R-1184.
Trapped (No. 9 of "Liberty") (2 parts) (Universal Special Feature)—Oct. 9—S-443; C-418.
Traveling Salesman (5 parts) (Paramount—Famous Players)—Dec. 18—R-1971; S-2015; C-1978.
Treading Pearls (3 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Oct. 20—S-596; C-692.
Treasure (No. 2 of "Patria") (2 parts) (International) Dec.—R-1510.
Treasure Trove (No. 1 of "The Shielding Shadow") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra)—Oct. 1—S-138; C-96; R-1818.
Treed (2 parts) (Vogue)—Dec. 17; S-1856; C-1978.
Trial Run (No. 108 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 2—C-1658; S-1851.
Trials of a Movie Cartoonist (Powers Split Reel)—Dec 10—S-1544.
Trouble for Four (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 23—S-746; C-837.
Troublesome Trip, A (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Oct. 30.
Truant Soul, The (7 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—R-1971; C-1977.
Trunk Mystery, The (No. 8 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 8—R-1655; S-1852; C-1819.
Truthful Tulliver (5 parts) (Triangle—Ince)—R-1973.
Tugboat Romeo, A (2 parts) (Triangle—Keystone)—Oct. 8.
Turn of the Wheel, The (2 parts) (Mutual)—Dec 11—S-1547.
Tweedledum's Busy Night (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 30.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea (Universal Special Feature)—Oct 28.
Twin Flats (General Film—Vim)—Nov 2—S-906; C-1187.
Twin Souls (3 parts) (General Film—Knickerbocker Star Feature)—Nov. 24—S-1220; C-1511.
Twinkler, The (5 parts) (Mutual Star Production)—Dec 18—S-2012
Twisted Trails (General Film—Selig)—Dec 11—(3 parts)—S-1601; C-1977
Two Men of the Desert (General Film Biograph Reissue)—Dec 25
Two Roads, The (2 parts) (Universal Gold Seal)—Dec. 12—S-1692; C-1960
Two Small Town Romeos (Universal—Nestor)—Dec. 11—S-1643; C-1978.

U

Uncle Sam's Defenders (No. 1, "From Citizen to Soldier") (Mutual) Dec 8—S-1836
Uncle Sam's Defenders (No. 2, "Our Boys at the Border") (Mutual)—Dec. 15—S-1836.
Uncle Sam's Defenders (No. 3 "A Jack Tar in the Making") (Mutual) Dec 22
Uncle Sam's Defenders (No. 4, "Afloat and Ashore") (Mutual)—Dec. 29.
Under Oath (2 parts) (Mutual) Dec 4—S-1837
Under Suspicion (5 parts) (Universal—Red Feather)—Oct 2—S-127; C-96; R-2009
Under the Gas Light (3 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Oct. 4—S-126; C-416; R-1826.
Undertow, The (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe—American)—Oct. 23—S-604.
Unfinished Cause, The (Universal—Rex Special)—Oct. 9—S-444.
Universal Screen Magazine No. 1 (Universal)—Nov. 21—S-1290.
Universal Screen Magazine No. 2 (Universal)—Dec. 8—S-1544.
Universal Screen Magazine No. 3 (Universal)—Dec. 29—S-2005.
Unpardonable Sin, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Reliance)—Nov. 11—S-912; C-838.
Unprotected, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Nov. 6.
Unto the Least of These (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 21—S-1219; C-1511
Upper Nile (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Dec. 11.
Up the Flue (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Nov 26—S-1223; C-1349
U. S. Customs Inspection (Pathe)—Oct. 8—S-300; C-261.
U. S. Fighting Craft and the Lost Ring—(Unicorn—Judy)—Oct. 16.
Us Kids (Universal—Powers)—Nov. 3—S-749.

V

Vagabond Prince, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay Bee)—Oct. 22—S-610; C-570; R-64.
Valley of Decision, The (5 parts) (Mutual)—Dec. 4—S-1855.
Vampire Out of Work (General Film—Vitagraph)—Oct. 6—S-288.
Vampires, The (No. 1, "The Detective's Head") (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 30—S-1224; C-1188; R-1819.
Vampires, The (No. 2, "The Red Notebook") (3 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Nov. 30—S-1380; C-1659; R-1819.
Vampires, The (No. 3, "The Ghost") (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 7—R-1504; S-1695; C-1659.
Vampires, The (No. 4, "The Dead Man's Escape") (2 parts) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 14—R-1504; C-1659; S-1854.
Vampires, The (No. 5) (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 21—R-1814; C-1820; S-1855.
Vampires, The (No. 6, "Satanas") (Mutual—Gaumont)—Dec. 28; C-1820; S-2007; C-1978.
Vanishing Box Car, The (No. 111 of "Hazards of Helen") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec. 23; C-1819; S-2003.
Vanishing Mantle (No. 10 of "Shielding Shadow") (Pathe—Astra)—Dec. 3—R-1342.
Vanity (5 parts) (Metro)—Nov.
Vengeance of Dan McGrew (Unicorn—Utah)—Oct. 21.
Vesuvius in Eruption (Paramount—Burton Holmes)—Oct. 30.
Victim, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 25—S-2018.
Victoria Cross, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Dec. 24—S-1860; C-1821; R-1813.
Villainous Pursuit (Paramount—Black Diamond)—Nov. 13.
Vixen, The (5 parts) (Fox)—Dec. 4—S-1549; C-1658. R-1650
Voice of Love, The (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe—American)—Oct. 19—S-447; C-693; R-690.
Voice Upstairs, The (Universal—Imp)—Nov. 7—S-909.

W

Wager, The (5 parts) (Metro—Rolfe)—Nov. 13—R-1346.
Wages of Sin, The (3 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Nov. 29—S-1376.
Wages of Sin, The (No. 11 of "Beatrice Fairfax") (2 parts) (International)—Oct. 16—S-915.
Waiting Game, A (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 6—S-1542; C-1819.
Wall of Flame, The (General Film—Imp Special) Dec. 3—S-1578.
Walls and Wallops (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov. 13—C-1188.
Wanted (Unicorn—Sunset) Nov. 13.
Wanted—A Home (5 parts) (Bluebird)—Oct. 2—S-134; C-95; R-2102.
War as it Really Is (Edwin Bower Hesser)—R-1914; C-1821.
War Brides (5 parts) (Selznick Pictures)—Nov. —S-1066; R-1343.
War Brides Secret (Fox)—Oct.—R-534.
War Clouds (No. 4 of "Pearl of the Army") (2 parts) (Pathe—Astra) —Dec. 24—S-2014.
Warm Reception A (General Film—Vim)—Nov. 0—S-906; C-1187.
Warning, The (3 parts) (Pathe)—Nov. 19—C-1189.
Watch Your Watch (General Film—Vim)—Oct. 13—S-289; C-568.
Watches and Women (Unicorn—Gaiety)—Dec. 1.
Weary Willie's Birthday (General Film—Vitagraph) Nov. 10.
Weaker Sex, The (5 parts) (Triangle—Kay Bee) —R-1974
Web, The (3 parts)—Unicorn—Lily)—Oct. 8.
Web of Guilt, The (No. 9 of "The Girl from Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 4—S-290; C-417; R-64.
Wharf Rat, The (Triangle—Fine Arts) (5 parts)—Dec. 9—S-1700; C-1512.
What Happened to Willie (Paramount—Bray)—Nov. 30.
What's the Use (General Film—Vim)—Dec. 15—S-1850
What I Said Goes (3 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Nov. 11—S-907; C-1187.
When Clubs Were Trumps (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 28—S-752; C-838.
When Cupid Slipped (General Film—Selig)—Nov. 11—S-907; C-1348.
When Hands Are Idle (2 parts) (Unicorn—Utah)—Oct. 21.
When It Came Back (Universal—Imp)—Nov. 22—S-1222.
When Little Lindy Sang and Diplomacy (Universal—Powers)—Oct. 15—S-292; C-418.
When the Tide Turned (2 parts) (Mutual)—Nov. 27—S-1381; C-1349.
Where Do They Go From Here? (Associated Art Films)—Nov.
Where Do You Get That Stuff? (Argosy)—Dec.
Where Is My Wife? (2 parts) (Universal—L-KO)—Nov. 22—S-1221; C-1189
Where Is Your Friend? and Swedish Model Farm (General Film—Vitagraph Split Reel)—Dec. 4.
Whiskered Man, The (No. 7 of the "Scarlet Runner") (2 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Nov 13—R-2100
White Man's Law (General Film—Big U Special)—Oct. 2—S-290.
White Rose of the Wilds (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Oct. 16—S-441; C-692; R-62.
White Turkey, The (Universal—Nestor)—Nov. 27—S-1377; C-1349.
Whom the Gods Destroy (5 parts) (Greater Vitagraph)—Dec. 18—S-1859.
Whose Was the Hand (2 parts) (Unicorn—Supreme)—Nov. 30.
Whose Taketh a Wife (Art Dramas, Inc.—U. S. Amusement Co.)—Dec. 28.
Wicked City, The (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Dec. 3—S-1380; C-1659.
Wife in Sunshine (No. 3 of "Is Marriage Sacred") (2 parts) (General Film—Essanay)—Dec. 30—S-2003.
Wife's Frame-Up (Unicorn—Gayety)—Oct. 17.
Windsor McCay and the Jersey Skeeter (Universal—Powers)—Oct. 26—S-598.
Winged Millions (No. 3 of "Patria") (2 parts) (International)—R-1510.
Witchcraft (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Oct. 16—S-606; C-569; R-536.
Witching Hour, The (6 parts) (Frohman)—Dec. —R-1505; C-1513; S-2017.
Witch of the Dark House, The (No. 14 of "The Girl from Frisco") (General Film—Kalem)—Nov. 8—S-1218; C-1187; R-999.
With or Without (2 parts) (Mutual—Vogue)—Nov. 19—C-1349.
Without a Soul (5 parts) (World Pictures Reissue)—Nov.—R-1180.
With the Spirit's Help (Universal—Nestor)—Oct. 2—S-128; C-418.
Wizard's Plot, The (No. 7 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (General Film—Kalem)—Dec.—R-1508; C-1658; S-1851.
Wolf's Nemesis, The (No. 18, "Liberty") (Universal—Dec. 11; C-1821.
Woman He Feared (3 parts)—Universal Gold Seal)—Nov. 14—S-1221; C-1189.
Woman of My Story, The (3 parts) (General Film—Biograph Reissue)—Dec. 29—S-128; C-261.
Woman's Daring, A (5 parts) (Mutual Masterpicture De Luxe—American)—Oct. 5—S-447; C-693.
Woman He Wed (2 parts) (Unicorn—Hiawatha)—Dec. 12.
Woman Who Dared (7 parts) (California Motion Picture Co.)—Nov.—R-473 (Vol. 29); C-478 (Vol. 29).
Woman Who Learned, The (2 parts) (Universal—Special Imp)—Dec. 24—S-2005.
Won by a Fowl (Mutual—Cub)—Oct. 7—S-293; 417.
World Against Him (5 parts) (World)—Dec. 25—R-1973; C-1979; S-2018.
World and the Woman, The (5 parts) (Pathe—Gold Rooster)—Nov. 19—S-1230; C-1189; R-997.
World Series Baseball Film (K-E-S-E—Selig)—Oct.
World's Wonderland, The (Curtis Scenic No. 2) (International)—Oct. 2—S-137.
World's Wonderland, The (No. 3 of "The Curtis Series") (International)—Oct. 9—S-298.
Wrath of Cactus Moore, The (3 parts) (Universal—Gold Seal)—Oct. 17—C-418; S-443.
Wreck in the Fog, The (No. 2 of "A Lass of the Lumberland") (2 parts) (Mutual—Signal)—Oct. 30—S-911; C-693; R-686.
Wrist Watches (No. 15 of "Beatrice Fairfax") (2 parts) (International)—Nov. 13—S-1383; C-1349; R-1343.

Y

Years of the Locust, The (5 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Nov. 16—S-1384; C-1349; R-1343.
Yellow Hand, The (No. 11 of "The Girl From Frisco") (2 parts) (General Film—Kalem)—Oct. 18—S-747; C-692; R-378.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 5, "The Haunted House") (Unity)—Oct. 2—S-2170; C-2130; C-R-1684.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 6, "Torture Chamber") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 9—S-132; C-96; R-1684.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 7, "Drops of Blood") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 16—S-296.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 8, "The Time Clock Bomb") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 23—S-448; R-1961.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 9, "The Crystal Globe") (2 parts) (Unity)—Oct. 30—S-604; R-1961.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 10, "A Message From the Sky") (2 parts) (Unity)—Nov. 6—S-754; R-222.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 11 of "The Half Breed's Hatred") (2 parts) (Unity)—Nov. 13—S-913; R-222.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident") (2 parts) (Unity)—Nov. 20—S-1068; R-222.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 13 of "The Spy and the Submarine") (2 parts) (Unity)—Nov. 27—S-1227; C-1349; R-845.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials") (2 parts) (Unity)—Dec. 4—S-1384; R-845; C-1512
Yellow Menace, The (No. 15, "The Pay of Death") (2 parts) (Unity)—Dec. 11—S-1551.
Yellow Menace, The (No. 16, "The Final Strand") (2 parts) (Unity)—Dec. 18—S-1696.
Yellow Pawn, The (2 parts) (Paramount—Lasky)—Dec.—R-1504.
You Never Can Tell (Unicorn—Judy)—Dec. 12.
Young Fur Bearing Animals, and Florence Rose Fashions (No. 11, "A Day of Sport") (Pathe)—Dec. 24—S-2014.

A MESSAGE to EXHIBITORS THROUGHOUT the COUNTRY

For nearly ten years this paper has been the most trustworthy and most reliable guide and complete source of information for exhibitors on every angle of the business.

Its unique ability to furnish such thorough information has been the result of the combined efforts of many of the best posted people in the industry, combined with right business principles.

Including its correspondents in different centers and the staff in its three offices, about fifty people combine every week to make it the best paper in this field and one of the best trade papers in the country. It is the real exhibitors' paper, independent and always free from all trade connections.

It represents the whole industry and is not the organ or mouthpiece of any individual or group or trade organization. It has no entangling alliances, is not subsidized and is not subsidizing any section or clique of the trade.

What it has done is the best criterion of what it will do. We believe it is worth many times its cost, no matter what you may pay for other less known publications and no matter what they may put forward as to prospective plans.

Many claims will be made for your patronage in the immediate future and all kinds of argument used in support of these claims, mostly false, as a little analysis will usually prove. We believe it will be a big saving in time and money for every exhibitor to continue his allegiance to this paper or to begin now if not already on our list.

Get and read the MOVING PICTURE WORLD weekly, no matter what else you may read. We will also appreciate the cooperation of all our exhibitor readers who will kindly refer to this paper in all their correspondence with our advertisers. This will benefit us and enable us to make the paper more useful and more helpful than ever.

With many sincere thanks to exhibitors everywhere for all their confidence and cooperation,

MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

To Every New York Exhibitor

Do you want your theatre closed on SUNDAYS?

Can you exist without Sunday's receipts ?

TO SAVE THE BUSINESS, PROMPT ACTION IS NEEDED NOW!

Attend the MASS MEETING

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22d, 1 P. M.

WURLITZER HALL 110 West 41st Street NEW YORK

YOUR advice and support are needed NOW, while there is hope of averting the most vital blow to our business.
Give up an hour now. It may save your business.

MAYOR MITCHEL and Hon. ROBERT ADAMSON, Fire Commissioner, have promised to attend.

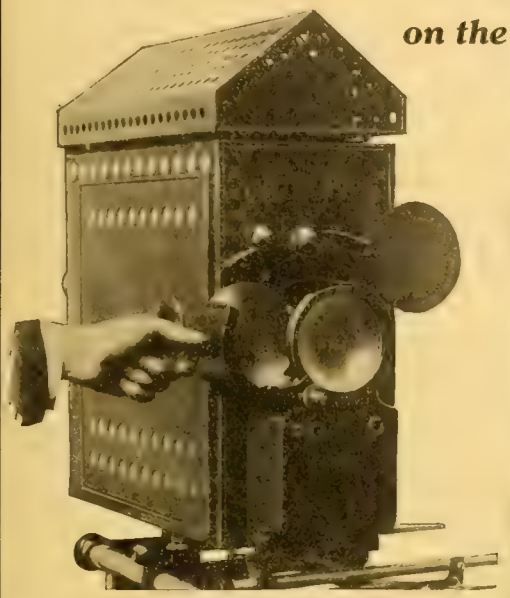
HON. ARTHUR WOODS, Police Commissioner; HON. GEO. W. BELL, Commissioner of Licenses; REV. DR. CHAS. H. PARKHURST, HON. ROBERT WAGNER, and other prominent citizens have been invited to give their views at this meeting.

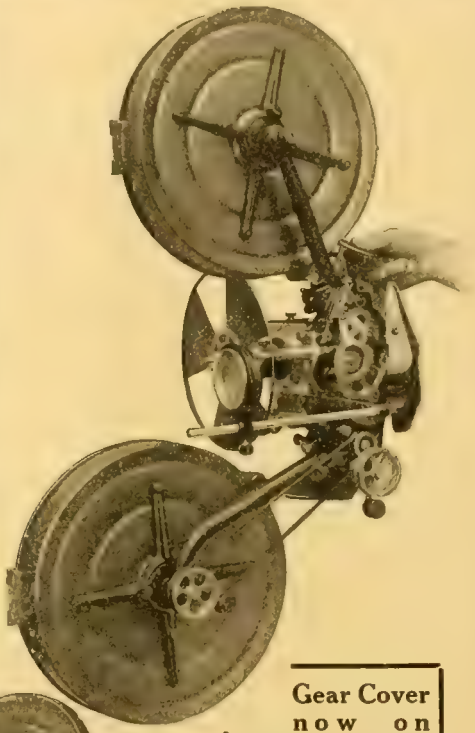
If You Value Your Business Don't Fail to Attend

MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE, LOCAL NO. 1
New York City, 218 West 42nd Street

LATEST IMPROVEMENTS

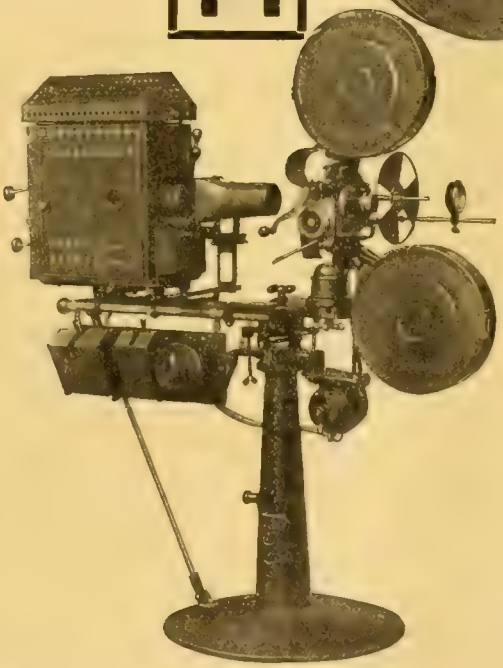
on the MOTIOGRAPH





New Condenser Mount —So arranged that either condenser can be removed by slight turn of handle.

Gear Cover now on hinges — Note the ease of oiling when machine is in operation.



Due to the increased cost of raw material and labor, MOTIOGRAPH PRICES will be advanced as follows, on and after December 26th, 1916:

1002-A
Hand-driven
Equipment
$265.00

1002-D
Motor-driven
Equipment
$305.00

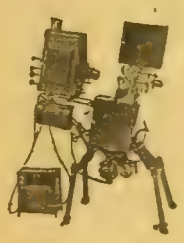
There are other improvements on the machine.

Write for literature

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.

574 WEST RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.

Western Office: 833 Market Street, San Francisco, Cal.



NPCo

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

What Is Your Answer?

ARE YOU GOING TO ACCEPT
PROJECTION TROUBLES
AS NECESSARY EVILS

OR

ARE YOU GOING TO BE ONE OF THE
GREAT MAJORITY OF EXHIBITORS WHO USE

POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH

WRITE FOR THE NAME OF OUR DEALER IN YOUR TERRITORY

ASK HIM TO SHOW YOU
OUR INTERMITTENT MOVEMENT
OUR LOOP SETTER
OUR TAKE-UP

THESE EXCLUSIVE DEVICES WERE DESIGNED TO ELIMINATE YOUR TROUBLES

CATALOG "G" MAILED UPON REQUEST

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK